Women's Institute, Girton's new hut opened

P8

First Eastern - letter from a satisfied tenant

1920 12 20 CDN

P3

Large German field gun offered as war memorial at Shire Hall but this would obstruct entrance; two trench mortars could be put under the portico at either side and would not take too much trouble to keep clean – both rejected # c.45.5 # c.62 # c.35.1

1920 12 21 CDN

P3

St Matthew's church war memorial unveiled # c.62

P4

1920 12 22 Ch

Laurie & McConnal advert – 20 12 22

G.A. Heyworth advert – 20 12 22a

The future of the Cambridgeshire; will they be struck off the Army list – 20 12 22b

Two new roads to make work unemployed – from Cherryhinton Road to Mill Road (near huts to Brookfields) and from The Grove, Newnham to Trumpington Road via Coe Fen Lane – 22 12 22b # c.32.1 # c.49.62

Gt St Andrew's war memorial unveiled – photo – 20 12 22c

Girton Village Women's Institute new hall erected – 20 12 22e # c.37

1920 12 24 ES

Death Rev Hardy Wood, rector of Benwick for 50 years – 20 12 24(2) ES

1920 12 28 CDN

P3

Christmas in Cambridge

Death W.F. Taylor, founder and governing director of CDN ; came to Cambridge in 1888 from Bury St Edmunds and started paper; tributes 29th p3' funeral 31st p3 # c.04

1920 12 29 Ch

William Farrow Taylor, Governing Director Cambridge Daily News, appreciation; problems of newspapers in wartime, only be combined effort was able to keep intact its daily and two weekly newspapers – 20 12 29 # c.04

Disabled ex-servicemen employment, 18 men being trained in tailoring, 12 each in jewellery, clock repairing and carpentry, 40 in diamond-cutting; photos in English Leather Co boot repairers and man driving traction engine – 20 12 29a # c.45.6 # c.21.1 # c.32.1

New garage for 100 cars, Herbert Robinson – 20 12 29a # c.26.48

Children's Christmas Toy and Present Fund, Eden Street distributes gifts poor children – photo – 20 12 29b # c.37.9

Events of year – 20 12 29c, d

1920 12 29 CDN

P4

Haddenham water supply – adverse reports; Stretham sewer blocked again

1920 12 30 CDN

P3

Death Herbert Charles Coulson, builder; started in 1885 # c.23

1920 12 31 CDN

P3

Herbert Robinson garage, St Andrews Street to open in New Year # c.26.48

P4

1921 Cambridge Chronicle & Ely Standard

I have copies of these articles

January 1921 Cambridge Chronicle & Ely Standard

1921 01 05

Proposed Sussex Street cinema plans discussed – 21 01 05 # c.76.9

War memorial unveilings – Willingham, Shelford – 21 01 05, 05c

War memorial unveiling, Shelford – 21 01 05b

Unemployed children entertained to pictures at Rendezvous cinema- photo – 21 01 05c

1921 01 07 ES

Young lady wanted as pupil to photographer Alice Askew, 6 Broad Street, March – advert, p1

Portable railway for sale at Pumping Station, Haddenham, p4

Ely Public Room repair – only one tender, p5

Ely new Lloyds Bank plan considered, p6 – 21 01 07 ES

Stretham reserves v Ely Rovers p7

First lady magistrate in Isle, Mrs Collins Clayton, p8 (photo 14th p5)

1921 01 12

Harry Bedwell completes 21 years as organist and choirmaster of St Edward's Church – 21 01 12

New footbridge at Baitsbite Lock – photo - 12 01 12a

Volunteer Firemen's last church parade – photo – 12 01 12b; police take control – 12 01 26a # c.34.75
c.34.7

Barrington Cement works, over 200 idle – photos -21 01 12c, e

1921 01 14 ES

Plough Monday now exists in name only, p5

Ely Lloyds Bank 'luxury' building, p5

Lt Downham water supply letter, p6

Stretham v Cottenham football, p7

Prickwillow death George Mustill, 'The Anchor', p8

1921 01 19

Heyworth's sale advertisement – 21 01 19

Sussex Street cinema – undesirable on the site proposed – 21 01 19a, b # c.76.9

Longstanton, Coton war memorial – 21 01 19c

1921 01 21 ES

Stretham lantern lecture on 'Spirit Photography' – tickets from W. Mason, p4

Ely death George Porter, butcher & poultry dealer

Ely Lloyds Bank – no skilled labour to be drawn within 10 mile radius, p6

Stretham v GER Reserves, p7

Prickwillow v Littleport football, p7

Upware ferry latterly unused, carried from Cambridge to Wicken used to go that way on Saturday.
Hope now new tenant may be in use again, p8*

1921 01 26

Burrell's Walk tenant summonsed for assault another – 21 01 26

War widow ejected from 19 Devonshire Rd – 21 01 26b

Gt Wilbraham Memorial Hall opened – 21 01 26c

Barrington cement works; valuation of £730,000 – 21 02 26d

1921 01 28 ES

Sutton war memorial unveiled p3 (photo 4th Feb p8) – 21 01 28 ES, 21 02 04(4) ES

During the war Sutton gave of her bravest and best and Sunday was the occasion of the formal unveiling and dedication of the War Memorial Cross erected in the churchyard to perpetuate the memory of her 32 gallant sons who made the supreme sacrifice. The cross erected outside the south door adds another link in the chain of monuments throughout the Isle. No one passing the church could fail to observe Sutton's church tribute to her heroes and practically the whole of the £220 required to defray the cost has been raised. The monument was designed and erected by Mr. R Wade of Doddington 21 01 28 ES

Soham war memorial unveiled – photo, p5 – 21 01 28(2)(3) ES

Seldom before in the history of Soham has such large crowds gathered in the streets as on Sunday when the War Memorial was formally unveiled. It was a dignified solemn and memorable day. The whole town and district was wrapped in deep mourning and the ceremony will be looked upon as the most historic page in the annals of Soham's pathetic record. Its toll during the war was indeed a heavy one: no fewer than 128 of her gallant warriors falling in the quest of right and freedom.

Thousands of people assembled to witness the unveiling and the scenes in Red Lion Square were most impressive. The most pathetic note in the whole proceedings was struck when the bereaved relatives deposited their floral tributes by the monument, for many, overpowered by emotion, were assisted away in tears. The memorial scheme is one of the most ambitious ever attempted by a town of Soham's population.

Sir Douglas Newton MP spoke up the great work which was done by the women of the country during the time of war. Many of them went abroad and risked their lives and suffered great hardship. Others stayed at home and did a great deal of work. They faced a great many difficulties and played a great part. Soham owed to them a deep sense of gratitude for the work they had done and the trials they uncomplainingly faced. 21 01 28(2)ES

Prickwillow v Ely City reserves, football, p7

Ely coursing club at Shippea Hill Farm, p7

Death E.C. Haylock, March newsagent, p8 – 21 -1 28(5) ES

Edward Charles Haylock carried on a successful newsagents and stationers business in High Street March for about 54 years which he took over from Mr. Joshua Gage. He was passionately fond of music and at the early age of 10 officiated at the first harmonium imported to March at the Wesleyan Chapel. Afterwards he was organist at the Baptist Chapel and St. Peter's Church. He was a thorough musician and many singers who passed through his hands occupied positions in all parts of the world. For many years he was the conductor of the Old Harmonic Society and the March Choral Society. 21 01 28 ES

February 1921 Cambridge Chronicle & Ely Standard

1921 02 02

Death Canon T.P. Pemberton, Trumpington Hall – 21 02 02

1921 02 04 ES

Prickwillow vicarage offered Ref J.K. Cecil Payne, p3

Bluntisham & Earith war memorial unveiled, p5 – 21 02 04(3) ES

A memorial to the men of Bluntisham and Earith who lost their lives in the war was unveiled on Saturday afternoon by Colonel Tebbutt. The memorial is 15 feet high and is of Cornish granite surmounted by a Celtic ornamental cross. It stands at the junction of the Earth and Bluntisham roads near the parish church. There are 35 names are inscribed on three panels and a sad feature is that amongst those fallen were the names of eight pairs of brothers. There was a very large gathering at the unveiling ceremony, and a large number of floral tributes were laid at the base of the memorial. 21 02 04(3)ES

Haddenham war memorial unveiled – photo, p5 – 21 02 04 & (2) ES

No one can say that Haddenham to answer the country's call. Haddenham men are typical English men: they shrink from the thought of killing their fellow men and would rather contend with them in a friendly spirit on a football ground. Some of them volunteered for the war, others were justified in waiting for the great decision to be made for them. They all took an honourable part in gaining a magnificent victory", said the Reverend E.S. Morgan, a former vicar, on the unveiling of the War Memorial cross.

On the village green the ex-servicemen were drawn up forming a square and hundreds of people gathered around the cross which was about to be unveiled. There is nothing stately or particularly handsome about the plain Cornish granite cross but it amplifies the gratitude of village folk in tangible form.

Until now, the beautiful old church had lacked a permanent reredos, but thanks to the images of the War Memorial Committee, the temporary reredos made and installed by the Reverend W. Crookham while he was vicar has been replaced by a more dignified structure. It takes part of the memorial scheme which has added materially to the beauty of the church together with the renovation of the Aumbrey door upon which is inscribed the names of the fallen. At the right end of the choir screen a Roll of Honour containing the names are 179 Haddenham men who served in the war is suspended. It shows a pictures of the village in the centre and miniature insets of every branch of the service. 21 02 04ES

Henry Thompson applied for possession of two cottages on Plantation Farm, Littleport occupied by two labourers. They were required for other men for the better working of the farm. The tenancy was to remain valid as long as the tenants were employed on the farm but they had both ceased to work there. The wife of one of the tenants said there were 11 children in the family who were all living at home. Her husband had tried without success to get another house. The Chairman remarked it was an exceptional case in so much as there was such a large family but at the same time, the owner wanted the cottage for his own workmen. The Rural Council gave preference to ex-servicemen's and application from the family would not be upheld. The Bench made an order for vacant possession to be given within two months during which time they must watch for a house. If they were unable to get one they should apply for a suspension of the order. The other tenants said he had tried all over Littleport to find alternative accommodation but failed. He was a widower with five children, one of whom was a disabled soldier. The chairman said in carrying out the law they must grant an order for possession to be given up. 21 02 04

Spiritualism – lecture on spirit photography; good audience, introduction by W. Mason, closed with Benediction by the Rector, Stretham

Wilburton death Major M. Hudson, 45; several years blacksmith with father, William E. Hudson & brother Fred trading as W.E. Hudson & sons at Wilburton, Haddenham & Stretham. Was the active partner, seen daily; two years ago gave up farming relinquishing smithy business, letting shops to men working for him at time – J. Wesley, Stretham uncle. Coffin carried by workers. Blacksmiths shops include P. Crow & G. Lowe, p8

Adelaide consider war memorial

1921 02 11 ES

Ely Motor Club formal opening Starr & Rignall to take photo, p3

Stretham - William Wesley rides motor cycle without lights, p5

Stretham v Sutton football

Stretham p8

Football

W.I.

Lecture by Lieut Stitt, lantern slides

A lecture in aid of the War Memorial to be erected in Stretham was given by Sub-Lieut. G.M.S. Stitt, son of the Rector. He chose as his subject the Navy in the Far East. He delivered an interesting lecture illustrated by lantern views produced from photographs he had taken. He interested his audience in his personal experience and showed views of Constantinople. Malta and Asia Minor as well as of the Navy in operation against the Bolsheviks and Turkish Nationalists, in which he took part. 21 02 11ES

Prickwillow WI, p8

1921 02 18 ES

Stretham death John Dimock, Plantation Farm.

Stretham death of John Dimock of Plantation Farm. He farmed 3-400 acres around Stretham, prominent in agricultural circles. No involvement public life. Admires and excellent master to employees. 48. Took Plantation on death of his father, J.B. Dimock. Leaves widow & two sons, p3* Stretham – Walter William Dimock gets court order for removal George Murfitt from his cottage as agreed, December 1920, p5

Stretham – Walter William Dimock gets court order for removal George Murfitt from his cottage as agreed, December 1920, p5 – 21 02 18 ES

Wisbech Loyal Order of Ancient Shepherds history – 21 02 18(6) & (2) ES

Drainage engineers: new Ouse and Middle Level officers; Capt G.E. Matthews – 21 02 18 (3)

Ely rural housing – cottages occupied at Downham and ready at Coveney; ‘scandalous prices’ - 21 02 18(5) ES

1921 02 23

Parachute descent by Major Orde Lees witnessed by several thousand in Huntingdon Road meadow – 21 02 16a, b # c.26.1

Burrell’s Walk tenancy – ejectment order – 21 02 23

Chiver’s fruit farm uses Heron’s ‘Demon’ sprayer- 21 02 23a

St Paul’s church memorial – stained glass window & tablet unveiled – 21 02 23b, 21 03 09a # c.62

Luxurious Daimler motor charabanc in which Varsity boat crew journey to Ely for their daily practice – photo – 21 02 23c # Q.Af

1921 02 25 ES

Chettisham church needs £100 to strengthen foundations, p3

Villages & housing – how work stands in RDC. Stretham one pair ready this week, 2nd ready painting, 3rd 25% plastered, 4th roof timbers fixed, p4

Littleport canary breeder C. South – photo, p8

Lt Downham d Philip Rayner, carpenter, p8

March 1921 Cambridge Chronicle & Ely Standard

1921 03 02

Inquiry re development of rural industries and social life & industries – 21 03 02

Anthrax dangers - how factory workers are protected – inquest on worker at Gurteen factory, Haverhill – 21 03 02b

Sawston war memorial unveiled – 21 03 02c

Castle Camps war memorial unveiling – 21 03 02d

Photographic Club exhibition includes WO. Squires, E.C. Ogle views of Duxford – 21 03 02e # c.65.5

1921 03 04 ES

Prickwillow Mangold for sale, Bank Farm, p4

Ely fire at barracks, Silver Street, p5

Lt Thetford war memorial unveiled, p5 – 21 03 04(2) ES

A handsome brass tablet was unveiled and dedicated in Lt Thetford Church in the presence of a representative congregation. Dedicated “To the glory of God and in grateful memory of the men of Little Thetford who in the Great War of 1914-18 gave their lives for King and country” the tablet which is erected on the wall on the left of the Chancel beautifies the sacred edifice in no small degree and is a worthy emblem of the inhabitants’ gratitude. It contains the name of 10 men of little Thetford, who made the supreme sacrifice: Alfred Dewsbury, Arthur Dewsbury, Eric Dewsbury, Clement Driver, James Gent, David Howard, James Low, Thomas Mason, John Wright, and Owen Yarrow. 21 03 04(2)ES

Ely new bank – builders protest against council restrictions, p8

Lt Downham death Thomas Harrison, farmer, p8

1921 03 09

OT.C. mock battle in Kingston – Gt Eversden area; cottage gutted – photos – 21 03 09b, c # c.45.6 # T.G.K21

Thomas Henry Bradnum, photographer, Hinton Ave traded as Art Reproduction Company, Wolverhampton – 21 03 09d

1921 03 11 ES

Nationalism v private ownership: Capt Coote and Capt Hall engage in debate – 21 03 11(2) ES

1921 03 16

Fire in one of All Saints’ Cottages, Longstanton – 21 03 16a

St Andrew the Less memorial dedicated - 21 03 16b,i # c.62

Linton war memorial unveiled – 21 03 16c, photos 21 03 16h

W.B. Redfern being compelled through his landlord to give up his residence of Milton Hall is looking for a house – 21 03 16d

Fulbourn church bells dedicated – 21 03 16g

Fenstanton church fire in roof – 21 03 16j

Undergraduate killed in sham duel, London – 21 03 16k

1921 03 18 ES

County war memorial – list of fallen – 21 -3 18 ES, Stretham 24 names, p6 – 21 03 18(2) ES

Isle of Ely County War Memorial

Names of the men of the Isle of Ely who gave their lives in the war have been compiled from details supplied by Parish Councils and residents. It is possible that names may have been omitted and that corrections may be necessary. Relatives and friends of those who died are asked to read the list carefully and to write if any correction is necessary

The list refers to the Isle of Ely only. Letters concerning additional names should give the surname and full Christian name, rank, regiment and residence at time of enlistment. All who died from the effects of the actual war service between the dates of August 4th 1914 and June 28th 1919 are eligible for the memorial. As, in many cases, relatives a parish after the man had joined up, it is possible that a name may appear under the parish of enlistment and again under the parish where the relatives were living at the time of the death. Will the relatives please notify the secretary of any such case. 21 03 18ES

Haddenham discuss housing on Recreation Ground, p8

Ouse Drainage Board; land and toll house let by auction – 21 03 18(3) ES

The Ouse Drainage Board auctioned 68 plots of land of lands including a toll with toll-house at the gate across the Hundred Foot Bank at Witcham Gravel which was let for five years to Mr. A Atkin. Other lands went to Jonas Johnson, G. Adams, B. Norman, T. Mott and H Papworth. On the South Bank and foreland of the Hundred Foot River successful bidders included Mr. Heaps. Mr. S Cross took 20 acres on the West Bank and Forelands of Sandy's Cut. [Many other names are listed] 21 0318ES

Soham Parish Council called attention to the condition of the public pump near the gasworks at Soham, asking that it could be put in proper order so that people living in the vicinity might not be put to the great inconvenience of having to fetch water from the Clay Street pump. Newmarket Council will obtained an estimate from Mr. C Lack to put it in order. 21 03 18(3)ES

1921 03 23

Abbey church memorial unveiled – 21 03 23a

Lady hockey players – photo – 21 03 23b

King & Harper Ford garage, Hills Road – full-page photo feature – 21 03 23c,d,e – c.26.48 # P.Kin # Q.A1

Assize court figures of Law, Justice, Mercy & Power to be removed – 21 03 23f, 21 03 30e # c.34.9 # c.61

Staffordshire Street fire at George Wheatley rad *& bone merchant – 21 03 23g

Waterworks Company proposed Parliamentary Bill opposed by local authorities – 21 03 23h # c.24.2

1921 03 25 ES

Ely rural housing – report, Stretham first pair occupied, 2nd pair painting, 3rd joinery, 4th covered in, 5th five-foot high brickwork. It is regretted that the well not yet sunk and tenants complaining about water supply for cottages, p3*

Ely choristers war memorial unveiled, p5

Lt Downham death Mrs J. Thompson, farmer and provision dealer, p8

1921 03 30

Balsham war memorial unveiled – 21 03 30a

William Radford taxi catches fire, Arbury Rd – 21 03 30b

Hills Avenue new council houses – photo – 21 03 30c # B.Hill

John Vail ironmonger of Post Office Terrace – long-service staff with hammers – 21 03 30d

Histon draper R.J. Coles in dispute with R.A. Publishing over picture postcards of village; some colour, some sepia; 12 topics – 21 03 30h # c.65.5

The cross in Cambridgeshire villages by C.H. Evelyn-White – 21 03 30i

Corporation refuse plans for conversion Automobile Company premises in Hobson Street into a cinema; Picture Playhouse Company to appeal over their plans for cinema in Sidney Street – 21 03 30j

April 1921 Cambridge Chronicle & Ely Standard

1921 04 01 ES

Ely choristers war memorial unveiled, p3

A large number of people gathered in the nave of the Cathedral on the occasion of the unveiling of the Choristers War Memorial. It takes the form of a 15th Century Gothic stone tablet. A figure of a singing chorister occupies a central panel in the upper part of the memorial and on it are subscribed the names of the casters who lost their lives in the war. The position chosen for the memorial is on the south aisle wall in a panel of the Norman arcading immediately adjoining the doorway of the choristers vestry. The service was of a very appropriate character, 21 04 01ES

Ely Motor Club run to Hunstanton – photo, p5

Photos: Ely High School hockey, Littleport Town junior league champion footballers, Littleport schoolboy footballers, p8

Haddenham death Daniel Jacobs, first stationmaster, p8

March Grammar School Old Boys memorial – 21 04 01(2) ES

The Old Boys of the March Grammar School paid homage to their former colleagues when the memorial which has been erected in the school corridor was unveiled and dedicated. The ceremony was enacted in deep solemnity with a large number of relatives and friends of the fallen, with the present boys assembled to witness the event. Everyone recalled how in the early days of hostility, many of the old boys (for 46 of whom they mourned that day), inspired by the traditional school spirit, ignored the hardships of the trenches and fought for honour justice and liberty. A mournful atmosphere prevailed the ceremony. The memorial takes the form of a bronze tablet on which the names of the fallen stand out in bold relief. The number of old boys at the school who served was scarcely known but it was very considerable proportion of those of military age who saw active service. 24 01 04

‘Austin’ farm tractor – advert – 21 04 01 ES

Stretham: Bertram Parish wants general servant, p1

Stretham: motor cycle for sale – C. Quincey, p1

Stretham: eggs – prize winners – Coe – advert, p4

Stretham: sale three cottages Reads Street (pic), extending Brook’s Lane; one let to Charles Taylor, two unoccupied, sale by executors late Mrs Fanny Mitchell, p4

Stretham: sale furniture late Fanny Mitchell, Reads Street, p5

Ely Motor Club run to Hunstanton – photo, p5

Photos: Ely High School hockey, Littleport Town junior league champion footballers, Littleport schoolboy footballers, p8

Haddenham death Daniel Jacobs, first stationmaster, p8

Prickwillow, p8

New vicar, Cecil-Payne expected

Hospital Sunday to be organised

W.I. whist

1921 04 06

Grantchester war memorial unveiling photos – 21 04 06a

Miners; strike crisis; railwaymen decide against strike, passenger trains cancelled; emergency declared, lighting restricted, coal stocks controlled – 21 04 06b # c.32.5 # c.26.2

Frederick Woor, Master Tailor, Sidney St, paid less than minimum wage to his women – 21 04 06c # c.27

1921 04 08 ES

Ely & coal strike, p5

Wicken war memorial progresses, p8

Haddenham death Joseph Lawrence, miller, 70; to Haddenham from Leighton Buzzard about 30 years ago, p8

Spiritualism – lecture on ‘Spirit Photography’ introduced by Mr Mason, Stretham – 21 04 08 ES

1921 04 13

Gt Eversden farmhouse destroyed fire – 21 04 13b

1921 04 15 ES

Ely Holy Trinity improvement proposed, p5

Stretham housing complaint – water had to be fetched from farm 200 yards away; to tell contractor install pump for well immediately, p8

Littleport: three new houses Mill Field occupied, p8

1921 04 20

Black House, High Ditch Road, Fen Ditto, residence Samuel Cullum, market gardener, destroyed by fire - 21 04 20a

1921 04 22 ES

Ely & strike – emergency committee established, p5

Ely rural housing report progress: Stretham four now occupied, p8

Littleport St Crispin new chapel dedicated, p8

‘Princess Chrysanthemum’ at Countess of Huntingdon chapel – photo, p5

1921 04 27

Cambridge Chronicle staff dinner; is holding its own during difficult period thanks to staff – 21 04 27a

Large supply of coke at Gas Works eagerly bought up during crisis – photos – 21 04 27

1921 04 29 ES

Coal supplies running out; Stretham 300 permits issued, p5

Prickwillow Rev Cecil-Payne instituted, p8

Wicken war memorial unveiled, p8, photo 6th p5 – 21 04 29 ES

Under lowering skies and in somewhat unfavourable weather Wicken’s war memorial was formally unveiled on Sunday afternoon in the presence of a large gathering. The sombre clouds were only a fitting shroud for so solemn a ceremony and in no way affected the attendance. The memorial takes the form of a handsome obelisk erected on the Village Green. It was erected by Mrs. W. T. Doe of Soham and is enclosed in a wrought iron pallisading finished in green and gold, the work of Mr. A. Redit of Wicken. Mr George Townsend called scenes in the village in 1914 when the men left home at the call of duty. He described them as scenes not to be forgotten, and observed that some of the names inscribed on the obelisk were those of the men who then left home. The dedication was then performed by the vicar. 21 04 29ES

May 1921 Cambridge Chronicle, Ely Standard

1921 05 04

Fen Ditton war memorial unveiled – 21 05 04a

County Farmers’ Union first dinner – 21 05 04b

Rumours that University end term early due to miners’ strike discounted; residents supply coal to allow essential services; railwaymen’s’ guaranteed week suspended – 21 05 04b # c.32.5

Cambridge University Pavement Club first meeting – undergraduate rag – 300 in KP; friend sausage and steak on Parker’s Piece - photos – 21 05 04b, 21 05 11b # c.36.93

1921 05 06 ES

Ely Standard production problems due strike, p5

Ely war memorial scheme approved, p5

Littleport Grange opened as NUVW Convalescent Home, p4*

Isleham war memorial unveiled, p7; photo p5 – 21 05 06 ES

Wicken war memorial – photo – 21 05 06 ES

March’s first jazz band, ‘Gems of Harmony’ make first appearance – 21 05 06(2) ES

A Jazz Band was organised to support March Great Eastern United Football Club on the occasion of the G.E. R. Directors Cup Final at Colchester. The ‘Gems of Harmony’ quickly found favour: the music was exceedingly well rendered and the variegated costumes very grotesque in appearance. The Band travelled by train when considerable difficulty was experienced in accommodating the bandsmen and supporters but none were left behind. They played the Layer Road Football Ground previous to kick-off and when March obtained the leading goal let off steam with a harmless kind of pandemonium. On Monday evening, before the band and team were expected to parade March, large crowds began to assemble. The team had a triumphal progress from the station, the band's instruments informing the residents of the pleasure of the victory. 21 05 05

1921 05 11

Fen Ditton war memorial unveiling – 21 05 11a

St Luke's war memorial unveiled – 21 05 11c

1921 05 13 ES

Ely Brays Lane council houses now occupied, p5

Prickwillow water scheme discussed, p5

Soham: new cattle market opened at The Ship, p8

Soham: death W. Reeve, horse & cattle doctor, p8

Soham: queues for coal, p8

1921 05 18

Photographer offered to enlarge pictures for free and to frame – fraud – 21 05 18a

Cole Ambrose Stuntney Hall dies – 21 05 18

1921 05 20 ES

Crown Prince of Japan visit to Ely, p8; photo 27th p8 – 21 05 27 ES

Stretham: Addenbrooke's 25th parade – Evening Star Lodge & Share Out Club. Haddenham band paraded Top Street, Read Street, Pump Lane, service, concerts, p5 – 21 05 20 ES

Oxlode memorial hall opened, p7* - 21 05 20(3) ES

By the erection of a memorial hall for social intercourse at Oxlode, a worthy and permanent War Memorial has been established which has proved a great boon to the inhabitants of this remote little hamlet. The hall is situated at the west end of Willow Farm near the Hundred Foot bank. It is constructed of bricks with plenty of accommodation and furnished for recreational purposes, billiards and other games being provided. Mr Jabez Martin generously gave the land as a site and a Committee was established to raise money. About £300 is still required to pay the outstanding debt. It was important for the social life of the community to be foisted and improved, 21 05 20ES

Isleham Hospital Sunday – 21 05 20(2) ES

Ely Rural Housing progress – Stretham first house of the third pair of cottages is ready for occupation and the second ready for painting. Plastering has been completed in the fourth pair while the following two have the roof timbers fixed – 21 05 20(2) ES

Progress continues with Ely R.D.C. Council houses. At Littleport two cottages are occupied and the third are ready with the exception of outside painting. The fourth will be finished at the end of the month and the fifth pair by the end of June. At Pymoor the second pair are ready for inspection at Downham the second pair are ready for painting. On two different occasions the inter-oven of one of the cottages has been examined but no trace of smoke has been seen. Probably the wind may have been in the direction that proved beneficial to the stove. The tenant of the other cottage thought her stove went much better, instructions have been received from the inter-oven firm as to the setting of the stoves and the contractor states these instructions have been carried out. At Thetford and Stretham the first pair houses are ready for occupation and at Haddenham the remainder of the tiles has arrived. But at Sutton only foundations for two pairs of cottages have been dug. 21 05 20

The tenth annual Church Parade held at Isleham was attended with unique success. The inhabitants of the village have always displayed a considerable amount of practical sympathy towards the county hospital, demonstrated by collections in the past year of fruit, vegetables and eggs for the inmates. Their annual church parade is now regarded as a sure success. Although not quite so large as on past occasion, the procession was well organised and had in its ranks representatives of the various societies and institutions. Isleham Coronation Band was followed by a contingent of the Isleham branch of the Comrades of the Great War numbering upwards of 30, carrying a device bearing miniature models of warfare instruments. The Hospital Van was one of the chief attractions illustrating a ward containing a cot and a little convalescent patient, both of whom were well looked after by their cheerful nurses, and the Ambulance Van with its cargo of wounded. 21 05 20ES

Sir

It is easy to see why the present scheme for Ely City War Memorial is not receiving unanimous support. First is the ground of redundancy: will it not appear ridiculous to find the names of the City's dead inscribed three times in the city, one in one or other of the churches, in the Cathedral and again in the Market Place? Then take the form of the memorial itself. In Ely are fine specimens of architecture the cathedral and interesting buildings. It is suggested to place an imitation Gothic, semi religious sort of building which would always invite comparison with the genuine article. Not only would the memorial be an eyesore in itself, but placed where it would be a receptacle for all the dust and waste paper blowing about the Market Place. There may not always be a company of Girl Guides ready to undertake the work of keeping it tidy and it might easily get to be a disgrace to the city. 21 05 20ES

Cockshutt tractor plough – advertisement – 21 05 20(4) ES

1921 05 25

St Columba's church memorial unveiled – 21 05 25a

Crown Prince of Japan visits Cambridge – 21 05 25b # c.02

Thaxted Socialist vicar Red & Sinn Fein flags removed – photos – 21 05 25c

Impington Hall for sale – 21 05 25d

H. Leavis of Regent St, piano dealer, dies following road smash – 21 05 25e

1921 05 27 ES

Cass' 'Etheldreda' bus – advert & pic, p1

Isleham Old Comrades cricketers – photo, p8

Downham – child's letter from New Zealand, p8

Japanese Crown Prince visits Ely – 21 05 27 ES

An alarming incident took place near Cambridge Road corner, Stretham. A motorcycle with sidecar was proceeding through the village when the cycle burst into flames. The conveyance was luckily near the pond into which it was run and the flames extinguished. The side car suffered badly and one of the persons with the turnout was somewhat burned while dealing with the fire. 21 05 27

June 1921 Cambridge Chronicle, Ely Standard

1921 06 01

Old Persean War memorial unveiled – 21 06 01a # c.62

Prince of Wales visit to Cambridge, 31 May 1921: souvenir photos; cinema pictures to be shown at Victoria – 21 06 01b-f, j # c.02 # S.1921

Manea schoolmaster awarded damages for libel against parent – 21 06 01g

1921 06 03 ES

Soham & Wicken fen roads – inquiry, p3

Ely May fair, p4

Prickwillow water scheme public inquiry, p5

Manea schoolteacher wins libel, p6

Prickwillow v Coveney, p7

1921 06 08

Pidley Fen Farm fire – 21 06 08a

Conservators know that condition of Jesus Lock was danger, if gave way would empty river ; decide to repair even though this will exhaust their funds – 21 06 08b # c.46.5 # c.29.4

Denys Huddleston, squire of Sawston, killed in motor accident, Tottenham – 21 06 08g

1921 06 10 ES

Isleham waterworks – engineer reprimanded, p3

W.I. county federation formed for Isle, p6

Ely boys football team – photo, p8

In connection with the compulsory acquisition of land at Haddenham for housing purposes, the Ministry were not now prepared to finance any additional scheme unless there was very grave need. It looked very much as if Mr Everitt's statement that 'the money would run out' was coming true. Unless a site was forthcoming Haddenham Parish Council would find themselves without homes. 21 06 10ES

1921 06 15

Biographical Notes on Mayors of Cambridge by J. Milner Gray serialised – 21 06 15a

A.C. Yorke lectures in Fowlmere on parish history – 21 06 15a

Pavement Club – 500 on King's Parade with every form of locomotion known, journey to Girton – 21 06 15b # c.36.93

Conington stack fire belonging Furness Bros – arson trial – 21 06 15c; dismissed – 21 06 22a

Fens roads dispute Soham & Isleham Bank Drove – not a public highway – 21 06 15c

1921 06 17 ES

Soham & Isleham roads inquiry continues, p3 – 21 06 17 ES

Speaking at the Inquiry into the Soham and Isleham Fen roads Robert Stephenson said the universal method of containing water in a fen river was to put up a bank which must be broad enough and high enough to contain the water at the highest flood. Then there was what was called a foreland which was a shoulder to the bank which sloped towards the soft dyke. A sot dyke to cart away the water which percolated through the bank was then dug. The whole was one engineering construction to contain the river. A foreland was necessary as a support or sort of buttress. There could not have been a road between the sot dike and the river, the whole thing was a bank. He described the process were he to construct a road along there. When he knew the road before 1891 the proper means of reaching the populace down the fen was the Black Drove, and he did not know of any other droves maintained by the public. The whole bank between Isleham and Prickwillow belonged to private owners, and nothing had been done to the road since 1897. A toll was still collected at Prickwillow. The public houses were put on the riverbank to meet the needs of water traffic. He gave several measurements of the drove way and said in one spot it was nine feet wide for a mile. That was the only place which vehicles could possibly use. With regard to the continuation of the road from the Soham Tunnel Mill towards Prickwillow, he said nothing had been done to it and the vibration of the traffic would cause the bank to slip when the river was in flood. The footpath on top of the bank was passible. 21 06 17ES

Coal running out, p5

Benwick war memorial unveiled – photo, p6 – 21 06 17(3)(4) ES

The little parish of Benwick boasts only some 362 inhabitants, yet 150 brave men went forth to fight for their King and Country. Of these no less than 44 died in doing their duty. There are a few if any villages in England that can boast such a roll of honour as this. It is a glorious record and we raise our hats in reverence and honour of those departed ones. Those words summing up the magnificent record of Benwick in the war were uttered at the unveiling of a handsome monument, which the people of the village have erected in memory of their honoured dead. The inhabitants assembled in large numbers around the monument and did homage to those who went from them on their perilous track of war and have not returned. Designed and contracted for by Mr. L.W. Sedley and erected by Mr G. Dunham of Doddington, the monument, cost £300. Mounted on the draped lorry beside the monument, the Rector said they had amongst them those who had returned, some of them maimed and marked from life. 21 06 17ES

Soham important property sale, late G. Dennis, p8
Witchford church restoration – 21 06 17(2) ES

1921 06 22

Croxton Rector and wife charged neglecting two nurse children – 21 06 22b

Right-of-way claim on track from Lode to Clayhithe – 21 06 22c

1921 06 24 ES

Ely – effect of drought, p5

Ely city football league champions – photo, p5

March war memorial unveiled, p6, 8 – 21 06 24 & (3) ES

Rarely, if ever, have the people of March assembled in greater numbers than they did when in their thousands they thronged the exceptionally spacious Broad Street to do honour to the memory of that gallant company of over 200 March men who gave their lives in the war. It was a memorable as well as a solemn occasion and the permanent tribute in stone was supplemented by the great personal tribute which the presence of the vast congregation implied. Immediately surrounding the memorial was a reserved enclosure in which the place of honour was allocated to the bereaved. Ex-servicemen were also drawn up within the enclosure, and the rest of the space was devoted to the Sunday School children who from their point of vantage witnessed a ceremony that they should not soon forget. Outside the enclosure, the street was filled with townspeople, the vast crowd extending a considerable distance in each direction and every position from which the proceedings could be witnessed was taken advantage of. The memorial stands in the most prominent position in the town, the south end of Broad Street facing the bridge. Simple in design it is at the same time strikingly impressive. It possesses a unique feature in the shape of a life-sized figure of a soldier in uniform, standing in the reversed arms position before the obelisk, a touching and effective reminder of what the monument stands for. 21 06 24ES

1921 06 29

Foxton war memorial unveiled – 21 06 29a

Conservators' farewell survey- probably last official survey; dined at Clayhithe – photo – 21 06 29b # c.46.5

Gas Company war memorial unveiled – 21 06 29c; photos 21 07 27a # c.24.4 # c.62

July 1921 Cambridge Chronicle & Ely Standard

1921 07 01 ES

No small ads for servants etc

Golden Queen motot coach – Vincés – advert, p1

A great Hospital collector – G. Peacock of Soham, photo, p5

Stretham Comrades v Sutton Comrades, cricket, p5

Lightning but no rain, p7

Stretham v Haddenham, p10

Manea co-op opened, p11

Prickwillow death widow Ephraim Turner, p11

Stretham, p11

Baptist anniversary

Henry Asplin, one Thomas Jacobs' men, hurt in fall from water cart; (died, was cattle dealer Hall Lane – 8th p9)

Ely Standard now printed on new modern press – photo, p12

1921 07 06

St Andrew's Street Baptist Church war memorial unveiled – 21 07 06a # c.62

Harston Manor theatricals – photos – 21 07 06b

Red Cross Society Field Day challenge cups awarded – 21 07 06c

Fowlmere aerodrome may be converted into school for mentally defective children – 21 07 06d

1921 07 08 ES

Stretham Comrades snooker, Red Lion, hut box taken round, hope to obtain hut as soon as possible, p9

Prickwillow patronal festival, p9

Wilburton war memorial unveiled, p12

Colne war memorial unveiled – photo, p12

Prickwillow water scheme – Government blamed, p12

1921 07 13

Thaxted church flags burnt; struggle in church – 21 07 13a

Public house closures – Melbourn Oak, Shepreth Half-way House; Over Black Horse, Bourn

Greyhound' Cambridge Cherry Tree in Fitzroy St; Sovereign in Gold Street; Marquis of Granby in Bridge St; - 21 07 13b

1921 07 15 ES

Ely & drought, fear will crack river banks, p7

Prickwillow water scheme – a local issue?

Prickwillow attempted suicide Charles Parsons, ex-soldier, p7

Ely rural housing, Stretham – five completed, 6th ready, p8

Soham death John Morley, painter & decorator & artist, p11

Prickwillow day school sports, p11

Stretham p11

Fire stacks H. Teagle, ton of old hay destroyed

Mission Hall Sunday School festival

Fire stack High Searle, High Street – got under control 'after drying several of the neighbouring walls'

Accident George Russell & daughter Mrs Nicholls – cart went into ditch

Funeral Henry Asplin

W.I. whist drive on lawns of Manor

Broncho Bill's wild west exhibition – advert, p11

1921 07 20

Bateman Street houses struck by lightning – photo – 21 07 20a

Catholic Bible Congress – 21 07 20b # c.83

Railway accident, death employee at Fordham station – 21 07 20c

1921 07 22 ES

Drought becoming serious, p7

Prickwillow v Ely City – five ducks in a row, p10

Boy walker's achievement – George Edwards, Ely-March, 22 miles in 4½ hours, p12

1921 07 27

Langdon & Peet, builders, St Peter's Street – advertisement showing workers and factory – 21 07 27b # B.Pet

A serious position has arisen in connection with the scheme for the erecting of houses by Cambridge Borough Council at Chesterton Road & Milton Road. The site was purchased some time ago and prepared for erection of 60 houses by direct labour. Construction of roads and sewers put in place. But Minister refuses to sanction other work unless whole of expense is borne by local rates. Work to stop and town will have a building site which cost over £14,000. It is impossible to proceed with building scheme without Government assistance – 21 07 27c # c.23 # c.37.5

Gamlingay two cottages destroyed fire – 21 07 27d

1921 07 29 ES

Small ads back

Soham & Isleham Fen Drove – result public inquiry, p8

Prickwillow housing scheme, p8

Stretham: Wedding Miss Lilian Taylor & Claud Milnes; bride eldest daughter William Taylor, Ivy Cottage; both served during war, p11

Littleport Golden Wedding George Washington, carrier – photo, p12

Stretham v Wardy Hill, Haddenham, p12

August 1921 Cambridge Chronicle & Ely Standard

1921 08 03

Milton Road level crossing gateman's cottage burnt to ground – photo – 21 08 03a c.26.2 # B.Milt.

King Street murder funeral – 21 08 03c;

King Street murder reports & trial – 21 08 03d,e 21 08 10a, b, e 21 08 24b,c,d 21 09 07c 21 09 14a,b 21 09 21a,b ; 21 10 19a,b,c; 21 10 19j, not guilty – 21 10 26c photos – 21 08 03b, 21 08 17d , 21 10 19f, 21 10 26a suspect in court – 21 08 24a, 21 09 21d

1921 08 05 ES

Soham sale estate James Westley, auctioneer, p2

Ely & drought – suggested supplies for villages from UDC, Littleport's plight, p5*

Stretham, p9

Hubert Coe wins poultry prize

WI

Prickwillow p9

Irene Rich passes piano

Miss Muriel Taylor wins scholarship

1921 08 10

All Saints War Memorial dedicated – 21 08 10c

1921 08 12 ES

Littleport water famine – how ration received, p3

Stretham Manor Farm sale stock late John Dimock, p4

Ely St Mary's new memorial windows, p4

Stretham marriage Miss Bertha Sennitt, formerly of Stretham, p5

Ely council supply water 1/6 per 1,000 gallons, p5

Ouse dried up near Wilburton, p5*

Fissures in earth, horse falls in, p5

Stretham war memorial protests against decision to erect in cemetery ... lengthy, rector apologies over misunderstanding with Committee over faculty which would be needed if in churchyard.

Deputation to meet Committee & convey apology, p8

Stretham football, p8

Steam excavator at work Lt Downham, p8

1921 08 17

Caxton church memorial stone Rev Henry Smythe – 21 08 17a
Sepulchral monuments in Ely Cathedral – feature – 21 08 17b
Caius College fire in rafters – 21 08 17c # c.34.75 # c.44.5

1921 08 19 ES

Prickwillow band concert, p5
Prickwillow water scheme meeting, p5
Severe storm at Soham, p5
Stretham, p8
Retirement Samuel Freeman, signalman, Stretham station 18 years
Wedding Lilian Hazel, eldest daughter Fred of Cambridge House, & D. Folkes, p8
Downham cornfield cracks, p8
Prickwillow football club agm, p8
'Ouse's Silent Tide' published – born at Chatteris, p8

1921 08 24

Croxton air smash; two Duxford officers killed – 21 08 24a # c.26.1
Capt Foster of Foxton Hall bankruptcy – 21 08 24f
Mildenhall flour mill gutted – 21 08 24g

1921 08 26 ES

Cass add 'Hereward the Wake' to 'Etheldreda' char-a-blanc, p1
Health of Isle – water & sewage disposal urgent, p2
Prickwillow: are houses 'worst in the world', p5

1921 08 31

Whippet racing revived; first meeting after war – 21 08 31a # c.38 : greyhound
Central Cinema licensed for film, singing, dancing & music – 21 08 31b; full-page feature – 21 08 31d.e, f # c.76.9 # I.L
Trumpington old wayside cross discovery – 21 08 31c

September 1921 Cambridge Chronicle & Ely Standard

1921 09 02 ES

Stretham : P. Bradshaw corn merchant – advert, p1
Sutton schooldays reminiscences of 30 years ago, p2* (corrections 9th p5, 16th p5)
Marham springs – drought Wisbech Water Company anxious, p3
Prickwillow fen fibre works, sale machinery & plant – giving up Prx factory, p4
Stretham & Ely cricket, p7
Death Joseph Collingwood, March – portrait, p8
Stretham p8
Harvest festival
Fox hunt, Grunty Fen, 2nd killed recently
Lt Downham novel method of gathering in corn by motor tractor: Lorry – crack sin field made use of horses impossible, p8

1921 09 07

Cottenham war memorial unveiling – 21 09 07a, photos 07b
Death Tom Savage, Cottenham farmer – 21 09 07c

1921 09 09 ES

Stretham houses – eight inhabited, two more by end of month, p3
Drought continues, water cart to Littleport & Prickwillow, p5
Prickwillow man 'gross neglect' horse, p5
Stretham: Kezia Bradshaw will - £831, p8

1921 09 14

Hauxton's first fete – 21 09 14c

1921 09 16 ES

Sutton reminiscences – George H. Edwards, p3; letter 23rd p5

Stretham: sale stock Manor Farm, p5

Prickwillow sale stock Daisy Hill Farm, p5heaviest rain on record – welcomed, p8

Stretham, p8

Miss Brown of Stretham lectures on basket weaving

Football v Aldreth

Mission harvest festival

Prickwillow: Robert Pedley – no lights, p8

1921 09 23 ES

Prickwillow water scheme: inspector appointed, Sutton ironworks to supply, p3

Prickwillow sale stock Robert Hawkes – adv, p4

Stretham Granges Farm, Grunty Fen – sale stock – James Strawson has let the farm

March cycle race – B. Pepper – photo, p9

Prickwillow fen fibre works sale prices, p8

Prickwillow church harvest festival, p8

Stretham p8

Football v Thetford

Wesleyan harvest festival

1921 09 28

W.M. Palmer 'Neighbourhood of Linton' article- 21 09 28a, 21 10 05b, 21 0 12c

1921 09 30

Prickwillow sale stock Robert Hawkes – adv, p2

"Proofs of spiritualism" lecture, Wisbech, p3

Wesley & Co, [Stretham?] – creditors to apply liquidator, p6

Sutton station ablaze – booking hall, waiting room and office gutted, p8*, (photo 7 Oct p4)

October 1921 Cambridge Chronicle & Ely Standard

1921 10 05

Herbert Robinson motor cycle reliability trial – photos – 21 10 05a # Q.A1

Wicken farmer William Bullman failure – 21 10 05c

Sherlock Holmes reappears in The Strand – 21 10 05d

1921 10 07 ES

Sutton sale Mill Bakery – adv, p2

Lt Downham 'Railway Tavern' sold - £500, p5

Wicken farmers failure – Wm Bullman, p6 (sale adv 14th p2)

Stretham c Haddenham football, p9

Stretham last pairs of houses ready for occupation, hedges to be planted, p9

Stretham, p10

Church harvest festival

Social Club annual meeting 'valuable and efficient service to young men in village'

Prickwillow, p10

Flower show

Football

Whist drive

Mepal retirement PC Newell, p10

1921 10 12

Cambridge Town Football club new ground Milton Road – photo across site – 21 10 12a # C.38 : football ‘ U.Foo. # B.Milt

‘Cambridge Unemployed’ – Labour Party demonstration Parker’s Piece – photos – 21 10 12b # c.33 #
c.32.1

1921 10 14 ES

Thetford memorial cross renovated – already plaque in church, one name omitted, would be retyped, p2 (photo 21st p10)

Littleport St Mathews Institute opened, p5

Ely villages water supply – try for joint ownership of Isleham water, p6

Stretham v Ely GE football, p8

Stretham p10

Court case C.H. Gimbert, Ely, applied for possession cottage occupied by John Cathpole, labourer; it let 1916 at rent £1.4.0 a month. Gave notice. Catchpole owed rent & complained of an increase. Told to vacate

Obituary Stephen Green, pensioner GER (1875-1908), 81

Obituary Mrs Fairless, at her daughter, Mrs Morden, Sun Inn; H. Stanley of Stretham had charge of funeral arrangements, p10

Prickwillow, p10

Baptist minister, W.J. Young ill

Parochial council – meet to form, discuss

Church & school

1921 10 19

King & Queen visit NIAB – 21 10 19d,e # c.02

Albert Institute, Grafton Street: hopes to revive – 21 10 19g

Willingham Addenbrooke's Hospital parade photo – 21 10 19g

Man killed on railway at Marriott’s crossing near station; need of bridge for 1,000 allotment holders –
21 10 19h # c.26.2

1921 10 21 ES

Farmers offer 36/- wages, p2

Prickwillow water scheme – apply for loans, p3

Prickwillow urgent need for council housing, p6

Ely Downham Road fair described, p10

Stretham, p10

B. Leonard & h. Coe success at show

Gospel Van visits & open-air services

1921 10 26

University votes against women’s degrees; undergraduate mock funeral – photos – 21 10 26b # c.36.9
c.36.98 # c.36.96 # V.W.K21

G.E.R. Apple express locomotive – 21 10 26e

Westminster College chapel dedicated – gift of Sir William Noble – 21 10 26f # c.44.5

Cambridge in the seventies and since – reminiscences of Old Johnian – part of series – 21 10 26g

1921 10 28 ES

Agricultural situation – MP opens campaign with village meetings; Stretham meeting includes questions from J. Catchpole re wages, Stitt re deceased soldiers’ children, J.C. Parnall re tax on motor vehicles. Need for bridges. Catchpole ‘on hands and knees to get it’, p3

Prickwillow meeting, p3

Fruit industry in earliest stages – Ely – feature & photos, p6*

Prickwillow & Littleport football, p7

Stretham, p10

Wedding Roland Murfitt & Emily Beasley

Parish church council duties defined

Albert Edward Russell, war hero, dies in America; brother George having gone in 1912 he followed to Volga City. Met Walter Everitt (formerly of Stretham) who cared for him till death. Enlisted, one of first in USA & sailed 30 Jul 1917, served France. Returned September 5th 1919, discharged 25th. In four minor engagements & several gun attacks, several months in hospital. Problems on return but no medical aid. Friends appealed to Government. Went to Dubuque & Tennessee but no help. When realised he failing he went back to Mrs Everitt, 11th March. Died September 24th. Military funeral, church full. Mason *

Lt Downham – rain means parish pumps now unlocked – water free for all purposes, p10

Wicken: A. Bullman retires business due illness, p10

Prickwillow: whist drive fund school repairs, p10

November 1921 Cambridge Chronicle & Ely Standard

1921 11 04 ES

Prickwillow water – local labour laying new main, p5

Stretham: John Sadler, general dealer, assaulted George Russell at White Horse, dispute over pigs.

Dismissed

Drought: drainage – outfall badly silted up, p7

Ely Standard resumes 'Old Time' column, p8

Ely Rural Housing – eight villages where work completed, p12

Stretham, p12

To be special Armistice Service in church,

Wesley church larger organ installed – special service

1921 11 09

King's College memorial dedicated – 21 11 09a # c.62

Gt St Mary's war memorial dedicated – 21 11 09b # c.62

Babraham war memorial unveiled – 21 11 09c

1921 11 11 ES

Stretham wife tells of another woman, husband sent to prison, she now living at Stretham with parents, p7

Stretham p12

Missions, SPG

Football

Whist

Death Mrs Agnes Driver, widow Thomas, 76

Armistice Sunday impressive service

Prickwillow p12

Rev Young progresses

Church picture presented by Vicar

Church war memorial form decided

Isleham: P.C. George Bugg retires, p12

1921 11 16

Charlie Chaplin film in Guildhall, staged by A.J. Pointer of Victoria Cinema – 21 11 16a # c.76.9

River Cam Conservancy – application for new Act of Parliament – 21 11 16b # c.46.5

Village libraries – provision of a properly-organised service similar to that enjoyed by residents in towns; apply Carnegie Trust – 21 11 16c, 26 11 23a # c.77.4

Jesus College large German gun trophy captured and transported to Caius College – 21 11 16d, 16e # c.45.5 # c.62 # c.36.93

Armistice commemoration – photos – 21 11 16h

Armistice night rag, students assault police; heavy fines – 21 11 16l # c.36.93

Hauxton war memorial unveiling – 21 11 16k

Conington sexton's strange delusions – hanged himself – 21 11 16m

Sidney Street cinema – Corporation had refused as want to widen Sidney Street, were wrong – 21 11 16n # c.76.9

1921 11 23

Photographic club dinner – 21 11 23b

Fitzroy Street fire Sturton's shop – 21 11 23c

1921 11 18 ES

Stretham: Eliza Asplin, widow, applies compensation for death of her husband at work – adjourned, p3

Stretham: Harry Lowe, farmer, Cage Lane, sues Lime Street Fruit Stores over 101 bags green peas.

John Catchpole, their agent, said they best seen. Awarded £25.5.0, p3

Stretham war memorial, cemetery unveiled, p7*

Stretham v Sutton football

Soham Grammar School war memorial unveiled – photo, p12

Prickwillow, p12

Football

Whist (2)

1921 11 25 ES

Captain Coote, MP, in car accident, p2

Coursing at Prickwillow, p5

Ely rural water – engineer appointed, p7-9

Witchford & Wentworth benefices to unite? P7

Stretham & Manea football, p11

Littleport vicar speaks against spiritualism, p12

Prickwillow: St James School repair fund – whist drive

1921 11 30

G.E.R. staff new club house – photos – 21 11 30a,b # c.26.2

Conan Doyle to lecture – biggest student hoax since Sultan of Zanzibar – 21 11 30c,d,e # c.36.93

Steam wagon driver scalded at Trumpington – 21 11 30g

December 1921 Cambridge Chronicle & Ely Standard

1921 12 02 ES

Death Lt Col W.J.C. Luddington, Ely , p3 (pic p12)

Stretham schoolboys v Ely football, p1[

Prickwillow p12

St Dunstan's collection

W.I.

1921 12 09 ES

Burwell property sale – prices, p6

Burwell Congregational minister J.W. Upton, retires, p7

Stretham: Holland Porter lectures on India at Ely, p7

Stretham v Littleport Reserves, p11

Stretham: Foreign Missions, Wesley chapel, p12

1921 12 14

Fourth centenary of printing in Cambridge- G.J. Gray – 21 12 14a

Trumpington wayside memorial unveiled – 21 11 14b, 21 11 21a # c.62

1921 12 16 ES

Prickwillow water supply service connection tenders, p2

Prickwillow: suggested bungalows, petition for tarmac road, p8

Soham water supply works to begin at once, p12

Prickwillow: footballers' concert, p12

1921 12 23 ES

Meteor seen at Wisbech, p6

Prickwillow: stack fire, Lark Grange Farm, p12

Soham Lode cleaning out – photo, p12*

Prickwillow p12

School prizes

Whist drive

Stretham, p12

Musical success Ronald Bradshaw

1921 12 28

Last word in bus construction – three Ortona open-top buses – 21 12 28a # Q.Af.K21

Review of year – 21 12 28b, c

1921 12 30 ES

Adelaide cottage & buildings – tender sought, Isle Agricultural Committee, p2

Stretham: Catchpole applies extension possession of cottage, 'if I only get a shed I would move out', p4

Retrospect of 1921 – local, p5*

Prickwillow p12

Footballers donate £5 school

Anchor share-out club

1922 Cambridge Daily News & Cambridge Chronicle & Ely Standard

(Cambridge Chronicle checked for stories Jan & Feb)

Ely Standard copied

I have reader-printer copies and scans

January 1922 Cambridge Chronicle & Ely Standard

1922 01 04

Cambridgeshire rural circulating library proposed with grant from Carnegie & appointment of Librarian 22 01 04 # c.77.4

Sir Sims Woodhead, distinguished scientist – obit 22 01 04a; portrait 22 01 04d

Herbert Robinson motor cycles and sidecar bargains – advert 22 01 04b

Assize Court figures of Law, Justice, Mercy & Power to remain, had been removed 22 01 04c # c.35.1

Farm fires at Hiam's Prickwillow, Swaffham Prior, Caldecote – 22 01 04e

1922 01 06 ES

Stretham fire at Elford Long Farm, stack; occupied by R.T. Wesley. 22 01 06ES

The high gale blowing made all attempts to extinguish a fire which occurred at Elford Long Farm, Stretham worthless and three stacks were destroyed. Farm buildings is in close proximity to the stacks form three sides of a square but fortunately, the wind was blowing away from the sheds and the blaze was confined to the stacks with little difficulty.

The buildings contained about 30 pigs and seven head of cattle but these were safely. When the Ortona bus passed the spot about five minutes to six nothing was noticed to be amiss but 10 minutes later the blaze was seen from the village. Help was quickly forthcoming, a number of inhabitants doing invaluable work in removing the cattle and preventing further damage.

There was very little water available and in view of the prevailing gale, it was considered useless to requisition the services of the Ely fire brigade. It was merely a question of allowing the conflagration to burn itself out. The crowd of voluntary firemen worked determinately and, armed with wet sacks on forks, succeeded in extinguishing those parts of the sheds which had caught fire. 22 01 06 ES

Manea death R.H. Sears, old family, farmer. 22 01 06(2)ES

Chatteris Salem Baptist Chapel destroyed by fire. 22 01 06(4)ES *

Salem Baptist Chapel, Chatteris was found to be on fire on Sunday morning and such a firm hold had the flames secured before anything could be done to check them that the building was gutted and all the contents destroyed.

The explosion of a fire bomb aroused the inhabitants and on the arrival of the fire brigade, who were quickly on the scene, the chapel was enveloped in flames. A wooden building connecting the chapel with the house in which the pastor resides was pulling down, preventing the flame spreading to that residence.

The pitch pine seats and other woodworks in the building were all quickly involved and all that the brigade could do was to prevent this fire from spreading to a farm yard.

The chapel, which took the place of an old dilapidated one, was quite a modern structure having been erected in 1907. It had seating accommodation for 220 people. The heating was by means of an iron stove which had been lighted overnight, and from which it is thought that the outbreak may have originated. 22 01 06 ES

The difficult financial position of the March Urban District Council resulting from expenditure on the main roads far exceeding the estimates was discussed. The making of Bedlam Road cost no less than £1,378 for about two miles and the surveyor was blamed for having spent so much without informing the Council. An overdraft of £2,000 has been arranged with the bank, but even that sum would not meet the needs of the situation. Many complaints were made the condition of other roads and of the existence of dangerous potholes, and fault was found with the Surveyor for placing loose granite on the main roads through the town and not on the outlying roads. Some heat was displayed. The Surveyor declared that if he did not know how to make up a road, a councillor did not. At this, the chairman reminded him that he was there as the servant of the council. 22 01 06

Ely Cathedral has decided to give free access to the choir as well as the nave of the Cathedral for the present year as an experiment. They do so in full confidence that visitors will always behave quietly and reverently, remembering that the Cathedral is not simply an architectural monument of unique interest but the House of God and the House of Prayer.

A considerable sum has hitherto been raised for the Cathedral Repair Fund by the charge of sixpence for admission to the choir. It is hoped that the voluntary offerings may amount to at least an equal sum, and that all visitors will welcome the opportunity of taking part in the maintenance of this glorious monument by putting some contribution into one of the boxes placed for the purpose. 22 01 06 ES

1922 01 11

Chesterton road bridge and position of footbridges to be left to electors to decide – 22 01 11 & a Children entertained to tea and concert by Peter Blowers at Melbourne Place School – photo – 22 01 11b

Beck Row church fire, roof damaged – 22 01 11c

1922 01 13 ES

Haddenham diamond wedding Robert Hawes formerly of Witcham. 22 01 13ES

1922 01 18

Croydon war memorial cross unveiled – photo feature – 22 01 18

Robert Odell, jobmaster and horse dealer of Britannia Place meeting creditors – 22 01 18a

1922 01 25

Laurie & McConnnal shop – sketch – 22 01 25

Great Eastern Railway Cambridge staff photo – 22 01 25a

County Boys School accommodation inadequate, no more admissions – 22 02 15b

1922 01 27 ES

Stretham farmer's failure: Arthur Thory of Stretham Fen, grew carrots and pig dealer. 22 01 27ES

Arthur Thory from Stretham Fen said he began business on his own account about 12 years ago growing carrots and potatoes on six acres, working for his father in the daytime and working for himself at night. After two years he started as a pig dealer and left his father. He also worked about 10 acres of land at Warboys and also took some land of the County Council.

He married about 13 years ago, and at first he lived in a small cottage. In 1914, he took a larger one and subsequently moved several times, at last to a fair size house.

About 1917 He went into partnership with a Mr. Blow in a farm at Stretham of about 174 acres. They bought the farm for £5,000. He sent two horses, a cart and a trolley from Warboys to the farm.

He used to send stuff to London sometimes he got little for it. He borrowed from money lenders. 22 01 27(7)ES

Death William Read, Ely, career Army. 22 01 27(2)ES

Ely and District Motor Club annual meeting was told that although there was a decrease in membership, it did not mean the club was becoming defunct. It was to be congratulated on the success it had obtained in its first year of inauguration in January 1921. The first run of the year was to Hunstanton on Easter Monday when a large number of members turned out and a photograph was taken before the commencement of the trip. Midweek runs had been arranged but they had been badly attended. Events such as water parties and smoking concerts were well attended and it was decided to hold weekly social evening. There were several enjoyable competitions, including reliability trials, hill climbs, speed trials and paper chases. 22 01 27(2)ES

Several Soham licensees applied for an extension of hours from two o'clock to six o'clock each Monday because that day was market day in Soham. There was a petition signed by 74 persons who attended that market in favour of granting the extension. All these signatures were obtained in the market and all were persons from outside Soham. There was no accommodation for people to obtain shelter. All that was wanted was accommodation and refreshment. The application was refused. 22 01 07(2)ES

February 1922 Cambridge Chronicle & Ely Standard

1922 02

A grocer and his wife: separation order granted within a year of marriage ... unpleasantness occurred a few weeks after marriage. In July she purchased a motor cycle combination for £119. When she asked him to take her for a ride he struck her on the jaw. Husband said it was his wife's suggestion that he should have a sum of money and the motor cycle combination and go away from her up North again.

1922 02

"I have told people repeatedly at inquests that they had far better buy an old orange box to use as a cot than let children sleep with their parents. People are very apt to smother them unconsciously". The mother said it was not a really strong child for it had a wheezing cold since birth on January 15th. She fed it on bread slops and the breast generally. The weight of the child was below average being 6lbs 3ozs against the usual weight of 7lbs for a girl, 8lbs for a boy. Death was due to natural causes.

1922 02

The Rendezvous cinema, Hertford Street. "All next week. Super attraction! Mary Pickford can no more grow up than Peter Pan & that is why her latest production "Through the back doors" is just the type of charming picture you will want to see ... the kind that made her famous ... brimful of heart interest ... intensely effective. Special music programme. Perfect projection. Warm & comfortable"

1922 02 01

Hague Ingram, musician – obituary – 22 02 01, portrait 22 02 08a # c.69

Squire Frost of West Wrattling – obituary – 22 02 01c portrait – 22 02 01a # c.26.1

King & Harper demonstration of Fordson tractor pulling farm wagon – photo – 22 02 01b

Mrs Alice Moyes, Lion Hotel – obituary – 22 02 01d # c.27.4

1922 02 02

Long-felt want supplied in Great Shelford. The hall is a converted army hut built on the public recreation ground. Great Shelford was to be congratulated in that its ex-Servicemen had joined with the Womens Friendly League to build the hall, a result which was eminently satisfactory for the village. If the ex-Service men were prepared to pull together for the places where they lived there was a great future for the county.

1922 02 03 ES

Inquest Ely shopkeeper, Elizabeth Richmond, Silver Street – fell down stairs. 22 02 03ES

Death William Smith, Ely; farmer. 22 02 03ES

Death James Dimock, Soham, farmer. 22 02 03ES

James Daniel Dimock was born at Stretham on August 16 1844 in the old farmhouse, which had been the home of the family for many generations. He married Miss Emily Charles, daughter of William Charles, then a farmer at Padney Farm, Wicken. He commenced business at Stretham and resided in the house in which he was born until 1873 when he took a farm at Madingley. He left there for Soham in 1874 where he resided at Haney Farm.

He spent a very large sum of money in claying the fen lands for which work he may be aptly described as a benefactor to the parish, giving much employment at the time when it was sorely needed. He was a member of the Middle Fen Drainage Commission, and Chairman of Little Thetford Drainage Commissioners. 22 03 02(10)ES

George Washington, Littleport carrier, retires. 22 02 03ES *

Carriers' 80 years on the road

After traversing the Littleport-Ely road for 36 years as a carrier, Mr. George Washington of Victoria Street Littleport, has retired. The Washington carriers business, which has been an active and important means of transport for about eight decades, has now been taken over by his son Mr. Bert Washington meaning that probable that the century may be completed.

George Washington took over the business from his uncle, Mr. W. Washington, about 36 years ago and during that time has been to and fro from Ely regularly four times a week, and until recently made six weekly journeys.

For many years he was he also farmed at Littleport and conducted a grocery business which just over two years ago, he relinquished in favour of his sons. Born on 3rd March 1850, he still resides in the house where both he and his father were born.

The late Mr. W. Washington, who first held the carriers business, continued for 43 years. In those days a toll was payable on leaving Littleport, and it is estimated that he paid some £800 pounds in this respect. Mr. Bert Washington, who is succeeding his father in the business, is also a farmer and contemplates a motor carrier to substitute the old horse and cart method. 22 02 03(10)ES

1922 02 08

Licences of Volunteer in Green Street, Old Nag's Head Hobson St, Brickmaker's Arms Newmarket Road, Cross Keys in Saxon St held over – probably redundant – 22 02 08 # c.27.4

1922 02 10 ES

Ancient Ely byeways; the 'New Barnes Estate' by Harold Archer. 22 02 10(2)(3)ES *

In olden times byways, as distinct from highways, were solely for the use and benefit of the inhabitants of the parish in which they existed, to enable them to pass more directly to and from particular parts of the parish but not as a means of approach or as a through route to other places. On the north eastern side of the hill upon which the city of Ely stands, there are two such byways and it has been a matter of conjecture as to how and for what purpose they came into existence. They are Spring Head (or Love) Lane and New Barnes Walk.

Amongst records belonging to the Spooner family has lately been found a copy of an Episcopal degree from the reign of Queen Elizabeth complaining of sheep straying into the common fens and being impounded. It describes the situation of the droveway that was to be made by Little Turbysey (now known as Broad Pieces) pieces to what is now Spring Head Lane, to be hedged and ditched on both sides ... to permit the inhabitants and their heirs quietly to have and enjoy the drove way at all times ... without paying for the same. There was another way from Ely Townsend by the Inclosures of New Barnes to Chettisham.

Centuries afterwards under the Ely Fields Enclosure Act this last mentioned right of way was confirmed and set out as a bridle path. In my youth, I often exercised and availed myself of the right of way and bridle path on my pony went out for a ride by the direction of Chettisham. But of course, this byway is of no value now as the highway from Ely to Chettisham forms a much shorter and better means of approaching the city.

The New Barnes Estate at that time was doubtless an open and unclosed expanse of land comprising about 700 acres of land. In 1799 Great New Barnes was stated as containing 500 acres in the occupation of Edmund Tattersall and Little New Barnes, containing 103 acres, was in the occupation of Nathan Spooner. 22 02 10(2&3)ES

Death David Gibbons, born Stretham, Ely bootmaker & repairer

David Gibbons successfully carried on business as a boot maker and repairer in Broad Street, Ely for many years.

The youngest son of the late Mr. James Gibbon of Stretham he belonged to a family which can trace its connection to the leather trade for several generations. He spent his young life at Stretham with was with his father in the business before going to Northampton for training. He returned to his father's business for two years and entered the service of Messrs. Blakeman Brothers about 30 years ago. They were at that time leather merchants and bootmakers and when the leather portion of the business closed down Mr. Gibbons launched out on his own account.

In his younger days he was particularly interested in skating and in the days when the river was regularly frozen over, he skated backwards and forwards to Stretham even skating when he had a railway season ticket in his pocket. 22 02 10(4)ES

1922 02 15

A motor ambulance to replace the old push ambulance which had been the only means the police had for dealing with street accidents and emergencies was presented by Special Constables.

The Commandant said that never a day or night passed but what the Cambridge police came across human suffering in one form or another. There had been a lack of provision to meet cases of sudden emergency when called upon to convey a sick or injured person to hospital or to their home.

All they had was a prehistoric ambulance more like an antiquated costermonger's barrow, with the proverbial tarpaulin jacket with which to wrap the patient in. When the 'specials' first mooted the idea of providing an up-to-date motor ambulance they met opposition but gradually subscriptions came in. Now the beautiful and complete ambulance would be placed at the disposal of the inhabitants of the town and also the county when required. The Chief Constable said the ambulance had been running since October and in that time they had conveyed 64 cases and covered some 700 miles. Accidents often occurred on the outskirts of the Borough and hitherto they had to send two men and a push ambulance two or three miles. What grieved him more than anything was to see one day a dead body on that ambulance being conveyed through the streets of Cambridge and a few days later a child being taken along in full view of the public. – 22 02 15, photo – 22 02 15a # c.21.1

Jesus Lane wall on corner being removed to widen road – photo – 22 02 15b

1922 02 22

Mgr Provost Scott, rector Roman Catholic parish of Cambridge for 40 years; details of growth of church – obit 22 02 22 # c.83

1922 02 24 ES

Stretham bankruptcy John Thory, farmer– partnership on borrowed money, Arthur John Thory of Stretham fen; 1919 went into partnership Mr Blow of Stretham. 174a bought land for £5,000 – moved from Warboys. Wanted a lot more money put in, no stuff to sell, only bills. Frost came, then drought 22 02 24(2)ES [cutt].

March 1922 CDN & Ely Standard

1922 03 01

Laurie & McConnal sale, p3

Queen Mary wedding contributions, p3

Photographic club exhibition, p5

Foster's Mill lightning strike, p3

1922 03 02

Noisy animals byelaw, p5

Triangula fight – proportional representation, p6

Sewage farm relief work objections, p6

1922 03 02

Cambridge Town Council Housing Committee ... approve the lay-out proposed of thirty houses next Milton Road and Union Road with white brick facings, solid walls & slated roofs. The windows to be sash ones with larger squares of glass.

1922 03 03

The employees of the firm of Messrs Robert Sayle & co. ltd spent a very enjoyable time together when they were the guests of the Directors at a supper and "social". The assembly took place in the furniture department at 15 St Andrew's Hall, which, thanks to the energetic efforts of Mr P. Norrington had been wonderfully transformed for the occasion. Screens, curtains & carpets had been used to excellent purpose and varied flags and coloured lamp shades enhanced the effect. Mr Chaplin (the veteran governing director) mentioned the first party he ever attended in connection with the firm was in 1866 when the late Mr Sayle had been in business for about 25 years. In those days things were very different. They had no Bank Holidays and no half-holidays except one, and that was Flower Show day when they closed at four o'clock. (Laughter). Business hours too were much longer. People often spoke of the "good old times" but "men could do a good deal more work then than many of us can do today"

Romsey Town election, grand word 'Labour', p3

Motor through shop window, p3

1922 03 03 ES

Electric roundabout model by Harry Vail, Ely: photo. 22 03 03ES

Stretham – wedding Florence May Swan & Percy W. Routledge

Miss Florence May Swan and Mr. Percy. W. Routledge of Stretham were married. Miss Swan is the youngest daughter of the late Thomas Swan, a well-known Stretham tradesman and did useful service to the country during the war. She began training as a probationary nurse at Northampton General Hospital in 1912 and at the beginning of hostilities, having gained her certificate, took up duties at the Northampton War Hospital. Later she went to the Fovant War Hospital, Salisbury Plain. After being demobilised, she returned to Northampton as a private nurse vacating the post six months ago. Mr. Percy Routledge served in the Suffolk Regiment enlisting in September 1914, afterwards being transferred to a signal section of the Royal Engineers. He saw considerable service being in France nearly three years. Now assessor and collector of taxes at Stretham, he is extremely popular. 22 03 03(2)ES

Since the advent of Church Councils parishes have been overwhelmed by problems and found themselves in an orgy of financial difficulties. Organisations such as Sunday School, Church of England Temperance Society, Choir and Mother's Union, which had hitherto been managed by the incumbent, were matters upon which the Church Council should have definite interests and exercise control. Clergy should be willing to share responsibility in the work. The Council should ensure all Christians were on the electoral roll, take an interest in the betterment of conditions of those around them and influence public opinion. Every Church Council should have a Missionary Committee and provide money for missionary work through the parochial budget. The financial burden which had the two been borne by the incumbent and Churchwardens was now laid upon people who before had been ignorant as to how the money was raised. If the dignity of the councils were to be maintained, they should discuss something else besides finance. And a subcommittee should be set up to deal with it. 22 03 03(6)ES

1922 03 04

Det-Constable Abbott presented his report (to the Borough Licencing panel). He said the trade in beer of the Bird in Hand, Newmarket Road, was better than that of the Hare & Hounds which was 107 yards away. The next nearest house was the Crown in Wellington-street. Charles Byatt, the tenant, said he had held the licence for about 20 years. He was quite satisfied with the living he was making. Arthur E.W. Payne, secretary for Messrs Bailey & Tebbutt said the house had been doing four barrels a week. John W. Pate, architect and surveyor said he had produced plans to rebuild the premises as soon as the company took over the house in January 1919. The work had not been done owing to the difficulty in getting tenders from builders through lack of skilled labour and materials. Joshua Charles Newman, a builder, said the best part of the local skilled labour had been commandeered by the Government for housing schemes. # c.27.4

1922 03 04

On strolling along Kings-parade this morning we saw a crowd of undergraduates. Mingling therewith we became aware of the presence of a number of cyclists accoutred with hockey sticks. We divined then that a bicycle polo stunt was about to be "stunted". In short, it was a stupendous scheme schemed for the laudable purpose of brightening Cambridge. We waited a short time. Then cheers burst forth and the game (?) commenced. After wielding their weapons vigorously for about five minutes and hitting the "pill" (i.e. a spotless tennis ball), the players raised their battered and war-worn cycles aloft and to the accompaniment of cheers bore them tenderly to a place of safety. Motor 'buses, cycles and handcarts were enabled to get through the press by the help of the police. Ardour became somewhat damped until the ball was arrested by the police, when cheers once more broke forth, but the ball was remanded, and whence it flew we knew not. Thus ended the now customary end-of-term rag. Although not what it might have been it was amusing, which is one point in its favour # c.36.9

Royston Arms to be demolished for Friends Mill, p3
Labour compete in County Council elections, p6

1922 03 06

George Shipp, 20, Severn-place, labourer was summoned for taking possession of a stray dog and not returning it to the owner. Harry Sumner Denny, De Freville-avenue said that his wife's Pekingese dog strayed from his house and he notified the police. On Feb. 22nd, in consequence of information from the police, he saw the dog at Ram-yard and took possession of it. The dog was worth from £15 to £20. Robert James Odell, dealer, spoke to purchasing a dog from the defendant. Mrs Grace Bradshaw, Abbey-road, said that she purchased the dog from Odell for £1 and a horse bit. The Chief Constable said that this sort of thing was rather prevalent and he took a serious view of it. Defendant was fined 40/-

Election and Temperance – replies questions, p5

Colour photography by F.J. Stoakley, p6

Varsity man seels newspaper, p6

1922 03 07

An inquest was held by the Borough Coroner on a boy aged five, the son of a bricklayer, who had died from diphtheria. The parents had not called in a doctor until it was too late. The father said the boy had been ill for the last week or so, and had been away from school. "I belong to the Peculiar People and we believe in faith healing – the laying on of hands and anointing with oil". On March 4th the boy appeared to be worse and could not get his breath easily. He sent his wife for the Doctor at midnight and while she was gone the boy collapsed in his arms and could not draw his breath. The doctor said that if one went out to every child that was unwell one would be out half the night. Next morning the mother called and told him the child was dead. The child's brother had been swabbed at school as there were cases there. Unfortunately deceased was absent from school then. The Coroner said "When a case like this occurs it not only affects the parents and their children, but it may have a very serious effect upon the whole town"

Body in Hobson's stream, p3

Social cricket club formed, p3

Conservative candidate – Labour proper name Socialist, p6

Central Cinema packed, p6

1922 03 08

Labour campaign, need a lesson, p3

Ping pong match, p3

Housing question, Burrell's Walk, p6

Allotments & election, p6

1922 03 09

The most depressing feature of the County Council elections was the apathy of the electors. I ventured to prophesy there would not be many changes; actually there have been five. Of these Labour have gained four seats and thus make their first appearance on the County Authority. In each case their majority is well under 100, it is difficult therefore to draw any conclusion as to the strength of Labour in the county. Whilst I am not alarmed at Labour having a share in the representation on the County Council I regret the defeat of Mrs Dimsdale as it reduces the little band of women in the Council. Mr A.E. Stubbs, the Parliamentary candidate for the County has at last succeeded in setting his foot into local government work having turned the tables on Mr H. Edwards. After three defeats in Parliamentary, County Council and municipal elections he needed a little encouragement

Parliamentary selection, p3

Kill-joys attach hunting, p3*

1922 03 10

A suggestion made by the Postmaster of Ely (Mr T.W. Bird) to dispense with the evening mail deliveries on Saturdays in order to provide a half-day holiday for the postmen did not find favour with the Ely Urban District Council. Mr Bird wrote asking the Council's sanction to the suspension of the 5.15 pm delivery, and mentioned that it was being done in many towns. He added that the particular delivery was quite an unimportant one for the articles for delivery were few. Mr C.H. Trimmer considered it was the wrong delivery to take off, as there was no delivery on Sunday. Rev T.J. Kirkland thought the week-end posts were in a "dreadful" state now and deliveries were most uncertain. He thought they could hardly agree with the suggestion unless the Sunday morning be reinstated. The Council agreed.

Motor Boat club try ground, Clayhithe, p3

Duford airman thefts, p4

Eaden Lilley carpet beating advert, p5

E.S. Montagu resigns Secretary State for India, p6

Ely water scheme, p6

Garrett Hostel Lane cars, p6

1922 03 11

Brooklands Avenue Inquiry. It was an attempt to make a road from Hills-road to Trumpington-road. At present the greater part of the Avenue was open but it was in regard to the smaller part at the Trumpington-road end that the application was made. At the present time there was a gate fastened there and kept locked by the owner. He understood that people going to houses in the Avenue were allowed to go though and he could understand that the gentleman would like to keep it a quiet place. Personally he would oppose it if he lived there. # c.44.6

Barretts theft rat trps etc, p4

Montagu's defence, p5; summary of career, p6

Labour take first seats County Council, p6

Library for blind, p6

Newmarket Gas Co deficit due coal strike

1922 03 13

The County licencing meeting were told the White Horse Comberton was a fully-licenced house, the owners being the Star Brewery, Cambridge. The licensee had two children and also did other work as a canvasser for a window cleaning company. The annual rent was £5.00. The accommodation consisted of one tap-room - which was also used as a living room for the family, a parlour, a billiard room, a small bar, a cellar and four bedrooms. The landlord had suggested the house might conveniently be made into two cottages. There was no public lavatory accommodation. The trade of the White Horse for 1921 had been 46½ barrels and 37½ gallons of spirits. It was 106 paces from the Tailors Arms another fully-licenced and much better constructed house; there were at present three fully-licenced and one beer house in the village giving an average of 109 people to each licenced house.

1922 03 14

An election always holds out the promise of excitement and although Cambridge is noted for its excitable nature and the present three-cornered fight (a by-election) has given plenty of opportunities, it has been one of the quietest elections on records. Cambridge awoke to an eventful day and even the least political-minded had the election forced on their notice by placards and photographs of the candidates in windows, on hoardings and on walls. Conservative enthusiasts had whitewashed "Vote for Newton" in two-foot letters on the pavements and were not particular where they did it. Perhaps the most noticeable were across the front door of the Central Liberal Club in Downing-street and it was not until mid-day that the inmates managed to erase the conflicting advice. The children have at least entered into the spirit of the thing and the old election songs to the tune of "Tramp, tramp, tramp, the boys are marching" have been dragged from their respective retirement. The candidates' names being all of two syllables have proved adaptable to the rhyme. "Vote, vote, vote for Mr Morgan (or Mr Dalton) have satisfied the requirements of the song whilst the trouble of Sir Douglas' one-syllable title have been overcome by referring to him as "Duggie Newton"

Barratt trial, p2

Lady Liberals advice – would vote – first woman MP, p6

1922 03 15

Hands off education, p2

Stink bombs at Guildhall, p4

King Street murder man takes shop bankrupt, p5

1922 03 16

Polling day candidates tour, p3

Cost of unemployed, p4

1922 03 17

The results of the Cambridge by-election was declared as follows. Sir Douglas Newton (Conservative & Unionist) 10,897, Mr Hugh Dalton (Lab) 6,954, Mr Cope Morgan (Lib) 4,529. The first telegram of congratulation was received from the staff of the Croxton fruit farm

1922 03 17 c

The Labour party is naturally jubilant at having doubled its vote since the last election despite the fact that many who voted for the Rev. Rhondda Williams on that occasion returned to the Liberal fold. Labour meetings were marked by an enthusiasm that was very infectious. In no General Election could they hope to make such a display as they did on this occasion

1922 03 18

At the Cambridgeshire County Council annual meeting all the retiring aldermen were re-elected, save one, and that one was Sir George Fordham who for a great number of years was chairman of the Council. His increasing sympathy with the Labour party aroused the hostility of his old supporters and they resolved to show it when the re-election of aldermen came along

Murder – car advert, p1

County council need economy, p3

Stretham Curtis child killed by falling tree, p3

1922 03 20

A Babraham woman was summonsed that when driving a motor bicycle she did not stop when signalled to by a police constable. PC Ward said he was on Kings-parade, Cambridge, for the purpose of keeping the road clear when the Vice-Chancellor and other members of the University were crossing the road to St Mary's church. Defendant rode right through the procession and stopped on the other side. She said she could not see the procession and as she had only had the machine a few days she could not stop dead.

Boys Brigade death Titterington, p2

House sales, p3

Stretham Curtis inquest, p4

1922 03 21

Motor wheel spokes and pieces of lamp glass and rubber from an inner tube which was burst littered in profusion about the Lynn-road Ely as the result of a Ford car coming into collision with a steam lorry. The near side front wheel of the lorry crashed almost broad side on into the motor's off-side front wheel which it splintered beyond repair. So badly wrecked was the front of the car that it took mechanics about two hours to lift it sufficiently to get it away. The car is not insured.

Newmarket Electric Light Co, p3

1922 03 22

414 hired chaff bays, p3

Ely rural housing, p4

Newmarket UDC – Golding's bandstand, p4

1922 03 23

The Master of Christ's college, Cambridge, Sir Arthur Shipley contributes to the discussion on the problems of finding careers for boys leaving school. At the present time engineering is overcrowded and it is increasingly difficult to get boys into business. There is still a great demand for men to take holy orders and a young man could perhaps make the living pay. Tobacco planting in Nyasaland seems to offer some prospect of a fair return on capital investment.

Milk recording society, p3

1922 03 24

Orange peel on pavement, p1

Albert Chevalier at New Theatre, p4

Arrington rat catcher, p4

Beekeepers Association press for wax trophy, p4

1922 03 24 ES

Stretham 'killed in mother's arms, struck by falling tree' – Mrs Curtis, wife Frederick, bootmaker, picked up child and ran under falling tree which scalped boy; she seriously injured; she went to collect water from where the massive tree being felled Wilburton Rd; tree fell opposite way to expected – caught by wind. 22 03 24ES

1922 03 25

There was issued yesterday the report of the Royal Commission on Oxford and Cambridge Universities. "We are unanimous in thinking" (says the Commissioners) "that ample facilities should be offered for the education of women. On the other hand we strongly desire that Cambridge should remain mainly and predominantly a men's university. To give a sense of security we consider that the number of women undergraduates should be 500, which would give a proportion of about one in each ten of the total number of undergraduates" # c.36.9

1922 03 25

Startling evidence! Swift 12 h.p. 4-seater combination open touring & all weather car. Brief specification : 4-cylinder engine, thermo syphon cooling, four speeds and reverse, detachable steel wheels with spare, dynamo lighting complete with five lamps, self-starter. Fitted with a magnificent all weather body which can be opened or closed in a few seconds, the sidescreen can be utilised as back screen for passengers. £595. Sole district agents: Service Motor Co., Hobson Street, Cambridge (advert)

E.P. Frost will, p3

Summer Time again, p4

1922 03 27

The Borough Chief Constable's annual report of the Cambridge police establishment for 1921 has now been issued. The strength of the force during the last year was 84. The total number of indictable offences was 151. Ten persons were committed for trial. There are 40 members of the Special Constabulary full equipped with uniform, 90 to whom caps, badges, truncheons and whistles have been issued, and 80 to whom no equipment has been issued who have expressed their willingness to serve in an emergency. # c.34.7

1922 03 28

An interesting report was received showing the position of unemployment in the district. The main industries in the Cambridge area are agriculture, building, cement manufacture, fruit preserve manufacture, clothing, weaving and mat-making, printing, paper manufacturing and engineering. All these except the building trade have had quiet times during the past year and added their quota to the unemployed workpeople

Fowl stealing Stuntneyt, p3
Fulbourn visitors – slippers, p3
Colour film at Guildhall, p4

1922 03 29
Soham head salary, p4
Tadlow school close, p4

1922 03 30
Cheap mik, p3
Ely county war memorial objection, p3
County Boys School overcrowding, p4

1922 03 31
Motor car left 2½ hours, p3
Maypole advert, p4

1922 03 31 ES
Marital misery at Hillrow, Haddenham: George Wilkin's nagging wife. 22 03 31ES

April 1922 CDN & Ely Standard

1922 04 01
Aronowitx will, p2
Danger of fen floods, p3
Free Sutton-Earith road from tolls, p3

1922 04 03
County police pay, p3

1922 04 04
Boat race sequel, p3
Milton war memorial unveiled, p4

1922 04 06
Domestic training, p3
Trade Unionism lecture, p4

1922 04 07
A proposal of the Cambridge Sewage Disposal Committee to increase the wages of sewage farm workers was agreed to. Coun. Fryer proposed that the wages of the men be increased to 38s per week for a 48 hour week with present holidays, no harvest money, overtime 10d per hour with 1s an hour on Sundays. The men at present receive 34s a week. Coun. Briggs said it was distasteful to sit there and listen to higher paid men saying 38s a week was enough for a man with a wife and family. It was actually below the figure that the Parliament had decided was a necessary living wage for a man with a certain number of children. Could he live on 1s 1d per day per head?

Boys School overcrowding, p2
Soham mere river bank, p3

House building prices, p5

1922 04 08

The designs of Cambridge town council to provide work for the unemployed by the construction of a road between Cherry Hinton and Newmarket road which had the sanction of the authorities have so far failed owing to what on the face of it appears to be a squabble between the committees concerned and the owners of property affected. It is high time something was done as at the present rate of delay - two winters have passed and a commencement has not yet been made - the unemployment crisis will be over before a pick or shovel has been set going. Meanwhile approaching £200 a week of ratepayers money is being spent upon relieving destitution caused by lack of work in Cambridge - "Table Talk"

1922 04 08

I have never had any sympathy with the vicar of Thaxted in his determination to fly the revolutionary flags in his parish church, nor with the Cambridge undergraduates and others who conceived it their duty to pay frequent visits to the Essex village to tear them down. Says the Vicar of Thaxted : "The battle of the flags would be more diverting if the opposition would put up some kind of intellectual fight but it is hardly possible to answer such arguments as liar, lunatic, pig, blasphemer, devil, even if the gentlemen who used them would remember to give their address. The flags have always been replaced within 24 hours of every raid and are still prominent in Thaxted church

Air crash Ely, p3

Littleport shepherd's suicide, p3

Cherry Hinton roads, p6

1922 04 10

At the Old Bailey on Saturday Ernest Terah Hooley was found guilty of conspiracy and other charges in connection with the promotion of the Jubilee Cotton Mills Ltd. Passing sentence the Common Serjeant said that those who chose to dabble in company promotions must be taught that the only policy for the promotion of companies was to be honest and straightforward. The "Daily Telegraph" in a long leading article on "The Hooley Drama" describes his amazing career and recalls the time when his name was in everyone's mouth. "The man with the foxy face, who played the role of City supermagnate in loud country tweeds. He was High Sheriff of Cambridgeshire and according to his own account, he was ready to pay 50,000 for a baronetcy."

Ely air crash inquest, p4

Agricultural land problems, p6

1922 04 11

The Army hut which is to serve as a club house for members of the Newmarket branch of the British Legion was formally opened by Earl Cordovan. The entrance door opens on the canteen, a very important part of the economy of any club. On the left hand side of the bar are the reading and card rooms, comfortably furnished and warmed by stoves. On the right of the bar is the billiard room with one full-sized table, Mr J. Jarvis has given a silver cup to be played for by the members. The ground is the property of the Jockey Club who have kindly let it to the Legion at a peppercorn rent of £1 a year

1922 04 12

Magpie concert party, p3

1922 04 13

Mr William Chapman, late of the Swiss Laundry and secretary of the Free Church, Cherryhinton Road is touring in New Zealand. There is plenty of room in New Zealand for men & women who want to work and New Zealand wants them but has no use for undesirables, grumblers and the like. Wages are higher than at home, the cost of living is less and a man has more freedom: there are very few poor people. It is not his intention to persuade anybody who is in work but to help those who are unemployed by pointing out the chances of a decent living in New Zealand

1922 04 13

Good Friday was quite the warmest day we have enjoyed this year. The call of the road held the strongest appeal and there was a continuous procession of motors, motor cycles and push bikes going out of Cambridge and going in. Country workers came into town in a steady stream and town workers seemed equally eager to invade the countryside. In Cambridge Parker's Piece had its traditional skipping devotees, and the first ice cream barrow of the year was in attendance in company with sweet sellers and a barrow with balloons, ticklers and paper toys without which no public holiday would be complete

Water supply Dullingham area, p5

F.G. Stoakley on colour photography, p6

1922 04 14 ES

Aeroplane crash at Ely: Bristol fighter crashes Chettisham hill. 22 04 14&(2)ES #c.26.1 *

A Bristol fighter aeroplane crashed in a field at the top of Chettisham Hill. The fatality was witnessed by a few people working on the neighbouring land but the news quickly spread.

Eye witness J.W. Nunn was engaged in some sheds on the farm when he heard the machine and looking out saw it approaching in an easterly direction, about 60 or 70 feet high. He saw machine make a very sharp spiral term, nosedive and crash. He thought that the pilot was looking for a landing space.. The propeller and part of the engine lodged in the ground, the engine on the front of the machine were totally destroyed and beneath such a tangle of machinery and other material it was hardly expected that the unfortunate pilot could be extracted alive. Half an hour was occupied in liberating the pilot's body from the wrecked machine. 22 04 14&(2)ES

Dredger sinks at March, driver trapped. 22 04 14(3)ES *

A dredger belonging to the Middle Level Commissioners sank in five feet of water opposite the Commissioners' stores at March and the assistant driver was injured. It is conjectured that the strut beneath the dredger gave way, thus allowing the whole superstructure to collapse. The dredger had just completed work on various portions of the Nene, and was stationed near the store for the purpose of dismantling and overhauling certain of the machinery. At the time, the huge machine went down only the assistant driver Mr. Arthur Hailstone of March was on board and he was flung into the water when the apparatus listed over. Several pieces of iron used for balancing the jib on the dredger toppled into the water and pinned him beneath. Hearing the crash the foreman Mr. Henry Watson and other workmen at once made efforts to release the unfortunate man but it was three quarters of an hour before he could be rescued, during which time only his head was above the water. 22 04 14ES

1922 04 15

The wartime procedure of dispensing with the chaperon is no longer tolerated in "polite society". For the chaperon times have altered considerably in the past eight years and at balls instead of sitting in state up a dais, bored to extinction, she takes her place among the dancers and combines with her duties as guardian pleasurable exercise. Owing to heavy taxation and general increased expenditure many women bearing titles and possessed of ancestral homes are glad to become professional chaperons

1922 04 15

A well-known jeweller who has a shop not a hundred miles from the Post Office (Cambridge) recently had the misfortune to lose a black cat. The family searched high and low at night for the missing pet, and inquiries were made at the Police Station but without avail. Next morning, when the jeweller went to unlock the safe, out jumped pussy, apparently none the worse for her fourteen hours incarceration in the small, and certainly airtight, chest

Rail trade unions, p2

Palmer, Wilburton bakehouse fire, p6

1922 04 18

Following the example of last year the weather smiled on Good Friday, and wept spasmodically for the rest of the holiday. On Saturday holiday-makers were treated to a gale and on Sunday and Monday to typical April weather. There was rain, hail, sleet, wind, sunshine and more rain; the only thing that was lacking was fog. It was essentially an indoor holiday and there was hardly enough indoor amusements to go around. A few hardy souls worked on their allotments, but when a man is an enthusiastic allotmenteer, nothing short of an earthquake will stop him from digging

1922 04 19

Deafness visit Mr Chambers, p2

Ebenezer Smith / Spurgeon, p3

Comberton village play, p3

1922 04 20

The Whippet meeting arranged by the Cambridge Whippet Racing Club was held in the club's straight running ground, Arbury Road, Cambridge, when a good crowd of spectators witnessed some very decent running. The weather conditions were far from ideal for dog racing, and undoubtedly were responsible for some indifferent running

Thaxted church flags, p3

1922 04 21

Mayor Clayton death, p3

Pub closing hours and prices, p5

Indian undergraduate funeral, p5

Impressive scenes were witnessed at the funeral of an Indian undergraduate. The funeral was carried out according to the Mohammedan ritual, and the interment was at St Giles' cemetery, Huntingdon Road, Cambridge. The coffin was conveyed in a hearse and was followed on foot by over 50 Indian undergraduates. Arrived at the cemetery the coffin was placed on the lawn at the entrance. Then several of the mourners, removing their shoes, conducted a short form of service, after which the coffin and mourners were photographed by an Indian student. The body was carried to the graveside and lowered by a party of the mourners. Nobody who was not directly concerned with the ceremony was allowed within 25 yards of the grave

1922 04 21 ES

Death Tansley Luddington, agriculturalist, formerly Plantation House, Littleport. 22 04 21ES

Wilburton fire, two houses destroyed & shop J. Playle, baker. 22 04 21(2)ES

A disastrous fire in which two houses were destroyed, occurred Wilburton and owing to the high gale, the Ely Fire Brigade could do little beyond preventing the conflagrations reading. The fire was first discovered in the front room of a thatched cottage occupied by an elderly lady named Miss E. Wright and spread so rapidly that before any assistance could be secured the adjoining premises used as a shop by Mr. J. Playle, baker, were soon well alight. Hoses were connected to the pond in Car Pond Lane, 250 yards from the blazing premises. Although difficulty was experienced at first in getting plenty of water on account of the mud, the engine was soon in full action and it was entirely due to their energy the bake-house at the rear of Mr Playle's shop was saved. There was only a short distance between the burning houses and other property and eventually the roof collapsed and only the outer walls remained. The thatch naturally burned furiously. Little furniture was saved from either house and it was only possible to remove a table, mangle, a chest of drawers and one or two chairs. 22 04 21(2)ES

1922 04 22

Every year sees an increase in the number of people killed and injured on the roads, and the proposed abolition of the speed limit for private cars will not lessen the dangers of the highways. Although the speed limit of 20 miles an hour is habitually disregarded, it has some effect as a check on reckless driving, which will disappear when the evidence of the stopwatch can be ignored. It is the hired driver who has to suffer the penalties, but not infrequently the real offender is the owner of the car sitting inside. The majority of road motor accidents are due to excessive speed and it will be purely a matter of opinion what is excessive speed - Table Talk

Sweet cart raid, p3

Council houses, Haddenham water unfit, p5

Spurgeon reminiscences, p6

1922 04 24

We regret to announce that Lord Leopold Mountbatten, first cousin of the King, died at Kensington Palace on Sunday morning. Lord Leopold's schooldays at Wellington College were frequently interrupted by ill health, and his undergraduate career at Magdalene College, Cambridge, was marred by one severe illness. His sister, who had only then (1909) recently gone to Spain as a bride, hurried home to be beside him. An amusing story is told of one of her visits to him at Cambridge. He was seeing her off from the railway station, when an undergraduate from another college went up to him and said, "Jolly nice-looking girl that of yours; who is she?" "Oh, no one in particular", the Prince replied; "only my sister, the Queen of Spain"

Mons hero suicide, p3

Late Constance Jones, Girton, p3

1922 04 25

Mrs Moyes, Lamb Hotel, death, p3

1922 04 26

The Cambridge Union Society debated the motion that Cambridge life is superficial and its traditions are to be deplored. Mr L.P. Bonnett (St Catharine's) denounced the air of compulsory boredom which characterised the average undergraduate. He thought it was quite time someone made a protest about the system of social intercourse, the whole round of social activity was so circumscribed by tradition it was possible to talk to a man for hours without really saying anything. He deplored the attitude of superior aloofness so prevalent in Cambridge and the conviction that it was not good form to be enthusiastic about anything.

Prickwillow houses, p3

Poultry club formed, p4

Work for unemployed, p5

1922 04 27

A service of commemoration for the members of the college who fell in the war was held in the Chapel of Jesus College. Immediately after the service the memorial tablet was dedicated by the Lord Bishop of Ely. After a short service, the Master, amid a silence so intense that it could almost be felt, read the names inscribed on the memorial. It was an impressive scene - the clergy and choir in their surplices, row after row of gowned undergraduates, many of whom had also served, and a sprinkling of visitors from the outside world, all paying silent tribute to the 148 names read by the Master # c.62

1922 04 28

Chesterton Rural District Council considered the state of the Cherryinton-Teversham-road. Mr Francis urged the need for improvement to the road, pointing out that the work would absorb the unemployed, and that the improvement was needed by the Teversham people. The improvement was opposed on the ground that the road was but a by-road and that it would cost about £2,500 which could be used to better advantage on the main roads

Ouse drainage board, Sutton road tolls, dangerous banks, p5

Cambridge Town FC ground, p5

1922 04 29

At the Grand Council of the Red Cross Society and St John Ambulance Association Mrs Hartree raised the question of the police ambulance, and said she understood that the police ambulance was to be kept in the town, and that the Red Cross Ambulance should be used for long distances. However it was seen that the Police ambulance had gone on long distances - Ipswich and Norwich. Mrs Pryor said she knew the ambulance had been used extensively at the Evelyn Nursing Home. The Chief Constable said that the objection to the Red Cross Ambulance was that it was not heated, but they had very quietly informed him that it was heated and the ambulance had been much improved lately

1922 04 29

The new ground of the Cambridge Town Football Club, situate to the north of the junction of Milton-road and Victoria-road was formally opened by the Mayor of Cambridge on Saturday, after which the Town played their Southern Amateur League return fixture with Merton, and started their record on the new ground with a satisfactory victory by three goals to none. The Mayor said that just after the war he was approached to act as trustee of a fund for purchasing a ground for the Town F.C. Without a suitable ground it was impossible to carry on for any length of time. He hoped the club would be successful, because it owed the bank something like £1,100 - but he was told a man thinking of big things was not a successful man of business unless he owed a considerable sum to the bank # c.38 : football

May 1922 CDN & Ely Standard

1922 05 01

The question of rear lights for bicycles came up for discussion at the meeting of the Cambs. County Council. Councillor A.R. Fordham thought rear lights were exceedingly troublesome and difficult things, for it was not possible to see if they were alight or not. Councillor Mapey: I would like to suggest that lamps be affixed to some part of the anatomy of horses and cattle, and that people should be forbidden to ride at all. (Laughter)

Cambridge Town Football club new ground, p4
County council expenditure, p3

1922 05 02

County council – car for chairman, county schools crowding, p2
George Fordham resignation letter

1922 05 04

Betting raid, p3

1922 05 05

Fully described as "Ely's Own Memorial to Her Own Fallen Heroes" - the shrine containing the Rolls of Honour of 224 men of the Ely Urban District who paid the great price in the war – was unveiled on Sunday afternoon in the presence of an attendance numbering several thousands. By a happy choice the shrine is located on the Market-hill, in the heart of the city, and on the spot made sacred by its association with a temporary wooden shrine, which was placed there during the war

Papworth agm, p5

Romsey bowling green opened, p5

Fred Morley death, p5

1922 05 05 ES

Sutton: sale Chequers inn, p2, sold 22 05 19 p12

Abbey rooms Kinema, Ramsey: sale cinema equipment, p2

Ely: war memorial unveiled – photo 22 05 05&(2)ES

Prickwillow: servant claims wages from Robert Cole - ES 1922 05 05 p8

1922 05 06

My readers will learn with great regret that Brooklands Avenue (Cambridge) with its countless romantic associations appears to be fore-doomed to destruction. The beautiful trees which provide the leafy tunnel which for generations has been so much admired are elms, and elms have an unpleasant habit of dismembering themselves with age. A good many of the trees must come down at once, as they are in such a decayed state to be liable to split and fall without warning. # c.18

1922 05 06

The Cambridge Library Committee has resolved to convert the Free Library into an open access library, which will enable borrowers to go straight to the shelves and select books for themselves. It is a somewhat heroic experiment, as the library premises are old-fashioned, confined and ill-lighted. A thousand persons a day rummaging at will over the shelves in the limited space available is a serious proposition and considerable expenses will be involved in the rearrangement of shelves and bookcases # c.77.4

1922 05 06

The local Labour and Co-operative Parties were well represented on Parker's Piece on Saturday when a May Day Demonstration was held. The proceedings commenced with a procession which marched in the following order: Railway Silver Band, officers of the party, banner of the A.S.L.E. and F., Co-operative banner and party, smaller unions and women's sections, Cherryhinton band, builders' banner and banner of the N.U.R.

Brooklands Avenue trees

1922 05 08

May Day rally, p5

1922 05 09

Labour club, p3

1922 05 10

T.A. Reavell, the manager of the Cambridge Labour Exchange is leaving. The Deputy Divisional Controller from the Ministry explained that in the interests of economy two of the large divisional offices had been closed and posts had to be found for the officials. Mr Almond felt it was but a sample of the high-handed and autocratic system which prevailed in which Ministers were now permitted to over-ride and interpret Acts of Parliament according to their own idea. This was seconded by Mr Shadbolt on behalf of the workers panel and echoed by the Master of Downing, chairman of the Local Employment Committee

1922 05 11

County war memorial unveiling, p5

Ely Militia barracks sale, p6

St Ives dead in fields, p6

1922 05 12

"To the glory of God, and in thankful memory of the men of --- who gave their lives in the Great War". How often have these sad dedicatory words been spoken during the past year or two as each local memorial was unveiled? But never have they been uttered with such deep impressiveness and in an air so charged with beautiful meaning as when they were spoken by the Bishop of Ely in Ely Cathedral this afternoon. For the veneration bestowed on each individual memorial was collected and concentrated on the beautiful memorials which have been erected in the Cathedral to the memory of the 5,320 men who made the supreme sacrifice in defence of their country's honour

Thursday football league, p6

1922 05 12 ES

Arthur Pledger, drapery, purchased and will continue as Arthur Pledger's Successprs. 22 05 12ES
Prickwillow hospital parade ES 1922 May 12 p4

Ely Needham's teacher retires – H.D. Boyden 22 05 12(3)ES

Mr. H. S. Boyden bade farewell to Ely Needham's Boys' School on his 65th birthday. For practically 40 years he has discharged the duty of Headmaster in a manner as to being distinction upon himself and Needham's. He was appointed headmaster in September 1882, when was purely an elementary school, but under his regime it has attained a unique status. The lower division is still Elementary, but in the upper divisions the Higher Grade Syllabus is carried out. During his period of headship, no fewer than 1,000 boys have passed through the school. 22 05 12(3)ES

Ely cathedral war memorial unveiled- photo 22 05 12&(2)ES

Ely was the scene of a remarkable demonstration of honour and of homage to the memory of the men of Cambridgeshire and the Isle of Ely who died in the War. The occasion was the unveiling and dedication of the County and Cambridgeshire Regiment Memorials, which had been placed within the walls of the Cathedral, and the vast concourse of official representatives, private individuals and the bereaved assembled for the solemn ceremony. Nearly 2,000 people journey to the city by rail. The ceremony had a three-fold purpose embracing the unveiling and dedication of the Memorial Chapel to the men who gave their lives in the war, the unveiling and dedication of the Stained Glass Window placed in the chapel by members of the Cambridgeshire Regiment and the depositing of the colour of the 11th Cambridgeshire Battalion of the Suffolk Regiment for preservation in the Cathedral. 22 05 12ES

Ely Holy Trinity war memorial unveiled ES 1922 May 12 p10

Ald Charles Bidwell retires as chairman of Isle CC ES 1922 May 12 p11

Prickwillow: football club meeting

1922 05 13

Cambridge ruri-deaconal conference's housing committee was of the opinion that there still existed in Cambridge many slums which were a disgrace to a Christian community. The dirty and lazy habits of some of the people rendered nugatory any attempts to improve the conditions in which they lived. As long as such miserable housing conditions existed they had no right to be surprised that the habits of the people who lived in them were often unsatisfactory

1922 05 13 c

It would have occasioned very little surprise if, after the by-election it had been announced that Mr Hugh Dalton was not to stand again for Cambridge because it was felt that the Labour headquarters appreciated the work he had done here and would be likely to find him a constituency where there were greater prospects of Labour success than Cambridge offers. But his withdrawal from the field so soon after his acceptance of an invitation to contest the seat again has come as something of a bombshell to the rank and file of the Party.

Ely war memorial, p6

Royal Show ups council rents, p6

1922 05 15

Sir. Cambridge is a University town, supposed to respect and consider its inhabitants. My husband served with his Majesty's Forces abroad for four years. He has been unemployed nearly two years and willing for any kind of work. His labour dole now being finished, and I myself not being able to work to keep our home going, he was forced to apply to the Guardians for relief and was told this morning that relief could not be granted but that he could have a ticket to go into the Workhouse. Is this the reward our men receive for all they have done? - letter from An Ex-Serviceman's Wife

Holy Trinity war memorial, p3
Bicycle accident, p5
Saffron Walden trains, p5

1922 05 16
Whist drive, p4
Borough Librarian, p6

1922 05 17
Cambridge Amateur Swimming Club held their annual meeting at the Alexandra Hall. The past year had been a difficult one, and in many ways disappointing. Owing to the state of the river they were obliged to cancel the annual regatta and almost entirely abandon the fixtures arranged for the season. Five polo matches had been played of which one had been won and four lost

Cole Ambrose will, p5
Cycle thefts, p6

1922 05 18
Ex-soldier bankruptcy, p3
Littleport school extension, p3
Slaughterhouses, p5
Police wages, p5

1922 05 19
At the Cambridge Housing Committee meeting Mrs Rackham said that there were 430 marriages in the borough during the year, and only 72 new houses were built. They were also told that there would have been more marriages had it not been for the housing difficulty. In 116 homes in which babies were born there was overcrowding to the extent, in some cases, of six or seven persons per bedroom. Before the war they used to talk of legal overcrowding as two persons in a room. Then there was some hope of getting the matter put right, but now there was none. # c.23

Non-repair engine, p3
Mill Road new road, p5

1922 05 19 ES
The fens in older times. 22 05 19ES

Barge owner sued for non-payment wages. 22 05 19(2)ES
John Catling of Whittlesey sued Peterborough Haulage Company for a bonus for loading 567 ton of goods. He was engaged at the rate of 46 shillings per week and was to have a bonus of 6d per ton on all goods which were loaded in the barges and put into trucks at Littleport station. He loaded something like 72 trucks of sugar beet, wheat and hay and the goods were carried on barges to the station. When he went to the office to get settled up, they told him they had not got the weight squared up. When first engaged nothing was said then about bonuses. Christopher Bingham and William Bingham, barge men from Stanground corroborated as to the bonus.
The boss of the firm said that the man was not an experience bargeman and he had complaints about him doing the work properly. In his visits to Littleport they saw he was slacking off. Other gangs complained that he was hanging back, the delay caused a lot of congestion and extra time. The man never asked for a bonus until they heard the Bingham's were getting one. He did not consider he were entitled to the bonus but he could not get bargeman to replace them. 22 05 19 ES

Chatteris lady brings day-old chicks from Holland by air 22 05 19(3)ES
Mrs. J. M Walker, wife of Lieut-Colonel Walker of the Ferry Poultry Farm, Chatteris, is importing a new breed of fowl to England and in making the journey to Holland by air on Friday to obtain a huge consignment of chicks she achieved the honour of being the first person to make the return flight in a day.

The breed first imported by Mrs Walker in 1921 is known as the Barnevelder and its chief commercial character is the large eggs laid. Mrs Walker decided to visit Holland and discover for herself the true merits of the breed. She made her first tour of the district in January and made arrangements for the purchase of thousands of day-old chicks. She returned in March and bought over 1,500 day old chicks which were dispatched immediately to Scotland and Wales and around the country. The weather was unfortunately very severe and she suffered a loss of 20%. However, she returned in April and bought a similar consignment.

People clamoured for them and she made another trip, this time by air and achieved the distinction of being the only person to accomplish the return journey in a day. Even the pilot of the machine was changed in Holland. Before leaving Croydon, airdrome this enterprising poultry fancier was assailed by press photographers. On the return a rough landing was effected and the cords that held the crates were broken. But although they fell out not one of the chicks was injured.

Although the journey by air makes the enterprise somewhat costly, she is endeavouring by reasonable charges to put a breed within the reach of the 'backyarder' who is the backbone of the poultry industry. 22 05 19ES

The bathing season has now commenced at Soham Swimming Club. A great improvement has been effected at the bath, which after being pumped dry is now cleared of mud and the present depths of water will be found to great benefit to experience bathers whose swimming feats have been somewhat limited owing to the great accumulation of mud during recent years. New boards have been added to the sides of the bath and a walk provided around the edges. In view of the expense the club are anxious for a record season 22 05 19ES

Ely cinema manager, Electric, hurt ES 1922 May 19 p6

Drainage of fens - letter from Ed Day, Prickwillow ES 1922 May 19 p7

Prickwillow v Soham Grammar school cricket ES 1922 May 19 p11

Prickwillow: hospital parade ES 1922 May 19 p12

1922 05 20

Half a century ago Cambridge was notorious for its trading exclusiveness and backwardness. It was self-centred, localised, jealous of intruders and generally stuck-in-the mud. A vastly different state of affairs exists today. Local firms have developed or are springing up who are not satisfied with the seasonal trade and limited scope which Cambridge has to offer, but are seeking extensions of their business to wider fields and successfully competing in the open market with others. Generally there is a greater spirit of enterprise than was exhibited even 25 years ago. This, no doubt, has been due in part to the introduction of multiple shops, and the lessons that have been impaired by their very up-to-date proprietors # c.27.2

Housing famine, p5

Arts & Crafts exhibition, p5

1922 05 20 c

For three months of the year Cambridge is almost a deserted city and trade dwindles to a mere trickle; yet this town might, with a little effort on the part of the municipality and business people be made a most attractive holiday centre. Where can there be found another town only just over fifty miles from London and with four trunk railway companies serving it, which has such splendid openings for the provision of sites for the factories of industrial enterprises? We are still unenterprising here, and it is surely time we got a move on. The University can look after itself - "Table Talk"

1922 05 20

Original "rags" in Cambridge are becoming few and far between, but there was something absolutely new this morning, when undergraduates treated their fellow-members of the University, and townspeople also to that rare spectacle - a film in the making - when there took place the filming of episode one of "The Supper Man". Shortly before noon we beheld a crowd seething round a lorry bearing camera men and some bright spirits with megaphones. These bright spirits made a loud noise with the aid of the megaphone whereat the villain, one Silas Windle, the most villainous villain that ever "villainised" appeared mounted on a handsome gee-gee # c.65.6

1922 05 22

A story of a courageous old lady of 88 who declared she "was not a bit afraid" when she routed two burglars was told at the Cambs Divisional Court. Miss Larkin of Milton said that last Saturday evening she put her gloves, handkerchief and one penny on the chest of drawers in readiness for church on the following morning. She was awakened by a noise which she at first thought was a train shunting. After a time she saw two men come in through the bedroom door carrying the lamp from her big room in their hand. Witness jumped out of bed, lit her candle and said "What do you want". They had handkerchiefs over their faces which she pulled down.

Cherry Hinton choir, p8

1922 05 23

Burwell orchards, p3

Hotel charges, p4

MoH report, p5

Swavesey thunderstorm, p5

1922 05 24

Care of blind, p3

Empire Day, p5

1922 05 25

A heavy thunderstorm, which missed Cambridge, passed over the country districts accompanied by hail of enormous size. At Cottenham the deluge was most intense for about ten minutes. The hail stones measured 1 ½ (one-and -half) to 1 ¾ (one and three quarter) inches and some which were picked up were, it is said, as large as hen's eggs. Many panes of glass were broken in the greenhouses at Mr Gautrey's nurseries. Severe damage was done to the strawberry and plum crops. Other villages including Dry Drayton were deluged with torrential rain and hail of unusual size. At Caldecote and Hardwick windows were broken and the hailstones are reported to have been the size of walnuts

1922 05 26

The report went on to state that a shortage of water was experienced at Harston and Great Wilbraham; the supply was depleted by the pumping at the Cambridge Water Company's new works and by the drought. The latter difficulty had now been overcome by the Company fixing four standpipes in the village. Most of the wells at Little Wilbraham failed during the drought. Considerable discussion arose as to the condition of the polluted brook at Histon. It was stated that the people of Histon were living in a "stink pot"

Tarring roads, Fen Ditton

1922 05 26 ES

Nene navigation stopped for six months last year – 22 05 26ES

Stretham hospital parade & address. 22 05 26(2)ES

Sunday postal collections revived, Stretham 5.5 ES 1922 May 26 p5

1922 05 27

Rowdy conduct at promenade concerts on Christ's Pieces, Cambridge, is very seriously regarded by members of the Corporation and if things do not take a better turn the question whether it is worth going on with them will be considered. The remedy lies with parents who surely can see to it that whilst their children enjoy themselves, as is right and proper for children to do, they do not make themselves a nuisance. The need of public discipline is becoming more and more apparent and rowdyism must be checked.

1922 05 27

Among the charitable institutions of Cambridge is the Cottage Home for Little Orphan Girls in Fitzwilliam Road. Its work has been carried on so quietly and unassumingly that the majority of townspeople are probably unaware of its existence. More than fifty years ago two wealthy Cambridge undergraduates were so distressed at the sight of many poor and neglected children in the town that they gave a certain sum of money for the founding of a home for orphan girls. Girls are admitted between the ages of four and twelve and are trained for domestic service and I am assured that those who have passed through the Home had done exceedingly well. # c.32.9

1922 05 29

Gypsy Smith, p8

1922 05 30

The Cambridge Salvation Army Citadel, Tenison-road, was well filled with visitors and friends when a presentation of new silver-plated instruments took place under the chairmanship of Gypsy Smith. The first instruments to be presented were three cornets, the next consisted of two flugel horns and a euphonium. Mr M. Stuart recalled what the old General had said to him about Salvation Army bands: "It is better for a man to beat a drum than to beat his wife". It was better for a man to blow a flugel horn than to blow his brains out, which was what some poor fellows in the depth were tempted to do

Recreation grounds, p4

1922 05 31

Low Temperature Research Station, p3

Witcham parish council irregularities, p5

Threshing proprietor fined, p5*

June 1922 CDN & Ely Standard

1922 06 01

Battleships or light craft, p5

Novel smoking concert, p5

1922 06 02

Through the generosity of a comparative stranger in their midst, the people of Coton have at last had a long-felt want satisfied. A year ago Mr & Mrs Albert Peake took up their residence at St Catharine's Hall Farm, and clamant need for a recreation ground for the parish was so forcibly borne in upon them that they recently decided to present a splendid 10-acre field near the centre of the village for the purpose.

Flannel dance, p5

1922 06 02 ES

New Middle Level bridge at Aqueduct, Outwell formally opened. 22 06 02&(2)ES # c.44.75

The reconstructed bridge crossing the Middle Level at the Aqueduct, Outwell was formally opened. The new work brings the bridge into line with modern requirements and was necessitated by the old structure showing signs of giving way. The new bridge embraces concrete and reinforced brick work with strong girders. It is two feet wider than the original bridge and the level of the road on the bridge is reduced approximately two feet. The work has been carried out by direct labour utilising as far as possible, local unemployed men, many of whom were ex-servicemen. The original bridge was less than 80 year old but traffic was now one of the serious questions of the day and it was not capable of bearing the weight. With enormous charabancs and lorries travelling about something had to be done. There were only two things: either the vehicles must be smaller and narrower or the roads had to be wider and stronger. 22 06 02ES

Eroder dredger trial, River Wissey. 22 06 02(3)ES

The Ouse Drainage Board was struck with the good work of the Eroder dredger which had commenced work on the river Wissey They thought a larger dredger of the same type would clear the mud away in the main river. They recommended the Engineer should obtain an estimate for a larger machine.

For the first time they saw their way to clearing the mud out of the main river below Denver at a cost they would be able to bear. Eroder dredges were no new thing. Mr. Wheeler made a number of experiments in this direction. During the last 33 years the river below Denver had improved itself to the extent of 30%. The explanation being that the highland flood water coming down in the winter had washed away the sand and mud to that extent. If they could make the tide all the year round carry out more silt than it brought up they would accomplish that object. It was simply a question of how much mud the tide could be made to take back on the ebb. Mr. Wheeler's experiments showed the amount of silt could be increased to eight times the amount that the tide brought up.

The ideal state of the river was when the tide would take out as much as it brought up. It was the state of the river which raised the tide which caused the tide to leave more than it took out. It would depend on whether there was a free flow whether the Eroder did its work.

But Mr. Heathcoat did not think the silt couldn't be cleared from the tidal river until the mouth of the river was put in a proper state. He did not see how the silt could get out into deep water until then. It was a very strong argument for putting the mouth of the river in proper order. 22 06 02ES

Cass & Co motor bus "Etheldreda" travelled 40,000 miles last summer ES 1922 Jun 2 p4

Outwell new Middle Level bridge opened (photo p10) ES 1922 Jun 2 p6

Wicken: inquiry into parish council election ES 1922 Jun 2 p9

Prickwillow: Methodist chapel anniversary ES 1922 Jun 2 p10

1922 06 03

Roof escapades by undergraduates have been numerous of late and the missing prehistoric fish weather vane on the Geological Museum dome is the outcome of one of those. Another high altitude "rag" took place recently when handkerchiefs and clothing were tied to one of the towers of King's Chapel. A story has been told that a proposal of marriage was made and accepted on a college roof during a nocturnal excursion in which undergraduate students of the fair sex took part. Can it be that this story was circulated to try and throw the blame on the ladies for removing the prehistoric fish?

Whitsun attraction. P5

Police pay, p5

MacFisheries ice factory fire, p5

1922 06 06

Circus enthusiasts who were disappointed by the non-arrival of Sylvester's Circus will find ample solace for their disappointment should they visit the Great Empire Circus this week. To describe the numerous items provided by accomplished tricksters (both animals and humans) would be well-nigh impossible. Gollywogs, tricksters, whose amazingly clever feats on cycles deservedly gain much applause. The climax of all the excitement is reached when Miss Eleonora accomplishes her daring tightrope feat entitled "The Slide for Life". Throughout the whole entertainment the audience experiences scarcely a dull moment, for which the humorous antics of several weirdly-attired clowns is largely responsible. It should be well patronised because the staff is composed entirely of ex-Service men

1922 06 06

In the death of Mr Ernest Edward Hayward Cambridge has lost a much respected townsman. He was one of the first to start cinemas in the town, and used to arrange for displays at garden parties and gave performances in the Corn Exchange and Guildhall. The "Arcadia" on St Andrew's-hill was managed by him and he was famed for the excellent variety entertainment given there. Indeed, deceased was responsible for the commencement of high-class variety shows in the town. He was an amateur actor of repute and for many years played the humorous lead in Bijou Amateur D.C. productions. He belonged to the Cambridge Pierrot Troupe, a concert party which existed from 1897 to 1901 solely for charitable purposes # c.76.9

War memorial sites, p5

1922 06 07

The monthly meeting of the Newmarket Rural District received a petition from Robert Leonard and 22 others living at The Cotes, Soham, asking the Council to extend the water main an additional three-quarters of a mile. In view of the great shortage of pure water in the locality of Soham and the comparatively close formation of the cottages with their 121 inhabitants, their application was one not only of necessity, but reasonable

Waterbeach sports, p2

Dole fraud, p4

Mill Road Cemetery condition, p5

1922 06 08

First day of Mays, p3

Cookery rag, p5

1922 06 09

At a special service held in Witcham Parish Church the Bishop of Ely dedicated a handsome brass memorial tablet, upon which was inscribed the names of the fifteen men of Witcham who gave their lives in the Great War. The Bishop asked that the memories of those who had fallen should always be revered, and that their sacrifices should not be in vain. It was our duty to keep the villages pure, sober, and Christian, and so be worthy of the lives which had been given.

1922 06 09 ES

Witcham war memorial unveiled. 22 06 09ES

Witcham who gave their lives in the war, have been reverently commemorated. For the unveiling ceremony, the church was filled to the door, every step being occupied and the Bishop of Ely delivered an inspiring address. He recalled the sacrifice each of the heroes had made and asked that the memories of those who had fallen should always be revered and that their sacrifices should not be in vain. It was our duty to keep the villages pure, sober, and Christian, and so be worthy of the lives which had been given. 22 06 09ES

Ely spent an enjoyable Whitsuntide. There was a tempting programme of cheap tickets and excursions held out by the Railway Company and their new competitors on the open road were by no means behind hand. Charabanc received a fair quota of human freight bent upon a brief respite from the busy round of everyday life, seeking relaxation and renewed energy amid fresh scenes and pastures new. Many wandered among the pleasant walks in the environment of Ely, the river and country lanes provided enjoyment without the fatigue of a railway or charabanc journey and picnic parties were among the common scenes of a delightful holiday. 22 06 09ES

The serious epidemic last year when scarlet fever engulfed the district brought the need for increasing the accommodation for infectious diseases. By the purchase of an army hut the Joint Isolation Hospital has been extended, bedding accommodation trebled and Ely is now better protected in the case of any future outbreak. During the last epidemic, when the hospital was overtaxed, many people were isolated in their own homes. The Hospital has proved its worth and its efficiency will be maintained. 22 06 09ES

Ely postmaster retires, reminisces ES 1922 Jun 9 p5
Prickwillow: assault ES 1922 Jun 9 p10
Prickwillow: Methodist chapel anniversary ES 1922 Jun 9 p10
Prickwillow: cricket ES 1922 Jun 9 p10

1922 06 10

The silver cup offered to the person who could make the best attempt to ride Mr F. Astley's donkey at the Great Empire Circus was duly won on Friday evening and proudly carried away by the gallant "rough-rider" who was master of the animal for a brief - very brief - period. The efforts of the competitors and the manner of their descent to earth kept the audience convulsed with laughter. A gentleman in a blazer and white flannels, who hugged a bottle lovingly to his bosom, first politely raised his hat to the animal, and then generously offered it a drink from the bottle.

Houghton mill for sale, p4
Drought menace, p5
Cambridge war memorial arrangements, p5

1922 06 12

The last days of the Mays (rowing races) drew the largest attendance that has been seen at these races since the war. The weather was warm and there was a wonderful display of summer frocks, flannels and blazers. The towing path and the enclosures were full of brightly-hued humanity, while the sky was full of balloons of all colours, some captive and many escaped. The racing was as exciting as could be desired but Plough Reach had rather more than their fair share of bumps. After the races the procession of craft down the river provided another "turn" for the tow-path spectators. As usual the motor launches did all the work, and the Viscountess Bury had a long string of hangers-on

1922 06 13

"May week" has reached its second phase and the gaiety of the "Boats" has given places to a wonderful round of college balls and concerts. The May Week Ball of the First and Third Trinity Boat Clubs was probably one of the largest affairs of the kind that has ever been held in Cambridge. Hitherto, owing to a lack of accommodation the numbers attending has had to be restricted to about 650. Mr D.G. Marshall of Jesus Lane, however, found a way out of the difficulty with a somewhat novel scheme. A marquee 100 feet by 40 feet was erected on Market Hill facing the Guildhall and therein supper was laid. A delightfully cool effect was obtained by leaving open a part of the side of the tent nearest the fountain and having the fountain lit up with coloured electric lights in the background. Provision was made for some 1,100 guests and supper was served in three relays of 375 each, a special staff of chefs from the House of Commons was specially engaged for the occasion # c.36.97

Haddenham foal show, p3
Suicide of old soldier, p5
Motorbike fish-tail silencer, p6

1922 06 14

The "pros and cons" of a proposed joint water scheme were reviewed at a public inquiry convened by the Ministry of Health held at Ely. Mr H.J. Martin explained that for the most part the inhabitants of Littleport drank water from the River Ouse. Mr A.K. Campbell put in an analyst's report to the effect that water from the Ouse taken four miles south of Littleport was polluted with sewage and was unfit for drinking purposes. Mr T. Peake: "I would like to remind you that Ely City empties its sewage into the waters which Littleport has to drink; also that last year the rivers were absolutely unfit for drinking purposes - they were stagnant and putrid". A feature of the enquiry was the stout opposition put up by the parishes of Haddenham, Wilburton, Stretham and Little Downham. A solitary supporter from Stretham explained that he did not attend a public meeting there - which was unanimous against the scheme - because had he done so he would probably have been "crucified"

1922 06 15

Messrs W. Heffer and Sons have become well known for the excellence of anything exhibited at their Sidney Street galleries. Well above the standard of the rest of their exhibits is some of the truly wonderful work of a Scottish artist, Mr William Watt Milne, who has a studio in St Ives. The six pictures which are exhibited have been painted in the neighbourhood of Houghton. "Flood at Houghton" is the title of a pretty little piece of work depicting the picturesque village street on a grey day with the threatening sky reflected in a pool of water in the foreground. One of the best pictures is that called "The Old Inn at Houghton", a superb piece of work

Swaffham Prior business bankrupt, p5

Haddenham Hospital Sunday, p6

1922 06 16

A labourer of 1, Derby-road, Cambridge, was summonsed for not having control over a horse attached to a cart in Petty Cury. P.C. Keeble said that the horse was left unattended for 20 minutes. The horse was later found at the end of Guildhall-street having apparently wandered there on its own. It was apparently making its way to the police court (Laughter). Defendant said he had been driving the animal for a number of years and had not had any trouble with it. He was fined 5s.

Ely Friendly Society fined, p5

1922 06 16 ES

Ely rural water supply public inquiry, Stretham & others object ... Holland Porter, representing Stretham opposed scheme as it unnecessary. The natural supply was good & ample but the present method of obtaining distribution might be improved. Mr Savidge of Stretham who was deaf & unable to hear any of the evidence caused great amusement in his vigorous condemnation of the existing water supply and declared he was willing to pay anything to secure improved conditions. Half the population in the lower end of the village used one source of supply, and it was subject to contamination from the roads. Mr Savidge, who said he was a baker, urged that whenever it rained the water supply was muddy ... "I cannot drink it nor can I get other people to eat it". "I dare not go to the parish meeting for fear they crucified me, because everybody was against it. Everybody in Stretham would like good water but they don't want to pay for it" 22 06 16&(2)(3)ES

The Ely branch of Perseverance Lodge of the Cambridgeshire Order of United Brethren were prosecuted under the Friendly Societies Act. All Managers pleaded not guilty and said they knew nothing of the offence. One had been serving in France with the army and was elected without his consent. In another case, the wrong Christian name was entered in the minute book, and he was not a member of the committee. According to the Act, the Society should every five years have its assets and liabilities valued and sent to the Registrar. The last valuation was made in 1915 but no attempt had been made to comply with the Act. The Society had been going down-hill for a long time, and was getting into a very bad way. It had been registered in 1869 and the bank balance had been reduced from over £800 to £485. The Committee had shown extreme laxity and not met since 1919. None of the members seem to give a coherent account of the Society's position and were not fit to be on the committee. The case was one of gross carelessness. The Secretary was incapable of the duties and they should appoint a secretary capable of the work. Defendants were fined 19/- 22 06 16ES

Sir, The danger to the fens is the threat of a disastrous flood there are only two alternatives. One is the extension of the training walls and the deepening the outfall. The other is a Stoney sluice at or near King's Lynn. The cost of an extension to the training walls is incalculable. No one can know how much material it might be necessary to dump into the sea before you seek good stability. The probable result would be an increase scour at King's Lynn, a higher high tide, a lower low tide, and the tide would slowly make itself felt further and further up the rivers. But these effects only aggravate the danger in flood time because the danger is at its highest at the top of the spring tide by its heading back the flood waters which is always pushing into the sea. And if it cannot get down, it must overflow the banks. The only alternative is a large sluice with Stoney doors at or near King's Lynn to create a vast artificial reservoir that could be emptied every 12 hours at a time of flood. Some would build up the banks, but there are hundreds of miles of them and it is taken hundreds of years to make them. It is useless packing on the top. It is essential to support by adding to the back of the bank. This would mean millions of ton to transport and many years to accomplish, and then be useless without a good outfall. But if you bank up at the mouth of the river and stop the tide by your sluice, your present banks would be ample. A Winship, Cambridge. 22 06 16ES

Prickwillow v Lakenheath cricket ES 1922 Jun 16 p11
Prickwillow: Baptist chapel Sunday school ES 1922 Jun 16 p12
Prickwillow: Methodist chapel anniversary ES 1922 Jun 16 p12

1922 06 17

A number of young men were summoned for committing damage to a calico advertisement sheet at Milton by throwing stones. Mr Jacobs had a field in Milton fen in which were two scaffolding poles with the sheet attached to them. The canvas hoarding had been absolutely destroyed. The sheet was four yards by one yard. This was not the first time this sort of thing had occurred; these men came to the Fen and thought they could do as they liked. The hoarding bore the words "The Motor Park"

1922 06 17

We are often led to believe that manners are changing for the worse. It is refreshing there to read another point of view. Mr Ladbroke Black says: "Twenty-five years ago the manners of an undergraduate were stiff and starchy. To have uttered a good-humoured apology would have been a derogation of undergraduate dignity. Owing to the inexperience of my cox, aged nine, I collided with several boats on the "Backs" last week, and even carried away on the blade of my oar the Japanese parasol with which an undergraduate in a Canadian canoe was shading himself. In every case I was met with a cheering. 'My fault, I expect, sir!' and a laughing word of encouragement to my cox"

No more war, p5
Rotary formed some time ago, p6
New names Cambridgeshire villages. P6

1922 06 20

The annual church parade organised by the Soham Fire Brigade and Friendly Societies, in aid of Addenbrooke's Hospital, was held on Sunday, and once more upheld its reputation as being one of the leading functions of its kind in the county. Large crowds attended the proceedings, and graced by favourable weather, the event was a great success. The decorated car, proverbial to Hospital Sundays, brought up the rear of the procession and depicted a hospital ward. During the last year 11,000 patients had been treated at Addenbrooke's, 170 of which come from Soham, whose contribution during that period amounted to about 8d per head of the population

Cambridge boy composer, p8

1922 06 21

New telephone kiosk, p5
Downham old soldier suicide, p5
Baronet engagement when undergraduate, p5
Chesterton Hall estate, p5

1922 06 22

Midsummer Fair was proclaimed this morning by the Mayor (Councillor G.P. Hawkins) when crowds of people attended to witness the time-honoured ceremony. The old cry of "Biggest fair I've seen for years" suggests that the Fair is still growing. Thurston's roundabout are again present and number about six in all. They include their famous golden dragons, gondolas and motor scenic railways. Three circuses and numerous "laugh and grow fat" shows make up a good square mile of pleasure ground. There are the usual crockery and sweet stalls, rock kings, cheap jacks, fortune tellers and the like in unusual profusion. An objectionable feature this year is a diabolical engine that emits a banshee-like wail at frequent intervals. It ought to be smothered.

1922 06 22

The report of Chesterton R.D.C. Housing Committee showed numerous applications had been received for a reduction in rent of the Council houses. After discussion it was decided that the rent should be £20 per annum where the total income was 50 shillings a week or over, and £17 per annum when the income was less. The Architect reported that the final accounts for the erection of 36 houses in Comberton, Haslingfield, Horningsea, Lt Shelford and Willingham had been sanctioned by the Ministry

1922 06 22

A party of about sixty fruitgrowers and farmers had a very enjoyable and instructive outing to Croxton Park. Arriving at the fruit farm, the first thing that the growers remarked "What a crop of Monarch plums". It was evident that every variety had a very heavy-crop, even such as Lane's Prince Albert apple and Emneth Early apple, whilst the gage crop hang like grapes on the branches. About 100 acres are under fruit cultivation.

1922 06 23

At the meeting of the Rural District Council the Sanitary Committee reported that remedies were being applied to the Histon Brook, and meanwhile no more effluent was being discharged into the brook. Mr Chivers was doing everything in his power to see that the nuisance was being dealt with. Application had been received from Grantchester for a parish dump. Mr Francis remarked that all parishes should be asked to do the same sort of thing. There was so much tinned food consumed now, and the tins could not be destroyed in any way, so parishes should find some suitable dump for them.

Council but Callaby's, p3

Glebe Estate improvements, p4

1922 06 23 ES

Stretham garden fete in vicarage grounds

A garden fete was held in the grounds of Stretham Vicarage. Not for many years has a function been held for church purposes in the village and it was small wonder that the assembly were eager to give their support. Almost annually for many years Stretham parish has contributed through garden fetes to the needs of various notable objects and the enthusiasm was increased when efforts were towards their own Parish Church. The beautiful church organ has been repaired at great cost. In the evening an enjoyable concert including an exhibition of dancing and a baby show for babies under the age of 12 months created a good deal of interest. The Haddenham Band was in attendance. 23 06 23ES

New land workers union 22 06 23(2)(3)ES

The formation of a new union of land workers based upon the principle of political cooperation by the sectional interests within the industry, as opposed to alliance with the Labour Party is an event of no little importance in agriculture. The movement will undoubtedly attract a great deal of tension in both political and industrial circles. There is great consensus of opinion amongst all classes connected with the land in favour of political cooperation within the industry, which has culminated in the proposal to form a National Agricultural party. It has been warmly supported by organisations of farmers and landowners.

But the Agricultural Workers Union has made no response. It is reported to have declared that it 'would not associate itself in any way with the proposed agrarian party composed of landowners, landlords, farmers and labourers'.

The employees representatives on the Isle of Ely Conciliation Committee have shown themselves keenly disposed to the formation of a common policy within the industry. They have decided to name it the National Union of Land Workers with its headquarters at Huntingdon. It will not be affiliated to the Trade Union Congress or the National Labour Party. In the past, agriculture has been neglected by the old political parties because they always look to the urban voter for their main support and support the production of cheap food for the town dwellers at the expense of the agricultural industry. There will always be a division between the town worker and the rural worker on account of one requiring cheap food and if this is carried into effect the agricultural labour is bound to suffer 22 06 23

Soham Hospital Sunday was again characterised by spectacular brilliance and unanimity of purpose. Large crowds of townsfolk and visitors witnessed the procession and the Church was full. Forming up at Town's End, the procession marched via Hall Street to the Parish Church. It included a contingent of 150 members of the British Legion, the Fire Brigades of Soham, Mildenhall, West Row and Fordham, various Friendly Societies, Soham Slate Club, Soham Comrades Band and Isleham Coronation Band. At the closure by the War Memorial the massed bands paid the Last Post and after the placing of the wreaths the 'Reveille' was sounded. Over £130 was raised by collectors. 22 06 23

A crowd of over 3,000 spectators attended the 21st annual athletic sports and gala promoted by the Soham Fire Brigade and Friendly Societies held in the Place grounds. Both cycle and flat races were competed for by leading athletes in the district. The sports are looked on as the greatest occasion in Soham Feast and the large crowds watched the cycle events. 22 06 23

Soham war memorial unveiled – photo. 22 06 23(4)(5)ES
Wentworth school to be closed ES 1922 Jun 23 p3
Prickwillow: Baptist chapel anniversary ES 1922 Jun 23 p10

Mr H.S. Boyden, who recently retired from the Headmastership of Ely Needham's School and at the same time relinquished his appointment at the King's School with which he had been associated for 20 years, as Art Master was honoured by the King's School Scouts at a gathering held in Ely Porta. The proceedings took the form of an entertainment and presentation to Mr. Boyden of a gold Swastika the badge of an honorary Scout. 22 06 23

1922 06 26
Littleton House School, p3
Fruit growers visit Croxton Park, p6

1922 06 27
The Chief Scout, Lieut.-General Sir R.S.S. Baden-Powell is on a visit to Cambridge and yesterday witnessed a Scout rally by the Cambridge & District Boys Scouts in Queens' College Grove. On entering the Grove the Chief was surrounded by Scouts, who had been in ambush. They cried his Zulu name as they gathered around him and then sang him a chorus of welcome called "Ingonyama". Translated the words sung mean "He is a lion. He is a lion. He is greater than a lion. He is an hippopotamus" # c.37.9

1922 06 27
"Sir. At one time I was a fairly constant user of the Free Library, but of late my visits are not so frequent for the sole reason that one cannot sit down and read with ease and comfort. As I enter the Library I am watched. I am stared at practically the whole time I am there, and when I leave the eyes of some official stare at me until I am off the premises" - A Friend of the Library

Girl conference, p5
Coveney war memorial unveiled, p6

1922 06 28

"Sir. I am in the Free Library practically every week day during the year, but I have never seen any member of the staff either "killing time" or "staring round private corners". They always appear to me to be well occupied; but however busy they are they are always most obliging and go to a very great deal of trouble to find out information if any is required". – Another Reader.

1922 06 28 c

The great week to which we have all looked forward so eagerly and for which such extensive preparations have been made, will shortly be upon us. The Royal Show promises to be one of outstanding importance. This will be the third visit of the Show to Cambridge. It is probably true to say that in no other country in the world is there to be found a show of anything like the same magnitude as that which will be seen on the Trumpington-road ground.

1922 06 30 ES

Coveney war memorial lych-gate unveiled. 22 06 30ES

A beautiful old English oak lych gate was unveiled and dedicated as Coveney's war memorial, an excellent tribute to the 14 heroes of the parish. The little old-world Church was taxed to overflowing and the service will live long in the memory of those who attended.

July 1922 CDN & Ely Standard

1922 07 01

No one will be surprised at the chorus of indignation called forth by the appeal of a shopkeeper for the waiving of the Thursday half-holiday during Show week. The Royal Show is a great education and it is most natural that shop assistants should want to see it themselves and to prevent those who want to go by demanding their services during the customary half-holiday would be to show a lack of consideration of which I do not think many employers would be guilty – Table Talk # c.27.9

Ouse drainage protest taxes, p3

Beautifying Cambridge

Medals bellringers, p6

1922 07 03

A glance at the huge entries in all sections of the Royal Show will give one some idea of the heavy burden imposed on the Railway Company, and the colossal task of arranging for the distribution of traffic. The G.E.R. has built unloading docks situated at the Trumpington signal-box on the Long-road, Cambridge, where there is also another entrance to the Show ground. The work of unloading machinery and materials has been in progress since May 25th and considerably more than 2,000 tons will have been handled before the closing date for delivery. The intensive period will be when the livestock are received. About sixty special trains have been booked to arrive commencing at 3.40am on Saturday morning. # c.26.2

Girl Guide rally, p5

1922 07 04

His Royal Highness the Duke of York unveiled the War memorial which has been erected in Cambridge. The ceremony was attended by thousands of people and was of a deeply impressive nature. It was raining heavily as the Prince mounted the platform for the unveiling ceremony. The band played the opening bar of the hymn "O God, our help in ages past" to the accompaniment of rain drumming on hundreds of umbrellas. A few minutes later the rain ceased and the rest of the ceremony was carried through amid brilliant sunshine. The Prince pulled a rope which released the drapery revealing the bronze figure of an infantryman. # c.62 # c.45.5

1922 07 05

King & Harper advert,

Royal Show opens – big motor invasion

Stretham labourer dead, p10

1922 07 06

Before a large assembly at the Senate House his Royal Highness, the Duke of York, K.G. had the degree of Doctor of Law conferred on him by the Chancellor of the University, the Earl of Balfour. When the Duke of York was conducted by the Esquire Bedell to his position before the Chancellor, a storm of applause broke from the audience, which, led from the gallery, soon developed into a cheer. The Orator said; "Our Duke lives - as we read every day in the Press - a life of toil and thought for his people. We hope that in Cambridge, at least, he feels free from toil and anxiety and is here with pleasure and freedom of mind" # c.02

1922 07 06

The great agricultural city on the Trumpington-road (the Royal Show) is in full blast today - in more senses than one. A stiff south-westerly gale had been sweeping over the show ground for the greater part of last night and it continued with unabated strength during the day. The tents and shedding for the most part withstood the gale remarkably well but a dozen of the larger structure were blown down wholly or in part and the Mayor's tent was levelled to the ground. In the latter a man was sleeping but escaped unhurt, although the circumstances gave rise to an erroneous rumour that a man had been killed

Leys school memorial, p7

1922 07 07 ES

Stretham war memorial churchyard unveiled 07 07&(2)(3)(4)ES

Simple in design but none the less imposing a Celtic cross in Ketton stone erected in the churchyard at Stretham overlooking the main road through the village was formally unveiled and dedicated on Sunday afternoon to perpetuate the memory of the 24 heroes of the village who gave their life during the War. There was a large and representative concourse of villagers assembled to pay homage to our honoured dead. A grey clouded sky deepened the impressiveness of the scene but as the service proceeded to bright sun occasionally broke through as if to cheer the saddened hearts of those who mourned. The Memorial was erected at a cost of £100 and the fund was patronised by no fewer than 200 subscribers. The service was conducted by the Rev Stitt and the singing was accompanied by the Ely City Military Band. Colonel Stratton said those in Stretham knew better than he how bitterly the blow was felt as one by one the men had passed on. They had gone in order that Stretham might hold her head high with her neighbours. Stretham has done her share in the great fight. England is a fair land worth dying for but it is far more worth living for. The melancholy notes of the Last Post rang forth and when the echo had died away Bishop Price formally dedicated the Memorial. The Rev J. Parnell, Baptist minister at Stretham described the memorial as the People's Memorial. Prayers were offered by Mr A. Acred, Methodist lay preacher and the National Anthem brought the proceedings to a close 22 07 07&(2)(3)(4)ES

Prickwillow: servant sues Robert Cole ES 1922 Jul 7 p4

Stretham meeting re union of land workers ES 1922 Jul 7 p12

1922 07 08

Anyone who has taken any note of the motor traffic in and out of Cambridge during Royal Show week cannot fail to have been impressed with its volume, and the great number of people who have been conveyed to and from the show by this means. Nothing that has hitherto occurred at Cambridge has served to show so clearly what a factor the motor vehicle has become in the life of the nation. Many visitors who a few years ago would have stayed in the town and come and gone without spending a penny outside the show ground

1922 07 10

On the petition by the parishioners of Thaxted for a faculty directing the removal of "certain Sinn Fein and 'Red' flags from his church" the Rev Canon Noel, Vicar of Thaxted, Essex, appeared before the Chancellor of the Diocese of Chelmsford on Saturday. Captain John Oliver Barbrook described the various occasions on which the flags were torn down. On one occasion a number of persons invaded the church with ladders and endeavoured to pull down the flag. There was a struggle in which the vicar took part. Eventually an invader removed the Red Flag which he put in his pocket. The vicar grabbed at his pocket but got the wrong one and pulled out a Union Jack. The invader then said to the police - "I give this man (indicating the vicar) in charge for picking my pocket". The Chancellor found that petitions had made good their claims for the removal of the flags.

Royal show loss, p6

1922 07 11

The model of the soldier on the Cambridge War Memorial which, owing to an unavoidable delay, had to be used for the unveiling ceremony last week, has to-day been replaced by the actual bronze, so that the figure now in position is as it will be seen for all time. The bronze was brought from the foundry at Thames Ditton by motor lorry at four o'clock this morning. Mr Kett and ten men were in waiting and so expeditiously was the work carried out that by 8 o'clock the model figure had been taken down and the other set up and fixed in its proper position. A couple of hours later the scaffolding was removed # c.62 # c.45.5

1922 07 12

The monthly meeting of the Newmarket Urban Council was held in the new Council Chamber at Godolphin House. The Chairman said the rooms were more convenient and healthier for the Council and their staff than the old Town Hall where the staff were labouring under great difficulties. Council might expect that under better conditions they would get more work from the staff.

1922 07 14

Perse school scouts, p5

1922 07 14 ES

Haddenham pageant. 22 07 14ES

An event of unique interest and of considerable local importance took place in the Vicarage meadow at Haddenham in the form of a pageant entitled "Ye Olde Towne of Hadnam". As may be judged it was an attempt - and one which was eminently successful - to portray the history attaching to that village. That it aroused much interest in the district may be gathered from the fact that well over 100 people were present. A large contingent journeying from Ely, while all the villages around contributed their quota and so helped to make the pageant exceed the highest anticipations of the promoters. 22 07 14

Mepal new schoolroom stone laying, memorial T. Hiam. 22 07 14(2)ES

A new school for the teaching of children connected with the Union Chapel is being erected at Mepal. It will be known as the 'Hiam Memorial Schoolroom'. The building will embrace a classroom and a kitchen and is being built to correspond with the chapel with which it will be connected. Tuesday was one of the most important days and saw an impressive ceremony in the laying of numerous stones and bricks by those interested. The Member of Parliament, Captain Coote, laid the first stone. The ceremony was preceded by an alfresco tea in the handsome garden of Wisteria house and well over 100 sat down to the daintily-arranged and flower-bedecked tables. 22 07 14ES

The Ely and District Fruit Growers Association was defunct and there had been several inquiries from Haddenham and Wilburton about joining the West Cambridgeshire Fruit Growers Association. The Association would be able to get increased prices of fruit for jam. In case of gluts the growers had to do what other people wanted, by belonging to an organisation they were able to protect their interests and obtain reductions in transport rates. But few attended a meeting and no definite action was taken. However it was decided that a branch be formed as soon as possible 22 07 14ES

Turf fen - influx of van dwellers ES 1922 Jul 14 p5
Prickwillow v Burnt Fen cricket & v Littleport ES 1922 Jul 14 p9
Prickwillow: scholarships ES 1922 Jul 14 p10
Prickwillow: seaside trip ES 1922 Jul 14 p10

Turf fen - influx of van dwellers ES 1922 Jul 14 p5

1922 07 15

Something more than a talking-to ought to be administered to the boys who have committed so much wilful damage to the remains of the Barnwell Military Hospital adjoining the Newmarket-road just beyond the Cambridge Borough boundary. For some reason the boiler house and one complete section of the wooden hutments have been left, apparently totally uncared for, and are rapidly going to wreck and ruin. The site of the hospital, overgrown with weeds and littered with debris, forms a happy hunting ground for children who are able to get through the gap where the gates used to be. The bolder and most mischievous of the boys have found the remaining buildings a tempting target for stones, and scarcely a pane of glass remains undamaged # c.21.4 # c.45.5

1922 07 15

An event of unique interest and of considerable local importance took place in the Vicarage meadow at Haddenham in the form of a pageant entitled "Ye Olde Towne of Hadnam". As may be judged it was an attempt - and one which was eminently successful - to portray the history attaching to that village. That it aroused much interest in the district may be gathered from the fact that well over 100 people were present. A large contingent journeying from Ely, while all the villages around contributed their quota and so helped to make the pageant exceed the highest anticipations of the promoters

Stretham Wesley church fete, p3
West Cambridgeshire fruit growers, p3
Duxford airfield fire, p5

1922 07 17

Question of taste - war memorial, p5

1922 07 18

Romsey football club, p6

1922 07 19

What will undoubtedly be enthusiastically welcomed by swimmers and bathers in the immediate vicinity is the new bathing pool on Coldham's Common, Cambridge. The pool is divided into two sections, the smaller being for the use of young children, and the larger for boys, youths and men. The pools have been built into a running stream of water from the Nine Wells, and in consequence fresh filtered water is always entering the pools whilst that which has been used is being discharged at the other end # c.38 : swimming # c.32.3

Lt Downham foal show, p3
Rules of the road, p5

1922 07 20

A meeting was held in the Great Wilbraham Schoolroom with reference to a proposal to join the parish churches of Great and Little Wilbraham under one benefice. The Rev H.H. Appleford, vicar of Great Wilbraham objected to the union. It would prevent men taking orders and it was a failure at Brinkley. No man, however strong or young, could work practically three parishes as Six-Mile-Bottom was almost as good as a separate parish. At present it was two miles from its parish church. But if it was joined to Westley it would be over three by road and over two by short cuts over the fields. He had measured the distance on his motor cycle, and the way to Westley was more uphill

No more war demonstration & letter, p5

1922 07 21

Cottenham show, p5

1922 07 21 ES

Wentworth School Managers protested at proposals to close the school on the grounds of economy and efficiency. They were not responsible for high salaries and the Education Committee were going to penalise parents and scholars as if they were guilty of it. Four new houses would probably be ready soon and they would probably be occupied by parents with large families. Wentworth school have never been declared inefficient and had gained the attendance shield in 1906, 1909, 1916, 1917 and 1921. Whoever was responsible for stating the distance to Witchford School had made a mistake and the Managers defied any Councillor to walk from the end of the village to Witchford School in less than half an hour. The road to Witchford was a first-class government road and there was much motor traffic which would make it dangerous for little children to go unattended. Witchford School was closed frequently for illness where has Wentworth School had only been closed twice since 1912 for minor ailments. They strongly protested against the closing of the school. A letter was received from the rector of Wentworth and a memorial signed by 20 inhabitants also protested against closing. But the Chairman said he did not think there was anything they could do. They had passed the resolution and it had gone to the Board. 22 07 21&(2)(3)ES

Littleport war memorial panels, organ case, dedicated. 22 07 21(4)ES

Railway assessment problems. 22 07 21(5)(6)ES

Stretham:

Stretham: funeral Mrs Swan

Stretham: funeral Mrs Swan; since death husband about 10 years ago had carried business grocer & draper and until recently Postmistress ... well-known & respected

The funeral took place at Stretham of Mrs. Swan. Since the death of her husband 10 years ago, she had carried on the business of grocer and draper, and was until recently postmistress of the village. 22 07 21ES

Ely militia barracks for sale ES 1922 Jul 21 p6

Prickwillow: bazaar for church restorations ES 1922 Jul 21 p7

The fabric of the church and schools both at Prickwillow and Burnt Fen has gone from bad to worse and it is imperative that something should be done to repair the buildings. Suggestions have been made that the schools be handed over to the council. But the vicar thinks otherwise and funds have been found to repair both schools. At Burnt Fen a bazaar realised £110 but every penny will be required to place the Mission Church in reasonably good repair. The mother church of St. Peter's, although structurally good, requires a lot of attention. It was the only church in England that was built on piles and during a service a large piece of plaster dropped from the roof. This is becoming quite a common occurrence. Rev Kingdon said he had often felt frightened when in church wondering whether the roof would fall. Mrs. Pratt said her father and mother, Mr. And Mrs. Hanslip Long were the only people married in the old Church, which was being pulled down on the day of their wedding. She was the first to be christened in the present church and was married there. 22 07 21 ES

Wimblington School was in a dilapidated condition. On the south side there was serious settlement in the more modern parts of the building, which should be carefully watched. Part of the wall bulged out and would certainly not last very long. The tiled roof on the north side was in an especially bad condition and portions were constantly continually falling in the playground. The leakage in the roof was not serious at present but would probably become so. The sanitary offices that the children had to use were a disgrace and the floor of the cloakroom was unstable. To put the premises in an ordinary state of affairs would entail considerable outlay and it seemed a pity to spend money on the present school when a new one was required. Plans had been prepared just before the war but were not approved as the war broke out. 22 07 21ES

The Isle of Ely County Education Authority agreed, at the Managers' request, to not more than seven specified days any year being entered upon the timetable of a voluntary school as days upon which the school will begin at 9:45am instead of 9:00am in order to allow of the attendance at church on those days of children who parents do not object. Managers of Whittlesey elementary schools decided to divide the summer holidays in two parts, three weeks for the corn harvest, then a break with the subsequent three weeks for the potato harvest. This was a pity as the intervening period between the holidays would be wasted. In the fruit growing districts holidays were divided but there was a considerable period between the two holidays. In the case of Whittlesey there would only be a short interval, a fortnight at least, and the children would not attend regularly during that period. It was a retrograde step. But there was a bye-law which stated that the duration of holidays should be left to the Managers. They were told that the Committee do not approve of the splitting of the summer holidays 22 07 21ES

The managers of Wentworth School wrote to the Education Committee, about a decision to close the school in the autumn on grounds of economy and efficiency. Four new houses would shortly be ready and would probably be occupied by their parents with large families. The school had never been declared inefficient and it gained the attendance shield in 1908, 1909, 1916, 1917 and 1921. Whoever stated the distance to Witchford School had made a mistake and they defied any member of the Committee to walk from the end of the village to Witchford School in less than half an hour. The road was a first-class Government road and there was much motor traffic, which would make it dangerous for little children to go unattended. Witchford School was closed frequently for illness whereas Wentworth school had only been closed twice since 1912 for minor ailments. Another letter was received from the Rector of Wentworth with a memorial signed by 20 inhabitants protesting against the action in closing the school. The Chairman said he did not think there was anything they could do. They had passed the resolution and it had gone to the Board. 22 07 21ES

A heavy downpour of rain married Little Downham Horticultural and Foal Show. The majority of the entries in the horse section belonged to local exhibitors and there was a noticeable advance both numerically and with regard to quantity. The foal section has been running for 16 years. Officials can reflect with satisfaction upon the show of 1922. Six of the nine classes were well filled and competition was keen throughout. As usual foals took the pride of place in the show ring but the double heavy horse turnout also produced some very fine animals. 22 07 21ES

The Bishop of Ely dedicated the new memorial panels in the front of the organ case at Littleport church, containing the names of the men who found in the Great War. Each panel contains 42 names written in gold on a white oak ground. The whole a humble tribute to the gallant dead. This was not the official memorial but it was right that the names should find a place in the Christian sanctuary. During the war they had prayed earnestly in the hours of their danger and perplexities. But as time went on, it was noticed the tide of intercession seem to slacken and since the war there had been a relapse of ideals. A service such as the present one was an opportunity to retain really learn some of the lessons the war taught. There was Ireland, an island of chaos, misery and bloodshed which needed peace, and then the awful curse of the drink traffic amongst the child races of the world. A banner representing St George and the Dragon given by Dr Hendley in memory of his son and worked by Mrs. Hendley in rich silk on a deep blue ground was also dedicated. Church chimes formed part of the town's Memorial and the latest addition to the beauty of the church has been much admired. Although of a personal nature, the two memorials are tributes for which the whole parish is deeply grateful. There can be no more suitable place for the record of Littleport's war heroes, than the sanctity of the parish church and it can never be said that Littleport fail to recognise the sacrifice of 122 gallant sons. 22 07 21ES

The Garden fete was held at Soham for funds for the reconstruction of the heating apparatus in the parish church. A number of competitions met with good results. Feet judging caused much amusement. The six ladies entered a tent and displayed their feet under the canvas and each competitor had to determine their respective owners. An exhibition of old folk dances took place by the scholars of the Girl's Church of England School. 22 07 21ES

Wicken parish council irregularities fail ES 1922 Jul 21 p7

Prickwillow: Methodist chapel seaside trip ES 1922 Jul 21 p12

1922 07 22

The report of the Highways Committee of Chesterton Rural District Council was presented by Mr Rowley who said the steam roller had been in their possession for 21 years. It required considerable repairs. Messrs Aveling and Porter had been consulted and had reported that it would cost £500 to repair the old roller. A new roller would cost £811 and the old roller would sell for £200

1922 07 22

The prospect of a serious deficiency at the Botanic Garden is almost a certainty; it is expected to be about £1,362. A suggestion has been made that the public should be charged a small fee for admission, but there is a natural objection to adopting this course, the garden having been open so long and so extensively used by the public. A suggested alternative is that the garden should close at 5.30. A further proposal is that the principal greenhouses should be closed and their contents sold. Something will have to be done. The Garden practically ranks as a public park. We are in danger of losing that park # c.18

1922 07 22

The marvels of Papworth Tuberculosis Colony have recently been further added to by the completion of a nurses' home, two new hostels and new cottages. This great achievement, being one more great stride along the path of progress travelled so rapidly by that remarkable village settlement for the consumptive, was fittingly celebrated when the new buildings were formally opened by Sir Alfred Mond, the Minister of Health. The hostels are admirably equipped in every respect and will bring joy to the hearts of the single men whose happy lot it will be to lodge in them. The cottages are for married men who wish to bring their wives and families to live with them

War memorial face, p6

1922 07 24

Printing trade crisis, p5

Saturday deluge, p5

1922 07 25

The principal new roads proposed as part of the Cambridge town planning scheme include a main road starting from Red Cross, on Hills Road, going approximately north to Newmarket Road at the corner of Fen Ditton-lane, divided into sections. Number 3 runs in a straight line as far as the old Newmarket railway line and then slightly curves into Mill-Road. There are two branches which both lead towards the station. It will be necessary to form a subway under the railway or bridge the line, unless this line, which at present is only used for storage of railway carriages, is done away with altogether # c.49.62

No more war day, p4

Cambridge market – not better covered, p5 (& 26th p6)

1922 07 27

A pleasing ceremony took place at the meeting of the Cambridge Town Council when Col. C.T. Heycock, on behalf of the past officers of the headquarters of the Cambridgeshire Regiment, presented to the town a copy of the book which rests in Ely Cathedral, containing the names of the men of Cambs and the Isle of Ely who lost their lives in the war. The Mayor, in accepting the book said he was sure they would all feel it was their duty and privilege to take care of that handsome volume, and place it in the Public Library, so that all who cared could look through it and see the names of those gallant men who fell in the defence of their country # c.62 # c.45.5

1922 07 27

The preliminary proposals for developing the town planning area on the east side of Cambridge were presented to the Town Council. The Borough Surveyor said the showing of roads on the plan did not bind the Corporation to construct any of them. It simply meant that that was to be the line of the roads eventually, and nothing must be done to prevent roads being made there. So although 21 roads were shown, it did not bind the Corporation to make a single one unless they thought fit. The scheme could only be made for parts not built upon at present - Romsey Town and the Rock Estate did not come into the scheme # c.49.4

1922 07 27

I don't think there will be any doubt about the keenness of the children of Cambridge in the League of Nations after the way in which they turned out to the Rally on Wednesday evening in spite of the most unfortunate weather. At one time it looked as if it might be necessary to abandon altogether the procession of decorated vehicles but the youngsters were so disappointed that the teachers resolved to "carry on". From various incidents it was clear that the school children were determined to come, even if their teachers were unable to bring them. Children from schools not taking part begged teachers from schools elsewhere to let them join in their group.

Cambridge Town football club, p6
House famine, p6

1922 07 28

The new scheme for Borough housing was referred to at the Cambridge council meeting. Save that the scheme is to provide for the erection of 500 houses and that the cost may be £200,000, we know very little. It was originally proposed that a meeting should be held next Thursday but it seems more than likely we shall have to wait until the end of the year before the matter comes up in Council. And then, I suppose, there will be further delays before building can be started. While we do not want to see things rushed through with undue haste I am inclined to agree with the Mayor that "acceleration of building" is hardly a correct description of the sub-committee's activities – Table Talk

1922 07 28 ES

Coldham church restoration, 22 07 28ES

Coldham Parish Church has for a long time past been falling into a dilapidated condition and the spacious grounds of Coldham Hall were thrown open for a fete to raise money for its restoration. With a profusion of flags and bunting, the afternoon produced an exceedingly picturesque scene. A paddock behind the pretty lawn at the rear of the Hall presented the scene of a miniature fair ground with its cocoanut shy, Aunt Sally, hoop-la and various other stalls. Teas were served during the afternoon and in the evening the function was improved by the attendance of the March G.E.R. Silver Prize Band. The fete was opened by Miss Wells, of Shrublands, March who remembered coming to the opening of Coldham Church and being jealous because the pews were oak. 22 07 28ES

Ely new swimming pool scheme ES 1922 Jul 28 p4

Prickwillow: cricket abandoned ES 1922 Jul 28 p12

Prickwillow: tennis ES 1922 Jul 28 p12

1922 07 29

Doping horse at Oakington, p5

Rallying in rain, p6*

1922 07 31

The "No More War" demonstration held on Parker's Piece, Cambridge, was attended by a gratifying measure of success. The procession extended more than half the length of Gonville-place, and the crowd at the meetings held on the Piece afterwards was so large that the two platforms provided were not sufficient, and a motor-car had to be requisitioned for the purposes of a third meeting. In addition to the banners of the various societies there were numerous bearing inscriptions such as "For Peace and Freedom" (Women's International League), "Patriotism is not enough", "Cambridge Sisterhood says No More War". In addition there were scores of bannerettes bearing the words "No More War". Mrs Nevinson referred to the number of deaths from influenza in 1918 which was really a war plague. They kept the memory of the dead alive but did they remember the maimed, the blind, shell-shocked and the mad? No one was worrying about those men. # c.33 # c.45.6

Italians as fighter, p2

August 1922 CDN & Ely Standard

1922 08 02

The gods invariably smile on the successful. Histon Show and Sports, one of the best managed and successful meetings in the Eastern Counties, was again favoured with delightful weather. The sports are, of course, the principal attractions at Histon and the officials are nothing if not up-to-date. The track was in splendid condition, and long before the races were due to commence there was a large crowd present, though none of the special trains had then arrived, and it looked fair to beat the previous record in attendance. One could not help but admire the megaphone steward. Gifted with a sonorous voice he was an artist of the game and greatly added to the success of the meeting

Cheveley church memorial, p3

Town bumping races mix up, p5*

1922 08 03

Stapleford fire, p5

Romsey Town & Rock Estate, p6

1922 08 04

The reports of the Isle of Ely Highways and Bridges Committee revealed that as owners of the Mepal Bridge the Ouse Drainage Board had advised that it was not sufficient to bear the modern traffic. The Board were advised that the bridge was originally built for tenants and servants of the Bedford Level Corporation, and that they were under no obligation to build a new bridge suitable for modern traffic. The Board desired to know whether the County Council would be prepared to discuss terms for the erection of a new bridge, and for the future maintenance of such bridge

Hazlitt St Ives presentation, p5

Shippea Hill fruit farm visit, p5

1922 08 04 ES

Soham railwayman, William Gamble, retires, 34 years Soham signal box 22 09 04ES *

Wiseman Gamble came to Soham station in 1888 as a signal man and took control of the intricate single line working at that station. The difficulties confronting the signalman at a place like Soham are perhaps more than the average individual understands. A considerable amount of forethought is always necessary in the matter of arranging for the dispatch of trains on a single line and both tablet and staff working requires expert knowledge in order to get trains out of the section with the least possible delay

For a single line Ely and Newmarket branch is an extremely busy and important one, as in addition to the ordinary passenger train service, there is a regular through service of goods, cattle and mineral trains both day and night. The branch is also extensively used for the continental service between Harwich and the North.

During his 34 years, so Mr. Gamble has seen many changes in the staff. He has worked under four Stationmasters, while the changes in the clerical and other uniformed staff have been too numerous to mention. He retired from service at the age of 63. He had not reached the age limit, but owing to the heavy strain of signal working and frequent night duties, together with failing health, he felt the step to be absolutely necessary. 22 08 04ES

Prickwillow: death Miss Mary Marsh ES 1922 Aug 4 p5

Prickwillow: early tomatoes ES 1922 Aug 4 p10

PC Bloomfield said he was in Park Street, Chatteris when he heard a motorcycle approaching from High Street making a great noise. He stopped the rider and asked if he had a silencer on the machine. He replied, 'No, it is a straight pipe'. He said he had ridden the machine like that for five years and never been stopped before. The front mudguard was loose and made a lot of rattling. The Magistrate said riding motorcycles without effective silences have been a great nuisance in Chatteris for some time, and they were determined it would stop. It was a serious offence. He wanted it to go forth in the press that machines must have a selective silences and not make a noise like machine guns. The rider was fined 10 shillings 22 08 04ES

Where is the gun?

Sir, in almost every town I visit, I noticed some kind of war relic exhibited. Months ago it was published that an old German gun had been presented to March. Where is the gun? Has it been sold for scrap iron I wonder. If the council still possess it, cannot it be placed on view? I will suggest a very suitable spot the spare ground just past the 'Jack of Trumps' on the Wisbech Road. A Townsman. The urban council decided some months ago that the gun should be placed on the Quay - Eeditor. 22 08 04ES

1922 08 05

The Summer Meeting is proving a gratifying success, and is in every way the best that has been held since that memorable meeting of 1914 when the war caught both the students and the Syndics unaware, and there was great trouble in repatriating some of the foreigners who had come to Cambridge for the meeting. This year once again there is a good sprinkling of foreign students, who seem to be thoroughly enjoying themselves. The students, too, include a number of working men from the North, who have been most regular and attentive at the lectures on Control in Industry, but a trifle dogmatic in the discussion # c.27.9

1922 08 05

The return of the Cambridge Mammoth Show to its old time variety and importance will recall to many minds the last occasion of its so presenting itself to the public. The gloom which rested over the Bank Holiday and show in 1914 will never be forgotten by those who experienced it. The megaphone calls in all parts of the ground for postmen to repair to their duty at once told the tale that war was regarded as inevitable, and that the mobilisation notices were to go out. On the following Friday Cambridge suddenly found itself an armed camp, through the arrival on mobilisation of the Sixth Division. One remembers the sight of the humble little shopkeepers on Newmarket-road coming out to greet the tired artillerymen and make offerings of fruit, sweets and cigarettes and the great wave of united purpose and offer of service which swept over Cambridge. # c.45.5

Moratorium for war debts, p5

1922 08 05 c

The commencement of the school holidays has at once placed a great strain upon those who are responsible for the conduct of our recreation grounds and open spaces, and nowhere has it been more felt than at Sheep's Green, Cambridge, where our young water-rats spend the greater part of their vacations in alternating river-bathing and sun-baths. The place is in a great state of dilapidation and at any moment might become an utter ruin. The rottenness of the woodwork of the bathing shed is concealed by paint and putty, timbering on both sides of the river is falling to pieces and on the Newnham side the banks are crumbling to bits. It really does seem that before any new bathing places are built this grand old one should be put into a state worthy of its reputation and popularity - Table Talk

1922 08 07

Mammoth Show, p3

1922 08 08

Mammoth Show *

1922 08 09

Salvationists in Cambridgeshire and Huntingdonshire were greatly heartened during the holiday weekend by a visit from Mrs Booth, the beloved wife of the General, who addressed a series of meetings in several of the towns and villages which come in what is known as the Northampton Division. Mrs Booth made her tour in a motor car kindly lent and driven by Councillor H. Franklin of Cambridge. At all the meeting places large crowds had assembled and along the roads through which the cars passed not only Salvationists but many others came to the doors or stopped at their work to wave their hand to Mrs General Booth. Although it is a very long time since any Salvation Army gathering was held in St Ives there was a very large muster on the Market-hill to welcome her.

1922 08 09

Ely show, p3

Haverhill golf, p3

1922 08 11

Naval Ball, pe

1922 08 11 ES

Prickwillow: flower show tremendous success - photo ES 1922 Aug 11 p5

1922 08 12

The success of the Summer Meeting demonstrates once again the appreciation and possibilities of Cambridge as a holiday centre and yet Cambridge appears to be as indifferent as ever to its opportunities. Every person who has this experience is an advertisement for Cambridge, but it is an advertisement which ought to be supplemented by other kinds of publicity, the sort of propaganda which every progressive town makes use of these days. Money spent in this way would be money well spent - Table Talk 22 08 12

Anti-vivisection meeting, p3

Young parachutists, p4*

Mrs Booth's visits, p4*

Littleport British Legion hall opened, p4*

1922 08 14

At the meeting of Saffron Walden Town Council the Mayor referred to books of accounts of the old Spade Husbandry Committee. In the year 1829 a public meeting was held to decide what could be done with all the unemployed of the town. Then came the question of small allotments for the labouring poor. Mr Gibson offered four and a half acres which were the first allotments for the borough and situated on Little Walden-road. Several farmers offered land. Lord Braybrooke offered Park Wall Gardens. The movement prospered. The first report said there were 78 allotments, the following year there were 144 and the tilling of the land was so good that the Horticultural Society offered prizes for the best vegetables.

1922 08 14

Cambridgeshire School Medical Officer reported that there was serious restriction in the amount of water available for all purposes in very many villages during last summer. In several both wells and ponds were entirely dried up for periods of six to eight weeks, and water had to be carted several miles, often from districts already rather short. In one village it had been impossible to use water for laundry purposes for six weeks, the meagre supply which was all that could be spared from a neighbouring village being barely sufficient for cooking.

1922 08 14

The School Medical Officer reported that the percentage of children with uncleanly bodies was 4.1. The majority of the cases referred for treatment come over and over again from the same incorrigible families in whom very often mental defect is also present to a marked degree, the mother especially being of too low intelligence, or too unstable, to care adequately for her family

1922 08 16

Soham shooting outrage, p3

1922 08 17

Education of working women, p4*

1922 08 18 ES

Ely Railway Mission first sale of work since inception. 22 08 18ES

Soham shooting sensation - farmer & neighbours wife. 22 08 18(2)ES

Littleport British Legion memorial hut opened. 22 08 18(2)(3)ES *

Soham Comrades band - photo ES 1922 Aug 11 p8

Wicken to extend cemetery ES 1922 Aug 11 p8

Prickwillow: Methodist chapel services ES 1922 Aug 11 p8

Prickwillow: flower show record ES 1922 Aug 11 p8

1922 08 19

Cambridge visitors to St Ives are doubtless familiar with the old town clock on Messrs R. Kiddle & Son's premises in Bridge-street. This clock, which was erected by public subscription about 120 years ago, will have to be removed in consequence of the discovery that the premises have become unsafe. A special meeting of the Town Council was held to consider what should be done about the clock. There was a natural desire not to lose an old landmark which helps the town to retain its old-time character, but with so many other clocks about and finances so tight as they are today, the Council felt they could not sanction the expense of repair

Hunstanton fire, p2

1922 08 22

Of the opinion that the water supplies to the Ely rural district are "unsatisfactory and inadequate" the Ministry of Health consider that a new supply should be provided without delay. The Ministry wrote in reference to an Inquiry in connection with the application of the Rural District Council for sanction to borrow money for the provision of a scheme of water supply. It is understood that the R.D.C. have now arranged for the provision of an additional reservoir at Littleport.

1922 08 23

Shall the Ely Urban Council obtain powers to kill rats or not? That was the crux of a resolution proposed at the meeting on Monday. The Rev T.J. Kirkland raised the position regarding the Mill Pits and the nuisance caused by the shooting of objectionable rubbish there and the consequent presence of rats. The danger of the evil was not generally realised. For instance, a rat chart of England showed that in the worst areas cancer was more prevalent than in others; also rats damaged crops and properties and were also a great danger to health as disease carriers. The chairman said it was not enough for one local authority to take it up and the other to leave it alone, while the Isle Committee did their utmost, West Suffolk did nothing and all the Isle rats bolted into Suffolk for the time being. (Laughter).

Littleport parade, p3

1922 08 24

J.V. Priot death, p3

H.J. Cheffins death, p3

1922 08 25

Ely oldest women, p3

1922 08 25 ES

Soham shooting – photo, Lot Farm. 22 08 25&(2)ES

Prehistoric skeleton found in Cam at Upware. 22 08 25(3)ES

Littleport second hospital parade as feast wet ES 1922 Aug 18 p8

Soham: death Waddington, grocer ES 1922 Aug 18 p8

Prickwillow: Methodist chapel - large number camping on Lark bank ES 1922 Aug 18 p8

1922 08 26

This is the age of new things and I am able to report that harvest operations are in full swing on Parker's Piece. Such economy has been shown in the use of the mowers on our principal ground that the grass has grown to an extent beyond the power of the customary lawnmower to cut, and so a hayreaper has been employed and the resulting heavy swathes have been removed by horse and cart. Two horses and three or four men have been engaged on the work, so if money-saving was the thing intended by keeping to mow off Parker's Piece it has not been very effective. # c.32.3

Dangerous habits cyclists, p4

1922 08 27 c

A correspondent writes: Comparatively few holiday-makers seem to know much of the splendid holiday afforded by the Norfolk Broads. House boats can be rented at about all prices from £2.2s.0d a week to accommodate two people to the wherry which will hold a party of eight or ten and costs about £25 a week (including two men to work her and do the cooking). For the lover of quiet and restful holidays the Broads certainly would be difficult to beat

1922 08 28

A good crowd and a fair number of entries went to make a success of the Cambridge Whippet Racing Club's meeting, which was held in the Straight Running Ground, Arbury-road. The meeting was the last of a series of evening meetings arranged by the club and unfortunately was not favoured with very good weather. The racing was very close and exciting and several "certs" came "unstuck"

1922 08 28 c

I was interested the other night to observe the resourcefulness of a newsboy near the New Theatre, Cambridge. Trade seemed dull and nobody seemed to want a paper. After trying for some time without success, the youngster stopped his cry of "Paper, sir" and pondered for a few moments. Then he had a brain wave. "Paper, sir, paper. All about poor Michael" he burst forth in such arresting fashion that everybody within hearing pricked up their ears. I saw at least a dozen people buy a paper of the lad before I went into the Theatre

1922 08 30

At a meeting held in the Grantchester Schools the proposal to purchase the entrance pavilion to the Royal Show ground, for a village hall was considered. Mr J.J. Lister explained that two years ago an effort was made to provide a village hall in connection with the war memorial scheme but this had to be abandoned owing to high prices. He had been told that if any offer in the neighbourhood of £300 was received they would be offered the first refusal. The building would provide a large central room with smaller rooms on either side and a pavilion for the cricket and football players. The proposal was that the building should be erected on the meadow to the rear of the Red Lion and overlooking the cricket ground

1922 08 31

Newmarket Rural Council considered a report on the epidemic of fever at Chippenham during which five people have died. Dr Gellatly wrote: "As to sanitary defects, the worst is the cottages in New-row where a large number of cases have occurred, the absence of ventilation rendering them practically "back to back" dwellings. The people will not keep out of each other's homes and in many cases do all they can to conceal the facts in regard to suspected cases. It is true that very many defects of sanitation exist in Chippenham, but in no case can it be said that the health of the inhabitants has been directly affected by these defects"

1922 08 31 c

The Newmarket Boy Scouts returned home after a delightful fortnight's camp at Heacham, a village two miles from Hunstanton. The weather was generally fine and the Scouts bore very cheerfully such rain as came along. Everything in camp was hearty and everybody was in good spirits. There was no sickness, no accidents. A little trouble with the lads of the village was dealt with. Five village lads used their catapults to bombard the camp, and two Scout boys were hit, but not hurt. A party of Jewish young ladies coming down on a holiday fund excursion rather troubled the camp, but this was soon settled.

September 1922 CDN & Ely Standard

1922 09 01

Carpet company fined, p2

Town football club first annual cycling sports, p3

1922 09 01 ES

Stretham sane man in asylum: Charles Parnell, inhabitants raise objection, 100 petition. 22 09 01ES
People were in tears when the 21-year-old, son of a Stretham butcher & farmer, was certified as insane by Dr Howe and put in a motor to be taken Fulbourn. Indignation developed into vigorous protest and inhabitants took steps to secure his release. A hundred signed a petition drawn up by Rev Stitt which was sent to the Home Office and the Hospital received 20 letters & phone objections. The symptoms were fits of rage, that he occasionally stayed in bed all day and had attacked father with a poker. The boy said he stayed in bed as his father had sold crops over his head and nothing for him to do. "If a man sent was to the Asylum because he got into a temper a large portion of population would be there". The lad was certified sane after one week but could not be released till the next Visitors' meeting. p5* 22 09 01ES [cutting]

Sir, in consequence with your article on the effects of costly housebuilding. I think mentioned should be made at the difficulties in the Ely district. With unemployment and trade so bad to keep up the high prices of building material and new houses is surely mistaken policy, to say nothing of the cruelty of its effects upon 1000s of families who are thus kept apart and compelled to find double expenses. Many cases have come within my own knowledge, where unavoidable debt, preservation and injury to children are the results of the present state of affairs. Then the rents in this part of the world are very high for very poor accommodation. Houses with no gas, no bathrooms, no modern fittings at all, and damp floors on a level with and often below the level of the road are more highly rented in the

Ely district than many a dry modern house in some large towns. Tradesmen's tills are not might need to fill up very quickly, while the present housing conditions last. Yours, One Affected. 22 09 01ES

Fen Farming, F. Hiam' example. 22 09 01(2)(3)ES

The fen area has long been noted for its farming but its success in tillage husbandry has never been more pronounced than now. In the matter of intensive farming the fenland today is an engaging example of the capacity of the land and the skills and enterprise of those who own or occupy it. The corn crops are as weighty as or weightier than ever before.

The trouble in the fens has always been to prevent such excessive exuberance of the growth of straw as meant the crops going down under the July rains with consequent depredation of both grain and straw. Although this disadvantage has to some extent been mitigated by the introduction of breeds and cereals with stronger and shorter straw, the difficulty still remains

It is in the production of other rotation crops, other than cereals, that the modern fen farming is particularly instructive. The value of the black soil of this part of England for the growing potatoes was not known or utilised until recent times. Indeed the tuber crop is still in the process of development in some parts of the fens.

The potato forms, the chief pillar of the present day fan farming of the improved type. This is due to a few of the more progressive farmers who have demonstrated what can be done by the adoption of enlightened methods to coax from the responsive Fen soils bountiful returns of tubers and other vegetables popular in urban markets, such as carrots, onions and celery. The fens constitute a sort of large scheme of market gardens covering 1000s of acres with fields ranging up to 20 or 30 acres each and open dikes in place of walls and hedges.

Fen farming as practised under modern conditions claims several distinctive features. The crops and systems of cultivation are chosen in accordance with the teaching of experience. The peaty soils are liable to diminish in bulk, as well as to deteriorate with continuous cropping. The visitor will be shown remarkable examples of shrinkage in the depth of black soil, sometimes as much as two feet in 10 or 15 years. The laborious and expensive process of claying is still practised as a means of strengthening the peaty top soils. The clay is dug from below the top layer of black land and spread on the surface to be mixed together by means of ploughing and harrowing.

Mr Fred Hiam is one of the newer farmers. He now owns about 8,000 acres with more than 2,000 acres under potatoes. This year his crops of Majestic wood King Edward varieties are a fine illustration of enlightened farming. The hundreds of acres of carrots and celery are similarly prolific and healthy. The unhealthy state of a few drills celery are worthy of mention. They alone amongst hundreds of acres were blighted and the cause was that the plants from defective seeds had been supplied. His farms are supplied with light railways extending to about 25 miles, leading to stations or special sidings on the Great Eastern Railway. This greatly reduces the cost of transport since one horse can easily haul an eight-ton load in all weathers from the edge of the field. The working horses number about 350 and tractors also have a certain amount of work allotted to them. The whole constitutes a wonderful example of advanced and versatile farming, in which the fattening of cattle and sheep to supply the best manure procurable is skilfully co-mingled with rotation husbandry. 22 09 01(2)(3)ES

Sutton Gault tragedy: baby knocked down by horse crossing bridge, 22 09 01(4)(5)ES

An inquest was held on a fatal accident at the bridge by the Anchor Inn over the Old Bedford River at Sutton Gault. A holiday maker was spending a few hours fishing from the bridge while his wife and son were sitting on the bank. The happy afternoon turned to tragedy when a harvest waggon drawn by three horses was crossing the bridge, and the little boy ran towards his father. Suddenly the middle horse took fright at the motor car which had stopped at the foot of the bridge and swerved towards the bridge railings. Realising the danger confronting her son the mother rushed to protect him.

She was caught by the wheel of the heavily laden waggon, which was carrying two and a half tons of corn and was crushed between the wheel and the support of the bridge. Owing to the heavy load on the waggon, it was only with difficulty that the unfortunate woman was extricated. She was carried to the Anchor Inn, and further assistance was quickly forthcoming, but she died

The driver of the motor car a farmer of Inglefield House, Sutton, said he was going from his home to the farm. He was signalled to stop and drew to the side of the road. A labourer in the employer Messrs Darby Brothers said he was coming from the Gault over the bridge to Sutton in charge of three horses in a waggon loaded with corn. He had the control with the horses by rein and was leading over the shaft horse when the middle horse took fright at the sight of the car and jumped towards the bridge. The Ely Coroner made a close inspection of the bridge which is only 13 feet wide and declared that it ought to be demolished. Everyone who knows the bridge will agree that it is very dangerous to horse traffic and difficult to negotiate. Even while the inquest was in progress, no fewer than three motorcars and a traction engine pulling a heavy load, passed over the bridge, and it is understood that the traffic from Sutton to Sutton Gault is considerable.

If the motherhood had controlled the child and prevented him coming on the bridge there would have been no inquest. The driver the waggon did all he possibly could be done under the circumstances.

Slump in agricultural prices

Farmers, fruit growers and potato merchants in the Ely district have never experienced such a slump in prices as the one now prevailing and the unstable conditions give rise to great concern. When agriculture fails, everything else fails. Potato merchants are sustaining heavy losses owing to unfair competition with foreigners. British markets are overwhelmed with foreign potatoes. They are a dumping ground for Dutch and German imports.

With the farmer and merchant losing heavily one's thought must turn to the Agricultural Worker. Unless there is an improvement, the inevitable must happen. The farmer must curtail his expenses at the expense of the labourer. It has been frequently stated that after harvest there must be another drop in wages and the 31 shillings may be reduced to 25 shillings because the industry cannot afford more. It is a serious problem.

The agricultural labourer is producing food at prices below pre-war and in turn is paying advanced prices for the necessity of life. The question arises who is profiteering?

A tradesman says that many families in his village are mainly living upon bread and potatoes in order to make both ends meet. Such a state of affairs is deplorable. The farmer cannot be blamed. He cannot afford to pay a higher minimum wage to his labour. Last year was a bad year and this is worse. The industry is passing through the most strenuous time in history. The trouble lies outside the industry. Circumstances over which the farmer and Labour has no control are throttling them. 22 09 01ES

The Times reports:

The Fens area has been noted for its farming but its success in tillage husbandry has never been more pronounced than now. In the matter of intensive farming, the Fenland of today is an engaging example of the capacity of the land and the skill and enterprise of those who own or occupy it.

The corn crops are as weighty as ever before. The trouble in the fens has always been to prevent excessive exuberance of the growth of straw as meant the crops going down under the July rains with the consequent depredation of both grain and straw. Although this has to some extent been mitigated by the introduction of cereals with stronger and shorter straw, the difficulty still remains.

It is in the production of other rotation crops that modern fen farming is particularly instructive. The value of the black soils to the growing of potatoes was not fully known until comparatively recently.

Indeed, the tuber crop is still in process of developing and there would seem to be a considerable opportunity for further expansion. The potato forms the chief pillar of present day fen farming and more productive farmers have demonstrated what can be done by enlightened methods to coax from the responsive fen soils bountiful returns of tubers and other vegetables popular in urban markets, such as carrots, onions and celery

The fens of today constitute a sort of enlarged scheme of market gardens with fields ranging up to 20 or 30 acres each and open dikes in place of walls or hedges.

Peaty soils are liable to diminish in bulk as well as to deteriorate with continuous cropping with shrinkage in the depth of black soil, sometimes as much as two feet in 10 or 15 years. The laborious and expensive process of claying is still practiced as a means of strengthening the peat topsoils.

As an example of how fenland should be managed and made to produce heavy crops, the farming enterprise of Mr. Fred Hiam may be cited. He has more than 2,000 acres under potato and his crops of Majestic and King Edward are a fine illustration of enlightened farming.

The hundreds of acres of carrots and celery are similarly prolific and healthy and his green crops luxuriant. A few drills of celery were blighted as plants from defective seeds had been supplied. There are many interesting features in Mr. Hiam's farming. His farms are supplied with light railways leading to stations or special sidings which greatly reduces the cost of transport since one horse can easily haul an eight ton load in all weathers from the edge of the field. The working horses number about 350 and tractors have a certain amount of work and allotted to them.

The whole constitutes a wonderful example of advanced and versatile farming, in which the fattening of cattle and sheep to supply the best manure procurable is skilfully commingled with rotation husbandry. 22 09 01ES

Last week a small boy, a visitor to Isleham fell into eight feet of water at the sluice and would have drowned but for the gallantry of Mr. B Audus, who jumped into his aid. After something of a struggle, for the weeds were thick, both gained the bank none the worse for their immersion.

Mr. J. Weights of the theatrical company with his son was fishing on Sunday from a barge when the boy fell overboard. Mr. Weights immediately jumped to his rescue into six feet of more of water. Being rather a heavy man his weight took him below the surface where he became stuck in the mud and both would undoubtedly have been drowned had it not been for the timely help of a barge pole, by the aid of which both reached dry land. 22 09 01ES

The owners of the few wireless receiving sets that have been installed locally are experiencing much success in hearing both the continuous flow of Morse-code messages and the numerous concert sent out each week. P.c. Hillier of Dartford Road, March, has a portable two valve instrument which he constructed himself from parts supplied by a local firm. By means of an improvised loud speaker made of sheet metal which he attached to a telephone headpiece, a concert broadcast from Marconi House London was perfectly audible. After the concert, he picked up the high-pitched note of the Russian Bolshevik station at Moscow. A striking feature of the instrument is the simplicity and yet its effectiveness in transmitting both music and Morse code. The owner is most interested in the utility side of wireless and spends much time in deciphering messages from distant ships and land stations. 22 09 01ES

1922 09 02

At a meeting of the Ouse Drainage Board the Clerk reported the receipt of an announcement from the Ministry of Agriculture sanctioning the continuance of drainage schemes for the relief of unemployment during the coming winter. Mr Tebbutt said that he was extremely sorry to hear it. They thought those schemes were temporary expedients, but now they resulted in the creation of unemployment. Mr Knapp hoped the Board would hesitate very much before going into schemes or endorsing them. They were creating a class of professional unemployed, and the more money they spent the more unemployed they would have. It was a radically wrong thing to do.

Stretham man sent mental hospital, p4

1922 09 04

Monday morning Cambridge saw the performance of a very ancient ceremony - but a showy relic of more palmy days - the proclamation of "Ye Ancient Faire of Sturbridge". Shortly before mid-day the Mayor, accompanied by the Town Clark, the Bailiffs, the Mace-bearer and councillors proceeded to Barnwell Bridge for the first proclamation. Both side of Newmarket Road bore a sprinkling of small boys and others curious to see the ancient ceremony. Arrived at the bridge the party alighted from their cars and the Clark read the customary proclamation and new bright coins freely distributed, resulting in a wild scramble. The party next proceeded on to the Common by way of Garlic-row, turned round and repeated the proclamation at the old Oyster House. The Fair will commence on September 25th

1922 09 04

Recent issues of "The Inquirer" have contained matter interesting to the Cambridge public. About £4,318 has been received up to date in response to an appeal for the cost of a site and buildings for the Unitarian Church. A hall is now being built and will be opened for worship in the autumn. The site has space for the erection of a church, which will ultimately be built beside the hall. The projected building will only be a development of a subsisting entity. A Unitarian church has existed at Cambridge for the best part of 18 years # c.83

1922 09 04

Cambridge is very different from most places. Most of the churches here, until quite recently, have been served by ministers who were Fellows of colleges and lived in their college rooms. Before the colleges came there can be little doubt that each parish has its vicarage but in course of time these houses disappeared. But St Botolph's has been more fortunate. During the last 700 years there has always been a lodging for the incumbent somewhere within the parish, either in Corpus, or in Queens' or outside college walls. For 300 years the parsonage house was opposite the church at the corner of Silver-street. A little more than 50 years since, when the old churchwarden built the present fine house, the lodging there was given up. But the parish still had its rector on the spot with a succession of rectors having the same rooms in Queens' College. In these times when there are so many undergraduates the college needs all its available space and it is no longer content to have the rector inside its walls # c.83

Undergraduate debts, p3

1922 09 06

A special meeting of the Cambridge Education Committee was held at Brunswick School on the report of the Borough Surveyor. He said that the rooms at the north end of the building were not safe for occupation and would have to be pulled down. He could not be responsible for the safety of the children if that portion of the school were opened after the holiday. They looked over the building and found that the foundations were slipping, the bricks in many cases were loose and breaking away. The buildings had been a source of trouble and anxiety for some time but there was no need for the alarming reports that had been spread - one that a portion of the school had fallen down and some children had been injured. No injury had been done at all # c.36.5

1922 09 07

At the meeting of Linton Rural Council the Clerk read a letter from the Ministry of Transport enclosing an agreement whereby the Ministry paid half the Surveyor's salary, the Surveyor not to be appointed or dismissed without the approval of the Ministry. Mr Brocklebank proposed non-acceptance of the offer because from long experience of Government grants he had found that they never gave a grant without they took something back. They always said that they were going to do nothing but they "put the screws on" later on. This Council was responsible for the government of this district and they ought to be masters in their own house.

1922 09 08

Delightful weather favoured the annual gymkhana of the Cambridge and County Motor Club. The first item was tilting at the ring for motor cycles, sidecar machines and cars. The slow race for motor cycles produced a good race, Robinson had his machine best under control and, travelling at a snail's pace, eventually won with plenty to spare. The blindfold race for cars and motor-cycles was a very amusing affair and the last event, shooting for goal with a football whilst riding a motor cycle was quite an interesting item. A novel idea was the illumination of the enclosure by the headlamps of the members' cars, the glasses of the lamps being covered with coloured tissue paper

1922 09 08 ES

March commissioners' new pumping engine erected in Creek. 22 09 08ES # c.29 *

In the acquisition of a pumping engine for the drainage of their land the March Fifth District Drainage Commissioners have provided along what felt want for the farmers in the locality. Previously natural drainage has had to be relied upon to carry away the water, but in wet seasons the land frequently became waterlogged, and it was found necessary to provide a new system of removing the superfluous water. Sometime ago the Commissioners purchased a gas engine and a pump but this scheme had to be abandoned. Recently however a piece of machinery, adaptable to their purposes was procured from the Government Surplus Disposal Board and this has now been erected in Creek. The new plant is an entirely new four-cylinder high speed, engine coupled direct to a 12 inch centrifugal pump mounted on one bedplate. The pumps were originally made by Messrs Allen of Bedford for the Admiralty for lifting HMS Vindictive at Ostend but whenever used. The pump is capable of throwing 750 ton of water per hour and is mounted on a pile foundation at the end of the District's main drain and discharges over the bank in the Middle Level, River Nene. The engine which is started on petrol and runs on paraffin is probably one of the most economical obtainable. In dealing with the aforementioned huge quantity of water in an hour only four gallons of paraffin are required. The engine was set going and subsequently volumes of water were poured into the river to the great satisfaction of the Commissioners and the profound disgust of a fisherman who was angling nearby. After a fairly lengthy trial, the Commissioners felt they had secured a good bargain, and genuine satisfaction was expressed. 22 09 08ES # c.29 *

Vicar's near cycling accident, Wisbech. 22 09 08(2)ES

Lt Thetford: John Hinkin, 91, memories; was licensee Rose & Crown. 22 09 08(3)ES *

In the quiet little hamlet of Thetford where nothing but the sound of the harvest reaper or a passing train disturbs the tranquillity quality lives a nonagenarian whose motto is "If you want a good appetite, you must work hard; hard work hurts nobody"

Robert Hinkin (91) and his wife (86) reside in a thatched cottage in the heart of the village. They are the oldest married couple in the village and their thrift makes them well known and respected Little Thetford strikes one as being a healthy spot. Until the Rural Council were pushed into a house building scheme there had been but little alteration in the place for years. It was not until additional cottages were found necessary, that any extension excited the interest or wonderment of the most unconcerned inhabitants

Mr Hinkin belongs to a family, which can be traced back over a period of 400 years. He was born in Little Thetford in February 1831, brought up in Wicken and returned after his marriage to Miss Bowers to become licensee of the Rose and Crown, a position he held for half a century. He vacated the inn about 10 years ago, but has worked on the land for many years and continues to do so.

Every Saturday morning, hail, rain, blow or snow he journeys in his trap to Ely and retails fruit, vegetables and eggs. Monday morning, without showing any signs of fatigue, he was busily engaged shocking corn. He rises early every morning and declares that he has never had a doctor in his life. In the orchard at the back of his cottage he can be seen, hard at work.

Since leaving the Rose and Crown he has moved in his own house. No matter how hard a task he accomplishes he will proudly proclaim that his back and never aches.

He is a clever musician, and was the first man to play the clarinet at Wicken. He was mainly responsible for the initiation of the Little Thetford Brass Band, about 55 years ago and at one time, acted as Bandmaster. The band became defunct, about 20 years ago. Even now, occasionally, he will entertain visitors by clarinet selections. He is a regular attender at the Baptist Chapel and until some time ago provided the accompaniment to the singing on the clarinet.

Mrs Hinkin, like her husband, is very active and possesses all her faculties. They had four daughters and two sons with 23 grandchildren, and over 20 great grandchildren. 22 09 08(3)ES

1922 09 09

The good people of Swavesey fairly let themselves in for it this year when they dispatched miniature balloons at the flower show Last week a letter was received from a German pastor begging that a collection might be made in Swavesey to help repair his church organ. This week Mr C. Wood, the Swavesey headmaster had received another letter from Westphalia which reads: "We Germans are now a poor and unhappy people and we cannot find any pleasure in life. In consequence of the war our German money is now valueless. I am a poor tradesman with a large family to support. If you and your friends are living in poor circumstances you have my greatest sympathy; but should you and your friends be well-to-do people I pray you to remember my neediness"

Christs Pieces band concert, p4

1922 09 11

Stranded boy steals lamp, p3

1922 09 12

This year's harvest has been delayed by the bad weather, and in many places little has been done. It will be very late in the month before the harvest is complete. The farmers have had to contend with a drought in the early summer and continuous rains since. A heavy crop of potatoes is reported everywhere but correspondents add that the prices "hardly pay for digging". There is an abundance of fruit, especially of plums, but here again the complaint of poor prices comes in.

1922 09 13

The stackyard of the Sidney Poultry Farm, occupied by Messrs Pamplin Bros at Cherryhinton was the scene of a big fire last night. Soon after 9pm a vivid red glow in the sky attracted attention everywhere in Cambridge. Those who did not at first notice the glow were surprised to see policemen running and soon quite a respectable crowd had gathered outside the fire station. The firemen were in readiness for a call but for some time no call came and the crowd had to be content with looking at the sky and making conjectures as to where the fire was. Shortly before 9.45 the call came through by 'phone and the Dennis engine went out. The road from Cambridge to the scene was a continuous stream of bicycles and pedestrians. Arrived at the farm the curious were well rewarded by the spectacle that greeted them.

1922 09 13

The Ministry of Health Inquiry into the proposals for the development of the east side of Cambridge was conducted at the Guildhall. There was practically no opposition. It will be remembered that the scheme provides for the laying out of 21 new roads or streets, including a main road from Hills Road to Newmarket-road. The area includes 502 acres in the rural district of Chesterton # c.49.4

1922 09 14

Suicide of old soldier, p3
Grantchester Hall, p3

1922 09 15

Preaching at New Service Hall, Eden Street, Cambridge, Pastor Prescott gave a striking account of present conditions in Ireland, which he recently visited on holiday. He told how he had made his way to the Dublin Central Post Office passing scores of Free State soldiers at every corner. On arrival the atmosphere seemed charged with danger, "I made rapid strides for the door only to find my way barred by two men brandishing revolvers. I was a prisoner after being in Dublin only two hours. Presently the rest of the Irregulars proceeded to pour oil over every part of the building and place explosives round among the bags of mail and set the place on fire. The building was burning over our heads and the order came 'Prisoners run with hands up'. We ran up a side street away from the burning building. Bombs were bursting, shots were flying, for the Free Troops had arrived. I walked a considerable distance along a deserted street with my hands up and finally arrived at home, feeling fortunate to be alive"

1922 09 15

Judging by the enthusiasm shown at the first meeting of the Littleport Women's Institute it is quite safe to assume that the branch is going to be a great success. 45 new members were enrolled, thus giving a satisfactory nucleus for the formation of a flourishing branch. Mrs Luddington stressed that it was non-political and undenominational and there were over 2,000 institutes throughout the country. A demonstration of basket and tray making was given by Mrs Comins and Mrs Covill. A "nonsense" competition caused great amusement, after which games and dancing were joined in by all.

Wesleyan character of fenmen, p3
Newton entertained, p3*

1922 09 15 ES

Soham Fen shooting was suicide. 22 09 15&(2)(ES)

Should Agricultural Workers' Union of Union of Landworkers represent workers on Conciliation Committee. 22 09 15(2)(3)ES

Fenman's characteristics; J.H. Adams of Littleport speech. 22 09 15(3)ES

1922 09 16

Wireless amateurs who are not owner-occupiers are discovering that landlords object to the putting up of aërials. Radio enthusiasts will probably do better to wait until it becomes certain on what lines the broadcasting hobby will be developed and perfected. It is not making such rapid progress as people expected and those who wait a little will probably save money. By all accounts it will not be necessary to have aërials at all. Any ordinary electric light installations will provide all that is necessary for an efficient wireless aerial. If there is neither electric light or bells, gas pipes can be used, or failing this a wire garden fence, or it may be said nothing more than a pair of knitting needles will be essential. All this remains to be proved and just as it took a long while to perfect the gramophone so we must expect it to be with wireless developments # c.27.81

1922 09 16

The condition of Mill-road Cemetery for long past has not been creditable to a town like Cambridge. The Borough Cemetery is a delightful flower garden compared to the Mill-road Cemetery which is an amalgamation of the parish churchyards. Some parts of the cemetery are well tended, others are dreary wastes whose evidence of neglect have now been removed by the unemployed at the expense of the ratepayers. The question is whether these reclaimed spaces are again to be permitted to run wild. No church which lets its graveyards get into the deplorable state of the Mill-road Cemetery can be truly described as a live church # c.21.2

Castle Hotel suicide, p5

1922 09 19

Christs popular concerts, p6

1922 09 21

For the second time the incinerator proposed to be erected by the Ely Urban District Council for the destruction of the city's refuse gave rise to a debate, in which opinion was rather sharply divided. Originally the subject arose out of the nuisance caused through the dumping of rubbish at the Mill Pits and the rates which were attracted there by it

1922 09 21

At a meeting of Ely water-supply committee Mr Laxton raised the question of putting water meters into all gardens in which hose pipes or sprinklers were used. His contention was that the water used should be paid for and the only way of ensuring that was by putting a meter in. Sometimes people went to bed and forgot that the water was left running

1922 09 21

At Ely Urban District Council the advisability of disposing of the Nutholt Close for the purposes of dwelling-houses was considered. They had a programme for 200 houses but of these 20 were erected in Ely and 8 at Stuntney - a meagre quantity. The chairman commented; "Some of the tenders for the houses to be erected on the Prickwillow site are ridiculous". Prices per pair ranged from F. Tucker of Ely at £400, whilst F. Ambrose quoted £750, Hobbs & son of Downham £906.10s.2d and F.W. Edwards of Prickwillow £1,500. A list of houses in Prickwillow to which water was supplied from the new main was laid before the meeting. The committee recommended that in all cases where there was not a sufficient supply of wholesome water on the premises that notices be served to make the necessary connections in order to obtain a supply married women teachers, p5 wentworth school to close, p5

1922 09 22 c

At a meeting held in the Parish Hall, Union-road, Cambridge it was decided to erect a memorial to the late Mgr Provost Scott, rector of the Church of Our Lady and the English Martyrs. The chairman said the late rector had been nearly forty years in the parish and he was the initiation of the change from the little old church which used to stand in Union-lane to the present large and handsome edifice. He had built up all its traditions and had set up a high standard of services. He mentioned proposed schemes including the erection of a Calvary over the tomb, a monument in the church - a recumbent effigy or a brass, or some definite work further beautifying the church which the late Provost built and loved # c.83.02

1922 09 22

Cambridge employed Sunday work, p5*

1922 09 23

"In the whole course of my experience I don't remember a more distressing case of such lawlessness, insubordination and juvenile criminality", said Mr A.S. Campkin at the conclusion of the hearing at the Cambridge Juvenile Court of a remarkable series of charges of housebreaking, shop-breaking, office-breaking and theft which had been preferred against three boys aged respectively 10, 13 and 14. There were no less than 23 charges in all 1922 09 25

Council meeting onlookers, p5

1922 09 27

The provision of billiard tables in the New Chesterton Institute has undoubtedly been a paying concern. Four tables having proved inadequate, the billiards room has had to be extended and another table added to cope with the requirements of the experienced and budding cueists

Milk producers problems, p3*

Gt Gransden show – position of agriculture, p5*

1922 09 28 c

Discrepancies in the price of bread in the Ely district and in March were the subject of a complaint made at the meeting of the Isle Conciliation Committee. It was argued that if bread could be sold at 8d. in March, the reduction from 9d to 8½d in Ely last week was not enough. Mr Purchase instanced farm workers whose consumption was 29 loaves per week per household. He believed that suggestions that the farmers would combine together and bake their own bread had an effect

Public library open access system, p3

Sawston sales, p3*

Chesterton allotments sold for housing, p6

1922 09 29

Much interest was aroused in Cambridge and along the route in the second reliability trial of motor cars and motor cycles in connection with the well-known Cambridge motor and cycle firm of Herbert Robinson. The trial was not a speed test, indeed the competitors who most nearly adhered to a uniform speed of 20 mph were those whose names featured on the prize list. All speedometers were covered up so that competitors had to judge their speed. The route of 63 miles was completed within five hours, inclusive of numerous stops for checking and a lengthy interval for tea.

1922 09 29 ES

Fire in Canon's House, Ely College. 22 09 29ES

Diocesan Rescue and Preventive Society sale. 22 09 29ES

1922 09 30

Attending to the subject of petrol pumps, the Mayor said he could not understand why the Council should object to the putting up of such an appliance, which would fill a car up in one minute, instead of having to run it into a garage and back it out again, taking up certainly five minutes. The petrol pump today was a thing everyone looked for if he motored. He did not know of another town of any size that had not a petrol pump, so it seemed a most extraordinary thing that an enlightened borough like Cambridge still refused to allow a pump to be put up on the footway. In a street like St Andrews-street or Regent-street there did not seem any reason why a pump should not be put up # c.26.48

Library open access, p6

National Council of Women meeting, p6

October 1922 CDN & Ely Standard

1922 10 02

Sir - Many Cambridge people will be surprised at the Mayor's surprise that petrol pumps are not allowed in Cambridge streets. Memories of past Cambridge "rags" and those of the future to come, should have convinced him of the danger of such an appliance. Many an "undergrad" would simply love to tear it from the pavement and cart it in triumph to his lodgings, and went he went "down" to take it home and say, "Look, mater, what I did". No, sir, undergraduates' pranks are band enough at times, and no one desires to see a flaming chariot of burning wood deposited near a petrol pump. Yours etc – Safety First

Newmarket fire, p5

1922 10 02 c

Sir - With reference to "Safety First's" letter on the inadvisability of installing petrol pumps on the kerbsides of Cambridge streets - has he ever seen a pump, and, if so, has he ever tried to root it up? We have seen with mixed feelings the result of several tired undergraduates leaning against an apparently massive lamppost in the centre of the town, which immediately endeavoured to emulate the Tower of Pisa, but failed miserably and fell to the ground. But let a dozen or more of the strongest of these super-men lean against, or try to uproot a petrol pump and its impassivity would, I imagine, resemble that of the celebrated and disappointing Sphinx. Let their fiery chariots and "Paynim altars smoke" all around the pumps and there would be yet another proof of their immunity for risk of fire - "Sahon"

1922 10 04

Since the extension of the franchise to women, and largely because of this, there have been started in the villages of the country social centres for women which are called Women's Institutes, for the purpose of instructing women as to their new duties as active political citizens, and for social intercourse generally. In order to stimulate the movement a meeting was called in Newmarket. The speaker said women who found themselves face to face with the responsibility of the vote sometimes realised how little they knew. One man she knew was so enthusiastic about the Institute that he actually volunteered to mind the baby while his wife went to the Institute. And when he was told that while he was minding one baby he might as well mind six he consented to do that - (applause) – so that five other women could go with his wife.

1922 10 04

Trouble between the Rector of Hardwick and the Parish Council over the Glebe allotments led to some rather lively scenes in the village when a parish meeting was held to discuss the question. The allotments are held on a yearly tenancy by the Parish Council who sub-let them to the allotment holders. The Rector notified the holders that he intended to manage them himself. The original allotments, which have been in use for 25 or 30 years occupied an area of 4,955 acres and a further 3,929 were taken over by the Parish Council

Oriana madrigal society, p5
Newmarket station approaches, p6

1922 10 05
Carpet company fraud, p5

1922 10 06
Pampisford brewery fraud, p5

1922 10 06 ES
Ouse Drainage Board consider purchase of an eroder for removal of silt in tidal river. 22 10 06ES
Ouse Drainage Board considered the purchase of an eroder for removal of silt in the tidal river. The silting up of the river constitutes a grave danger to a vast area of land. The level of water at low tide outside Denver Sluice was five feet higher than it was some years ago. They will inspect boats that might be purchased from the Disposals Board at a considerable saving of cost. Inquiries had also been made with regard to the purchase of a suitable boat for use in the river Nar at a cost of £120 but this was considered too high. A proposal for the cleansing of the River Lark from Chimney Mill to Mildenhall w/ould be forward to the Ministry of Agriculture under the scheme for the relief of unemployment. 22 10 06ES

Stretham History
The monthly meeting of Stretham Women's Institute in the Boys' School heard a most interesting and instructive lecture on the history of Stretham from earliest times given by Reverend S.S. Stitt. He stated that the name meant 'home on the street' and that village cross is really an old market cross, and not as commonly supposed, a monument to mark the spot from which a Bishop first caught sight of the Cathedral. The school was well filled with an appreciative audience.

1922 10 07
Full Term commences next week and with it the activities of the new academical year. The open question now is as to the probable number of Freshmen and residents. Most of the Service students, who created the congestion which existed in the University from the Lent Term of 1912, went down last June, and left plenty of elbow room. This year we have got back to the public school boy, the pre-war type of Freshman. Girton and Newnham and the Women's Training College have not an empty room

Brighter village life – W.I.s, p6

1922 10 07 c
Cambridge streets during Thursday evening were under the protection of the special constables, who regulated traffic and generally acquitted themselves right well. The "regulars" however were not far away. They were in the Guildhall enjoying the hospitality of the Mayor who was anxious to show his appreciation of their work during his year of office. The evening was passed in music and song and during the interval there were some interesting presentations to four constables who have just retired after 25 years' service. P.C.s A.H. Ridgewell and John Waylett received a gold watch each, P.C. John Unwin a marble clock and P.C. G.H. Wright a silver tea service

1922 10 09
General workers union, p5

1922 10 10

Skeleton in cellar, Newmarket, p5

1922 10 11

By the erection of a handsome stone memorial cross to perpetuate the memory of those belonging to the parish who fell in the Great War, Mepal has paid a worthy tribute. From this small village with a population of less than 100, twelve men gave their lives, and one woman. On no other roll in the Ely district has a woman's name appeared. Miss Nellie Waters was stationed at the army canteen at Thetford, Norfolk, and while there contracted pneumonia from which she died. Her sister served in canteens abroad for some considerable time and was demobilised at the end of the war

Isle farmerworkers wages, p3*

St Ives Michaelmas fair, p6*

1922 10 12

Sir, - There are still some restaurants in Cambridge which charge 3d or 4d for a helping of potatoes. This would appear to be profiteering as the proprietors probably do not pay more than three halfpence a lb. for what they buy. Before the war potatoes were thrown in with the meat, and during the war 4d was charged, as they were very difficult to get and expensive to buy. Twopence is the outside that should be charged at the present time for a helping and I advise customers to refuse to pay more" - letter from C. Cochrane

Hills Road garage owner bankruptcy, 22 10 12 p5*

1922 10 13

Cambridge Corn Exchange was crowded last evening on the occasion of a boxing tournament. In all the events there was some capital fighting. The audience also had the privilege of witnessing an excellent exhibition of Ju Jitsu and Katsu, in which the participants were Harry Hunter of Broadstairs, England's greatest exponent of Ju Jitsu, and Mr W. Saddington, the local expert in the art. Various throws and locks were shown but the one which interested the audience was that of throwing and rendering an opponent unconscious in a few seconds, and instantly reviving him by Katsu, the Japanese method of restoration

1922 10 13 ES

Wentworth headmistress for 45 years retires, Mrs W. Boulter. 22 10 13ES *

Mrs William Boulter retired after 45 years as headmistress of Wentworth school. She started in 1877, and since that time has served under four rector, three of whom died.

At the time she became headmistress the school had 32 scholars. For economy reasons Wentworth school has now closed, and the children go to Witchford.

Three generations of many families have passed through the school during her period of service. Her former pupils embrace practically the whole of the population of Wentworth. She is extremely popular in the village, and upon the formation of a branch of the Women's Institute, took over the secretaryship, which she held for some 12 months.

At her retirement surrounded by managers, friends and past and present scholars, he was presented with handsome gifts by three-year-old Babs Martell, whose father and mother, grandfather and grandmother had all been pupils during Mrs Boulter's headship The Reverend H. A. Swann paid tribute to her sterling work and expressed the affection, the inhabitants held for her.

Wentworth School held the Attendance Shield for six years, which is believed to be a record. At present it is held by Chettisham School 22 10 13ES

Farm wages

The Reconciliation Committee, meeting at the Griffin Hotel, March, was told that the Isle of Ely was recognised as one of the most productive parts of the country. During the war, agricultural wages were fixed at a low level and now workers were entitled to ask that the farmers should take into account their good years, and at least try and offer a wage on which a man could keep his wife and children in something like civilised comfort. If wages were forced down to 25 shillings it would be absolutely insufficient for a man to keep himself, his wife and children on. It was impossible to keep body and soul together and at the same time, remain an effective working machine. They were justified in asking for a continuance of the present agreement: 31 shillings was not a wage that could be regarded as extravagant

But all concerned with the industry were suffering, heavily and unless something was done there was one alternative, and that was to put the land down to grass and do away with the wages bill. It would be a serious thing but would be inevitable. The Isle was a good agricultural district but it was the best land that had been the source of the greatest loss to farmers. The greater the area a man had under roots, the greater his loss. As a general rule, farmers had not got the money with which to carry on and employ the labour which they normally employed. Many farmers will not be able to save themselves and will have to go to the wall. At the same time, a man cannot pay what he has not got.

He must muddle through with an insufficiency of labour in the hope that something will happen to bring things to normal Steps must be taken to address the position the industry was in.

A correspondent pointed out the ridiculous price returned to a small-holder for a truck of potatoes. He had seen a return from a northern market for a truck of washed carrots. When the rail costs and the salesman's commission together with the cost of digging and washing were allowed for actually left the grower about £2 in debt. Out of this the smallholder was expected to pay the present high rates,, taxes and rents. Everything he has to buy was at about two and a half times above pre-war prices.

It has been asked: What is wrong with agriculture? The answer is simple. In the first place, what is wanted is unity, and then action between the growers, large and small and the worker. They would then have the power behind them and be able to buy right, sell right, and pay a fair wage. They could easily put up their own mills and slaughterhouses, and so do away with the middleman who at present is taking large profits at the expense of the grower and consumer alike and slowly but surely putting the tin hat on the premier industry of our land. 22 10 13(2)ES

Death Rev John Franey, canon, Ely. 22 10 13(2)(3)ES

Mepal war memorial unveiling, includes a woman. 22 10 13(4)ES *

Mepal War Memorial cross was unveiled and dedicated on Sunday when the whole village assembled to pay reverence to the 13 inhabitants who gave their lives for their country in the Great War. It takes the form of a Maltese cross constructed of Cornish granite erected on the most conspicuous site to be found, standing on the green at the junction of the two roads leading through the village

A notable fact was that the names recorded on it include that of Miss Nellie Waters, a nurse who died from pneumonia while serving at a military camp at Thetford. Her father was one of a large number of bereaved relatives who attended the simple but deeply impressive service on the green.

Prior to the unveiling ceremony a service was conducted in the quaint, but picturesque little parish church, and the limited seating accommodation was soon occupied

Colin Coote, M.P. who had promised to perform the unveiling had failed to arrive. At the unveiling ceremony impressive scenes were witnessed. Women were moved to tears and men stood with heads bowed in reverence.

The Hiam Memorial School room in connection with the Union Chapel was opened by the youngest daughter of the late Mr Hiam. Mrs Cobbett expressed pleasure at opening the spacious school in memory of her father. A big tea followed, the large school room being taxed to its utmost capacity.

The building and furnishings cost £430. 22 10 13(4)ES *

1922 10 14

Undergraduates' "little ways" always will possess a great attraction for our London contemporaries. Yesterday's "Westminster Gazette" contained the following: - "The Cambridge University botanic garden has received a present of ducks from Emmanuel College wherewith to restock the lake. The Emmanuel ducks have for some time had a reputation for inebriety. They inhabited an old-world garden, two sides of which are overlooked by the students' rooms, and it has been a favourite sport of some undergraduates to feed the ducks from their windows with morsels of cake or bread soaked in liquor. By their removal the ducks will now be removed from this temptation"

Free Library open access, p3

1922 10 16

The winter season of the Saturday Popular Concerts had a splendid send-off at the Cambridge Guildhall. People began to queue up over an hour before the doors were to be opened and the building was packed before the performance commenced; many people thought themselves lucky to be able to stand at the door. Outside crowds of unfortunate latecomers were turned away. The artistes gave of their best and the audience's demand for encores was almost unappeasable

1922 10 18

Prickwillow houses, p3

Mepal war heroine, p4

Shief scout at Cambridge, p6

Memorial police WWI, p5

1922 10 19

The proposed new bathing places provided a lively debate at Cambridge Town Centre. Plan A was for a bath on the far side of Sturbridge Common, not far from the railway. Plan B was for a bath on Jesus Green parallel to the river and a little above Victoria Bridge. It would be supplied by water taken from the Cam through pipes from above Jesus weir. The Bullen's Grove site on Sturbridge Common was less overlooked but the great point in favour of Jesus Green was that it was far more accessible and it was finally agreed to approve it # c.38 : swimming

1922 10 20

An open meeting of the Cambridge Wireless Society was held to hear a wireless concert from the transmitting station of Mr H.W. Taylor of Camden House. Owing to some unknown cause the receiving set would not function and steps were promptly taken to acquire two further sets of reputed make, and again these failed to act. At about 9p.m. however Mr Taylor's voice was heard on the loud speaker, and for about half-an-hour gramophone selections were received, but the reception was by no means the success it should have been. The committee wish to apologise to all those who so patiently awaited the reception of the concert and, unfortunately had to leave without hearing anything # c.27.81

1922 10 20 ES

Isle Constabulary war memorial, Shire Hall, Ely. 22 10 20&(2)ES

1922 10 21

The proposal to make better use of Christ's Pieces, Cambridge, for outdoor entertainments is by no means a new thing. It first had its origin 30 years ago when the amateur gardening societies were in their prime and the large attendances at their shows was making it difficult to obtain the use of college grounds. Later when the band concerts began to grow in popularity the erection of seats round the band stand was proposed

Isle education poultry, p3

Cambridge and General election, p6

Comberton need recreation ground, p6

1922 10 23

Inspector Arnold of the N.S.P.C.C. said he had visited a house in Cambridge. It was in a state of great disorder, comfortless and dirty. There were a number of empty beer bottles in the mother's bedroom. In the scullery there were quantities of decomposed food, and in the pantry a heap of very filthy female underclothing. The children were thin, pale and miserable looking and suffering from lack of sleep. The mother had been removed to hospital in an insane condition as a result of drink

Stella Curtis tree accident, Stretham, p4

1922 10 25

The motorist has never been regarded very kindly by the general public. Those who do not envy him his means of locomotion regard him as a sort of danger and annoyance. While they resent the clouds of dust, the smell of petrol, and the speed with which the motorist flashes by, they recognise that motoring is an evil to which they may, in some prosperous future, themselves be attracted. The speaker remarked on the continual procession of cars passing through Ely on Sunday between seven and eight a.m. en route from that haven of rest - Hunstanton. They usually returned from it more tired than if they had spent the day quietly in their own home

1922 10 25

Sunday observance and the question of allowing games in public parks on Sundays made an extremely interesting subject for discussion at Ely Ruridecanal Conference. Rev S. Addleshaw deplored the passing of the old-fashioned Sunday - spent in worshipping and quiet rest - and condemned the modern Sunday with its week-ends and motor cars

1922 10 25

In the small Cambridgeshire village in which I live there has often been a shortage of water in the summer, and on some occasions the only drinking supply has failed altogether for a short time. At some times of the year the pond water is not fit to drink. Last summer the position was very serious. Nearly all the ponds and streams were dry and the drinking supply failed for several weeks. The village people had to depend on the few showers they caught in their tubs and on the dregs of the pond

1922 10 26

Something cheap – car, p3

1922 10 27 ES

Stretham tragedy of tree felling-Stella Curtis claimed damages for loss of her child when hit by a tree on 17 March. In order to supplement her husband's wages she did agric work and took in washing-husband a cripple. She did fruit picking, potato picking and pea pulling for which she got 30/- to £2 per week. She was picking sticks and asked if it would be safe-workmen said yes then tree fell; she rushed to try and get baby out of danger, it hit her and cut her head. Tree fellers not negligent and case dismissed 22 10 27&(2)ES [cut]

History of Stretham: Stitt talk to W.I. 22 10 27(3)(4)(5)(6)ES

Reverend S. Stuart Stitt, to the local branch of the Women's Institute, which is now published as a booklet in aid of the church organ fund.

He carries his readers back in imagination to the time when huge mammoth elephants tramped over the fens and enormous winged lizards terrified the ancient dwellers. The Akeman Street was a Roman road that ran from Cambridge; part of the way was lost in mediaeval times, owing to the flooded fenlands. But at Stretham Field Gate it became visible the right of the present road crossing the south east corner of the grass field near the cricket field and joining the Ely Road by the Mill Way

As they pass along the high road from Cambridge to Ely travellers will, if they are an observing type of mind, note traces of extreme antiquity combined with a certain amount of modern uniformity. The reason for this is that on May 1st 1844 a great fire broke out which destroyed a great part of the village

The tower is the oldest part of the church dated to before 1222, the graceful spire was added later. In 1866, the steeple was repaired and new weathercock put up.

The church was restored in 1876 but fortunately we have still alive old parishioners who remember what the church was like in the early days. There were no side aisles, vestry, porch or organ. The floor was about a foot below the level of the church yard and paved with bricks. The chancel was filled with old square pews. On each side of the chancel was a gallery for the school children. The boys on one side, supervised by a master with a long stick in order to quell their restlessness, the girls on the other with a mistress to repair replace repressed their fidgeting and whispering. There was another gallery in the West End and the rest of the space was filled with square pews so high that when the congregation stood up, they could lean on the front with their elbows. There was a fine large chapel built 150 years earlier, probably for some of the Sandys family.

The ancient market cross appears not to have an ancient act, an actual cross. It was originally surrounded by a spreading flight of stone steps forming a Calvary which unfortunately, the late Rector Canon J W. Cockshott removed for the present brick plinth as his idea of adequately commemorating Queen Victoria's Jubilee. An iron metal weathercock had been fitted to the top of the cross but the action of time threatened the stone with disintegration so it was removed and metal clamps repaired the damage to the masonry.

The cross was surrounded by the various shops and stalls, the ale house, the malting house and smithy of a village wholly self-supporting. We see traces of the old malting house in Mr. George Driver's dwelling opposite the Red Lion. The old Tithe Barn on the site of the present school.

The Chequers with the ancient cellar was an old Ale House and the ancient building now occupied by Mr. Hugh Searle may have been either the smithy or part of the Chequers. There would also have been a bake house and a butcher shop nearby. The Red Lion had ample accommodation for horses and over the stable yard there still remains a room reserved for the coachman of the Lynn Rover coach.

Cage Lane took its name from the fact that where the Mission Hall now stands was a cage or lockup consisting of two cells where unruly parishioners were confined for the night prior to their deportation to Ely the following day. It was afterwards used as a pound for straying animals. The Mission Hall was put up in 1884 for the use of the local branch of the London Evangelistic Mission, and a new Wesleyan Chapel was built in 1885.

There were formerly two windmills. The one that was taken down was a short distance along the Mill Way-road and was known as Camps White Mill. The mills are shown on an old map dated 1604.

22 10 27(3)(4)(5)(6)ES

1922 10 28

Motor rally rag, p5

Mill Road – musical thoroughfare, p6*

1922 10 31

Mrs Rackham, West Chesterton, p4

November 1922 CDN & Ely Standard

1922 11 01

The Clerk of the weather marked his sense of the importance of the occasion by hustling up a choice consignment of nasty weather of the celebrated Cambridge polling day brand. In Petersfield ward cars inscribed "Vote for Robinson" and "Vote for Freyer" were much in evidence, but in the main seemed to be providing joy rides for the younger element of the district – possibly to keep them amused while mother voted

1922 11 02

Not for many years has such interest been shown in a local election as was manifested at the declaration of the poll last night. Outside the Cambridge Guildhall there was a large crowd, at one time approaching a thousand. The Conservative supporters were in great form, some shouted and cheered, whilst some young members of the University created a "certain liveliness". The Chief

Constable however was well prepared for all emergencies and the good humour and tact of the policemen soon put things in order

1922 11 02

The performance of the musical comedy "My Nieces" at the New Theatre was delayed for ten minutes as the result of the unsportsmanlike behaviour of a number of undergraduates in the stalls. During one scene one of the young men threw a jumping cracker on the stage. The members of the company were startled and cries of indignation arose from all parts of the house. The manager had the curtain lowered and the stage cleared. The Proctor and "bulldogs" appeared on the scene, being received with the customary cheers. After a number of names had been taken a large party of undergraduates left the Theatre, their exit greeted with applause. Afterwards attendants found a number of crackers in the Theatre

1922 11 03 ES

Adelaide railway crossing tragedy. 22 11 03&(2)ES

An 18 year old youth, the son of an Ely railway guard, met a tragic fate at Adelaide level crossing where he was employed as a gate boy. Evidence given to the inquest gives rise to the assumption that he made a brave attempt to fulfil his duty following an error of judgement.

Immediately prior to the accident, he was talking to a boy friend in the gate hut and apparently did not allow himself sufficient time to close the gates for an approaching goods train. He had succeeded in closing one gate but was caught halfway across the permanent way with the other locked.

No one other than an employee was allowed inside the gate hut. Notices to this effect were placed in prominent positions.

The unfortunate lad undoubtedly felt he had made an error and was brave enough to go and face it and it proved fatal. He was very active and obliging guide in his duties and never liked to keep anyone waiting 22 11 03&(2)ES

1922 11 04

The Cambridge & County Girls' School speech day was told that the school was not doing as well as it should because girls were being taken away too soon. They should be there for four or five years. Parents should realise this and it was no good them taking them away when they were 16. They should remain at the school until they were 18, or at least 17, if not they were keeping some other girl away who could have remained the proper time

Isle Ely election, p5

1922 11 06

The Central Committee on Women's Training and Employment hope to open a centre in Eden Street, Cambridge, for training girls in all branches of women's work including cookery, laundry, housewifery and health subjects. It is believed that many girls are prevented from taking up domestic work through lack of the money to buy the necessary outfit. In their needlework classes they will make their uniform and at the end of the training each girl will be completed with a complete uniform. The period of training is generally 13 weeks and the chance which this course gives to unemployed girls to make a fresh start is one which may not recur, and which should not lightly be refused # c.28

1922 11 06

Fen Ditton Parish Council asked the County Council to take steps for the acquisition for the purposes of a recreation ground of the field opposite the Plough Inn. Ald Tebbutt remarked that he did not think it was desirable to encourage football among young people, but he thought it was most desirable to encourage bowls among old men. (Laughter). Recreation grounds should not be only for cricket and football, but for the whole village, including women.

1922 11 06

A lamp-boy, G.E.R. of Thoday street, Cambridge was summoned for throwing a firework on Senate House-hill on 4th inst. - Fined 1s. Ten shillings was the fine imposed upon an undergraduate of Trinity College for a similar offence on Market-hill. Defendant said he did not know they were arresting people for letting fireworks off, or else he would not have been foot enough to do so in front of half the police force. An undergraduate of Corpus Christi who was fined 10s. stated that the came on to the square and saw a lot of police loafing about so he thought he would like to throw some fireworks

1922 11 07

The President of Cambridge Trades Council and Labour Party said they were extremely disappointed that Mrs Rackham was knocked out (at the council election). She had done more than any other lady for the working classes in Cambridge. No sooner was she off the Fulbourn Asylum Board of Visitors than whisky for the Visitors at their lunch was brought back. Mrs Rackham had been successful in getting the whisky knocked off, and had been fighting to get the inmates provided with butter instead of margarine and whole milk instead of skimmed milk

1922 11 10

Armistice Day - Remembrance Day as many people prefer to call it - once again comes round tomorrow. The occasion will be observed with all the solemnity of former years by all, not excepting the exuberant spirits who will participate in a promised 'Varsity "rag" for they will hold their noise at 11am and join with the rest in the two minutes' silence which will ensue throughout the country. The "rag" will take the form of a "circus". Undergraduates will be attired in the skins of wild animals. It is rumoured that the effigy of the ex- Kaiser will be burnt at the stake on Market Hill in the evening!

Town council advertising, p5*

Cam club baaa, p6*

1922 11 11

As in every other town and village throughout the land the Two Minutes Silence was observed in Cambridge today. In the streets traffic was stopped by the police and pedestrians stood just where they were when the first maroon went off. Market Hill was densely crowded and as the Guildhall clock started to chime men stood to attention and removed their hats, all movement ceased and the traffic stopped. The only sounds to be heard were the crying of one or two babies. Shortly before the second maroon a shuffling step was heard coming slowly along the Cury, a few turned their heads and saw an old man who, apparently oblivious, kept on his way undisturbed until a penetrating hiss: "Stand still, Beaver!" brought him back to this world and he stood with the rest of mankind # c.45.6

1922 11 13

If the Cambridge undergraduate can find any excuse for a "rag" he invariably organises a more or less elaborate affair. Yesterday's "circus" was a rag that everybody could enjoy; it did no harm to anybody and above all as a result of its labours aided Lord Haig's fund - "Poppy Day" - to the extent of £115 or thereabouts. The circus was a screamingly funny affair and brought everyone to doorways, windows and, in some cases, roof tops. The signal for the two minutes Armistice silence was heard in Downing-street and immediately the procession pulled up. The two minutes over pandemonium started as suddenly as it had ceased # c.36.95

1922 11 13 c

P.C. Bailey said he was on mounted duty on Saturday when he turned round and found that defendant had hold of his horse's tail, pulling it and causing it nearly to fall over. P.C. Hager spoke to seeing defendant seize the horse's tail and hind leg. When charged he said: "I was only stoking the horse's neck". The Chief Constable added that the defendant and several others were the cause of a great deal of trouble on Saturday night. They gave considerable trouble to the police and he asked for a heavy penalty. Defendant was attached to the Officer Training Corps in charge of horses. The Mayor said they considered it a very serious offence and defendant was fined 40s.

1922 11 15

(During the election) children did their best to amuse our representative with ditties apparently of their own concoction. One girl said "Vote for Stubbs and get more grub". The next attempt was better "Vote for Gray and lower pay, and have to work on Saturday". But what about Mr Montagu? Was there no little song for him? A little lad blurted forth "Vote for Montagu the worse for you". It was enough. Our representative fled into the mist

1922 11 15

Sir Douglas Newton, Conservative candidate, commenced a tour of the polling booths. All went well until Honey-hill, Cambridge, was approached. A large contingent of the youth of the neighbourhood were lying in ambush and as his car turned the corner swooped into the roadway with cheers and counter cheers that would have done credit to a large football match. They clambered on to the car and tore off the pink and white rosettes, which they promptly transferred to their own persons

1922 11 17

Dame Clara Butt had a great reception at the Cambridge Guildhall when, with other well-known artistes, she presented a second International Celebrity Concert. The hall was quite comfortably filled and for two and a half hours music lovers had a rare time. The famous contralto gave two trifles by Franco Leoni, "Poor Robin" and "The Little Bird", a delightful humorous number. The audience were much taken with it and, having given it to those in the body of the hall, Dame Clara Butt turned round and sang it to those in the orchestra # c.69

W.G. Pye stands council, p3

1922 11 18

Undergraduates - both male and female - took a prominent part in the parliamentary election contest. I learn that 212 undergraduates and students of a momentous and Girton registered their names as volunteers, and a large number ably assisted the Conservatives in the County, Borough and University contests. Their help was particularly valuable in the County as flying motor columns were organised for visits to remote villages, where the villagers were assembled by the ringing of a bell and addresses were given by some of the undergraduates, whilst others distributed literature or canvassed voters # c.33

Rackham parliamentary candidate, p5

1922 11 20

Tobacco after 5pm, p6*

1922 11 21

The growth of wireless since its first invention is truly wonderful, and one cannot fail to be impressed with the way in which it has been simplified. The present arrangements for "broadcasting" have resulted in the setting up of many private installations in Cambridge and some of the finest "sets" are being produced at Messrs G.H. Pye's works in Cam-road. In 1921 this firm experienced a very slack time, and in order to keep their workers employed, they commenced experiments in wireless. They are now producing as fast as they can simplified receiving sets of two to five valves # c.27.81 # c.27.1 : Pye

1922 11 22

At Saffron Walden Post Office Mr G.R. Cox, late town postman, was presented with the Imperial Service Medal by W.F. Barker, acting postmaster. It was the first of such medals ever granted to a member of the staff of that district. Mr Cox had served for 42 years without a blemish, and, more wonderful still, without once being absent through sickness. It was rare that a Post Office servant could boast of such a record. Mr Barker further expressed his appreciation at the manner in which all the staff had worked during the election pressure. From November 3rd to 13th 200,000 election communications passed through that office. He considered it no mean achievement that with the small available staff everything for despatch was date-stamped and disposed of by 4.30 p.m., the only casualties being some blistered hands and aching arms!

Cliff Squires photographs streets, p5*

1922 11 22 c

A meeting of the Newmarket Memorial General Committee was held at the Council Chamber. The Chairman said that he had spoken to "Mr.X" as to a site for the nurses' home near the Jubilee Clock, but that gentleman had told him that he was reserving the land there for another purpose. What was wanted for the nurses' home was two bedrooms, one for each nurse and a spare bedroom, a small dressing room for dressing small cases, and a largish room which could be made into a ward for four or six children. The secretary said he had £951.2s.6d in the bank

1922 11 24

Sir - I much regret to read the reports of two fatal accidents caused by being run down by motorists. This is no time to be anti-rear light, anti-dazzle or diddle-daddle, but to make a move and harness ourselves with the times that we live in, and not in the times of our forefathers. I do not profess to be a prophet, but as "Motor Cycling" predicts the time when lights will be on aeroplanes and "Tourist" predicts lights on pedestrians I will predict the times when aeroplanes will be in the form of motor-cars, fitted with folding wings made either to coast or fly and pedestrians will wear mechanical-propelled boots which will by law be compelled to have a light both rear and front - R.V. Leete

1922 11 24

The annual report of the Cambridgeshire Medical Officer of Health has just been issued. Demobilisation in 1919 was followed by the high birth rate of 20.7 per thousand in 1920. There were 131 illegitimate births. The proportion of illegitimate to total births which fell during the early stages of the war subsequently rising to a maximum in 1919 has now fallen somewhat below that for 1913. A lower level of infant mortality has only twice been reached, although 1921 was a year of exceptional drought and therefore likely to be prejudicial to infant life. Dealing with housing the report states that there is still abundant evidence of the continued existence of serious overcrowding

1922 11 24

The first dairy in this part of the country to obtain a Ministry of Health licence is the Stetchworth Dairies Certified Grade A Dairy Farm, Union Lane, Chesterton, which claims to be the largest private retailer in the Eastern Counties. The herd consists of 12 cows, six of them being pedigree Guernseys. The cows are accommodated in large, airy sheds, without stalls or partitions of any kind. Our representative was shown several bottles of milk which had been bottled for eight days. One of these was opened and the contents found to be only just beginning to "turn"; certified milk will keep perfectly fresh for four or five days

1922 11 24 ES

Ouse Drainage Board tax: vigorous protests. 22 11 24&(2)ES

Haddenham houses 'like pigsties', Earith-Sutton Road widening too expensive. 22 11 24(3)ES

1922 11 25

We regret to announce the death of Mr Joshua Taylor at the age of 76. Mr Taylor was the eldest son of the late Mr Joshua Taylor, who carried on a tailoring business in Cambridge and Ely. One small shop in Sidney-street doing what was mainly a country trade was all that comprised the Cambridge branch when Mr Taylor took charge. The little shop of sixty years ago developed steadily under his guidance into the present flourishing business of Messrs Joshua Taylor & Co. Ltd, tailors, hatters, bootmakers and general outfitters, which is on the same site as the shop occupied by the founder of the business # c.27.2

1922 11 28

As exponents of the art of classical dancing, the Russian Ballet have won considerable fame. Cambridge Guildhall is not the best of buildings in which to present such an entertainment and the fact that the Ballet held us whenever they appeared is testimony to the excellence of their work. They presented a variety of dances. Supporting the Ballet was Cavalier Gennaro de Tura, the famous tenor and dainty comedienne Miss Trixie Kay who found her way into the hearts of her audience.

1922 11 29

Mr Doggett told Saffron Walden Board of Guardians that a lady visitor had said she had found the fires in the women's wards very low at 3.30 and learned that instructions had been given that they were not to have any more coal that day. Another had examined the bed clothes and found only one fairly thick blanket, one very thin one and one counterpane. The inmate was experiencing discomfort through cold. He said they must take into consideration the ages of the occupants, also that the windows must of necessity be kept open

1922 11 30

Unemployed Xmas fund, p5

Pye in bye-election, p8

December 1922 CDN & Ely Standard

1922 12 01

P.C. Cudworth told Cambridge magistrates that he was on duty in Victoria Road when he saw defendant riding a bicycle without a front light. He stopped him and asked him where his light was. Defendant said it has just gone out and he was going to light it. He then dismounted from the bicycle and witness noticed he showed signs of having been drinking. Defendant took a box of matches from his coat pocket and attempted to strike one. Witness then noticed that the lamp on the machine was an electric one. This aroused his suspicions.

1922 12 01 ES

Old-time items: use of hour glass in churches, timing long sermons. 22 12 01ES

Stretham years ago. With regard to his recent lecture on the history of Stretham, the Rector has received an interesting letter from Mr. Josiah Sennitt, now of Hull. Mr. Sennitt writes:—"I well remember the old church before the restoration in 1876. There was only one gallery, which was reached by a staircase from the belfry. Mr. Tom Driver was then the leader of the singing. . . I well remember the three-decker pulpit, and no doubt, as a boy, I have stood in each of them. Mr. David Parish was the clerk and also our schoolmaster (.Mr. T.G. Parish's father). . . Although he was a strict schoolmaster, we liked him, and no schoolmaster was buried with greater regret than we showed at his funeral. The old church lives in my memory for two reasons. I used to go with my grandmother to the morning service on Sundays, and when standing on the seat I could just see over the top to the second deck, the minister in his white surplice. Then I saw him come down the aisle and past my pew into the Vestry for his black gown, then go to the top deck, where I could see him better. Another reason is that on Wednesday evenings in Lent my mother used to take me to the services, and on the Wednesday before Good Friday the Curate. Mr. Rainbird, who was afterwards Rector of Witcham, preached a sermon on the text St. Luke 22 and 44, "And being in an agony he prayed more earnestly." The solemnity of the subject impressed my boyish mind very much. The old church clock had only one hand, the hour hand, and us boys could see it from the schoolroom window; we often thought the clock had stopped, it seemed so long between 11 and 12. I believe the last corpse that was buried in the old church was that of Mr Edward Grainger. My father made his coffin. The vault was in the centre of the Church. Just under the baptismal font. The front was removed and the vault opened to receive the coffin. I can just remember it. Since coming to Hull in 1872 and during the lifetime of my father and mother, I always spent my holiday at home, and on one occasion I remember when on holiday and through the kindness of the Parish Clerk, I had a look at the old marriage register and I found the marriage of my father and mother: 'David Sennitt and Martha Pratt, March 3rd 1847'. I have been really pleased to read your lecture and to write this letter recalling scenes and memories of more than half a century ago. Thanking you sincerely for your patience and research in compiling the records." 22 12 01(2)ES [cutt]

1922 12 02

Several people have remarked on a curious difference at night-time in the appearance of the Catholic Church corner in Cambridge. The explanation seems to be that the church clock is now illuminated, after a lapse of some years. Well, it is very nice to see it again, and we hope it may continue

Laurie advertisement, p3

Politics?, p6*

1922 12 04

Persc School sports, p6

Quoits League, p6

Mental Hospital menu, p6

1922 12 05

A patient in Fulbourn Asylum escaped from the institution on Sunday and this afternoon was still at large. The "Mystery Man" - who refuses to speak - was sitting in the airing court, apparently in a peaceful and contented state of mind. Suddenly he threw off his coat and waistcoat and made a dash for the railings. Jumping on to a rabbit hutch he scaled the railings in true acrobatic style and made across fields. Here he discarded his lower garments and continued his flight clad only in his shirt. A short time later he was seen running across fields tearing his last remaining garment off as he went and was last seen entering the woods near the Gogs

Guildhall organ, p6

1922 12 06

Guildhall organ was gift, p5

1922 12 07

Unemployment was the principal matter discussed at the meeting of the Cambridge Trades Council and Labour Party. Mr Poll was glad that the unemployed were to pack the gallery of the Cambridge Council Chamber; it ought to show some of the tranquil old men on the Council that the unemployed were in earnest. The Chairman said the unemployed question had been a nightmare to him. To see men unused to the pick putting in three days on a sewer until their hands bled was enough to make another man's heart bleed

1922 12 07

Councillors and representatives of Boys' Clubs met to discuss the possibility of providing recreation, together with some useful occupation for the ninety odd lads between the ages of 14 and 19 who are now unemployed in Cambridge. A large number of these boys were running the streets and probably deteriorating through idleness and lack of discipline. The Council had tried an experiment in the form of a gymnasium, but it fell through. The boys were at a very critical stage of growth, and it was dangerous for them to be going about the streets with nowhere to go. At home they were not wanted. They were getting in a very dangerous frame of mind, for they felt they were inferior to others. # c.37.9

Guildhall organ rebuilding rejected, p5

1922 12 08

The question of whether dustmen should smoke arose at the meeting of Cambridge Town Council. It had been suggested that the men should be allowed to smoke on duty but the men in many cases had to go through the rooms of houses and the Committee felt that if they granted permission to the dustmen to smoke the other employees of the Highways Department would consider that they should also smoke. Councillor Few remarked the dustmen rarely went through the houses. In Romsey Town, unless the householders put their receptacles in a queue in the road they were never collected.

Councillor Lunn: "The men do smoke in any case, so you might as well realise it as shut your eyes to it"

1922 12 08

The urgent need for carrying out schemes of public importance in order to relieve the unemployment situation in the Borough were admitted on all hands at the meeting of the Cambridge Town Council. During the past two years they had been endeavouring as far as possible each winter to find work for those men who unfortunately were out of employ. Last year they were able to place 200 men on the Sewage Farm. That work had nearly come to a close. It was stated that there were 800 men out of work in the Borough which was an increase of nearly 100 over last year. Suggestions for further work included underground lavatories at the junction of Victoria Road, Chesterton Road and Milton Road, a bridge across the Cam at the bottom of Walnut Tree Avenue and a recreation ground on the Rock Estate # c.32.1

1922 12 09

The Cambridge & District Wireless Society had a "full house" at their demonstration on broadcasting. Mr T. Robinson, manager of Pye's Scientific Instrument Co. had very kindly consented to demonstrate their latest broadcast receiver of five valves attached to which was a Magnavox loud-speaking telephone. Mr Robinson tuned up for the London broadcasting station and amongst the items heard were Mr Vivian Foster, known to Cambridge theatre-goers as the "vicar of mirth" who entertained the audience by his witty sayings. During the evening the Birmingham and Manchester broadcasting stations were also received. The latest news, billiard scores, market reports and latest weather report were items among a very varied programme

1922 12 12

St Botolph rector's farewell, p3

Cambridge Revisited for Christmas, p6

1922 12 13

A satisfactory state of affairs was reported at the annual meeting of the Cambridge Home of Mercy. During the year the Home had been full. 16 girls were admitted, 12 were sent out to service and outfits were provided. One was sent to a stricter home, one to a sanatorium and two to be certified as mentally defective. Four girls had been married. Letters from old girls in service showed that many are doing remarkably well.

Big cheques for unemployed Christmas fund, p5

1922 12 14

As the result of negotiation the bulk of the Ely barracks has been acquired by Ely Urban District Council for the sum of £2,750. The property comprises three cottages in Silver Street, eight cottages in Parade-lane, Surveyor's office, stables, post mortem room and mortuary, armoury, Quartermasters Stores, adjutant's house, parade ground and drill shed.

1922 12 15

St Botolph vicar presentation, p7

1922 12 15 ES

British Friesian cattle and milk yields. 22 12 15ES

The great bulk of the land around the Isle of Ely was under arable cultivation. Dairy farming is relegated to a minor place in the sphere of local agriculture. Few farmers in the district concern themselves with cattle breeding and of those that do, how many take the same pride and set the same standards as they do in the case of their Shire horses? The very excellence of the land for other uses and the limited area of pasture make it all the more important that the cattle kept should be of the best

Mr. Lewis Shepperson of March possesses a choice herd of British Friesians and to him falls the credit for being the pioneer breeder of Friesians in the District. 22 12 15ES

Stretham omnibus owner fined

Jabez Cornwell Parnell, omnibus owner, of High Street Stretham, was summoned for driving a motor omnibus without being licenced for that purpose in King Street Cambridge. P.c. Saunders said he asked the defendant to produce his licence, which had expired on the 20th of October. Parnell alleged a 'bullying manner' on the part of the officer and said it was his first offence. The Chief Constable stated that the defendant had been told where he could pick up and sit down in Cambridge and that was Drummer Street. But he would not go there. Acting on his instructions, the police had to be keen on such men. A fine of £1 was imposed. 22 12 15(2)

Christmas Shopping in Ely

Russell Wright, of High Street, provides superior quality meat at the lowest prices. His pork pies, home cured bacon, ox tongues and the noted 'Ely' sausages are excellent table delicacies.

At the entrance to the Butter Market, there is a little shop which has stood for centuries. Fred Tucker has never before secured a better stock of turkeys, geese, ducks, chickens and game than this year. An early visit is essential for the rush is bound to ensue in the course of the next few days. If unable to call, phone or you may be too late to get just what you want.

Pledger and Sons General Stores in St. Mary's Street has a fine assortment of all seasonable goods which the thrifty house wife must not overlook, including the famous lamp oil noted for its brightness. Their blue motor van which delivers to the surrounding villages is one of the smartest of its kind in the district, and is noted for its efficient service.

New finishing plant has been installed in the repairing department of Messrs Gibbons Boot and Shoe establishment in Broad Street. A special room finishing room was erected when the premises were recently extended. Personal supervision is given to all orders. Nothing is more acceptable as a Christmas gift than a pair of cosy slippers

A portrait is a popular method of sending seasonable greetings and Messrs. Starr and Rignall should be consulted at once. The excellent show of postcards and the magnificently finished enlargements now on view have proved a big attraction to passers-by. Wedding groups are a branch of photography in this which this firm holds an unblemished reputation

The International Stores are not backwards in delicacies for the Christmas table. Their windows show a wonderful assortment of good things at wonderfully moderate prices.

Those desiring sports requisites should go to Thurmott's for a large stock of high-class footballs, boxing gloves and shin guards. Trade cash bags, all leather goods, ladies handbags and saddlery equipment may also be purchased. 22 12 15ES

1922 12 16

"A band of brothers - knights of the road" was the title applied to commercial travellers at the annual dinner of the Cambridge branch of the United Kingdom Commercial Travellers' Association, held at the Lion Hotel. The speaker said that in Cambridge they had some of the finest shops they could find in the provinces. He believed the great percentage of them were healthy, sound businesses and a great many of those present could say that in Cambridge there were fewer bad debts than in other towns they visited.

1922 12 18

Sir Horace and Lady Darwin opened the splendid new playroom built by Mr C. W. Shinkfield and the boys at the Littleton House School, Girton. This room, which has been erected in the garden, takes the form of a timbered hut. The stove, flooring, electric lights and decorating have been set up and carried out by Mr Shinkfield and the boys.

1922 12 18

Christmas in the shops. Messrs E.T. Saint & co., the well-known automobile engineers of the Hyde Park Corner Garage, Cambridge, are proud of the facts that as agents for the "Sirrah" motor cycle they are able to place within the reach of the Cambridge public a real motor cycle at a cost of 25 guineas. In the way of cars their agencies include the popular 10 h.p. Swift 4-seater at £275

Littleton House School, p3*

1922 12 19

Look at shops, p5*

1922 12 20

There are at present four schools in Burwell and as from January the needs of elementary education will be served by three. Burwell Parochial (Boys) School will be closed with a consequent annual saving of approximately £500. An important part of the curriculum will be practical instruction in woodwork, cookery and laundry work. At the present moment this instruction is carried out at a room in the "Five Bells" but it is desirable instruction should be available on the school premises and not in a building half a mile away

1922 12 21

Albert Brown of Stretham bankrupt, p3

Littleport agriculturalists Xmas box, p6

1922 12 22

The casual spectator dropping in at the Service Buildings, Eden Street, Cambridge might well believe he had found the headquarters of toy-land. It is here that the work of packing and distributing the toys sent in connection with the Children's Toy Fund is taking place with a busy hive of workers, largely composed of Boy Scouts and Girl Guides engaged in carrying out these duties. For the guidance of the packers a blackboard announces the fact that each parcel should contain two oranges, one apple, one bag of nuts, one bag of sweets, one bon-bon, two large and one small toy. Besides this each child was to receive a book or picture paper, and chocolates were to be given to babies

1922 12 22

"Christmas comes but once a year, but when it comes it brings good cheer". Subscribers to the Unemployed Christmas Fund, had they paid a visit to the Labour Exchange, Regent-street, Cambridge, could have had no doubt that the Christmas message they have sent out to the Cambridge unemployed will bring gladness and some measure of seasonable cheer to many homes which would otherwise be devoid of it. Each man received a 5s. voucher for himself, a similar one in respect of his wife and a half-crown voucher in respect of each child. The vouchers were available for the purchase of coal, bread, meat, milk or provisions. There were also special pink vouchers in respect of kindly offers by tradesmen to supply groceries, meat, flour etc. up to a given amount. One man was given vouchers for himself and seven children.

Cottenham light railway, p3*

1922 12 22 ES

Earith-Sutton Road if improved would be taken over by County Council. 22 12 22ES

Although the figures in the Surveyor's estimate for the widening and strengthening of the Earith Bridge to Sutton road rather frightened some members of the Ely Rural Council, it was explained that if the road were taken over by the County Council it would save them £100 a year. Properly repaired, it would open up a good main road. The road had been repaired to the extent of £500 but in its present state it would cost the council annually £500. But by borrowing £5,000 and making it a main road repairable by the County Council, they would save £100 in upkeep. It was decided to try to obtain a grant from the Road Board. 22 12 22ES

Stretham RDC by-election – Harry Norman elected for opposing water supply. 22 12 22(2)ES

Rural District Council for the parish of Stretham. But the poll revealed strong public feeling against the proposed water supply scheme for the district. Mr. Harry Norman was the easy victor. Only 50% of the electorate polled and the result was in no way surprising. Counting only occupied 20 minutes and showed H. Norman received 178 votes and. F.G. Hazel 40. The total number of the electorate is 446, so that 228 persons did not vote 22 12 22ES

The scheme for the union of the Wesleyan Methodists, United Methodists and Primitive Methodists was considered by the Ely Wesleyan Circuit. In England, there was 4000 villages which had no Nonconformist Church at all while in others there were two or three for quite a small number of inhabitants. It meant that each church only had a small attendance whereas one church would probably have a good number of members. In such cases churches might or might not be closed, or services held alternately in existing churches. Arrangements would be made for the opening of Nonconformist chapels in villages where there was not one present. After discussion a resolution in favour of the scheme was adopted. 22 12 22ES

Ely Council House Rents.

Sir, At Ely Urban District Council Mr. Cutlack stated that before the reduction in the rent of the Bray's Lane houses were made, he would like to study the income of the tenants.

As the wife of one of the tenants I protest against such high handed procedure. If Mr. Cutlack had the spending, as we women have, of our husbands' earnings on their reduced wages, he would soon alter his opinion as to whether or not we required a reduction in rents. At the present cost of living, I can assure him it is with great difficulty that we are able to keep things going, much less the standard of respectability that the Council required when they selected their tenants.

Might I suggest that should some of the Councillors' thirst for an inquiry, they initiate an inquiry into the price of beer and into the income of the brewers.

We are only asking for a reduction of rent because it is necessary, just and equitable and we are surprised that the members of the Council should be constantly heaping indignity upon us every time the Bray's Lane housing question arises. Yours, An Indignant Bray's Lane Tenant. 22 12 22ES

1922 12 23

New Year rockets, p5

1922 12 27

Windy, showery and in every way uncongenial weather fell to the lot of Cambridge on Christmas Day. No matter how hard the wind blew or how hard the rain beat down it was impossible to mar the festive season, for those who wished to stay at home did so and felt all the snuggler. In the early part of the day there was a wonderful amount of traffic on the main roads leading from the town, tending to show that the stay-at-home Christmas is not so popular as it is sometimes supposed to be. Few outside attractions were attempted on Christmas Day, but in the realm of sport much interest was shown in the visit to the town of the Racing Club de Paris, who met the Town Football Club before a crowd approaching 4,000. Those wishing to see a football match further afield had the opportunity of doing so, for the G.E.R. ran an excursion train to Tottenham

1922 12 27

If a crowd of supremely happy kiddies be a cure for the "blues" anyone suffering that way would have done well to visit the Central School, Cambridge, when a further party of the 3,000 poor and needy children were given tea, a sight of the Mayor in his red robes, four pantomime horses, and a really good entertainment. The noise - well it is really indescribable. Any policemen directing strangers to the schools need only have said "Hear that noise? Well that's it". Two of the young ladies appearing in the pantomime "Cinderella" at the New Theatre kindly volunteered their services for the tea and following them came the four little ponies which draw Cinderella's coach to the ball

1922 12 28

Curtis, Stretham, tree accident trial, p3

Xmas morning bathers, p4

1922 12 29

If you want to pay a visit to Fairyland, and you doubtless do whatever your age, pay a visit to the A.D.C. Theatre, Cambridge, where you can spend an afternoon or evening in the land of Make-believe. Mrs Pearl Lambeth's annual productions are always eagerly looked forward to and we have never been disappointed. This year there are two fairy pantomimes, "The Magic Horse Shoe" and "The Making of a Snow Queen"

Kiddies day, Rendezvous, p4

1922 12 29 ES

Who wants water: referendum of householders in progress. 22 12 29ES

A referendum of the householders in the Ely Rural District water scheme area will be held to decide whether the scheme should be proceeded with

The referendum, which involves heavy clerical work, is the most satisfactory method of ascertaining the views of the ratepayers on this vital issue. And the Council ought to be congratulated on their decision. Better consideration towards the people they represent cannot have been shown. Circulars giving an explanation of the financial outlay are being sent to every house holder accompanied by a postcard asking the question whether they are prepared to have water laid on.

The estimated cost per house are a matter of greatest importance; these are shown to be so nominal there can be no sound arguments against the scheme. Analysts reports have long disclosed the unsatisfactory water in many villages and it behoves inhabitants to grasp the opportunity of improving this state of affairs once and for all. Householders should consider the position and support the scheme because the water is badly needed and the scheme will alleviate unemployment in the district. 22 12 29ES

Stretham stock club 'failed to pay benefit for lame horse' - Arthur Sennitt claimed £9.3.7 from Chas Crampton Parnell-counter claimed for £13.10. Parnell bought horse for 60 gns and was accepted Stretham stock club at value of £20. Since then horse examined and value reduced to £18. On death of owner entitled to 3/4 of valuation. Value reduced in 1921 because of 'greasy leg' but recovered. Agreed by committee to slaughter but persuaded it could work on fen farm.... Eventually slaughtered for £2.... Parnell acted in contravention of committee and excluded from benefit p3

Stretham bankruptcy Albert Brown deficiency of £313.14.2; Aged 37 started farming 43 acres at Stretham in 1911 two bad seasons and want of capital p5

The remains at the late Mr. Thomas Russell Addison were conveyed by train to Soham and interred in the family vault near the entrance to the north door of the parish church.

Seldom if ever before has an event at Soham been attended with such curiosity. Crowds of people visited the church to witness the opening of the family vault and the numerous historical descriptions on the large tombstone have been repeatedly read and discussed.

About 1857 The late Dr. William Addison, who at that time was a local medical practitioner at Addison house, Sand Street, Soham obtained a special permit from the Home Secretary for the burial of himself, wife and three children in the family vault. He died in November 1868 and his widow died in July 1883, both being interred in the same vault.

The churchyard was closed for public burial in 1853. One or two vaults have since been filled and the interment of Mr. T R. Addison will positively be the last in the church yard. It was astonishing considering the amount of time that had lapsed since his departure from the district and that so many inhabitants have should assemble for the last rites. The family can trace that origin back to Oliver Cromwell's fourth son Henry. 22 12 29ES

The Kings Bench Divisional Court heard an appeal by Stella, wife of Frederick Curtis, bootmaker of Stretham against a decision on a claim for damages for personal injuries obtained by the falling of a tree. Mrs Curtis, a fruit picker and farm and agricultural worker, said on the 17th of March 1922, she was lawfully upon a field in Wilburton, the property of Charles Murfitt of Stretham. Men were engaged felling a tree on a plantation adjoining the field and they so negligently and unskilfully carried out the work that the tree fell into the field. It struck Mrs. Curtis who was carrying a child, killing the child and injuring her. The County Court judge had been of the opinion that the men had not been negligent and that Mrs. Curtis instead of running away from the danger had run into it. The Court decided that the case must go for a new trial. 22 12 29ES

1922 12 30

New Year rockets, p4*

Bentinck Arms share-out club, p4

1923 Cambridge Daily News & Ely Standard

I have reader-printer copies of the articles, which have been scanned
Some stories from Ely Standard added

January 1923 CDN

1923 01 01

For most people the practice of watching the Old Year out and the New Year in has considerable attraction. It had that attraction for some 700 people when Mr Arthur Deck revived the ancient custom of letting off one rocket for the departing year and one for the New Year. For the first time since 1913-14 when the War put a stop to the practice has the New Year been welcomed in Cambridge in this way. The proceedings were not marked with that liveliness that some of us remembered was evinced on previous occasions, but still the interest taken speaks well for the continuation of the custom. The firing of rockets was started in 1820 by Mr Deck's grandfather

1923 01 01

A "Cat Lover" writes asking me to draw attention to the fact that the almost annual outbreak of poisoning of cats is occurring in the neighbourhood of Mill Road, Cambridge. For some years past at this period of the year many domestic pets have been lost in the district in this way, and he suggests it is time the perpetrators of these outrages was detected and punished. Of course to some people "pussy" is anathema, but so are crowing cocks, cackling hens and seed-consuming pigeons to others and we have to learn to bear and forbear. Owners of cats will do well to take warning from this notice and seep a watch on their pets

Battle of baths, Jesus Green, p3

Police pay, p4

1923 01 03

Ely burial board artificial wreaths, p3

Death John Metcalfe fens, p3

Old folks trees, p4

Salvation Army, p4*

1923 01 04

The Rendezvous was the scene of a most enjoyable function when about 60 members of the staff and friends of the Central Cinema in Hobson Street, Cambridge, were entertained to a supper dance by the directors of the Cinema. The proceedings commenced at 11 o'clock with a supper. Mr L.A. Boulter (Wardour Film Co) said he considered the Central Cinema one of the best equipped cinemas in the Eastern Counties. The company then adjourned to the dance hall for dancing and games which were kept up until 4.30 on Wednesday morning

1923 01 05

Mr Francis told Chesterton Board of Guardians that Oakington was supplied with water from a well on Queens' College Farm. There was an agreement between the trustees of Marsh's Charity and the Council for the pipe to pass through the land. The agreement terminated in 1922 and the Council had been given notice to terminate the agreement which would mean that the whole water supply of the village would be cut off. This would lead to the installation of a new well at the expense of the parish. The Clerk said he thought it was only a matter of rent

1923 01 05 ES

Death of Ald C. Bidwell; life of public service in City and County; impressive funeral at Ely 23 01 05

1923 01 06

Before the criminal business was commenced at the County Quarter Sessions Sir George Fordham said he would like to call attention to the state of Newmarket Road on race days. The danger to foot passengers was acute and scandalous and they went in danger of their lives. Cars were driven at a high speed and tried to pass one another. A case had come before the Royston bench when a young man had been seriously injured owing to a car suddenly coming out from behind a large lorry. It was a great and growing evil and the Home Office should consult as to some effective method of police supervision

1923 01 08

The staff of the "Cambridge Daily News" had a night off on Saturday when they sat down to dinner together in "The Dug-Out", Guildhall Street, Cambridge. It was the first gathering of the kind for very many years. Mr A.C. Taylor (managing director) said he had tried to carry on the good work that his father had done in the town. He had the advantage of a loyal staff and he knew that on them depended the actual work during the few years that he was trying to pick up the threads of newspapers. Mr Morley Stuart (Editor) said some of the staff who had been working together for a good many years and had passed through some rather strenuous times had felt it would be a good thing if they could meet round the dinner table. It helped to rub off the rough edges and to enable them to understand each other better.

1923 01 10

Cottenham League of Nations, p3

Newnham Institute, p3*

1923 01 11

The social activities of the local postal employees are well known and their efforts in this direction are always marked by thoroughness. They do not forget the children, and more especially do they remember the children of those who went away from their midst in the dark days of the war and did not come back. At the Post Office and Engineering Staff's Children's Party, held in the Co-operative Hall, a number of these little orphans and their more fortunate companions, with many others who were not too old to enjoy themselves, had a right merry time.

1923 01 12

After a long discussion the Cambridge Town Council today decided to embark on a scheme for the erection of 239 houses on the Chesterton Road and Milton Road site, viz 30 houses of the parlour-type, 165 houses of the non-parlour type with three bedrooms and 44 houses of the non-parlour type with two bedrooms

Oddfellows Jubilee, p3*

1923 01 13

Silver Street alternative, p3*

Pet moose, p5

1923 01 15

Walking feat, p3

1923 01 16

Blind doctor, p3*

Sugar beat industry, p3*

Doctor Yorke betroval – Cambridge days, p4*

1923 01 17

Richmond Road school, p3

1923 01 18

Longstowe builder's affairs, p3

Borough housing scheme, p5*

1923 01 19

When Mr D. Gadsby, in quest of relics of Saxton times, deflected into the little Roman Catholic Church at Saffron Walden on his way to the old castle ruins it was very fortunate for Walden. For the result has been a drawing of "The Agony in the Garden". Mr Gadsby said "The loneliness of that little church in that rough uncared-for street haunted me. I got the impression that there was seldom the sound of a footfall there from one service to another and - well I just had to get busy". The painting, which has been hung on the west side of the sanctuary, was unveiled on Sunday last

Lucky newsvendor, p3

1923 01 19 ES

Ely villages' water: modified scheme suggested for Littleport, Coveney, Witcham, Mepal, Sutton, Wentworth, Witchford 23 01 19

Haddenham farmers' protest; inquiry demanded into Ouse rating; will not pay 23 01 19a

Stretham: Depression in agriculture – Ely meeting, W.I. 23 01 19

1923 01 20

Unemployed Xmas fund, p4*

1923 01 20 c

The Cambridge Mayoral reception was a very happy affair, and the 500 guests had a thoroughly good time. I notice that in the report of the function reference was made to the younger members of the company being eager to get on with the dancing. That term, I presume was applied to all who felt young as well as those who looked it. Some of the civic fathers could give points to the juveniles in the matter of dancing. One alderman in particular looked as if he had discovered the secret of perpetual youth. It was a mixed gathering representative of all parties. Freemasons foregathered, Rotarians rotated and Labour leaders lounged lazily.

1923 01 22

Cambridgeshire County Council passed a resolution that the pay of the Cambs Constabulary should be reduced 5s. a week. Councillor Webb said they had to face grim realities. The present condition of agriculture was far worse than ever before in the memory of man. They would have to make drastic reductions or they would not be able to collect the money they voted away. Councillor Stubbs opposing the motion said the police rendered very valuable services; their life was a very strenuous one and made heavy calls upon their nervous system. In his opinion they were not receiving extraordinary pay for the work they were called upon to do

1923 01 22

Cambridgeshire County Council's Roads Committee recommended that when the roadmen's hours of work are reduced from 50 to 48 per week the wages be reduced from 35s. to 30s. Councillor Stubbs said that Cambs roads were among the best in the country and the work of the roadmen ought to be paid for as skilled work. The Council ought to set an example both as to wages and conditions. What standard of life were they setting up by giving a wage of 30s? It worked out at 2d. per head per meal and how in the name of heaven did they expect families to live decently on that?

1923 01 22

Saturday and Sunday were great days in the history of local Unitarians, for they witnessed the realisation of a dream - the opening and dedication of a permanent Unitarian Church building in Cambridge. For something like 20 years Unitarians in Cambridge have been meeting in hired halls. The new hall is a particularly fine one in Victoria Street and eminently suitable for the purpose intended. It was also stated that a member of the congregation had now undertaken to erect a memorial church, which would mean that the new hall would be greatly extended

Ouse drainage scheme protests, p3

G.K. Chesterton speech, p3

1923 01 23

Good news for Cambridge. The Linoleum King will commence his Great Sale on Thursday when he will dispose of 50 tons of very thick Cork Linoleum direct from the Mills in Lancaster from 2s per remnant, bath towels and hundreds of other useful articles including 5,000 large size Pillow Slips at 6d each. Don't fail to visit the working man's friend, whom you have read about in all leading papers – advert

1923 01 24

West Cambridgeshire fruit growers, p4

1923 01 25

Neville Chamberlain in Cambridge, p4

1923 01 26

A shop without a sale is like a ship without a rudder. Surplus stock must be sold at all cost. We must turn our stock over, that is why we offer such knock-out bargains. Boys and youths' overcoats in naps, cheviots and all-wool blanket cloths from 5s.11d. Boys' knickers in splendid wearing quality materials from 1s. Ladies' coats for winter wear in various blanket cloths, well-tailored, absolute bargains from 6s.11d. Special sale bargains for tomorrow - 300 men's caps 1s. Northern Clothing Co., 9 Guildhall Street (opposite Corn Exchange), Cambridge – advert

1923 01 26 ES

Isle of Ely Constabulary Police Football team – named photo 23 01 26

1923 01 27

The war was responsible for a good many things and amongst others was the delay in completing the King Edward VII memorial scheme in Cambridge. Soon after his death a memorial fund raised £10,000 for Addenbrooke's Hospital. £250 was retained for a statue, bust or picture. Statuary is very costly at present but we find we can obtain a bronze bust of King Edward by the late Sir Thomas Brock, the sculptor of the bust of Queen Victoria now in the vestibule of the Guildhall. The committee recommended that the offer be accepted as it would make a welcome addition to the somewhat bare vestibule of the Guildhall

Henry Crickmore, character, p6*

1923 01 29

The third annual meeting of the Cambridgeshire Federation of Women's Institutes was held in the Cambridge Guildhall. Representatives from 28 out of 29 institutes attended and steady expansion was reported in all branches. The office and shop at 10 St Edward's Passage has been a great factor in this advance. Institute members now have a central meeting place where they can view each other's work and exchange ideas, whilst inhabitants of Cambridge have the opportunity of getting into touch with country women and are glad to profit from the results of the homecrafts practiced by their country sisters

W. Stockbridge death, p3*

Royal Engineers dinner, p4

1923 01 30

Whippet club racing, p4

1923 01 31

Rotary first annual dinner, p3*

Agricultural crisis, p4*

February 1923 CDN

1923 02 01

An attempt to settle the question of the construction of an open-air bath on Jesus Green or Midsummer Common was made at the meeting of the Cambridge Town Council and provide work for the unemployed. Councillor Briggs said unemployment was becoming a serious menace to the town. If they could get this scheme through at once with old enable the Unemployment Committee to have something when they met the unemployed later that day

1923 02 01

A meeting of the Free Church Council were told that pessimists talked of the depravity of the rising generation and said that young people were too frivolous. They heard a lot about the jazz and the night clubs, but all young people did not want such things. If they were not what they might be the older generation were really to blame; they were responsible for the rising generation

1923 02 01

The need for more land for the allotment holder was demonstrated at the first annual meeting of the Chesterton Allotment Association. Three hundred applications for land have already been received and it was reported that the Town Clerk is in communication with Clare College with respect to the purchase of a field in Milton and Scotland roads. There were some 24 acres contained therein. Mrs Stevenson said she was exceedingly interested in this East Chesterton's move towards getting satisfactory allotments. She thought it wise for this part of the town to see about getting their allotments before they got built over.

1923 02 01

Speaking at the annual dinner of the Cambridge Motor Boat Club held at Matthew's Café, Cambridge, the Mayor said he had often, when walking on the tow path, looked at the "motorists of the Cam" with envying eyes. He had thought what a lazy lot of chaps they were. (Laughter). But he had also thought what a jolly good time they were having. The Town Council had just become Conservators of the Cam. The Bill was an accomplished fact, and no doubt those present were looking to the Council to use a magic wand and make an ideal waterway of the river at once. (Hear, hear). If those who were motorists of the Cam could hand over to the Council about £20,000, he thought the Council could manage that. His recollection went back over 50 years when it was a highway of commerce. The quayside in Bridge Street was line up with 20 or 30 barges containing coal, stone, wool and food. A great deal of employment was found on that quayside; many hundreds used to be employed there

Miss M. Sherlock, artist, p3

Richmond Road school closure, p5

Youth of today, p3*

1923 02 02

A fire which might have assumed much more alarming proportions but for the efforts of the villagers and the promptness of the Cambridge Borough Fire Brigade, broke out in a stack at Red Brick Farm, Hardwick. The fire was noticed about 2 o'clock on Thursday afternoon and a messenger was sent to Comberton Post Office and the Brigade received the call from there at 2.58. When the messenger returned to Hardwick he found the tender in charge of Sergt Claugue already on the spot having covered the distance of about six miles within 12 minutes of receiving the call

Cottenham light railway – historical account, p3*

Electric dustcarts, p6*

1923 02 02 ES

Ely villages' water supply, scheme approved 23 02 02

After three years during which almost every meeting has brought protracted discussions, the Ely Rural council approved the modified water scheme by nine votes to three. Seven councillors who had taken a prominent part in defeating the scheme did not vote.

Insofar as the scheme did not affect some villages, the representatives of those districts not requiring the water, were assured that they would not in any way be involved in the expenditure.

The scheme provided for the Council being the owners of their own source of supply and plant by the purchase of property at Kenny Hill and the sinking of a well and erection of pumping plant (oil engines) and the laying of pipes from Kenny Hill to supply a Littleport, Coveney, Sutton, Mepal, Wentworth, and Witcham.

As the line of pipes for the carrying of water runs through the villages of Downham, the Engineer suggested that each resident as required the water along the route should be supplied by the tapping of the main pipe, although they may not reside in the villages included in the scheme.

Sutton had sent a petition from ratepayers against being included, declaring it would be too heavy a burden on the ratepayers.. But Mr. Darby said that although there was a majority against the scheme, he was convinced it was an urgent necessity and would take the responsibility of including Sutton. 23 02 02 ES

1923 02 03

University Institute Animal Physiology, p3

1923 02 07

Undergraduates fined, p3*

1923 02 08

Open air bath, p3

1923 02 09

Flat-handed police – 23 02 09 p5

1923 02 09 ES

County Library scheme launched at Soham by Voluntary committee after Parish Council refused to adopt; Bourn and Isleham had also refused 23 02 09a # c.77.2

A meeting was held at the Soham Infant School so to discuss the advisability of launching the County Library scheme in the village with the aid of a voluntary committee of literary enthusiasts. The scheme was originally laid before the Soham Parish Council who were asked to cooperate with the County Education Committee for the purpose of inaugurating a library. After lengthy and heated discussions, the Council replied they did not wish to adopt the scheme, as they did not approve of the spendthrift action of the County Education Committee in embarking upon so expensive a project.

An effort was therefore being made by the authorities to inaugurate the scheme independent of the support of the Parish Council. There was only a small attendance including the Miss Brooks, County Librarian. Only two other Parish Councils, Bourn and Isleham had refused to cooperate with the education committee. But each in of these places of voluntary committee had been set up and the scheme was working very well. The library had been form a grant of £750 pounds from the Carnegie Trust. 300 books were already available for Soham and if it was found that demand was in excess of this arrangements could be made accordingly by the local librarian. Books could be chosen and were returned every three months. The whole cost of the scheme would cost £100 a year which would be paid out of the county right. It was proposed that the meeting adopt the library scheme Mr Jelley was appointed Librarian. The cookery room at the Junior Girls' Council School in Clay Street could be used for the storage of books and the exchanges take place there.

At Isleham Library the books have now been arranged upon shelves and are much more accessible. All books must be returned by February 21st as they are to be returned to headquarters and a fresh consignment received. Librarians have asked for three times the number to be sent, so great has been the demand. A list is on view on which borrowers are asked to mark any book for which they have a preference. 23 02 09aES

Mr. Chambers again raised the question of an additional goods siding at Black Bank Station. The siding accommodation was insufficient to cope with the additional sugar beet traffic. His own horses and men frequently stood idle waiting for trucks of coal to be placed for unloading, entailing a personal loss of as much as £20 pounds a year. Something should be done to remedy the evil. The position at Pymoor was equally bad. When carts were backed up against trucks for unloading it was impossible for others to pass. 200 acres of sugar beet had been grown in the parish last year. 23 02 09ES

1923 02 10

Massage week – 23 02 10 p3

1923 02 12

Cry of unemployed – 23 02 12 p3

1923 02 14

Mammoth show – 23 02 14 p3

1923 02 14

In the Divorce Court a Cambridge man petitioned for the dissolution of his marriage because of his wife's adultery. Three months after he returned to France from a leave in November 1918 he had a letter from his wife telling him she was expecting a child. In March 1919 he was demobilised and returned home and found his wife unwell. She told him there had been a slight mishap. On March 10th she became very ill and was taken to the hospital where she was delivered of a still-born child. He spoke to his wife on the subject and she admitted it and said that he was not the father. The co-respondent, of Newmarket Road, admitted misconduct with the wife at Napier Street and several other places out-of-doors

1923 02 15

In Chancery Court Justice Sargant commenced hearing an action to determine the rights with regard to a stream in the parish of Linton. Hadstock Mill seemed to have existed since the 11th century. Plaintiff owned the bed of the stream and the water ran through his garden. His complaint was that on Sunday mornings the defendant, who owned the mill, made a practice of boating on the stream in front of his garden, thus destroying the privacy of the garden. In 1921 plaintiff had erected a barricade across the river, which defendant removed. The matter was put into the hands of the solicitors

Haverhill unemployed, p4*

1923 02 16

Newmarket printers, p5

1923 02 16 ES

The large and imposing new premises at Ely for Lloyds Bank Ltd have just been thrown open to the public. The site is a commanding one, being on the south side of the Lamb Hotel corner. The style is a modern treatment of Tudor in Aircaster stone and red brick, red tiled roof and metal casement windows, the external doors being of Austrian oak. A short flight of steps leads to the spacious banking hall with its 'period' ornamental plaster ceiling and oak block floor. The counter accommodating five cashiers is of Austrian oak as are also the remainder of the desks and the dado around the main hall. The typists' room is entered from the main banking hall and lighted from the garden in the rear. Beyond this is a passage down to the manager's house, on the ground floor of which are situated the kitchen and it's offices, the first and second floors are entirely taken up by the manager's living rooms and bedrooms. Beneath the banking hall are situated several spacious strong rooms and the heating chamber. The bank had to be built three feet higher than what was originally intended as on a trial hole being sunk a bed of rock two feet thick was found at a depth of five feet three inches beneath which was running sand. This formation was over most of the site and it was therefore impractical to build below the rock or interfere with it. The design of the building is intended to be in harmony with the city the architect was H. Munro Cantley of Ipswich. 23 02 16

1923 02 17

Training women service, p5*

Gorefield ghost, p8*

1923 02 19

Railway prize band, p3

Prohibition USA, p3*

Ghost, p3*

1923 02 20

Stretham accident, p3

Wounded soldier and wife, p3*

1923 02 21

People forgotten read, p5

1923 02 22

Ghostly happenings of a Cambridgeshire village of Gorefield to continue to arouse interest in the London press. Eight o'clock is bedtime says one writer. At nine, Mrs Grimshaw 82, slumbered at the fireside. Her 15 year-old granddaughter was nursing her pet lamb and feeding it by means of a baby's milk bottle. The girl described how heavy furniture had fallen and crockery had flown from shelves to the floor. She put had her jewellery in a bucket and the bucket moved across the room while she was looking the other way. Two hefty nephews kept watch throughout the night as the lady had asked no stranger should remain after dark in the morning. Next morning one said "We heard a noise; it was upstairs. It appeared as if it were things were moving but not enough to be seen". In a letter Sir Arthur Conan Doyle says "I would advise you to send your daughter away for a rest and change and then you will find the phenomenal will cease altogether. They forces have no power to hurt anybody but do break material objects. They can best be described as mischievous material children in the psychic world. The medium who throws out this atmosphere is nearly always a child from 10 to 16 and usually a girl" p5

Linton mill, p5*

1923 02 23

House possession case, p5

1923 02 23 ES

The Gorefield ghost. A suspension of activities; Joseph Scrimshaw's varied correspondence – moved furniture, barometer fell from wall etc 23 02 23 # c.39

Whether or not laid, the Garfield ghost has slackened his activities.

The publication of the mysteries by a London newspaper has carried the matter far beyond this locality.

The business started on the 12th of February and continued to recur with frequency for three days.

The 70-year-old mother seemed to be the centre of many of the happenings after the start had been made by moving her caps from one place to another in her bedroom. Afterwards, furniture was moved and overturned. Especially heavy things like a piano and the pianola showed an inclination to wander. Pictures fell from the walls, ornaments from mantel pieces, tables toppled over, washing and dressing tables were upset, sometimes the force being such as to smash a good many articles, and sometimes even fragile things were undamaged in spite of falls. Clocks removed themselves from their places, a barometer fell from the wall of the kitchen. Crockery and utensils in the pantry paid a heavy toll and all through the house there was plenty of evidence of the destructiveness of the visitation.

A great stir was made in the parish and neighbours lent their minds to solving the mystery without success.

The lessening of the trouble seems to come about without any steps being taken. Although it is indisputable that the articles were really moved and upset, nobody saw a single movement from beginning to end.

People possessing psychic powers offered to come if expenses were paid. A letter, which appeared to be genuine, from Arthur Conan Doyle suggests the daughter be sent away for a rest and change. Open all your windows ventilate well, and you will find the phenomenon ceases altogether, he said.

1923 02 24

New Dominion settlements – 23 02 24 p5

1923 02 24

Sheeps Green improvement – 23 02 24 p5

Royal Naval ball, p5*

1923 02 24

St John's college war memorial – 23 02 24 p6

1923 02 27

Temperance Society jubilee, p4

1923 02 28

Newmarket building strike – 23 02 28 p3

1923 02 28

Effects of prohibition – 23 02 28 p4

House prices, p2

Newspapers and society – Morley Stuart, p4

Effects of prohibition, p4

March 1923 CDN

1923 03 01

Building trade crisis – 23 03 01 p3

1923 03 02

Wheatsheaf, Chesterton – 23 03 02 p5

1923 03 02 ES

Ouse Drainage Board. Action against defaulting ratepayers. Fen people warned. 23 03 02

1923 03 03

First LNER engine – 23 03 03 p6

Newnham allotments, p3

Girl guides, p5

1923 03 05

Brighter Cambridge, p3*

1923 03 06

Central Aid Society, p3*

1923 03 07

Toot-an-kum-in rag p5

1923 03 08

Navy course, p3

Asquith hoax, p4*

Jesus Green bath approved, p4*

Giton Jacobean room, p6

1923 03 08 Daily News (London)

"TUT" RAG. "ANGELS" SLIDE DOWN PULLEY ROPES. CAMBRIDGE TOMB.
UNDERGRADUATES BRING UP PHINEAS.

Wednesday.

One of Cambridge's most laughable rags was carried out to-day—the opening of the tomb and the unearthing of Toot-an-Kum-in.

Just before noon undergraduates dressed up as native police and native infantry arrived on Market Square. They had borrowed all the ancient spears and shields that antique dealers in the town could supply. They were dressed in scanty attire, towels and table napkins were twisted round their heads, and their faces and legs were blackened. The Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress and other officials were impersonated and a band composed of natives dressed in dressing-gowns and pyjamas marched to the Market Square. Then followed Egyptian officials attired in gorgeous robes. Then the Queen of the Harem arrived in a litter, followed by the women of the harem who were pushing a dilapidated perambulator.

The Mayor then introduced Mr. Harold Carter, who in a speech said he regretted that Lord Carnarvon was unavoidably detained elsewhere. The lost tribes gave a demonstration of ancient games whilst Cleopatra and her attendants danced the cam-cam.

Several natives dragged into the market square a chariot - one of Cambridge's old four-wheelers. Seated in this were Lord Carnarvon and his suite.

A native official then called up the spirits of the dead, and immediately two "angels," in white robes and gold wings, floated down from the window of a high building, and landed in the midst of the proceedings. A rope had previously been fixed, upon which the angels slid down on a pulley.

The tomb on the Market Hill was then opened. The top was covered with tarpaulin, with just a small opening for the officials to pass down. They all went down the steps. From the tomb natives came up with armfuls of pottery, etc., an imitation car marked "Ford chassis No.1. B.C. 3,000." and an oar marked "Tut, Head of the Nile, bumped Cleopatra."

Toot-an-Kum-In was brought safely up carefully wrapped. In the centre of the market place it was uncovered, and a great shout went up when it proved to be the well-known Phineas, the mascot of the London University Hospital, which was removed last week by Cambridge undergraduates. All the actors, who numbered some hundred strong, then formed into a procession and marched round the town, with Phineas as the centre-piece.

1923 03 09

Toot-an-kum-in rag p5 film shown at Victoria, p1

How Phineus came to Cambridge, p5*

1923 03 10

Ely accident horse, p58

Children's manners, p6

1923 03 10 Cheltenham Chronicle

"TOOT-AND-KUM-IN." "Sarcophagus" Unearthed at Cambridge. Angels "Flutter" in the Marketplace.

Ever since the tomb of Tutankhamen discovered in the Valley of the Kings there has been the prospect that some bright young undergraduate would see in the event the possibility of a gorgeous "rag". Time and opportunity presented themselves at Cambridge on Wednesday; Tutankhamen's "tomb" was opened in the Market Place, and the result was one of the maddest, merriest japes the University town has seen for many a year. Not only were a number truly remarkable articles found in the "tomb." but the young excavators have added a fresh page to Egyptology. There is no longer any mystery about Tutankhamen, for his lineage has been definitely established.

It turns out that he of Scottish descent —no other, in fact, than our old friend Phineas, of the MacLino clan, for whose body budding scientists, represented by the younger elements of the London universities, have fought many a fierce battle.

The site of "Toot-an-kum's" tomb was found by the undergraduates to have been built over by the corporation in making public convenience. No strenuous excavating work was required, however, to get at its treasures.

Shortly before noon the vanguard of the search party arrived. They consisted of native policemen, and the student will be interested to learn that as far back as 3,000 years the uniform favoured in the period bore a striking resemblance to that of the present day. Then came stalwart Nubians, in singlets and shorts, "high-brows" in dressing-gowns and whiskers, ancient Egyptians, modern Egyptians (whose garments varied from bath towels to brilliant uniforms), native infantry with spears and scimitars, and the inevitable Egyptian band.

Preparations were at once made to open the tomb. The "Lord Mayor" and the "Lady Mayoress" with other dignitaries were, of course, present on such a momentous occasion.

"Mr. Howard Carter" was introduced and explained that "Lord Carnarvon" had been unavoidably detained. During the brief interval which elapsed before his "lordship's" arrival, some of the "lost tribes" gave exhibitions of ancient dancing.

Cleopatra, who had graced the proceedings with her presence, also obligingly danced the kan-kan, assisted by her attendants.

When "Lord Carnarvon" appeared in an ancient chariot, with hordes of white-robed natives, he immediately set to work to call up spirits from the vasty deep.

By means of a megaphone, he uttered a weird incantation, presumably in ancient Egyptian, although one caught at the end the "Attaboy, attaboy" of the American slang.

In any case he was immediately successful. Two angels, boasting golden wings, fluttered down from the window of a building on one side of the square. It was true that they had a rope, with travelling pulley to accomplish the feat, and equally true that, in the excitement of returning to earth each dropped his silver trumpet.

All was now ready for the exploration of the mysteries of the tomb.

While the drums beat mysteriously, a body of young men descended the steps of the tomb. They soon began to emerge with the treasures it contained, while everyone cheered.

Here is a selection of the finds: Weapons and jewels, Bricks inscribed with hieroglyphics, A bust (presumably Toot-an-kum's girl-wife), Alabaster vases, A mouse trap, A chariot marked "Ford chassis No.1 3,000 B.C."

Finally, amid hushed silence, which immediately gave place to a roar of cheering, the redoubtable Phineas was brought from the sarcophagus which, it was believed, he has lain for at least eight days.

Then a procession was formed, and to the strains of "John Brown's Body" the mummy of "Toot-an-kum" was paraded in triumph through the streets of the town. In the procession were carried two litters, one containing an old, old man and the other, apparently, the Queen of the Harem. Her less fortunate "sisters" had to walk behind—all pushing perambulators. Rain interrupted any further extension of the "rag" and later in the afternoon King "Toot-an-kum," alias Phineas, was placed on a London train. He will not, however, find a resting place in the British Museum.

FIRST FILM OF THE "RAG."

A private exhibition of the film of the "Toot-an-Kum-in" rag was shown by Mr. A. J. Pointer at the Victoria Cinema. The company included the Mayor and Mayoress, and the main participants in the rag, who appeared to relish the opportunity of seeing themselves as others saw them.

Mr. Pointer has secured some excellent pictures of the rag, starting with long-distance views showing the great crowd on the Market Place, and then some "close-ups" of the arrival of the distinguished visitors, the fight, the shimmy dance, the descent of the angels, the Discovery of the Treasures (and the curate!) in the Tomb, the unwrapping of Phineas, and finally the procession through the town. It is a great pictorial record of a great rag, and should draw crowded audiences to Cinema and Kinema from to-night onwards.

"Phineas", the mascot of the London University Hospital had stood heavily chained in Tottenham Court Road had been stolen by a group of Cambridge undergraduates and brought to Cambridge

1923 03 13

Mollie Cluzeau's school, p6

1923 03 14

Defective water meter, p3*

Tobacconist's failure, p5

Ely ratepayers criticise county council, p6

1923 03 15

At the Ely Diocesan conference the question of full reports of divorce court proceedings in newspapers was discussed and a resolution passed "That this conference protests against the publicity in the newspapers of full reports of trials in the divorce courts as being offensive and detrimental". Mr Sells said they had the advantage over their forefathers by having their sewage taken away silently and quietly, and it seemed wrong that their moral sewage was not treated in the same way. It was now allowed to linger about and pollute the air. A friend had told him of two urchins in a car glancing over the unsavoury details put before them. It would be impossible to overestimate the harm done to the rising generation by such things

Tastes like butter, p3

1923 03 16

Newmarket eisteddfod, p5

Haverhill cricket club, p6

1923 03 16 ES

Lt Thetford football team: named 23 03 16

March Swifts Football Club complained about the conduct of players of Chatteris Institute Football club at their headquarters at March. It was alleged Chatteris players indulged in hooliganism, tinkling with the piano and gramophone in the dressing room and subjecting the furniture to rough treatment. They had practically lost their headquarters through that. The Football Committee administered a caution 23 06 16

1923 03 17

In spite of the fact that about 20,000 farm labourers in Norfolk formally went on strike last night when employers' notices reducing wages from 6d to 5 1/2d an hour and increasing the working week from 50 to 54 hours expired, there is still hope of a settlement by compromise. The organiser of the National Union of Agricultural Workers says that the men are anxious to avoid strife, but they cannot accept starvation wages. The basis of settlement to be submitted is that the farmers should withdraw the wage reduction if the men will agree to the increased hours. The present plight of farmers and farm labourers throughout the agricultural depression was the subject of a deputation received by Mr Bonar Law at 10 Downing Street. The official report of the meeting is being withheld so as not to prejudice today's negotiations in the Norfolk dispute

Newnham College appoint Strachen, p5

Newspapers and divorce cases, p6

1923 03 20

The annual dinner and meeting of the Haverhill Cricket Club marked the handing over of the title deeds in connection with the ownership of the cricket ground, which through the generosity of the President (Mr J Gurteen), now becomes the property of the club. Mr Gurteen recalled that for about 40 years the club had played upon its present ground, but last year, on account of the change of ownership, there was a risk of this arrangement coming to an end. He had given consideration to the master, and the outcome was that he himself bought the ground, and he now had the greatest possible pleasure in presenting it to the club. He made the gift with no conditions whatever, except that he had nominated his three sons as trustees for the club, and had arranged that if at any future time the club should be 2 30 ES

More traders' tokens unearthed Walter Moulton of Chatteris; included Chatteris farthing 23 03 20

1923 03 21

The Post Office and Cambridge and Paul Instrument Company social clubs provide a happy combination which has produced both initiatives and talent. Their dance at the Cambridge Masonic Hall was a great success, and provided some precedents. Firstly, the new large room was used for dancing, and for a big assembly was really excellent. The room itself is much on the same lines as the small room, but as yet is somewhat too new looking. However, affection for the old room makes one too ready to criticise the new. The music was equally divided between the two clubs, the Post Office with Mr Benard Wick's Tehki orchestra playing for the first half and the Trocadero Orchestra keeping the ball rolling after the interval unstuck. Both orchestras were excellent: the first provided the necessary atmosphere and the second sustained it until the small hours.

1923 03 21

At Ely Urban Council the chairman reminded them that the question of a new sewage scheme had been before the Council for a very long time; it went back for 20 or 25 years. It had always been recognised that the existing scheme was antiquated, out of date, and always gave a great deal of trouble. During periods of storm clouds, the drains were blocked up, and were unequal to carrying away the storm water, cellars were flooded, and a great deal of inconvenience was caused generally. The disposal of sewage was certainly very unsatisfactory. The sewage tank was emptied twice a year, and it was not regarded as a satisfactory way of dealing with it. By the new scheme it would be remedied, and, moreover, the river would not be polluted as it was at present.

1923 03 23

Burwell house claim, p3

Robert Sayle diamond jubilee, p5

1923 03 26

Agricultural crisis, p5

New Museums club, p5

1923 03 27

We have received the following statement of the Eastern Counties position in relation to the national negotiations in the building trades. As from April 14th 1923 the working hours will be 47 hours per week in the summer months and the wages will be reduced by 2d per hour in London and by 1d an hour in the Eastern Counties. For labourers the reduction will be three farthings per hour. In Cambridge the new weekly wage is: craftsmen £3.0s.8 1/2d, painters £2.16s.9 1/2d, labourers £2.6s.01/2d. The Eastern Counties operatives, who have been fearing reductions of 2 1/2d, 3d. or even 4d, will no doubt be interested to notice that the actual reductions are so small that, by working just half an hour extra a day they can get just as much per week as they did before

Agricultural crisis, p5

Police and accidents, p6*

1923 03 28

Are strike's wise, p6

1923 03 29

An eerie story of a puritan maiden who appeared to a visitor in a house near Cambridge is recorded in the "Westminster Gazette". The incidents were recounted by Mr Ames, who besides being psychic herself, is a writer and lecturer on psychic matters. "My daughter's house near Cambridge was an ancient one and on entering it a feeling of strange discomfort overcame me. That night I dreamed that a puritan girl, beautiful and sad, sat at the foot of my bed. The story was laughed at by my family, but strangely the vicar of the place took it quite seriously and by a study of local records was able to establish that the house had been in the possession of a Puritan family 1923 03 29

W.G. Hobbs banks, p4

Hereditary postmen, p5

Easter holidays, p5

1923 03 30

More traders' tokens unearthed Walter Moulton of Chatteris; included Chatteris farthing 23 03 30
Amongst a collection of old coins, bought into the Cambridgeshire Times office were a number of tokens including a Chatteris farthing bearing the name W Curtis, and another inscribed 'W Roberts tea dealer Tuesday Market, Lynn 1851. A Chatteris farthing being has come into the hands of our Wimblington correspondent who also has a 'Wisbitch' pitch token of 1661. One side of this is too worn for the inscription to be legible, but the centre of the other side of the letters 'T.H.I.'. H.E. Scott of Bull Lane, Ely, has a token with the inscription 'We promise to pay the bearer on demand half penny'. It is dated 1795 and on the other side is inserted 'For the use of Traders'. Mr. James hub of the chase Outwell has a host of tokens including a filing for March 18 27 containing on the adverse side, John Thurber grocer and Brewer March 23 03 30

1923 03 31

The forthcoming production by the Bijou amateurs brings into prominence once again a club that has held a big position in the life of Cambridge for the last 50 years. I 1870 Mr W B Redfern founded the Bijous, who took over premises on Peas Hill, where for many years was provided the only dramatic performance in Cambridge that were given with any regularity. As time went on the club found that the old Peas Hill theatre was not big enough for them and finally removed to the old skating rink in St Andrews's street, on the site of which the present New Theatre was built. It was not until 1881 that ladies were introduced into the cast, the female parts having before that date being taken by men.

1923 03 31

A retired Norfolk farmer gives his views upon the agricultural situation in that County. "Unless the spring crops are sown at an early date there will be no harvest for the workers, and if there is no harvest there will be no straw, with the result that next winter very reduced quantities of stock will be kept on the farms. The farmer realising this, appreciate the fact that should this result occur there will be no necessity for a root crop. This is in no wise a threat it is simply a warning to the workers as to the possible result of their action. The ordinary townsman says that 25s. per week is not enough to live on, but he does not grasp the fact that the worker receives double wages during the harvest, and extra money for piecework and overtime. In addition, he has a cottage at a nominal rent, varying from 3s to nothing a week, which includes a garden. In numerous cases the worker is supplied with milk and butter at cost price. Altogether his prerequisite are worth anything from 8s to 10s per week.

Isobel Elsom address, p4*

Guardians change, p4*

1923 03 31

A summer like morning and a fair, if dull, afternoon made Good Friday in Cambridge a good day for lovers of the great outdoors. So good was the weather that many were to be seen on the river and Messrs Banham's motor launch trip to Clayhithe consisted of quite a comfortable load. Footballers spent a glorious time on Parker's Piece whilst one 1,700 watched the Town play the old Bancroftians on the Town ground. Young Cambridge spent a happy time on Parker's Piece indulging in the traditional skipping, and the litter of paper and orange peel told its own tale. There was plenty of evidence of a heavy road traffic. Allotment holders were, of course, not slow to take advantage of the good day given them.

April 1923 CDN

1923 04 02

Rumours were current in Peterborough that a local soldier who was reported as missing on November 13th 1916, and afterwards presumed killed on the same date, had returned home. Unfortunately the rumours were incorrect, but on Wednesday his mother received a letter addressed from "The Hospital, London", stating the son was alive and would soon be home. This was followed by another letter the next day headed "Waiting room, Peterborough", concerning the previous communication. In the first letter the writer says "Madam - I am writing to tell you that your son will soon be home with you. Don't turn any stranger from your door, as you won't know him. We have been together since 1916. He has got me to write to you and gave me this address. Enclosed in the letter was a piece of notepaper in the handwriting of the son. Immediately on the receipt of the latter she informed the elder son. He left work at once and caught the next train to London but was unable to gain any authentic information about his brother.

Suicide Histon old soldier, p3

1923 04 03

Stella Curtis, Stretham appeal, p3

1923 04 06 ES

Stretham appeal case; County Court judgement upheld. Appeal by Stella Curtis, wife of Fred, bootmaker, on claim for personal injuries by falling of tree. She a fruit picker and agricultural worker. On 17 March 1922 was on field property Charles Murfitt of Stretham. Chapman & Co, timber merchants, felled tree in adjoining field which struck and knocked her down, killing her child whom she was carrying and causing her serious injuries. Claimed damages £100. But she, instead of running away from danger, had ran into it. 23 04 06

1923 04 04

Death John Venn, Caius College, p3

1923 04 05

Trades council – Stubbs, p4

1923 04 07

If I am asked to point out to the public the danger of getting rid of their war relics by placing them amongst their refuse. Thoughtlessness of this kind might have serious consequences for the men working at the Corporation destructor. No less than eight live cartridges were found in one load recently, and fortunately they were discovered before they reached the destructor. People should think twice before depositing explosives amongst their rubbish, and in this way endangering the lives of those who removed and destroy it

1923 04 07

As a frequent visitor to the Cambridge Free Library, I have noticed with interest the very good use to which the Reference Library is put. It is especially satisfying to notice the number of school teachers and senior scholars who spend their Saturday mornings there, and this I have observed at the Mill Road branch as well as the Central Library, showing that the Cambridge library is, as it should be, a valuable auxiliary to the educational machine. The Mill Road Library was the worst sufferer in the necessary economies of wartime and is to receive preferential treatment in consequence.

1923 04 09

For the purpose of putting before the public the point of view of the strikers in the building trade, a meeting was held on Parker's Piece where there was a very large attendance. Mr Haynes said that 44 hours a week were enough for any of them to work. They had to remember that every man who was not with them was against them. In the event of the building operatives going down in the struggle, the railway men and workers in every other industry would have to look out, for the employers everywhere were out to reduce wages to a lower level than they were before the war. Urging the need of the workers standing together, Mr Overton said they were either partners in each other's poverty, or partners in each other's prosperity. The Trades Council were asking the other trade unions to come to the support of the building trade workers.

1923 04 10

Building trade dispute

1923 04 11

Speaking to Cambridge Rotary Club Dr H B Roderick compared Addenbrooke's Hospital 50 years ago with today. In 1872 the average stay in hospital was 37.87 days and in 1922 to it was 27.46 days, so that with practically the same number of beds, owing to the more rapid turnover due to shortened convalescence, they were able to deal with a considerable number more patients. In 1922 2,376 operations were performed, and 2,231 in-patients and 4523 outpatients were treated. This great increase in work naturally involves increased demands both on the medical, surgical, and nursing staffs of the hospital, as well as on its financial resources. The present operating theatre was constructed in 1897 and today it is out of date. Two theatres, on modern lines, are urgently needed in order to cope with the ever-increasing work.

Building dispute, p3

Water meters out of order, p4*

1923 04 13

A Cambridge boy, P S Milner-Barry, son of the late Professor Milner-Barry of De Freville Avenue, Chesterton, won the title of the first British boy chess champion. The title, which has been authorised by the British Chess Federation, was open to boys up to 18 years of age. Milner-Barry who is only 16 1/2 years of age, represented Cheltenham College in the competition, but his success also reflects credit on his old school, St Faith's preparatory, and the Cambridge town chess club, of which he is the youngest member

1923 04 13

At the Annual dinner of the Rob Roy Boat Club the mayor (Counc. G.H. Lavender) said his memory of rowing went back 42 years ago. He was one of the founders of the old Argonauts. They had a difficulty in getting sufficient men to man the boats, but they used to get up at five in the morning and get on the river by six. "I remember that a lot of objectionable matter used to get into the river from the gas works. You can imagine that we did not like to get into that. (Laughter). One day I went down in a canoe, and fell into the middle of it. I was very glad to get out, for it wasn't lavender water" (Renewed laughter).

Building trade peace, p5

1923 04 13 ES

A numerous company gathered at James' Schools, Burnt Fen, to bid farewell to Mr. And Mrs. Arthur Laycock, Headmaster and Headmistress, who have retired after 19 years of Service in local schools. The Vicar, Rev Payne. spoke of their work in the highest terms. They had well earned their retirement from scholastic work, most trying at the best of times. They would be ever-conscious of the many friends they were leaving behind them.

Rev Claude Everitt, formally curate, with whom Mr. Laycock worked for many years, spoke of the untiring and devoted work of the family. Mr. Laycock was humorous in his remarks about his first experiences of Burnt Fen. He had tried to do his duty but it was a very difficult matter to please everybody and none but a fool would attempt it.

The concert party from Prickwillow gave a selection during the evening. Dancing was indulged in and refreshments were provided by the ladies. Mr. Laycock has taken a house Littleport where he will reside. 23 04 13ES

1923 04 14

The question of artificial wreaths came again under serious consideration at the quarterly meeting of the Ely burial board. The Clerk explained the board's position regarding its powers relatives to artificial wreaths and grave markers. The matter arose out of the application by a family to place upon the grave a small marble heart shaped as a token of respect. The Clarke said that in the town from whence the application came, Sheringham, it was customary to allow artificial wreaths, and he expressed the opinion that artificial wreaths were very liable to crack, get out of order, tumble to pieces, and become very unsightly.

Sheeps Green bathing place, p6

1923 04 16

At Saffron Walden council the police reported difficulty in dealing with stallholders attending the pleasure fairs which are held twice yearly on the common. Some of them arrive on a Thursday night previous to the pleasure fair on the Saturday; consequently the inhabitants are put to a good deal of inconvenience and annoyance. Before the fair people are allowed to go on the common on Saturday morning the caravans begin to arrive at the entrance and owing to the narrow streets they are obstructed for three hours by these caravans and it is sometimes difficult to regulate the traffic to them. The police are obliged to bring officers in from adjoining houses for the purpose of regulating traffic and keeping order, thereby depriving the inhabitants of such carriages of these protection at a time when they are in most need of it. The police will have to consider whether in the future they will be able to give adequate police assistance during the time these fares are held.

Cambridge as county borough, p3*

1923 04 17

St Giles cricket club & Darwin, p3
Motor lorry crash, p3

1923 04 18

An interesting scheme with wide possibilities is embodied in the establishment of a co-operative dairy school by a committee of Cambridgeshire farmers, which was formally opened on Tuesday afternoon. In co-operation with the farmers, Cambridgeshire education committee have arranged for courses of instruction in cheese making and dairying to be held at the school, which is temporarily in premises on Newmarket Road. The instruction period will extend over four months, and the dairy will then be carried on by the farmers on a commercial basis. During that period the milk is being supplied by the farmers supporting the scheme who will take the cheeses

1923 04 18

A Commission has been appointed by the Bishop of Ely to inquire into the desirability of uniting the beneficiaries of Madingley and Dry Drayton. They held a local inquiry when the question was fully considered. The congregation of Madingley was 50 in the morning and 60 in the evening. The Madingley churchwardens presented a petition bearing the signatory of 103 persons protesting and objecting to the two churches being united. Colonel Harding said, "I can tell you that as far as Madingley is concerned they would prefer that no union should take place"

1923 04 23

McAlister memorial, p5*
Ouse Board assessment, p3*
Fen Ditton rec, p6
Protection of birds, p6
Roadmen's wages, p6

1923 04 25
Newmarket building site sale, p3*
Ely fire, p5*

1923 04 26
Husband's disguise, p5
Newmarket sparrow club, p5*

1923 04 27
Speaking at Romsey Town Football Club dinner the mayor of Cambridge said he thought that they did not always receive the support of the sporting crowds that they might. On Monday evening they had two very representative teams on Parker's Piece, and a crowd of something like 2,000 to 3,000 people, but their collection amounted to the enormous sum of £5 3s. Of that some £3 15s. was in coppers which included two farthings.

Weather forecast by phone, p6

1923 04 27 ES
River Cleansing at Thorney
Much needed work is proceeding in the cleansing of the river at Thorney which has got into an extremely bad condition. It is 54 years since such work was last carried out. Many men from Whittlesey are employed and state assistance is being received as the scheme is one for the relief of unemployment. The portion of the river that is being cleansed is between Thorney and the Dog in a Doublet Bridge and the road leading to Thorney has lost much of its beauty from the black soil thrown on to each bank of the river, 23 04 27

1923 04 28
The Harvey Goodwin Home, that well known Cambridge Institution of the Waifs and Stays Society is to be revived. In 1847 Goodwin determined to start an industrial School in Cambridge where there were a "large number of ne-do-weels in Barnwell and elsewhere". Hitherto there had only been rigorous punishment for youthful offenders, and Goodwin had seen the possibility of reforming them in an industrial school. Later the Society for Waifs and Sprays took it over which now lead to the re-establishment of the home bearing the honoured name of Harvey Goodwin.

War memorial balance allocated, p5
Cambridge as holiday resort, p6

1923 04 30
Plight of agriculture, p3
City Ely brass band, p5

May 1923 CDN

1923 05 01
A new burial ground for St Mark's parish, Cambridge, was consecrated by the Bishop of Ely. A short service was held in the Church, and the people then proceeded to the burial ground, which is situated about two miles away, by the side of Barton road, where already lie the remains of Mr J. H. Briggs who had been one of the foremost in the steps taken to acquire a burial ground for the parish. The Bishop said it was a curious & pathetic and coincidence that very shortly before the service of consecration, one who was deeply interested in it, and who had worked well for it, had passed away, and that he should be the first to be laid to rest in the new burial ground of the parish before its consecration. The Bishop said the service was the last act in a long process - the formation of St Mark's into a separate parish.

1923 05 01

The Cambridge Medical Officer of Health's report calls attention to the vaccination statistics which indicate how unprepared we are for an outbreak of smallpox. The proportion of children successfully vaccinated is now the lowest ever reached, and over 70 per cent are without the protection afforded by primary vaccination. In connection with infectious disease, he has recorded an outbreak of scarlet fever of exceptional interest, in view of the fact that this is the first recorded outbreak attributed to a "carrier". With regard to sanitation, housing is still the most important item. With inadequate housing of the people preventative sanitation is fighting a losing battle.

Doyly Carte at New Theatre, p5

1923 05 02

Newmarket taxis, p3

1923 05 03

Stanley Road pit, p5

Fish killed by pollution, p6

1923 05 04

Central School May Queen, p3

Swimming bath badly planned, p6

1923 05 05

Booming Cambridge, p5*

Labour May Day demonstration, p5

Come of Cambridge, p6

Newmarket taxis, p6*

1923 05 07

Labour's May Day demonstration, p3

1923 05 07 c

In connection with milk production, a notable effort has been commenced during the year by the Stetchworth Dairies. Premises, which are a model of their kind, and fitted with all necessary appliances, have been prepared, and milk which is guaranteed to be free from tubercle and absolutely clean, as well as of a high chemical quantity, can now be obtained at a cost which is little above that of ordinary milk. The effect has been to stimulate interest and a commendable rivalry among other milk producers.

1923 05 07 c

In his remarks on the subject of protection of food (chiefly meat, fish, milk and butter) from contamination by Street dirt, flies and the hands and clothing of workers, the Cambridge Medical Officer of Health says the majority of the tradesmen in Cambridge are alive to the importance of the matter and in one instance an attempt was made, but without success, to interest customers in the subject. So long as the public takes no interest in the cleanliness or otherwise of their food, it can scarcely be expected that producers and tradesmen will go too much trouble or expense about.

1923

An undergraduate of Park Street was summoned for causing an obstruction by means of a motor tricycle in Burrells Walk Cambridge. P.C. Saunders said that as a result of complaints he kept observation and whilst doing so defendant left his roundabout outside the racket courts. Defendant told the court that cars much larger than his were usually left there and he did not think his small one could have caused an obstruction Fined 10s.

1923 05 07 c

The discovery that one does not possess a clean pair of gloves is usually made at the most inconvenient moment. A good method of cleaning chamois leather gloves is that of placing them on the hands and washing them in tepid soft water, using plenty of pure Castile soap. The gloves should then be drawn off the hands, pulled out straight, and then passed through a winger. They must be rinsed in water straightened and again passed through the wringer. The gloves should then be well shaken and hung to dry in the open air in a shady place and never laid to dry in front of the fire or over the hot air radiator

1923 05 08

Reach fair, p6

1923 05 09

The quiet village of Witcham, near Ely, was startled on Sunday evening by rumours that a lad living in the village was missing, and supposed to be drowned. After many hours of dragging the body of a 14 year old farm labourer was taken from a pond in Hive close in the early hours of Monday morning. The coroner returned a verdict that the lad was found drowned. He said that although in villages there was often a large amount of stupid and not infrequently malicious gossip and scandal, which did a lot of mischief, there was on the other hand a most praiseworthy inclination to render assistance willingly and gladly to those who were in danger.

1923 05 10

Sir. I read in your valuable paper that a youth was prosecuted for endeavouring to earn his living by "calling out in a very loud voice, 'Coal, Coal' in the streets". Perhaps I may be excused if I draw attention to another noisy nuisance on Midsummer Common. Every Thursday evening we are compelled to listen to the most monstrous, discordant and ear piercing of sounds. These consist of a jumble of about six notes attempted on military bugles and the rat-a- tat of small drums caused by some six or seven small boys of the Church Brigade. The curious and painful but about the matter is that the boys always appear to be in the initial stage. They never seem to improve or get more in tune.
- A Long Sufferer

University OTC inspection, p6

1923 05 10 c

Sir - Traction engines do no damage to roads which are probably made, not even to tarred roads if the proper amount of granite chips are laid down, and not a soft and useless mixture of tar and sand, which is picked up at once it horses and other slow traffic. If the roads are marked, it is because they are not properly finished. I fail to see that because these motors may come from distant places they do us no good. Where would Cambridge be if it were not in touch by transport with distant places? We should go short of many necessities, in fact, everything except for two important local products, knowledge and sausages - very good things in their way, but would not alone carry us far. We must make the roads bear the traffic; that is what they are for. - "Another Ratepayer"

1923 05 11

An undergraduate of Pembroke College, Cambridge was charged with driving a motor car at a speed dangerous to the public at Littleport. P.S. Neil stated that the car was on the right hand side of the road. He considers the speed was 55 to 60 miles the hour. He failed to take the number of the car, as there was too much grit and stones flying about caused by the speed. The undergraduate said when he got to Littleport there were two sharp bends and his speed then was about 10 miles per hour. When he got round the bend he dropped into second gear. He saw the policemen but they paid no attention to him. It was quite impossible to get up to 35 mph in second gear, which would probably break the engine. He knew there was a police trap at Littleport. Magistrates fined him £5.

1923 05 11 ES

Holocaust at Gorefield

A terrible tragedy has drawn attention to the New Barns Farm at Gorefield, which was conspicuous a short time ago on account of the alleged appearance there of a ghost. For the past three months a single man had been employed as a labourer. He was in the habit of living and sleeping in an old railway van which stood on the farm. At midnight, the van was discovered to be on fire, and so fierce were the flames that it was not until everything had been destroyed that his charred remains were found amongst the smouldering ruins. The remarkable part about the matter is that the large swing doors which he used to leave open in the daytime, were closed on both sides of the van and it was impossible to open them, though it is not known whether this is because they were stuck or because the deceased had fastened them before going to bed. There is no evidence pointing to the origin of the outbreak. But as he was known to use an unguarded candle and also to smoke while in bed, it is supposed that it was this that led to the fatality. 23 05 11ES

1923 05 12

John Manning of Bedford was summoned for using a locomotives on the highway to draw more than three loaded wagons. Superintendent Allen spoke to seeing a traction engine at Barton drawing four loaded wagons. Three wagons were loaded with tackle belonging to roundabouts, and the fourth wagon, bore the words "Water cart". There were five wooden tubs in it, three of which contained coal. Witness told defendant he was only allowed to draw three wagons and a water cart. He said the last was a water cart. Witness asking where the water was, but he could not show it. There was no water in the wagons for engine purposes. Defendant admitted putting coal on the wagon. He could not carry enough in his bunker for the journey. He was fined 10s.

Undergraduate motorbikes, p6

1923 05 14

A shed belonging to Mr Knott, but basket maker and carrier, of Burwell, was found to be on fire and was destroyed. Mr Owen Warren passed the shed - an erection of wood and corrugated iron - and noticed a smell of burning such as might come from a burning rubbish heap. He went home and sat down to supper, when he reflected that there was no rubbish heap near the shed, so he turned out again to look at it, and then saw that flames were leaping. He called for assistance and many willing workers came to prevent the flame from spreading. Water was obtained from the Lode and the adjoining properties were protected. The fire may have originated from a stove used to warm the shed, in which some work-girls had been during the day

1923 05 14

Saffron Walden council received a letter from the Showmans Guild. "I understand there are two fairs held on the Common, one in March and the other in October, these having been chartered for the purpose of Horse fairs, the amusements being an adjunct of such fairs. To ask the Home Office to abolish the pleasure fair would resolve itself in the abolition of the fair altogether, as the two objects must stand or fall together. I am writing as it would appear that the trouble has arisen, not from my own people, who are the amusement caterers, but from the gypsies and squatters who visit the Commons on these occasions, and who really should be under the control of the police

1923 05 15

Vacation courses, p6*

1923 05 17

At an inquiry into Ely rural council's plans for water supply the engineer said he considered there was sufficient water at Back Road, Mildenhall, to supply the needs of the Ely rural district. He said there would be two water towers, one at Littleport and one at Soham. The inspector mentioned that the water main passed through Little Downham, but that the village was not to be supplied. The engineer: They asked to be left out of the scheme. The inspector: Don't they want it? A voice (emphatically): No. (Laughter)

1923 05 18

Death W. Lincoln, Ely chemist

1923 05 18 ES

Ely resident discovered unconscious near Stretham. Harold Bickley motor cycling near Quarter Way When fell off; found in ditch 23 05 18

Death Elizabeth Ann Wesley, wife of John Wesley of Grove House ... a prominent social and public organiser ... W.I. owes much of its success ... took active part information. Mourners listed 23 05 18a

1923 05 19

An exceptionally fine old Tudor house, Bourn Hall, was offered for sale at the London Auction Mart. The bidding rose to £8,000 but at this price the property was withdrawn. Bourn Hall is a genuine old Tudor House of reasonable size, and the general preservation and condition of the structure are excellent. The house is now equipped with the convenience of electric night, central heating, main water supply etc. The property covers an area of about 22 acres

Gray's Elegy, p6

1923 05 22

At Harston on Whit-Monday the past met the present and the sun shone most of the time to celebrate the occasion. The first thing one noticed was the inevitable fairground the village green and that in itself was not very remarkable but a casual glance the roundabouts and the swing boats revealed an extraordinary blaze of gay colours. Closer inspection discovered ladies in the becoming dress and high pointed hats of the 15th century, maids-in-waiting, pages, an odd monk or two and a host of villagers in trunk and hose all enjoying the fun of the fair

1923 05 22

Deep regret will be felt in the county at the death of Mr Albert Peake, of St Catharine's Manor Farm, Coton. He decided to settle there about two years ago, and the day he made that decision was a fortunate one for the village. He practically rebuilt the old the town Manor which dates as far back as St Catharine's College, and built handsome premises in the shape of farm buildings, on what was formerly known as St Catharine's farm. One of his generous acts for the welfare of the villagers was to present them with a large recreation ground - known as Peake's playground, the children up to that time having no place other than the road on which to play

Harston pageant, p4*

1923 05 25

Stretham feast, p3

1923 05 24

Empire Day, p3

1923 05 24 c

An attendance of upwards of 5000 at the first athletics meeting held on the Town Football Club's ground, Milton road, may be regarded as entirely satisfactory. The first part of the day was taken up with six-a-side football. The various races were keenly contested on a track which made the cyclists very cautious. In two of the races there were two nasty spills. Sir Douglas Newton presented the Invicta cycle to Mr Fuller of Shelly row, who was the fortunate winner of a handsome machine given to the purchaser of a ticket before the day of the event. The proud processor was apparently not a cyclist, for he wheeled it around the track, notwithstanding that the spectators invited him to "jump on and ride".

1923 05 25

Lady M. Darwin, of Newnham Grange, Cambridge, appeared at the police court when she was summonsed for riding a bicycle on the footway at West Road. She appeared and pleaded not guilty. P.C. Hagger stated that he saw the defendant riding along the footpath and rode after the on his bicycle. When he told her she would be reported, she replied, "I was riding very slowly; you should make the Corporation lay the tar better; it spoils bicycle tyres". (Laughter) "I don't think I was doing any harm to anyone. Some of the friends I see before me have admitted during the same thing". (Laughter). She was fined five shillings.

1923 05 25

"It is the most serious frost I remember for years", said a well-known Cottenham fruitgrower speaking of the frost which prevailed during Wednesday night. Seven degrees of frost were registered in many parts. Agriculturists and fruitgrowers in the county were dismayed to see the ground white with frost, and anxious inspection was made of crops to see what damage had resulted. There is no doubt that havoc has been played amongst many fruit crops, plums in particular seem to have suffered. Indeed, it is feared in some places that the plum crop has been entirely ruined. "Plums as big as horse beans are black as your hat", was the way one grower expressed it

Empire Day, p3

Harston British Legion colours, p6

1923 05 25 ES

A. Cass motor engineers advertisement for coaches, 'Etheldreda' and 'Hereward the Wake' 23 05 26

Stretham Hospital Parade ... 27th ... procession much larger than 1922 formed near Mission Hall corner and paraded ... decorated lorry ... open air service Recreation ground ... 28 persons from Stretham had been treated at Addenbrooke's Hospital which dealing with newly discovered remedies - details... Stretham had collected eggs 23 05 25a, b

1923 05 26

Cambridge is justly proud of its business veterans, and it may truly be said that no one is held in higher respect than Mr William Heffer. He started as a groom but resolved to make a start in business on his own, and opened as a stationers and newsagents in a shop which is still his, the Post Office in Fitzroy Street. It has been said that Mr Heffer to a large extent altered the character of Fitzroy Street, for when he introduced to Cambridge the 25% discount off books, university men and others not accustomed to frequenting that part of the town, began to stream up there, and, of course, other tradesmen - benefited in consequence.

Gray 'Elegy', p6

Emigrant's letter, p6*

1923 05 31

A carter of Wicken was charged with cruelty to a horse by working it in an unfit state at Soham. Inspector Charles Taylor, RSPCA, said he was on duty at the Soham railway approach when he saw the man with a cart containing four fat pigs. The mare attached to the cart was lame. Defendant said the bay mare would not have been brought out but that the other horse was taken bad. P.C. Haines gave evidence that the mare was in pain and her foot was hot. Fined 2s.6d.

1923 05 29

An important report will be presented to Cambridge Town Council at their next meeting. The sub-committee unanimously resolved that a vehicular bridge be placed at the Walnut Tree Avenue site, and that a foot bridge should be placed at the Pretoria Road site, and that tenders should be obtained at once for the construction of the two bridges and the Ministry of Transport be approached with a view to a grant towards the work

1923 05 31

British growers tour, p3

Wisbech carrier cruelty, p5*

June 1923 CDN

1923 06 01

Those who attend the Christ Pieces promenade concerts will learn with interest that the Cambridge Town Council approved extensive improvements, including lighting to the bandstand there, to purchase some 500 chairs "for the comfort of the concert goers", and to set up a fenced enclosure, lined with a privet hedge, to accommodate the seats. They further empowered the Committee to set up - as cheaply as possible - glass screens, which will protect the musicians from summer and other breezes, besides effecting an improvement in the acoustics of the stand. The superintendent also produced a plan for the construction of ladies and gentlemen's lavatories on Christ's Pieces

1923 06 01 ES

Hospital parade result – names collectors; parade committee formed in 1897 and Mr A. Clarke, who was the first secretary and is now 80 years of age, again this year marched the whole route of the procession 23 06 01

1923 06 02

We have started on a new month, and everyone is hoping that it will be a marked improvement on the last. Cambridge, perhaps more than any other town in the country, needs a fine opening to June. A cold and rainy May Week is too horrible to contemplate, and it will be a bad business indeed for boatmen, lodging-house keepers, and tradesmen generally if the next few days do not see a change for the better

1923 06 02 c

The Cambridge town council will really have to be careful, or some of us will soon be suffering from severe shock! I went in the gallery expecting another "battle of the bridges", and, lo and behold, the report was passed without a word of comment, other than the short speech in which Alderman Starr introduced it. Then to the utter astonishment of everyone, the motion was put, there was not a single dissident and the thing was done. Alderman Starr fell back in his chair almost convulsed, the council burst into laughter, and some applauded. Now we are to have the vehicular bridge at Walnut Tree Avenue and the foot bridge is to be at the original Pretoria Road site. Well, well, let us hope all our other municipal troubles end as easily.

1923 06 04

Sir - I agree that servants make good wives; so do other girls if they have been brought up properly at home. The good places want finding. I myself had one where I was treated just as one of the family, and no girl would wish for better. What I suggest is this: as a maid has to produce a good character, so should a mistress show one before she can get a good maid. I have four daughters and I shall not let them go out to service unless I have a personal reference from the lady and can see the bed my girls sleep in, and really know how they will be treated – A. Hardy

1923 06 05

Motor car mystery, p3

1923 06 07

Favoured with ideal weather the annual sports meeting arranged by the Pymoor and Oxloade Committee attracted a large attendance. This event, which has the reputation of being one of the best in the district, was more than up to the standard of previous years, and some keen competition was provided for an enthusiastic crowd. This year the interest of the meeting was enhanced by the production of a Challenge cup for cycle racing, and A.F. Hawes, the well-known Manea cyclist, was successful in securing the honour of being the first holder of the trophy. The Manea Silver Band rendered selections throughout the day and the proceedings were further enlightened by entertainments by the Magpie Concert Party from Cambridge

MacIntosh parade, p6*

1923 06 08

With finer weather, the "Mays" bumping races came into their own. People came from everywhere, on foot, on wheel, and by that best of all ways - by water. The Lawns, the Rectory Paddock, Ditton Meadows, and the Pitt Lawn assumed their familiar aspect. Right from the Pitt Lawn, nearly to the Railway Bridge, was one mass of riotous colour. Ladies were attired in summer dresses of varying hues - white, green, blue, blue-grey, yellow, striped and spotted - the whole forming a pretty picture against background of trees and grass. Some ladies wore costumes, some carried furs on their shoulders, while others wore white summer coats. Mere men, not to be outdone, made a brave show in flannels and gay blazer. Balloon vendors added their quota to the brightness of the picture with their parti-coloured wares

Cecil Sharpe degree, p3*

1923 06 09

Four undergraduates of Christ's College, Cambridge, were summoned for wilfully damaging a finger-post in Girton. They all pleaded guilty. P.C. Mead stated that owing to complaints with reference to the post being pulled down five times before he was instructed to watch the post. Four men came from a car and tried to pull down the finger post. They did not succeed, and went back for some tools. At about 11.30 they succeeded in getting the finger off. When they had finished witness caught the driver of the car, the other three ran away but came back later. One said, "You have done me. It was too heavy. I could not run with it, it was wood other times". They said they did not know that there had been any accidents at Girton, and that the signpost had been put up for the purpose of avoiding accidents. They were fined £2 each

Lacrosse v Americans, p3
Interesting raffle, p6

1923 06 11

New Wesleyan buildings, p5

1923 06 12

The opening days of the second week of the "Mays" celebrations are usually noted for the array of college balls and concerts, and this year is well in keeping with tradition. On Monday there were three of these functions, - Caius, Clare, and First and Third Trinity in addition to four concerts and a special dinner-dance at the Rendezvous, and in each case a success can be recorded. The weather had improved to such an extent that it allowed the usual outdoor part of the events to be carried out to the full, and ample sitting out accommodation provided in various courts and grounds. The largest function was at Trinity, where the attendance numbered something like 1,400 or 1,500.

1923 06 13

Brilliant in every way was the Masonic ball of the "Isaac Newton" University Lodge, held at the Guildhall. The large room had been suitably changed for the occasion and presented a pretty sight. The back of the orchestra was draped with gold and red hangings, in front of which were a number of Masonic banners, flowers and greenery almost hid the rest of the orchestra. At the other end the banners supporting the balcony, and the front of the balcony itself, were covered with greenery and coloured electric lights. The attendance numbered about 450 and the outstanding feature was the brilliance of the ladies dresses, which presented a wealth of animated colour. But this was added to by members of the Order, who were dressed in full Masonic regalia

1923 06 14

Haddenham feast, p6

1923 06 15

Motor omnibus for hire, p3

1923 06 15 c

The annual Inter-Varsity military tournament was held on the University Rifle Range, Grange Road when Cambridge beat Oxford by six events to 4. Perhaps the most popular event was the tent pegging, which reached an extremely high standard. One rarely sees it done better at Olympia. The artillery drive, too, was extremely well done. Some regular artillery officers in the audience, the hardest critics of all, seemed somewhat sceptical about it when the team drove into the arena, but after the first-time round their criticism changed to praise. The events won by Cambridge were the R.F.A. Alarm race, the individual jumping, the half section jumping, tent pegging, wrestling on horseback, and the cavalry dummy thrusting but they were beaten by Oxford in the cable laying competition. Oxford's other successes were the bayonet fighting, the artillery driving, and the tug of war.

1923 06 15 ES

Haddenham death Mrs Harriett Whetstone – family history 23 06 15

1923 06 16

May Week this year must surely have been one of the worst on record, from the point of view of the townspeople. One hears on every hand expressions of disappointment and dolorous comparisons with the "good old days". The motor car is largely responsible for the tailing off in the number of people who stay in the town during May Week. Motor travel is so speedy and comfortable nowadays that quite a large proportion of the people who used in the old days to book rooms now run into Cambridge in the morning and return home again at night. A local tradesman told me that he used to be busy during the week until the late hour, being engaged in waiting on customers at their rooms after closing his shop at 8 pm, but now business is completely dead after about six o'clock.

1923 06 16

A remarkable story of how a large sum of money was snatched from the jaws of death, as typified by the corporation refuse destructor reached me the other day. It appears that a certain tradesman on Peas Hill, Cambridge, had by some strange mischance consigned a wallet containing money to the dustbin. A frenzied telephone message to the contractor revealed that one of his dustcarts had collected at the address that day. The cart was searched, but without success. Eventually the missing wallet was discovered on the very threshold of destruction and found to contain Treasury notes to the value of between £200 and £300. Some people back Derby winners and others have luck in other directions.

Dangerous corner, p6

1923 03 16 c

Even on days when the Tripos lists were read out in the Senate House by the examiners the men's lists were handed in a sealed envelope to the chairman of the examiners by an official from the Registry, and the women's lists in another sealed envelope were handed in by an official from the local examinations and lectures syndicate. In the old days, when the order of merit in the various triposes used to attract large crowds of undergraduates to the floor of Senate House to hear the lists read out from East Gallery, it was always a standing joke that as soon as the examiner read out the word "women" the undergraduates would call out "ladies".

1923 06 18

Further particulars of the sensational motor accident on the borders of Derbyshire which resulted in the death of Mr W. R. Finbow are now available. It appears that Mr Finbow had a removal contract from Chorley, Lancashire, to Cambridge for which he enlisted the help of Mr Holliman's van. Mr Finbow's own van was loaded up and left for Cambridge first. This reached its destination in safety, albeit with the brakes burnt out. Mr Finbow chose to come back in the other van. Approaching a bridge on a steep and winding road the heavily laden furniture van began to descend the hill. The brakes were applied, but refused to act and the van started to career down the hill at 50 miles an hour and making so much noise that the inhabitants of the village at the foot of the hill were out in the road to see what was happening. Mr Finbow was standing on the footboard shouting suggestions and about 20 yards from the bridge fell he from the vehicle and the wheels passed over his body.

Station building estate, p3*

1923 06 19

Wholesale bicycle thefts, p3

1923 06 20

Motor club fixture list, p3

1923 06 22

Sir- I was interested to read your article about donkeys at Midsummer Fair. The rides are no doubt appreciated by the kiddies, but it is surely going too far when "kiddies" of 18 and 25 are seen mounting on the backs of our four-footed friends. The ponies are started off on a run of 100 yards, and tear backwards and forwards, sweating and blowing, without a minute's rest, beaten with sticks and sundry kicks, yells and curses. The police should look into the matter for there is nothing more painful to watch than the ill-treatment of a dumb animal and if a young man of 18 cares to make an ass of himself to ride on something intended for a child, it will be easy to discover the bigger donkey of the two. - A Lover of Animals

1923 06 22

There is a party of Cambridge undergraduate members of the Officers Training Corps under canvas at Bournemouth and last night they broke loose and came out to ta-ta all by themselves. About three hundred of them found their way into Bournemouth. When they got to the pier the sea air went straight to their heads. They squatted themselves down and ate what they called a banana supper during which they sucked oranges and supped beer. Meanwhile they cheered everybody and everything. They unearthed a policeman and danced a polka around him while he looked on them benignly and let them make things lively.

1923 06 22

Ely Rural District Surveyor reported on the manure heaps in Long Drove, Haddenham. Mr Heffer said it would certainly injure the smallholders and farmers if they were stopped putting their heaps of manure in the droves. Mr Porter said it was causing an obstruction. He did not wish to debar them from getting the manure out but if they were going to allow anyone and everyone to put manure on public highways the council were creating a very dangerous precedent. Mr Kisby said that it would cause hardship for it was possible that many of those men had a big accumulation of manure which could not easily be moved.

Waterbeach vicar 20 years' service, p3

1923 06 22 ES

Stretham Garden Fete on Rectory lawn ... stall-holders listed ... MP unable to be present ... Mr Swan's talented concert party, fortune teller, fancy-dress, Alan Savidge wireless concerts – photo of opening ceremony 23 06 22, 22a

Two aeroplanes came to grief on the Hundreds Farm, Chatteris. Two officers had flown to Hitchin to collect a new bombing machine. On returning one of the plane's propeller broke and the pilot made a forced landing on farm of Mr F. Sole. The machine turned a somersault, trapping pilot. His companion made an effort to assist him but in landing found himself in potato ground. Owing to the ridges the machine travelled about 30 yards and pitched its nose into ground and stood upright. Neither pilot received great injuries. Relief parties arrived and took the planes away. 23 06 22b

1923 06 23

Midsummer fair seems to get bigger than ever. From all appearances the amusement caterers and smallholders are going to do good business. Hoop-las are not so plentiful, but there are many new ingenious contrivances to extract the pence from those who are out for an evening's merriment. The sideshows are certainly more numerous, but one still misses the large pavilions in which the "animated pictures" were shown. The cinemas have evidently killed these stone dead. A visit to the fair is well worth while, even if one does not feel equal to a trip on a roundabout, a swing round on a chairoplane, or some other more or less thrilling diversion.

1923 06 22 ES

Double aeroplane crash at Chatteris ... new bombing machine ... propeller broke and forced landing on farm of Mr F. Sole. Machine turned somersault, trapping pilot. His companion made an effort to assist him but found himself in potato ground ... pitched nose into ground and stood upright. 23 06 22b # c.26.1

1923 06 25

Mr Reynolds told the Royal Sanitary Institute meeting at Cambridge that there were scores of cowsheds being altered every day, and no dairy should have a door entering into the house; yet there were scores like that, and the farmer's wife did not like the idea of having them closed. They knew full well that there were certain people who could not keep their own houses clean, let alone dairies. The chairman said he was convinced of the fact that the drinking of more milk would do the public health very much good. One of the greatest public needs of the present was that people should drink more milk and drink less tea, which did no good to the children.

Mistaken identity, p6

1923 06 26

The President of the Cambridge Chamber of Commerce and of the Propaganda and development committee write: "We enclose a further list of donations to the fund for advertising Cambridge as a holiday resort. The advertising campaign is being proceeded with at all possible speed. An order has been placed for printing 20,000 copies of a free guide to Cambridge, and a design for a striking poster by a first-class artist has been approved and will be printed at once. The committees are also preparing a list of accommodation available for visitors which will be sent to inquirers. The newspaper advertising campaign is about to commence and orders have been faced for the insertion of advertisements in London and Provincial Newspapers"

50 years on GER, p4

1923 06 28

Newnham roads, p3*

1923 06 29 ES

Garden fete result

Late Mr J. Chapman. Wilburton Road ... 78, born Wilburton; coal merchant and small holder 23 06 29

1923 06 30

Women in men's jobs, p3*
Red Flag warning, p3*
Accident Broomstick Corner, p5

July 1923 CDN

1923 07 03
Histon feast, p4*

1923 07 04
For a century the East Anglian district has been connected with the Loyal Order of Ancient Shepherds, but not until this year has it been fortunate enough to have a member erected Chief Shepherd of the Order. This honour has fallen to a well-known resident of Ely, Mr J. W. Merrywest. He has been a member of the order since he was six years of age. As district secretary for East Anglia he has under his supervision branches in nearly every village and town, with a membership of 13,000.

Burwell plans *
Ely wreaths *

1923 07 06
Swavesey church garden fete, p3

1923 07 07
Mepal tragedy, p3

1923 07 09
The Master of Downing College told the Cambridge University Local Lectures Jubilee conference that he his short experience as an extension lecturer made one realise that one's knowledge was not as extensive as one thought. When a lecturer was appointed in the university before intra-mural work one of the last questions which any one thought of asking was "Can he lecture?" (Laughter). If every university lecturer was required to give a trial lecture before a select body of experienced extension lecturers the university would reap no little advantage. The extension lecturer was trained by his audience to be a lecturer and educated by his audience to a better understanding of his subject.

1923 07 09
Unusual interest was taken in the A.A.A. open championships. From a local point of view our interest was mainly in the Varsity men who again perform most creditably. One must sympathise with Dr R Salisbury Woods, the greatest weight putter Cambridge has ever had. For years he has performed annually at the championships and last year was unplaced at 40 feet one inch. He could not compete this year owing to an operation and the event was won at 39 feet 2 1/4 inches. Some people seem to be disappointed that Harold Abrahams did not again carry off three events but I do not think that he was quite at the top of his form. His jumping was magnificent he has improved in this event so much that I am hoping he will be able to hold his own against the world next year.

Cambridge degree, p3

1923 07 10
Cambridge was visited last night with one of the sharpest thunderstorms that has passed over the town for several years past. The roll and rumble of the thunder at times was almost continuous. Sometimes it almost resembled that of a bombardment, at others a rattling volley of musketry. Once or twice there was a blinding flash, followed almost instantaneously by a short, sharp, stunning clap of thunder. There were periods of intense electrical activity, a sort of "mad minute", during which rapid flashes and crashes came and went in a wild hurly-burly of light and sound.

1923 07 10

Sir - I wonder has it ever occurred to the Chancellor of the Exchequer what an excellent Revenue would be produced by the taxation of gramophones. At least to anyone living in the hutments of the old First Eastern General Hospital a prohibitive tax would indeed be a boon. If a graduated tax, according to the noise of the said instruments were introduced, I know of several people who live near me to would find it necessary to pay out so much that they would have nothing each week to purchase new needles. Yours etc - Music Lover

Manea shop failure, p3*

1923 07 11

Newmarket Hospital Sunday – fire brigade, p4

1923 07 12

Mr Cutlack told Ely council that he was of the opinion that the best and most economical course to take in the event of a smallpox outbreak would be to erect a marquee or tents in an outlying area for patients. In the wintertime provision could be made for heating the tents. Mr J C Laxton said in weather like they were then experiencing he could not agree. It would mean frying the patients and getting them ready for somewhere else. (Laughter)

1923 07 12

A most successful function in every way was the first annual dinner of the Ely City Military Band. The Chairman said that for years before the formation of the City Band, the only band they had was the Cambridgeshire Militia Band. Of course there was the Volunteer Band but that, unfortunately broke up. Thus it was greatly to the advantage of the town that they had been able to form such an excellent band in Ely as they had now. That was a thing that every citizen in Ely could congratulate himself on.

Prospects in Canada, p3

St Ives accident, p6

1923 07 13

American athletes at Cambridge, p6

1923 07 14

To be quite topical, or rather tropical, I suppose I ought to say something about the heat. I think a precedent must have been broken this week in the Combination Room at St John's College. The Harvard and Yale Athletic team who are to oppose Oxford and Cambridge at Wembley were entertained to dinner and after the toasts the chairman, Dr Salisbury Woods, said: "Gentlemen, precedent was broken down last night in the House of Commons, when Members of Parliament removed their coats and waistcoats. I think the example was an excellent one, and propose that we also should remove our coats and waistcoats." Carried unanimously!

Absorbing topic, p4*

1923 07 16

The annual meeting of the Royal Eastern Counties Institution for the Mentally Defective, Colchester, was held at the Memorial hall Newmarket. The chairman said they had six patients in the institution from Newmarket and the neighbourhood, and these cases were costing to maintain about £150 more every year than was received in subscriptions from Newmarket and district. One had been in since 1902, another since 1905 and another since 1914. Mr Cole said they should bear in mind that Newmarket was only a small town, although some people called it a gold mine, and if they compared it with some of the other towns they would see that Newmarket subscriptions were very creditable. Ely they looked upon as a sort of heaven but the good people of Ely only gave £70, while the bad town of Newmarket gave twice as much.

Stretham death Joseph Blinch, 69, though heat, p4

1923 07 17

RAF tender smash, p4

1923 07 18

Hayfield accident Hemingford Grey, p3*

1923 07 18 c

The question of the harvest bonus was discussed by the Essex County Farmers Union. The committee recommends the round sum of £4 to be paid to see the harvest in, or alternatively 8d per hour. The number of hours to be worked a day to be eleven, and where it is customary to let the harvest by piecework these figures can be used as a basis.

1923 07 19

Dr Albert Mansbridge, the founder of the Workers Educational Association, who recently received an honorary degree from the University, attended a successful Garden Party held in the Fellows Garden of Christ's College. He said Cambridge University had been in the forefront of all recent movements for the education of working people. Everyone could learn something, although they did not want all to become scholars. Education was not a dry thing but led to a better and happier life. The W.E.A. stood for education, which enabled people to live at their best.

1923 07 19

The chairman of the Cambridge Allotment Association said a man could not put his heart in to tilling of the ground when he knew he might get six months' notice at any time. In Vinery road there were about 50 people working a five-pole plot each. That was hardly satisfactory. A man who had got four or five children wanted 20 poles; he did not want to lay it out simply with potatoes; he wanted a little fruit, and if he knew he had a plot for 20 years or as long as he lived, he could put in his fruit trees.

1923 07 20

Licensing meeting, p5

1923 07 20 ES

Fire broke out at Manea during tarring operations. The barrel was being hoisted onto the tar boiler when the bung came out and the contents sprayed onto the furnace and immediately became a mass of flames. The stream of burning tar quickly ran down the gutter and ignited six other barrels of tar standing a few yards away just outside the Vicarage. Dense clouds of smoke began to ascend and the flames burnt the tall wooden fence which bounds the vicarage and the road. So rapidly did the fire progress that those immediately on the spot were powerless to check it and it was at first thought that the Vicarage itself would be burned for it seemed impossible to save it. However the dense smoke gave its own warning that help was needed and families whether in the fields or the home hastened to the spot. The crier went around on his bicycle shouting 'Bring your pails'. Never has such a human weapon been so speedily mobilised to fight a fire. Young and old, male and female, with hundreds of buckets were soon working like Trojans, everyone realising that upon their prompt action rested the issue of whether the fire would be the biggest catastrophe that has ever befallen the village. Flames leapt up the Vicarage wall, paint was blistered and windows in the kitchen cracked by the heat. So serious was the situation that valuables and other articles were removed for it seemed imminent that the house would be burnt. Flames were kept from getting stronger only by the continual douching by hundreds of buckets of water from the eager band of willing workers. While this was happening the tar boiler itself was blazing to which was attached to horse and it was with some difficulty that the animal was extricated after it had received some injuries to its flanks. One of the workmen who was on the boiler found to the lower parts of his legs were in flames but he jumped into pails of water and saved himself. Unfortunately there was a good supply of water handy from wells which had almost been forgotten. Although the fire engine was brought to the scene the outbreak was practically extinguished without its aid. So speedily and determined was the work of the firefighters that the conflagration lasted only half an hour from beginning to end. To show his appreciation the Vicar threw open Vicarage lawn with amusements including bowls which had never before been played in the village. 23 07 20

Ely residents interested in recalling bygone ages should obtain permission from Lieut-Colonel Philip Cutlack to inspect a collection of old-time advertisement bills which he has framed and hanging on the walls of the Brewery. They all relate to the celebrations of the Coronation of Queen Victoria which took place on Palace Green when over 3,000 people sat down to an ample spread. One bill deals with the actual cost of the dinner, including tablecloths, cannons and gunpowder and flagbearers. At the bottom of the bills are the word 'printed by John Clements, Ely', the firm which continues on Fore Hill. It would be interesting to know whether anybody has a print of the Ely Coronation Festival. 23 07 20

1923 07 21

At Cambridgeshire County Council it was agreed that all roadmen be given holidays on the four Bank Holidays in addition to Good Friday and Christmas Day. Councillor Stubbs asked they also give them six days consecutive holidays - a privileged that was granted to the remainder of their staff. He understood that the staff had a fortnight or three weeks holiday with pay, and their police officers had holidays with pay. Councillor Jackson said if they were given holidays, they would have to be reappointed at less wages. They were agricultural labourers, and the greater part of them were not skilled men. The council had no right to give them a holiday out of their class. This resolution was defeated.

1923 07 23

Sir - Carpet beating should not be permitted, even on a Common, close enough to the surrounding houses or the public roads to be a nuisance to householders or the passing public. Neither should householders themselves be allowed to beat carpets in their back yards, unless they have a large space behind their houses, so that the dust will not be swept by the wind into their neighbours' houses. It often happens that as soon as one person has cleaned up their house, the next door neighbour bring their carpets out and beat them, and the dust they get rid of is blown back into their neighbour's clean house. It is a very dirty and dangerous practice to beat carpets close to any house, and very annoying to say the least of it. These nuisance appear to be on the increase and should be stopped - "Health"

1923 07 23

Very few people entered the magnificent new arena at Wembley expecting to see Oxford and at Cambridge win against the American athletics team. I bow to no one in admiration of the wonderful athletic ability of Harold Abrahams, but I thought that he was a trifle stale. Even on the day he did not look fit enough, and he must have used up a lot of his reserves of energy. He has, however, what we call the Varsity temperament, and the occasion brings out the best that is in him. As a matter of fact, he won all of his events with the greatest ease, and I can truthfully say that I have never seen him run better.

1923 07 24

Central School scheme – Milton Road school, p3
St Collette's school modern methods, p3

1923 07 26

Milton Road School opposition closure, p3
Bust King Edward, Guildhall, p3

1923 07 28

There are new pleasures in store for workhouse inmates. Amazed and almost disbelieving that the music and songs were being heard from "Lonnon" the inmates of the Ely Union were given a wireless concert by Mr Charles Howes. Two receiving sets were used, one to operate the loudspeaker, and the other to make the music audible in the headphones. Two aerials were erected, one outside and the other slung across the dining room where the concert was given. During the evening the London broadcasting station mentioned Ely, and said they hoped the concert would be received well at the Tower House, and that it would be enjoyed by those who were listening in for the first time. That the hope was realised, goes without saying

1923 07 28

The offer of the London and North Eastern Railway Company in connection with the acquisition of the site of the old Newmarket railway line for the purpose of linking up Cherryhinton road with Mill road, Cambridge, led to a good deal of discussion at the town council. For many years they had tried to get the company to come to terms, so that they could join the Rock Estate with Romsey town. The line was the key of the situation, and there were great possibilities of development on that side of the town. Mill Road too was strangled at present. Councillor Ambrose hoped the negotiations would be conditional on some promise of a bridge or railway for the people to get to the station from the Rock estate

Town council meeting, p6

1923 07 30

Soon after seven o'clock on Sunday evening passers-by in the vicinity of Newmarket Road were somewhat surprised by the appearance of a saloon car carrying a wireless outfit. The aerial was comparatively large, and was suspended from two poles at either end of the roof. The sight was sufficiently rare to cause much curiosity and comment. A number of new inventions have been referred to in our wireless articles and it is easy to foresee that in a few years, far from being a novelty, no car will be complete without its wireless installation

1923 07 30

Cambridge men and women of all shades of political opinion, and a number of children, associated themselves with the world-wide demonstrations that were held to express the determination that there shall be no more war. The Cambridge demonstration took place on Parker's Piece on Sunday afternoon. Prior to this a procession marched to the war memorial. It was headed by the Salvation Army band. The Cambridge town branch of the League of Nations Union was the first of the representative bodies, with three large appropriate banners bearing the words "No more war." The Cherry Hinton band also took part, and in the rear of the procession came a pathetic little band of "hunger marchers" from Sheffield with their own banner

Tribute to Montagu, p4

1923 07 31

Foreigners in Cambridge, p3

August 1923 CDN

1923 08 01

Stetchworth gravel pit accident, p3

1923 08 02

Sir - for generations Hobson's Conduit has been well cared for. For 30 years or more an industrious and expert custodian gave the conduit daily, almost hourly, attention, keeping it clean and trimming the banks. In an unhappy moment the stream fell into the hands of the Corporation and has been allowed to fall in to neglect, its banks are untrimmed and dishevelled, and the stream is choked with dirt and weeds. Every now and then - at long intervals - three or four men attack the weeds, drag loads of them on the banks and leave them to fester in the sun. The raid is useless; in a week or two the state is worse than before. Among the unemployed surely there is some man fit and able for such work and the stream be kept clean and tidy as in the past. - "Brookside"

Norwich library burnt down, p3
12-year-old housebreaker, p4

1923 08 03

Harvest work in the Eastern Counties is menaced by a serious dispute between the National Union of Agriculture Workers and the Farmers Union on the question of the wages bonus. Trouble began in Norfolk, where the workers refused to accept a reduction of the harvest bonus from £10 to £8 10s. Disaffection extended to Suffolk and Essex, the Suffolk men declining any bonus less than £6 and the Essex side £5 5s. or a rate of 10d an hour

AA scout injured, p5

1923 08 03 ES

Ouse Drainage Board held an emergency meeting at Denver Sluice because a 'blow' in the dam had stopped work. The only way to exclude the water and repair the sluice was by cutting a new passage or new eye on the west side of the sluice. This was agreed. At the meeting two members were compelled to resign as they had not their drainage taxes. 23 08 03 # c.29

1923 08 04

Many people wonder why the New Theatre lies fallow for so long during the summer, but theatres get dirty during their year of work, and are badly in need of a spring clean at least once a year. This year it has had something rather more in the nature of a complete transformation. As one enters the vestibule one is immediately struck by the sense of newness. It makes the approaches to the auditorium the cleanest and prettiest that I have seen in a provincial theatre. The stage itself has new boarding and several new sets

Bruntingford show, p5

Foreigners in Cambridge, p6*

Fruit crop failure, p6

Horseheath property, p6

1923 08 06

In Norfolk a large number of cottages have for centuries been built of clay lump - that is, sun-dried bricks. They are warm in winter and cool in summer, and they are perfectly dry and everlasting. Recently a bungalow of clay lump was built in Cambridgeshire for £720. The clay lump bricks are made by first laying on the ground three or four inches of Barley straw, then covering these with three or four inches of clay, dug close by, and pouring plenty of water over all. Then the whole is trodden into a paste by a horse which walks backwards and forwards, and round and round till all is well mixed. Wooden moulds are then filled with the mixture and smoothed over.

1923 08 07

A driver for the Taxi Side-car company was summoned for driving a motor cycle taxi cab in a dangerous manner in Castle Street, Cambridge. Walter Langford, labourer, spoke to seeing a taxi side-car coming down Castle Hill. At the crossing it dodged in front of a motor car, and the side-car caught the front of the motor car which struck the side of Messrs Clark's shop in Northampton Street. The motor car hit a man and knocked him down.

1923 08 09

Sir - I would like to make a suggesting regarding the new traffic arrangements at the junction of the Newmarket Road, Jesus Lane, and the three other tributary traffic arteries at that point. It seems to me such a pity to rob our dear old town of Cambridge of a cherished sign manual viz. "The Four Lamps," a titular description of a point in the town becoming ever more known and used, which is spoken of by old Cantabrigians wherever they meet the world over. I always regretted the removal of the old four-armed lamp, ugly as it was. – Ex-councillor

1923 08 07

Motor cycle taxi accident, p3*

1923 08 08

Ely sports, p4

1923 08 09

'Four Lamps', p3*

Position of agriculture, p3

Shelford & Stapleford Football club merge

1923 08 10

Sir - 10 years ago the game of bowls was a hardly known in Cambridge but the late Mr Basil Whibley worked very hard to bring before the Council a scheme for permission to lay out greens on Christs Pieces and Alexandra Gardens, and to build pavilions. There now appears to be a lack of real sporting spirit. At present novices are simply not wanted, and are very pointedly made to feel it by old stagers, but they will not last for ever and new blood will be missing. - "An ex-President of bowls clubs"

Daddy the undergraduate, p4*

Parker's Piece seats, p4*

1923 08 11

War memorial balance share, p3

Open access at Mill Road library, p4

1923 08 14

Big efforts are to be made in Cambridge by the various trade unions to regain those who have dropped out of their organisation and ceased to take an active part in it, by the holding of what is called a "Back to the Unions" Campaign. It opened with a series of open air meetings at which the advantages of a solid trade union front for the worker were enunciated by union speakers. On Saturday evening a mass meeting will be held on Parkers Piece

1923 08 14

The 1st Battalion Cambridgeshire Regiment who returned from their fortnight's training at Felixstowe have had a busy but very enjoyable time. The camping grounds was close to the beach and the bathing facilities were much appreciated. The weather was rather rough and rainy, especially Tuesday, when the tents were frequently blown down, until the men got up to the dodge of anchoring them with lumps of rubble. They watched a demonstration to illustrate some of the lessons learnt in the late war, including infantry attack under cover of machine guns.

1923 08 15

Storm, p5

1923 06 15 c

Addenbrooke's Hospital court were told that the most important item was the provision of an additional operating theatre. When installed the present one was considered one of the best, but it had now become out of date. There had been a steady increase in the number of operations. In time they would also like to see an additional ward corresponding to the existing Tipperary ward. The wards were the admiration of everyone, and they wanted the rest of the hospital to be brought up to the same level

1923 08 16

Cambridge county court heard an action for damage to a private road at Caxton Common farm. 5-600 sacks of Barley were moved by a traction engine and truck, the engine weighing eight or ten tons and the truck some three tons. The result was that the road was cut up so that it was impossible to use it for traffic of any description. The ruts made by the engine were so deep that the wheels of the trucks did not revolve and it slithered along on the axles. The road was not now usable even for horse traffic.

Builder's claim, Whittlesford, p4

1923 08 17

A meeting was held on Cambridge Market Hill under the auspices of the local branch of the World's League Against Vivisection. Some hundreds gathered around the first speaker who was heard amid a running series of questions and interruptions. He gallantly held his post for over an hour, and many of his points were agreed to, even by opponents of the movement generously. Certain diseases had been lowered doing the last 50 years in response to sanitary improvements, he said, but no direct evidence could be found as to any decrease of the death rate as a result of vivisection.

Clement Driver, Stretham, p3

Witcham church fete, p3

Soham's oldest man, John Taylor, dies – ES 17 05 1923

1923 08 17 ES

Flying at March ... great interest in aeroplane pleasure flights ... Berkshire Aviation Tours ... temporary airfield off Avenue ... some looped loop 23 08 17 # c.26.1

Charles Driver ... born Stretham 86 years ago, entered choir at six ... then no organ and choir had to supply all the harmony, being given the pitch by a pipe blown before the hymns by one of the choir members. The singers then bravely entered into their task and as the 'pitch-giver' was never sufficiently rash to sound the pipe at the conclusion of the music every performance was naturally without flaw or blemish as far as the sustaining of pitch was concerned. Later ... a harmonium appeared and pleased the critical eye and acute musical ear of the congregation His residence, a pretty old world cottage in which forefathers had resided for nearly 250 years ... sung in choir about 8,000 times ... portrait 23 08 17a, b

1923 08 18 c

A small advertisement of a house to be let at a rent of £40 a year appeared early this week. By the first post next morning there was a score of replies. The next post brought another score, and letters have been pouring in ever since, until the number must be over one hundred. This affords some idea of the number of people in Cambridge who want houses and don't mind paying a fairly good rent for one.

Littleport potato dispute, p3

1923 08 21

Mr James Tuck of Ely has been struck by lightning twice, once in 1914 and again on Saturday. In 1914 he was putting hay into an elevator at Chettisham when there was a vivid flash of lightning. The fork he was holding was torn from his hands. The lightning scorched his face and left red marks on his arm of a zig-zag shape. When he recovered doctors were astonished. On Saturday he was driving some pigs. Suddenly there was a vivid flash of lightning and he was stuck to the ground in a dazed condition. With the exception of still having a headache he is now little worse for his experience.

New Theatre variety, p4

1923 08 22

Wooden crosses, p3*

W.B. Redfern death, p3 (condolence 23rd p3, funeral 27th p3)

W.J. Few on solicitors' difficulties, p4

1923 08 23

Ted Lowe reminiscences, Stretham, p4*

1923 08 24

The staff of the Cambridge division of the L. & N.E. railway gathered to show their appreciation on the retirement of Mr Frederick Harradine after nearly half a century. He entered the service in 1875 as a porter at Cambridge station and two years later became a single line pilot on the old Newmarket line. In 1880 he went to Shelford as a signaller and later transferred to Ely. Returning to Cambridge he was made a divisional inspector. One of his duties was to be in attendance after any serious mishap. He was the best known railwaymen in the division, if not on the railway.

1923 08 24

The formal opening of the Soham water works took place yesterday. Mr Ransom said that Soham could now boast of a pure water supply, which, in view of the fact that less alcohol was consumed than in bygone years, was very necessary. Many would be grateful for the water and he hoped there would be further applications from the inhabitants, so that all would pay their share of the rates. The site of the water works joins the main road to Fordham. Here has been erected a magnificent water tower, substantially built in red brickwork, which constitutes a landmark for many miles around.

Matterhorn – Edward Whymper designer, p3

1923 08 24 ES

Stunt flying ... airman walks the wings at March & Chatteris – Berkshire Aviation Tours ... field in Wenny Road 23 08 24 # c.26.1

1923 08 23

Stretham's veteran carrier. Has Driven Carrier's Cart for 64 Years on Ely Road.

Mr. Edward Lowe, of Ivy Cottage, Stretham, near Ely, is shortly to celebrate his 65th year as a carrier. He is 78 years of age, and, despite the fact that he has regularly driven his carrier's cart from Stretham to Ely and other places for that period in all weathers, is still healthy and hearty. Four and sixty years ago Mr. Lowe harnessed his first horse to his first conveyance—a tumble cart. For 19 years his horse, named "Lighthouse" served him truly and well. Another horse, named "Short," took her plane on her demise, and lived for 16 years, while "Polly" her successor was driven by Mr. Lowe until she was 15. With the passing of the tumble Mr. Lowe purchased a spring cart, and it is remarkable that in his 64 years as carrier he has only had three conveyances. His present one, with the exception of the wheels, is nearly 50 years old, but apparently is as strong as the day it was made. Mr. Lowe as a boy can remember the stage coaches which used to stop at the Red Lion Hotel. He has had many interesting experiences during his carrying career, and some amusing ones as well. In the days when cricketers wore top hats, Mr. Lowe's Saturday afternoon occupation was to drive the Stretham scorer and a bell tent to the various cricket grounds in the district. Whether he conveyed the top hats also is not recorded. On one occasion he was driving a party of 13 people from Ely Market to Stretham when the back band of the harness broke. The whole of the occupants of the cart were pitched out on the roadway, but, with the exception of a few minor scratches, no one was hurt. One old man however would insist that he was dead. "I'm dead. I'm dead", he groaned and nothing would alter his opinion. "Are you certain you're dead" asked his wife. "Yes certain" was the reply. "Then lie quiet," was the wife's comforting response. Mr. Lowe's father was born in 1854, the year in which the Battle of Trafalgar was fought, and ten years before the Battle of Waterloo. There was a practical joker who used to ride in Mr Lowe's cart in the early days of his carrying business. He was always in the habit of shouting to any passing vehicle "Hi! Your horse had not got all his shoes on in front", Down would come the driver to inspect the animal and reply. "He has." "No, no he isn't." would retort the practical joker, "two of them are on his hind hoofs!" Mr. Lowe has come to Ely markets through cuttings of snowdrifts several feet high, has driven through thunderstorms and torrential rains, but the weather has never troubled him, and his health has been excellent. He has never seen the sea, but says he "knows London well" CDN 23.8.1923 [cut] 23 08 24a (photo 23 02 31)

1923 08 28

A Haverhill thatcher was convicted of using a two-wheeled carriage on Sunday without having a licence authorising him to use the trap for pleasure. Defendant said he was sometimes required to work seven days a week. He had gone to see Mr Wright, a proprietor of roundabouts, at Kedington, the business being to arrange for him to have a whelk stall at the shows at Clare, Stoke and Yeldham. He also went to look at some cottages at Kedington, which a Mr Richardson had asked him to thatch. He took a boy with him to look after the horse when he was out of the trap. He was fined 15s.

1923 08 28 c

A huge boiler, mounted on a trolley, and towed by two heavy traction engines, sank into the roadway at the corner of Thompson's Lane, Cambridge, at about a quarter to twelve this morning. It appears that the boiler was being conveyed to the Electric Light Company's works in Richmond Terrace, when the road collapsed under the strain. The boiler is about 30 tons in weight, and was many feet in length, and it is estimated that together the boiler and trolley weigh 40 tons. After several hours work the boiler was extricated.

1923 08 29

Ely Council received a letter from L.N.E.R. Company asking if they were prepared to consider the question of developing Ely as a tourist centre. They had outlined the cost of an advertising scheme as follows: pictorial poster, (300) to cover two years, £90; guide book, mostly paid by local advertising, £50; newspaper advertisements according to means available. A sum of £250 would give very good publicity to Ely. Mr Burrows said that anything that would tend to popularise Ely and attract people to the town should be done if practicable. There were several people who would be willing to pay through the rates for the popularisation of Ely.

1923 08 30 c

"What would a socialist government do with the universities?" was the subject of an address by Professor Lindsay at a summer school at Scarborough. His reply to the question was, "Give them a great deal more money, use them a great deal more, and leave them alone." He conceded that if universities were not so exclusively devoted to training middle class people for the professions, and if they undertook some political and social teaching and research, bringing them into contact with the life of the working classes, the objectionable aspects of its conservatism would disappear. He would propose to extend the summer school habit which had greatly grown in the past few years. Universities should not turn people out and neglect them afterwards. The student who had gone out into life for a few years usually knew what he wanted to learn, and applied himself more diligently, but, on the other hand, his mind was less receptive

Lady Binney, Pampisford, p3
Coldham's Lane allotments, p4*

1923 08 31

Hundreds of people attended the formal opening of the new swimming bath on Midsummer Common, Cambridge. The mayor said it was the only spot where they could get a flow of water, which came from above the sluice, and in this way they were able to always keep the water clean. It was surrounded by seven schools and they believed it would be for the benefit of the young lives of the town that they should be able to come there instead of bathing in the river, which was most dangerous because of the mud and weeds. Speaking through a megaphone he said that both he and his wife liked water, but they liked it warm. (A voice: "With a drop of something in it!" and laughter)

Motorists at play, p6

September 1923 CDN

1923 09 01

The death of Miss Letty Lind, the famous Gaiety actress and dancer of a former generation, has recalled to an old Cambridge playgoer a visit she paid to the old Theatre Royal some time in the 1880's when she was at the height of her popularity. She came in a Gaiety burlesque, and with her in the cast were two other great favourite of that day, Nellie Farren and Fred Leslie. I believe she also paid a flying visit to the new Theatre

Restful holidays, p4

The Dangerous Drugs Act has increased the penalties for cocaine traffickers. They may now be fined £1,000 and sent to penal servitude, but the amended Act says nothing about hashish - a deadly Eastern drug which is taking the place of heroin, cocaine, and morphine as a new form of the "dope" habit. It is the most deadly of all the narcotics and can be smoked, chewed as confectionery, or taken in liquid form in coffee or other beverage. It produces extraordinary mental exhilaration, but this is followed by dreadful nightmares and depression and, if indulged in to excess, insanity results

1923 09 03

It is claimed that a record was set up when a woman, aged 106, appealed to be put on the voters list at Mildenhall. She was Mrs Lowther, of Tuddenham, and her claim, pressed by Mr Elton Halliday, was successful. In spite of her age, Mrs Lowther still takes much interest in politics, and knows a great deal about parties and policies

1923 09 04

The Tyler family at Dunmow have an unbroken record of service as postmen in the same town for 106 years. Mr Peter Tyler, who is now retiring as a rural postman after 38 years' service, is a son, grandson, and great-grandson of a postman. His great grandfather delivered letters in Dunmow in 1817. There was a risk of the record being broken when Peter's grandfather died last century. His grandmother stepped into the breach and delivered the letters until her son Isaac (Peter's father) was qualified to do the work. Peter's son is extending the family history by now delivering letters at Dunmow

1923 09 04

With the proclamation of the ancient Cambridge fair of Stourbridge there is the prospect of a six weeks fair in that locality, though it is not likely to reach the magnitude of more balmy days. This morning there was not a caravan in sight, but kiddies with a few pennies need not give up; something is sure to turn up, even if it's only a rock stall. Spectators were but small in number, consisting mainly of youths and babies. According to the proclamation no unlawful disturbances should be made, and "all idle and disorderly persons" should depart forthwith. Apparently none of the spectators were offenders in these respects for no one made a move until they had scrambled for the coppers thrown to them by the mayor, neither did the rain-soaked constable on duty have to assist any ill-disposed individual in search for pastures new

Rugby Union club, p4

1923 09 05

Balsham housing, p3*

Newmarket on market day, p4*

1923 09 07

The inconvenience of having the water supply to their residences disconnected twice in quick succession has been the experience of Romsey town inhabitants, Cambridge. There have been two distinct breakages, both the trunk and the district mains being affected. The residents in the near neighbourhood of the bridge were given a temporary supply by means of a fire brigade hose attached to a hydrant in Devonshire round, the hose being extended over the bridge to Argyle Street. Then unusual scenes were witnessed of people lining up for water. Men, women and children assembled with a varied collection of receptacles and were kept in an orderly queue under the guidance of a police constable. To add to the general inconvenience three pumps in the affected district went dry during the night

1923 09 07

The death took place early this morning of Mr Ebenezer Peters, a partner in the firm of Peters, Elworthy and Moore, accountants and auditors. He was born in Cambridge & commenced his business career with the late Mr Dixon, bookseller, Market Street. He then joined his brother and formed the partnership of Peters Brothers over 40 years ago, carrying out the duties of assessor and collector of taxes from then up to the time of his death

1923 09 08

Latin for police, p3

1923 09 10

Fire broke out at Thomas B. Hunt photographer's shop Fitzroy Street. The blaze was confined to an outhouse which was completely burnt out. It was a brick building with a slate roof which Mr Hunt had used as a developing room. It was connected with the main building by a wooden door which was badly charred and had it not been for the prompt attention of the Brigade there is no doubt that the whole house would soon have been in flames. The damage included cameras, plates and Mr Hunt's complete developing set – 23 09 10

1923 09 11

This week is the last of a successful variety season at the New Theatre, Cambridge, and the programme forms a very attractive wind-up. It consists of comedy and more serious turns combined in very acceptable proportion; all the turns are quite good and very entertaining. Gaston Morrel is a comedian of a type but little known to Cambridge, in that he never says a word. His turn is called "Cleaning a lamp" and since a certain beverage of inebriating properties and a ladder are used, then there is some excitement. Laura and Kaley, a couple of witty ladies attired as school girls, sing and tell funny stories. Nan Foster, a vocalist with a pleasing soprano voice, sings some charming songs. Joe Cohan and Anna Dorothy play the old old comedy of the quarrelling husband and wife, their turn being known as "Two Wise Fools". Fred Keeton, a comedian is a very cheerful soul, with a partiality for donuts with jam in the middle. He sings a lengthy ballad on the trials and tribulations of a fireman

1923 09 12

We regret to record the death of Mr J E L Whitehead, town clerk of Cambridge. He attended Emmanuel College and took the law as his profession, being articled to his uncle who was many years Borough Treasurer. He practised at an office in Alexandra Street until he was appointed town clerk in succession to Mr Edmund Foster in August 1887. For many years he was a member of the Cam sailing club and was a prominent member of the Bijou Amateur dramatic Club and played juvenile lead in many of their productions

Brunswick school settlement, p3

Robert Cole, Prickwillow farmer, nakrupt, p3

1923 09 13

At Newmarket Board of Guardians the Clerk read a circular letter stating the facilities for emigration and giving the labour needs of the various colonies. Rev. S.F. Cunningham said he often saw young fellows of 19, 20 or 21 years of age standing about idle, with the exception of harvest time and odd jobs. Some of the more energetic boys had emigrated, and they were writing home to say they were doing well. They had repaid their passage money out of their wages. Agriculture at home was not as prosperous as it used to be, and they could very well send out some of their surplus population for the good of themselves and for the good of the empire as well

1923 09 13

Ely's water tower has gone dry and the whole of the interior is under renovation, drained of every drop of its 330,000 gallons of water, which is a day and a half's supply for Ely City. Water is drawn from the river Ouse into a filter bed, where it is pumped by a steam engine through 1,400 yards of pipes into the tank. The number of bricks in the tower is estimated to be 618,000 the first of which was made by the Dean of Ely in 1854. The wisdom of the Dean showed itself in laying the first brick, and not the last, which is 140 feet above the level of the Ouse

Cambridge Guardians nurses hours, p5

1923 09 14

Barton Institute, p3

1923 09 14 ES

Labour party and agriculture ... meeting at Haddenham

No More War demonstration at Haddenham ... 23 09 14

1923 09 15

Gramophone enthusiasts, and nowhere are they more numerous than in Cambridge, will be interested in the striking new invention which has just been placed on the market. Sir Henry Wood and other eminent musicians were among the large company present at the first public demonstration of the "Columbia Grafonola" and bore testimony to the marvellous improvement effected. Music can now for the first time be reproduced with a fidelity of tone that does justice to the artists and give satisfaction to the music lover

1923 09 18

Following a recent letter from the Vicar of Fordham in praise of the free library scheme which is being run in the villages by the Cambridgeshire County Council. Boxes of books of all classes are sent to the various villages, where demand for them has been found to exist, and are returned at the end of three months in exchange for a fresh supply. The first boxes went to 65 villages and boxes were also sent to 43 elementary schools for the special use of children. There are now 88 library centres in the county, and only 28 villages have not yet taken advantage of the benefit of the service. The scheme aims to develop the reading habit amongst those who have, as yet, been content to read nothing but the Sunday newspaper and a penny novelettes. Those in authority have no desire to attain a standard which may be called "highbrow" but hope to increase a healthy appetite for good books

1923 09 19

Eastern counties otter hounds, p3 (& 21 p5 – criticism)

Lauries' sale, p6

1923 09 20

The death took place of Mr James Newton. A Cambridge man born and bred he was respected amongst local butchers, farmers and others associated with the butchery trade in Cambridge. He had a remarkable record of continuous service with one firm having been apprenticed at the age of ten years, in 1852, to Mr John Goodliffe, of Sidney Street Cambridge, and remained in the service of the same firm all his working life. He retired in 1922 after 70 years faithful and interrupted service. Mr Newton was one of the founders of the Master Butchers Association which was established in March 1898.

Miss Lyon, Newton, death, p5

1923 09 21

Sir - During the time that Silver Street, Cambridge, has been closed for traffic, some hundreds of persons have used Mill Lane, Sheep's Green to Newnham mill path. This opens a solution of the problems of relieving Silver Street of a great number of bicycles, especially during the dinner hour. I would like the Corporation to consider widening the wooden bridges, lessening the gradients, covering in the outlets of Newnham mill, and improving the cobble stones in Mill Lane, in order to encourage cycle riders to use this way. The one drawback to this scheme is the sharp turn at the King's Mill corner, but this might also be overcome – "Newnhamite"

1923 09 21

By the death of its librarian, Mr F. H. Jenkinson, the university loses one who has served it with great distinction for many years. He was a man of remarkable and attractive personality. But possibly what most people will recall were his remarks on the care of books. He told a Library Association conference that it seemed incredible that educated men would send packages of six books by parcel post wrapped in one thickness of indifferent paper and held together with string. Strapping books on bicycles was another deleterious practice. "Perhaps some of us care too much for books, but most people care much too little," he said (& 22nd p5 & 6)

1923 09 21 c

Papyrus was given his final gallop at Newmarket yesterday and gave a smooth display. A special train will convey him from Newmarket to Cambridge and on to Southampton. He will sail in the Aquitania and should arrive in New York on 28th. The interior of his box is lined all round with air cushions of a thickness of about 10 inches. Should this loose box by any remote chance be washed overboard the pneumatic padding would keep him afloat. The fittings from his own stable at Newmarket have been used in the construction of the box. Bar Gold, his stable companion, and the black cat and kitten, also friends, will accompany him on the voyage.

1923 09 22

Plight agriculture, 2nd letter, p3

Drunk horse & cart, p5

1923 09 24

A very serious fire, which at one time looked like sweeping away an entire village, broke out at Ickleton on Saturday night. Due to some boys playing with fireworks a stack on Mr Griggs' farm burst into flames and it was not many minutes before the entire stackyard was on fire and it was soon obvious that the only building that could be saved was the farm house itself. By the time the fire engines arrived the sky was lit up for miles around and pieces of burning material were flying over the village. Thatched roofs were continually catching fire and householders were kept busy all night putting out burning parts of their property. The fire soon spread to the Priory Farm. It was not long before the three ponds which had supplied the tenders with water were dry, and the nearest source of supply was the river. It was the biggest fire since the blaze at Chesterford in 1914 and a really big calamity was only averted by 15 hours strenuous work on behalf of all concerned

1923 09 24

Mr Henry Morris, Director of Education for Cambridgeshire, told a meeting that at present many of the county schools had an average attendance of under 30, and some had 10 children. It was no use sending out a body of enthusiastic lecturers in Ford motor vans into the villages unless they had in those villages a sound elementary education. A village institution was needed to cover every phase of life and the village school master would be practically the village leader

Rendezvous reopens, p2

1923 09 25

Stourbridge fair, Cambridge, has been for the last few years dwindling in size and seemed likely to become nothing more than a custom. This year it has taken a new lease of life through the enterprise of Messrs Thurston and Sons. The amusements are of the usual varied type, the most noticeable absentee being the once popular Hoop-la. One may however indulge in the excitement of "Housey, Housey". Thurston's scenic railway, Manning's flying horses and the swing boats provide the thrill of the rush through space. Need we add that the wheel stall occupies the place of honour

New route, Newnham, p3

1923 09 27

This week many recipients of telegrams in Cambridge have had their messages come to them in a form new to this area - in the shape of narrow blue paper strips gummed on the ordinary Telegraph forms, and bearing the message neatly typewritten in bold, clear letters. This is the result of the coming into operation at Cambridge, for messages to and from London, of the Baudot machine telegraph, which has many advantages over the ordinary Morse working. A representative of this paper was shown the new instruments which have been installed in the Telegraph room at the Cambridge G.P.O.

Mixed bathing, p5

1923 09 28

Cambridge town council agreed a scheme to construct a road across Coe Fen from the Coach and Horse public house, Newnham, to Coe Fen Lane. The Ministry of Transport have agreed to pay half the cost, and the road will be commenced almost at once so as to provide work for the unemployed during the coming winter. The scheme had been before the Council for nearly 20 years. Nine or 10 schemes had been presented and each member of the council appeared to think his particular scheme was the best. The great advantage of the present scheme was that the whole length of the road would be on the council's own land.

1923 09 29

"I would be very glad if you could use your influence to induce all the shops in Cambridge to keep open during the dinner hour. Several of the larger ones are already doing so, but there are still numbers which close down for about 75 minutes. I wonder if they realise the amount of trade they lose in the week. How often people want to purchase something in a hurry during their dinner hour. The shop assistants themselves often require articles from other shops and now that nearly all shops close at the same time it gives no one a chance in an emergency" - A country shopper

Herbert Robinson motoring, p3

Back to work, p6*

October 1923 CDN

1923 10 01

A beautiful new chapel presented by the family in memory of the late Alderman William Potter Spalding, one-time mayor of Cambridge, was dedicated by the Bishop of Ely at All Saints church, Cambridge. The chapel has been formed at the East end of the South aisle. It comes in wonderfully well here, and supplies a long felt want to the church. The work has been carried out by Mr William Saint of Cambridge and the Artificers' Guild of Cambridge, to the design of Messrs Bodley and Hare, architects

Poppy day, p5

1923 10 02

Charabanc regulations, p4

1922 10 03

Sir, I wish to call attention to the great nuisance and obstruction caused by the bicycles outside the Perse School in Panton Street, Cambridge. At about 10 minutes to 9 there must be at least a score of girls waiting, every one with her cycle facing the door and blocking the pavement. Surely the doors could be opened earlier, or else the scholars could be made to form up properly in a queue round Union road - A ratepayer

Expensive tea, p3*

1923 10 04

Under the Government's immigration scheme, the Cambridge Juvenile Unemployment Bureau has sent out to Australia five boys. The first of these has return home an interesting letter in which he says: "It is a pleasure to me to write and tell you my experiences in Aussie, and if you are the means of inducing any other young fellow to come to the land of sunshine, it would please me more. J. and I have stuck together. We were in the same cabin in the boat, which held eight bunks. Ours was a slow boat. It took us over two months to reach Australia. I have been at Moss Vail over 10 months and am never short of a few pounds. I think it is a pity that more boys do not come from Cambridge. You have such a number of unemployed. Of course one has to work fairly hard but work has done me a power of good. I would not hesitate one minute to recommend any young fellow to come to Australia"

Perse girl's manners, p4

1923 10 05

The Cambridge Dairyman's Association report says they had many cases of "pirate" traders and "cut" prices. The position today is that the farmers demand a high price for their milk and the public equally unanimous in their demand for cheap milk. It was to the public advantage that they would be buying milk 1d a quart cheaper than last year. Mr Arnold said: "We only want one milk - the best; and we want to cater for the poor as well as for the rich". The best milk was at a prohibitive price for the poor. It was up to them to deliver a pure milk obtainable by the poor at a nominal sum.

1923 10 06

Representatives of the various drainage districts through which runs the Old West River assembled at County Hall, Cambridge, to consider a scheme for cleansing the river and repairing the banks. The work was one of the unemployment schemes proposed by the Ouse Drainage Board. Mr A.E. Wright said the river had been in a deplorable condition since 1917. Captain Matthews said that in April 1922 the river was surveyed and was very much stilted up, and the banks were 18 inches below the maximum flood level, so that it was a very serious matter.

Pre-war conditions, p6

1923 10 08

On Thursday the Central Cinema once again opens its doors, and another step towards a brighter Cambridge will be achieved. The main scheme of alteration has been the heightening of the roof, the removal of the pillars and improvement of the ventilation schemes. The absence of the pillars, which at times were a source of discomfort to some of the audience, will alone reconcile patrons to their long period of exclusion. The decorative scheme is entirely new and is based in shades of coffee and dark walnut, relieved with Wedgwood blue, an effective combination which is continued in the huge lampshades, which were always such a feature of the decoration. Another big feature is a new screen and projection which has been carried out by the Gaumont company. The projection is now situated about half way down the hall, and not at the back as previously # c.76.9

Oscar Browning death, p6

1923 10 09

'No more war' school, p3

Cambridge milkman, p5

1923 10 10

A fish hawker of Cavendish Road, Cambridge, was summoned before making a violent outcry, to the annoyance of inhabitants at Sedgwick Street. P.c. Barrell said he heard defendant shouting in a loud voice, "Fine fresh cod fish, haddocks, bloaters, fine fresh herrings and fruit." Witness had received complaints and stopped defendant who said he knew what he could shout and witness could report him if he liked. Cross-examined: He was not aware that a petition had been signed by 66 people stating they were not annoyed. Mr Pryor submitted there was no case to answer. There must be proof of annoyance to somebody. The case was dismissed.

1923 10 11

Willingham first show, p3

Free Library talk on school leaver, p6

1923 10 12

Sir, - May I draw your attention to three great points of danger in Great Shelford? One is by the war memorial, the other at Pumfreys corner and Little Shelford. To a newcomer the speed of some of the cars is most alarming. On Monday my daughter's Alsatian puppy was knocked down by a car going at great speed. I hear there were some women in the car, but can only suppose they were the thoughtless present-day variety without thought or feeling for anyone, or they would have asked the driver to stop. During the short time we have been here another dog has been killed and two men knocked down opposite the war memorial - E.S. Adutt

1923 10 12

The long-awaited for reopening of the Central Cinema, Hobson Street, Cambridge, took place in the presence of a good attendance. This popular house of amusement had so established itself with the lovers of the silent drama that its temporary withdrawal from the ranks of amusement caterers has caused no little concern. Not a few patrons felt that if a particular film did not altogether appeal to them, there was always a good orchestra to listen to, and this is doubtless one of the secrets of the Central's success. Under the renewed direction of Miss Norma Thomson the orchestra is better than ever, and some distinctly appropriate music was played with skill and efficiency.

1923 10 12

Alfred Deines, organ grinder, was summoned for making "a noise to the annoyance of inhabitants" in Orchard Street, Cambridge. P.C. Willis stated he heard him shouting "water cress" and told him that in view of complaints he would be reported. Defendants took his barrow and went away. He was fined 2s.6d.

1923 10 12 ES

Problem of agriculture ... Landworkers' Union Secretary ... March

Old West River ... in deplorable state ... silted up and banks 18 inches below maximum flood level ... 60 years since anything done 23 10 12 # c.29

In April 1922 the Old West River was surveyed, and it was very much silted up then. The banks were 18 inches below the maximum flood level so that it was a very serious matter for people in the district. The estimate was £13,525, which comprised the dredging and depositing on the banks.

George Webb said, they if must put material on the banks, there was no cheaper way of getting it than dredging the river for it. It was 60 years since anything was done to the Old West and people had been paying their taxes all that time. It was suggested that work be delayed until the effect of the expensive works at Denver Sluice and the Ten Mile River could be seen. But if it were delayed they would have to spend £2,000 to £3,000 pounds on patching the banks. 23 10 12 # c.29

Fire at Sutton; cottages razed during Feast festivities ... occupied Lenton, Rowell... thatched – photo Whilst Sutton Feast was in full swing, news came that some cottages in High Street were on fire. People left the fair in hundreds for the scene of the blaze and soon a big crowd had gathered. The result of the fire was that three persons were rendered homeless

The fire broke out near the chimney inside one of the block of three thatched cottages and quickly spread. The small buildings were soon ablaze. Calls were sent the Sutton Fire Brigade but unfortunately, owing to the insufficient length of the hose pipes, the fire engine could not be effectively worked. The best thing that could be done was to make use of pails of water there being a pond about 150 yards away. Little could be done to save the buildings. Thanks to the energy of willing hands, the sheds situated at the rear were pulled down and further damage thus averted. The cottages were constructed chiefly with lath and plaster with thatched roofs. One of them was occupied by Mrs R. Lenton, another by James Rowell while the other was used by Alfred Lenton as a storage place for tools. Above the basements were lean-to bedrooms. When the fire had burned itself out, little beyond the chimney stack was left standing. 23 10 12a

1923 10 13

Town Football Club dance, p5

Newmarket public lavatories, p5

Race for women jockeys, p7

Newmarket Nursing Home opening, p5*

1923 10 15

Major Stanley raised the question of motor cyclists. A good many ladies and gentlemen didn't realise they ought to have a proper silencer. He did not think that 10 per cent of the people had one. There was one "fiend" who went through Trumpington about 11 o'clock at night and made enough noise to rouse the dead. Dr Ellis agreed and said that in his village the speed was something terrific. They went through at 60 miles an hour and seemed to be proud of it. The chief constable said he thought he knew who the offenders were

1923 10 15

An Avro biplane was taking two passengers over Cambridge yesterday afternoon and when returning to the licenced aerodrome on Barton Road, the under-carriage fouled the hedge, causing the machine to fall almost vertically on its nose. The pilot was slightly injured. The passengers were uninjured and motored the pilot to the Evelyn nursing home where he was detained. The machine, which stands in the field in an almost vertical position, appears to have suffered but little damage other than that sustained by the under-carriage

1923 10 15 c

At Romsey ward Labour Party meeting Councillor Briggs said there were several "deadweights" on the council - men who had been put into safe seats. He was sure many of them could not stand on a public platform and speak for 10 minutes on any municipal matter, and they came to council meetings without agendas very often, and did not know what was being talked about. He would say with certainty that the Labour Party had done more in the last six or seven years for the furtherance of general welfare of Cambridge than had been done in the present previous 20 or 30 years

1923 10 17

Handcart obstruction, p5

1923 10 18

Barrington Congregational church, p6

1923 10 19

Soham fen roads (ES 19.10.1923)

1923 10 20

Cambridge music lovers can never complain that their wants are not catered for. A new departure will be the introduction for the first time of the Negro spiritual and plantation songs which have long held such a prominent place in the musical life of London. The remarkable thing is that their introduction to Cambridge has been so long delayed. Dressed in the costumes of the period, Miss Edna Thomas, gives her audiences, surfeited did with Negro syncopations, real plantation songs born in the days of slavery.

1923 10 22

The news that Papyrus had been beaten by six lengths at Belmont Park, near New York, was received in Newmarket with disappointment. Of course there are excuses to be made for the horse. The voyage was against him in the first place. But perhaps his greatest handicap was that he ran in English plates, admirable for racing on turf, but not for the unfamiliar dirt track. The American horses had a special kind of shoe, which by long experience they have found best for a heavy muddy track. But there was a very strong hope that the Newmarket horse would overcome all his difficulties

Cambridge town clerkship, p3

Borough official charged re embezzlement, p5

1923 10 23

Asquith kidnapped, p5

1923 10 24

Sir, - In some provincial towns the local authorities have adopted a scheme whereby tenants are given the option of purchasing the houses they occupy, upon slightly increased rent-purchase terms. Cambridge town council will soon have some hundreds of houses under their control, and it would surely be of advantage if some such arrangements were come to. Some hundreds of houses will eventually be erected on the Chesterton Hall site. Even now one cannot view the place without being struck with the depressing uniformity of all the houses - all one design, all one size, all one colour - not forgetting the flap over the front door. Considering that the council employ architects one would have expected something more varied to relieve the horrid monotony – “Chestertonian”

1923 10 24

Sir - Permit me to enter a strong protest against Cambridge town council “improvements”. Take the following, with all of which we are now threatened. The detestable proposal to improve St Mary's Street by lopping off nine feet of church yard; the very pleasant little old world Emmanuel St to be made banal by altering its lines and proportions; Coe fen to be utterly ruined for ever by cutting a new road for motors. And who in their right mind would dream of building public baths in so outlying and unattractive a suburb as Gwydir Street. - Delta

1923 10 25

Action against Perse School, p6

Improvements, p6*

1923 10 25 c

Ely Urban Council was told that the death rate in the principal places had been much higher than that in the villages. Mr Laxton said “That is because they drink dyke water in the villages”. (Laughter). The chairman said 104 fatal cases of cancer had been reported. He thought if anything could be brought to light as to the prevention of this dreadful disease was concerned, it should be done. Two matters that needed attention were the bad sewerage and bad housing. There were 146 houses in the district not fit for habitation.

1923 10 26

Cambridge public health committee recommended the council make an order declaring the fried fish trade to be an offensive business. But Councillor Few said the council had power to insist there should be proper appliances for taking away the smell. Was it a question of the district where the shops were? Was it a case of no objections in New Street, but when it came to Chesterton it was offensive. He believed that in the case of the fried fish shop in Victoria Road it was the property owners that were backing opposition because they were afraid their property would suffer. Fried fish shops are the restaurants of the poor. If these shops were closed many people would be prevented from getting a hot meal

1923 10 26

Cambridge public health committee have asked the surveyor to prepare plans for the erection in Gwydir Street of a building containing about 18 slipper and two douche baths. Dr Dalton said there was great need for washing baths in Cambridge. Three quarters of the houses in the town were without baths, and he believed there was only one place in the town - a hairdresser's - where there were baths available for the use of the public. There were 20,000 people in Petersfield, St Matthews and Romsey town districts alone. This was not a luxury, but a necessity.

Sims Woodhead memorial, p5

1923 10 27

The seventh bell at Great St Mary's Church, Cambridge, which was cracked on armistice night by some over-enthusiastic revellers, has just been returned from the founders. It now inclined on a pedestal in the nave of the Church awaiting re-fixing in the tower, and there it will stay until paid for. The cost of taking down, re-casting and re-fixing is close on £100. The bell was originally cast in 1667, and recast in 1723.

Amateur rowing club disbanded, p3

Sherlock Holmes, p6*

Infernal hexapods, p6

1923 10 29

Mr Stubbs ... crass ignorance

1923 10 30

Sir, many Cambridge people can remember the "Dismal Jimmies" protesting at the suggested new road from the Four Lamps over Midsummer common and the bridge to Chesterton. The council stood firm, what is the result? Victoria Avenue and the bridge has proved a complete success, the trees have grown and have become a real avenue. And not only is it a boon and a blessing to Chesterton men; it is a credit to Cambridge. I trust the council will again stand firm and this time let the boon be for Newnham, with a roadway over Coe Fen that will prove a credit to the district and then we can cycle to business without expecting to be caught in the death trap of crowded Silver Street. – "Safety First"

Longstanton cottages, p3

1923 10 31

Booklet for motorists, p3*

Mid-day closing of shops, p4

November 1923 CDN

1923 11 02

Voting is taking place in six wards today for the election of Cambridge town councillors. Two things which have gradually become usual at these yearly events again stood out prominently. One was a general slowness of the voting and the other the foggy weather, accompanied by rain. The rush is expected between 6 and 8 pm when the men will be at liberty to visit the polling stations in company with their wives. Probably those who most approve of elections are the school children in the contested wards, who get an extra holiday because their schools are needed as polling stations

1923 11 02 c

When the Newmarket war memorial committee found itself with a balance in hand after paying for the war memorial on the Severalls, they decided to devote it to building a nursing home and further subscriptions were solicited. The committee obtained the assistance of H R H Princess Mary to perform the opening ceremony, and this took place yesterday. Mr Seymour Cole said, "This town of Newmarket stands out for its loyalty. It loves the Royal family collectively and individually and it certainly loves Princess Mary"

1923 11 03

Saffron Walden Town council resolved, "That the use of chemical colouring matters and preservatives in food constitute a serious menace to the community, and calls upon the Ministry of Health to exercise without delay the power to safeguard the public in this respect, and to take into consideration the serious position in relation to metallic contamination of tinned food, and the purity of beer"

1923 11 03

The subject of the censorship of cinematograph films came before the Cambridgeshire County Council. They agreed that no film - other than photographs of current events - which has not been passed for universal exhibition by British Board of Film Censors shall be exhibited without the consent of the council. The Vice Chancellor thought that films such as those of the rags on Market Hill, he personally would be very glad to see stopped. (Laughter.) If there were no films of "rags" there would be no "rags" to film. (Laughter)

Hills Road skeletons, 23 11 03 p5*

1923 11 05

Not much unemployment, p3

Kraisler violin concert, p3

Charge against council official, p5

1923 11 06

Cambridge would be disappointed indeed if the Fifth of November failed to produce a rag of some sort. Last night's effort was, to say the least of it, feeble and was sustained for the most part by such residents of the town as come out for excitement on such occasions, and a handful of very callow freshmen. Fireworks there were in plenty, but the old spirit was lacking. Had it not been for the mounted police and the proctors, the market square would have been its usual desolate self soon after 9.30 pm. It was noticeable that as soon as the mounted police left the crowd decreased by 50 per cent.

1923 11 06

One hundred years ago the Royal and ancient game of rugby football was initiated, and today an alleged representation of the first game was given in Cambridge market square. Some time before noon the square was roped off and surrounded by police. The fountain was converted into a Royal box and the telephone kiosk into a press box. At noon the teams marched on to the ground. At their head was carried a large and considerably elongated football on a butchers tray. With the teams marched a portly and bearded Proctor, complete with "bullers" and a nasty looking birch, which he did not hesitate to use when occasion demanded

Cottenham teacher's house, p5

1923 11 07

Gamlingay fire, p5*

Juvenile delinquents, p6

1923 11 08

Tinned milk, p3*

Whittlesford railway accident, p5

W.B. Redfern's will, p5

Mayor Lavender's term of office, p6

1923 11 09 ES

1923 11 09 ES

A devastating fire which raged in the centre of Whittlesey brought extensive havoc to houses and shop properties causing damage running into several thousand pounds. Two houses and shops and a private house were completely destroyed and the fire which involved properties on both sides of Market Street was the most serious that has occurred for a long time past. At the same time the town was extremely fortunate in escaping a far more disastrous conflagration considering the situation in which the fire occurred, the rapidity with which it enveloped the properties involved. high, almost hurricane, wind which blew and the inadequacies of the local equipment for fighting so serious an outbreak. The outbreak occurred on the south side of Market Street near the junction with Broad Street involving the shops of Joseph Perkin, grocer confectioner and tobacconist and J.R. Fox which was also devoted to confectionery and included tearooms. In addition Mr Fox carried on a furniture trade having a warehouse at the rear of the premises. Both were thatched though one had been covered with tiles. The Whittlesey Fire Brigade were early on the scene with the manual engine. But with equipment of such limited capacity and with no considerable supply of water in the immediate vicinity, they were powerless to cope with the conflagration. As there is no water mains the only source of supply were wells which were soon pumped dry. The fire was fanned by winds and the flames leapt high and wide with burning material carried far afield to the grave danger of other properties. There is a great deal of old property much of it hatched although many are covered with slates or tiles. Wet cloths were stretched over the roof of a nearby thatched house. The property on both sides of the street was blazing furiously when the Peterborough Brigade arrived with a steamer and motor tender. They were handicapped as the nearest available water supply was in the river at Briggate and between 700 and 800 yards of hose had to be run out. And the problem was that of confining the conflagration to the limits which it had reached. The fire emphasises the inadequacy of the equipment of the Whittlesey Brigade. There are vacancies in the Brigade and the Captain would be glad if young men would volunteer. – 23 11 09 & a

1923 11 10

The red poppy of Remembrance was everywhere in Cambridge today. Every buttonhole, every bicycle, and every motor car bore visible tribute to those who died that England might live. Everywhere were busy undergraduates smiling and pushing their business and selling red silk poppies in aid of the Earl Haig's Fund for ex-servicemen and their dependants. The average undergraduate loves to be "up and doing" and any way he can use his superfluous energy for a good cause appeals to him. In accordance with their usual custom the memorial at the General Post Office was decorated with a huge wreath of laurels and poppies

Polish art exhibition & Poland today, p3
Coe Fen road, p6

1923 11 12

The Sun had dispelled a heavy fog when the Cambridgeshire regiment, headed by their regimental band arrived on Cambridge Market Hill and formed three sides of a hollow square. There was almost complete silence, broken only by some restive motor in an adjoining street. Then the beautiful chimes of Great St Mary's struck the hour. A few seconds later came the report of the maroon and automatically the parade sprang to attention. Our thoughts were with a glorious dead, and of all they had suffered in those years of agony. And then ... boom! A roll on the drums broke in on the silence, and the buglers sounded the "Last Post"

1923 11 12

A merry and light-hearted party of undergraduates, despite police vigilance, succeeded in obtaining their hearts desire - they manage to light a fire on Market Hill. Certain of the undergraduate community attracted the attention of some constables to a gas lamp on the one corner of the square. They demonstrated a desire to figure on the charge sheet of the police court by the charmingly simple process of putting out the light. The police "fell for it" and kept watch on that particular part of the market place. Meanwhile another body of the faithful rushed on to the Market Hill with a rowing eight filled with petrol and had it alight before people realised what was towards.

Research Wanderers football club dance, p6

1923 11 12 c

A disastrous fire occurred in Mill St Gamlingay when four houses were entirely gutted and their occupants rendered homeless. Messages were set for the Potton and Sandy brigades. Very fortunately owing to the recent heavy rains, Spittle Pit was full of water and this proved of great value, as there has always been great difficulty in pumping water from the brook over the railway bridge. On three other occasions during the past year thatched dwellings in Mill Street have been destroyed by fire. This brings into prominence the scarcity of homes for the people of the village, as new houses are seldom built to replace those destroyed

1923 11 13

Cambridgeshire Regiment recruiting, p3

Attempt to injure rector Cottenham, p3

1923 11 14

A very interesting series of demonstrations in apple grading was commenced in Mr A.E. Gautrey's packing sheds, Cottenham. The object was to call the attention of local growers to the enormous advantage of good grading and packing, representing as much as 5s. a bushel more to the grower, and enabling the British producer to compete successfully with overseas fruit. By good grading the buyer is able to rely on getting a package of fruit all of the same approximate size and weight instead of a jumbled up assortment of all shapes and sizes. Experience has shown that the public are prepared to pay for these advantages

Apple grading, Cottenham, p4*

1923 11 16 ES

Wisbech coach building firm's Jubilee; interesting record of progress ... needs of modern commercial motoring ... cars, buses

In the days when coachbuilding was an important industry Messrs Wicks & Sons were renowned for their skill. It was in 1873 that Mr. John Wicks came to Wisbech as a young man and found premises at first in the yard behind Albion place. So inconvenient were they that when it became necessary to turn a vehicle upside down, he had to take it out of his cramped quarters into the street, reverse it and carry it back. Soon he acquired more commodious premise; the ground floor was used for coachbuilding and wheel-wrighting and upstairs the painters' materials were accommodated. It was then that the name Albion Carriage Works was adopted. The present works were purchased in three instalments, until very extensive and commodious workshops and yards were available to the workmen.

The heavy farm waggon had been one of the mainstays of the business but with the advent of the motorcar they studied the requirements of the time and found they could supply suitable bodies of whatever type were required. From being stately coachbuilders they added the necessary shops and machinery to turn out the splendid and convenient motor bodies for which they are renowned in the district.

The workshops comprise body building, smiths, trimming, paint and machine shops and saw mills.

The machine shop contains spoke lathes, huge band saws, planing machines, emery wheels, lathes and drills and they are all run at high pressure. The carriage works turned out such fine vehicles that progress was made and customers were continually being augmented by new clients.

The firm claims to be coach and motor body builders complete but do not pose as engineers. They specialise in the repainting of motor cars and the re-trimming of cape hoods and side curtains particularly those which open with the doors 23 11 16 & 16a # c.26.48

1923 11 17

Newnham new road, p3

Isle election position, p4

Late Denby Sadler, p6

Police poor & needy fund, p6
Newton on unemployment, p6

1923 11 19

The Cambridge undergraduates have once more been the source of innocent amusement. The "rag" consisted in the purchase of one of the old four-wheeled tram cars that used in bygone days to be both a convenience and an adornment to the streets of Cambridge. On Saturday when it was expected that the tram would be towed in state through Cambridge streets the authorities were alarmed by the appearance of numbers undergraduates outside the yard where the tram was stored. At this moment another tram made its appearance, a tram of Lilliputian dimensions, towed with steady ropes by a happy band of undergraduates. The miniature car was solemnly dragged into the centre of town and along old tram lines, which have for many years or so useless a feature in King's Parade.

Cardinal Bourne visit, p3
Runaway horse, p5

1923 11 20

A ceremony unique in Cambridge and of a very impressive nature took place at the Carmelite convent on Chesterton road when his eminence Cardinal Bourne, Archbishop of Westminster gave an address. The ceremony was that of enclosing nuns. The house consists of two former dwelling houses joined together and possesses a small public chapel in which there will be public mass every day. With the exception of the nuns' choir chapel, no part of the building is actually new

1923 11 21

Miss Alderson said that since the opening of the Cambridge Shelter for Girls house in 1922 there had been 91 admissions. The present house (13 Hertford Street) was absolutely inadequate. There was a lack of proper arrangements for cleansing, no possibility for a separate bedroom for those for whom it was urgently necessary, no place except the one sitting room where the washing could be dried and the absence of any pretence of a waiting room. She described the only lines on which such a house could be run as Early Victorian if not prehistoric and appealed for support from the municipal authorities

1923 11 21

Mr R C Pierce the manager of the Cambridge Electricity Supply Company said that there was there had been three central generating stations built in 1891 of which Cambridge was one. They were built to prove that the turbines could work for in those days everyone was afraid because of the speed of the machine. The dynamos gave trouble and used to burn out at inconvenient moments. Cambridge started in 1892 and was run by very carefully trained men whose motto was "Never mind what happens, keep it going". Some people thought that the power in the town was very costly but it compared favourably with others of the same kind

1923 11 22

Walter Hammond colour photography, p5*
Bus service letter, p5*

1923 11 22 c

The council of the Photographic Convention have decided to visit Cambridge next July if arrangements town be made locally. A new generation of photographers having come along it was thought desirable to visit the town again. Certain officials visited a few days ago when they were enthusiastically received by those prominent in local photographic circles. On the last visit to Cambridge in 1902 many complained about having too many excursions and not been allowed sufficient time in the town

1923 11 23

Mr Taylor told the house possession hearing that he was the owner of numbers 11 and 12 Church Street, Old Chesterton. He wanted to knock a hole through the wall of the adjacent house and join one bedroom on to his house. He was willing to allow one shilling off his tenant's rent. The plaintive said his wife suffered from nerves and required perfect quiet at night. The slightest noise broke her rest. Defendant and his wife annoyed him by "singing that molly-coddle hymn, 'Who shall enter the pearly gates?' for two hours at a time". The judge made an order for possession of the required bedroom and fixed the rent at 4s. a week for the rest of the house.

Wireless appeal, p5

Fen Ditton recreation ground, p5

Farmers application potato harvest, p5*

1923 11 23 ES

Doddington church window unveiled

Signal honour was done to the village of Doddington when Major General Sir Charles Townsend, the Hero of Kut, attended a service at the church and unveiled a stained glass window. To be visited by so distinguished a personality is a rare event in village history and the people of Doddington and area were attracted to the service in such large numbers that the church was thronged. The General is one of the outstanding figures of the Great War and a personal friend of the Lord Kitchener. He honoured them by coming. They would place a brass under the window recording the fact that it had been unveiled by him. 23 11 23

1923 11 24

Sir with reference to the continuation bus service from Chesterton to Old Chesterton, I would like to point out that we ran the service in 1919 but it was an absolute failure and we were compelled to drop it. However as there seems to be a fresh demand I am giving it a trial. The terminus of the cars will be at Chapel Street, Old Chesterton, instead of De Freville Avenue as heretofore. The fare from Market Street to Chapel Street will be twopence. You will realise that it is quite impossible to revert to the penny fare over the whole of the services. It is true that the price of petrol has dropped, but the price of wages and labour generally has not decreased - John Walford, Ortona Motor Company

Proportional representation, University elections, p6

War memorial – Cambridge Review has article, p6

1923 11 25 c

A letter was read from March branch of the National Farmers Union on the urgent need for supplementing the existing labour supply for the getting up of the potato crop. He asked if they could close the schools for a fortnight to enable the children to assist in the work. The potato crop was exceptionally late this year and if the work were protracted there would be a risk of serious damage by frost. Councillors thought that they would shut out of schools about 1,000 children for the sake of about 20 who would go to work

1923 11 26

An inquest was held on the death of a timber carter from Steeple Bumpstead who had been killed by the falling of a tree trunk from a loaded timber drag at Mr Bradnam's saw mills, Haverhill. A load of trees had been bought from Stambourne Green on a four-wheeled drag, drawn by an engine. The deceased had undone the chain, had he not done so the trees could not have fallen off.

Superannuation rejected, p3

1923 11 27

The accommodation on the women's side at Fulbourn hospital is now strained to its utmost limit. The chairman said they had 71 more women on their books than they could accommodate and they dealt with the problem by sending 20 patients to Worcester. If they sent the other 50 to another hospital they would find they were sending out some of their best workers and they would have to have a larger staff to do the work of these 50. Dr Reardon said they could not recommend reconstructing the male part of the asylum and use it for females

Motor on fire, p5

Dimsdale wants houses, p6

1923 11 29

Newmarket council stables, p2

Juvenile unemployment, p3*

New Theatre – Refern, p5*

Newmarket UDC, p5*

1923 11 30

Leigh Mallory, undergraduate, fined, p5

Milton Road bus service, p5

1923 11 30 ES

Isle of Ely Parliamentary Election. Vote for Townley ... Conservative candidate 23 11 30

December 1923 CDN

1923 12 01

Haddenham ice fatality, p3*

1923 12 03

Lloyd George at Cambridge, p5*

Railwaymen meet, p6

1923 12 05

Cambridge Home of Mercy, p3

Stubbs at Cottenham, p5*

Mrs Dimsdale accident, p5*

1923 12 06

Signs were not wanting this morning of a “big push” being made in the county by the supporters of the rival parliamentary candidates. A representative of the C.D.N. who motored round some of the principle villages, noticed a big concentration of motor cars bearing the Conservative colours, which seemed very largely to outnumber those of the other candidates. It was noticed however that many of the veterans sturdily insisted on walking to the polls rather than be conveyed in motor cars.

1923 12 06

Elections, like boots, beer and, of course, bananas, are generally held to be much below pre-war standard. Some of the old spirit seems to have been awakened in the campaign which closed last night, and a “certain liveliness” on Cambridge Market Hill was slightly reminiscent of the old eve of the poll scenes. Many discussions were hastily adjourned as dense clouds of acrid smoke from a smoke bomb rolled down on them, and there was a gentle scramble for some minutes. While this was going on an agile disciple of Tarzan shinned up a lamppost and revived the ancient pastime of “dousing the glim”. A slick-handed undergraduate switched on a constable’s lamp attached to the latter’s belt at the rear, and the limb of the law strode around blissfully unconscious of the shining light behind.

1923 12 06

The question of providing additional accommodation at Cambridge workhouse was considered. The committee had inspected the sanatorium of the Leys school in Hooper Street which was for sale. It appeared to be suitable for a nurses' home. Mr Hall said they ought to leave some of the patients at Chesterton. Some of them had been in the institution for 10 or 12 years and it would be better to leave them there to spend the evening of their life, where they knew almost everyone

All Saints church window p3*

1923 12 07

Election local results, p5

1923 12 08

Yesterday's rugby match between Oxford and Cambridge was celebrated by undergraduates of both universities in right royal, and it is feared, somewhat rowdy, style in the West End of London. The two teams and their friends overran the Winter Garden Theatre. They walked over the stalls, climbed in and out of the boxes, invaded the orchestra and the stage, crowded the vestibule and overflowed at times into Drury Lane. The performance was interrupted continuously by noisy hilarity. All the songs and choruses were "guyed" and mimicked and the performers were pelted with miles of paper streamers. The performance had to be terminated and the theatre had to be closed

Fatal railway accident, Barnwell, p5

1923 12 10

Police assaulted by Duxford airman, p5

T.G. Bonney death, p5

1923 12 11

Unsatisfactory houses, p5

Amateur boxing club, p6

1923 12 12

A Fordham newsagent and fruiterer appeared for his examination in bankruptcy. He said that up to 1914 he worked for his mother hawking fish, fruit and vegetables, then she gave up the business and handed it over to him. It was £28 in debt at the time and there were a pony and cart and a barrow worth about £7.10s. About six months later the pony had to be destroyed. He added the news agency business in 1915 employing three boys. His average takings per week were about £67 for the fish and news agency and fruit and vegetables £30.

1923 12 12

A Cambridge cycle agent and gramophone dealer who started in business without any previous experience appeared before the bankruptcy court. He had commenced business at Abbey Walk although never apprenticed to the cycle trade as he had always had an inclination that way. He also took up the gramophone and record business in which he had no experience, but he thought there was money in it. He estimated his turnover at about £10 a week. He lost about £40 on Christmas toys by over-stocking and £67 on the fall in bicycle prices

Gas Company trenches, p7

Coursing club presentation Hiam, p8*

1923 12 13

Cambridge town council formally received the resignation of the borough surveyor, Mr Julian Julian. He said in a letter that work on roads, bridges, planning etc had been delayed and he had found that people had attributed these delays to the weakness of him and his staff. Councillor Stubbs said they had lost a brilliant surveyor. His department had been understaffed and he had been struggling alone and it appeared that he would not have resigned had he been given help

1923 12 14

A recommendation that a subsidy equivalent to £8 per house for 20 years be given to induce private enterprise to proceed with the erection of houses was carried by Cambridge town council. Councillor Few thought those who built would take advantage of the law of supply and demand. Only last week a case occurred of a landlord of a house in Romsey town raising the rent from 7s.9d. to 14s.9d. when the father died, declaring that the house had become vacant and telling the daughter she could have it at the increased rent – nearly 100% advance

1923 12 14

At Cambridge town council councillor Edwards asked to know what policy was adopted to find out if goods were consistent with the prices charged. He knew for a fact that on one occasion several dozen hurricane lamps were supplied of three different qualities and yet the invoice sent to the council had the highest rate for the lot. Then there was the case of shovels. The firm which had the order went round to other firms asking for them, saying: “they’re only for the corporation. Anything will do”. A high price was asked for the whole of these shovels which were of two qualities

Criticism of Guardians, p5

Non-parlour houses, p5*

1923 12 14 ES

William Flack, Haddenham farm labourer died of starvation 23 12 14

An inquest was held on a labourer of no fixed abode who was found dead on some farm premises at Haddenham.

William Flack, farm labourer, said he knew the man for about 15 years. He came to his house and asked for few matches with which to light a fire, saying ‘I don’t feel up too much. I feel a bit dizzy’. William said it might be the cold weather and his wife gave the man a basin of beef broth in which was some bread. The deceased ate it and then left the house.

The Relieving Officer said he received a communication saying the man was lying in a hut in Haddenham. He went to the spot and found him apparently dead on the ground.

Dr C.W. Howe was said the death was due to starvation. The man had been in the Workhouse on two occasions and it would have been better if he had remained there. But he, like others, liked liberty. 23 12 14ES

1923 12 15

We are likely to hear a great deal more about proportional representation in the near future than we have in the past, but I am afraid the country will be chary of adopting it in view of the hopeless confusion that seems to exist in those places where the system is already in force. Five years ago, after the first instance of P.R. in Cambridge University I remarked that the general feeling was one of bewilderment. Now in 1923 we have much the same mistake. A system which has caused as much confusion in one of the leading universities after five years’ experience would want a mighty lot of explaining to rural divisions

Who was doctor, p8*

1923 12 17

Cambridge band of Bas, p3

Cambridgeshire Regiment tablet unveiled, p5

Father Christmas in Cambridge, p5

1923 12 18

Ely council considered a scheme for electric lighting. The cost of the plant would be £10,500 and would consist of two 100-kilowatt diesel engines, driven direct current generators, controlling switchboard and distribution panels. The cost of wiring Ely would be £500 as they had 10 miles to cover. A battery of accumulators would mean that at night when the engine stopped there would be current if you switched on

1923 12 19

William Hunt told the court he had a milkround and a general stores at Haslingfield. In September he was hard pressed for a pony and paid £10 to have one on trial and then pay so much a month. On the way to Cambridge he, his wife and children were nearly thrown out on two or three occasions on account of the pony stumbling. He concluded the pony was not fit. A vet said the horse had several old scars and he would describe it as broken-kneed. It was not well nourished and was liable to go down at any moment.

Christmas in shops, p6*

Prickwillow tolls, p7

1923 12 20

Cynics have said that toys are but the parental antidote to the infantile depression resulting from over-eating. Be this as it may, toys are an indispensable part of Christmas, and the parents who take their children to Laurie and McConnal will experience considerable difficulty in getting them out again. There are toys large and small, cheap and expensive, the sort of toys to keep, and the sort to give to the destructive child. They are also making a special feature of wireless sets this year, and have a large variety on show

1923 12 21

Chivers jubilee, p7*

Photographic invention – developing dish, p7

1923 12 22

During the past 28 years a police-court missionary has been engaged in the Cambridge courts. It has for its main object the reformation of all, irrespective of creed, who pass through the police courts. No matter what the offence or how often repeated, none are too young to be helped, no criminal too hardened. Almost every case undertaken means some expenditure. It costs money to provide boots, clothing, travel expenses and entrance fees to homes and institutions. This is a period of numerous charitable appeals but we doubt if any object is more worthy of support and more productive of lasting good.

Cambridge toy collection, p5

1923 12 24

To the majority of Cambridge people the policeman is a man in blue uniform who apprehends “undergraduates” who ride motor cycles with noisy “silencers”. Some 300 of the town's most needy inhabitants however, saw “Robert” in the guise of a cheery soul on the occasion of the distribution of gifts from the proceeds of the Borough police poor and needy funds. Some carried sacks of potatoes on their shoulders, others struggled with sheets of paper in frenzied efforts to wrap meat into neat and really tidy looking parcels. P.C. Hagger who officiated as executioner in the meat department looked thoroughly impressive as with a sharp knife and large chopper he dealt with the meat in a way that would have done credit to the most finished meat purveyor.

Some Cambridge men of 100 years ago – Edelston, p4*

1923 12 26 Ch

Brooklands Avenue extension; photo showing the junction of the extension with Brooklands Avenue & the old private road. Chronicle. 26 Dec. 1923, p.7.

1923 12 27

Cook at the Cambridge workhouse ought to be a proud man, and probably is. The Christmas fare which he prepared for the inmates was announced to be delicious. Sausages were served for breakfast in honour of the occasion. All the other officers from the Master and Matron down have reason to the more than ever gratified at the results of their labours to make the inmates happy, and to bring within the walls of even such a dull place as most people imagine a workhouse to be, the real spirit of Christmas.

1923 12 27

The satisfaction of the 18 men who spent Christmas at the Cambridge Church Army Home, Willow Walk may be summed up in the words of one of them – “a very nice time indeed - splendid”. Their four course Christmas dinner included pork and beef and Christmas pudding. On Christmas Day they entertained themselves by playing and singing whilst on Boxing Day they were able to entertain friends. We saw two enjoying a game of billiards with oranges for balls!

1923 12 27

A healthy sign of the times is shown in the fact that the parcels traffic at the Cambridge post office was a record one since the war. The public, as usual, did not take the hint to post early and the consequence was that most of the work had to be crowded into the 24th, which was a tremendous day for the staff. The regular staff worked magnificently and was augmented by temporary helpers secured through the Labour Exchange. A sad feature was that some 40 of these were engaged last year also and one does not like to think they have been unemployed during the whole of the year

Christmas bathers, p4*

1923 12 28

Welney bridge, p4

1923 12 28 ES

An interesting new dredger: up-to-date machine for excavation work on the Nene – Ruston Hornsby; keeps 200 men at work levelling the material it has lifted – phot 23 12 28 # c.29

An new dragline dredger purchased in connection with the cleaning out of the level of rivers of the River Nene between Whittlesey and Guyhirn is a quite a new type of machine for the class of work in which it is engaged. Weighing 44 tons and moving upon caterpillars, it was supplied by Messrs Ruston, Hornsby of Lincoln. It was transported from Lincoln by rail arriving at Whittlesey in sections where it was assembled in the Station yard. It is guaranteed to excavate 60 cubic yards of soil an hour and is capable of keeping 200 men at work levelling the material it has lifted. It stands upon one of the riverbanks when at work, and is possible for it to make a river 50 feet wide. Managed by one man, it has an engine of 50 horsepower and working upon the ground, the dredger is undoubtedly the most up to date and economical machine for excavation in the country

The dredger left Whittlesey by road. Arrangements had been made with the Post Office for the temporarily removal of the telegraph wires. At Eldersfield the bridge was not sufficiently strong to allow such a weight to pass over it, but an obstacle of that kind is a small matter to this modern production and it unconcernedly crawled across Morton's Leam, although there was about four feet of water. 23 12 28ES

1923 12 29

Police houses, p3

Popping question, p4

Sugar from beet, p4*

1924 Cambridge Daily News

I have copies of these articles – diary checked

January 1924 CDN & Ely Standard

1924 01 01

New town clerk p3

Rockets, p3

1924 01 02

Proportional representation in University elections, p3

Are cinemas harmful, p5

1924 01 04

Increased crime – whipped* p5

1924 01 04

The former Clocks and Gramophone Works at Huntingdon have been purchased by the firm of J. E. Hough Ltd of the Edison Bell Works, Peckham, and are to be opened early this year for the manufacture of gramophone records and wireless parts. Employment to between 300 and 400 hands will be given by this new industry. The factory has remained inactive for a year and the town has suffered as a result. It will be used for making the well known “Winner” records. Powerful engines still in the building will be made use of, but it will also be necessary to introduce additional steam power and heat

1924 01 05

Two young men, who are alleged to have broken and entered Girton College and stolen a number of articles on Boxing Day appeared in court. It was stated by Supt. Allen that the men took him round the college and showed the rooms they had entered, and one of them showed him a lady's bed in which he had slept for the night, after borrowing a pair of pyjamas from the next room

Chesterton houses – plot

1924 01 07

CDN dinner, p4

1924 01 08

Sir - may I protest against the insanity and disgusting habit of indiscriminate spitting, and the inveterate noxious habit of dropping dirty pieces of paper and orange peel everywhere about the pavement? And will the police also take steps to deal with the unspeakable nuisance in our crowded streets of the inconsiderate pram driver, whether charging or dawdling, which are a public nuisance every day of the week and on Saturdays maddening. Why should not these vehicles, which tend by fashion to become more and more ponderous and bulky, be completely forbidden in the main streets and be relegated to the two feet of roadway below the kerb stones all times. - Pro Bono Publico

1924 01 09

A man appeared in court charged with stealing two flannel shirts, four soft collars and a pair of socks. Alastair Watson, an undergraduate of Magdalene College, said prisoner had been in his employ as a chauffeur. He instructed him to collect his clothing and hunting kit from Cambridge & drive the car Leamington. When he did not arrive Watson made inquiries at Marshall's garage at Jesus Lane and his car was bought by one of Marshall's mechanics.

1924 01 10

Mr Hobson said the present state of houses in Comberton was deplorable. There were people living in two rooms, married couples with grown up sons and daughters practically herded together like sheep in a fold. It was not the better class of home that was required but the house suitable for a working man. It was not necessary to select the most expensive sites, right in the centre of the village, from where a labouring man often had to walk two miles to work

Newmarket job masters p4 *

Royston engineers failure, p4 *

1924 01 11

Ely houses – dust, p3 *

St Ives electricity p3

Ely Rural Housing Scheme; Council's proposals sanctioned by the Ministry 24 01 11 ES

Ely Rural Council has built a record number of houses since the war. As soon as the cry for homes and more homes arose, the Council set out to meet it and in every part of the area stand smart little monuments to the splendid work of the Council. They have provided 400 homes since 1920. By some the rents of these houses have been thought somewhat excessive, but when the figures involved in their erection are laid bare it will be appreciated that they could be made no lower if the Council were to show any respect for the word 'economy'.

Now, apart from Littleport, where houses are still needed, the housing requirements of the area are practically met.; photos of Mill Field and The Crescent in Littleport; Ely Cromwell Road, Chief's Street – 24 01 04 & (2)-(5)ES

Ely Rural Council had received permission from the Ministry of Health for the erection of 46 Council homes.

The first question was whether the houses should be built in pairs or blocks of four. It would be better to build them in pairs as everyone would have a garden behind his own house.

They considered various sites. At Haddenham it was possible to purchase an acre of land close to Stonecroft Terrace. They had hoped that a portion of the Recreation Ground could be obtained for the purpose of building new houses, but the Parish Council had been split, and there would have to be a unanimous vote to be able to purchase it. The Bursar of Caius College Cambridge, who was a landlord, was in strongly in favour of new homes and would agree to a portion of land being sold. At Littleport members had chosen a site in Wisbech Road. As regard to a site of Black Horse Drove, this might be damp as it lay below the level of the roadway.

Although it had been advertised in papers, some residents in Wilburton had not seen the information in regard to the house needs of the district. Mr. Norfolk, said he had since heard of three ex-soldiers who desired houses. Wilburton did not make any application when the matter was advertised but their representative now came along asking for more houses. The same was the case at Mepal

The Chairman said we should remember that, that some of these men went and fought and if it costs an extra penny on the rates, he would not begrudge it. 24 01 11ES

Haddenham has a very nice football ground. In fact a Recreation Ground on which houses for ex-servicemen would work very well. Ely Rural Council would like to erect some very necessary dwellings and they have the whole support of the Haddenham people in this desire. But there is a Parish Council possessing various powers and they met to listen to the proposal to sell an acre of land for the building of four new houses. Three of the body voted for the proposal, two against and four were neutral. People cannot understand how football is more important than housing. Personally, I should prefer to rent a house rather than live under the conditions which other people live. Houses could be erected on Haddenham Recreation Ground but the council stands in the way of progress. 24 01 11(2)ES

Sir,

A few years ago, Ely Urban District Council erected about 20 houses in Bray's Lane at great expense, and the ratepayers are saddled chiefly with the cost. What I would like to know is the cost of erecting these houses, including the purchase of the ground, the architects' fees and the Clerk's remuneration to take the last three years' rent, thereby showing what the city is losing year by year by these bare, uninteresting dwellings.

To sum up, it would show that the scheme was a waste of money and a waste of ground where some stunted bushes and shrubs have been planted.

Another scheme is hovering over the city: that of electric lighting, many being dissatisfied with the high cost of gas. I hope the council will not take upon itself this venture as it would be, like the council houses, another expensive failure besides plunging Ely into further debt. Ely Ratepayers Association is supposed to keep a watchful eye on the council with the view to cutting down expenses; so far, their efforts have been futile - Ratepayer

Mystery surrounds the disappearance of Mr. Isaac Murfitt of Top Street, Stretham. He left home in his usual health, ostensibly to go to March. He was seen at Ely Railway Station Platform prior to the departure of the train. But what became of him afterwards is unknown. A description has been communicated to the police as far north as Edinburgh. Mr. Murfitt, a well-known member of the Ancient Order of Shepherds is also a member of the Agricultural Labourers Union. It is feared that he may be suffering from the loss of memory. 24 01 11ES

The church of St. Nicholas, Witchford is not as ancient as some. Unfortunately there is always a danger of churches being neglected and allowed to fall into such a condition that restoration is well-nigh impossible. Such carelessness has never been the case with the vicar and inhabitants of Witchford and in their decision to preserve their noble edifice they have acted wisely and well. Some years ago, they raised £660 pounds as a Church Restoration Fund. The work was undertaken and completed just before Christmas, with the result that St. Nicholas is now a gem of early English architecture. A reopening service was held when the edifice was filled to its greatest capacity. The history of the church is interesting. It is by someone called the Church of St. Andrew. It was consecrated in 1376. Although it incorporates materials of an ancient Norman structure there have been several restorations, the most recent being an 1851 and 1887, and the tower had to be specially restored during the war. Repairs were mainly those necessary for the roof, both interior and exterior. Soon after work had started it was discovered the timbering of the roof was in a very dilapidated condition, far worse than imagined. This upset calculations and another £200 will have to be raised. During the restoration services were celebrated in St. Andrews Hall but Holy Communion continued in the chancel, which did not need restoration. 24 01 11(2)ES

Moles are very numerous in various parts of the country whilst in some districts in the Eastern Counties the land in certain localities is overrun with them. High prices are being paid for mole skins, 12/6 a dozen as compared with 2/6 a few years ago. And the mole catcher also receives payment for all the moles destroyed, so that he has a double inducement to kill as many as possible.

This is the best time for trapping, the moles now being in full winter fur and the skins being of the greatest value.

Furriers are advertising all over the country for skins, there being such a keen demand for the fur which is used not only to make motor garments but also for ladies muffs and furs, hats, trimmings, for dresses, linings for winter garments, etc.

The photos taken in the fen country shows 10,000 mole skins in bundles all packed ready for the furrier. 24 01 11(3)ES

Marooned in Whittlesey Wash

As a result of difficult and decidedly unenviable efforts on the part of the photographer, who had to break ice and walk through water to obtain the plate, we are able to reproduce a photograph of the new dragline dredger, as it now stands amongst its watery surroundings in the wash at Eldernell. The dredger became embedded in soft land while on its journey to extended activities in dredging the river Nene, and before it could be lifted to enable it to proceed on its journey the floods came making its movement an impossibility. A depth of about four feet of the base of the machine is now submerged. 24 01 11(4) ES

An interesting presentation was made to Mrs. J.B. Flemming, late headmistress of the Barway Council School. The Curate said they all loved and admired her and were deeply grateful for all she had done for Barway since she first came to reside there. He spoke of her friendly and painstaking interest in the children placed under her care during the 31 years in which he held the position of Headmistress of the Day School. He also referred to her long services as organist of Barway Church and Superintendent of the Sunday school. She had been the life and soul of Barway. She was presented with an armchair and cushion together with a framed address. 24 01 11(6)ES

John Beeton, Heath Fen Common, Soham, claimed possession of a cottage and the sum of five pounds for rent from Benjamin Beeton, of the Black-penn Soham. He had married and required the cottage for his own occupation, for he was living in apartments and his furniture was stored. He could name two houses in Soham that were available for the defendant. The defendant said he had made every effort to obtain a house in Soham, but had been unsuccessful. One of the houses mentioned as being available, was rented at 12 shillings per week which he could not afford to pay, when his wages were only 25 shillings a week. The case was adjourned and the defendant must try to obtain a house. 24 01 11(6)ES

President epidemic of Foot and Mouth Disease is alarming both financially and emotionally and unfortunately it has come to Ely.

The disease is made more alarming by the fact that so little is known about it. The Chief Adviser to the Ministry of Agriculture says it is inadvisable to carry out experiments, even on an island, as there would be a great risk of the disease spreading to the mainland. He would not care to carry on experiments in the laboratory and guarantee to keep Foot and Mouth Disease in the place.

Thus, one can understand the elusiveness of the germ that is causing the havoc. No sooner was the outbreak confirmed to Adelaide than the Ministry of Agriculture officials arrived on the scene and with the humane killer and about six ton of coal, put completely out of existence the whole of Mrs. Lee's stock. The same procedure has been adopted in practically every case. Slaughter is the only remedy. 24 01 11(6)ES.

The deaths of Miss Elizabeth Waters of 'Curreen', High Street, Haddenham at the age of 86 occurred peacefully in her sleep after she had been bedridden for upwards of 11 years. For many years she carried on Ironmongery and General Stores. She gained the respect of the whole village for her character and straight dealings in all she undertook and is well remembered by all who were privileged to know her. 24 01 11(7)ES

Stretham man missing: mysterious disappearance of Isaac Murfitt; last seen on Ely station. 24 01 11ES

Witchford church restoration completed. 24 01 11(2)ES

Mole catching in the fens: high prices being paid; photo of 10,000 mole skins packed ready for furrier.

1924 01 12

Cambridge must face the growing danger and disaster of its housing shortage. In our not very large town between 7 and 800 families are in immediate need of a house, not because they are unemployed, or very poor, or in any way unable to pay a fair rent, but because there are no houses for them to go into. Families are divided. The husband is here where his work lies, the wife and children are living elsewhere. Some dare not have children. Others have them and find that they are no longer welcome tenants. It is not easy for a young wife and mother to make good when her two rooms are rented and when the use of the kitchen, bathroom and lavatory by her family are looked upon as an intrusion.

Ely Urban District Council proposed to erect 10 houses at Prickwillow, where they were most urgently needed and 20 at Chief's Lane, Ely. The question arose as to the distance the houses would be set back from the road, taking into consideration the dust. Mr Laxton said tenants would rather have less front garden and more back to grow "taties".

VTC reminisce – guarded bridges p3

1924 01 13c

At Bottisham police court a woman was charged with stealing four pairs of woollen stockings, two flannel vests and one shawl to the value of £1 the property of the mental hospital Fulbourn. She went in the shop of Messrs Morley & co and offered two flannel vests and a shawl for pawn. The assistant noticed there were two pieces torn out of the vest. The mental Superintendent said it had a pink mark under a seam with some wool stitched over it. She was bound over in the sum of 10 pounds

1924 01 14

Carters' wages, p3

Foot & mouth, Adelaide, p5

1924 01 15

The inquest on a Girton man who died from lock jaw following an injury to his nose caused by walking into a tumbrel cart in the dark was held at Addenbrooke's Hospital. Witness said the cart was standing on the Green and the man ran straight into it. He was bleeding from a cut on the bridge of the nose so he took him to the district nurse who dressed the wound with iodine and lint. His sister said she got him a cup of beef tea but he could not open his mouth. Dr Lund administered anti-tetanus serum but it was too later and he died.

Motor Bus company, Sundays, p6

1924 01 17

Lady Hunstwork – Saffron Walden dramatic society

1924 01 17

Isle of Ely County Council are prepared to declare the road from Ely to Prickwillow and thence to Mile End drove and Mildenhall road a main road, subject to certain improvements including the abolition of the tolls collected at Prickwillow by the Burnt Fen and Middle Fen commissioners. The tolls being discontinued it was resolved that the toll gates at Prickwillow be taken by the Superintendent and notices as to the collection of tolls be removed from the toll house.

1924 01 18

Dimocks Cote bridge request, p3

Longstanton fire, p5

1924 01 19

The marvellous progress that is being made in that wonderful institution, Papworth Tuberculosis Colony, was described by Dr P.C. Varrier - Jones. He showed a very interesting film illustrating activities of the colony taken last summer. Men were seen at work in the various workshops and there were pictures depicting all the other sides of life at the colony, and showing the beautiful grounds laid out with charming effect.

1924 01 19

Nearly 100 inmates of the Ely workhouse were entertained with a dinner. The chief course was good English rabbits, served up in very appetising fashion, mashed potatoes, plum pudding, beer and minerals. Finally a flashlight photograph was taken, much to the astonishment and delight of some of the aged inmates.

1924 01 21

The railway strike has now begun, and reduced services are everywhere being run. No Cambridge locomotive man has taken an engine out of the sheds this morning, said W Few, secretary of the local branch of ASLEF at their headquarters, the Kingston cafe, Mill road. "The whole of our members, with the exception of 2, have ceased to work and if any driver in the NUR of whom there are 20 at Cambridge, signs on duty, there is no firemen to work with him". Tomorrow a large covered-in motor charabanc will leave the Ortona depot for London King's Cross at 8.30. The return fare is 12s.6d.

1924 01 22

Councillor Gentle raised the question of the removal of the tram rails along King's Parade and Trumpington Street, Cambridge. He had had complaints, and their removal would give employment. Alderman Stanley said that if one was cycling along the Parade the rails made it most dangerous. The reason they were not taken up was because King's Parade was a new round, and it would be a waste of money to do it now. They desired to wait until the road needed substantial repair and then do the work.

1924 01 22

At the County Council Miss Cochrane moved that the lark be included in the list of birds protected during the whole of the year. A Caxton farmer told her they did no harm, and yet a large number of them were caught every winter, and they were getting scarce. She believed they kept very much to their particular district and would not fly into other areas. Councillor Jackson said there was no doubt the larks which sang in the summer did little harm, but there was another kind of lark that came over in huge migratory flocks and did a great deal of damage. The greatest enemies of the birds are telegraph wires and snowstorms. The motion was lost

1924 01 23

Female labour & advert, p6

1924 01 24

The railway strike proceeds at Newmarket with much less inconvenience to the public than once anticipated. There are few hurdle racehorses here and these can be provided for by road motor horse boxes. There are four passenger trains running to Newmarket and on Wednesday one luggage train ran from Ipswich with seven wagons containing flour and heavy goods. Lighter goods are arriving by passenger train. Opinion here is hopeful the drivers will accept the offer to close the strike

1924 01 24

Mr W Cross of Northfield Farm, Exning has a sow which in 341 days, has farrowed 51 pigs of which 46 are alive or are gone to the butchers. Several weighed 154 lbs at 20 weeks old. The sow was bred by Mr Robert Stephenson at Manor House Burwell

1924 01 25

Ely water charges, p5

1924 01 26

A particularly sad story was related to the Cambridge coroner when an inquiry was held into the death of an 18 year old student at Girton College. The girl, who was stated to be fond of rock climbing, attempted to ascend the Tower of the college with the intention of seeing an owl's nest. Apparently she slipped and fell to the ground. From the injuries sustained to her legs she evidently alighted on her feet, which goes to prove that she hung on somewhere for a moment before she fell. Before she died she had said, "I so wanted to see the little owls".

1924 01 28

The 203rd Field Company (Cambs) Royal Engineers celebrated their fifth reunion and dinner. In January 1915 the War Office had asked whether an engineering company could be raised in Cambridge. Great efforts were made but many of the youth had already joined other units. However a start in recruiting was begun and they were able to get a few men together. Their headquarters were in East road but when numbers began to increase they had moved to Ely, March, Whittlesey and afterwards Wisbech. They had no regular Engineer officer to take command of the unit but that grand old volunteer, Colonel Harding, although he was then nearly 70 years of age, undertook the job.

1924 01 29

The driver of a steam wagon belonging to a Birkenhead haulage contractor said he was driving from Cambridge to Chatteris with a trailer attached. He left Cambridge about 7.45 pm and intended to get there some time in the morning. On the way he stopped to put water into the engine from a pond. The engine was in a bad state on account of their having had to use dirty ditch water, and it would not travel at more than three or four miles an hour.

1924 01 30

Swavesey fire

1924 01 31

Street widening inquiry

February 1924 CDN & Ely Standard

1924 02 01

Frederick Hiam told the Ouse drainage board that a number of banks were in bad order. In Burnt Fen there were several places in the banks leaking badly. In the old days two gangs of lighters were at work, but since the board had taken the matter over nothing had been done. Who was responsible if there was a break? If we had another inch of rain we should have had the fens flooded. If there was 20 feet in of water in the river there was not a bank safe. They would soon be a million pounds in debt, if they had to pay compensation for damage done.

Drainage rates, p2

Coe Fen inquiry, p5

1924 02 01 ES

Stuntney presentation Mr & Mrs Thomas Burns, Head teachers for 25 years. 24 02 01ES

March 75 years ago: extracts from History published 1851. 24 02 01(2)(3)ES

The water problem at Sutton: Harold Painter cartoon. 24 02 01(4)ES

Fen floods danger: pumping stations short of coal due strike, road transport to the rescue. 24 02 01(5)ES

Ely licensing meeting; Sutton saturated with licences; seven ale and 12 beerhouses; Greene King apply off-license for Bury Ale Stores in place of Ploughboy. A pin of beer, 4½ gallons up from 4s before war to 11s. 24 02 01(6)(7)ES

Death George Washington, retired carrier, Littleport. 24 02 01(6)ES

Stretham: W.I. 24 02 01(8)ES

1924 02 02

The renewal of the music and dancing licence of the Cambridge Co-operative Hall, was objected to on the grounds of noise. Burleigh Street was one of the most densely populated parts of the town. The hall was not originally built for dancing, it had a large number of windows and the dancing room was situated on the top floor of the highest building in the neighbourhood, with the result that the sound was dissipated considerably further. As a rule the dances did not terminate until midnight and sometimes a great noise was caused by the people leaving - shouting, singing and the back-firing of motor cycles, of which a large number were brought by the people who attended

1924 02 02

An inquiry was held into establishing a water supply for Dullingham, Brinkley, and Burrough Green. In normal times the supply of water to Brinkley was sufficient for their needs. But there was only one pump and in dry seasons the people had to go very early in the morning and wait a long time. Mrs Webb of Dullingham, said they had not been able to get enough water to wash their clothes, and she could not fancy drinking it after she saw a rat going into the well. The rector of Burrough Green considered the proposal absurd. There was no public water supply. The majority of the cottages were owned by absolutely poor people, everybody was jolly hard up, and now was not the time to put a large expense for a useless object on the backs of the ratepayers.

Housing hopes, p3

1924 02 04

Algernon Sydney Campkin was the last survivor of a family who had for several generations farmed land at Melbourn. In 1861 he was articled to a chemist and druggist and subsequently in 1868 succeeded to the old-established business of the late Mr William Brewster, an apothecary of some eminence in Rose Crescent, Cambridge, which he very successfully conducted up to the time of his death.

Old Chesterton allotments, p4

1924 02 05

Sir - I know of one Church which has but two doors for the congregation which also admits to two galleries as well as the body of the Church. Just what would happen should a fire break out? One has not forgotten the mad scramble at the old Barnwell theatre during a lantern service. It was due to overheating of the hot water apparatus, which emitted clouds of steam, which the terrified congregation imagined was smoke. Then someone shouted "fire" and there was a wild stampede for the exits, people screamed, were trampled on, and many fainted. Such an experience is not desired again. The one thing in the churches favour against a panic is that they are scarcely ever full. – "Churchman"

Herbert Robinson expansion, p3*

1924 02 06

Protection of birds, p3

Wallman, taxi cab bankruptcy, p5

Advertising Cambridge, p6

1924 02 07

Non-parlour houses, p4

1924 02 08

Greene King brewery applied for an off-licence to sell spirits, beer etc by retail at the Bury Ale Stores, Sutton. The trade in bottled beer had increased enormously since the war and the price had also increased. A pin of beer, which was 4 ½ gallons, cost 4s. before the war, now it cost 11s.; three dozen bottles of pale ale could be purchased for 7s.6d. and today the price was 15s. Licensed houses were thicker in Sutton High Street than in any other part of Cambridgeshire but people in private houses did not send their maids down to the public houses, they liked their orders delivered at the door.

1924 02 08 ES

Wimblington new school: photo 24 02 08ES

Ely Butter Market painting by B. West, 1830. 24 02 08(2)ES

A watercolour painting of a corner of the Old Butter Market has been hanging in Mr. Fred Tow's shop. When he brought the picture to the Ely Standard office and proceeded to take it out of the frame he was surprised to discover on the reverse, two pencil sketches of women's heads, beautifully drawn with the inscription '1830 B. West'. Is it possible that this is the work of Sir Benjamin West once president of the Royal Academy? At any rate, the picture was at least worth 10s to Mr. Tow for stuck on in a corner of the frame was a gold half sovereign. 24 02 08 ES

1924 02 09

Cambridge council heard that 240 slum houses still remained and none had been treated except where the structural condition was so unsafe that the buildings had to be abandoned. The slums were getting worse and worse and there was no means of cleaning them. Some small cottages should be built to relieve the pressure so there might be transition from houses which were quite unfit for human habitation. But if they built such houses they would later have to spend money on sanatorium treatment. There would be no room for air space, and they would be a disgrace to Cambridge

1924 02 09

As a motor lorry, owned by Mr Parnell of Stretham and laden with 500 cans of petrol was approaching the Milton railway level crossing at a very slow speed the driver found the gates were closed to allow trains to pass. He applied his brakes, but they would not act and the lorry, which carried a very heavy load, smashed through the nearest gate, and stopped with the back part blocking the line. A coal train was approaching from Histon and a light engine from Chesterton Junction and quick action was necessary to avoid a serious accident. Gatekeeper Ernest Carter seized some fog signals and was able to stop the coal train and similar action taken by Patrol-Leader F.B. Pearson. The line was blocked for over an hour by which time the lorry was, after a small repair, able to proceed on the journey.

1924 02 09

Cambridge dancers will have a special attraction when through the enterprise of the Cottage Dance Studio, Mr Percy Cowell and his band will visit the town. Mr Cowell, well known before the war as an entertainer at the piano, is a native of the town of whom the residents are justly proud. Since his demobilisation from the RAF he has become much sought after in London and this will be his last appearance in his home town prior to an important tour

‘Moriarty’ film publicity says Holmes & Watson at Cambridge, p6

1924 02 11

Pentangle Club, p3

1924 02 12

A largely attended meeting at Cherry Hinton carried unanimously a resolution urging the necessity of providing a branch reading room and library. Some said they should not ask for a library at the moment when all building was required for houses but they might ask public authorities sometimes a long time before they got anything. If they asked for a public library and reading room there was some chance they might get a box of books. (Laughter)

Gas company – houses, p3

Melbourn inquest, p3

1924 02 13

‘Redeem your soul’, p5

1924 02 14

The principal objects of the Milton and District Smallholders’ Co-operative are the purchasing of agricultural implements for the use of members, the finding of suitable markets for their produce and generally co-operating to the best of their ability. During the last year sales of milk had realised £4,869 & the earnings of the threshing machine amounted to £423.

1924 02 14

William Salmon of Ickleton, farm foreman told the court that he saw the prisoner in and field and found he had caught a rabbit. Defendant said he had a wife and three children to keep and for the past three months he had been out of work. During that period he had no income at all, because he was not entitled to the dole. He snared the rabbit because they had nothing for dinner. The magistrates said that in the circumstances they would deal leniently with him. He would be fined 10s.

Suicide of old soldier, p5

1924 02 15 ES

Isle Council important bridge schemes; Mepal widening Counter Drain bridge; Guyhirn Bridge new tender; Stretham Ferry tenders; police cottages needed including one at Stretham 24 02 15&(2)(3)(ES)

The Chief Constable recommended the question of police cottages should be reviewed and orders be given to commence the building of cottages on sites purchased. A serious need exists for 16 police cottages to replace hired ones: six at Wisbech, two at Ely and Littleport, and one each at Downham, Mepal, Prickwillow, Stretham, Wilburton and Tydd St Giles. 24 02 15(2)ES

Mepal Headmistress Mrs Stetchfield retires after 37 years. 24 02 15(4)(5)ES

After a splendid record of 37½ years as headmistress of Mepal School, Miss Stetchfield has retired and was presented with a beautiful upholstered suite. She was appointed headmistress on July 1 1886. When the pupil teacher system was in vogue, she trained three pupil teachers who successfully pass the examination. She has always shown the deepest interest in the affairs and life of the school. She had had her obstacles to face but had overcome them. Everything had been in a most satisfactory state about the school during her career. On arrival, the school was then in a rather negated defective condition, but it was soon noticeable that improvement was taking place. The teaching profession was not all sunshine, but it was a noble work helping to mould the characters of the future citizens of England. While lorry to leave the school she was pleased to be succeeded by such an able teacher as Miss James. She would still reside in the village and interest herself in its welfare. She has been very successful in organising dramatic performances in Mepal and several years ago the village boasted of a very successful dramatic society. She has also been successful in organising children's entertainments. She did not intend to spend the remainder of her time in an inactive fashion. 24 02 15(4)ES

1924 02 16

Cambridge Motor Boat Club history, p3

Roads & unemployed, p6*

1924 02 17c

"I have never known the Cambridge roads to get into such a bad state as they are at present. Take Mill Road. Here we have considerable traffic and the pedestrian and cyclist are faced with the prospect of a mud bath after every shower. To go through Trumpington road is worse than driving through a ploughed field"

1924 02 18

A meeting took place at Ely for the purpose of forming an Ely branch of the National Farmers Union. Mr Street Porter said a branch existed at Haddenham and if one was formed for Ely it would be much more convenient for his district. There were four others in the Isle of Ely – March, Wisbech, Chatteris and Whittlesey. There would be no doubt that members would derive benefits from it.

1924 02 19

At a meeting at St Ives to discuss the Ouse Drainage order Mr Wheeler said there was a vast difference in draining lands below sea level and those above. The test was a simple one. If you took all the fens works away, the fens would suffer, but St Ives would not; therefore the work was for the benefit of the fen land. But the scheme proposed that the uplands should first of all pay for works done in their own district, and in additional pay towards all the works done in the fens whose works were obstructing the flow of our water out to the sea

1924 02 19c

The inhabitants of St Ives were horror-struck upon hearing the rumour that the Vicar of Hemingford Grey had been cut to pieces on the railway bridge at Hemingford Abbots. Shortly afterwards the story was proved beyond doubt, the remains of the reverend gentleman being conveyed to the vicarage. It is supposed he was making a visit to Houghton to arrange for some special Lenten services and when on the bridge was knocked down by a pilot engine

1924 02 21

An alarming outbreak of fire occurred at Miss Bluff's premises in Crown Street, St Ives. It appears that the chimney caught fire and was allowed to burn itself out but an hour later flames were seen issuing from the top window. Attaching their hose to the hydrant at Bridge Street the firemen soon had a plentiful supply of water pouring on the fire which was extinguished, but not before it had spread to the top floor of Mr Fred Norris' house. Fortunately there was scarcely any wind to fan the flames otherwise the block of buildings between Crown Street and Merryland would no doubt have been involved. Supt Gale and several constables kept the crowd back from hampering the firemen.

Tale of lorry, p4

1924 02 22

Ely Rural council received a letter asking if they would be willing to supply the parish of Southery with water, as their supply was unsatisfactory. An arrangement might be made whereby Downham district council laid the main to Littleport bridge and a meter be fixed at Brandon creek bridge and they could have all the water they wanted at 1s. per thousand gallons. Downham could supply all the houses on the route and lay a pipe under the river to supply Black Bank Drove.

Soham steam engine, p3*

1924 02 23

A Gamlingay bird catcher was summonsed for causing unnecessary suffering to a linnet. An RSPCA inspector said he saw him near a hedge. He noticed several nets used for catching birds and that he was using a linnet with a brace attached as a decoy bird. The brace was chafing its shoulder blades. Defendant replied "I have been doing this for 50 years. The farmers pay me for catching the birds". He was fined 10s, not for catching the birds but for the manner in which he caught them

Boy burglars, p2

Newmarket taxis & Newmarket housing – N.J. 24 02 23

Foresters dinner, p3

1924 02 24

Newmarket Gas Company meeting – NJ 24 02 23

1924 02 24c

A number of stormy protests were made by members of Soham parish council. It appeared useless for them to sit representing the parish and to pass resolutions and recommendations to the County Council if no steps were taken to put matters right. The county councillor should be asked to move for the reduction of the salaries of certain officials, owing to the lax manner in which they were treated at Soham.

1924 02 25

Milk recording scheme, p3

1924 02 26

McFisheries coal, p3

Burwell deficient parents, p4

1924 02 27 Ch

'Completion of a Town Improvement': two views of the opening of the extension of Brooklands Avenue. Chronicle 27 February 1924 p.7.

1924 02 28

Guildhall cellar fire, p3

Foot & mouth disease, p3

Birch for boys, p3

1924 02 29 ES

Farm transport problems: novel solution in Soham Fen; light railway on farm Samuel Moore that saves £1,000 a year: illustrated article. 24 02 29&(2)(3)ES

March 1924 CDN & Ely Standard

1924 03 01

The jubilee dinner of the New Street Men's' Bible Class was a most successful & enjoyable affair and a revelation to outsiders of what great things may grow from small beginning. It says much for the firm foundations of the organisation that the old name of "Bible Class" is still considered best for a gathering which has grown in numbers to between three and four hundred. Long may it continue

Newmarket Masonic temple, p6*

Newmarket licensed victuallers, p6*

1924 03 03

A large number of outgoing letters, estimated at two or three hundred, were destroyed by a fire which occurred in the letter box at the Cambridge Post Office. The last collection had been made at 11.15 on Saturday night so members of the public who posted letters between that time and 2.30 on Sunday afternoon will know what has happened if irate friends accuse them of neglect in writing.

Duxford plane crash, p5

New Street Bible Class memorial, p5

Snow, p5

1924 03 04

Ten men answered summonses for gambling on Coldham's Common, Cambridge as a result of a Sunday morning raid by the police. P.C. Rowlinson said about 10am one defendant arrived at the Ammunition Hut and soon 20 were present. He continually saw them throwing coins up in the air and stoop down and pick them up. A police officer got within 20 yards of them, when they ran in every direction. One man said he was out with his whippets, he was not gambling but had picked 2d up as he did not like to see it lying on the ground. They were fined 10s each

Speeding motorists, p3

Sutton & Chatteris football, p3*

1924 03 05

Duxford flying tragedy, p6

1924 03 05c

The St Neots Licensing Association presented a petition for the extension of licensing hours to 10.30 pm instead of 10 pm during the official summer time. They said that at closing time it was quite light and many men who stopped on their allotments or played cricket until dusk found themselves too late for a glass of beer or else had to drink two or three glasses hurriedly instead of drinking it leisurely and digesting it properly. The magistrates granted the extra time between May and August.

1924 03 06

An exhumation is usually associated with something grim and sinister, but that at Over churchyard was of a reverent and honourable nature. In 1916 an enforced sojourner owing to the German occupation of Northern France passed away and was buried in what his relatives regarded as foreign soil. Now the opportunity has arrived of having his remains re-interred in his own beloved country. A French coffin was delivered at Swavesey railway station nearly a fortnight ago. After the exhumation the grave was again filled in and the tombstone re-erected.

Concealment of birth, p5
Linton workhouse sweets, p5

1924 03 07
Willingham exhumation, p5

1924 03 07 ES

Ouse Drainage Board dredging in Ten Mile River discussed. 24 03 07(ES)
William Henry Mould, former Head Soham Grammar School – appreciation. 24 03 07(2)ES
William Henry Moule, formerly the popular headmaster of the Grammar School at Soham for 22 years, resigned in July 1914. When he first took charge, there were 12 day boys and nine boarders. The number steadily increased and rose to approaching 80. Many old boys are filling important positions and owe their success to his great interest. He could command order out of chaos with a stern and rigid personality yet during lessons possessed some unaccountable quality of ruling the entire School by sheer kindness 24 03 07(3)ES

Skeletons found Mildenhall Road, skull used for chicken-feeding. 24 03 07(3)ES

While farm employees of Mr. Leslie Daniels, of Ely, were engaged in claying on his farm adjacent to the Mildenhall Road, one of them threw up from the trench a long bone. He dug further into the clay and came across others and when he turned up a skull he realised the remains were human. He called his work mates and it was decided to convey the bones to the dike and leave them there and respect the discovery. There is not the slightest doubt that the bones are human and judging by their size are those of a full-grown man and a child. When discovered they lay side by side the right arm of the man lying across the child's face. They are of great age and almost petrified, being practically as hard as stone. It would appear the skeletons were found four feet below the surface of the ground in the blue clay. There were no flints or any other articles. When seen the skull had traces of hair on it, but immediately touched it, the hair appeared to dissolve. Police have taken charge of them. A long period of years must have passed since the unknown bodies were deposited in the blue clay of the Fens. A skeleton was found in the vicinity about 23 years ago but the person who made that discovery was quite disinterested and used the top of the skull for ladling out corn for chicken feeding purposes. 24 03 07(3)ES

Rat hunt on Fitch Everitt farm, Wilburton, using motor bicycle to gas them – photo. 24 03 07(4)ES
The photograph shows a rat hunt on the farm of Mr Fitch Everitt at Wilburton, the instrument in chief being a motor bicycle. An old inner tube has been affixed to the exhaust and connected with the bolt hole of the rats' living quarters, the fumes either gassing the rats to death or driving them from their 'bury' where they are slain by gun, dog or stick. The inventor of this economical and ingenious method of rat extermination is Mr. J. M. Watson who is home on leave at Wilburton from the Shanghai police force. Besides being an inventor of the rat extermination device, he is the champion rifle and revolver shot of Shanghai. In the course of his police duties, he has taken part in raids on armed bandits and with another Sergeant captured 11 armed robbers, six of whom were subsequently shot. The killing of rats is not so exciting, but the motor bicycle device has proved extremely effective, over 40 of the rodents being killed during the operations. Not a rat has been seen on the farm since the war on them commenced. 24 03 07(4)ES

1924 03 08

The county licensing meeting was told there were objections to the renewal of the licence of the Blue Ball, Grantchester. There were four licensed houses in the village, the population was 489, making 122 persons per house. The trade of all houses had decreased due to the decrease of the spending power of the agricultural labourer. The tenant said in addition to managing the house, he was a brick-layer's labourer. The licence was renewed

Publicans & 'summertime', p3
Whittlesford airman buried, p5

1924 03 10
Guildhall organ rebuilding, p5

1924 03 11
Felix, the feline hero of film and song, has been doing some walking extraordinary. Habituees of the Central cinema will have noticed that until recently he had a comfortable perch on the top of the pay box. To all appearances he was quite at home there, but, lured by an undergraduate, Felix was persuaded to "keep on walking" and the result is that he is to be seen on the top of the glass cover on the roof of the Great Hall of Trinity College. He has been there for well over a week now, and it is not known when and how the powers-that-be will be able to persuade him to resume his walking

Transport workers wages, p5
Willingham exhumation inquest, p5

1924 03 12
Willingham sensation, p5
Rotary annual meeting, p5

1924 03 13
A sequel to the disturbance in the Cambridge council chamber gallery was heard when the mayor warned the public as to their conduct in the council chamber. They must not show their approval or disapproval of the proceedings of the council. There was a certain amount of irony in the caution, for at the time the utterance was made no unemployed, who apparently were the cause of the commotion on the previous occasion, were present, and the occupants of the gallery included the mayoress, a county councillor and a newspaper editor.

1924 03 13
Magistrates were told that in Sawston there were five ale houses, six beer houses with "on" licences, one beer house with an "off" licence, and one grocer's licence. It was 594 paces from the Black Bull to the Greyhound, and in between these two pubs there were eight other licensed houses. On the south side of the Morning Star was the Cross Keys and the Woolpack beerhouse. On the north side was the Commander-in-Chief and the Fox beerhouse

Guildhall organ, p5

1924 03 14
A disastrous fire broke out on the premises of Mrs Baldock, at Warboys. The local manual engine was brought out, and the Ramsey Brigade was sent for, but owing to the strong wind their task was a helpless one as the flames leapt rapidly from building to building. The fire spread to Mr Dorrington's premises, Mr Allpress's carpenters shop was burnt down and several small cottages attacked. It is some time since a fire of such magnitude occurred in the locality

Malt & Hops, Ainsworth Street, p5
Punts, p6

1924 03 14 ES

New drag-line dredger at work near Whittlesey – photo. 24 03 14ES

The large 44- ton dragline dredger, which was stranded by becoming stuck in the bed of the Old Morton's Leam near Whittlesey, has now reached the scene of its intended activities, and has been for about a fortnight engaged in the work to clean cleansing the River Nene with very good results. After the floods that had made the movement of the machine impossible had subsided, it was set in motion again and was taken across the very boggy ground of the Wash the distance of two-and-a-half miles, which it covered by moving under its own power. Arriving at a spot about five miles below the Dog in a Doublet the dragline was soon busily fulfilling its mission and is now transforming the waterway into a river 50 feet wide.

At this point, the river is silted up to such an extent that it merely a dike. The dredger was guaranteed to do 60 cubic yards of excavation work an hour taking the spoil from the bed and sides of the river and depositing it upon the bank. A test was made a week ago however, extending over several hours, when it did practically three times that amount of work.

An idea of the silted up condition of the river is given by the photograph, which shows a portion of the work done by the dredger. Before it commenced, its work the river was only just sufficiently wide to allow a barge to pass it. The dredger itself stands on the silted portion which, as will be seen, is gradually transferring to the bank. The work is being provided for 150 men under the scheme arranged under the Ministry of Agriculture Land Drainage Department, the engineer for the work being Major R.G. Clark of March. 24 03 14ES

1924 03 15

Between 400 and 500 members of the Cambridge branch of the Transport and General Workers Union employed by local contractors came out on strike. The union has been negotiating for an increase on wages as follows: Carmen 50s. lorry drivers 65s. and motor driver's mates 55s. for a 48-hour week. The coal merchants say that wages have been based on the rate of pay to agricultural workers and instead of giving an increase they are under the impression that the time has arrived when the men should have a reduction.

Labour in Newnham, p3

Willingham murder, p5

Sir – the number of small cars in England seems steadily increasing, but the difficulty in Cambridge is the garage. At Papworth we have an industry for tuberculosis ex-servicemen to make wooden garages but many people are deterred from buying since Cambridge by-laws refer to them as “temporary buildings”, as opposed to a good old-fashioned coachhouse, and the Town Council requires people to take them down again after six months use. If somebody would persuade councillors to encourage the small car the men at Papworth could earn a good living. – Elsbeth Dimsdale 24 03 15

Turned on street, p6*

1924 03 16c

Sir - A disgraceful scene was witnessed today in Great Eastern Street, Cambridge, of a poor ex-soldier and his wife and family of three, including a baby, and his furniture, being put out into the streets. The man and his wife had been expecting to go into rooms, but when it was found that they had children, they received a letter refusing to take them in. There was no rent owing, so that was not the excuse. - A Looker-on 1924 03 17

Kings chapel play, p3

St Johns, Wellington Street jubilee door, p4

1924 03 18

A serious fire broke out at the large chaff factory of Messrs Fyfe of Littleport. By the time the village fire brigade arrived the whole building was a mass of flames. Throughout the night they gave their full attention to the building but were unable to save any of the valuable machinery inside, including a secret invention for meal making, known to be the only one in the world. In a very few hours all that remained was the mangled and twisted iron frames of the machinery, all of which was ruined.

1924 03 19

Defiant parents, p3

Newmarket Laureate paddocks, p4*

Saffron Walden British Legion formed, p4

1924 03 20

The village of Cherry Hinton has been agog with excitement with rumours regarding the wealth of a sexagenarian spinster, who was removed to Chesterton workhouse infirmary. The woman has been living in a little two-roomed whitewashed thatched cottage in the Chequers yard under conditions of poverty. The amount of her wealth has been subject to considerable exaggeration and the latest rumours place the figure at about £1,000. A search revealed £140 in coin of the realm, including £15 in gold, a large number of half-crowns and many smaller coins, secreted in several places in each of the rooms of the cottage, a fact that points to her having hoarded small sums for many years.

1924 03 20

Nearly 200 claims for inclusion in the Electoral register were dealt with at County Hall. One case was that of Ida Holben of Harston. She lived in a hut in a field. It was about 14 by 12 feet and contained some furniture and all her belongings. She slept there about once a month and had been away for some time. The hut was assessed separately from the land and she was not on the register elsewhere. The claim was allowed

Photographic convention meeting cancelled, p4

1924 03 21

A wooden barn containing a straw stack was completely destroyed by fire on the farm of Mess Tebbitt Bros, at Toft. Mr William Hellier of St Ives had tried to telephone the Borough Fire Brigade, but could not get them. He motored to Cambridge and met the Brigade as he was entering the town. It appears that someone else had continued to try to telephone, and had done so after 20 minutes waiting

1924 03 21 ES

Littleport: serious fire at Fyfe chaff and meal factory. 24 03 21ES

A fire of very serious nature broke out at messes Fyfe and Company's chaff and meal factory Littleport. The factory was a structure of wood and corrugated iron having been erected about 28 years ago. It consisted of a main building with bays on either side. There were three storeys. The factory was separated from a building of a similar kind by a distance of some 100 yards and was situated near the railway line, a furlong from the station. Improvements were made inside the building six months ago, a new plant being installed for the purpose of grinding poultry meal. Large quantities of meal chaff were also stored here.

How the configuration began is a mystery, but a passer-by noticed a fire had started. The factory foreman fetched horses in order to bring the Littleport Fire Engine from the Fire Station about a mile away. However the fire secured a grip on the central part of the factory and it was futile to attempt to save anything inside. The flames rose to a tremendous height and could be seen for miles around, the chaff etc proving very inflammable. Fortunately, the wind was blowing in the right direction otherwise the fiery tongue might have spread to a stack containing 120 tons of hay. More serious still about 120 ton of crude oil in barrels were ever nearer the fire and were moved to a safer spot. Due to intense heat, it was not possible to bring the fire under control until next morning.

The fire is one of the biggest which has occurred at Littleport for a long time and as a result a factory, 150 tons of chaff and meal and a newly installed plant were totally destroyed. This is the third incidence of the kind which Messrs Fyfe's premises have been involved during a period of 20 years.

24 03 21ES

It seems that the drainage system of the fens requires upkeep and for the purpose of its upkeep a body has been set up called the Ouse Drainage Board with the power of levying rates which seem to be so light-heartedly conferred on public bodies. But the Ouse Drainage Board has found that only 12% of its first demands have been collected. There had been a strike.

The problem is that the rain that overflows the fens falls in the first place on the upper lands, and then proceed to the low-country where it makes a nuisance of itself. And here you have two parties ranged in battle. The farmers of the fens declare 'This is your rain that is running all over our fields. Why couldn't you keep it to yourselves' and the farmers of St Ives and Huntingdonshire reply indignity 'It has nothing to do with us. The rain belongs to all of us. We merely take what we need as it goes down to you'. But even if the farmers of the low country can get damages from the upland brothers for keeping a dangerous rainfall, can they in extremity get an order of Court that the rainfall shall be destroyed?

Oh wonderful little race of men with your rain gauges and your weather prophecies. You talk of conquering nature and when a dam bursts, you say of the victims that the casualties were made, and that a satisfactory advantage has been made among the whole front. But you have not conquered nature while she still has spirit enough to turn around and play you such an impish joke as this. 24 03 21(5)ES

Death H. Farr-Simpson, Wisbech, Isle Surveyor for 25 years, 24 03 21(2)(3)ES

Mr. H. Farr-Simpson of Wisbech worked as County Surveyor for 25 years starting in 1898. In consequence of his recommendations steamrollers and equipment were obtained and the roads greatly improved. Tar-painting was adopted and afterwards experimental links of macadam were made.

Through the war the cost of tarmac became prohibitive and between 1915 and 1922 at very little was laid. But its advantages were so obvious that the material is now being used again.

He studied the wearing effect of motor traffic very carefully and made great endeavours to establish roads which would stand the strain. About 1900 the Peterborough-Wisbech main road was one to be avoided at all costs, particularly the stretch between Thorney and Guyhirn. A great part of the road has been widened and reconstructed. In those days, Ireton's Way, Mepal was a private road and had a toll. Dr. O'Connor was the owner and it was felt that it ought to be freed and the road improved to the level of the adjacent joining highways. In March 1900 discussion started; the toll was road was purchased for £1,230 and a tremendous improvement was effected. The road was declared free of toll from Michaelmas 1901.

Other tolls that have been abolished are those at Horsey Toll, Dog-in-a-Doublet and Earith Bridge to Sutton and Willingham. On the Chatteris to Somersham Road, Dolver's Toll is still an inconvenience to travellers. At the beginning of the century, the high and narrow Cast Iron Bridge at Ely, known as the High Bridge was found to be unfit to carry the current and prospective traffic. A new bridge was erected with 100 foot span. Mr Farr Simpson also devoted considerable attention to the project for a bridge over the Nene at Guyhirn which is now being constructed. The need for a viaduct at this point was mooted in 1904. 24 03 21

A buried forest. Enormous oak unearthed in West Fen, Ely – bog oak; photo feature. 24 03 21(4)ES

1924 03 22

Carters strike settled, p5

Cambridgeshire vicar's jubilee, p4

1924 03 24

Messrs Bailey and Tebbutt made application for possession of the King's Head public house at Cottenham on the grounds that the tenant had let the trade go down. The licensee said he thought it was because their beer was a penny a pint dearer than that of the house next door. The owners wanted another £9.16s. in rent which he could not afford, owing to bad trading conditions

1924 03 25

Ouse drainage – St Ives, p3

1924 03 26

At Saffron Walden sessions a labourer was brought up in custody on a charge of stealing a quantity of potatoes, value 9s., the property of Richard Harvey of Littlebury. P.C. Bush said he was keeping observation when he saw the prisoner come down Chestnut Avenue with a sack under his arm; he went towards Mr Harvey's potato clamp where he stopped and commenced to put something into a bag. Prisoner pleaded guilty. He had walked miles and could not get work, was hungry and wanted food. He was sentenced to one month with hard labour.

1924 03 28

Six men were injured at the Cambridge University and Town Gas Works this morning. It appears that 16 men were engaged in the oxide of iron purifier, when an explosion occurred. Oxide of iron is used in the manufacture of coal gas, and after having been in use is revived by the generation of heat. The explosion was followed by a fire. It was found necessary to send for the Dennis motor engine so that water could be pumped from the river

Rugby in Cambridge, p5

1924 03 29

A fire broke out at the old brewery of Mrs A and B Hall, Waterside, Ely. The building involved was the painters shop in close proximity to other old buildings. There was a large consignment of paint and inflammable materials inside at the time most of which were destroyed. If the fire had occurred in the night, there might have been a serious disaster

Ouse to pay, p6

1924 03 31c

A Saffron Walden man was summoned for making false representation to obtain benefit under the Unemployment Insurance Act when he signed on for his daughter. The manager of the local unemployment office made inquiries and found that the child had been working at a laundry and was paid. The bench looked upon it as a serious offence. He was sent to prison for 14 days with hard labour.

April 1924 CDN & Ely Standard

1924 04 01

Although but a baby in years the Great and Little Shelford and Stapleford Amateur Sports Association has already proved itself a sturdy infant, with a promising future before it. A satisfactory state of affairs was revealed at the first annual meeting. From a small meeting of 16 people has sprung a thriving Association consisting of over 100 people.

Clarendon Street, p4

1924 04 02

Lad crushed, Saffron Walden, p5*

1924 04 03

A constables passing Messrs H. Leavis' pianoforte warehouse, Regent Street, Cambridge noticed signs of fire. The whole of the upper floor of Messrs Constable's stained glass works was gutted and the glass cracked and popped. Messrs Leavis' premises seem to have suffered from the effects of water. Pianos & portions of pianos, undamaged by fire were surrounded by pools of dirty water, drops of which fell with a monotonous slash from the ceiling.

Children not enough sleep, p3

1924 04 02c

Many local boxing enthusiasts will learn with regret that the death has occurred of Cox Griffiths, the wrestling and boxing champion. His record at wrestling was a lengthy and creditable one. He had met several champions on the music hall stage. By trade he was a blacksmith and a toolmaker but he was perhaps best known as University instructor. For 20 years he was a publican in Cambridge and recently carried on business as a bottle merchant and general dealer

1924 04 04 ES

Ouse Drainage Board Inquiry into exclusion of land from Ouse Drainage Act

The case for the exclusion of the Middle Level District from the Ouse Drainage Order was heard at the Inquiry. Mr H Cass, the engineer who had to do with the scheme for carrying out the Ouse Drainage Order of 1915 said he works on the river and outfall were 20% worse today than they had been then. If the Middle Level Commissioners put up a pumping station at a cost of £200,000 they might in addition be called upon to pay the estimated figure of £500,000 for cleaning up out the river. If they did not put up a pumping station and the river continued to silt up they might find that they could not discharge their water by gravity. And they would be flooded within their own boundaries. The Middle Level Main Drain ran almost across the centre of the Level and conditions were such that the flood would not affect their drain in any way unless the water reached an almost abnormal depths. They were protected by the original barrier bank, the cross bank and the main drain. Their outfall was gravitation and they could only discharge into the Ouse at certain periods. 24 03 21(5)(6)ES 24 04 04(1)(2)ES 24 05 02&(2)ES # c.29

1924 04 04 ES

Buried fen oaks: experience of Owen Shaw, Chatteris of oaks at Conington, Wood Walton Fen. 24 04 04ES

Thousands of old oak, pine and other trees are buried under the surface of the black soil of the fens. It is not often however that an oak that when growing must have measured nearly 90 feet long is brought to light. Such has been discovered on a farm in West Fen, Ely. To draw it from its resting place it had to be sawn into eight sections, a team of eight horses being used to pull the sections singly from the earth.

The trees comprise oak, birch, Scotch fir, hazel, alder and Willow. The Oaks couldn't tribute constitute 80% their wood is generally stained black and they frequently obtain colossal dimensions, several having been found 70 feet long and 30 feet before throwing out a branch. The Elms are rare, the birches are not common with the wood is much decayed but the silvery, papery bark is intact. Firs have been seen between Littleport and Ely where some of them were of majestic proportions. One was 60 feet long. The wood of these trees is still white and emits a resinous odour. Yews are only found where a sandy subsoil exists, an exception being found in West Fen where they are associated with firs. Sallows and willows are abundant. The great thickness of the bark is very noticeable, especially in the case of the fir and indicates a cold climate. Unlike all other buried forests known. The trees live together. This in Digby Fen, oak, elm, bitch and hazel and found, and in Wood Fen, oak, fir, yew, willow and willow. The trees are generally very close together and this with the straightness of the trunks, proclaims that they formed part of the dense forests, and were not isolated clumps.

It is obvious that whole forests must have died at a time. Something must have killed them. A possible solution of this is afforded by the examination of the base of any of the buried oaks. All are broken off at about three feet from the former ground level. If that height is compared with the thickness at this point it is obvious that the peat once stood just at that height. Scientists contend that the peat gradually crept up the trunks and kept them constantly cold until the trees became chilled to the heart-wood and the sap no longer rose. These great trees died, their trunks rotting at the surface of the peat and finally they fell before a south-westerly gale. Then the peat which was their destroyed in life is now there preserver in death. 24 03 21 ES

New Bishop of Ely, L.J. White-Thomson installed. 24 04 04(2)(3)ES

Ely massage clinic objects explained. 24 04 04(2)ES

1924 04 05

Saffron Walden cement accident, p3

Books set in Cambridge, p6

Lighten our darkness, p6

1924 04 07

Pictures of the boat race were shown in several local picture theatres on Saturday night. At the Playhouse the Pathe film of the great contest was thrown on the screen at 8.25. The last camera from the race arrived at the Pathe studio at about 3.30. The first copy was made at 6.30 and the journey to Cambridge was made by motor. The audience cheered and roared all the way through the picture, and at the conclusion the noise was enough to bring the roof down

1924 04 07c

Cambridgeshire county council resolved to recommend to the Secretary of State the protection of chaffinch, hedgesparrow, wren, robin and other insect feeding birds and their eggs in the parishes of Cottenham, Willingham Melbourn and Burwell for the special reason that these birds consume large quantities of insects which do enormous damage to the fruit growing districts.

1924 04 08

Mr T Garrett told Landbeach and Waterbeach Labour Party that the new Labour government had received a good press to begin with but the difficult times were now coming upon them. When something to do with mining came up in parliament there were always half a hundred miners to put the case of the men. But it was quite otherwise with agriculture. They wanted an agricultural wing 50 strong for the Labour Party. They must never lose sight of their object which was to push up the wages of the agricultural labourer and secure a fair return to the smallholder for his hard toil

Road foreman motor cycles, p6*

1924 04 09

At Ely council Colonel Archer proposed the provision of non-parlour cottages with three bedrooms. Some might say a working man was entitled to his parlour. Unfortunately it was quite impossible for farm labourers to pay eight shillings a week in rent. If the council built cottages having two living rooms the tenants would use one in which to cook and to live and keep the other one "tidy. "

1924 04 09

A meeting was held at Saffron Walden cinema to incorporate a company of the Essex Regiment (Territorial Army). Previously they had a company of the Saffron Walden cyclists battalion. Unfortunately during the war the cyclists were found to be of no further use. It was the only town of any size in Essex without a territorial representation and they wanted them to supply a company of 100 to 150 men. Several young men were afterwards enrolled at the Town Hall

New bishop, p5

1924 04 11

Newmarket Rural Council heard that Messrs Lack and sons had completed the boring of the well at Reach, and the water had been analysed and found fit for drinking purposes. It was recommended that the mayor of Cambridge be asked to declare the pump open when he attends to open the Reach fair

1924 04 11

As climax to many months efforts on the part of those concerned, the stone-laying ceremony of the Trumpington Free Church Sunday school new building took place. The outside world might not look upon it as a very big thing, that somewhere in a little village in England it had been found necessary to enlarge Sunday school, but they in Trumpington knew that it meant that the Kingdom of Jesus Christ was not falling and, if in spite of all obstacles, it had triumphed there, there was the promise that one-day it would triumph everywhere.

Vivisection, p3

1924 04 15

Mr T Peake said that at the present moment there was a library in Littleport, and he could assure them that there was hardly one book in it that he would care to find a place for in his home. For many years, he believed, it had not been used, but that did not alter the fact that there was a very strong desire for a supply of good books. The Isle of Ely County Council was a very progressive one and he was sure that the members would not dare to go to their wives and tell them they had voted against the Carnegie scheme. It was very rarely a wife got anything out of the County Council - but she would certainly get something from the libraries

Disabled drivers motor club, p6

1924 04 16

Newmarket council heard there were 139 unfit houses in the town and 34 in Exning. There were a number of families whose bread-winners work in Newmarket, but for lack of houses they had been forced to get cottages in the surrounding rural districts. The council had satisfied themselves that the demand for houses could not be met without public assistance. There was no building going on, or likely to go on in the district in regard to the type of houses proposed

Cambridge town planning, p5

1924 04 17

Burwell case sequel, p5*

1924 04 18 ES

Stretham: Conservative Association meeting. 24 04 18ES

1924 04 19

Councillor Few said in the most populated sections of Cambridge, where men are going out and coming from work in the early hours of the morning, it was really a disgrace that they should have to find their way in darkened streets. Alderman Starr said he was surprised to hear that the railway men were not more brave in going through the streets on dark nights. The police had electric torches. The number of men engaged on night work was very small indeed, and it would be more economical for the council to supply them with torches

1924 04 19

That enterprising organisation the Cambridgeshire Band of Hope Union, under the energetic direction of Mr and Mrs David Moore, are giving the pageant of old Cambridge, "Olde Sturbridge Fair" in the Guildhall next week. This pageant was first produced in 1914 with great success. It has now been re-written and includes a weird and fantastic scene with a witch and her retinue of Cambridgeshire imps, with which she hopes to work dire evil on Cambridge town. It is hoped schoolteachers will take parties of children to see this locally historical pageant

Wilburton cycle fatality, p5

Byron centenary, p6

1924 04 20c

Walter Flack said he was driving a tumbril cart along Emmanuel Road, Cambridge, and when he got to the corner he saw that tarring was in progress. He took a wide sweep to avoid an accident and a labourer shouted to him to get off the tar. He stopped and got out because his horse was restive and asked why he was shouting, when he was hit over head with a broom, knocking him to his knees. The wound was 11 inches long, penetrating to the bone. He was taken home in the police ambulance. John Mayes, a cinema attendant, said he was pulling the advertisement trolley of the Central cinema and saw the occurrence

1924 04 22

Easter holiday, p5

Brush with broom, p5*

1924 04 23

In the early hours of Easter Monday morning a fire broke out at Great Mortimer's Farm, Ashdon, owned by Mr Thomas Reeve. His wife was awakened by the coughing of the children and found the house was in flames. She at once raised an alarm and the police and Saffron Walden fire brigade were sent for. In the meantime neighbours succeeded in removing horses and stock from the farm buildings, and the machinery and buildings were save by their united efforts. The fire brigade arrived but owing to the bad state of the lane leading from the main road to the farm, it was impossible to get the engine up to the site of the fire & the house was entirely destroyed

St Ives town hall, p5

1924 04 24

Old Stourbridge Fair pageant, p5

1924 04 25

Six standpipes had been supplied to Fulbourn, when there were 12 houses with their own water supply. These houses had since been sold by the Charity owning them and had passed into different hands. The owner of the house to which one particular pipe was attached objected to it being used by others, and the only course to adopt was to ask the Cambridge Water Company to install a standpipe at the cost of £6 per year. Mr Jackson said there was a pipe within 150 yards of the area concerned, and he could not see why this additional pipe should be a charge on the parish. Other people had to come much further than that

1924 04 25

A consistory court heard a petition by the vicar of St Andrew the Great, Cambridge, for permission to sell to the corporation a strip of land in the church grounds required for street widening purposes. They all knew that the streets were hopelessly inadequate to deal with the volume of traffic which passed through. The only possible alternative would be to pull down the front of Christ College. If that strip of churchyard were taken and added to the street there might be less risk of accident, and the church would not press the claims of the dead at the expense of the claims of the living

Cars on King's Parade, p5

1924 04 26

The new showroom of Messrs Herbert Robinson Ltd, Regent Street, Cambridge was formally opened. There is room for the display of 15 cars at a time, and those at present on view include such well known makes as Vauxhall, Fiat, Hillman, Citroen, Daimler and Calthorpe, all of the latest type. Demonstration runs will be given, with no obligation to buy. They will take your present motor car in part exchange for a new one, and arrange deferred payments if you wish.

1924 04 26

"A regular hive of industry, without a drone" and "one of the most thrifty and industrious parishes in England" were remarks when presentations were made to the Rev John Cyprian Rust who has carried through 50 years of faithful and devout service as vicar of Soham. Looking back he had seen the closing down of several beer shops and less drunkenness was his reward. People could scarcely believe how thrifty all the women had been. They had learned to live and keep a family on 14 shillings a week, supplementing it by little gains from the commons and so on.

1924 04 28

War pensions, Papworth, p5

1924 04 29

St Ives court – cycle theft, p3

1924 04 30

Sir - Cambridge council practically excludes modest women - and men - from the new bathing place, unless they are prepared to do violence to their own decent instincts. What the council practically declares is in effect, 'Go and bathe as domestic animals do, male and female all together - they never object so why should you?' What this atrocious decision means is that decent men and modest women are to be excluded from all reasonable participation in a very pleasant summer exercise - A Decent Englishwoman

1924 04 30

The Cambridge and district Co-operative Society opened at Stansted its 19th branch. This is an up-to-date grocery and provisions shop, with smart modern front and fittings, and there is no doubt that it will meet a long felt want in the district. Business was exceedingly brisk at the shop for some time after it had been declared open and many new members were made. Previously it had been supplied by a delivery service from the Bishop Stortford branch, and the convenience of now having a shop in one of the best positions in the town will be of considerable benefit

County Boys School extension, p5

Farm foreman injured, p6

May 1924 CDN & Ely Standard

1924 05 01

There has been considerable indignation caused in St Ives by the town council's proposals to purchase the residential property known as Stanley House on the Market Hill for £1,200 & to convert the same into a town hall and offices. It is felt by the majority of the ratepayers that the building is not suitable for such a purpose, and that the cost of converting it and the upkeep afterwards will entail a very heavy expenditure on the rates. This scheme has therefore amassed a very strong opposition on the part of several of the most influential men of the town, including medical men and solicitors. A memorial has been drawn up and signed by nearly 960.

1924 05 01

Through the munificence of Sir Charles and Lady Walston, handsome iron gates in the early English style have been erected at the entrance to the King's College grounds on the Backs. Sir Charles presented them to the college. Mr A W Elwood the maker of the gates, presented the key to Lady Walston who opened them. & 2nd p6

Rototiller demonstration, p6

1924 05 02

Ouse drainage board rate – Soham refuse, p3

1924 05 02 ES

Opening of March District Nurses' Home: photo. 24 05 02&(2)ES

The handsome Nurses' Home erected by March District Nursing Association was opened with fitting ceremony. The scheme was largely made possible by the munificence of Mr. Thomas Shepperson on land given by Mr. T.M. Shepperson at the best position on his Norwood estate. Pleasantly situated on the corner site, the new Nurses' Home is a beautiful building in the Early English style and reflects great credit on the architect Mr. W Fovargue and the builder Mr. F.W. Shanks of Chatteris.

It includes four bedrooms a maternity ward, a small maternity emergency ward, bathroom etc. The maternity ward contains two beds, which are fitted with rubber casters to ensure silence and ease of movement. Each patient's bed has its locker of white porcelain on bicycle wheels and that is a glass instrument table also on bicycle wheels.

There had been a difference of opinion as to whether the home should be a nurse's home or a nursing home or both and the idea had been entertained that it should be a hospital.

In the present dearth of homes there were many small dwellings containing two or more families.

There were also many people living in huts and railway carriages and the conditions there were very unsuitable for maternity cases. The war had taught us that cases could be moved safely to hospital even in an acute stage. With hospitals such as Addenbrooke's, Cambridge, Peterborough Infirmary, and more particularly the hospital of the future, and Wisbech and with an up-to-date motor ambulance, cases could be moved to hospital practically without any risk whatsoever.

The present two nurses had more work than they could do and there was no chance of any relief.

Moreover the nurses had no official time off 24 05 02

Ouse Drainage Board barges to be purchased. 24 05 02(3)ES

1924 05 03c

Sir - I have every reason to believe ignorant people are doing all they can to prevent young ladies marrying healthy and industrious blind citizens. I have myself quite recently been robbed of a good and kind little lady, residing in Romsey town, by some person secretly informing her that if she has anything to do with me she will be having a family of blind children. Nor is this by any means the only case that I know of, and as it is a false and unfair statement, and a disgrace to any of our modern British public, the time has arrived when this sort of thing should be stopped. - One of the local blind

1924 05 03

An inquest was held on a 57-year-old general labourer, in the employ of the Cambridge Brick Company, who died as a result of injuries received in a fall of earth. Charles Peters, 62, said he was working some nine feet from the deceased in a clay pit. He was picking and the deceased was filling trucks. The front fell off from the face of the pit, two tons fell. Not three minutes before the accident he had examined the top of the pit. There were two sets of railways and the clay fell between these two. The work had been carried on for many years and all were fully alive to what might happen

Royston pageant, p5*

1924 05 05

The village of Stansted was startled by a fireball which fell near the main London Road, made a sound like a big explosion, and formed a crater several feet wide. It came up again under the roadway, with another big bang, several yards away, cut through the gas main, which burnt afterwards for two hours, knocked a motor-cyclist of his machine & travelled along a line of barbed wire for 40 yards, wrecking a wooden fence and blowing up portions of the ground. It finished its career 60 yards from where it first fell. The report was heard all over the village, and many windows were blown out by the explosion. & 7th p4*

1924 05 05

With regard to the desirability of a bridge being built over the Cam at Dimock's Cote, Councillor Taylor said not one half of the members of the council knew where Dimock's Cote was. If a bridge was built it would lead from nowhere to nowhere, and would benefit no one except those who went from the North to the Newmarket races. Alderman McArthur the bridge would provide a main road from the Midlands to the East coast. A considerable amount of money had been spent on building the road up to the river, but the War Office did not want the bridge built during the war

Blind man's complaint, p5*

Dimock's Cote bridge, p3*

1924 05 06

'Mountaineering' at St John's, p3

Buntingford mystery, p3

1924 05 07

Lacons brewery broken into, p3

'Sporting guide', p4

M. come – autosuggestion, p4

1924 05 08

Elsworth farmer bankrupt, p2

Buntingford bones, p5

Lode farmer failure, p5

West Wrating estate sale, p6

1924 05 09

Musical education, p4

Sims Woodhead memorial, Papworth, p5

Moulton baker bankrupt, p5

E.C. Bateman funeral, p6

1924 05 09 ES

Welney Suspension Bridge proposed rebuilding. 24 05 09(4)(5)ES

Stretham: Charles Langford Hazel obituary. 24 05 09(6)ES

The death of Mr. Charles Langford Hazel removed one of Stretham's oldest and most respected inhabitants. Deceased who was a 84 years of age in early life, spent some years in New Zealand and on returning to England he commenced farming occupying Tiled House Farm and afterwards Berry Green Farm. At the time of his death, he was the oldest tenant on Captain Willis' estate. During his long life he took an active interest in the government of the parish, being a member of the School Board and Parish Council from their inception. 24 05 09(5)ES

1924 05 10

At the opening of the Sir William Dunn Institute of the Cambridge University School of Biochemistry Sir Jeremiah Coleman said they had heard a great deal lately about the horrors of cancer and the necessity for co-operative effort throughout the world to deal with that great curse. He believed that the causes of that scourge would be discovered by a student who had not been thinking especially of cancer. Why should it not be done in the building in which they were assembled that day?

1924 05 10

Coming! Bronco Bill's Wild West exhibition and mammoth circus. Broncho Bill's world famous elephants. Broncho Bill's new group of performing prairie horses and 20 other big acts. Monday next, Midsummer Common, Cambridge. The great show will also visit Royston and Huntingdon - Advert

Red Cross ambulances, p5

Opening biochemistry & Papworth x-ray, p6

1924 05 12

Council defalcations, p6

Christ Church electricity, p6

Impington Hall for sale, p6

Julian Julian retires, p6

1924 05 13

An aeroplane came to grief while alighting in a field on Barton Road, Cambridge, and the pilot and two passengers had a narrow escape from serious injuries. The plane was attached to Edward's Flying Service, which provides flights from a field off Barton road. It appears that the pilot was about to land and was manoeuvring for a position suitable to the direction of the strong wind when the engine stopped, and he was forced to land. The aeroplane crashed into a hedge and turned completely over, its back being broken.

1924 05 13

Broncho Bill's circus is always a great attraction and huge crowds attended the performances at Cambridge. The programme was divided into two parts, the first half consisting of typical circus "stunts" and the second an exhibition of the wild and woolly West. The Wild West portion of the programme consists of lassoing and rope spinning, trick rifle shooting, whip stock cracking and rough riding, the whole concluding with an attack on the stage coach by Red Indians.

1924 05 14

Dimock's Cote bridge, p5

1924 05 15

Borough accountant resigns, p5

1924 05 16

Swavesey war memorial hall was formally opened. It was a day that will long be remembered, for not only does the new hall provide a lasting reminder of those who gave their lives for the country, but it will do a lot to make those who came back much happier. Swavesey was sadly in need of a place where social and educational functions could be held with the maximum of comfort, and here this pressing need is splendidly fulfilled. A large ground floor room is capable of seating about 400 people, while there is an extensive balcony, which is fitted up as a billiards room.

1924 05 17

Wyton's Hostel, Huntingdon, p6

1924 05 19

A Belgian balloonist came down at Ely in a pond ten feet deep. He was taking part in a big race from Brussels for a £2,000 prize. He crossed the Channel during the night and had a very rough journey. His balloon is said to be the smallest in existence and the pilot had to stand all the time he was in the air. It came down at Norney farm and was pulled out by Mr Herbert Cross, an Ely farmer.

1924 05 20

A number of parents from Swaffham Prior and Reach were brought before the Bottisham police court for not sending their children to Burwell School. In order to provide children over eleven years of age with a superior education it was found advisable to reorganise the schools in that area. The county education committee has provided a motor omnibus to convey the children to Burwell. Far from overcoming the objections of the parents this bus seems one of the chief sources of objection. Other parents object on the score of extra expense for packing up their children's dinners

1924 05 21

Since the beginning of this month there has been on sale Cambridgeshire Cheddar cheese, made at the Cambridge milk and cheese factory situated in Newmarket Road. This is the outcome of the co-operative cheese making school run by the County Council in conjunction with the National Farmers Union. This new venture looks like providing a successful commercial proposition and forms a convenient means of disposing of the surplus milk produced in the district.

Stretham feast parade, p3

Royston pageant, p4

1924 05 22

An unusual accident occurred at Trumpington when a student of St John's College was returning from London in De Dion Bouton two seater car. On coming round the bend on the main road the car ran into a house with devastating results. Bricks were scattered right across the road and a gaping hole in the wall was so big that it is surprising that the whole front of the house did not collapse. Fortunately no one was in the house and the front room was empty of furniture as the tenant had packed preparatory to leaving.

1924 05 23

Great interest was taken in the opening of the new swimming bath at Littleport. The club which dates from the Coronation of King Edward perhaps did not cater for everybody, but it had done something to provide a place where the boys and girls could learn to swim. At one time it was very uncommon to see people swimming in the rivers, but now it was a very common thing. The club had provided a magnificent baths for public use and organised the annual water sports which were always eagerly looked forward to.

Cambridge girls shelter, p3

Croxton storms, p6*

1924 05 23 ES

Isle County Council budget; Rural Library scheme rejected. 24 05 23&(2)(3)(4)ES

The Isle of Ely County Council agreed to adopt the Public Library Acts and apply to the Carnegie Trust for a grant covering the provision of books. The scheme would be a great boon to the agricultural part of the area. They were aware of the gloomy conditions which generally existed, especially in wintertime. Some had said there was no taste or desire for reading amongst the people. That might be so. They had been pressing for a poultry instructor but there were books which could be procured at small cost which would convey as much. The aim was to continue the education of those who had left school by means of knowledge from books

But a Councillor referred to a library in Wisbech which contained mostly contained books of a trivial nature. There were two libraries there and there were several stationers who ran circulating libraries. The same thing applied to March, Chatteris, Ely and other village. In these days of quick transit there was no excuse for anybody to be without a book. Libraries were not wanted. People did not want books. 24 05 23ES

Stretham Ferry Bridge: Ministry of Transport approve scheme for ferro-concrete bridge costing £6,503. 24 05 23(2)ES

The Ministry of Transport had made a grant towards reconstructing and widening the bridge over Stretham Ferry. The tender for the erection of a ferro-concrete bridge was accepted and negotiations opened for the purchase of the land required on the north side of the river for the approaches to the bridge. On the foundation is being cut out concrete, which was not known to be there, was found at the foot of the old bridge. A slight alteration had had to be made in the set of the bridge, but it was a small matter. 24 05 23ES

A letter signed by five mechanical transport drivers protested against a reduction of their wages paid by the Isle of Ely County Council. They had reduced from November 1922 from 10 shillings and we're now eight shillings and six pence. Motor drivers' wages were 51 shillings a week, steam lorry drivers' wages 50 shillings a week. In winter drivers worked 46¾ hours per week, the remainder of the year 51 hours.

But the statement that their wages had been reduced was not correct, nor was it true they were paid less than the same drivers in private employment. The drivers referred were skilled mechanics able to do ordinary running repairs to the machines they drove and were entitled to a higher rate. The drivers had no real grounds of complaint. But there had been a great good deal of laxity in the surveyor's office they could not have an efficient organisation conducted over the telephone. There were several things that were a disgrace to any organisation that called itself business-like. 24 05 23ES

1924 05 24

Isle rural library, p3

Huntingdon surveyor charged, p5

1924 05 26

Cambridgeshire Regiment colours, p6

1924 05 26c

On Tuesday night West Cambridgeshire was visited with a thunderstorm considered to have been the worst since 1913. Rainfall was exceptionally heavy, indeed in many places nothing equalling it has been experienced within living memory. At Gamlingay crops in the fields suffered severely, potatoes being washed out of the soil in many places and much land was still under water next morning. In places the potato ridges were completely washed away, and great gulleys many yards wide and several feet deep were scoured out, and many tons of earth washed away. Near Potton the main road was encumbered with great banks of soil washed down from the fields above and great gaps were cut in the bank by the roadside, down which the water and mud poured on to the road like a cataract

1924 05 27

At Reach fair, in accordance with custom, the mayor and members of the corporation forsook their dignity and became boys (and one girl) again. Following the official proclamation the mayor (H.B. Bailey) performed the opening ceremony of the new village pump. His worship pumped the first jug of water and quaffed off, or rather sipped suspiciously the first glass of it. Following luncheon the mayor repaired to the field and commenced an onslaught on the coconuts. First blood in this respect was drawn by the Chief Constable but the Borough Coroner contrived to "wangle" three with one throw. The more sedate members of the corporation contented themselves with the roundabouts

'Return of Sherlock Holmes' at New Theatre, p6

1924 05 28

Sir - it is only quite recently some considerable amount of public money was spent for labour and material on Milton Road, Cambridge, and today the passage of a traction engine or heavy vehicle of some kind has simply torn the road up, and the expenditure is to all intents and purposes rendered useless. Surely the authorities whose duty it is to control the highways should take some drastic steps to stop this sort of thing happening – A.H. Reed, Cambridge

Newmarket lighting shock, p5

1924 05 29

At Cambridge council Alderman Starr said a number of buildings in Hobson Street were coming down. It would make it a 40 feet road and they believed it would eventually become a very important thoroughfare. Unfortunately they were up against a very difficult problem at the Sidney Street end because they had a bank on one side and a college on the other. But this was really a safety point because converging traffic would have a slight obstacle to pull them up

Tithes meeting, p4

1924 05 31

Cheap petrol, p6*

June 1924 CDN & Ely Standard

1924 06 02

Judging from the attendance at the second of the dances held on Christ's Pieces this departure has evidently caught on with the townsfolk, who attended in large numbers, both as dancers and spectators. There was, in addition, a fair sprinkling of undergraduates. With such good music as is provided, and with the dances carried through in such an efficient manner, they are bound to provide a welcome addition to the entertainments of the town and materially continue to a "Brighter Cambridge"

1924 06 03

In the list of King's birthday honours Mr Fred Hiam, the well known agriculturist, receives a knighthood. During the war his expert knowledge made him a fitting person to hold the post of Director of Vegetable Supplies and in 1918 he dealt entirely with the whole of the potato crop of Great Britain. That crop as so plentiful that some could be spared for other countries. Sir Frederick was born at Upwell, and when he was two years of age his father removed to Mepal. He then went to London to sell potatoes there and in a few years grew more than he could sell. He now owns 8,000 acres of land in the Isle of Ely

Pilgrim preachers, p3

1924 06 04

An Italian organ grinder was charged with assaulting Herbert Ager, organ grinder at St Ives. He pleaded guilty. Ager said he travelled the country with a young man from Hammersmith who had lost both arms. They had an organ. He was in Crown Street tuning his organ and while he was so doing defendant came up and hit him. Defendant said he hit the fellow because he had been playing in the town on Monday and then began again on Tuesday. He could not get any money when the other one was playing

1924 06 05

At Cambridge police court the Town Clerk applied for an order for a mentally defective girl to be sent to a certified school at Colchester. If she remained at home she might deteriorate and the parents could not give the special protection she needed. The parents declined their consent, saying that two children had already been sent and one had died away from home. The mother was much distressed and did not think the child would go willingly. The bench concluded it was better for the child to go to the school

Linton workhouse theft, p5*

1924 06 06 ES

Stretham: Feast parade raised £18.1 24 06 06ES

Unpaid Ouse rates: necessary works threatened with stoppage. 24 06 06(2)(3)ES

A meeting of the Ouse Drainage Board heard that unless people paid their drainage rates many necessary works would have to be stopped. If works at Denver Sluice were not completed before the winter the disaster that might occur would affect the whole fen country. Ratepayers in the fens were not considering what they were getting in return for their taxes. The Board cleaned the rivers, were deepening the main river, had repaired all their sluices, were enlarging Denver sluice, had relieved all internal drainage bodies of their banks and had greatly improved those banks. After a year or two there would be no longer any risk whatsoever of banks breaking in the South Level and in the whole of the fen country. Yet, when the Board went to collect the rates, ratepayers told the collector they were getting nothing for their money. The fenman who held up his drainage rates was doing the most foolish act he could from his own point of view. If rates were not paid, work would have to stop. But as long the Board included the upland areas, which received no benefits, they would always have trouble. Uncollected rates amounted to £50,000. All those against whom proceedings were to be taken were in the fen area. The time had arrived with the list should include tax payers elsewhere.

A communication from the Ministry of Agriculture stated that as the time for unemployment schemes had expired, the scheme for the Old West River must now be considered abandoned. The Committee were of the opinion that work in the Old West River should be commenced and recommended the Board undertake maintenance as soon as repairs to the old bucket dredger were completed. The Engineer said the banks of the Old West had been neglected for 60 years and were in a serious condition. The Board were asking the present tenants and occupiers to pay to put the river right. The work should have been done by a loan.

Dredging in the Ten Mile River was being continued by one of the Boards grab dredgers, which would keep the barges taking the spoil on to the bank supplied until further barges were obtained. Therefore one grab was available for other work. The Engineer was instructed to transfer this to the Little Ouse River above the Cross Water Staunch. The steel pontoons of the grab dredgers badly required painting under the waterline and to do this would necessitate the erection of a gantry. 24 06 06ES

Tithe owners in peril – meeting. 24 06 06(2)ES

A meeting of the Council of the Tithe Owners Union were told that unless something were done the clergy would lose half of their income. The tithe owner might be entirely deprived of his property if the corn average was abolished and relief were not at the same time given from rates. Farmers were badly treated during the last two years of the war, and had been treated worse since. But it was easy to create prejudice in such cases against the clergy as a class.

The Rev. J.C. Rust, Vicar of Soham, said that tithe used to be the first charge on the land, but it had now become the last charge on the land and made had made a great deal of difference. Land owners were in a very bad way as regards receiving income from the land. 24 06 06ES

Ely Urban Council was asked if they would allow the use of children in the Silver Street Schools to make use of some of the use of the Barracks Field for exercise and recreation. The Master asked for the use of the field for one hour each morning for physical exercises and on some days in the afternoon after school hours for games. It would be of immense boon to the schools. The Council should remember they had their horses on the site, but they would, should be doing some work in the morning. Even supposing the horses were there, the children would not frighten them or injure them. There was not the slightest question that children were of some importance that the physical training of children was a very great importance, perhaps of more important than horses.

When Rev. Kirtland first came to Ely and lived in Hereward he had fish bones and rotten fruit thrown into the premises by the schoolchildren. On the one occasion he had a live cat thrown through his window, in fact the children there were an abomination. They were now well disciplined by Mr Carpenter. They must have somewhere to go in the evening. It was the only way to keep them off the roads. Mr Covill said the horse was a dainty animal and if the ground were all trodden down it would mean having other ground for the horses. But the field had been let for the flower show and sports on Whit-Monday, That would tread the ground down more than children doing physical drill.

There were other schools to consider. They should be allowed the use of the Mews Field until it was required for building. 24 06 06ES

Ely U.D.C. Prickwillow housing site, no other sites suitable; concrete rafts on which all cottages are to be built should be further reinforced. 24 06 06(2)ES

Stretham:

Baptist Anniversary

Tennis tournament and dance. 24 06 06(4)ES

1924 06 07

A distressing story of a little girl's death in her father's factory at Mepal was told at an inquest. The father was a contractor and farmer. He had a Lister electric engine and plant which was used for cooking meat in bad weather. There was an ice box to it, and they were also able to make electric light for his own purpose and to grind sausage meat. He saw his daughter go across to the shop. A little while afterwards he went into the granary and saw his daughter hanging by her hair.

1924 06 07

The landlord of the New Inn Swavesey was summoned for riding a cycle without a light. It was on the night of the village feast and he was seen hanging on to a motor cycle, with two other cyclists at the time. Defendant explained that he lit his lamp against the Black Horse. He took hold of his friend's shoulder, who was on a motor cycle, and his light went out against the Sun public house owing to a bump in the surface of the road, where it was being repaired. Fined 5s.

1924 06 10

Ye good people of Harston enjoyed themselves right merrily in the grounds of Harston manner when country revels and a pageant were held on behalf of the village hall building fund. The entertainments are part and parcel of a great endeavour throughout the whole country to make our village life more attractive, and to add to the moral welfare of our communities in an age where the attractions of city and industrial life tend to depopulate our country districts and to lower the standard of moral as well as physical health.

Waterproof Whitsun, p6

1924 06 12

An eleven year old schoolboy was charged with stealing five boxes of chocolates, a quantity of sweets and oranges, and a tin of salmon the property of Mrs Susan Bird, confectioner, High Street, Soham. On Friday night the articles were safe in her shop window when she locked up at 10 o'clock. The defendant was standing against the same pane of the window that was afterwards found smashed. The boy said: "I broke the window with my hand". He had been sentenced at a previous court to three strokes with the birch rod. He was sent to an industrial school until he is 16 years of age.

1924 06 12

At Linton Rural District Council the chairman said the County Council wished to take over the roads at present controlled and repaired by their council, and pointed out the County had already taken over the main roads in Linton district, and were keeping them up at a cost of £165 per mile, whereas Linton council were maintaining in a good state 100 miles of road at a cost of about £70 per mile. It was agreed that the present system worked very well and they should resist any attempt to take over their roads

Proportional representation, p3

Late Hatterseley, p3

1924 06 13 ES

Mepal tragedy: girl killed when caught on shafting by her hair. 24 06 13&(2)ES

A Mepal man told an inquest he was a contractor and, farmer. He had a Lister electric engine and an E.E. Sunderland plant for cooling meat in bad weather. There was an icebox to it, and was able to make electric light for his own premises. He was also able to grind sausage meat. The engine of the machine burnt petrol and it would start and stop itself. There was a counter-shaft and went in motion this would revolve. He saw his daughter go across to the butcher's shop and walk in. He then heard the butcher shout and when he went to the granary and saw the girl hanging by her hair. It seemed to be wrapped around the counter-shaft. The butcher cut her free. She was dead. It was an accident. There was no negligence. 24 06 11ES

Ely rural housing: scheme for erection of sixty cottages at Wilburton, Haddenham, Mepal, Sutton & Lt Downham; photos. 24 06 13(3)ES

The first pair of cottages under Ely Rural District Council housing scheme have just been completed at Wilburton. Considerable interest has been evinced owing to their original planning and low cost. There are two types, one having a bathroom while the other is a non-bathroom type. Each has a living room and parlour, with a hall sufficiently large to wheel a perambulator through. Upstairs there are three bedrooms and in the one type a bathroom. The wash-house lodge etc. are in a separate outbuilding. The houses are all brick-built and roofed with asbestos tiles. A very large number of people visited the cottages and were impressed by the economic design which leaves no waste space. The rooms are compact yet airy. It is hoped to be able to let each cottage at an economic rent of about 6s per week. 24 06 13ES

An enormous crowd of nearly 3,000 people assembled on the Blackbush Road, Whittlesey on Whit Monday to watch the speed trials organised by the March Motorcycle Club. The solitary policeman had difficulty in keeping the people off the track, and some of the races were delayed in consequence. It is estimate mated there were nearly 200 motorcycles parked on the side of the course and for nearly two hours a continuing procession of people from Whittlesey wended its way towards Blackbush. The fastest time was registered by G.B. Crow riding a Coventry Victor broke the record for the half mile course at well over 70 miles an hour. His record is a tribute to his magnificent riding for the surface of the course leaves much to be desired from the speed man's point of view. E. Brown riding a Chater-Lea unfortunately developed a speed wobble, nearly wrenched off a tyre and crashed. There was an element of good chance in the accident as he crashed halfway down the track at a spot where there were only a few spectators and, save for a rich wrenched ankle, he was unhurt. 24 06 13ES

1924 06 14

Stretham – Stanley builder shot, suicide, p5

1924 06 14c

On Thursday last we published a description of a lad who had been missing from his Newmarket home. Before 10 o'clock on the following morning a telegram was received by his parents stating that he had been seen in Cambridge. The mother at once took train, and on the arrival found the lad safe and well. It appears the boy had determined to run away from home. He made for Cambridge and, getting a lift on a brewers dray, arrived at the town. The parents wish to thank the Cambridge Daily News for publishing the description which has been the means of relieving their anxiety as to their boy.

1924 06 16

Many in Cambridge associated with Poor Law work will regret the death of Mr Luke Hosegood, who for 37 years was master of the workhouse in Mill Road. He was appointed schoolmaster in 1870 when there were 150 children at the Workhouse, and when tuition had to be provided for them there. In April 1883 a serious fire occurred in the men's infirmary. His brave conduct and self-possession was the means of preventing any loss of life. In recognition of his prompt work and meritorious conduct in rescuing some of the inmates he was presented with a testimonial

1924 06 16

We regret to announce the death of Mr James Odell Vinter, one of the ablest and best known public men in connection with county administration, licensing and agricultural finance. He founded in 1869 the firm who carry on an extensive wholesale coal distributing business. He was also the author of the sliding scale of pay for the County Police, based on the price of bread, much appreciated by members of the Force

Motor cycle accident, Christ's Lane, p3

1924 06 17

A shocking and revolting case of carelessness and callousness on the part of a mother was revealed at Bottisham police court. An NSPCC inspector said he saw two younger children in a very dirty and neglected state. Their bodies were verminous and their clothing, which was filthy and ragged, emitted a very offensive smell. He went on to describe the perambulator in which he saw the baby child and the shockingly filthy conditions prevailing in the only bedroom in the house. The mother was sentenced to a month's imprisonment without hard labour.

1924 06 18

There was a large meetings of Ely ratepayers when the proposed electricity schemes were under consideration. It would be possible to use a 30-watt lamp for 22 hours for a penny. All-electric cooking resulted in an average consumption of 360 units per head per annum, the cost being approximately £2.5s. for each person. If a public bath could be erected adjacent to the electricity works, the exhaust heat from the engine could be very economically utilised and be ample to cover the utmost requirements of the baths.

Fitzwilliam Museum Marley galleries, p5
Stretham garden fete, p5

1924 06 18c

The inquest took place upon the body of a Soham farmer and publican who was found hanging dead in a granary. His son saw him the previous day and there seemed nothing the matter with him, but when he asked if he would come with him to his work deceased replied he had "water springs" (biliousness). He had been attended for bronchitis and his one trouble was that he could not walk as far as he used to, his legs being rather bad. As deceased did not return for dinner that day he searched for him. The far end of the granary was dark and he was going to strike a match when a boy opened the door and he saw deceased hanging from a beam.

1924 06 19

Adolphus Ward, Peterhouse death, p5
Solicitor bankrupt – Kleno co, p6
Upware smallholders failure – Creek, p6

1924 06 20

The funeral of the late Mr Jabez Gurteen, head of the well-known manufacturing firm took place at Haverhill and was the occasion of a remarkable display of sympathy and respect. Flags were flying half-mast at the parish church, the town hall, & Chantry Mills (Messrs Gurteen's factories) and all places of business in the town were closed during the funeral proceedings.

Suicide Walter Cross, Soham farmer & publican, p5*
Leys School sanatorium opened, p6

1924 06 20 ES

Stretham inquest suicide Henry Reginald Stanley, carpenter and undertaker. 24 06 20&(2)ES
Haddenham Hospital parade. 24 06 20&(2)ES

Things were just as they should have been at Haddenham on Sunday when the 31st village parade in aid of Addenbrooke's Hospital took place. Hundreds of people turned out of doors to witness the opening incident in Feast Week. The Wesleyans had charge of arrangements. By means of a parade, gala and concert all held during the Feast, Haddenham raises something like £200 each year for the County Hospital and it would be impossible to accomplish anything so great were it not for members of the Parade and Gala Committee and the residents in general. When an agricultural village like Haddenham average two shillings per head of its population in one big collective effort, then not only can it feel proud of what it has done for a needy institution, but it can be set to set an example to other places. 24 06 20ES

Witchford garden fete for church. 24 06 20ES
Stretham fete opening photo. 24 06 20(3)ES

1924 06 21

Profound regret will be felt in Cambridge at the news of the tragic fate of Mr George Leigh Mallory in the Mount Everest Expedition. He won a scholarship at Magdalene and was very well known in the University as assistant secretary of the Local Lectures Syndicate.

Workhouse fire recalled, p6*

.

1924 06 23

A dispute which was caused by a puddle of water resulted in an assault case coming before Cambridge court. Mrs C- stated that Mrs P- threw some water down in front of her house in Clement Place, witness asked her to sweep it away, but she refused. Mrs P- then rushed at her and held her hands while Mrs S- hit her in the face. When Mrs P- let her hands go defendant struck her with a broom and caused blood to flow. She objected to the water because she had just scrubbed down the front of her house and children were paddling in it

1924 06 23

Some half-score useful horses were offered for sale at Cambridge's Midsummer Horse Fair. Included in the vehicles offered for sale was one Ford touring car – this strikes a progressive note – an attractive living waggon with rubber-tyred wheels, a pair-horse brake, a dog-cart and a governess cart were also offered, good prices being obtained for the majority

AAA championships, Abrahams, Woods, p4
Midsummer Fair, p4

1924 06 24

Photographers mecca, p3*
Moriarty death, p6
Cecil Sharpe death, p6
Saffron Walden boy sleeping workshop, p6

1924 06 25

Midsummer horse fair – car, p5*

1924 06 26

A meeting of Ely ratepayers to consider the proposed scheme of electricity was told that in some towns the Electricity Company made a practice of putting in a light into a small cottage where it would not be possible for the tenant to pay the current rate. The light was put in the living room at a standard rate of £1 per year. It meant that every house had a light and used it because it was cheaper than oil lamps. The engineer said the rate was 6d per week per 30 watt lamp.

1924 06 27

For the provision of an excellent ground the members of the recently-formed Haverhill Primitive Methodist Church Tennis Club are indebted to the generosity of Mr Edward Darking who has kindly placed capital accommodation at the disposal of the club in Greenfields. At the opening he spoke of the pleasure connected with such a pure and clean game as tennis. The two double courts were then occupied by clubs formed by the West End and Old Independent Churches who gave an exhibition display

Trumpington Street paving, p3
Ortona buses, p6

1924 06 27 ES

Middle Level outfall: the old sluice and the new at St Germans: photos. 24 06 27ES # c.29
Photographs illustrate the great improvement effected at the outfall of the Middle Level drainage system at St Germans. The upper picture show two sets of oak doors designed by Sir John Hawkshaw in 1878, each pair of doors weighing about 22 tons. In the second picture is seen the new semi-submerged Stoney sluice, the first of its kind constructed. It is all steel and was made by Messrs. Ransom and Rapier of Ipswich. This new sluice entirely dispenses with doors or gates and passes through 25% more water, which is a great advantage during flood periods. The new sluice is on the sea side of the outlet and operates vertically so that the water passes underneath and impinges on the mud deposit, thus helping to keep the out-fall clear. The upper portion is a fixed wall or bulkhead, built in reinforced concrete, and fitted with two small sluices or slackers taken off the old timber gates. This new type of sluice was designed by the Middle Level Engineer, Major R.G. Clark of March, the construction work being carried out under the his supervision by Middle Level workmen at a cost of somewhat less than half that of steel or timber doors or gates. 24 06 27ES

1924 06 28

Midsummer Fair

Library local and drama collection, p6

1924 06 28c

Cambridge men have become very prominent in the photographic world. Famous are the remarkable examples of colour photography produced by Mr F.J. Stoakley, and the fine examples of pictorial photography by D.J. Scott, Palmer Clarke and others, not forgetting the clever natural history studies by Mr W. Farren. Cambridge is also noted for its very large numbers of lady photographers.

1924 06 30

Jardwick rag & bone man, p3

1924 06 30c

As one of Thurston's traction engines was nearing Fenstanton the middle of the three trolleys it was drawing was noticed to be on fire. The flames quickly spread and the organ of the motor scenic railway, was soon well alight. As no water could be procured sand from the gravel pits was thrown over the fire but the flames proved too strong and the whole organ and the trolley upon which it was mounted completely collapsed. It is suggested the outbreak was due to a spark from the engine which found its way through the protecting wire gauze on top of the chimney.

July 1924 CDN & Ely Standard

1924 07 01c

It was alleged that because a Milton smallholder did not have a fried egg with his breakfast of fried bacon, fried onions and milk sop he assaulted his wife, striking her with his cap, a frying pan, and his hand. The magistrates, after a lengthy hearing, dismissed the case and gave both parties some excellent advice and warned them not to appear at Court again.

1924 07 01

Abbey United Football Club's record for the first three seasons of its existence is one of which they are justifiably proud. After winning Div.III and Div.II of the Cambs League in successive seasons, the club finished last season runners-up to St Ives in Div.I and failed to do the "hat trick" by a single point

Police presentation, p5

Swaffham Prior parents strike, 6

8 o'clock closing, p6

Workhouse refusal, p6

1924 07 03

New infirmary building, p5

1924 07 04

Ely magistrates were occupied for some considerable time when an assault alleged to have taken place on a train came before them. The complainant, a poultry dealer, said he entered the restaurant car and asked for salmon. The attendant came back and said "The chef says you cannot have the salmon, as we may eat it for dinner". He was offered Welsh rarebit but did not know what that meant. This seemed to annoy the steward who struck him under the chin. Another poultry dealer said that some of the waiters were saucy sometimes, but she always put them in their place.

Linton vagrants, p5*

1924 07 04 ES

Lena Lastik hygienic underwear: advert. 24 07 04ES

Stretham: sale of pasture and pair brick-built, partly thatched cottages Brook Lane bought by George Driver, also land Grunty Fen. 24 07 04(2)ES

George Driver purchased for £150, a pair of brick-built partly thatched and partly tiled cottages with outbuildings and a large garden in front and rear in Brook's Lane. One of these cottages was until recently occupied by the late Miss. A. M. Blinch and the other was rented by Mr. John Taylor. The property was sold under the will Miss Blinch, deceased. 24 07 04ES

As one of the traction engines belonging to Mr. Harry Thurston was nearing Fenstanton on the way to St Ives, the middle one of the three trailers it was drawing was noticed to be on fire. The flames assisted by a stiff breeze quickly spread and the organ of the motor scenic railway, which was on the trolley, was soon well alight. The Fire Brigade soon arrived but no water could be procured and sand from a gravel pit was thrown over the fire. Despite these efforts the fire proved too strong, and in less than half-an-hour the whole organ and the trolley upon which it was mounted had completely collapsed. It is suggested that the outbreak was due to a spark from the engine which found its way through the protecting piece of wire gauze on top of the chimney and set fire to the tarpaulin cover over the organ. 24 07 04 ES

1924 07 05c

The Chief Constable reported that during the last quarter 40 indictable crimes were reported for which 18 persons (one female) were charged. Of these four were discharged, one imprisoned, one whipped, six fined, three bound over, one committed to industrial school and two committed for trial. 1,245 vagrants were relieved. At Linton certain action had been taken to make it a place that tramps had no wish to go – and the result was that neighbouring workhouses had an undue number of tramps on their books.

1924 07 05

Building dispute, p5

Whippet racing, p5

George Mallory, p6

1924 07 07

Builders strike, p5&

Harlton police request, p6

1924 07 08

The quality of the entertainment presented by the People's Theatre, East Rd, Cambridge, by Mr James Weight is, with occasional lapses, "getting better and better". Messrs Harvey and Taylor's "Boom" company provides enough laughter in the two hours' programme to make even "Dismal Jimmy" unbend. Miss Dorothy Owen, is a charming soubrette with a speciality as a clever child mimic, and Will Osborne, a light comedian, is no stranger to Cambridge. He did much concert work on behalf of Addenbrooke's Hospital in the war days 24 07 08

Royal visit Papworth, p5

Newmarket building strike, p5

1924 07 09

Papworth royalty filmed by Pointer, Victoria Cinema, p5

1924 07 11

Within the space of a quarter of an hour three casualties were admitted to Addenbrooke's Hospital last night. The first was Mr Sidney Fuller of the Toll House, Beck Row. He was loading a truck on a light railway when it tipped and fell on him. While at the Conservative fete at Madingley Mrs Eliza Armitage slipped and broke her right leg and Jack Everitt of Cheveley Hall (3) was conveyed for treatment of a broken leg sustained by falling on a heap of stones

1924 07 11

King's Meadow and Fellow's Garden made an ideal setting for such a gay function as the Cambridge Pageant and Gala held there yesterday. The chief attraction was the pageant depicting Stourbridge Fair in 1450, a brilliant affair for which the Women's Institutes were responsible. Over 500 performers took part. Among the gay throng were monks and nuns in the sober habits of their orders and an undergraduate or two. Morris dancers, jongleurs and mummers, with a dancing bear have a merry performance

Newmarket sports, p5*

1924 07 11 ES

Photos; W. Langham, Ely's oldest inhabitant; Ely garden fete & Boy Scouts. 24 07 11ES

1924 07 12

Cambridge is shortly to lose a rendezvous which has become very popular in the years succeeding the war. I refer to the "Dug-Out" which, with the Black Swan public house next door (in Guildhall Place) has been sold to the University Catholic Association. It is their intention to transform the premises into a centre for Roman Catholic undergraduates

1924 07 15c

Matters appear to be practically at a standstill in connection with the local building dispute. Meetings of each side are being held but any possibility of a joint meeting seems as far away as it was a week ago when the strike began. A demonstration organised by the building trades operatives and the Cambridge Labour Party was held on Parker's Piece

1924 07 14

About 380 spend a very enjoyable evening in the picturesque grounds of "Primrose Croft", Primrose St, Cambridge when a very successful al fresco open-air dance was held there, Sewell's orchestra providing the music. The grounds ere prettily illuminated with fairy lamps, Chinese lanterns and the like, and every provision was made for the comfort of the dancers. The lighting scheme has been considerably improved. The next dance will take place on Wednesday

Student demonstration, p3*

Death Professor Marshall, p3

Two Haverhills, p4

1924 07 16

Albert Sory told Saffron Walden magistrates that he lived in a railway carriage bungalow with his invalid mother at Arkesden. He was awaken by a noise outside and saw defendant tear down the fence and throw the gate at the bungalow and then he came along with a stick and smashed eight panes of glass. P.C. Butcher said defendant told him he did it because the bricks on which the bungalow had been built belonged to him, and he would have them. He "would either burn the place down or pull it over"

1924 07 17

Anxious to help their fund for the provision of a new Sunday schoolroom the Wesleyans of Witcham rose to the occasion when a garden fete took place in the Hall Gardens. Mrs McFall said Sunday schools of the present time were unlike those of years ago, when the younger children were taught in cellars beneath the churches. Little children looked to their teachers and they should set a good example by leading pure and holy lives

1924 07 17

A new allotment society was formed in Cambridge at a meeting of applicants for land in the Vinery road allotments. Mr Newman said this particular land had been allocated for allotments under the Town Planning Act and the 11½ acres would be allotments for ever. (Applause). It was to be hoped they would be made to look very beautiful and that uniform fencing would be erected. The Central Allotments Council hoped to eventually take the whole of the allotments from the Town Council and would be able to run them much better.

1924 07 18

The Cambs Horticultural Society are deeply to be commiserated with upon the continued bad luck in the matter of weather, which permanently dogs their footsteps. It would indeed be a rare and welcome occasion is they were one day to chance upon a fine afternoon and evening for their annual show; but one fears that some of the members might not survive the shock.

1924 07 18 ES

Gypsy Smith visits Shippea Hill. 24 07 18&(2)ES

William Gimbert of Sutton sued a Willingham dairyman over the price for milk supplies. He had supplied certain quantities of milk since 1923. It had been agreed that he would bring the milk a stipulated distance along the bank. The road was closed to the public and the dairyman sent his horse down for it. But the dairyman said he had a horse killed and later broke the back axle of his motor car. He then said told Gimbert he could not collect the milk at the price agreed as the National Federation of Dairymen had stopped him five per cent on all milk he had sent to London. Other farmers had accepted the reduction, but the farmer said he had not agreed to a reduced price for his milk. 24 07 18ES

The Singer Sewing Machine Company applied for an ejectment order against a former employee. He had become sales manager and part of the terms were that he would reside upon the premises, a shop with residential portion above in Fore Hill, Ely. The replacement manager and his wife were having to live in lodgings. He said he would be pleased to give up possession if he could get another house. He had had his name down for a Council house since February. But the Singer Company had a right to the place where he lived and an order for possession was made. 24 07 18ES

At the Royal Agricultural Show Messrs Telford of Glasgow demonstrated the possibility of employing windmills for electric lighting purposes. The windmill is of the usual multivane type on a light steel tower or mast supported by guys. The 'Aiolite Wind Turbine' has a weatherproof dynamo at the top of the tower, driven through gearing. It can develop 18 kw in a 20 m.p.h. breeze. In a favourable situation it would generate 24,000 kw.h per annum. The price for a 50ft wheel and dynamo on a 70ft tower with batteries would be £1,600. It is evident that even with a liberal allowance for interest and depreciation the cost of electricity would be far less than the average paid by town consumers. 24 07 18ES

1924 07 21

A sad story of how an old employee of the University and Town Gas Company, bravely endeavouring to carry on with his work, although not in a fit state to do so, died practically "in harness", dropping dead in Huntingdon road was told at the inquest on the body of a man aged 59. Witness said deceased complained of his heart and said he could not help with the push-cart. Dr Apthorpe Webb said the only wonder was that he was able to do any work at all in the condition he was in.

1924 07 22

The large body of photographers from the Royal Photographic Society who visited Cambridge recently were much impressed by some very artistic coloured portraits in the window of J. Palmer Clarke's establishment in Post Office Terrace. They are something quite new, and of a very high artistic quality, as nearly like oil paintings as camera portraits are likely to be made. The method of colouring is the personal work of Mr C.E. Goodrich

1924 07 24

A rule has been established that all jockeys riding in steeplechases must wear a "Safety First" crash helmet. Congratulations are due to the enterprising Cambridge firm of Messrs Herbert Robinson who specialise in the production of "crash helmets" for the motor racing enthusiast. Realising the steeple chasing jockey was running the risk of losing his life they once again "got down to it" and have now been appointed sole suppliers of their own patent helmets to the National Hunt Committee

1924 07 25 ES

Air Ministry apply to compulsory take over land near Ely railway station. It had spent £51,000 in erecting buildings on the land and the application should be granted so they might dispose of it at best advantage. But the land was not requisitioned and the War Office undertook to hand over the land, properly reinstated, at the termination of the war. It was agreed the War Office should have three months extension to reinstate the land. Among the works carried out at the aerodrome were the erection of 20 large buildings, the installation of electrical plant, self-contained sewerage system, tar macadam roads, railway sidings (these alone costing £6,000). It was fenny land and 12 inches of the surface soil was removed, and the level was made up with that thickness of concrete. The buildings stand on concrete and brick piers let into the land about six feet. 24 06 25ES

1924 07 28c

After a good deal of discussion the County Council agreed that the salary of Mr H. Morris, the Education Secretary be increased to £800 per annum. In the absence of the Chairman of the Education Committee (Coun. H.W. Hurrell), Coun. Fordham said that if they treasured Mr Morris fairly, he thought they would be able to retain his services for a good many years. He had been offered another much better post, but preferred to remain in Cambs.

1924 07 26

When the list of Cambridgeshire men who fell in the war was being compiled for the Memorial Chapel in Ely Cathedral there were many expressions of regret that the Borough itself had no official record of names. Most of the parishes have their own lists but there is no complete list of Cambridge names other than the sheet published at a popular price by the C.D.N. some two or three years ago, and now to be seen in the Free Library. Now there is a proposal for the provision of a roll of names in the Guildhall

1924 07 26

In the early hours of the morning the sound of tramping feet, accompanied by singing and cheering in the vicinity of Tenison Road, Cambridge, indicated that the Cambs. Territorials were returning from camp. The fact that rain set in just as they were marching out of camp, soaking them to the skin before they entrained, and that they again encountered rain at Cambridge did not seem to dampen their enthusiasm in the least.

County council salaries, p5*

1924 07 28

Builders lock out, p3*

1924 07 29

Shotgrove manor, near Saffron Walden, with a history that goes back to the days before the Norman Conquest was sold for the owner, Lady Adele Meyer, and realised £44,000. The present mansion was built in the reign of Queen Anne. Besides the mansion, the estate, which extends to some 1,080 acres, includes several farms

Prof Horrox, p3

Sidney Street setting back, p4

1924 07 30

Ely Urban councillors reported they had inspected 18 cottages in Bray's land & Newnham Street. In every house they found that the windows fitted badly, let in rain, and were very draughty. The tenants complained that they were unable to keep their goods in the larders, owing to the windows being fitted with perforated zinc, that let in the dust. A letter was read, signed by 19 of the tenants, relative to a reduction of rents which were 9s a week for the parlour type and 7s per week for the non-parlour type

1924 07 30

For a considerable time past there had been a desire on the part of many residents to acquire a suitable site for the creation of an additional 18-hole golf course and recreation ground. After inspecting several sites one on the Babraham estate was offered on favourable terms, a site which James Braid, the famous professional, declared as eminently suitable. A capital of £10,000 is required for the erection of a club house and, later on, hard and grass tennis courts and bowling and putting greens will be added. It is proposed the house shall have a thatched roof to conform with other roofs in the locality

1924 07 31

The West Cambs Fruit Growers' Association inspected Mr Robert Stephenson's new cold storage premises and fruit plantations at Burwell Little Fen. It is divided into four cold chambers, a packing shed and engine room. A large Cutler grader is to be installed. The engine and plant for cooling include a big Blackstone oil engine and Petter oil engine. The stores will accommodate about 600 tons of fruit

Captain Cook divorce, p5

August 1924 CDN & Ely Standard

1924 08 01

The land problem has been one of the pressing anxieties of our country for many a long year, and to it has been added more recently the question of general unemployment. The jubilee presentation made by the employees of Messrs Chivers to the managing director, Mr John Chivers, is consequently of special interest, as being a tribute to one whose energy, enterprise and foresight have done so much for agriculture and manufacture. The firm now farms about 6,000 acres and gives employment to some 3,000 people in the factory and on the land. Where tens were employed, hundreds are now busy and happy and contented workers, many of them enjoying, and many of them qualifying for a stake in the business as co-partners.

Enclosing wash, p3

1924 08 02

Shippea Hill fire, p5

Folk dancing, p8

Advertising Cambridge, p6*

1924 08 04

Motor ambulance, p4

1924 08 05

A huge crowd witness Cambridge Mammoth Show events. The Rodeo displays, which were expected to be a great attraction, were disappointing. The only part of the programme that created any real enthusiasm were the steer riding, steer wrestling from an automobile and broncho riding. Montana

Bob, the world's champion steer rider was the chief performer. He had no easy task in overtaking the steer and even when he had done so he had considerable difficulty in bringing it to the ground. In doing so the steer trod on his arm but he was in sufficiently good form to ride the bucking broncho a few minutes afterwards

WEA 21st, p3*

1924 08 06

A sturgeon which was caught in Hemingford Grey Mill pit was the subject of interest to a number of spectators at the MacFisheries depot in Petty Cury, Cambridge. It is understood to be the largest fish that has been caught in the locality for some years past. It weighed 185 lbs, was 8ft ½ inch in length, measured 38 inches round the girth and was 19 inches across the tail. It is thought the fish reached so high up the river owing to the recent floods. The tail, fins and certain parts of the intestines were removed to the Zoological Laboratories and portions of the flesh and skin will be returned to Hemingford Grey

Struck by lightning, Eversden, p3

1924 08 07

References to the building strike was made at Cambridge Trades Council and Labour party showing that the strikers were prepared to continue the fight. They had got 1,200 operatives on the streets and there were as solid today as on the day they came out. They had not had a bricklayer or carpenter "ratting". This was the fifth week of the strike and they were not afraid if they had to continue for 20 weeks. They were going to back up the Executive and were going to win

Stone age discovery, p3

1924 08 08

Folk dance – Morris, p6*

1924 08 08 ES

Shippea Hill fire: general view of the premises after the fire: photo. 24 08 08ES

Sir Fred Hiam gives four cottages to Enham (Hants) settlement for treatment of disabled ex-servicemen. 24 08 08(2)ES

1924 08 09

A message broadcast from 2LO last night stated that the 16-year-old son of the Rev Dawson Bolton of Haddenham, known as "Sonny", is missing. His height is five feet and he has dark hair with scar under right eye. Information should be sent to the Ely police, through Scotland Yard

Lady Mayor, p6

1924 08 11

Folk dances, p8

1924 08 12

After extensive alterations and repairs the Rendezvous cinema, Cambridge, which will now be known as the New Rendezvous, was reopened. Considerable improvement have been made in the appearance of the interior and the seating is now most commodious. At the head of a long and attractive programme is "The Cabaret Dancer" featuring Rudolph Valentino and Mae Murray. The film is good entertainment but one looks for a little more acting, especially on the part of Valentino who, as the lover, really fails to impress

Ely band concert, p3

1924 08 13

Proposed golf club, p4

1924 08 14

Linton court motor bikes, p5

Burwell flooding, p6

1924 08 15 ES

Manea and Welney District new up-to-date pumping station opened replacing beam engine installed in 1842: photo feature. 24 08 15ES

Stretham: motor cycle accident. 24 08 15(2)ES

1924 08 16

There has been quite a fluttering in the political dovecotes at the nomination of a lady as Mayor of Cambridge. There are some anti-feminists who cannot bear the idea of a woman taking any prominent part in public life. It has been suggested that if the Liberals were determined to have a woman Mayor they should have chosen Mrs Keynes, but one can imagine the outcry if an attempt had been made to bring her back to the Council by way of the Mayoral chair

1924 08 16

Here is a piece of information that will interest those of an inquiring turn of mind. The Cambridge Public Free Library is now on the telephone and the Borough Librarian, Mr W.A. Fenton invites inquiries by 'phone on any subject. The idea is to place the whole resources of the library at the disposal of any person seeking information by phone - in fact to set up an Information Bureau

1924 08 18

A new telephone call office has been opened at Bartlow. The fee for the use of the call office, including communication with any exchange within a radius of five miles will be 2d. and it will be possible to communicate with any exchange in the United Kingdom upon payment of the call office fee, plus the appropriate trunk fee. For instance the total cost for a three minutes' conversation with a subscriber at Cambridge will be 6d and at London 1s.8d.

1924 08 19

Swimming club, p4

1924 08 20

Robert Fuller told Newmarket court that he was an agricultural labourer. He was working with James Jaggard on the Ness road, Burwell for the County Council when defendant rode up on his pedal bicycle and called them two lazy devils. He replied "If I am lazy, you must be lazy as well" whereupon defendant threw his bicycle on the ground and struck him. Defendant said he was sitting in his front room having breakfast when he saw these two men on the road doing nothing. He told them "you are wasting the ratepayers' money. I could do more after tea that you are doing". He was a substantial farmer and annoyed to see the men wasting their time. When he thought Fuller was going to strike him with a shovel he struck to protect himself. He was fined £1

Mrs Charles Lucas death, p5

1924 08 22

A dispute over the sale of a grocer's and baker's business at Duxford led to a long hearing at Cambridge County Court. Albert Andrews, The Stores, Duxford said he had had the business for six years, and desired to get rid of it, on the ground of ill-health. Defendant looked over the premises and offered him £175 for the stock and goodwill. His furniture came to the house and defendant used to come into the shop, but did not say he was dissatisfied with anything. On June 4th defendant had sent a letter and refused to complete the purchase as there was no permanent right of way to get to the back of the house and the warehouse.

1924 08 22

Much interest centred in the band concert and sports meeting held on the Vinery Road Recreation Ground, Romsey Town, Cambridge. The band contest attracted five entries – March Railway Silver Prize Band, Manea Silver Prize Band, Royston Town S.P.B., Soham Comrades' S.P.B. and Letchworth Town S.P.B. There were two contests, a march selection, won by Royston, and a test piece when only four points separated the last three bands, the winners being Soham.

Perils of stableman, p5

1924 08 22 ES

Long-lived family: Smith of Ely, Soham, Lt Downham, formerly publicans. 24 08 22ES

Anti-aircraft gun left in St Mary's Street, Ely, with muzzle pointing skyward after wheel comes off lorry. 24 08 22(2)ES

Bonshaker on which Mr Taylor cycled from Soham to London: photo. 24 08 22(3)ES

1924 08 23

Sir – Last night on leaving the Theatre I came up Corn Exchange Street & Guildhall Street. There was not a street lamp alight. Park Terrace, admittedly a narrow and fairly dangerous corner was worse than being in a wood in the country. Many of the by-street lamps are not lit at all. It gets dark now soon after 8.30. Have we to be in by then? Cambridge is being advertised as a holiday centre. Do people on holiday have to be in by 9 o'clock, and not go to any place of amusement – 'One who is some time out after dark'

1924 08 25

Cambridge building trade operatives decided to return to work tomorrow. Their grievance was that Cambridge should be graded as a 1s. 6d. town and not 1s. 5d. They viewed with dissatisfaction the result of the settlement of the national building trades dispute as it affects Cambridge and are returning to work only under protest and in expectation for regrading to be considered in a sympathetic manner

1924 08 26

Mr S.A. Barfield, town crier of Billericay, Essex, has resigned and has been presented with the bell he used for 40 years. A disconsolate resident once offered, through him, a pork pie for the safe return of "a fair-haired girl about 30". Another notice he was asked to cry read: "Lost, strayed, or run away: a short stout woman, supposed to have run away with the lodger. Anyone who finds her and brings her back will be well rewarded for their trouble"

1924 08 27

The Ely Urban District surveyor reported he was called by Atkin, the sewerman, who said that the flap at the sewage works had been let down by boys and that the whole of the town sewage was being held up along the low level. It was impossible to open the flap against the water and he had an opening or grip cut across the river bank from the main sewers in the grass yard, to let the water escape into the river. There were four inches of sewage and water in the bottom rooms of some of the houses. He also reported that the conveniences on the market place were completed satisfactorily and the keys were in his possession

1924 08 27

Concerning the parking of motor cars on Ely Market Hill at night the police have no objection provided no obstruction was caused. On rare occasions a large lorry or two came into the town late at night and was placed by the side of the Corn Exchange. They always left early next morning. In the case of all cars and other vehicles left on the hill, which were likely to be a danger to pedestrians the drivers were requested to move them at once.

Swiss laundry fire, p5

Shippea Hill fire, p6

1924 08 28

Haddenham was full of excitement when a crowd of about 250 residents turned out and resented the appearance of an auctioneer who had come to conduct a sale under duress for Ouse Drainage Board rates. The auctioneer made preparations to commence the sale. Then things began to get lively, and ancient eggs made their appearance and amid roars of laughter the auctioneer stood like a hero spattered with yolks of many hues. They came from all directions and showered all over him. Through all the auctioneer tried to carry on. There was a plentiful supply of "ammunition and many of the eggs made their mark on people who did not expect them

1924 08 28

The Medical Officer told Newmarket rural council that numerous wells at Soham had been found to be polluted with sewage and unfit for drinking purposes. "At present I have a list of 41 wells all of which have been condemned. As long as these wells are available to the public they will be considered as a potential source of danger. If the council take no action they are accepting a grave responsibility as any may be the starting point of an extensive epidemic of water-borne diseases"

1924 08 29

Narrow escape, p3

1924 08 29 ES

Alice Stittle of Soham travels to Germany on the new air service: account of trip. 24 08 29ES

Ouse Drainage rate auction at Hillrow, Haddenham – pandemonium & protest 24 08 29(2)(3)ES.

Marconi Group to erect factories near Littleport to obtain world's finest carbon from fen peat. 24 08 29(2)ES

Sugar Beet factory to be erected in Littleport district. 24 08 29(2)ES

P.c. Waghorn to leave Ely for Mepal. 24 08 29(2)ES

1924 08 30

A notable Newmarket figure has passed away. Mr Robert Rodrigo served an apprenticeship in the stable of the late Mr Tom Jennings and about 1870 became a trainer at Middleton Cottage with a string of sixteen racehorses. He became the Newmarket correspondent of "The Sportsman", "The Sporting Life" and "The Sporting Chronicle". He was a sound judge of horses and of men & his turf career was as successful as it was honourable

Duxford air crash, p3

September 1924 CDN & Ely Standard

1924 09 01

Under the auspices of the Haverhill Motor Ambulance Fund provision has been made for removal of patients to Addenbrooke's Hospital by means of a motor lorry that has been adapted as an ambulance, this having been equipped with a stretcher secured in position by springs. Circumstances have arisen that have made it impossible to for this arrangement to be continued. There were two alternatives, the purchase of a new ambulance at a cost of £160 or the possibility that one might be obtained on loan from the Home Service Ambulance organisation.

Brighter buses, p4

1924 09 02

Florrie Forde at New Theatre, p3

1924 09 03

Sugar Beet Ely (& 4th p6)
Bourn bells, p4

1924 09 04

In accordance with the age-old custom the Fair of Stourbridge was official proclaimed by the Mayor. Also in accordance with custom, within recent years at any rate, there was no outward signs of a fair. The spectators consisted of little knots of "idle persons" but far from being ordered to depart their presence was encouraged by showers of golden-coloured coins thrown by the Mayor

Mobilising for peace, p5
Petrol prices down, p5

1924 09 05 ES

Death of C.S. Elworthy, auctioneer & Estate Agent – account of career. 24 09 05&(2)ES
Charles Stanbrough Elworthy, of the well-known Wisbech and Upwell firm of auctioneers & estate agents, was born in Ireland. He came to Upwell as a child where his father started as builder and contractor to which he later added the occupation of farmer and auctioneer. Charles was entrusted with the responsibility of managing the building and contracting in the course of which he built extensively in the district, including many of the buildings on the Duke of Bedford's estate at Thorney, which he had in after years to deal with in a very difficult manner, being one of the valuers his Lordship chose to carry through the transactions with his tenants when he disposed of the estate, Other important contracts were the erection of bridges and drainage improvements in the locality. As time advanced. Mr. Elworthy relinquished this department and it was transferred under the name of Elworthy and Company to Messrs J.A. Clarke and James Bridgefoot, the head remaining in as a virtual sleeping partner.

He farmed a considerable quantity of land for a time and gained experience which was to become an enormous asset when his business of auctioneer value and land agent grew to considerable dimensions. His judgement was always sound and while he sold the land in this district three times over, he had made himself familiar with all the intricacies of detail that must necessarily be dealt with in this class of business.

To hark back to the days when Mr. Elworthy was a young auctioneer is to enter a period which the conditions of land ownership were vastly different from what they are today in this part of England - when large farms and estates existed, and tenant farming was more the rule than the exception. Through death and various other reasons, land began to come rapidly into the market and it was Mr. Elworthy's firm that was called upon to offer the various properties to the public. In the years 1916 to 1919 some 3,500 acres came under the hammer, and well over a quarter of a million pounds were obtained for them with the average being something like £100 pounds per acre (including buildings). There were three or four distinct periods when land came into the market heavily. The first unloading was due to the agricultural depression of 30 years ago. Then on account of the extension of fruit growing and potato growing here, and the eagerness that was exhibited by all and sundry to secure land sent prices up to hitherto unheard of heights. Week after week at the Rose and Crown Hotel, or the Selwyn Hall records kept being broken, and Charlie Elworthy, as he was known, was looked upon as much as a magician, as an auctioneer. In 1908, when he put up the estate of the late Mr E.H. Jackson some characteristically high prices were realised.

The year 1919 was his busiest and his principal sales embraced close on 5,000 acres with the Isle of Ely County Council, purchasing 304 acres from the late Lord Peckover for small holdings. He never gambled on land or inflated values on paper and was always guided by the intrinsic worth of the properties rather than the probability of a special value by an abundance of anxious would-be purchasers

Michaelmas sales of live and dead farming stock were a distinct feature the firm's activities and at weekly auctions in the Cattle Market he had a large clientele.

Of late, it was obvious that the strenuousness of his life had begun to tell upon him, and it was to be relieved of business cares and anxieties that he took on as partner in the firm. Mr Donald F. Grounds, the well-known auctioneers of March, and altered the style to Elworthy and Grounds. 24 09 05&(2)ES

William Briston of Tydd Fen pleaded guilty to not sending his son to school. The attendance officer said he called at Leverington Gorefield School and found the boy absent and the head teacher informed him he had been absent on Tuesday and Wednesday. He saw the lady tying and shocking corn with his mother. She said she was employing the boy as she was on piece work. He went to school in the afternoon. She knew similar cases. One boy was away three weeks. 24 09 05ES

1924 08 08

Rodeo fiasco, Jersey, p5

1924 09 09

My fiancée said she would like a photograph of me. I was shown into a room that appeared to be an artist's studio and the artist himself appeared and produced a camera from somewhere. The man had the effrontery to treat his business as though it were an art. He shifted a blind or two in the glass roof, put a few deft folds into a velvet curtain at one side of me and returned to his instrument. I was about to adjust my features to the desired expression when I heard something click. I looked up and saw the idiot had actually exposed a plate.

1924 09 09

Mr Ernest Gates, whose munificent gift of £33,000 to complete the endowment of a School of Pathology at Cambridge University was announced last week, is one of the magnates of the Yorkshire wool industry, who do big things in a big way and employ their ample financial resources lavishly for beneficial purposes. His only son is now at Corpus Christi College.

1924 09 09

This week sees the close of the variety season at the New Theatre. There have been some good shows, which have been justly popular. In fact the varieties, as a whole, have proved so attractive to Cambridge people that many have expressed a desire to have the season extended for another two or three weeks. A great comedian is Will Fyffe. To hear this star of the Alhambra and Palladium is to be reduced to a state of collapse by the laughter his wit produces. He is a comedian with a future – and a Scotsman at that.

Newmarket Road – Heath Lodge paddocks, p5

1924 09 10

At a meeting of the Hornchurch parish council a communication from the Air Ministry was laid seeking permission to divert certain footpaths which cross the site they have acquired for the erection of a large aerodrome capable of accommodating at least 500 aeroplanes. The aerodrome, midway between London & the East Coast is to be part of a scheme for the aerial defence of London. During the war the site was used as a temporary aerodrome and pilots stationed there brought down the first four Zeppelins

C.H. Evelyn-White, death of son, p5

1924 09 11

During the restoration of the ancient church of Abington Pigotts, many interesting features have been discovered. The north door is original and bears the marks of the bullets of the Civil War period. A dignified and well-proportioned west arch, which has been bricked up for over two centuries, has been opened out. The tower has almost been rebuilt to save it from collapse. The costs have been heavy and the village consists of only three farms and 30 labourers' cottages.

Apple grading station, Cottenham, p5

1924 09 12 ES

Ely Sugar Beet Factory to be built. 24 09 12&(2)ES

The erection of a large sugar beet factory at Ely is now assured. Contracts have been entered into with farmers for the growing of a sufficient acreage of beet to warrant the Company in proceeding with the scheme. This will be an industrial enterprise which will be an invaluable acquisition to the agriculture in the district. Sir Fred Hiam, Mr J.P. van Rossum, Dt A. Wijnberg and Dr van Lodon have been negotiating a site for the purpose of erecting a beet sugar factory. There is no doubt about the driving power behind the All-British Beet Sugar Factory proposed near Littleport. Meetings will be arranged in practically every village. Not a stone will be left unturned to make the undertaking a success.

Stretham: death Charles Burnham, came 25 years ago. 24 09 12(3)ES

Sale of enclosure of four acres arable land in Brook Field and Meadow Field abutting west side of Stretham-Cambridge Road in occupation of Mr B. Parish offered for sale. Was withdrawn at £240

The precipitous Red Lion Lane, Sutton, at all times problematical to heavy traffic owing to its steepness, now presents a more precarious problem with its untaid road service which follows the recent laying of service pipes for water. A Threshing tackle belonging to Messrs Drake, was proceeding to George Clarke's farm at the bottom of the land. But before the half-way point the Jack-straw found a soft spot in the vicinity of the water pipes 24 09 12(3)ES

We have the heaviest Ouse drainage rate collected from any fen area in the first rate. Now before that is collected comes a demand for a second, which gains is the heaviest with a third likely to follow. Why should one section pay a full rate on the whole area while others pay only half? We in the Haddenham Level have spent large sums for keeping our drains, banks and confines in order and yet we have to pay for the neglect of the areas which have failed to do their drainage works. We know the Ouse Drainage Board are having to administer an unfair and unworkable Act but it would have been better for them to have refused to continue the work rather than incur heavy liabilities and try to meet the expenditure by high rates enforced by distraint warrants. Everyone must deplore the regrettable proceedings at sales under distress but it seems the only way to make our grievances felt. A & I Beldam, L.R. Edwards, Earith 24 09 12ES

An Ely motor cyclist was proceeding through Soham Fen when he skidded and his motor cycle and side car came to grief in a dyke. This dyke contained a lot of black mud and the front portions of the combination were well covered with it. The lamp was filled with it. Four burly farm hands helped him get the bicycle and side-car out of the dyke. One then commenced getting the mud out of the interior of the lamp and was bending down to his work. Another of the men, wondering whether the horn was in working order, squeezed the bulb. Instead of a 'toot toot' there came from the horn a stream of mud and water, which hit the individual attending to the map full in the face. His language nearly ignited the petrol in the tank! 24 09 13ES

An Ely resident, who had recently purchased a motor bicycle and knows very little about it was passing through Little Downham, his young son being on the carrier about nine o'clock at night. He had got half way through the dark and dreary wilds of Cannon Street when the motor bicycle jibbed. He was at his wit's end to know what was wrong when a dark figure loomed out of the night and in a cheery voice offered friendly advice, insisted that sh should clean the plus, offered to insert a new one and did all that any motorist stuck on the road could wish for. The motor cyclist could not see what manner of man this friend in need was until a motor headlight showed him to be a Church of England clergyman. His parishioners are fortunate in having so kindly a man to whom nothing is too much trouble, if he can assist anyone in difficulties. 24 09 12(2)

1924 09 13

Central School in Cornwell, p5

Policeman potatoes, p6

1924 09 16

Haverhill church parade, p3

Ely blaze, p5

Eagle tavern outing, p5

Haddenham Ouse drainage rates, p6

1924 09 17

Mr E.W. Edwards and a friend were walking along the Bank when suddenly he saw the vivid reflection of the Ely fire. He remarked that it was lucky that there had been no outbreak in Prickwillow, as there had been another fire that evening at Chettisham. He had hardly finished his sentence when his companion turned and said, "There is a fire in Prickwillow. Look at the blaze". Mr Edwards would not believe it until someone rushed up and informed him that his motor works were on fire. An effort was made to get the motor vans out of the blazing building but it was found impossible to open the locked double doors.

1924 09 17

George Mansfield gave evidence that he started a motor service from Burwell four years ago. He bought a new bus this year. At the Swan corner in Bottisham an Ortona bus passed him and pulled on the bend, making him wait or go bumping over the green. Eventually he passed by going on the path. The Ortona was in the habit of passing him and then going very slowly in front. Defendant said Mansfield started a bus to run in front of the Ortona and take away their customers and the firm would not stand that.

Barrington blacksmith death, p6

1924 09 18

A 14-year old Ely schoolboy was summoned for driving a one-ton motor lorry at Wicken without having a driver's licence (he being too young), and a lorry driver for the American Oil Company was charged with aiding and abetting him. PC Harrison, the Wicken constable stopped the lorry and the man replied, "I only let the boy drive a little way. This will get me the sack". The police considered it a dangerous practice to allow boys to practice driving motor vehicles on the road.

1924 09 19

Haddenham sale sequel, p3*

1924 09 19 ES

Ely Beet Sugar Factory building operations commence immediately. 24 09 19ES

Stages in sugar beet cultivation: photo feature. 24 09 19(2)ES

Farmers are signing applications to grow beet. 24 09 19(3)ES

Haddenham farmers in court following sale by Ouse Drainage Board of stack owned by Fred Peacock of Hillrow. 24 09 19(4)E; photo 24 09 26ES

Fire Home Farm, Ely & Prickwillow garages and workshop of K.W. Edwards. 24 09 19(4)(5)ES

Fatal accident Ely – nine-year-old boy killed by car driven by Mrs Jones of the Rectory, Coveney. 24 09 19(4)ES

Bamber & Sons nurserymen catering for commercial grower and amateur: feature. 24 09 19(6)(7)ES

1924 09 20

The installation of the first apple grading and packing station in Ely, which has now been completed at Cottenham, should prove a great boon to local fruit growers. It is rather unfortunate that the apple crop is so light this year but it is confidently expected enough apples will be produced to give the venture a good start. Each grower's apples will be graded separately and the one with the largest percentage of first grade will receive the best price. The impression that appears to exist that all growers would receive the same price, independent of grade, is entirely erroneous.

1924 09 20

Much interest was evinced in the wedding which took place at St Barnabas church, Cambridge. The bridegroom, PC Frederick Lilley is a member of the Borough Fire Brigade. A surprise awaited the bridal pair as they came from the church. On either side of the door were lined several firemen who with their axes formed an archway. But the greatest surprise was to find the Dennis fire engine gaily be-ribboned standing outside the church door. Both were hesitant to take their seats on the engine, but showers of confetti urged them on.

1924 09 20

Large prices were realised at the sale of the old established herd of pure-bred dairy shorthorns bred by Mr C.R. Adeane, which was held at Babraham Hall. This celebrated herd was established 28 years ago. The original object was the formation of a herd of dual purpose animals, combining constitution, milk and flesh. The cows are excellent milkers. The top price was 340 guineas, whilst another cow fetched 210 guineas. The average was a little over 81½ guineas apiece

1924 09 21

Surely the weather in 1924 harvest has given the farmers cause to grumble, when one sees the golden straw of the end of July now turned to what resembles old thatch. Very much has been stacked somehow, and when thrashed it was probably "sniff a bit". Crops generally are above the average and prices are better, but the gathering is so prolonged that farmers and labourers are tired to death of harvest work. Apples are almost a failure. Pears are fair, but almost unsaleable

Romsey Labour Club meet funding, p5

No more war demonstration, p6

1924 09 23

Milk plunger, p5

1924 09 24

Sidney Atkins lost some fowls from a hen house in a grass field on the Witcham Road, Mepal. The door was locked. It appeared to have been lifted off the ground. On the following morning PC Baker was passing the Ship Inn at Sutton, and looking over the wall saw some pullets which corresponded with those missing. Amid much struggling and crackling Atkins swore to each of the birds as he handed them to him out of a hamper.

1924 09 25

Plans for the erection of a wharf to the proposed sugar beet factory on the river near the Queen Adelaide Bridge at Ely were agreed. A second request was to fill up the disused Roswell Pits with the mud that settled out of the water with which the sugar beet would be washed. Instead of useless pits they would one day have some very good garden ground.

Rival boat builders, p6

1924 09 26

Purchase electricity supply, p5

1924 09 27

Nowadays telephones are accepted as belonging to the general order of thing that are, and even the proverbial small boy ceases to be curious. Businessmen alternately regard the telephone as an infernal nuisance or an indispensable instrument. Telephones were curiosities in 1878 when an undergraduate at Pembroke College fixed up two between his digs in St Andrew's street and a little summerhouse at the bottom of the garden. These were absolutely the first seen in Cambridge.

Haddenham filthy attack, p5

Labour meet Newmarket, p5

1924 09 29

Six Mile Bottom memorial, p5

1924 09 30

Sidney Stokes, gamekeeper of Pidley said he saw defendant come on the land with two dogs. They put up a rabbit which he shot and put in his pocket. Two more rabbits were put up, but he missed them. Defendant then looked round and saw him so he called out "It's no use, Tom. I know you. Witness asked him for the rabbit in his pocket and defendant gave it him. He was fined 30s.

October 1924 CDN & Ely Standard

1924 10 01

Haddenham new drainage rate, p6

1924 10 02

Newmarket council discussed the erection of 12 non-parlour houses in The Rows. The Ministry would not approve them unless the fixed bath was placed in a bathroom, but they could make one by putting a partition in the scullery. Mr Challice preferred a brick copper to a gas one: "If a woman has a bit of rubbish she can burn it and keep the copper boiling. A gas copper is all very well for a lady who has a handkerchief and bit of chiffon to wash and sends the rest to Cambridge or elsewhere. But it is not the most economical for a heavy wash"

1924 10 02

When workmen arrived at a pair of council houses in the course of erection on Cambridge road, Lt Thetford, they found there had been intruders during the night who had helped themselves pretty freely to what they could find. Tools belonging to Mr Robert Rayner of Stretham and Mr Cornwell of Ely were missing. A considerable amount of timber, asbestos sheeting and other materials had been removed and a new door displaced from its hinges and taken also.

1924 10 03

Cambridge Town Football Club opened their season of dances at the Rendezvous. Full use was made of the new lighting effects that have been installed. There were some 200 present, dancing to music provided by Mr Percy Cowell. A very popular feature was a Paul Jones' dance; it will be remembered that these proved popular last year and there is no doubt that they create amusement. The organisers hope the dancing public will give them good support and further assist the club to pay off the debt on the Milton-road ground.

1924 10 03 ES

Ouse Drainage Board, cowardly attack on auctioneer at Haddenham, fenmen's imaginary grievances. The Ouse Drainage Board was in a state of chaos, not only regarding its financial position, but also because they had no knowledge of what the future would be, it was claimed.

People about the fen country seem to have an imaginary grievance and were refusing to pay a second rate, until the whole of the first had been collected. If they refrained from collecting any part of the second rate they would have to stop work which would cause a great loss of good money, even if they were lucky to avoid having the fen flooded.

People seem to have forgotten that the fen had suffered from numerous floods in recent years. It was the duty of the Board to prevent these very floods. They have been doing that work for the past four years as economically as they could. The Board started four years ago absolutely without funds; they had to buy an immense amount of costly stock before they could do any work. The Board had taken over from the Internal Drainage Authorities the whole of the cost of the banks. When people were paying the Ouse Board tax they were simply paying out of one pocket what otherwise they would have paid out of the other pocket. Men who tried deliberately to stop the work of the Board are simply cutting their own throats and flooding their own farms.

Mr Darby said they had a subcommittee of 14 members, only two or three turned up the meetings. But in a letter for non-attendance for Mr. H Weston of Northamptonshire explained that hundreds of acres in that area were underwater. The Board could not expect farmers to pay the rate under those conditions. In 1922 the hay crop was washed away. This year they could not get the crop in owing to the land being water.

Haddenham Ouse Drainage Ratepayers Protection Association

Haddenham and District Ouse Ratepayers Protection Association discussed the demands of the Ouse Drainage Board at a packed meeting in the Church Hall. They had been formed to support and uphold those ratepayers who could not pay the extravagant rate.

The previous day they had a bailiff at Haddenham who took a horse from an ex-service man and two horses were taken from a reaper. There were 1000's of men who were working from morning to night to earn a living who were worthy of consideration.

Sir Fred Hiam addressed the meeting. The land must be drained. They had always paid money for the upkeep and cleansing of the Old West River and the outlet to the sea. These rivers had to be kept open. They had been neglected for many years. There was a scheme in putting in a sluice at Lynn to stop the tides. That was an experiment. Why should they at Haddenham have to pay for experimental work at Lynn? Welmore Sluice was in a bad condition and if they were not careful they would have salt water all over the wash. They had to pay towards the repair because in time of flood they would save some of the fen. 24 10 03(3)(4)ES

1924 10 04

Violent barking by his dog around Mr John Cooke, a tailor, of Norfolk St., Cambridge, at an early hour in the morning, and finding his bedroom full of smoke, he made a thrilling escape from the building. Going to the window he shouted for help and a neighbour threw him a rope. He secured the rope to a window frame at the back of the room and then lowered himself to the ground

1924 10 04

The 1924-5 edition of Spalding's Directory for Cambridge shows progress has been made with the development of various building estates and we find for the first time the names of Hawthorn Way, Harvey Goodwin Avenue, Haig Road joining Chesterton and Cam Road, and Coleridge Road which is the name given by Jesus college to the new road between Cherryhinton road and Romsey Town.

Estate to crown, p5

1924 10 07

Dr Davis made an appeal in aid of the Ely Red Cross Massage Clinic, an institution to provide the poor with the benefits of massage and medical electricity. It had been found difficult for patients to attend Addenbrooke's Hospital for treatment and for the staff there to administer treatment owing to the ever increasing number of outpatients. It also saved time and expense and, in the case of a fracture or dislocation to the leg, a patient would have to forgo treatment altogether if it was not for this local institution. The clinic had had numerous cases of accidents and relied solely on local charity for its upkeep

Swaffham Prior sale, p3

1924 10 08

Two hundred children are in attendance four nights per week at the play centres at Barnwell Abbey and New Street schools. There the number attending exceed the accommodation and the staff, one woman had 98 children to look after & voluntary help was continually breaking down. Alderman Starr asked if they were taking children from parents who wanted to go to the pictures. The centres were established some years ago under voluntary control, the Education committee providing accommodation, light and heat.

1924 10 09

The ladies who braved the elements and flocked to the University Arms Hotel had a treat such as the feminine soul loves. The middle of the large dining room was empty except for a small dais. A band discoursed dance music, and to the strains of a waltz there floated into the room a vision of beauty in a delightful blue and silver frock, trimmed with fur. She was speedily followed by another in black crepe de chine and yet another in a straight simple afternoon dress. They all went through a set programme, pausing as they entered, posing gracefully and making various graceful movement to display the Babylonish garments, and finally vanished through the entrance. All this was done with a detached, almost mechanical air, for was it not a mannequin parade organised by Miss Poupard.

1924 10 09

A Stapleford grocer told the bankruptcy court that he had started a small business pushing a barrow round the surrounding villages selling groceries, with about £3 capital. He just managed to make a living and thought he was solvent. He opened a shop last February in the hope of extending the business but it proved a failure. An auctioneer made him an offer for the business which realised £7

Linton police – airman's wife, p5

1924 10 10

Abington Pigotts church reopening, p5

1924 10 10 ES

Stretham: W.I., Harvest Festival. 24 10 10(ES)

1924 10 13

Those who are interested in the possibilities of farm work in Australia will be pleased to learn that the Australian migration authorities will interview applicants under the assisted passage scheme at Cambridge employment exchange. The country has room for tens of thousands of men settlers. For the farm worker who seeks richer rewards for his labour this rich young country has a special interest. It offers the thrifty and industrious the way to farm ownership and independence

1924 10 13

Saffron Walden council adopted the recommendation of the Water Committee to make a charge of 5s. a year on all users of hose for washing cars or carriages, in addition to the present rate.

Election – Lucas Tooth, p5

1924 10 16

The new motor ambulance which is being purchased by public subscription at Haverhill was on view for several hours and inspected with interest by a large number. It is the latest single-stretcher model, with new type low Ford chassis. There are special shock absorbers fitted to all wheels, balloon tyres to the rear wheels & electric lighting throughout. A seat is provided for an attendant

1924 10 17

Holiday Snaps. Why don't you make lantern slides of your holiday snaps. You will be surprised what pleasure it will give the youngsters to see themselves on the screen. Call and ask us about it. The winter evenings are coming on. Get ready for them, and make the youngsters happy. W.F. Turner, the Camera House, Trinity St, Cambridge – advert

1924 10 17 ES

Electors ... our man is Henry Mond: front-page advert. 24 10 17ES

Thomas Cole, postmaster of Witchford, aged 82, with his new car – photo. 24 10 17(2)ES

Stretham:

R.H. porter, Akeman House granted patent for packing tea into boxes

Harvest Festival. 24 10 17(3)ES

Littleport Parish Council considered recommendations from the residents in the neighbourhood of Suspension Bridge, asking them to support the scheme for a new bridge over the Hundred-Foot River. It was decided to send a petition to the County Council on behalf of those residents, and the parish of Littleport. At the same time a recommendation was sent to the Rural District Council asking them to call attention to the sewerage which is allowed to enter the river, much to the annoyance of the residents along the river side. The water is used for domestic purposes as well as for watering stocks. 24 10 17(3)ES

1924 10 18

The Conservative candidate's meeting at Girton was marked by uproar. The rowdy element consisted chiefly of youths. About midway through Capt Briscoe's speech, Mr Thurlbourne, a prominent member of the Girton Labour Party entered the room and was greeted with great enthusiasm. He asked a number of questions but the answers were lost in the uproar

1924 10 18

The beginning of term finds King's college chapel out of action. A more dreary scene of ruin than the appearance of the choir could not be imagined. But it is only due to the insertion of hot water pipes and radiators underneath. Meanwhile the striking line of side chapels provides at once an altar and a church and thus has the unique experience of possessing the choir all to itself.

Babraham golf club, p5

1924 10 20

Noisy motor cycles, p3

Thanks for bike, p5

1924 10 21

The Cambridge Library committee proposes to transfer the local collection to a more easily accessible position. At the present time it is shelved on the gallery in the committee room and few people realise the wealth of material to be found. It is proposed to transfer all bound volumes to the shelves in general, but it would be fatal to allow unlimited access and it is suggested that frames be fitted with brass wire lattice. The whole collection requires to be classified so that readers may see at a glance the extent of material on any subject

1924 10 22

There was a large attendance at the election meeting at Gt Wilbraham, the schoolroom being filled. An unruly situation developed when Capt Briscoe attempted to leave, his exit being barred by a crowd of antagonists. With the aid of a police constable and a few supporters the candidate managed to reach his car and drove away amidst a derisive howl from the mob

Littleport fatal accident, p5 (inquest 25th p5)

1924 10 23

Sir – I see the Conservative press protest against the “rowdyism” at their meetings. This is the only way any audience can protest against statements which it knows to be travesties of the truth. I would like to know if Sir Douglas Newton approves of the actions of his “unofficial bodyguard”, that band of British Fascists of the aristocracy who frequent his meetings. Does he approve of them assaulting defensive women as happened at Romsey Town – G.H. Crouch

1924 10 24

Folk dance display – Morris, p5

1924 10 24 ES

Lucas-Tooth candidate: front-page advert. 24 10 24ES

Mond good MP: whole-page advert. 24 10 24(2)ES

1924 10 26

Barton Parish Council they repaired fences around the recreation ground to keep the cattle in but defendant chopped down the gatepost. Six months ago he had a trench dug to improve his drainage and consequently the recreation ground was getting very marshy, the grass had got very sodden and there was a very bad smell. They had had numerous complaints

Red men of Romsey, p6

1924 10 27

How a slight cut to the hand resulted in the death of a Doddington coalman was told to the Cambridge coroner. Some coal had fallen from a sack on to his hand and fingers. His wife did not bathe it because he was a man who just washed a cut and did not tie it up. He later complained on a pain up his arm and went to bed. A doctor said he had a poisoned arm. He died in Addenbrooke's Hospital of blood poisoning.

1924 10 29

The new Town Hall at St Ives was formally opened by the Mayor. The imposing building is in the centre of the Market place. Ald. Warren said that it was 50 years since the Borough was incorporated. He was pleased the council had never allowed politics or religion to divide them and he hoped they would continue to carry on the old traditions and not conduct their debates in any acrimonious manner.

1924 10 29

Polling opened quietly this morning. Almost every village East of Cambridge was prominently placarded with bills exhorting the electors to "Vote for Briscoe". In the course of three hours our representative encountered numerous motor cars displaying Capt Briscoe's colours and only met one solitary car bearing the Labour colours. In very few places was there any show of Labour placards but some of the younger generation sported the red emblem and shrilly shouted advice to "Vote for Garratt"

1924 10 29c

At Fulbourn a considerable increase in the number of early voters was reported. Capt Briscoe's colours and motors were well in evidence. At Balsham a cluster of children displayed scraps of red ribbons and shouted, "Vote for Garratt". A tramp was seen addressing a road sweeper near Abington and urging, with all the persuasion of his kind, the necessity for England to return a Labour government. In the course of his oratorical effort the 'gentleman of the road' beat the air with a bag containing his worldly possessions. Shelford and Stapleford as usual made a great show of the pink and white but near the centre of the village a red flag was conspicuously displayed by the roadside – on a tar burner

1924 10 30

County declaration – outside County Hall, p5

St Ives auctioneer death, p6

Princess Mary visits Tapestry works, p6

1924 10 31

Lauries new arcade, p7

November 1924 CDN & Ely Standard

1924 11 03

Sir – One evening a friend and myself decided to spend an hour at the Central Library. No sooner had we entered the building than the eyes of the watch-dog firmly covered us and continued to do so the whole of the time we were there. We took our seats and my friend took from his pocket one of his own newspapers and began to read it inaudibly. This was too much for the watchers who came forward and told him to replace the newspaper in his pocket, adding that newspapers and books bought in by the visitors were not allowed to be read in the library and writing was only allowed when copied from the papers and books there. – “Economy, impartiality and courtesy”

Tale of motor lorry, p3

Polling station humour, p4

1924 11 02

The first of a series of film displays with the object of educating public opinion of certain dread diseases was held in Newnham. Of all the dread diseases which devastated civilised countries to-day, venereal diseases were perhaps the most serious. A centre was established at Addenbrooke's where treatment was free and secret. Since 1917 the number of attendances was 11,905. The disease was so serious as to warrant the most vigorous propaganda. The responsibility of parents in the education of their children in sex matters ought not to be shirked.

Magnetic pillar, p5

1924 11 05

Four R.A.F. men had an exciting experience in an aeroplane crash at Barway. The Vickers Vimy developed engine trouble and a landing was made in a stubble field. For a score of yards the aeroplane ran along the ground at the rate of nearly 80 mph and all would have been well had not a four-foot dyke barred the way. The machine crashed into the opposite side of the dyke, its nose penetrating the earth. The impact caused the 'plane to swerve completely round and almost turn a somersault. Fortunately it rebounded on a even keel and the airmen were able to alight, only one sustaining slight injuries

1924 11 05

A feature of the concert given at St Paul's Institute was the debut of Mr Sydney Coulson's dance orchestra in Cambridge. The band comprises Mr Percy Stock (violin), Tom Boyce (saxophone & banjo), Harry Hunt, late of the New Theatre Orchestra (drums) and Mr Sydney Coulson (director) at the piano. With the dance season here the need for a good dance orchestra grows ever greater and there is no doubt that the Coulson band will be in great demand.

1924 11 06

The night of the 5th of November was clear and calm, and there was a bright moon to light the way of revellers – ideal conditions for a “rag”. So evidently thought a large crowd of undergraduates and townsmen that gathered on Cambridge Market Hill in hopes. Police stood around in little groups taking a giving chaff good humouredly with the crowd. Squibs and occasional small rockets broke the peace and were heralded by faint cheers and feminine shrieks if they happened to go off in the press. The first intimation of anything interesting was the sight of a small youth, pale and very troubled looking, marching up St Andrew's street, firmly held by a constabulary hand.

Chesterton tailor's affairs, p3

Wet season & last straw, p3

1924 11 07

Counc. Doggett said Coldham's Lane was a veritable slough lately and almost impassable. Its condition had got to such a pitch that one ratepayer proposed to sow it with potatoes. Mr Rowley said £100 of material had been put on the road and they were hoping to get a grant in future. There was an extraordinary amount of traffic on the lane. It was not right to spend this money just for the sake of a cement company. In the ordinary way there was no more traffic at Cherry Hinton than there was at Teversham

1924 11 07 ES

Aeroplane crash at Barway. 24 11 07ES

Four R.A.F. men had an exciting experience in an aeroplane crash at Barway. The Vickers Vimy developed engine trouble and a landing was made in a stubble field. For a score of yards the aeroplane ran along the ground at the rate of nearly 80 mph and all would have been well had not a four-foot dyke barred the way. The machine crashed into the opposite side of the dyke, its nose penetrating the earth. The impact caused the 'plane to swerve completely round and almost turn a somersault. Fortunately it rebounded on a even keel and the airmen were able to alight, only one sustaining slight injuries. One of the wheels had penetrated one of the lower planes while the observer seat was smashed in by the force of the impact. The propellers were damaged. Later in the day, a breakdown gang arrived and the aeroplane was afterwards dismantled and conveyed to RAF repair shops. The mechanics, numbering about 20, billeted themselves in the schools at byway during the night. 24 11 07ES

Musician's reminiscences: Dr Bates, organist of Norwich Cathedral, born March. 24 11 07(ES)

Dr. Bates, organist of Norwich Cathedral gave an interesting talk on March as he knew in his boyhood days, at the time he embarked upon his musical career. Those days there was only one church in March, the fine old Church of St. Wendreda. He used to go there to practice on the organ, trembling in the dark on winter evenings. He would never forget those practices, with one solitary candle in the huge place, and always a bat or to dashing against the light, threatening momentarily his being left in utter darkness. He had a great friend in the sexton, the old Mr. Fox.

Dr Bates voiced several humorous incidents in his early days at March and his first experience as a performer on the organ, which through the illness of the organist, bought him reward for all those terrible frights he had endured at his practices in the church. He then traced his career in Scotland and at Norwich 24 11 07(ES)

Guyhirn village hall opened. 24 11 07(2)(3)ES

Guyhirn is now furnished with a splendid parish hall available for the use of the inhabitants for all purposes of an educational business or social character. The promoters have managed to raise about half the total cost. The hall stands on a central site and is complete with dressing rooms and outhouses. The interior of the main building is lofty and well-lighted and will meet the ordinary needs of the village for a long time to come.

Mrs Peatling, who opened the Hall said she was interested in village wife and knew how a hall was needed. She would go back very dissatisfied with what they had got to put up with at Leverington. Guyhirn was really going ahead. They had a lovely war memorial, the finest she had seen. Then they had the new bridge.

Sir Hugh Lucas-Tooth, M.P., congratulated on them on the success. He had come from London that morning to be with them and had walked across the new bridge for the first time. He had been in several village halls but had not known one of them to carry the sound so well, it seemed most excellently designed, both roomy and comfortable.

The vicar said he a little afflicted with hardness of hearing, but noticed people in every part of the horn seem to hear without effort or straining. The Hall would add to the enjoyment of their social gatherings and concerts. They have not had to go to the big building firms. The men who put up the building the local builders, and they had satisfied everyone. They were more comfortable there than they had been in the school. And although the school was always placed at their disposal, they now began to wonder how they managed to put up with it and all its restrictions and disadvantages. There would be no distinction made to who should be users; it would be available for anyone willing to pay the hire the use of it 24 11 07(2)(3)ES

Picklock of the Fens, 17th-century pamphlet. 24 11 07(2)ES

In the British Museum there is a very rare pamphlet, which contains some strong arguments against the drainage of the fens in the 17th century with much uncomplimentary language about the Undertakers

The title page is 'The Picklock of the Old Fenne Project' and contains several speeches taken in shorthand at the committee for Lincolnshire Fens in the Exchequer Chamber. .

The Commissioners impanelled a jury who found that the level was not hurt fully surrounded.

Sir William Killagrew would not be advised but built a fair house on other folks' land and fortified it and furnished it with men, munitions and artillery, muskets, horsemen and pistols in a war-like manner and entertained French and Dutch. Yet the country would never yield possession but opposed Sir William, and the rest of the Undertaker's. The countrymen were imprisoned by warrants and some were wounded and offrighted with mastiff dogs. Many men were utterly undone and forced to subscribe and enter into bonds.

The Commissioners got upon Boston steeple and a judged all they saw was hurtfully surrounded. They might as well have got up Paul's Steeple, and adjudged all the meadows and marshes on both sides of the Thames to be hurtfully surrounded when they are overflown by land floods.

A petition was delivered to the king as though it had proceeded from the country. Sir Miles Sandes had many friends in court and the King was informed it was a glorious work for the public good. He was made to believe that the Isle of Ely was hurtfully, surrounded.

But when the king was hunting near Newmarket four local men acquainted him with all the cheats of the Undertakers who had claimed they had drained many acres that were never drowned. The King discovered all the Undertaker's fallacies and went to Parliament, describing them as a pack of thieves. The Parliament flung it out for a base cheating monopoly

The fens produce great stores of wool and lamb and large fat buttocks besides infinite quantities of butter and cheese and also breed great store of cattle and are stocked with horses, mares and colts. It sends fat beef to the market which affords hides and tallows, and for corn. The fodder we grow in summer feeds our cattle in the winter, which means we gather such quantities of dung that it enriches our upland and corn ground. Besides our fens relieves our neighbours, the uplanders, in a dry summer. Thousands of cattle besides our own are preserved, which would otherwise perish. Take away a third of our fens and you extinguish our rents in our communing houses and pastures, besides thousands of cottagers which have no right of communing must go a begging. Rape, cole seed and hemp is a Dutch commodity and but trash and trumpery ...

Some of the expressions used would be thought ill-mannered in modern controversy. 24 11 07(2)ES

1924 11 08

Cambridge undergraduates were busy today selling poppies. They were stationed in the centre of the town and in all the main thoroughfares leading thereto. Among their number were several very persistent in their efforts and "held-up" anybody – pedestrian, cyclist or motorist – who was not wearing a poppy. By way of pushing business a group of undergraduates hired a donkey and barrow, attired themselves as costers – complete with "pearlies" and other effects and went around the town rattling money boxes

1924 11 09

Cambridgeshire County Council adopted a commendation as to the construction of a bridge at Dimock's Cote. Ald Howard gave a history of what had taken place since September 1914 when the Ministry of Transport promised to pay two-thirds of the cost. In the minds of some people the bridge was not required. But Cambridge would benefit because congestion of traffic in the town would be relieved and in addition they would be opening up a very large area of valuable agricultural country. Coun. Taylor was convinced the idea was absurd. For one thing the road was too twisting for fast traffic. The bridge would need constant renewal and maintenance would cost thousands a year.

1924 11 10

Councillor Mrs Hartree was elected first lady mayor of the Borough of Cambridge. She accepted the honour as a representative of the women of Cambridge who desired to work side by side with the men in the service of their town. She had consulted some authorities, and some of the women, and it had been decided the best mode of addressing the Mayor would be "Mr Mayor" as usual. (Hear, hear and applause).

1924 11 10

Councillor Hurrell said they wanted to establish central schools in the county instead of sending children into Cambridge. It would be cheaper and give a much more effective education. Ald Jackson said it seemed to him that the idea of having a central school at Foxton would never come into being.

The main idea was to take the children from Shepreth and send them to Foxton, and the parents would not have it. The distance between the villages was a mile, the bigger children were able to walk that far. That was the main objection – they would be walking leather out all the time. The parents had a hard job to make ends meet without that extra expenditure on leather.

1924 11 11

An interesting and impressive Armistice Day service was held at Clare College. The service preceded the opening of a memorial building – and extension of the college – and the unveiling by the Chancellor of the University of the roll of honour of 198 men of Clare College who fell in the war. The building was designed by Sir Giles Gilbert Scott. The ceremony included a simple commemoration, which the College has undertaken to perpetuate. The deed requires that every year on 11th November the Fellows and undergraduates, properly gowned, should assemble and the Master deposit a wreath.

1924 11 11

The visit of Mr G.K. Chesterton to lecture on “The Superstitions of the Sceptic” attracted a large audience to the Guildhall. He began by saying that a rumour had gone round suggesting that the individual who would appear would not really be G.K. Chesterton, but somebody disguised as that notorious character. He continued: “Some of you may still entertain a suspicion that the figure you see is really that of a slim undergraduate disguised with pillow and portions of doormat, and so long as you don’t attempt to rush the platform and try to tear out the stuff, I am quite content you should remain under that impression” (Laughter)

1924 11 13

The deepest regret will be felt at the death of Mrs A.C. Steward, wife of the Master of Downing College. From its foundation in the dark days of 1915 she was the life and soul of the Cambridge Tipperary Club which did much to help and cheer the sorrow-stricken women of Cambridge during the anxious years of war-time, ever-ready to advise and console. When peace came they continued the club to be a centre of social enjoyment and of mutual improvement for all women without distinction of class, creed or political opinion

Live till 200, p3

1924 11 14

Compensation was approved in respect of six licensed houses, which have been closed. They were The King’s head, Cottenham, The Dolphin, Waterbeach, The Little Rose at Swavesey, The Coach and Horse, Linton, The Morning Star at Sawston & The Duke of Wellington in Cambridge, licensee Mr A.S. Scales where compensation was agreed at £1,000.

1924 11 14 ES

Abington Pigotts church restored. 24 11 14ES

The reopening and dedication of the tower of Abington Pigotts is an event that will long be remembered by those who live this small village. The church dates back to the another century and the foundations, walls and the gable coping of an 11th century church have been found during restoration. The tower, which was bordering on a state of collapse, had to be rebuilt. The huge cracks appearing in the walls have been stitched together, with reinforced concrete ‘stitches’. The foundations of the two eastern corners had given way and had to be replaced with new concrete, the subsistence being such that the eastern side of the tower was six to eight inches lower than the west. A new roof and weather vane have taken the place of the old dilapidated ones. A large quantity of new stonework has been inserted in the belfry windows and the whole bellements and coping renewed. A noble western arch has been opened out which had been hidden and bricked up for over 200 years and the western gallery has been removed. 24 11 14

Dimock’s Cite Bridge approved by County Council. 24 11 14ES

Motor-boat wedding Lee & Furness of Prickwillow – photos. 24 11 14(2)ES

Stretham:

Armistice service

Wedding Grace Baxter & Robert Stanley. 24 11 14(3)

1924 11 17

E.S. Montagu death, p3

1924 11 18

Massage scheme, p3

Mz Paddocks development, p5

1924 11 19

Little Barford, near St Neots, s village of 150 people in the heart of an agricultural district, has been selected as the site of a big new electrical undertaking. In this small village, at present devoted almost entirely to rural pursuits, it is intended to erect a large generating plant to supply electricity throughout an area of more than 1,600 square miles. The proposed station will cover about 43 acres and it is intended to erect houses for the workers in the neighbourhood

Bottisham vicar departs, p5

1924 11 20

Stretham school managers protest, p5

1924 11 21 ES

Ouse Drainage Board discuss scheme for improvement of lower Ouse. 24 11 21ES

Stretham managers protest against non-closure of school when scarlet fever. 24 11 21&(2)ES

The School Medical Officer reported that in many villages where a large portion of the people were poor they did not have enough sufficient money to give their children enough food. The children could go to the school clinics where they could get cod liver oil at reduced rates. Something should be done because the children affected we're not in a position to receive the education provided for them. 23 cases were spread over a large number of schools but this was a very small number of the 11,000 children attending. Suffering from malnutrition might not be from the effect of food exactly, but might be from heredity. And from the fact that a number of families were not healthy. Mr Payne said, as to the impossibility of some parents to secure good food there were a number of children on the borders of malnutrition.

There were still considerable epidemics in the northern and central districts. There were epidemics of scarlet fever at Guyhirn and measles at Tydd St Giles and Parson Drove, which was extending to Murrow. The Medical Officer did not agree with the idea of closing the schools at Parson Drove. But there were other villages adjoining and the epidemic would be all over the district if they did not close the school. It ought to have been closed before then.

Schools could be closed upon a certificate being issued. There had been an outbreak of measles at Whittlesey which became very bad Angle Bridge and the doctor had agreed to give a certificate for the closure of the school there for a fortnight.

At Stretham a special meeting had been called to discuss the outbreak of scarlet fever. The Medical Officer had found two children at school suffering from the effects of the disease and since that time, many parents have refused to send their children to school there. Managers had expressed their strong disapproval of the decision not to close the school and had decided to close the school from November 17 to December 1. But under the regulations the school must be open 400 times during the year unless there was a certificate closing it. The closure of the school for a week was agreed to. 24 11 21ES

Conveyance of children to Prickwillow School: 29 affected, roads very bad. 24 11 21(2)ES

Manea Band win cup Crystal Palace. 24 11 21(3)(4)ES

There were scenes of great enthusiasm at Manea when the Daily Mirror Cup won by the village band at the Crystal Palace contest was presented. The school room was crowded for a good programme of vocal and instrumental music. Not only was curiosity intense because the village band had won such a prize, but also because most had probably never seen a trophy, perhaps the most magnificent gained by any organisation in Cambridgeshire.

Mr Nuttall had conducted the main Manea Silver Prize Band to their greatest victory. Mr. Percy Setchfield the Band Master had devoted a lot of time in coaching the members at practices and after 21 years, he had obtained one of his highest aims. Individual members have practised and rehearsed together in unity. All could blow a tin whistle but it took accomplished players to win such a cup. What made the honour greater was that their band came from an agricultural district. They could show this country that they could produce something more than potatoes and carrots, they could produce a band which was now spoken of in all parts of England.

The band had supported all the efforts held in the village. When anyone needed help the band would parade the streets and play beautiful music. Doing their bit to help the one in need. They brighten Christmastide with their music. They will now experimenting with a junior band, a number of lads who could replenish the ranks of the band when wanted, and had ordered a number of less valuable instruments. 24 11 21(3)ES

Chettisham Station win 2nd prize Best-Kept railway station – photo. 24 11 21(5)ES

Professor A.M. Low, the inventor and scientist who opened the Wireless Exhibition at the White City predicted that the time will come when vision will be transmitted, as well as sound. That would reduce the need for travel when they wanted to see any land or anybody. Wireless represented the future of science and the most interesting discoveries were in the workshops of amateurs. Among the many novel inventions exhibited is a set designed for fixing to a man's or woman's hat, the wearer of which can listen in while walking about 24 11 21

Little Barford near St Neots, a village of 150 people in the heart of an agricultural district, has been selected as the site of a big new electrical undertaking. In the small village, at present devoted almost entirely to rural pursuits, it is intended to erect a large generating plant to supply electricity throughout the area of more than 1,600 square miles. This proposed station will cover about 43 acres on a site near the L.N.E.R. main line. It is intended to erect houses for the workers in the neighbourhood. 24 11 21(4)ES

A meeting of the Soham and District Ouse Drainage Board Ratepayers' Protection Association discussed the scheme for the dredging of the tidal river from the Outfall to Brownhill Staunch, which involved an expenditure of nearly one and a half million pounds. Criticism was made such a large expenditure and they agreed to send a letter of protest to a meeting of drainage authorities whose lands drain through Denver Sluice pointing out that the spending of such a large sum of money would place an intolerable burden on the fens and would at once render much of the land valueless. At the present time many of the fen districts are in a state of insolvency and are unable to borrow money for the purpose of improving their internal drainage system. Others are heavily in debt and only a very few in a good financial position. Soham Association regarded the impossibility of collecting the rate from the poorer fens, which would obviously mean that the money would have to be found from the richer areas with the result that practically the whole of the Ouse Board Area would become mortgaged to such an extent as to render it practically worthless. 24 11 21ES

1924 11 22

A deputation from the fire brigade attended Soham Parish Council. They reported that when the recent fire occurred at Mr Horley's shop instead of calling the firemen someone forced open the fire station door and took out the Minimax fire extinguishers, one of which was damaged, while another is missing. The standpipe was also removed from its place and put behind the engine. Had it been a large fire this would have caused delay. It was agreed that only the recognised members of the Fire Brigade have the right to open the fire station door

1924 11 22

The Isle of Ely County Council had been in communication with Norfolk in regard to the reconstruction, repair and maintenance of Welney suspension bridge, which was in a very bad state. Councillor Peake said "I always felt the bally bridge will go down when I am going over it". The bridge belonged to the Ouse Drainage Board and if nothing were done they would do temporary repairs and make the bridge fit for traffic for 600 years and the tolls would remain.

1924 11 24

The death occurred at his residence, Devonshire Road, Cambridge of Mr William Saint. Born at St Ives in 1851 he came to Cambridge and started business as a builder in Hooper Street. In 1888 he transferred to St Barnabas Road where the present works are situated and in 1918 it was turned into a limited company. A flourishing concern has now been built up, but the builders' strike in the early months of this year had a serious effect and gave him a great deal of worry & hastened his end

Police poor & needy fund, p6

1924 11 25

Sir – To my thinking there are, for a town the size of Cambridge, too many useless trees by half: trees that are neither useful nor ornamental. Take a walk along Grange Road and look at some of the expensive villas there being ruined by trees planted in the small space of ground around them, blocking out the air and harbouring all kinds of insects. Where can you take a walk and get a view of a glorious sunset or beautiful landscape. Your vision is marred by a lot of unnecessary trees. I think a good purpose would be served if hundreds of trees were cut down and sold as cheap firewood to many poor people – "An old lover of Cambridge"

1924 11 26

Agricultural wages, p3

1924 11 27

Mr Mettlebury gave a short sketch of the beginnings of Fascism in Cambridge. It had started with a group of men who went with St Douglas Newton at election time to ensure him a good hearing. Some were merely there in the hope of a 'scrap' but others had ideals. After this group had formed into the Cambridge Fascist Society assistance had been offered to various candidates, including Mr Firth as Constitutional Labour Candidate, to ensure them a hearing free from organised rowdiness. He felt confident that British Fascism in Cambridge would prevail.

1924 11 28

The Fiery Cross, which has been circulating throughout the dioceses of England since the beginning of the year, was met at the gates of St Mary the Less, Cambridge, on Thursday night by a full choral procession. It came from St Luke's Chesterton and proceeds to Tilbrook, Hunts. Wherever the fiery cross goes it has a perpetual stream of watchers. It may be described as a missionary pilgrimage, an intercession for the conversion of the heathens in England

1924 11 28 ES

Ouse Drainage Board discuss scheme improvement of tidal river from Brownhill Staunton to Estuary. 24 11 28(2)(3)(4)ES # c.29

Ouse distraint meeting Prickwillow arouses indignation. 24 11 28(5)ES

Sutton fire destroyed thatched cottage. 24 11 28(5)ES

Funeral Thomas Walter Blakeman, Ely. 24 11 28(6)ES

December 1924 CDN & Ely Standard

1924 12 01

Thank to the efforts of the Rector, the Rev. C.H. Evelyn-White, restoration and repair work has been going on at Rampton church. The rector has held the living for thirty years and has devoted himself to beautifying the church during the whole of that time. The Lord Bishop of Ely dedicated the new east window erected in memory of the men of the village who fell in the war. Other work includes the re-roofing of the south aisle and the re-building of the east wall, during which many interesting relics were found.

1924 12 01

Sir – Having lived in Derby Street, Cambridge for nearly ten years I can faithfully describe its condition. During this period not a stone has been laid on the road. On rainy days each house occupier has his own lake situate along the front. After long years of passive submission a “round robin” was sent to the authorities asking if they will lay a path for us. The answer came this week. If the tenants will pay 6s.9d. per foot frontage, all’s well, as it is, in the opinion of the Council, a private street – E. Frost

1924 12 02

The question of a parking place for buses and private motor cars was discussed at some length by Cambridge town council. The Watch Committee suggested that Drummer Street should be used as a parking place for motor cars and buses. The Surveyor submitted a plan which included taking in a portion of Christ’s Pieces. It was resolved that the scheme should not be entertained and a proposal be considered for constructing a parking place on Butts Green

1924 12 04

Progress is being made in connection with the erection of a bridge over the river at Chesterton but the Surveyor is overwhelmed with work. It is two or three years ago when the owner of the land necessary for the proposed bridge at Pretoria road said he was willing to sell the land at a reasonable price. Over 800 people had paid for season tickets to go over the ferry and the council got something like 25s a week in odd halfpennies for casual passengers.

1924 12 04

Stormy scenes were witnessed at the meeting of the Cambridge Trades Council and Labour Party when a resolution preventing Communists, Liberals and Conservatives from being delegates was discussed. Mr Overton explained there was no Communist party in Cambridge until March 1923. A long and bitter fight had occurred at every meeting over some phase of Communist work and this had gone on for 12 months. It got so bad that the Committee received letters from several trade unionists asking them to put a stop to the trouble. There was such a great difference between the Communist Party and the Labour Party as to make it impossible for them to work in the same organisation.

1924 12 05

Cambridge Council have asked the Ministry of Health if they are prepared to grant a subsidy in respect of wooden houses. Coun. Stubbs asked if they intended to build the workers wooden rabbit hutches to live in. Coun. Briggs said it was a retrograde matter, they ought never to touch such a thing as wooden houses in 1924. Councillor Ambrose said they were not putting houses up because they had not the men to put them up. There were rows of houses waiting for men to come along and finish them off. If they put up a wooden frame construction they would do any amount of good.

Making up of roads, p3

Parking cars, p5*

1924 12 05 ES

Soham & Middle Fen Drainage. Official opening of new pumping plant, photo.

Over 100 years ago, the first steam engine was erected in the Fens for pumping purposes and easily did the work of half a dozen windmills. It was said that the last word in fen drainage methods had been spoken. Today the old beam engines are not regarded with quite so much awe for their competitor is now the modern pumping plant consisting of diesel engines and centrifugal pumps, one of which was officially opened at the Middle Fen Pumping Station, Prickwillow. The new engine was a 250 horsepower diesel by Messrs Mirlees, Bickerton and Day with Allan's pumps and would throw 140 tons per minute with an 18-foot lift. It would run for 24 hours at a cost of £6. In contrast, the old steam plant would burn seven to seven tons of coal costing two pounds per ton so that the serving would be about £8 per 24 hours running. If they had a wet winter or two the plant would practically pay for itself. Two huge boilers, portions of the scrapped engine have not yet come to the end of their lives, but are to be used as oil storage tanks for the new plant. Mr a Beazley, the engineer in charge, has had 18 years' experience. On the occasion of the harvest flood in 1912 he had to keep the engine running day and night for three weeks without a stop. It was he who installed the first fen diesel and has now to install another in Burnt Fen. While Sir Frederick Higham was speaking he leaned on one of the control wheels, which unfortunately was covered with oil. He called upon Mr. Beazley to hand him some cotton waste. While he was in the act of wiping the oil from his hands several of those present shouted 'You have forgotten your overalls, Sir Frederick', much to his amusement. 24 12 05 24 12 05&(2)(3)ES # c.29

Stretham: Whist drive. 24 12 05(4)

Wireless

The Ely Fur and Feather Society's Show include a section devoted to wireless, the work of some local radio amateurs. There were dignified multi-valve sets, magnificent in every detail, standing alongside humble but nevertheless efficient little crystal sets, some so small that the whole of their anatomy was tucked away in one little ordinary matchbox. Never before has such an imposing array of home-constructed radio apparatus been seen in this county.

Among the special features in the valve section were several long-distance and transatlantic sets, special specially designed to bring American broadcast concerts to the firesides of the owners.

There were crystal sets of all descriptions, some elaborately fitted with the latest designs for ensuring efficiencies. Others were the very essence of economical construction. Three crystal sets were exhibited by boys under 14.

One young exhibitor without money to pay for admission waited for the results of the judging. Eventually thrusting an anxious face under the arm of the (apparently) stern door attendant he aspired a card on his exhibit. 24 12 05(2)ES

Mr. And Mrs. James Fisk of Soham celebrated their diamond wedding. He went to Haney near Barway when 24 years of age and at the home of Mr. And Mrs. John King found his helpmate for 60 years. Mrs Fisk hails from a family belonging to the Church of England, no other place of worship being near to the home, and consequently her earlier years were spent within the precincts of the Established Church. Later, however, she became associated with the Baptist denomination in Soham where since 1860, she has done yeoman's service. It is there that they were married. 24 12 05

Joseph Barnes of Elm Tree Square, Feltwell was born in the Littleport and Southery fan area and was formerly the Licensee of the 'Poppylot Ship', a well-known hostelry situated between Feltwell and Southery. His death removes one of the pioneers of the agricultural industry of the fens. In conjunction with the Ship inn he farmed a considerable acreage, and afterwards in Larmens Fen until his retirement through failing health. He witnessed three disastrous floods, all of which inflicted ruin upon a large number of people. Through the bursting of the banks of the Great and Little Ouse rivers in the late 1840's hundreds of people were rendered homeless. The whole Bedford level resembled one vast lake and farmers were ruined for upwards of a decade.

Mr. Barnes was an associate of the late Abraham Ward of Littleport, the famous poet of the Fens, who committed to rhyme a history of the Fens which included the story of the great floods of the last century. Mr. Barnes was also an expert in drainage work in its early stages, and also in the claying industry, which was formerly a necessity of the Fens.

24 12 05(4)ES

1924 12 06

There is considerably less unemployment in Cambridge. The figures at the Labour Exchange show that last year there were 806 on the live register and today it is 490. There are 200 men on relief work and the Committee have five jobs on which they could start in the near future as a means of absorbing men who might become unemployed through other work ceasing.

1924 12 06

The Town Clerk reported the receipt of a petition against the erection of a bridge over the river at Walnut Tree Avenue, Cambridge. It stated that the present extensive outlook of considerable beauty across the Commons was much appreciated by the residents and this would be practically eliminated by the approach to the proposed bridge. The value of property would be considerably depreciated.

Roadmen's wages, p3

1924 12 08

The heavy rains of the past few weeks have made the roads in the Saffron Walden district in a very bad state. The Wimbish-Thaxted roads resemble miniature rivers. At Upper Langley Green an old resident said that he had never known the roads to be in such a bad state before. In some places the roads have lately been made up, but the heavy rains have turned the surface into quagmires of mud & sand.

Saffron Walden unemployment, p5

1924 12 10

Boisterous demonstrations were witnessed in the West End of London when hundreds of Oxford and Cambridge undergraduates celebrated the annual Rugby match at played at Twickenham. There were lively scenes in His Majesty's Theatre during the performance of "Patricia", when some of the students threw glasses and four climbed from a box on to the stage and rung down the curtain. Their action was resented by the rest of the audience, including the Cambridge fifteen who played no part in the disorderly proceedings

1924 12 11

Varsity rag sequel, p6

Hanging on to lorry, p6

1924 12 12

Mr C. Phillips was born in Victoria Street Ely and started to work on the railway as an engine cleaner at Peterborough in 1876. Last year when rounding a bend near Ely, he saw one of the crossing gates left shut across the line. Unable to arrest the progress of his locomotive he crashed through the gate, part of which hung on the buffer, the other part being flung through the gateman's front window. A piece broke the Westinghouse brake pipe on the engine and caused the brakes to act. Nothing daunted Mr Phillips set to work to repair the damage, placing a penny in to stop the leakage and in five minutes the train was under way again

Christmas in shops, p5

1924 12 12 ES

Christmas shopping in Ely

Residents who support local industries this Christmas will not be disappointed for that is no denying the fact that the Ely business houses have surpassed all their efforts. There is a great variety of goods and the value is remarkable.

One has only to take a walk to discover that there is an originality in the shop window displays that help to dispel the ghastliness of the weather. In fact, window dressing appears to be an art in which the local tradespeople excel.

In High Street at the window of Messrs James Harvey and Sons the eye may feast on a variety of beautiful colour. The extensive premises are full of all that is dear to the feminine mind, while in the gentleman's outfitting branch there is an abundance of useful and inexpensive gifts. The staff are always obliging. The premises contain goods that range from a dainty handkerchief to more costly gifts and amongst articles that are bound to please are dressing gowns and gloves of all description. For those who, for some reason are not contemplating a purchase, just to walk around the various showrooms would be a revelation. So many varied and reasonably-priced goods are on view.

At Pledger's Successor one has simply to glance at the window displays to realise the magnitude and excellence of their stock. Strikingly effective as the windows are it would be impossible to feature a quarter of the goods displayed in the various departments. Amongst these are furs, dainty crepe de chine blouses, shirts, five o'clock tea cloths and Duchess sets.

The outfitting and tailoring establishment of Mr. W.M. McFall probably one of the best in the district. Especial attention has been paid to Christmas stock which includes a remarkable assortment of neckties, handkerchiefs, cardigans, silk scarves and collars. It is true that if you want value for money, McFall's is the place

To all our Lady readers the word Miss Florence McFall conjures up a portrait of beautiful clothes. For her premises in Fire Hill contain the most sumptuous articles of feminine style. Everything sold is of the best. It is essentially a ladies department; all contents are sympathetically arranged with jumpers and silk blouses. 24 12 12 ES

Colour printing. 24 12 12&(2)ES # c.04

A striking innovation has been introduced in the printing of this newspaper today, one of the pages having been produced in red ink, while the rest remain in the customary black. This is the first time that a newspaper in this district has been printed in more than one colour. And the fact that we have attempted it today is in accordance with the constant endeavour of this journal to be enterprising and up to date. The printing of the two colours has been done simultaneously and we think our readers will agree that it has been done very successfully. A good red having been produced in all the copies. The special object of the two-colour printing is to draw attention to our advertiser's Christmas announcements, which have been rendered the more effective thereby. 24 12 12(2)ES

Ely tragedy: man cycles into Ouse. 24 12 12(3)(4)ES

Joseph Nightingale and wife celebrate diamond wedding, Ely: memories, photo. 24 12 12(3)(4)ES

Joseph Nightingale and wife celebrate diamond wedding, Ely: memories, photo. 24 12 12(3)(4)ES

Mr. Joseph Nightingale of Downham Road, Ely has been popular and respected for nearly every year of his 92 years of life. In a few days, he and his respected wife will celebrate their diamond wedding. He married Miss Brewster, also a native of Ely in the old Registry Office, on Fore Hill and have together faced life's battle.

Mr. Nightingale was born in a cottage in New Barnes Road Ely in 1833. To attempt to write his biography would be impossible for the experiences he had would fill books. When he was born, there were no railways in Ely, very few steam engines, no motorcars, gramophones or telephones. But the effects of the Napoleonic War was still being felt in the land. His father, who also lived to a ripe old age, was sexton and grave digger for the old Trinity Churchyard and dug the first grave in Ely Cemetery. Often in the course of his duties as grave digger He used to unearth scores of skulls and as a boy Joe can remember playing with them.

Joe left school when he was eight years of age. His first job was pushing an old invalid about the city in a bath chair. "One day I upset him chair and all and deposited him in a bed of stinging nettles. He said on one occasion, he wanted to go to Isleham, and I pulled him in his bath chair. I was pretty tired when I got home".

Joe has always been a great sportsman and the invalid was a very keen sportsman. Joe had to pull him into the country and the old gentleman would sit and wait for the game (consisting of anything that flew) to come along. Joe had to load the old muzzle-loading gun, although he was only eight years old, and to perform the operation of ramming home the powder and shot he had to stand on a five-barred gate.

Then he was apprenticed to a boot maker. But he did not care for the work and ran away from his master.

His stock in trade was a fiddle; in company with a man named Aspland, who was also a violinist, he toured the countryside attending all of the fairs and feasts for miles around. To improve business, Joe was Mr. Aspland's 'son' and as 'The Fiddling Father and Son' they were known for some time. They had some curious experiences.

They were in a public house at Southery when an aristocratic traveller entered and said he would give a shilling to anyone to shave him. Aspland said he would do that and proceeded to lather their client. The lathering having concluded the traveller waited for the razor to begin operations, and after he had waited for a quarter of an hour was informed by the landlord that the father and son had been gone for 10 minutes and were well on the way to Littleport!

Mr. Nightingale eventually arrived in London and obtained a situation in Signor Tarelli's music warehouse in Oxford Street. Later he returned to Ely, married, and became the proprietor of the Baron of Beef eating house which he kept for 48 years in a very creditable manner while he was running a few sidelines, such as a boot club in the Fens, making boots (he used occasionally to make up a pair before breakfast), selling guns, musical instruments and repairing both, playing the fiddle and other odd jobs. Joe was also well known as a breeder of Gordon Setters, which he used to train to the guns. He had a wonderful reputation as a carver of ham. He would cut ham so finely it was more like tissue paper than meat. At fair time he was busy having to generally cater during the day for 500 people. He used to sit up all night before fair day carving beef and ham, serve all the drovers at about six o'clock in the morning, and then wait for the remainder of his customers until 11 o'clock at night. Surely a remarkable man! 24 12 12(4)ES

Guyhirn bridge nearing completion: photo. 24 12 12(5)ES

Stretham: W.I. 24 12 12(6)ES

Horace Morley Whitworth of Ely, sued Messrs Smith and Son, potato merchants of Bristol for goods sold and delivered. They served a counter-claim.

One of the chief factors in the case was that of a truckload potatoes which had been dispatched from Black Bank station. The merchant examined the truck and did not like what he saw. Next day the farmer sent a postcard stating he much regretted to hear the potatoes had turned out worse than he thought and would see fair allowance was made

The Littleport truck had arrived on the 14th. Merchant was not sure whether he rejected the truck number 628395. If one had a consignment of potatoes and some were affected with blight, it was the proper thing to get the sound ones away from the others as soon as possible. Defendant said this was not so important if the blight was dry blight, in the case of wet blight that was watery and penetrated the potatoes. The farmer said at the time he lost several customers but several came back afterwards. He made good the customers losses by giving good stuff for bad.

The Merchant said he sold £5.10s worth shillings worth of blighted potatoes for pig food. It was part of the consignment of three ton which he had to throw out. Some of the potatoes had scab. He cut several in half because he judged they were bad by the weight of them. The farmer had sent some useful stuff, but had that he had to get rid of two ton of rotten stuff.

But it was not until he had the first trunk truck for a month that he gave the farmer the figures. During that month the potatoes were in his warehouse and he kept putting other potatoes with them.

Albert Treeby said he bought half a ton of the potatoes. They were nothing but a lot of diseased potatoes. He took the bad ones back and it meant that Mr. Smith had to lose nearly 200 cwt out of half-a-ton. Judgement was reserved. 24 12 12(4)ES

Modern science has once more triumphed over an ancient foe. The 'Death-watch' beetles - the tiny insects that attack the timbers of old buildings did £10,000 worth of damage to Peterborough Cathedral. It was extremely difficult to remove the dust and rotting wood with ordinary brushes. But it occurred to Mr. Leslie Moore, the architect, to try the effects of a powerful electric vacuum cleaner machine with special nozzles by which the insects and their deposits could be attacked in places difficult to reach by other means. The north and south roofs of the Cathedral have been successfully treated and the roof of the choir is now being taken in hand. 24 12 12(4)ES

Lt Downham Paragraphs

Stuck in the Mud

Owing to the continuous heavy rains since harvest, the droves and gault roads in are in a very bad condition. A well-known farmer last week got stuck in the mud and had to be assisted out.

Noteworthy act

On learning that an allotment holder was not in a position to plough his land and sow his wheat, two sympathetic young farmers (behind with their own work) took horses, plough, roll, drill, seed and harrows and got it in for him.

Restrictions

The blockage of sugar beet at one of the factories is causing considerable uneasiness amongst farmers, who are restricted in loading to the extent of not exceeding three trucks a day at Black Bank Station and a similar number at Pymoor sidings. Wheat sowing is being held up in consequence

24 12 12(6)ES

1924 12 13

Mr C. Mapey told the Cambridge Commercial Travellers' Association that the Chamber of Commerce were advocating factory sites in the town but he would dislike to see Cambridge take on that commercial aspect her saw in the north. He believed that in time Cambridge would be a suburb of London. It was only an hour and a quarter's run from the City and in a short time they would see the Jesus College estate so developed they would not know it. The mayor said there was no need for a factory town to be hideous if they thought what they were doing when they built the factories.

Christmas, p5

1924 12 15

'Moggy' hunting, p5

Christmas – Hallack, p6*

1914 12 16

Christmas, p6

1924 12 16c

The Maypole Dairy establishment in the Cury, Cambridge, is probably one of the few shops in the town which will not experience a great deal of extra Christmas trade, because their food products are so largely in demand throughout the year. The high quality of their Maypole butter, May Queen margarine and Maypole flaked beef suet is so well known and appreciated that it is regarded a necessity and not just a Christmas luxury. Hence the good trade all the year round.

1924 12 17

At Ely council the clerk read a letter asking that in view of the fatal drowning accident they should minimise the grave danger to the public through there being no warning notices that the continuance of Forehill to Waterside leads to the river. There were a lot of strangers who, when descending Forehill mistook it for Back Hill and kept straight on, instead of turning into Broad street. A car stopped on the edge of the river recently. He suggested a lamp with ruby glass and white letters bearing the words "Stop! Danger. The River"

Death Cox, Trinity porter, p5

1924 12 19

Speaking to the Cambridge Motor Club the Mayor said that today it was quite easy and within the means of most people to get a motor car. In 20 years they would have thousands more cars on the road and what conditions were we likely to have with regard to traffic and the storage of cars? Police had made it easy for those who wished to park but in a few years' time every place would be filled and they would require something like Parker's Piece to provide parking accommodation for Cambridge.

1924 12 19

Sir - we in Clarendon Street, Cambridge, are pleased to see the road being repaired, but cannot something be done to prevent the inhabitants being awakened at half-past-three in the morning? At this unearthly hour the steam rollers are stoked up and this continues every half hour and it is impossible for anyone in the vicinity to get any sleep. If I were to make such a noise so early I should be promptly called to order by the police for creating a nuisance -W. H. Thompson

1924 12 20

A serious outbreak of fire occurred at the workshops of Mr Frank Morris, builder and carpenter, of West End, Ely. The Ely City Fire Brigade under Lieut-Col G.L. Archer, immediately rushed to the scene. The wind was now conveying flames towards houses, some being of thatched roofs, but bands of willing helpers took up their positions on ladders, while others rushed along with buckets of water to pour on the outbuildings and thus stop the fire from spreading. The yard was a scene of destruction, some of the workmen searched for their tools but could only find a few that were burnt and twisted almost out of recognition.

1924 12 20

Claimed to be the biggest club of its kind in the county, the Waterbeach Parochial Share-Out, Sick Benefit and Insurance Society divided up £1,330 among its 564 members. Preceding the share-out, 170 sat down to tea, and the proceedings were rounded off by a concert. The society owes its origin to a desire to dissociate share-out clubs from the publichouses. It was founded in 1917 largely by the efforts of the clergy and has been attended with such gratifying results that members are hoping to see similar societies spring up in other locations

1924 12 23

The Policeman in his time plays many parts, but it is doubtful if he ever plays such a delightful part as members of the Cambridge Force did when the distribution of gifts to the poor and needy took place. PC Hagger acted as butcher. Aproned in the approved style and armed with a steel and murderous knives, he chopped and boned joints of meat with a happy smile. Sergt Sharman wrapped up good things, struggling with newspaper and grease-proof paper and slippery meat. Policewomen Jude & Carnegie Brown dealt with the milk and looked after the children. Every recipient met with a cheery wish for a Happy Christmas and all took their gifts with a smile and profuse thanks

Woman Doctor at Addenbrooke's, p5
Cambridge Santa Claus, p5

1924 12 27

Dr Living death, p5
Are you a Bolshy, p5*
Cambridge town and Newmarket Christmas morning, p5
Christmas stockings, p6
Christmas at Cambridge railway, p6

1924 12 29

Christmas Newmarket workhouse, p5*

1924 12 30

New Year rockets, p6

1924 12

Hatley St George water, p6
Isle coursing club, p6

1925 Cambridge Daily News

I have scans of these articles, diary checked, extra stories added Century

January 1925 CDN

1925 01 01

As midnight approached a small group of about 200 brave souls gathered on Parkers Piece, huddled together waiting for 1925. Fierce wet gusts swept by, the old year was going down fighting stubbornly. As the hour approached a silence fell upon the crowd. A minute before there was a flash and a whizz and 1924 split into a thousand coloured lights in the sky. As the first chimes of the Catholic Church battled with the wind there came another flash, a soaring, roaring trail of light into the sky – 1925 had come.

1925 01 01

The festive spirit was properly infused into Linton workhouse during Christmastide. The gaily decorated dining room might have been mistaken for a fancy dress ballroom. Streamers stretched from corner to corner while the artificial butterflies settled on the curtains looked quite capable of fluttering on to the artificial roses which embroidered the wainscoting of the room. The wireless set and gramophone each played their part in providing entertainment during the day.

Romsey Town dance, p5

1925 01 02

The C.U. & College Servants Club have organised their first ball in the Large Room of the Guildhall. It was attractively furnished with cosy chairs and settees ranged round the sides of the hall. The brilliance of the lighting was toned down by the judicious use of red shades attached to the electric globes, by which means a pleasing mellow light was thrown upon the dancers. The front of the platform was covered with masses of palms, ferns and other foliage plants. Sydney Coulson's orchestra provided the music for the 1925 01 02

Messrs Bidwell & Sons report that for really small unrestricted building plots the demand has been very good indeed and there are signs that it is increasing. This demand comes in part from speculative builders but also from private individuals wishing to build houses costing from £350 to £500 on their own freehold.

Professor Ward injured, p5

Arthur Rutter death, p5*

1925 01 02 ES

Jabez Martin of Ely wins world championship for mangolds. 25 01 02ES

1925 01 03

Schoolmasters complain that the wireless fascination is becoming a menace to education. It is the exception for the schoolboy not to interest himself in wireless and it is he who in a vast number of cases, has installed it in the home. The youthful enthusiast usually makes his own set and prefers to occupy himself in this way to poring over home lessons. Sometimes however there is no convenient place in which to do his homework if the rest of the family want to listen to a loud speaker. This should not be allowed by parents, and there is the alternative of the silent head-phones.

Tea for 3,000 children, p5

Clarendon Street improvement, p6*

1925 01 06

West Cambridgeshire fruit, p3

Great North Road crime, p5*

Tipperary club, p5

1925 01 07

One of the six new sugar beet factories is now in course of erection at Ely. It will be the fourth beet sugar factory in the country with a capacity of 1,200 tons per day. Over 160 men are employed upon the site and the foundations for the factory are ready. When the factory is complete 600 men will be employed. A supply of 10,000 acres of beet on contract for three years is required and 5,000 acres have already been secured

1925 01 08

Bankruptcy Frank Day, tailor, p5

1925 01 09

The Matron of Saffron Walden workhouse reported unfavourably on the effects of a wireless set. All of the inmates are in bed by 8 o'clock and it was thought that the class of entertainment provided before that hour would be unsuitable for them and would do harm to the sick in the infirmary. A gramophone could be moved from ward to ward. If a gramophone was provided they did not want noisy records, but old-fashioned family tunes. It was hoped the public would pass on any old records they did not want.

1925 01 09 ES

Floods fill rivers, roads submerged. 25 01 09ES

The lighter side of fen floods: Harold Painter cartoon. 25 01 09ES

1925 01 10

The final contingent of happy kiddies crowded into the Drill Hall, East Road and emulated the example set by their predecessors. The clamour of half a thousand happy young lungs and energetic tongues was present throughout the proceedings. Cheery children of all ages participated in the scenes of revelry, four-year old toddlers giving utterance to their gratification with gurgles of joy as sincere as the shouts of the elder children were loud.

Assisting private housing, p6*

1925 01 12

Police houses, p6

1925 01 15

Old Chesterton cycling club, p6

1925 01 16

The third and final distress sale ordered by the Ouse Drainage Board took place. 25 lots including crops, gold watches, bean drill, milk cooler and other articles were offered for sale but they were all withdrawn, as the bids did not go beyond one shilling. The first lot to be offered was a sporting gun. After the crowd had sung "Rule Britannia" a shilling was bid. The lot was withdrawn. The next lot met a similar fate. The crowd then gave a pathetic and heart-stirring rendition of "Shall we gather at the river". After this the proceedings were enlivened by a series of solos played by the happy possessor of a tin trumpet. A silver biscuit barrel was next. Instead of bidding the crowd sang(?) "To be a farmer's boy" and "John Brown's body" followed by "Tipperary". When the auctioneer called for "three cheers" for the Ouse Drainage Board the response was "three boos"

Farm workers wages, p3

1925 01 16 ES

From beet to sugar: the wonderful operation of a modern factory at Colwick: illustrated feature. 25 01 16&(2)ES

On several occasion recently, various aeroplanes have landed on the park at Little Downham, their occupants making careful inspections and surveys of the large field, computed at 40 acres.

During the war, the park was used as a night landing ground for the Eastern Area Defence Squadron of the R.F.C. Those who visited Downham during that period remember the large flares that used to be lit at night to guide returning squadrons to their destination after air raids.

The park then was a little hive of industry and many residents recall the hut housing the telephone and telephone operators. The huge circle that was made on the turf as a guide to aeroplanes, was constructed by making a circular trench roughly 100 yards in diameter and filling it with clay which made a white contrast with the green grass of the field. Curiously enough, this circle is still in existence, and an airman who recently made a forced descent in the district said that he was able to see the welcome landmark several miles distant from it.

There is a suggestion that the park should once again be used as a landing ground and in view of the large extension of the Home Defence Squadrons of the present R.A.F. there is every likelihood that something will be done with the ground 25 01 16(3)ES

Hauling sugar beet across flooded causeway between Bedford Rivers at Sutton: photo. 25 01 16(4)ES

A photograph shows a traction engine hauling a 12-ton load of sugar beet across the flooded causeway between the Old and New Bedford Rivers at Sutton. The engine pulled its load safely through the water about two feet deep for about 200 yards, and the greater part of the distance was traversed after the fire had been extinguished by the water. 25 01 16(4)ES

A meeting of the Agricultural Wages Board held in London fixed the the minimum rates of wages in Cambridgeshire and Ely. Horsemen, cowmen and shepherds: 37 shillings per week for the hours necessary for the performance of customary duties. And in the case of other adult male workers 30 shillings per week of 48 hours with overtime at nine pence per hour. The rates to continue until February 28 1925.

The statement that the County Wages Committee had ordered that workers employed as horse-keepers cowmen and shepherds should not work for more than a five and a half hours on one day a week is incorrect. This provision is applicable only to workers who are not employed as horse-keepers, cowmen and shepherds. 25 01 16(10)ES

The Isle of Ely Education Committee considered a letter from Thorney Rural District Council regarding the provision of a school in Thorney parish, at a point near the west end of French Drove. There were a number of houses in the district and the nearest school was a distance of three miles. Mr. T. Berry was willing to give a site. There were three roads meeting at that point in the formation of a letter T. One of the road lead to Wrydecroft School and the children living at the junction of the road would have to go nearly three miles to there. A second road went in the direction of Crowland, and the children going to Crowland School had nearly two and a half miles to go. Others had to go to Thorney School three miles away.

Thorney Council proposed to erect a number of new houses in the parish and if the school were erected about 20 new houses would probably be built at the junction of the roads. At the present time, there were 30 cottages in the Isle of Ely and about 20 on the Holland border. When other houses were built, there would be 50 houses around the roads and all the children would have at least two and a half miles to go to school. It was suggested that a committee should view the spot. 25 01 16(2)ES

1925 01 17

County Ball, p5

One-way traffic, p6

1925 01 19

A fire broke out in the Grand Jury Room at the Shire Hall which destroyed all the woodwork and furniture. It is a large room is situated at the front of the building on the Police Station side and contained a table and some chairs. A stairway leads from it to the grand jury gallery in the Crown Court and it was through the fire roaring up these stairs that damage was done to the court by smoke and steam.

1925 01 19

Petty Cury and Market Street, Cambridge, today commenced their career as one-way streets with the object of relieving congestion in these streets whose narrowness has ever been the subject of discussion. Petty Cury will only be used for vehicular traffic towards Market Hill. At present these regulations do not apply to bicycles. A policeman agreed that someone was bound to make a mistake – “It wouldn’t be Cambridge if they didn’t”, he said

Breaking charity boxes, p3

1925 01 20

Street danger, p3

Angry farmers, p5*

1925 01 21

Certain alterations are to be made in the railway station at Cambridge. The L.N.E.R. propose to extend the main line platforms at each end so that the whole of long trains may be accommodated. The goods yards on the Cherry Hinton side are to be re-arranged and extended for the storage of carriages. Up to the present the old Newmarket line had been used but this is being handed over to Jesus College and the Corporation in connection with the building of the new arterial road from Cherry Hinton to Romsey Town

1925 01 22

The well-known Cambridge brewery business which has been carried on for 28 years in Panton Street by Messrs Bailey & Tebbutt is to change hands. They acquired the brewery in 1897. At that time they were carrying on the Granta Brewery under the name of “Robinson & Tebbutt”. Mr Bailey’s late father was owner of the Star Brewery. The business has now been acquired by Messrs Greene, King & Sons.

1925 01 22

On Saturday morning as one of the St Ives & District Motor Bus Company’s vehicles was about to leave the garage in North Road, St. Ives, for its journey to Cambridge it backfired and burst into flames. The bus was completely destroyed in a short time, so fierce were the flames owing to the vehicle having just been filled up with petrol.

The flames rose to a great height and being in close proximity to Mrs. Courses dwelling house, set fire to the bay window of the sitting room and a bedroom over. St Ives Fire Brigade Were quickly on the scene, and thanks to a good supply of water were enabled to subdue the flames. The house was very considerably damaged together with the contents of the rooms

1925 01 23

The County Education committee recommended that the proposals for the extension of the existing Soham Grammar School building be not proceeded with, that the buildings be disposed of and that the council sanction the purchase of “Beechurst” and a site of seven acres. The building to be adapted to provide for six classrooms and a chemical laboratory for approximately 160 pupils, and house accommodation for the Headmaster and eight boarders.

1925 01 23 ES

After the third Ouse Drainage Board sale a cheque for £153 was handed to the collector on behalf of twenty farmers. The rates they had refused to pay amounted to £110 pounds; the balance represented the expenses occurred in connection with the distraint of the goods. The protests therefore cost the farmers £43 and in addition there were their personal expenses.

Music was the method of torture applied to be auctioneer. The opening number of the male voice chorus, 50 strong, was 'Rule Britannia' followed by 'Shall we gather at the river' and 'It in't going to raid no more' at which one shouted 'Then there won't be no need for the Ouse Drainage Board' The auctioneer, having completed his task of offering lots for which no one bid, announced he had held his last sale for the Ouse Drainage Board.

The Haddenham Farmers Protection Association had offered to attend the sale with a choice supply of eggs, but that assistance was refused by the Bedford men who preferred their own method of protest. There was a strong force of police guarding the doors and no one suspected of coming from Haddenham was admitted. A woman protested that the sale was illegal as the public were not allowed into the sale room. 25 01 23(4)ES

1925 01 23 ES

The recent floods and the fact that the Middle Level kept the fenlands from submergence is a reminder of the importance of that system.

In 1810 the first Middle Level Act was passed but it remained more or less under the jurisdiction of the Bedford Level until the passage of another act in 1862, by which the area was separated from the Bedford Level. Meanwhile, by an act of 1844, the Middle Level was given powers to execute certain great works.

The principle work was the digging of the main drain from the end of the Sixteen-Foot River to a junction with the Ouse at St German's a distance of some 12 miles. Previously the water had discharged by way of Well Creek and Tongs Drain into the Ouse at a point some eight miles higher up the river, but due to the shrinkage of the fens, this ceased to provide an adequate outfall. The works upon the new main river, which included the construction of a sluice at the outfall, were executed about 1848. It was an expensive scheme necessitating the purchase of a considerable quantity of land and the building of about a dozen bridges, beside the actual work of digging the long channel. Its necessity and its inestimable value to the Level have since been abundantly proved.

In 1863, a disaster occurred in that the sluice was wrecked by water getting under the foundations with the result that the tidal water swept up the main drain and burst the bank midway along its course, inundating some 9,000 acres in the Marshland and Magdalen Fen. Sir John Hawkshaw was consulted and a coffer dam was placed across the main drain about three-quarters of a mile from the remains of the old sluice, while siphons were installed to discharge the Middle Level water over the dam. Eventually the construction of a new sluice was decided upon which was opened in 1875. The scheme included a diversion of the main drain at its outfall end and the coffer dam remains in the former course of the river.

This is the sluice that still exists at St Germans, although latterly a great improvement has been affected by the alteration of the means of controlling the discharge of the water. Until these alterations were made, there were three pairs of wooden doors which opened and shut automatically – though the theoretical idea did not work exactly in practice - with the flow of the Middle Level water and of the tide.

Eventually the accumulation of silt and mud in the Ouse began to interfere with the action of the doors and in September 1921, and again in October 1923, they were blocked. On the latter occasion, the mud on the Ouse side of the doors was higher than the water level in the drain, and considerable difficulty was involved and expense incurred in removing the deposit.

This experience proved the necessity for the introduction of a different method of operating the sluice. Major Clark, the engineer of the Middle Level, designed a new type of sluice which has been installed in place of two of the three pairs of doors. It consists of a reinforced concrete bulkhead, with a large steel door which slides up and down between rollers. The door weighs something like 10 tons but by a system of gearing it is raised and lowered by one man. The first sluice installed proved so successful that a second one was put in, being bought into operations a few weeks ago, and the improvement thus affected represents one of the greatest that has been carried out in the Middle Level system in recent years. 25 01 23&(2)ES

Mystery of a locked room: strange happening at Sutton Greene King wine and spirit stores. 25 01 23(3)ES

A scare occurred at the wine and spirits stores of Messrs Green, King and Sons, which occupies a prominent position in High Street, Sutton.

The premises consist of a large shop with four rooms above, offices and dwelling house attached in which the manager, Mr. Bullen, resides.

The first intimation of something unusual was a terrific bang coming from the vicinity of the business premises. Investigations on the ground floor led to no explanation but carrying the search to the rooms above it was found that one of the doors had been locked from the inside. At this point, the investigations assumed for more serious accident, for it seemed the bang had been made by an intruder who had taken temporary refuge in the empty room behind a locked door, and was waiting a time to make good his escape. Help was forthcoming from neighbours and the premises were guarded back and front. A ladder was placed against the window of the room with a locked door and the window was found to be fast. A weary inspection of the interior was made with an electric torch revealing the fact that the key was in the lock on the inside. No sign of the intruder could be seen. With the aid of a chisel the door was forced but the room was bare. The lock is not an automatic self-locker but of the ordinary variety which still works stiff with newness, needing a strong turn to lock it. The night was still with no wind to cause sufficient draft to close the tight fitting door with force sufficient to make it lock itself.

Such was the problem that confronted the local police. Superstition might lead one to think it is supernatural spirit's visit to 'the spirits'. It is a mystery problem worthy of the famous Sherlock Holmes stories. 25 01 23(3)ES

1925 01 24

Soham Grammar School, p3

1925 01 24c

Two Linton labourers were summoned for making false representation to obtain unemployment benefit. They lived six miles from the Labour Exchange and were allowed to make their claims by post. It was found that when claiming out of work pay they had been employed two days as beaters and had received 5s.6d. per day, with beer and lunch. They were sent to prison for three weeks with hard labour

1925 01 27

Fulbourn Hospital, p3*

Haverhill motorist, p5*

Sale, p5*

1925 01 29

Hardwick allotments, p2*

Legal paradox, p5*

Royalty at Newmarket, p5*

1925 01 31

If there are any readers contemplating building or purchasing houses in Cambridge they may be interested to note that the Corporation are prepared in suitable cases to offer a subsidy of £100 per house or an advance on mortgage of an amount not exceeding 90% of the value of a house not exceeding £1,500. Loans must be repaid within 20 years at the rate of 5% per annum.

Riverside rates, p5

Ely death trap, p5*

Brooklands Avenue trees, p6

February 1925 CDN

1925 02 02

The County Council were told by Councillor Tebbutt there was no great need to provide for houses for the police, because the police were well paid and in a much better position to get houses than many other people in the county. Coun. Webb said they all knew the police were a most deserving body and jolly good fellows but he did not believe they wanted to pay as little as 3s.6d. A week rent when the ratepayers had to pay 15s.6d. Ald Howard thought authorities should provide houses for their own policemen. At present police were occupying houses which were badly needed by other people

1925 02 02

Soham Grammar School debate, p5

1925 02 02 c

A man employed with the Cambridge Window Cleaning Company met with a nasty accident. He was cleaning the windows of the Union Society building when he felt his extending ladder slip. Under the impression the ladder was about to collapse he jumped for the ground but fell on some spiked railings which surround the area, one of which entered his thigh. After the accident the Union Society gave orders for the removal of the spikes so as to prevent a similar accident occurring again.

1925 02 02 c

Fulbourn Hospital medical superintendent reported that at various times concerts were given to the patients, but they seemed to like cinema performances more than anything, and he was looking forward to the time when they had a cinema there. He was told that the hospital was ideally situated for a wireless installation. Diet was satisfactory and the farm supplied all the milk required, also fresh vegetables and pork.

1925 02 02 c

Messrs G.P. Hawkins Ltd were summoned for employing five young women and a lad of 17 in their bakery at Parsonage Street, Cambridge on a Sunday. They had been asked to come in to do some finishing work that had got behind owing to the Christmas rush. The Inspector of Factories admitted that the bakery was in many respects ideal and that if the work had been done at the Dorothy Café it could have been done without any interference. Mr Hawkins was always opposed to Sunday work, although it was well known that other firms opened on Sunday.

1925 02 02 c

The rector of Hardwick said that the rectory garden had been used since the rectory had been built 75 years ago. It was the nearest piece of arable land. It temporarily ceased to be used as a garden owing to a change of incumbents and the outbreak of war. Then the rector went on war service and did not return to his duties in Hardwick. In 1920 the rectory garden was included in a demand for allotments and nothing was said to him when he was appointed. He had been pressing for its return since 1922. He was now buying for his house vegetables that should be grown on the rectory garden.

1925 02 02 c

A recent advertisement in the C.D.N. offering a house to let brought 131 replies the first day. After three days the figure reached was 412. Quite an interesting commentary on the number of people who want a house and the power of the C.D.N. as an advertising medium

1925 02 03

Chesterton Hall Estate housing, p5

1925 02 05

Flight-Lieut Cairns of the Duxford Flying School was injured in an accident whilst flying at Steeple Bumpstead. About noon the plane was observed to be in difficulties and crashed towards the ground. The airman jumped from the machine when near the ground and although he escaped death he was found to be suffering from somewhat serious injuries when admitted to Addenbrooke's hospital.

Ely girl guides, p3

1925 02 06

Cambridge Housing and Town Planning committee recommended the council purchase land at the junction of Milton Road and Kings Hedges road for £2,400. It was light soil, very suitable for the erection of houses. The Council had never bought land at such a cheap rate. Ald Starr said a very serious objection was that Milton Road was not sewered up to that point and it would cost something up to £8,000 to lay the sewers required.

1925 02 06

The recommendation of the Watch Committee that Cambridge Town Council purchase for the sum of £5,500 the Fountain public house, St Andrew's street, for the purpose of extending the police and fire brigade stations was not adopted. Coun. Few said they had heard a lot about not being able to afford works of utility, now they were proposing to buy premises and pull them down, thereby using skilled labour which might be used in building houses. Coun. Kenney asked if the brigade needed to be in such a prominent position

1925 02 06

Cambridge council considered the application of Mr J. Sanders of Petty Cury, seedsman, for a licence to sell certain poisonous weed-destroyers, vaporising compounds and insecticides. It had been said they must not allow seedsmen to sell these compounds because people might buy poisons in order to kill their wives. (Laughter). It was not much good buying them from a chemist unless he had expert knowledge of gardening, whereas a seedsman could advise on their best use in the garden. The licence was granted

Romsey Labour Club, p3

1925 02 06 ES

Fenmen's protest: Middle Level Taxpayers and the Ouse Act: meeting at March. 25 02 06ES

1925 02 07

Councillor Macey's motion in favour of members of the County Council being allowed to smoke in the committee room did not find much favour. A councillor stated that members of the Ouse Drainage Board smoked in the Council Chamber, and added, amid laughter, that this was about all they did do.

1925 02 09

Sports works strike, p5

1925 02 10

Cambridge University Senate agreed that no member of the University shall be allowed to keep or use a motor car unless he obtained a licence through his college. If any tradesman or keeper of motor garage shall let out any motor car or motor cycle for hire to any person in statu pupillari he shall be liable to be discommuned. Anyone who houses upon his premises a motor vehicle on behalf of a member of the University must furnish a written description to the Junior Proctor.

Sunday buses, p3

Gale, p5

1925 02 11

Village college scheme, p3

1925 02 12

What was aptly described as "a wonderful ideal" is expressed in a memorandum drawn up by Mr H. Morris, the County Education Secretary, entitled "The Village College". The aim would be to establish in about 10 centres a system of village colleges which would provide for the co-ordination and development of all forms of education – primary, secondary, further and adult, including agricultural – together with social and recreational facilities. They would provide a nursery schoolroom which would serve for use as an infant welfare centre.

Stretham fatality – Ernst Howard, 5 years – Barnardos child

1925 02 13

The Bill to electrify Cambs., Beds & Hunts comes before Parliament this session. A great generating station will be erected at Lt Barford. At first they propose to develop the central area including St Neots, St Ives and Ely & to give a supply in bulk to Cambridge and Newmarket. To help the electrical development of the railways it is proposed to link up with the transmission lines of the North Metropolitan Electric Power Supply Company and to afford a supply to the main railway lines within the area

1925 02 13 ES

Terrific gale sweeps the fens: wind record velocity. 25 02 13&(2)ES

A terrific Gale swept the Fens, the wind attaining a record velocity of 65 miles an hour at March railway station

Ely presented a curious picture on the morning after the gala. In every street was a litter of tiles chimney pots, mortar and hay and straw. The gale arrived suddenly, tremendous gusts of wind banging doors and windows. In fact, so little warning was given that several windows were wrenched from their frames before the owners could secure them.

Mr Blackwell of Waterside found his chimney was blown down, it crashed through the roof, leaving a gaping hole through tiles and ceiling. The brick work was found on a bed in the attic, slates tiles mortar and other debris were piled on the bed and littered the floor. Such was the force of the impact that the iron bedstead was twisted and bent. The table mirror, fender washstand and other furniture in the room was broken into pieces.

The most serious damage in March was the destruction by fire of a straw stack in Whitemoor Road. Several people saw a passenger train pass, the locomotive admitting sparks which were carried by the wind in the direction of the field. Two acres of straw were destroyed. The stand and dressing rooms on the March Town Football Club ground collapsed and several trees blown down.

The gale was not without its amusing side Mr. Harding of Creek Road found a strange pigsty in his yard. Two large pigs were still searching in the neighbouring yard for their place of abode which had vanished during the gale. The ruined windmill off Dartford Road, which has lived to brave many violent gales, was not damaged in the least.

At Murrow where the schoolroom was packed for a Liberal concert, a disturbing crashing noise was heard reminiscent of a bursting bomb or small shell. Fitful gusts against the windows had previously made the audience nervous and a panic was averted by the coldness of several on the platform.

Investigation shown that a considerable portion of the roof had gone and a whole section of slate had been lifted by the wind and blown across the road to smash against the wall of the public house opposite. In the circumstances it was deemed available to abandon the event without a single musical item having been given 25 02 13(2)ES

The approaching local elections; Harold Painter cartoon. 25 02 13(4)ES

Ouse Board again: mass attack on Hillrow stronghold by police 25 02 13(4)

Mr H. Cross of Nornea Farm, Ely, has set up a record for the highest average yield of milk for a herd of 20 cows under the auspices of the Cambridgeshire Milk Recording Society. He started his business in Adelaide when in his teens he took out a milk round which his brother had started some 30 or more years back when his father, Mr. Uriah Cross set him off one morning with two samples of milk to send in the city. At that time, only one journey was made each day, with the exception of Saturday when another was made in the evening, and none at all on a Sunday.

It was soon found there was a ready demand for milk, which grew so they could not keep pace with it and in a very short time the business was bought to the city. Mr Cross had in the meantime secured the Barton Farm where it was carried out very successfully until a few years ago he took on the Nornea Hall Farm. Mr. Cross' herd of cattle was always considered the best in the neighbourhood, Since residing at Nornea, his supply of milk has gone to London, the milk walk in the city being taken over by his nephew, Mr. Robert Martin, who at the present time has a herd of 50 cows. 25 02 13(2)ES

1925 02 14

Horticultural Society centenary, p3

1925 02 14 c

Celebrating the Lent Races gave gownsmen the traditional excuse to break the bonds of conventional conduct and create some hectic scenes on Saturday night. From the viewpoint of roughness the 'rag' proved to be one of the worst during recent years, and the endeavours of the police to impose limitations on some of the more disorderly acts were not received with the good-natured co-operation which usually characterises such outbreaks. Besides having their helmet knocked off, several constables received nasty kicks about the legs and one was taken to Addenbrooke's Hospital with injuries to the head.

1925 02 16

The Community Council heard that village halls were of many different types. Some had been designed as assembly rooms only, as at Whittlesford; some were only suitable for social club purposes, as at Burrough Green; some attempted to serve both these purposes by dividing the main space with temporary partitions, such as Bourn; others contained both an assembly hall and club room sunder the same roof, as at Trumpington. The provision of a village hall did not mean that the social life of the village was satisfactory.

Constables assaulted, p5*

Sidney Sussex fire, p5

1925 02 17

Mikado at Ely, p5

Linton licencing, p5

1925 02 18

"There is a town which men call Cottenham", said a speaker at Cambridge Union Society, "and those whose brains are wearied with much study repair to that paradise for relaxation". A man took to beagling for the avoidance of burgling, to steeple-chasing for the avoidance of stealing and to fox-hunting for the avoidance of foppishness. And yet there were those who preferred the blandishments of study to the sports of the open air. For the sake of scholarship it was his hope that fox-hunting, steeplechasing, beagling, fishing and other sports of the field would ever flourish in England

Road fund licence, p3

Ely Tower House evening, p6

1925 02 19

For the University Pitt Club ball the Guildhall has always been very cleverly decorated. The Large Room served as ballroom, the orchestra seats hidden behind tapestry hangings. There were close on 400 dancers. As a buffet the Small Room has seldom looked better. Supper was served in the Corn Exchange, access to which was gained by means of a covered way connecting it with the Guildhall. The fare provided was most appetising. Our representative gazed with pardonable envy upon a well-dressed boar's head, a swan with a waxen neck and other fine fare.

1925 02 20

Linton RDC heard that the village most in need of cottages as Balsham – which was really in a sad plight. Under the Addison Act the council had chosen a building site there, but the purchase was never completed, partly owing to the cost. They had now been able to get the promise of two really good sites to be given to the council and they would be able to build six cottages at a rent of 4s. (20p) a week

1925 02 20

Mr Frank Vince from Ely was about to start his car in his garage when the engine back-fired and the petrol tank caught alight. Mr Vince's first thought was of the petrol tin on the footboard in close proximity to the flames. In removing this he stumbled, and some of the petrol splashed over him, and he was immediately enveloped in flames. His wife snatched sum rugs from the floor, covered him in them and extinguished the flames but not before his left arm and hand had been badly burned.

1925 02 20 ES

Denver Sluice: strongest in England; interesting pages of history: article. 25 02 20&(2)ES

Denver Sluice, the strongest in England was erected in 1652-3. The original sluice appears to have been formed with a dam of earth strongly piled, having on one side two small brick sluices for the purpose of navigation. The construction of the sluice was bitterly opposed, and for several years, the Corporation had to guard it day and night.

Soon the river below the sluice began to silt up and in 1662 three brick arches were set down where the clow or down stood. The middle arch was 18 feet wide and the two others 12 feet wide, and double doors were made in each arch capable of being set open to let in the tides. In 1695 there were petitions that showed the tide flowed three hours instead of five as before the erection of the sluice and that above the sluice, 'where boats and barges usually passed in the old ancient river beyond Ely, grass and fodder is now mown and cut'. During a high tide and heavy flood in a 1713 Denver sluice blew up and after 60 years, the tides once more flowed up the Ouse. But the waters of the Bedford river turned up the Ouse; for 21 days in 1720 they flowed without cessation and the South level was flooded. Denver dam in which this sluice was placed was eight feet above the bed of the river and this restricted the current so that the river silted up to a depth of eight or 10 feet, making matters much worse.

In 1726, another application was made to the Corporation by the South level for the re-erection of Denver Sluice. After several schemes had been considered, the one accepted was that of Labelye, a Swiss engineer. His plan was completed in 1750 in accordance with the following scheme:

- (1) That Colonel Russell's two eyes or openings should be cleared as low as the top of the solid dam, then lying about two feet under the bottom of the Ouse in the remains of Denver Sluice and the river so far cleared above and below as to afford free passage for the land-waters and the tides.
- (2) A lock or pen-sluice should be constructed on the east side of the easternmost of the two eyes about 50 feet clear in length, between the two pairs of breast gates which were to point down the river and about 13 feet clear in width.
- (3) That the opening of the remains of Denver Sluice and in the two other openings or eyes, there should be placed 23 draw-doors made so as to shut close upon the top of the solid dam leaving a free passage for the tides of 87 feet besides the 13 feet in the lock.

As the result of the opening of the Eau Brink Cut to Lynn in 1821 the drainage sills of Denver Sluice were laid six feet lower, and the corresponding improvement felt in all of the Middle and South Levels.

The second sluice stood until 1828 and the present structure was began in 1832. It consists of three drainage eyes 18 feet wide, the ebb and flow being controlled by two pairs of immense leafed doors weighing 11 tons each. Each of these is a huge pen sluice 74 foot long, 18 feet wide, and with leafed doors capable of controlling a 24 feet rise of tidal water. This sluice was erected from the designs of Sir John Rennie. 25 02 20&(2)ES

The Ouse 'cross-word' puzzle: cartoon re distraint sales by Harold Painter. 25 02 20(3)ES

Stretham serious motor smash opposite church, includes Dr Howe. 25 02 20(4)ES

A serious motor smash occurred opposite Stretham and both drivers had very narrow escapes. The cars collided practically head on, each sustaining extensive damage. A Morris Cowley driven by Dr

Howe of Haddenham had a front axle wing and wheel completely smashed while a Rover driven by Mr. Allen of Kings Lynn had the front axle, wing, running board and body greatly damaged. Both vehicles were conveyed by a lorry to Messrs Cass & Co's garage

Mr. Allen was in another motor smash some days ago, repairs to the car then being carried out by Messrs. Cass. The car had only recently left the garage when the second collision occurred and is now back for practically the same repairs. It is extremely fortunate that both motorists escaped personal injury especially in view of the extent of the damage sustained by the two cars. 25 02 20(4)ES

1925 02 21

W.C. Bull death, p5

1925 02 24

Undergraduate plus fours, p5

New hard tennis courts, Jesus Green, p5 (& 27th p6)

1925 02 25

Daddy long legs plague, p3

1925 02 26

The Cambridge Tipperary Club celebrated its 10th birthday when the President gave an address on its history and work during the war period. She described the visit of Her Majesty the Queen when some 300 members who had lost husbands or other relatives in the war were present. The Queen shook hands with many of the bereaved, and spoke words of sympathy and comfort. Towards the end of the war it was not found necessary to open the club as frequently. The spirit of the club was one of mutual help and as long as that remained the club would be blessed.

Reflections on ragging, p5

1925 02 27

Awe-inspiring monsters of a prehistoric age came to life before the eyes of a Cambridge audience. This seeming miracle was accomplished by a remarkable "fake" film made as the result of intelligent imagination based on authoritative facts and followed a lecture entitled "Digging for Dinosaurs". The extraordinary film depicted these gigantic mammals roaming through the interior of Africa as they did thousands of years ago. The film, which is certainly the only one of its kind, materially helped the audience to visualise what these dinosaurs were actually like.

1925 02 27

Despite a shower of rain a number of tennis enthusiasts were present on Jesus Green when the Mayor opened Cambridge's first public hard tennis courts. They are situate opposite Strange's Boatyard and a part of the council's plans to develop Jesus green into a recreation ground, with facilities for a variety of games. Directly adjoining are the grass courts, nearby is the bowling green whilst further afield cricket pitches are being laid. All these will be in use by May.

Clayhithe bridge, p6

1925 02 27 ES

The story of the Chatteris ferry toll: illustrated article. 25 02 27&(2)ES

Chatteris Ferry Toll stands on the road between March and Huntington. Every person except those walking must halt and pay for the right to pass through the toll gate. Those herding livestock must pay for each and every one of the beasts that pass. All day long along the great white gate swings to and fro taking a toll of men and beasts by virtue of an ancient rights stretching back through the centuries. What a tale the toll could tell we're it able to speak – of a great wide river that flows no more, of Hereward and Cromwell. All this long while Chatteris ferry has barred the way, a relic of a link with the past that belongs to musty the pages of human record.

Today Chatteris toll has lost much of what must have been its old charm and has become modern and prosaic. The motorist travelling south mounts a gentle rise to Ferry Hill and coasts down between an avenue of trees when a warning sign post announces toll gate. He stops and pays six pence, the white gate swings wide and the road is free again. A few decades ago it was the great heavily laden coach. There is one slight link with the old days in the shape of a table of tolls which stands by the roadside. The charges cover every convenience from the old time coach to the modern locomotive: For every coach or hearse having four wheels, drawn by horses, mares or mules ... 9d. For every weaned calf one farthing ... For every traction engine or lorry 6d. Today on a Monday, St Ives market is responsible for a great increase in traffic.

The toll lands consist of about 70 yards of road and 35 acres of good agricultural land stretching on either side, while the cosy little cottage hard by the gate accommodates Mr. William Dyson who has been collector for 26 years.

The Toll is now owned by the General Estates Company Limited of London which acquired the land and rights 30 years ago from Mr Fryer of Chatteris. The toll gate is comparatively modern. It takes the place of an old ferry over the Old West River, the course of which may still be traced for some three miles along the east side of the road to Somersham. The old bed exists today as a shallow fold in the land in which the soil is particularly fertile.

When fen drainage works dried up the course of the Old West River by diverting the water along other channels a roadway was constructed over the riverbed and the toll instituted. A survey of the Old West River made in 1605 describes the condition of the water course from 'Earith Bridge to Plawlis' and record a river across where Chatteris ferry was worked. But there were objections even in those days. The drying up of the old West River and the consequence change of the Chatteris ferry into a toll may have taken place at some time between the cutting of the Vermuyden drain in 1630 and the completion in 1653 of the drainage scheme carried out under the initiative the Duke of Bedford. They carried off all the water in the vicinity of the Chatteris ferry leaving it high and dry.

The public obtains some return for the payment of the ferry toll as the Company owning the rights keeps the road in repair. A special exception is made for residents of Chatteris who are only required to pay once per day for going through the toll. In the case of all other persons using the toll the charges have to be paid for every passenger in either direction.

Mrs. Daniel Fletcher, one of the oldest Chatteris residents, remembers the toll some 65 years ago when the railway had been built and the coaches were no longer coming. In those days the toll could not have been a paying proposition. Today however we have arrived at the petrol age and a considerable amount of motor traffic makes the passage through the toll which has stood for so many centuries, and is likely to remain a quaint survival of the past for some time to come. 25 02 27ES

1925 02 27 ES

Ouse drainage protest meeting at Lt Downham. 25 02 27ES

A lively protest meeting was held at Little Downham against the levying of rates by the Ouse Drainage Board.

Mr. W.E. Stockdale said the various Level which drained into the Wash were continually silting at their mouths. The tremendous bridge over the river built 55 years ago was being pulled down as it would not stand the traffic. The draining walls were getting out of order and they were asking them to repair the walls not so much for draining the fens for but for the betterment of the port of Kings Lynn. The Board wanted to spend one-and-a-half million in the tidal waters from Hunstanton to Lynn and from Lynn to Denver Sluice or even Brownhill sluice and that would not benefit them in the area around Little Downham.

The Ouse Drainage Board was a rotten affair and more of a curse than a blessing. The longer it went on, the worse it would be for the people who were living in the area. The Board could not guarantee that the rivers would not stop silting up. The more they paid, the more officials they would have and they would always be in debt. They would be ousted out of their hard earned cash that ought to be spent on the land and would not be able to pay proper wages.

The reason the Board asked them to make the training walls and clean out the rivers was because there were two bankrupt companies, the North Eastern Company and the Lynn Harbour Company. He did not believe in helping bankrupt people.

The Ouse Drainage Board should be scrapped. It was unworkable, unserviceable, unmanageable and no good to the community at large. If they put in a sluice at King's Lynn and kept out the tidal waters they would stop the tide flowing to Denver's Sluice and so have all the land between for cultivation. By cleaning out the Ouse mouth, big ships would be able to get up to Lynn and as soon as they opened the port in would come the German potatoes and the Dutch onions. If they had been open during the war the Germans would have come up with their submarines and flooded the land with water by breaking the banks.

The Hundred Feet Bank and the Ten Mile Bank, which used to yield £160 a year to them, had been given over to the Ouse Drainage Board and were not so safe as before they were. By dredging the river they were undermining the banks and if it went on the banks would slip in. If they let the Ouse Drainage Board keep on they would have acres of waves of sea instead of acres of waves of golden corn. If they would drain the land as well as they drain people's pockets it would be a good thing. There were three or four large dredgers that had fallen into the river when the tide went out, owing to the fact that they had been erected by the side of the river instead of in the centre. This was how they were fooling the people's money away. The ratepayers protested against the taxes being paid by the Ouse Drainage Board they are more than the land can bear. 25 02 27ES

1925 02 28

We regret to announce the death of Mr Cyrus Johnson, the well-known portrait painter. He was the youngest son of the late Mr Elijah Johnson who founded the Cambridge bookselling firm in Trinity Street. Born at Cambridge he was educated at the Perse school and afterwards studied in Paris. He exhibited at the Royal Academy as a portrait painter in 1877 in which branch of art he achieved much distinction. He resided in Cambridge from 1916 until last year. (funeral 5th Mar p6)

Comberton institute, p5*

March 1925 CDN

1925 03 02

In the course of his address on "How to carry on a village library centre" Mr Milner said that at Cottenham he tried to hire a warm room and did not hurry people. Some librarians mixed the books with the hope that a borrower would be led to read a non-fiction book. But that was a trick which would probably make a person stop away from the library. The librarian should not spend his time issuing books. He had far more important work than that – to talk to borrowers and interest them in books. Mr Chapman, Whittlesford, spoke of choosing books for borrowers and said he had been greatly praised for giving people good books, when he knew nothing about the books (laughter)

Littleport robbery, p5

Human wreck, p5

1925 03 02 c

Shrove Tuesday was something of a gala day for the people of Comberton with the opening of the billiard room. This new building is capacious, comfortable, bright and airy. Although it directly adjoins the main body of the Village Institute it is sufficiently secluded to ensure quietness. The opening as performed by Lady Blenkinsop who said Comberton was the most progress village in the county. Having declared the room open she took a cue and made the first stroke with it.

1925 03 02

In the course of his address on "How to carry on a village library centre" Mr Milner said that at Cottenham he tried to hire a warm room and did not hurry people. Some librarians mixed the books with the hope that a borrower would be led to read a non-fiction book. But that was a trick which would probably make a person stop away from the library. The librarian should not spend his time issuing books. He had far more important work than that – to talk to borrowers and interest them in books. Mr Chapman, Whittlesford, spoke of choosing books for borrowers and said he had been greatly praised for giving people good books, when he knew nothing about the books (laughter)

1925 03 03

Gas & Atlas Stone strike, p5

Balsham cottage fire, p5

1925 03 04

“We will shoot you – if you come up here”. This was alleged to be the threat of two men who barricaded themselves in one of the bedrooms at the Marquis of Granby Hotel, Littleport at 2am and were eventually arrested by the police. The prisoners were charged with stealing a cash box containing about £100 in notes, gold & silver.

1925 03 05

The county coroner conducted an inquest on a married woman of Whittlesford, whose body was found in a well near her house. A boot repairer gave evidence that about 5 am his wife had gone down to light the fire. At 6.15 the fire was not lit so he started a search. He found the gate leading to the well open. He drew a pail of water and saw that it was thick and stirred up. His son went down and found her at the bottom. The well was about 42 feet deep. An extra rope was got and she was pulled up. She appeared quite dead and was cold.

1925 03 05 c

A good many questions were asked at Cambridge bankruptcy court concerning certain boot-repairing machinery. Debtor said he had worked for Messrs Freeman, Hardy & Willis and later commenced business on his own account as a boot repairer in Mill Road. There was an electric motor and combination finishing machine, which cost £44. There was also a patching-machine. He had been pressed by creditors so he sold these machines to get money to satisfy them. The machines had not been removed from his premises and he did not tell his creditors he had sold them. It was untrue to say that gambling was one of the reasons for his appearance in that court.

1925 03 05

Many columns have been devoted to the first volume of biography of King Edward VII whose last year of training was spent in Cambridge where he hunted and played tennis. One phase of undergraduate recreation which he especially favoured was the A.D.C. At the club's premises in Jesus Lane the Prince was an appreciative spectator of the farces and extravaganzas to which their programmes were confined and his favour secured the club a fuller academic recognition than it had enjoyed before. Later he accepted the office of Honorary President and revisited from time to time, presiding in 1880 at the Club's 25th birthday

Dr Palmer birthday party, Linton

Wood Ditton carter, p6

Atlas Stone strike, p6

1925 03 06 ES

Littleport sensation: Marquis of Granby raid: photo. 25 03 06 ES

The Marquis of Granby Hotel, Littleport was besieged by police and special constables when two men were captured in the early hours of Monday morning. Inset is a portrait of Miss Richards who ran to the police at the request of the proprietress. The full story of the sensational events will no doubt be related at an adjourned hearing by the Ely Magistrates next week. In the small photo is seen Mr. G. Lincoln, a local butcher, who armed himself with a pitchfork ready for anything that might happen. Inset Mr. Ashby the proprietor of the hotel. 25 03 06 ES

At a special meeting of Little Thetford Parish Council the Assistant Overseer and Clerk, Mr. James Yarrow, handed in a document confirming his appointment to the duties dated December 24th 1870. From that date to the present, Mr. Yarrow has continued to serve the Parish in the capacity without a break. He tendered his resignation on account of old age. The Chairman commented on the long and valuable service says he had rendered the parish and move that the thanks of the meeting be accorded him Mr. Ralph Kisby was voted as his successor. 25 03 06 ES

1925 03 07

Fountain licence transfer refused, p3

Steel houses, p6

H.J. Stuart Brown etchings of Ely, p6

1925 03 09

Cambridge Watch Committee report that it is not practical for the fire engine to be got out of the Fire Station until the escape has first been removed, and valuable time is of necessity lost in responding to calls. It is also necessary to provide accommodation for a number of firemen to live on the premises. It will involve the demolition of the Chief Constable's house and the conversion of the old mortuary, which could be utilised to greater advantage than at the present time

1925 03 09

The bright idea was to unveil a 'statue' of Eros on Cambridge Market Hill, but they did not appear till quite three-quarters of an hour late. The crowd got tired of waiting and certain of their number pelted some adventurous spirits perched on the Market cross with oranges, and this little incident led to a general exchange of soft and 'squashy' fruit. Oranges gave place to tomatoes, which were followed by eggs and bags of flour. Besides being unpleasant, practice of this sort is dangerous. 25 03 09

1925 03 09

William Asplin applied for the renewal of the licence of the Sun, Waterbeach, owned by the Star Brewery. The house was used by travellers for lodging accommodation, also by grooms travelling with stud horses. There were three clubs which met on the premises, the Foresters, Shepherds, and a share-out club. They catered for two 'horkey' dinners a year. The tenant also carried on the business of carrier and grew fruit and vegetables for sale. It was 70 paces from the White Horse, which was a fully-licensed house, did a better trade, and had better accommodation.

1925 03 09 c

We regret to announce the death of Alderman W.T. See. He entered the office of the late Mr James Catling, auctioneer valuer, house and estate agent, with whom he served for 25 years. He gave up his work and devoted himself to music and became well-known as a teacher of organ and piano playing. He was conductor for many years of the Cambridge Choral Society. About three years ago he re-entered business life, going into partnership with Mr P. Freeman, under the name of Messrs See & Freeman, estate agents, Alexandra Street, Cambridge.

1925 03 10

Lamb Hotel Ely baby, p3

1925 03 11

Shepreth strike, p5

1925 03 13

Messrs Bodgers of Sidney Street, Cambridge intended to reconstruct the interior of their premises, constructing a new shop front. Cambridge Council Surveyor suggested that the firm put the premises back 11 feet as required for their street widening policy. The Council must legislate for the future and in view of the serious traffic problems must attempt to widen Sidney Street. They would pay the proprietor half the cost of the land at the present time and the remainder when the setting back took place. Some of the committee felt these terms were not as favourable as those offered to Messrs Sainsbury and Woolworth.

1925 03 13 ES

Littleport hotel sensation: Marquis of Granby siege. 25 03 13&(2)ES

Herbert Ashley proprietor of the Granby Hotel Littleport said he was standing at the hotel when two men asked if he could accommodate them for the night. About seven o'clock that evening one asked whether the lavatory was upstairs or down. He got him a candle and showed him the way to the lavatory. Both men went upstairs and were there for some time. The bedroom occupied by the proprietor and his wife was nearly opposite the lavatory and all the doors were kept open. That night the men took a bottle of Port wine to bed with them. About 1:30am he was awakened and saw a man leaving his bedroom. He heard him rush to number four bedroom and lock the door. He put on some clothes and opened the bedroom window. A few moments later, the policeman came. PC Smith said he was instructed to keep observation on the Granby hotel and was joined by two colleagues. About 1:30am a window went up and one of the accused put his head out of the window. A bolster, a chair, part of a chamber set and the top of a wash stand, was thrown out of the window and fell two feet from where he stood.

Mrs Ashby opened a window and made communication to the police. The side door was then opened and they proceeded to number four bedroom where the proprietor was trying to open the door. Voices could be heard within which said 'Go away, we will shoot you if you come here'. The men were heard to be barricading the door. Inside they heard a noise in the room as if they were trying to open a cash box and money rattled all over the floor. After a few minutes he heard one saying 'Let us burn the notes and there'll be no evidence against us'.

The Sergeant then said 'Open the door or we shall burst it open'. The men refused but afterwards said 'Give us a sporting chance. If you treat us fair and do not use us rough we will open the door and put our hands up'. Police went inside and arrested the men. The cash box was on the bed and the money laying around. It contained about 100 pounds. The men handed over the Treasury notes, gold and silver.

The prisoners were conveyed to Littleport Police Station where they were charged. One said 'I went into the room after the cash box. I had no boots on and the old girl said something. I ran out with the box. I saw the cash box and thought it was worth a try to get it' 25 03 13 ES

Charles Smith boots at the Lamb Hotel, Ely, said he was asked to get a pair of steps and go up to the servants' quarters. When he got there the trap door was open and the candle was burning on the rafter. He searched the loft under the roof and found a bundle of white rags. On trying to remove it he discovered it was a Macintosh. He tried to crawl back with the bundle in one hand and the candle in the other. As he was doing it the bundle slipped out of his hand, unrolled, and a little baby rolled out into the dirt. He felt its heart and could discover no breathing. He picked it up and rolled it in the Macintosh again. The baby was quite warm. It was lying close to the chimney stack which was quite hot. When the doctor arrived he was asked to fetch the body down. Police examined the child and found it was dead. There were no marks of violence whatever. 25 03 13 ES

The Gault, Sutton was the scene of an outbreak of fire when a straw stack and a row of several farm buildings were reduced within a few hours to a smouldering mass of debris. The building occupied a central position in the most thickly populated section of the Gault area, having house property and farm buildings on each side.

The fire started in a shed at the north end of the row and the bursting flames, gave intimation of the conflagration to the tenants of neighbouring residences. Within a short time, a large band of willing helpers were on the scene. The only stock in the yard were quickly removed from danger.

The buildings were chiefly of timber with zinc roofs, and quickly became a mess of flames. There was grave fear that the fire would spread and other properties become involved. Within a few feet is the residence of Mr. William Farby. Dividing the two properties a tarred boarded fence, joined to the sheds involved ran eastward for few yards where it joined a huge barn the first of a long row of farm buildings. Had these become involved a cottage that stood close to the far end would have been burned. Helpers kept up a continuous chain of buckets to and from a nearby well, keeping the roof of the barn saturated with water and retarded the progress of the flames until the arrival of the Fire Engine. 25 03 13ES

Ely Women's Institute is to have a library. In a place like Ely a public library is very necessary and though there are a few semi-private libraries belonging to clubs and organisations which are only open to their respective members, there is a great need for an institution where all could gather knowledge. May I suggest that the officers of the several libraries meet and see what can be done in the way of pooling all the books and placing them in some Hall in the town thus making a City Library that will be of use to all and will include books of great value. 25 03 13ES

Stretham: Meeting National Deposit Friendly Society. 25 03 13(3)

1925 03 14

Five Harston lads were each fined 2s.6d. for playing football in the highway. PC Carlton said there was only a small piece of grass near the White Swan and this was unfit for football purposes. During the summer cricket was allowed in the Park, and at one time Mr Arthur Hurrell let the boys play football in the meadow, but owing to some wilful damage being done he withdrew these facilities.

1925 03 14

Machinery was whirling, wireless valves were glowing, loud speakers were in full blast, a cinema lantern was projecting pictures, steam was hissing, and electric sparks were crackling in the Cambridge University Engineering Laboratories when 1,000 guests attended a conversatione to mark the completion of the equipment of the new laboratories at Scroop Terrace. It is only necessary for the front lecture room block to be erected ere the whole of the building will be complete.

John Wesley, Stretham death, p7

1925 03 16

The funeral took place of Mr Alfred Whitaker, for 37 years headmaster of Exning schools. His sudden death cast quite a gloom over the village where he had passed such an active life and where nearly all the inhabitants had passed through Exning School under his tuition. In all public movements for the benefit of the village he had been active and prominent and was always anxious for the well-being of Exning and jealous of its reputation. He will be greatly missed in all branches of village life.

1925 03 16

The "Tivoli", Cambridge's new cinema on Chesterton Road will be opened on Thursday and many people have been speculating as to what it looks like inside. A representative of the CDN who had a look around came away very much impressed with the general air of comfort and the attractiveness of the interior. Over 600 people can be seated in the body of the hall and gallery. It has comfort, excellent lighting and excellent decoration. If you want a private box for six people you may have one for the sum of 15s.

1925 03 17

Cottenham parish council elections, p5

Tivoli to open, p6

1925 03 19

Public meetings, largely attended by employees at East Anglian Cement Works, Shepreth, now on strike and their wives, were held in the village hall, Shepreth. For various reasons the unions had lapsed and as soon as that happened the Kaiser of Shepreth took advantage of it to use the whip hand severely in reducing the wages of the work-people he employed. Now the union was trying to retrieve the damage that was caused by the workers leaving their organisation.

1925 03 20

Cambridge Chief Constable reported that the present motor ambulance is showing signs of wear and in need of a thorough overhaul. It had travelled upwards of 13,000 miles and conveyed 1,500 patients. It had cost was £800, the chassis was second-hand. During this time £700 has been received for its use by private persons. The committee recommended the purchase of a new motor ambulance, built by a special ambulance body builder, at a cost not exceeding £1,000.

1925 03 20

Described as “Chesterton’s super cinema”, the Tivoli made its debut before the Cambridge public when there were two opening performances. Elaborate, cosy, artistically lighted and efficiently ventilated, Cambridge’s sixth cinema has every justification for expressing itself in superlatives. It has a courteous staff of brown-uniformed attendants, an excellent orchestra and a screen sufficiently large to do justice to the most elaborate film productions. The projection last night was not perfect, but this was merely a matter of adjustment.

St Hilda’s colliery band, p7

Funeral John Wesley, Stretham, p8

Robert Sayle staff, p8*

1925 03 20 ES

Death John Wesley, one of Stretham’s most respected inhabitants; engineer. 25 03 20ES

The death of John Wesley of Stretham is a great source of grief to the inhabitants in general.

His name has become a household word with farmers and all who are interested in agricultural engineering throughout the country. He was born in Stretham in 1853 and has lived here all his life.

He was educated at the village school and was connected with the Wesleyan Church of the village. He has carried on his engineering business in which he has made such a name for himself for over 40 years. The late Mr. Wesley was made a Justice of the Peace 12 years ago. He also occupied the position of Chairman of the Parish Council and Trustee of the Stretham charities. His health had been failing and two years ago, he was obliged to retire. 25 03 20 ES

Local authorities; elections: Painter cartoon. 25 03 20(2)ES

Stretham: cricket club agm. 25 03 20(3)ES

1925 03 21

Free cigars, p6*

1925 03 23

Pony with mange, p5

1925 03 25

The County recommended that where it becomes necessary to provide a new public elementary school for a parish by reason of the Managers of a non-provided school closing the school or failing to secure recognition of it as an efficient school, three-fourths of the expenses incurred may be charged on the parishes which in the opinion of the council are served by the school. If people knew the greater part of the expense of building a new school would fall on the parish they would bring pressure to see the old school was repaired.

1925 03 26

First season difficulties were revealed at the annual meeting of the County School Old Boys Rugby Club. Already the venture has 40 members, unfortunately the time-honoured trouble of getting members to pay their subscriptions has been experienced and the season was concluded with an adverse balance. The wet weather militated against the activities of the club and difficulty was often experienced to turn out a full team. However high hopes are entertained for substantial success in the forthcoming season.

Undergraduates mad escapade, p5

1925 03 27

The death of the vicar of Lode occurred under tragic circumstances within a few yards of the Vicarage. He was walking along the right hand side of the road. A motor oil delivery van, belonging to the Anglo-American Oil Company had just turned the corner from the direction of Bottisham.

William Sargent, a blacksmith said he heard the hooter sound and the driver shouted. The motor van was only going about two miles an hour when it passed his shop. The vicar was lying between the two near side wheels, the front wheel had passed over his head.

Shepreth cement strike, p6

1925 03 27 ES

Spring: cartoon, Painter. 25 03 27ES

1925 03 28

The stamp machine attached to the door of the General Post Office in Cambridge is such a boon that I hesitate to complain. But on no fewer than five occasions I have found the penny slot fail to act correctly. On the first occasion the machine delivered me two penny stamps for one copper. I was wondering what to do when another purchaser came along and slipped a penny in the slot without result, so I handed one over. The next time I received no stamp for my penny, and wiped that off as a loss. On the third occasion I got two stamps for the price of one, so cried "quits". For those who like a little speculation these stamp machines are ideal

Lode vicar inquest, p5

Wireless and Cambridge professor, p5

1925 03 31

The manager of the Co-operative Society, Ely, told the court he had missed small sums of money from the employee's leather cash bags, which had been hung up in the office for the men to give customers change. The police gave him two bags containing marked coins – two single shillings, four sixpences and twelve pennies, which he hung up in the cashier's office, then locked up and left the premises. Police kept watch and saw defendant climb over a fence at the rear. A few moments later he returned. He was arrested and found to have the marked coins

Isleham vicar death, p3

April 1925 CDN

1925 04 01

Photographic enlargements, p3*

Darwin's coffin, p5

1925 04 02

Most people in Cambridge saw the giant R.33 airship as she passed over on her flight from Cardington to Pulham air station, Norfolk. Those who were not aware of the intended flight were attracted by the noise of the engines and were rather surprised to see the ponderous vessel instead of a battalion of aeroplanes. She passed over Cambridge at about 8.30 and proceeded via Newmarket. The flight was of an experimental nature and on arrival at Pulham the R.33 carried out a number of air manoeuvres.

Suppers go west, p5

1925 04 03

Newmarket council heard that work on the Rows housing site was proceeding slowly owing to illness amongst the men. At one time half the bricklayers were away. The first pair of houses have now been plastered, and some of the joinery fixed. The third and fourth pair are roofed in, and stairs are fixed in the third pair. Of the sixth pair the brickwork has been carried up about three feet above the floor level. Foundations have been dug on the Stamford street site and the specifications drawn up for the Laureate Paddocks site.

1925 04 03 ES

Haddenham water supply incident: great public meeting. 25 04 03&(2)ES

Littleport man killed in collision with traction engine. 25 04 03ES

Sutton disastrous fire, windmill on main road to Mepal. 25 04 03ES # WINDMILL

A serious outbreak of fire occurred at Sutton when one of the most ancient and familiar landmark, a finely constructed wind mill was completely razed to the ground by fire. The mill situated on the east side of the main road that runs from Sutton to Mepal was the most conspicuous object visible for a considerable distance. Built many decades ago, it was one of the finest specimen of its types in the neighbourhood. For many years, it was owned and occupied by the Marshall family when supplementary power was installed in the form of an oil engine, and the interior throughout fitted with electric lighting. During recent years, it had become the property of Mr. Shackles of Downham Market.

The first warning of disaster came when flames became visible bursting from the top of the lofty structure. The captain of Ely Fire Brigade was conveyed by car to the scene of the blaze and a hydrant connected with the water main played its part until the arrival of the fire engine.

The mill, composed as it was chiefly of timber, quickly became a mess of flames. Precautionary measures were taken to prevent the flames from spreading to the great cluster of farm buildings adjoining the mill. Fortunately, the wind blew from a direction that was favourable and the sails were in such a position that when they crashed just before 3am they fell into the yard. Had the wind been blown in an eastern direction they would have crashed into the middle of the stables and buildings and heavier danger would have resulted. In crashing the end of one sail lodged on the roof of the engine house, but the blaze that followed was subdued before the flames obtained too great a hold and the engine escaped damage.

The yard was a scene of destruction those who witnessed the blaze described it as a sight of a lifetime: a tower of leaping flames in a roaring incandescent pillar that glowed vividly against the clouds of night, lighting up the neighbourhood like a huge torch. Throughout the day following a continuous stream of visitors from far and wide passed to and fro viewing the remains of the last of the mills of Sutton, two others having been destroyed by fire during the past 20 years. The scene was an impressive one of destruction. A circle of brickwork marks the spot where once stood a familiar landmark. Here, there and everywhere were twisted masses of the mill machinery, cogwheels, stones and massive charred timbers imbedded in the heap of debris with the sails and immense span of charred timbers lying forlornly beneath where but a few hours previously, they had revolved in the wind. 25 04 03ES

Sudden death of vicar of Isleham. 25 04 03(2)ES

John Yarrow, fish salesman of Silver Street, Ely, was driving his father's fish and chip delivery vehicle near Pymore. Taking a sharp bend, Mr Yarrow, who was accompanied by his father, James Yarrow, turned the steering wheel but unfortunately it did not actuate the steering mechanism. Mr Yarrow shouted to his father to jump from the car but before James could do so it had run into a deep, dry, ditch and immediately burst into flames. Neither of the occupants was injured, but the car, the body of which was mostly of wood, was completely wrecked.

They walked to Pymore and were taken from there to Ely by another car.

A breakdown car was sent from Mr A. Carr's garage, Ely, but when it arrived on the scene of the accident it was found that an intact wheel had been removed, the magneto tampered with and several copper pipes and parts of the engine had disappeared.

The car was a very old one, the engine being built in 1907, but the body-work is considerably older. 25 04 03(2)ES

1925 04 06

Paper increases to full size (smaller from Jan 5th)

Widening road – churchyard wall, p5

1924 04 07

Listening in, p5

1925 04 08

To celebrate the 25th anniversary of the well-known motor firm of King & Harper, nearly 200 people attended a reception and dance at the New Rendezvous. Mr King, the senior partner said: "In 1897 or 1898 I saw a motor for the first time. It was a De Dion tricycle brought from Paris by the Hon C.S. Rolls who was then up at college; he also brought a French mechanic to take care of it. He lent me his tricycle and mechanic and we drove it to Ely and back without a breakdown. This made me anxious to learn more about motors"

1925 04 08

A general meeting was held with the object of forming a bowling club for the city of Ely. They had one club in the city, but being a political club, it debarred some from playing the ancient game of bowls. They had had a green offered to them by the Sports Association on the Paradise Recreation Ground, near the position where the winning post was placed on sports' day. Part of the green lay on the cycle track. The turf was the best in Ely.

Flying cinema, p5

1925 04 08 c

Cambridge Board of Guardians discussed the question of securing the repayment of the relief granted in loans to those concerned in the building strike in August last year. Mr Branston said he was not sure they had acted legally in giving relief to able-bodied people who were on strike, all they could do was to relieve the wives and children of those men. Several of the men started to pay the loans back by instalments and had stopped for the reason that other people were not attempting to pay back the money they had had. Others stopped at the instance of "so-called friends of the unemployed" who seemed to do nothing but stir up trouble.

1925 04 09

Two attempts were made to stop an armed motorist who broke into Daisley's shop at Coronation Street, Cambridge, & stole a quantity of chocolates, cigarettes etc. A car travelling at high speed was seen by a constable at Bishop's Stortford. Shortly after PC Dodson of Harlow police station was notified of the approach of the car. Dashing out of the police station in his pyjamas he stood in the middle of the road and signalled the car to stop. It continued its course and the constable had to jump very quickly out of the way.

1925 04 09

PS Newell told the court that he saw the prisoners and, becoming suspicious, enlisted the services of various well-disposed people in Littleport, and surrounded the Marquis of Granby Hotel, which was to all intents and purposes in a state of siege. He invited the men to come out of their room but the reply he got was, "If you attempt to force the door we shall shoot". In fairness to the prisoners it should be said that when they were arrested no firearms were found upon them. In their endeavour to get away they had drawn the bedstead up to the window and knotted the sheets with the view of lowering themselves to the ground.

1925 04 10 ES

Ely beet factory construction: photo. 24 04 10ES

1925 04 11

About 120 members of the 1st Cambridgeshire Regiment are spending the Easter weekend under canvas at Madingley. The Cambridge-St Neots road acted as part of the front line of a British force which was endeavouring to repel an invader marching on London. The Norfolk Brigade was ordered to take up position from Oakington to Comberton. The work was carried out under service conditions & proved exceptionally difficult on account of the wooded nature of the country in front

1925 04 11

Good Friday dawned damp and dismal. Parker's Piece was the great gathering place of the merry makers. In accordance with custom many people produced skipping ropes and skipped away to their hearts' content. Old men & maidens, young men & children – likewise grand dames – jumped up and down to "Salt, mustard, vinegar, pepper" and similar meaningless jungles. Hawkers of balloons, ices, fruit and sweets had secured "pitches" at the East Road corner and did good business. Ices, yesterday morning – b-r-r-r!

1925 04 11

The Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen organised their annual tea and concert in the Co-op Hall. Mr W. Few presided over a company of 400 and announced there would be a meeting to form a local branch of the ASLEF Women's Society. They must not think they were all going to be President. The greatest curse of Labour and all societies connected with it was that everybody wanted to be top dog

1925 04 13

The employees of the East Anglia Cement Company, who are on strike at Shepreth, visited Cambridge. They marched in procession to Parker's Piece where a platform was in readiness for a mass meeting organised by the Cambridge Trades Council. On the arrival of the strikers a very large crowd quickly gathered. The speaker protested against the idea that because the wages of agricultural labourers were low, those of cement workers should also be low.

1925 04 16

A score of people assembled in St Bene't's church. Cambridge, for the purpose of hearing the John Mere commemoration sermon preached and benefiting materially as well as spiritually by sharing in Mere's benefaction to the extent of sums ranging from twopence to 3s.4d. Mere died in 1558 and gave certain property to the University. The Vice Chancellor should preach a sermon in grateful remembrance for which he is to have 3s.4d. for his labours. In failure of the sermon the penalty of 10s is to be levied by the churchwardens upon the university.

Fire Over, p5

1925 04 17

Histon pig sale, p5

1925 04 18

Tributes to the success with which the Universities of Britain had grappled with the difficulties resulting from war conditions is paid in a report. They have had to put their academic houses into some kind of repair after the storm of war by filling the gaps in their staffs and improvise measures for dealing with an unexpected influx of students, many of whom were of an unusual type, the special produce of the war. Under the Government scheme for higher education of ex-Service entrants, over 26,000 men were assisted with grants to take courses of study. They can be little doubt that the demand for University education will continue to grow in volume and intensity.

1925 04 18

When attempting to pass one of Messrs Course's St Ives motor buses near the New Inn, Swavesey, Mr James Tanfield who was riding a Douglas motor cycle combination collided with a telegraph post. The bus had been keeping in the centre of the road, and in trying to pass he ran his cycle on to the grass roadside, the wheel of the sidecar remaining on the road. The front wheel ran into a draining grip and caused the machine to collide with the post.

1925 04 18

On entering Sutton church the vicar found the vestry on fire. On a large oil stove had been stacked the majority of the church archives, the church registers, vestry carpets, surplices and other articles, all of which were ablaze. Further investigation showed the contents of a decanter of wine had been sprinkled all over the church, the marriage register being soaked with it. Candle grease was found over nearly every pew and a vulcanite pipe-stem was wedged in the belfry door lock. The offertory boxes containing money had been left intact. Had Canon Woodard not arrived when he did the church would probably have been burnt down

1925 04 20

Swavesey accident, p6*

1925 04 21

The borough surveyor reported that the reconstruction of the cells at the refuse destructor had been completed and it was now taking all the town's refuse. Under the old system there were three "topmen" and six "shovellers" employed to feed the cells, now no shovellers were necessary and all men were doing similar work. He recommended they should be called "chargers" and should all receive the same amount of pay

1925 04 21

The Isle of Ely football committee secretary reported that Manea had written to the Sutton football club, endeavouring to make a fixture for their last match and eventually Sutton made a date, but later wrote to say they were unable to raise a team. The club was a particularly difficult one to deal with. They were the most unbusinesslike club in the Isle. Wednesday 26th April

250,00th Ford car, p6

1925 04 23

Record of war, p5

Garage fire, p5

1925 04 24 ES

Sutton church fire, communion plate saved. 25 04 24&(2)(3)ES

The incomprehensible action of someone said to know his way about very well, in attempting to set fire to the picturesque old St. Andrew's Church, Sutton, has aroused the indignation of the people with the village. This act of suppose sacrilege was discovered by the vicar, Reverend A.L. Woodward, who on entering the vestry early one morning, was shocked to be confronted by a burst of flame. He saw that the thick wooden floor under carpet were on fire. He immediately secured a supply of water with which he soon had the outbreak under control. An examination of the scene revealed that someone had gained access and for some inexplicable reason, had burnt the book in which the services are entered, taking a bottle of wine which was in readiness for the Easter services and had actually gone so far as to throw some of it over the marriage register which dates back a period of 80 years. Serious damage was caused to a fine chest in which the valuable Communion Plate had been placed but fortunately the wood was so thick and strong that it did not allow the fire reaching the plate. Had he not reached the church when he did and the outbreak had spread to the oil stove there is every possibility that the church would have been in flames. The Vicar was surprised to find tightly wedged in the belfry door a vulcanite pipe stem. It required a bradall to remove this. Why this should have been placed in such a position no one knows. A rug had also been removed from the pulpit and a considerable amount of candle wax strewn about. 25 04 24ES

Opening of Guyhirn Bridge: memorable event, photos. 25 04 24(4)(5)(6)ES # c.44.75

In 1807 there had been a movement to get a bridge across the Nene at Guyhirn. At that time, there was a ferry which belonged to the Bishop of Ely and tolls were taken. It was thought that a bridge would be a great improvement and one was decided on. Then came the difficulties that always seemed to have been around the bridge. The landowners in the neighbourhood said that a bridge would impede the flow of water and in time of flood it would be utterly impossible to get the water away. If as well as floods they got ice there would be ice dams across the river and the whole country would be flooded.

The next attempt took place in 1903 when Mr. Weston was Councillor and he tried to force the bridge on them when they would not have it. He tried to make an arrangement for the County Council to pay £2,000, the landowners in the neighbourhood to find £2,000 more. But that did not come to anything. Then in 1913, Mr. Payne started the Council and had a petition about a bridge. But the war came and the majority of councillors were against it. Now however, they had got it through.

Mr Payne said there was a place in England where there was 14 miles of tidal river without a bridge. Although not presenting any special engineering difficulty, owing to the treacherous nature of the soil, the design of the foundations of the new bridge had to be most carefully considered so that the cost could be kept as low as possible without imperilling the stability of the structure. Originally, it had been intended to drive piles on the riverbank to carry the beams, but the ground was found to be so treacherous that it was necessary to lengthen the piles by eight feet and to drive the piles in pairs. The bridge is constructed entirely of Ferro-concrete and comprises five spans. 25 04 24ES

1925 04 25

In 1908 the County council started a programme of reconstructing the roads in the county, but they forgot about Cambridge. Nothing had been done apart from a few roads in the middle and it was only recently that they realised there were motors on the roads. Newmarket Road had been made up in the old way and in a few weeks potholes appeared. The problem was the motor traffic. The money that was being raised by motor taxation was being spent for purposes it was never intended to be spent on. They must have the money for the roads from the proper quarter, namely motor taxation.

Ely woman council, p6

1925 04 27

Over council and Over Church of England school were visited by members of the County Education Committee. The average attendance at the first is 75 and the cost of staffing is £590, and at the Church school 41 and the cost £395. They did not require to be either financialists or educationalists to realise that it was much better to have one school in a village of that sort, but the voluntary school managers were unable to agree to the transfer of the older children to the council school. The religious education given in the council school was as good as any in the Church schools and public opinion would prevent such a state of things in the future.

1925 04 27 c

Haddenham folk were in a happy mood when a social was held in the Church Hall to celebrate the opening of a new branch of the Ely Co-operative Society in the village. The new premises, which were erected by Mr H. Feast, a local builder, comprise departments for groceries, provisions, drapery & boots. Years ago the Co-operative tree was planted in Ely, and first of all it branched out to Littleport. Later came the Sutton branch, then one in Ely.

1925 04 28

Salvation Army hall, p5*

1925 04 29

Educational attendance case, p5*

1925 04 30

Thomas Parnwell death, p3

May 1925 CDN

1925 05 01

A picturesque ceremony took place at the Central Girls' School when the May Queen was crowned. The school was tastefully decorated with bluebells, cowslips, buttercups and violets. The girls, attired in white dresses, sang songs of spring. Queen Gwendoline Marshall abdicated and the Mayor proclaimed Effie Few as the new queen. After her enthronement the new Queen's subjects paid homage by placing flowers at her feet.

1925 05 01 ES

Ely Sugar Factory footballers cartoon, Painter. 25 05 01ES

1925 05 02

May Day in Newmarket was bleak and cold, nevertheless the children kept up the old custom of garland weaving and garlands of various shapes and sizes were carried through the streets by young people with an eye to the largesse of passengers. At Sussex Lodge the custom of giving prizes for the most artistically woven garlands still prevails. The purple anemone, that locally grows only on the Devil's Ditch, furnished splashes of dark colour among the light yellow primulas, marsh marigolds and buttercups.

1925 05 02

After nearly 700 years – except for a period during the Great War – services are again to be held in the Leper's Chapel at Barnwell. The chapel is the property of the University by whom permission to use the building was readily given. Negotiations have also had to be conducted with the owner of the field, so that a right-of-way may be obtained from the road. The services will be regular and open to the public. Members of Westcott House are now busy at the chapel removing some of the ravages of time as the building remains just as it was left at the end of the war

1925 05 02 c

A Fordham smallholder was summoned for not sending his daughter to school. Mr Savidge, attendance officer, said the excuse was illness. The father told him that if he came again he would throw him in the drain. As the girl was now 14 and over age an attendance order could not be made, so witness asked for a fine. The father had three other children. He was fined 10/-

1925 05 04

Large crowds witnessed the Cambridge Labour and Co-operative Party's May Day demonstration on Parker's Piece. It was addressed by E.V. Watring. He said the cement workers had been on strike for eight weeks and not a single man had retracted because they had received magnificent support from the Labour movement. At a recent meeting of the Cambridge section of the Fascisti movement he had been alluded to as a "breeder of strikes". So far as the Shepreth dispute was concerned he denied that statement. The strike was brought about by the directors of the East Anglian Cement Company and only after every possible avenue leading to arbitration had been wiped away that the men forced the issue by striking.

1925 05 05

Monday was an important day in the lives of Roman Catholic members of the University. The blessing of the chapel at Fisher House took place and was followed by a luncheon. Fisher House is on the site of the Black Swan, one of the oldest inns in Cambridge, and the Dug Out. It has been turned into the residence for the chaplain and the old billiard room at the back has been adapted to serve as a chapel.

1925 05 06

Henry Curtis death,

1925 05 08

Alleged indecent attacks on young girls in Ely have caused considerable alarm. Twice police were within an ace of capturing the individual but the man escaped. They finally accomplished the arrest by a clever ruse. Mrs Hillier, wife of a police constable went out into the darkness on her mission to save young girls from being molested. Without any warning a man attacked her, a struggle ensued and she blew a police whistle, pursuing him as he tried to escape down the street. Police sergeant Newell was in the near vicinity and the man was caught. Mrs Hillier was congratulated upon her plucky act in the interests of justice.

1925 05 08 ES

Stretham: death of Rev. J. Parnell after funeral of his brother. 25 05 08&(2)ES

The peaceful village of Stretham is mourning the tragic suddenness with which it has been deprived of two of its best-known residents. Mr. Thomas Parnell was a son of the late Mr. Dyson Parnell, who was in charge with the now defunct toll gate house, Stretham Ferry where he was born. As a young man he went to Barnsley where for several years he worked in the coal mines. Returning to Stretham some years later, he started business as a coal merchant. He conducted this for nearly 40 years, then on his retirement transferred the business to his son, Mr. J.C. Parnell, who also conducts the Haddenham and District Motor Bus Service.

The village was shocked to learn of the death of the Reverend Jabez Parnell the day following the funeral of his brother. He was in many ways a remarkable man and carried his 84 years in a surprisingly active manner. At the age of 72 he learned to ride a bicycle, and two years later, transferred his affections to motorcycling. He simply revelled in motorcycling with Mrs. Parnell to London and back over the weekend. He was also a keen gardener. Born at Waterbeach, he came to Stretham to reside at the age and at the age of 18 he moved to London where he entered Spurgeon College with a view of entering the Baptist ministry. It was during his first pastor at Manea that he married. He subsequently held pastorates at Southampton, Plymouth and London and came to Stretham 17 years ago on account of his wife's health. preaching in local chapels. 25 05 08ES

1925 05 09

The funeral took place of Mr William West of the Art Department of the University Press. He was a versatile artist of considerable ability. His sketches of old Cambridge are numerous and beautiful & some may be seen in the book entitled "Cambridge re-visited" by Mr Arthur Gray, while many others have never been published. During the war he was much in request at the First Eastern General Hospital where he made valuable records of unusual aspects of certain diseases

1925 05 12

Great success marked the Jubilee celebrations at Ely of the founding of the Girls Friendly Society, over 1,400 members and associates from all parts of the dioceses attending a festival and thanksgiving service in the cathedral. A picturesque scene was presented when the procession with their magnificent banners and emblems passed from the Palace Green to the cathedral. The catering of Mr Vernon Cross of Ye Olde Tea Rooms, Forehill, was excellent.

1925 05 12

The opening of the new Guildhall organ marks a fresh era in the history of Cambridge music. The old organ had no virtues but many vices. The pitch was wrong, much of the tone was bad, the action quite defective and the general scheme and plan quite unsuited for the purpose and room for which it was designed. Erected in 1882 by voluntary subscription it had become almost unplayable. Both the heating and ventilation of the room were bad and gross variations in the temperature had the effect of putting the organ out of use with an orchestra and even of rendering certain stops unusable with others.

Rook shooting, p6

1925 05 13

Revised plans for the proposed open-air school in Cambridge show that instead of four classrooms there should be three and one large rest shelter which when not in use for rest could be used as a classroom. There would be a shed for manual instruction for boys and a small building for instruction in cookery and laundry, of efficient size for about a dozen mentally defective girls. The ends of the classrooms would be fitted with patent sliding and folding windows so that the whole extent of the ends can be opened or closed at will.

12mph speed limit, p5

1925 05 14

The minds of motoring undergraduates in the University are greatly perturbed over certain proposals which have been made for the total prohibition of motor vehicles by junior members. The proctors state that "a few undergraduates use their cars and motor cycles after dark to drive undesirable young women into the country and they consider it their duty to prevent them". It is ridiculous for them to walk the streets after dark chasing pedestrian undergraduates for having no caps whilst boisterous merry-makers rush by in cars.

1925 05 15

The Ouse drainage question is still a burning topic in Soham. Two bailiffs visited a farm at Soham fen to demand rates amounting to £29. Apparently the money was not forthcoming for one of the bailiffs went over to a barn and taking down a halter which was hanging just over the top of a mangold cutter said, "I seize this". A tall, well-built young lady of 16 also seized hold of the halter, and a struggle ensued during which she struck her arm against the mangold cutter, bruising it. Another young lady then came on the scene and struck the bailiff on the nose, causing blood to flow. Farmers think the Ouse Drainage Board was forced on them by the Government and that Soham is being asked to pay for works which benefit other towns who were not asked to contribute.

1925 05 15 ES

Novel by Charles A. Brandeth set in fens. 25 05 15ES

Stretham: wedding Emily Russell and Ernest Guy. 25 05 15(2)ES

1925 05 16

The Rector of Hardwick was fined 10s. for assaulting a farm labourer. It was the outcome of considerable friction between the Rector and his parishioners over the right-of-way of a roadway leading through the Rectory grounds to a farm. The Rector claims he had the right to turn back people whom he considers objectionable, whereas villagers declare the road to be public for everybody's use. Complainant said that when he was part way down the road the rector had rushed out of his garden with a four-tined fork and said: "You are not going this way". He was pushed into the hedge and the tines of the fork probed through his coat. The rector said he thought the man was going to make one of his flying rushes and raised the tool to defend himself.

Newmarket Road dust, p6

1925 05 19

New Guildhall organ, p5

Stretham feast week, p5

Soham Beechurst purchased, p5

1925 05 20

The County Education Committee recommended the purchase of "Beechurst" for the purpose of carrying on a central school at Soham to provide an education of a secondary type for boys of the ages of 10 to 16 years. They also recommend the closing of Soham Grammar School and the disposal of the property. People who were not attached to Soham Grammar School for sentimental reasons would in time become just as proud of "Beechurst". Coun. Beales said that if they could give their boys a good rural education and they could leave and help their parents, that was what people would appreciate.

1925 05 20

Cambridge Poor Law Guardians considered installing wireless apparatus at the Institution. Mrs Keynes said some members were not entirely satisfied that it would be a very great boon to the inmates, partly because of the nature of the entertainment and partly because the best part of the performance usually came on after their inmates had gone to bed. The chairman handed round copies of the "Radio Times" to enable members to see the types of programmes given. Messrs Allin's estimate for a six-valve set with five loud speakers was £65. Chesterton Institution had installed three loud speakers and they were appreciated.

1925 05 21

Two shopkeepers occupying adjacent premises in East Road, Cambridge, appeared before magistrates. Frederick Peak, a wholesale confectioner said a big Smith's van pulled up outside his premises to deliver some tins of potato chips. His neighbour came and complained about the van standing near her door. He was carrying ten tins of chips, stacked as high as his chin, when she put up both her hands and deliberately knocked them from his arms. Two lids came off and the contents were spilled. On another occasion she threw soapy water on him from an upstairs window.

1925 05 22

Stapleford parishioners are working hard to raise sufficient funds to build a vestry for their church. For two years various efforts have been devoted to raising the required £450. Plans have been drawn up and it is hoped to commence building within a year or so.

Tobacconist fined, p5

1925 05 22 ES

Sutton death John Taylor, the 'Grand Old Man'. 25 05 22ES

The funeral of John Taylor 'The Grand Old Man of Sutton' was attended by a large congregation. All business premises closed and in every house along the route taken by the cortege blinds were drawn. A large company of past scholars and teachers walked in front and formed a guard of honour outside the church. He had been headmaster of the school for 35 years. He was severe in discipline but his severity was set upon a foundation of love and what his scholars owed to that tempered discipline never can be told. 25 05 22ES

Stretham Feast Sunday: detailed article. 25 05 22ES

Stretham Feast Sunday was observed in an almost tropical heat. The village was agog with people obsessed with one idea, that was making all and sundry contribute their quota for the beneficial work of Addenbrooke's Hospital. The narrow main village Main Street, was crowded with people ever ready to yield to lynx-eyed collectors who held up motorists, of whom there were a large number to extract from them a contribution. The banner of the Friendly Societies headed the parade with music provided by the Haddenham Foresters' Band. A united open air service was held in the cricket field and in the evening, the band gave a sacred concert on the Mission Hall corner 25 05 22ES

1925 05 23

The Cambridge University Senate discussed the latest proposal that undergraduates shall not have motor vehicles during their first year of residence. It would cut down the number of vehicles in the busy narrow streets and give first year men a better chance of settling down to college life. It would prevent them wasting so much time rushing about, and they would form other habits, rather than motor-cycle habits. Opponents say the scheme is impracticable and against the ideas of modern development

1925 05 22 c

Shortly after midnight a small band of cyclists sallied forth from against the Senate House en route to join several thousand of fellow-wheelmen at Meriden in a memorial service to cyclists killed in the war. A cyclist from Royston joined the party at the Caxton Gibbet cross-roads where a halt was called to don capes. On the sharp bend approaching St Neots a two-seater car, with lamps alight, was embedded head-on in the hedge and a near-by telegraph pole leaning at an alarming rate. Nothing was to be seen of the occupants and the cyclists carried on to Bedford, which was reached about 3 am

1925 05 25

Alimond Denson, of Broad Street, Ely, applied for possession of a cottage next door to his house. He lived with his mother, father and two sisters who carried out a tailoring business at the same premises. There was one large room downstairs. One part was used for his photography work where the public went to have photos taken, while the other was used as a fitting room by his sisters. Upstairs there were two rooms and a box room. There was only one old lady living in the cottage that contained eight rooms. She had not paid the rent. They had offered her a house down an alley and said she could serve cups of tea over the fence to the footballers.

Cambridge to Mereden, p6*

1925 05 27

Mentally-deficient boys, p5

1925 05 28

"I promised the little girl at work that I would bring her some flowers" was the excuse which a 14-year-old errand boy offered to magistrates for wilfully damaging a laburnum tree at Victoria Great Jubilee Memorial Pleasure ground, Chesterton Road. The magistrates took a lenient view of the offence and fined him 3s.

Footballers merry. P3

1925 05 29

Cambridge Guardians were told that their forefathers built the present infirmary as a test house for the able-bodied, but now it was becoming half hospital and half almshouse, and so they needed better accommodation now than they did. Mr Sells said he had every sympathy with the poor but they had to recognise that their inmates were better housed, better fed and better clothed than 75 per cent of the poor of Cambridge. If expenditure was embarked upon it would have to be found by the working men of Cambridge. The new building was not urgently needed.

1925 05 29

Cambridge councillors were told that the present electricity generating station was out of date. Today was the day of the big power station and what was desired was a load throughout the day and night. Users had been told they could not have the supply they wanted because the Company did not want too many to take it on. But the more the electricity was used the better it would be for the health of the town. An outsider was knocking at the door and he was coming with current cheaper than they could supply.

1925 05 29 c

A Burwell publican came up for public examination at the bankruptcy court. In 1895 he was working for a man as a farm labourer and cab driver, also for the vicar of Burwell as groom and gardener. In 1897 he began business as a publican and took the King William. The only experience he had had was serving at a house where he had previously worked as a jobbing man in the yard. He bought a horse for haggle-carting purposes and to use in a fourwheeler & while he was carting his wife looked after the business. Trade at the pub got slack and the carting business was also a failure. He borrowed £40 from the Provincial Union Bank, Ipswich to pay the brewer.

1925 05 29 ES

Stretham farm failure Longman Glover: had framed 125 acres, one cow, two horses sold. 25 05 29ES
A Stretham farmer told the bankruptcy court he had no money except that for which he worked as a labourer. Before he gave up last Michaelmas he was farming 125 acres and had not sufficient money to square up. He paid the landlord some of the debt with his stock. When he left he owed £80 rent, there was £60 for threshing in respect to three years. He had one cow and two horses when he finished up and implements which he sold when he sold the farm. His son had some implements which his grandfather gave him before he died, two horses and two cows. 25 05 29ES

A Stretham farmer told the court that he had no money except that for which he worked as a labourer. Before he gave up last Michaelmas he was farming 125 acres. At the time he had to give up he had not sufficient money to 'square up'. He had a few stock but not enough money to pay the landlord all his rights, and paid some of the debt with his stock. When he left he owned £80 rent and there was £60 for threshing in respect to three years, and his valuation was £72.10s. He had one cow and two horses when he finished and his implements which he sold when he sold the farm.

His son had some implements which his grandfather gave him before he died. His son also had two horses and two cows and lived on the farm with witness who was now in lodgings. At the present time he was working at the Sugar Beet Factory where he earned £2.10s. His wife earned no money and they were living with his daughter to whom two shillings was paid a week for rent and two shillings and six pence for coal.

Prior to going to the beet factory, he worked on a bridge for a firm of contractors, earning £1 and 25 shillings a week when it was wet. He did not do jobs as a horse doctor. He was ordered to pay £2 a month and costs. 25 05 29ES

Stretham: death Mrs A.L. Taylor, Chapel Square. 25 05 29(2)ES

Soham Grammar School had been in existence as an educational centre for hundreds of years and to buy something else and conduct it on what they called General Central School lines and turned around and sell the grammar school was nothing more or less than an insult to sell them for future generations of children of ability with the deprived of Secondary Education unless they went to Cambridge and accommodation there was none too great they had also to think of their girls who went to Ely High School as a set off against that the Iron County Council sent their boys to so it would be nothing less than a calamity to the place. If we had our song Grammar School abolished. The headmaster agrees and thinks it would be a good idea to send an objection to the Member of Parliament. The idea of stopping this nonsense of trying to do away with the grammar school and in its place running a Central School. At the Central School boys had to go to school until they were 15. If they wanted trouble, all they had to do was to ask the some agricultural work boys to be on at school until 15 years of age 25 05 29 ES

1925 05 30

A schoolboy told the inquest that he was on Great Wratting school steps. Albert --- was playing about and swinging on the back of a four-wheeled coal dray. He was swinging with his hands when his foot caught in the back wheel. Deceased could not get his foot out and he was pulled down and the wheel went up his leg and shoulder and grazed his head. The dray was stopped and the driver lifted the deceased from the ground and took him into the schoolroom. The driver said his dray contained two tons of coal and 3 cwt of pollard to deliver at the kennels of the Newmarket and Thurlow Hounds. The coroner said the driver was in no way to blame and seemed to have done all he could.

1925 05 30

Some interesting competitions in clay target shooting were held on Messrs Gallyon's shooting park, at Moor Barns Farm, Madingley Road, Cambridge. They were the first of the kind to be held in the Eastern Counties and attracted a good attendance. A new automatic trap which has just been installed on the ground gave general satisfaction. This is the first time that a trap of this kind has been used in Cambridge and proved its value, not only from the economical point of view, but also for accelerating the competition.

June 1925 CDN

1925 06 02

Telegraph excuse, p5

Wonderful Whitsun, p6

1925 06 03

The chairman of Comberton parish council said that since 1919 they had been without a recreation ground in the central part of the village. Previous to that year a meadow was hired annually at a rental of £7. This sum was paid by the amount received for the herbage on the old pleasure ground situate on the boundary of the parish. This had never been used for recreation purposes and was useless. The parish council now wished to sell it and devote the proceeds of the sale towards the purchase of a new recreation ground at Pennie's Close, but the owner refused to negotiate. They sought compulsory powers for its acquisition.

Hotel de luxe?, p5

Glimpses of old Cambridge, p5

1926 06 04

Bygone Cambridge, p3

1925 06 05

Cambridge council was told that the Brunswick school did not exist at the present time because the Borough surveyor drew attention to the giving way of the building, and they first of all had to pull down the Boys' School because it was dragging the other part down, and eventually they pulled down the Girls' School. The girls were in temporary premises at Paradise Street School and the boys in Fitzroy Street. They had to bear in mind that a new bridge was going to be built at Walnut Tree Avenue some time – (laughter) – and when that was done they would have to accommodate some children from old Chesterton.

Shop front, Newmarket Road, p6

1925 06 05 ES

The little, old-fashioned Baptist Chapel of Stretham held its anniversary service. No one seems to know exactly when the chapel was first built. An aged resident said it was over 100 years ago when the edifice was converted into a chapel, and that the building itself had stood for two centuries or more. The chapel is very small, and inside the old-fashioned box pews are still in use. Recently a new organ was installed and this has proved a great asset to the service. 25 06 05ES

1925 06 06

Very many residents of Cambridge who in their leisure moments wander round the Market Place to see what literary treasure may there be picked up will be interested in a movement set on foot by prominent members of the University to do honour to Mr G. David, the well-known bookseller, who has had a stall there for close on thirty years. A luncheon will be given in the Old Combination Room, Trinity College in appreciation of the conspicuous service he has rendered to the cause of humane letters.

1925 06 06

"I cannot go out the backway or the front door without she throws some insult at me. I cannot knock a nail into the wall, she threw two pails of water over the taxi-sidecar that was standing in the road, and if a taxi is left there she goes for a policeman", said Mrs Ellis Riseley of Russell Street, Cambridge, the wife of a taxi-sidecar owner in enumerating some of the failings of her neighbour. In reply the neighbour said they kept a couple of taxi-sidecars outside the house from early morning until late at night, she was simply throwing a pail of water over the pavement for the sake of cleanliness because of all the oil and petrol which came from the taxis.

Undergraduate motor cycles, p5

Punch on Littleport, p6

1925 06 08

While reading the Athanasian Creed on Sunday morning, the Rev A. Campbell Yorke, rector of Fowlmere, was seized with a heart attack and expired almost immediately. He was 74 and by a tragic coincidence was making preparations to retire from active ministry. He had ministered in Australia and New Zealand until 1897 when he came to England and took the living in Fowlmere

1925 06 08

The Bishop of Ely formally opened Stanton House, the new Cambridge Shelter for Women and Girls at Glisson Road. The Home is open day and night, not only for what are generally known as "rescue cases" but for all those who find themselves stranded in the town without means of getting lodgings. Many cases are brought by the police. The inmates stay until they can be restored to their friends or arranged for in suitable institutions. Originally started in 1854 by a few undergraduates it has several times been temporarily closed down on account of financial difficulties and as often re-opened at the request of town authorities

William Farren accident, p5
Rampton and Cottenham school, p6

1925 06 09

Speaking of the need for a Bath House in Gwydir Street, Cambridge, Dr Laird said the only houses in the area with baths were 50 being built by the Corporation in Vinery Road and about 80 houses in Guest, Willis and Collier roads. A very small proportion of the houses in Cambridge had baths. The absence of such facilities was a contributory cause of disease. The Ministry wished to defer it because they thought bricklayers should be employed on housing schemes and hesitated to sanction schemes that would take bricklayers from houses.

1925 06 10

A vision of 300-ton vessels using the river to bring goods into Cambridge from abroad was conjured up by Rotarian Alfred Winship. This could not be done however until Baitsbite and Bottisham Locks had been enlarged and made efficient. His idea was to have a ship canal. Rivers had to be enlarged in any case for drainage purposes. Barges approaching 14 feet wide already used the lodes and farmers were already talking about getting Scotch seed potatoes by river.

1925 06 11

Soham cinema lamp, p3
Immaculate 'Mays', p5

1925 06 12

Artists exhibit – F. Griggs, H. Bushberry, G. Brockhurst, p5
Motor van Russell Wright fire, p6

1925 06 12 ES

Ruston Hornby drag line dredger for sale: advert. 25 06 12ES
To Drainage and River Authorities. The Ruston Hornsby Drag-Line Dredger No,10 is for Sale owing to completion of contract. This dredger is mounted on Caterpillar wheels and is suitable for travelling on soft or boggy ground. It has been working on the River Nene Widening Scheme since March 1924, excavating soil out of the river and depositing it on the riverbanks at less than 4d per cubic yard, including coal and labour costs. Low price. 25 05 12 ES

1925 06 13

Pymoor church's Diamond Jubilee was a proud day for the little village. The church and the school which adjoins it were built by Frederick Fisher in 1865 and opened and dedicated by Bishop Browne. Since that year members of the family have contributed towards the adornments of the church. A gloom was cast on their rejoicing because their old friend, Mr George Darby was leaving them after 36 years of residence and going to grace Lt Downham with his presence.

Dinner to David, p6

1925 06 16

The May Week programme of concerts and balls is now in full swing and there were a number of functions at various colleges. About 300 guests attended Gonville & Caius College Ball. It was lit with rose-shaded electric lights, which cast a pleasing subdued glow over the room, while four large electric fans and two large ice-blocks kept the atmosphere cool. Contrary to the general practice, ladies took part in the programme submitted by St Catharine's College Musical Society. The chief woman artiste was Miss Maud Johnston, while there was a fair sprinkling of ladies in the orchestra.

1925 06 17

Littlebury blacksmith death, p3

A.C. Benson death, p5

1925 06 18

Betting raid, p5

1925 06 20

Swavesey church is a very fine structure, nearly 600 years old, and work of restoration has been carried out during recent years under the supervision of the Society for the Protection of Ancient Buildings, but much remains to be done. The roof of the north and south aisles are in urgent need of attention, work involving a heavy expenditure. At the annual garden fete and sale of work Miss Lucy Dunn recalls that during her residence in the village there were great floods, necessitating the use of planks and boats to move from the houses.

1925 06 20

The "one-way" traffic system in Petty Cury, Cambridge, has now been in force for so long that most people have come to regard it as a settled thing, but the regulation has to be formally approved by the Minister of Transport. The only criticism is that ordinary bicycles should be included in the term "vehicular traffic" but the Chief Constable takes the view that to prevent these riding both ways as at present would cause more trouble than the change would be worth.

1925 06 20

At the Leys School Jubilee Speech Day the Chairman of Governors thought that all interested in the school might congratulate themselves on the steady, distinguished and continual progress in all directions. In scholarship and in sport they held their own. The Leys Mission in London had been acknowledged to be the finest public school mission, alike in its premises and activities, in the world.

1925 06 22

Yet another precedent was created by the Mayor (Councillor Mrs Hartree) when under Midsummer Fair was officially opened in the presence of a good crowd. This is the first time in its long history that the Fair has been opened by a lady. There followed a liberal scattering of shining coppers and children, their elders as well as Fair hands pushed and scrambled in the dust to secure the coveted coins. The roundabout horses were soon laden with merry-makers while housewives, for a more serious purpose, haunted the innumerable crockery stalls in search of bargains in china.

1925 06 23

Library – Rouse Ball, p3

Balsham fire, p5*

1925 06 25

Dr Searle of the Cambridge Fish Preservation and Angling Society said wholesale destruction of fish life was going on. Fish in the Granta were being destroyed by washings from tarred roads and by netting. There were 500 anglers in one club in Cambridge and 200 in another. Anglers from Sheffield came down frequently and caught undersized fish and threw them out on the bank

Stretham garden fete, p5*

1925 06 26

Centaur scramble, p4

1925 06 26 ES

Stretham 4th annual garden fete & American tea, photo. 25 06 26&(2)ES

Ely Bell Hotel new motor bus, supplants old horse bus: photo. 25 05 26(3)ES

A new motor 'bus has been purchased by the Bell Hotel, Ely, for the conveyance of its guests too and from the station. It supplants the old horse 'bus which has done service of a large number of years.: photo. 25 06 26(3)ES

Chatteris: the commencement of the harvesting of peas, strawberries and hay has accounted for a large decrease in the number of unemployed persons on the books of the local Labour Exchange this week, there now being only four men and two women compared with eight men and four women last week. These figures are the lowest yet recorded this year. 25 06 26ES

1925 06 27

A somewhat alarming rumour as to four men engaged in harvest work in West Fen, Ely, having been poisoned after drinking beer, has gained ground in the last day or two. It appears they were working in a field and had stopped for refreshments. Each drank some beer from a bottle, which evidently had previously contained paraffin oil. Afterwards the men complained of pains in the stomach. Three recovered sufficiently form the attack to proceed with their work but the fourth was not so fortunate and medical attention had to be obtained.

1925 06 29

Rampton parents, p5

1925 06 30

Midsummer Common nuisance, p5

July 1925 CDN

1925 07 01

A very important addition to the garage accommodation of Cambridge is the new depot just opened by the enterprising firm of Messrs King & Harper in Hills Road. It is situated just off the busy centre of the town so that people who are timid can drive up without much trouble and receive attention without being hustled by the police. King & Harper sell so many cars that it is quite impossible for them to give the service at Bridge Street to all the people who wish to come to them. In front of the garage is a petrol filling station from which four different kinds of petrol can be obtained at a moment's notice. Two large wash-downs have been provided which owner-drivers may use for the purpose of washing their cars.

1925 07 02

Cement industry, p3

1925 07 03

In June 50 years ago Court Alexander of the Ancient Foresters was started in the Alexandra Rooms. They did not make much headway however. In 1882 Brother Littlechild was appointed secretary and held the office until 1915. They changed their headquarters several times and soon got on a sound footing. Today their total funds were £6,341 & their sick and funeral fund was worth £5,238. The court was going on very well indeed.

1925 07 03

The annual swim through Cambridge may be said to rank as one of the finest races witnessed since its inception. There were 37 competitors, including 14 ladies. The course followed by the swimmers from the Old Mill, Mill Lane to Strange's Boathouse, Jesus Lock, via the Backs of the colleges is approximately 1,360 yards. The town turned out in force at every point of vantage to watch the progress of the swimmers. H.P. Lavender passed the winning post barely five yards in front of Miss Lavender amidst the applause of the onlookers.

Comberton fair, p5

1925 07 03 ES

Ouse Drainage Board proposed new bridges at Mepal & Welney. 25 07 03&(2)ES

Housing sugar beet workers: Ely Jam Factory converted into a home. 25 07 03(3)

An article in the Daily Herald reads: The Isle of Ely is preparing for the next jolly old war. At a recent meeting, the Higher Education Subcommittee resolved that a letter be sent to the governors of Wisbech Grammar School protesting against military instruction being given and requesting its discontinuance. Such a resolution was clearly monstrous and not to be endured. The Reverend A. Newman said it was a mistake and should not be confirmed. He spoke of the great benefit to the country in the existence of the Cadet Corps which encouraged a military spirit. J.W. Ollard said the military spirit had been taken by those who were professing pacifism to be opposed to peace. The keenest pacifist was the soldier who had seen the most fighting. But Mr. H. Paine, who proposed the resolution contended it was impossible to give military instruction without generating the military spirit. To teach boys the use of military weapons was an obstacle to the progress of peace. The Dean of Ely said he was a hearty supporter of every efforts for the maintenance of peace but did not think the Cadet Corps force fostered aggressive militarism. But the Reverend T. McNabb objected to military training in the schools because the boys' minds were in a plastic state and if they prepared for war, they got it. However, the brethren of the Church of England were on the winning side, the original minute was rescinded. Henceforth, the Islanders of Ely can rest comfortably in their beds, knowing that the young are being taught to shoot to kill. 25 07 03ES

Mr. William Seymour entered the employ of the Lamb Hotel, Ely in 1881 and in the following year commenced to drive the familiar old horse bus. For 43 years he continued to do this work, but is now no longer to be seen mounted on his box. The horse bus has been forsaken for the more modern and rapid means of motor transport. Mr Seymour, who was greatly attached to his horse, parted reluctantly with it and is learning to drive the motor taxi so that neither the station nor the city will lose his popular personality. He has driven as many as 13 or 14 times a day to and from the station. 25 07 03 ES

After a considerable period of inactivity, the Jam Factory in Bray's Lane, Ely now has its doors flung wide open, not for the purpose for which it was originally intended, but to provide accommodation for a portion of the army of workers employed in the construction of the Beet Sugar Factory. The task of looking after the housing and feeding of 56 men already there had been left in the hands of the White Hart Hotel. Excellent single beds have been set out with a precision reminiscence of the army days with three cooks serving up appetising meals. The men at present housed in the jam factory were joiners and fitters but will soon be joined by another 100 men. Happiness and contentment reigns supreme in this Jam Factory home where bacon and eggs are served for breakfast and a hot dinner at 7:30 as well as supper before retiring to bed. 25 07 03ES

The scheme for rebuilding Welney Suspension Bridge was estimated to cost £15,000 and a conference of the Ministry of Transport with representatives of Norfolk & the Isle of Ely County Councils, the Welney Charity Commissioners and Ouse Drainage Board discussed the payment with the Drainage Board paying £2,500. They said they had no money; Welney Charity Commissioners seemed anxious the bridge should be done and pointed out the liability of the Board for the upkeep. But the Board would give up tolls amounting to £123 pounds a year and the County Councils would get the benefit.

Sir Fred Hiam said no such bridge was needed for the district. The Ministry were only putting up an expensive bridge to accommodate outsiders. A bridge for half the money would meet the situation. They Board agreed to offer £1,000. The County Council were prepared to take responsibility for the maintenance of the new bridge over the Hundred Foot River provided the Ouse Drainage Board contribute £3,000 towards the cost of erection. The Board were liable to place both the bridges over the Old Bedford and Hundred Foot Rivers in a safe condition for the passage of traction engines. But the Chairman said they were County bridges. The County took responsibility for a lot of trumpery bridges over minor rivers. But when they came to big bridges over main rivers they tried to shove them onto the Ouse Drainage Board. Originally they were private bridges put up for tenants in the wash. The bridges did not benefit the Board but benefited the public. 25 07 03ES

1925 07 04

A device which would prove invaluable in any Cambridge home is the Permutit Household Water Softener. A lecturer said Cambridge water is good except for the large amount of chalk, which is responsible for the hardness of the water. He demonstrated with the aid of the apparatus how hardness could be eliminated and a water produced which was softer than rain water but without its disadvantages.

1925 07 06

As from July 1st all policemen will live rent free, the Chief Constable reported. The need for a police house at Harston was very urgent because the owner of the house which the policeman now occupied had been waiting until the officer moved before he could get married. The new Cambridge town planning scheme was bringing a road from Cherry Hinton to the Ditton and Horningsea road and they wanted a site on the Cambridge side of the new road. At Burwell the police house was complete, with the exception of the water supply

Scout rally, p5

1925 07 07

The Ministry of Transport inquiry into the one-way vehicular traffic scheme in Petty Cury & Market Street, Cambridge, was held in the Guildhall. There was a very small attendance. Cambridge suffered, in common with other old towns, from the traffic problem. There had always been a great deal of traffic in these streets and the congestion was very serious. Both streets were used by motor buses. There were no objections but a great body of people wanted the regulation to cover bicycles as well as other vehicles.

Silver Winkle club, p6

1925 07 08

Fenton presentation, p5

1925 07 09

A traction engine driver was fined for assaulting Octavia Bocock, farmer and a well-known cricketer of Ashley. He had seen the man with his traction engine on the road near his pond where it had stopped to take water. He had no right to do so without permission. The driver said he had permission from the foreman to take two or three pails of water as he could get plenty of clean water at Lydgate. Bocock said he would stand in front of the engine until he paid him 5s. but the driver drove on.

1925 07 09 a

A large portion of the Horseheath Estate, extending over 1,000 acres will be offered for sale by auction. It includes four farms and numerous cottages and small holdings. The most important is Horseheath Park Farm which has been in the occupation of the owner of the estate, Mr T. Wayman Parsons for a number of years. The farm could be readily converted into a capital stud farm, and it is interesting to note that a Derby winner, Plenipotentiary, was trained on the Horseheath Estate.

1925 07 10 ES

Soham Boys' School Head, George Fenton, retires. 25 07 10&(2)ES

George Frederick Fenton retired on account of ill health from the Soham Boys Council School. He came to Soham in September 1894 as an assistant master, leaving in 1900 to take over the headmastership of Swaffham Bulbeck. Six years later when the Headmastership came vacant at Soham, he was given the appointment. He gave a momentous amount of effort to the Boy Scout movement and to local music. 25 07 10ES

Witcham church restoration fete. 25 07 10 &(2)ES

Standing by the side of the farmyard there is something more than fascinating about the old 13th-century Parish Church at Witcham. Small though it be, the hallmark of age is indelibly stamped upon it and one cannot wonder at the pride of place given by those who find spiritual solace within its walls. Within the last 20 years over £2,000 has been spent in the work of restoring and one of the ancient structure's immediate needs is the restoration of the North aisle. In this important work, the Ecclesiastical Commissioners have been a great assistance and five years ago restored the chancel. The villages have installed a beautiful two-manual organ. 25 07 10ES

Ald. James Luddington, farmer of Littleport, appointed Custos Rotolorum. 25 07 10ES

Vicar of Manea to be Rector of Fowlmere, new Vicar of Littleport St Matthews. 25 07 10ES

Wilburton fete. 25 07 10(4)ES. Photo 27 10 17ES

Three years ago a band of enthusiasts organised a hospital effort at Wilburton but on that occasion there was no parade. Last year they succeeded in holding a parade and as a result Addenbrooke's Hospital was sent the sum of £16. This year a little band of residents again organised a parade. There are less than 500 people in Wilburton and the officials are congratulated on having made such a show as to draw most of them from their homes during the march right to the village to the parish church. The procession included a large banner appeal for Addenbrooke's and was followed by the Hospital Van appropriately decorated with Miss Eva Sharp and Miss May Potter dressed as attractive nurses. The Red Cross banner and the Women's Institute van followed. Speed was no means of escape for the motorists, the village was too crowded in parts for him to pass through and he made himself a contributor. 25 07 10ES

Stretham Ferry Bridge opening; photo. 25 07 10(3)(4)ES, 25 07 17(2)ES. Photo of new bridge 25 07 24(3)ES, photo of old bridge 25 07 24(4)ES

At a very poorly attended meeting of the Isle of Ely Nursing Association at County Hall in March, it was decided that the Association should cease to exist. There had been a very small response to the appeal for finance and there were no funds available to carry on the work. It was decided the work should be terminated. The principal idea and activities of the Association was the training of nurses for areas in which there were no nurses, and to bring into being Associations where there was no provision for nursing work. Previous to 1920 these duties were executed by the Cambridgeshire and Isle of Ely Nursing Association but lack of support from the Isle had the effect of Cambridgeshire pointing out that they could not continue to carry on the work in this county. Consequently, a new Association for the Isle was formed, only to come now to an end. 25 07 10ES

At Stamford, the 50 foot bridge spanning the London and North Eastern Railway gave way and collapsed onto the line below, a distance of 20 feet. The incident occurred at one o'clock in the morning when neither road nor rail traffic bypassing. The structure which was stone and brick had been considered unsafe for modern traffic for some time, and preparations were being made for closing it next Sunday and commencing the work of reconstruction. The first intimation of anything unusual was a rumbling noise followed by a crash which roused the occupants of a house nearby who discovered a large hole through the centre of the bridge and huge piles of masonry blocking the railway line. At intervals for a couple of hours afterwards, further falls of masonry occurred and the work of the repair gangs was attended by some hazard. The thoroughfare on which the bridge is situated as the main highway from Stanford to the Fens and although a temporary bridge had been placed in position before the end of the day, the road was closed to traffic. The railway away was not cleared until late in the day and a temporary station for the arrival and departure of passengers was improvised at the sidings of a local firm. Apart from the wrecking of the bridge, no damage or personal injury was occasioned. 25 07 10ES

1925 07 11

Great interest was taken in the wedding in King's College chapel of Dr John Roughton and Miss Alice Hopkinson. Only two weddings had previously taken place in the chapel in the last 28 years. The bride wore a beautiful dress of cream satin with seed pearls and diamantee.

1925 07 11

Part of a boot supplied by a Cambridge firm has led to the identity of an officer who fell in the first year of the war. During the work of exhumation and reburial recently carried out in France there was discovered part of a boot stamped with the name of Messrs G. Dewberry & Son of Sidney Street. An examination of their books showed it belonged to a pair supplied to Lieut. R. Walmesley, late of Magdalene College, whose family lived in Huntingdon.

Chivers factory, p3

Percy Salmon book, p6

Methodist march, p6

1925 07 13

At Saffron Walden town council it was reported that the electricity scheme was now complete and a constant supply could be obtained at any time during the day or night. It was thought that the increase in the cost of the scheme had been the fault of the consulting engineer. The original estimate was for £6,000, now it has amounted to £10,000. In time they would be as proud of their electricity undertaking as they are of their gas undertaking

1925 07 14

Tipperary club, p6

Cinema exhibitors outing, p6

1925 07 16

Charabancs, motor cars and other vehicles of transport conveyed hundreds of people from miles around to Shippea Hill on Sunday evening to listen to Gypsy Smith who was paying his annual visit to Messrs Chivers' factory. So dense was the throng that scores were left outside and he adjourned to the open air where between 1,000 and 2,000 persons strove to get within hearing distance of him. Touching scenes were witnessed during the proceedings, causing many a man and woman to weep unashamed. It was an inspiring service which will live in the memories of those who attended it.

1925 07 17

The acquisition by Jesus College of the old Newmarket Railway has enabled them to develop the Station building estate by the construction of Coleridge Road, and they are offering freehold land in suitable plots for the erection of private dwelling houses in open and healthy surroundings, with ample garden ground. Coleridge Road has been constructed by the college at great expense & is the first in Cambridge constructed of reinforced concrete. Lots are offered at prices from £225 to £250.

Ely burglary, p5

1925 07 17 ES

Manea village hall stone laying. 25 07 17(3)ES

Manea postman George Larkins retires after 43 years. 25 07 17(3)ES

Mr. George Larkin retired after 43 years as a postman. He has walked for many years from Chatteris across the fen morning and night carrying despatches domain. The distance from Manea Post Office to Chatteris Post Office is eight miles Eleven years was spent in carrying the mail in the morning from Chatteris and in the afternoon to that place. He began delivering from Chatteris and was due to arrive at Manea at eight o'clock in the morning and deliver to Fodder Fen. In the winter months, a large part of this time he travelled in the dark and in the evening the return to that lonely stretch of fen began at 4pm from Manea Post Office. Often, he found himself in the dike during his tramp. On some occasions in thick fog he has completely lost his bearings. But he was never once late with letters. At the time there was no resident doctor in Manea. When medical aid was required people sought the advice of Dr. Farrar of Chatteris. The doctor would make the visit to the patient and returned to his surgery to dispense a bottle of medicine which was called for and delivered by Mr. Larkins on his post round. During the time he was in the village between his journeys he carried on the trade of a boot maker and repairer. Since resident in the village he has walked and met the mail from Manea station and taken the dispatchers down, making eight journeys each day. 25 07 17ES

Without any pomp or ceremony the new Stretham Ferry Bridge was thrown open to the public. An elaborate structure, it replaces an ancient and narrow bridge which had been found totally inadequate to cope with the demands of modern traffic. The new bridge in addition to providing ample accommodation to the passing of two vehicles abreast of each other was the added feature of a footpath for pedestrians and in this way a danger which was ever-present with the old bridge is avoided. The opening ceremony was performed by Mr. F.W. Everitt of Wilburton in the presence of the County Surveyor & Clerk of Works. The Surveyor drove his car carrying the officials to the tape which Mr. Everitt cut and at the same time declared the bridge open. He then drove back over the old bridge, which after several cars passing at the time crossed over the new bridge. 25 07 17ES

An ambitious project undertaken by the village of Manea in the erection of a large village hall, reached the stage of the stone laying ceremony. The occasion was a revelation of the enterprising spirit with which the villagers had launched the scheme. The size of the crowd caused general surprise and the announcement that much of the money had already been raised, shows that Manea not only had the courage to aim high, but possesses an enthusiasm and generosity to attain what it sets out to accomplish. They were endeavouring to build a hall suitable for the size of the village. In such a gigantic scheme, it was very gratifying that they had the whole village behind them. The room would provide a means of extending good feeling throughout the whole neighbourhood. 25 07 17ES

1925 07 18

In the year 1625 Nicholas Ferrar, Fellow of Clare Hall, formed a religious community at the Manor House, Lt Gidding and on Tuesday descendants of the small sect flocked to Huntingdonshire's pretty hamlet to witness and participate in the services. The two morning services were poorly attended, but by the afternoon several hundreds of people had assembled for an open-air meeting to hear an address on the community which the late Dr A.C. Benson had written in anticipation of speaking at the celebrations.

1925 07 18

The R.A.C. has now opened an additional local office at no.1 Bene't Street, Cambridge, in the heart of the town, and will be of service not only to residents but also to visitors, who will find information about the colleges and other points of interest. A spacious reading room is provided for the use of associate members. The office will cover the counties of Cambridgeshire, Huntingdonshire & Bedfordshire.

Chesterton footbridge, p6

1925 07 20

The Saffron Walden Rotary Club received its charter of membership of the Rotary Clubs of the world. Over a hundred members and guests attended. From today Rotary would be an established thing in the district. Men however intimate with one another had more chance of being so when they became fellow-Rotarians. The movement had no class, creed or politics and therefore all members were equal

1925 07 20

Albert Fuller of London told Saffron Walden county court he had viewed an inn at Littlebury, but did not make an offer for it as it was unacceptable. He later went to the Eight Bells public house, Saffron Walden and agreed to buy it for £225 to include billiard tables & furniture, plus the brewer's inventory of another £200. The money would be returned if he was not accepted by the brewers as tenant. A day later his wife was taken ill and died. The brewers did not accept a tenant who had no wife or grown-up daughter. The judge ordered his deposit of £25 to be returned.

Lt Gidding celebration, p6

1925 07 21

An accident of a very serious nature occurred at Ely Sugar Beet Factory. A man named White was near the railway line when the dinner bell rang. A general rush is made by the workers for their various meal places and it is thought the man had left some of his tools on the permanent way. Shunting was taking place but he thought he could get his tools in time. However he fell with the result that one of the engine wheels passed over his leg.

1925 07 22

The annual show held under the auspices of the Wilburton Women's Institute and village took place at St Peter's Hall. "Without a doubt the finest show ever held in Wilburton" was the remark made by the horticultural judge. Here were staged some of the finest specimens the district could produce. Some fine black currants were exhibited by Mr J. Sneesby, Mr W. Norfolk swept the board with some perfect tomatoes & Mrs Healey Wilson had a mauve colour table decoration which claimed first prize.

1925 07 23

Thunderstorms swept the country. When the storm was at its height, a four-valve A.J.S. wireless set at Manor Farm, Orwell was wrecked and considerable damage was done in the sitting room where it was installed. The set was switched off at the safety switch but notwithstanding this the lightning passed through the set and there was a loud explosion, parts of the set being scattered all over the room.

1925 07 24 ES

Stretham W.I. annual show. 25 07 24ES

Haddenham rick fire, F. Alsop's farm. 25 07 24(2)ES

During the passing of a thunderstorm over Haddenham a fire caused by a flash of lightning broke out at Mr. F Alsop's farm West End, believed to have originated in the straw stack. The conflagration developed at an alarming rate, and soon a number of haystacks were involved along with farm buildings. Crowds of people gathered and gave every assistance in quelling the outbreak. So high did the flames reach that reflection the fire could be seen for several miles, while the flames were easily observable at Sutton, Earith and neighbouring villages. The Haddenham Fire Brigade was called to the scene and in the few minutes had a good flow of water playing on the fire. They concentrated on preventing the flames from spreading to new buildings and adjoining properties. They were, however, unable to save the ricks. 25 07 24ES

The ancient Stretham Ferry Bridge, which is to be demolished, held many terrors for road users whose view of the other side was completely obliterated by the sharp rise which can be appreciated in the photograph, as well as its narrowness. Only one vehicle could pass over at a time. The new and magnificent replace was opened to the public last week. 25 07 24

1925 07 25

Another great improvement has been carried out over the Old West River at Stretham Ferry. This is a great boon to motorists for the structure takes the place of one of those old, narrow, hump-backed, awkward bridges which are veritable death-traps in these days of rapid road travel. The new bridge is at an easier angle, provides room for two vehicles to pass each other and affords a fair amount of visibility of approaching traffic. It should tend greatly to diminish the danger of a spot which has long been a bug bear to travellers on the Ely road.

1925 07 25

Rumours were afloat in Ely that the whole of the employees at the Beet Sugar Factory were out on strike. The trouble was in fact only in the carpenters' section. Some had been working as many as 100 hours per week & bearing in mind that such a lengthy period of employment was detrimental to the men's health officials had decided to limit the maximum number of hours to 56 and employ more men. This led to unrest among the carpenters 180 of whom "downed tools"

Zanzibar hoax, p6

Newmarket

Road improvement, p6

Icecream barrow, p6*

1925 07 27

Ely R.D.C. received a petition from Haddenham ratepayers protesting at the great inconvenience caused by the want of water for domestic purposes. But Mr Camps said the petition came as a surprise as they had a public meeting to decide whether they should have piped water and 150 electors were present but only one person voted for it. There was a strong feeling against but if the matter could be remedied by cleaning out the wells the people would appreciate the kindness of the council.

1925 07 28

Keynes engagement, p5

1925 07 29

The Vicar said he had a vision. Littleport was growing. There were houses in which people lived that were not suitable for habitation or for a sick person to be kept in, especially a mother who was about to be confined. He wanted to see a hospital with four or five beds where expectant mothers could go to and be watched over with loving care, freed from the anxieties of home troubles. With a doctor and a trained nurse at hand the mother would be afforded untold relief. Littleport could rise to the expense and carry the scheme through.

1925 07 29

Sir. I was stopped by an aged and indignant citizen who drew my attention to the insertion of wooden pegs about a large proportion of Christ's Pieces. It seems that a large slice is to be taken off for the accommodation of motor cars and buses. Seven or eight lime trees will have to be cut down. It is vandalism to sacrifice a shady pleasance in the centre of town in order to make a motor park. Must Christ's Pieces be mutilated? – F.E.Y.

1925 07 31

For an hour and a half Cambridge Town Council discussed the question of taking a portion of Christ's Pieces for the parking of 'buses and private cars. Strong opposition to the scheme was forthcoming but in the end the Council agreed. The site will conveniently accommodate 12 buses and at least 35 cars. It would apply to country bus services only, of which there are nine belonging to the Ortona bus company and three belonging to other persons. The whole of the Ortona country service buses, which now stand on Senate House Hill will be removed to the new parking centre.

1925 07 31 ES

Stretham: Football meeting, to enter Isle Lower Junior League & Cup & Chatteris Lower Junior Cup.
25 07 31ES

August 1925 CDN

1925 08 01

Christ's Pieces mutilation, p5

No more war preparations, p6

New Labour club, p6

1925 08 03

Mammoth show, p3

No more war, p3

1925 08 04

Mammoth show, p3

1925 08 05

The wedding took place in the Registrar's room at St Pancras Town Hall of Mr J. Maynard Keynes, the well-known political economist & son of the Registrar of the University and Councillor Mrs Keynes, to Mlle Lopokova, the famous Russian dancer. A slight graceful figure in a light fawn Kasha costume and a tight-fitting brown straw hat, she was recognised at once by the crowd as she arrived in a taxicab with Mr Keynes. A woman enthusiast showered them with confetti – an ordeal they survived with smiling grace.

Obstructing traffic, p4

1925 08 06

Ugly council houses, p4*

1925 08 07

Sir – the proposed garage on Christ's Pieces has called forth a crop of protesting letters; let them be directed against the ugly, barrack-like Councils houses at Chesterton and Cavendish Avenue. The majority of the houses are literally a blot on the landscape, badly designed, dreary and poverty-stricken, they are eyesores to every passer-by. Yet they are being built without a word of protest, while the cutting down of a couple of trees evokes a regular storm of indignation – Kappal

1925 08 07

Sawston's sewerage system being in level country it constantly needs flushing and for this purpose the Parish Council has been paying labour. A scheme was now proposed by which water would be raised by windmill pump on land standing in the highest part of the village to flush out the pipes. At Linton people emptied refuse into the gutterways so that the matter ran into the river and accumulated there.

1925 08 07 ES

Isle County Council, 'unsafe' Mepal bridge discuss taking over from Ouse Drainage Board; also Thorney Bridge, Welney Suspension Bridge 25 08 07&(2)ES

The Ouse Drainage Board were liable to place the Mepal Bridge in a safe condition for the passage of traction engines etc. But they say that they are responsible for traffic equal to that which existed when the bridge was built. However, the Chairman thought the maintenance was a legacy which the Board took over from the old Bedford Corporation and had been receiving something towards the repair and maintenance, The County Council would be prepared to take over the future maintenance and repair of a new bridge provided the Board agreed to contribute towards the cost of construction. 25 08 07

Ely Board of Guardians heard that and inspection of the Workhouse and Children's Home showed that several wards were very clean and comfortable and most had been redecorated. The accommodation for all except the male casuals was sufficient & this will be increased in the near future. There was a tendency to treat tramps as rogues. But many of the men on the road were honest and in search of work. Ely Guardians always looked upon them as being honest men, but they did get some black sheep amongst them. Ex-servicemen and men looking for work were always very well treated at Ely.

25 08 07ES

1925 08 08

The Corporation seems to have stirred up a good deal of indignation by their proposals with regard to the Drummer Street "motor park". In a town like Cambridge it certainly seems unwise to do anything that may detract from its attractiveness. A suggestion has been put that the 'park' should be established on Butt's Green and not at Drummer Street at all. A petition has been presented to the Mayor asking her to call at Town's meeting and it is hoped that the request will be acceded to.

Health, p3
Broadcasting Cambridge, p6

1925 08 10

Sir – Much has been written about the street lighting of Cambridge. Emmanuel Road, Emmanuel Street and Drummer Street are all under repair and consequently all the main road traffic has to proceed via Clarendon Street or New Square. Yet in the whole length of these roads not a single lamp is lighted at nights. In fact in the whole district there is not one lamp. Isn't it time that something was done to instil a little sense into the heads of those who direct the town affairs? It is false economy to make the streets danger traps for motorists, cyclists & pedestrians. – F.I. Cowles

1925 08 11

In the House of Commons reference was made to complaints by hundreds of listeners in Essex that since the removal of the high-power station of the BBC from Chelmsford to Daventry, their crystal sets have been rendered useless. In view of the fact that these sets were in a large number of cases, in the possession of comparatively poor people, the Postmaster General was asked to take steps to ensure that the wireless news shall become audible in Essex.

1925 08 11

A serious fire occurred at Sandons Farm, Ashdon. It was first noticed in a motor house which contained one lorry and a farm tractor. The Fire Brigade were handicapped by an inadequate supply of water but were able to save several buildings. Had the brigade been called by telephone from Ashdon they could have arrived earlier, but instead a messenger came by road and in consequence much valuable time was lost. This is the largest fire in the district for some years.

Christs Pieces, p5

1925 08 12

Ely was nearly dry from noon on Monday to 11am Tuesday owing to the city's water supply from Isleham having been held up through the bursting of a main at Stuntney, where water spouted two feet into the air. Residents were warned by Mr R. Wayman, the city's blind crier, that water should be used carefully. The lower part of Ely was more fortunate as the reservoir on Cambridge Road contained 80,000 gallons. This was run off at slow pressure and they were kept supplied until about 7 pm.

1925 08 12

Ely wants a pied piper. For weeks past allotment holders in Barton Fields have been missing produce such as peas & broad beans and have attributed the blame to two-legged thieves. But much 'stolen' produce was found stored between a rhubarb bed & a rubbish heap, where a big rat was acting as sentry. In the evening an army of rats of all sizes was seen to emerge from an adjacent ditch & begin to remove their plunder to a spare 'storehouse'. One horticulturist says they leave tracks which are so distinct one would think that sheep had been making their way over the plots.

1925 08 12

The protest meeting against the taking of part of Christ's Pieces for parking motor vehicles attracted a crowd of over 2,000 people to Drummer Street & was marked by a remarkable climax. After a resolution of protest had been passed the crowd voted a desire to take it to the Mayor that night. Speeches had been delivered from a four-wheeled waggon and the shafts were quickly manned and the waggon containing councillors who had spoken was dragged at a good pace to the Mayor's house in Newton Road. Something like a 1,000 people followed in its wake.

1925 08 13

Christs Pieces letters, p6

1925 08 14

Ely whirlwind, p6

1925 08 14 ES

Sudden whirlwind at Adelaide, considerable damage to farms and cottages. 25 08 14ES

Execution for highway robbery at Wisbech 1819: poster. 25 08 14(2)ES

Blaze at Doddington, farmyard burnt out. 25 08 14(3)ES

Mepal Toll House completely gutted in disastrous fire. 25 08 14(3)ES

Wissington Beet Factory nearing completion: feature. 25 08 14(4)ES

1925 08 15

Christs Pieces encroachment – map, p6

1925 08 17

Christs Pieces debate, p5

1925 08 18

Jack Hobbs feat, p5

1925 08 20

Members of the veterinary and medical sciences cemented feelings of professional friendship with the laying of the foundation stone of the Field Laboratories, Milton Road, in connection with the Institute of Animal Pathology which is to be erected in Tennis Court Road, Cambridge. Recent benefactions to the University of £100,000 from Mr Gates, the Rockerfellow Foundation & the Corn Repeal Act Fund are to be drawn upon for the erection of the new unit. The vice-chancellor remarked jestingly that he was relieved that it was proposed to keep the greater number of animals here, "some little distance from Cambridge & from where I live" (Laughter)

1925 08 20

It was agreed to form a Cambridgeshire Walking Club to create more interest in this class of athletics. This would make walking more popular and they would be able to have club walks. Mr Fell said he had tried to get a club going for the past 24 years and was pleased to see that the young men were now taking a great interest in the movement. A man that ran round the track knew very little about the man who walked round, he said.

District housing week, p3

T.B. Hunt, photographer, found with wounds to throat, p5*

Silver cup, p6

1925 08 21 ES

Stuntney inquest Arthur Fretwell, horsekeeper. 25 08 21&(2)ES

Ely Rural Council; Haddenham water petition. 25 08 21&(2)ES

1925 08 22

The Ely council chairman said he had no idea things were so bad in Haddenham and that people had to walk half a mile to fetch water. Mr Hepher said there was plenty of pure water in the parish, but not a good distribution. It would cost something like £7,000 to take water as far as the Cross Keys and about £10,000 if a supply was taken another mile and some who signed the petition would drop out. Mr Darby said they should consult Haddenham before they enforced the silly expenditure on the village.

Hobbs film, p6

Cambridge snobbish?, p6

1925 08 24

As the result of an open-air meeting on Parker's Piece efforts are being made to form a Ratepayers' Association whose first business will be to contest the legality of the Cambridge Town Council's action in encroaching on Christ's Pieces for the purpose of providing a parking place for motor vehicles. This was absolutely illegal. Within twelve months the continual movement of vehicles on what was virtually a made-up bog the road would drop six inches. The Ortona Bus Company will be the first people to say they have been pushed into a rotten corner that is of no use to them.

1925 08 25

At the Institute of Journalists conference it was suggested that Cambridge University should experiment in founding a faculty of journalism with a view to raising the standard of journalism and journalists. But Cambridge had no teachers who could deal with journalistic matters and if they were to institute a diploma which did not include knowledge of the inside working of a newspaper office it would give little weight behind a man applying for a job. Cambridge turned out the raw material and it was up to the journalistic profession to get the men they turned out.

1925 08 28 ES

Stonea lightning fatality, man & horse killed. 25 08 28&(2)(3)ES

1925 08 27

With regard to water supplies in the Newmarket rural district 83 of the 103 water samples taken for analysis were reported to be polluted. In Soham where about 100 houses were supplied from 56 polluted wells, 53 have been connected with the public water main and now of 1,123 structurally separated dwellings 860 are supplied from the mains. At Bottisham 12 samples taken from different wells at the north end of the village all afforded evidence of pollution. In Linton a new public well has been bored into the chalk & consideration has been given to the provision of a new public well at Milton which it is expected will shortly be proceeded with.

1925 08 27

By the passing away of Mr John Young of Witchford Cambridgeshire has lost what is believed to be her last Indian Mutiny veteran. Born at Sutton in 1840 he possessed all the British fighting spirit of his grandfather who had helped the Duke of Wellington overthrow Napoleon Bonaparte at Waterloo. He was a 15-year-old boy when he joined the army and two years later left for India where the never-to-be-forgotten mutiny was in progress. Often he would tell of the siege of Lucknow and the massacre at Cawnpore almost as graphically and vividly as any historian could write. On one occasion two men, one on either side of him, were shot down by the rebels, he himself sustaining no injury.

1925 08 27

Such good progress has been made since activities first commenced in October last that it is expected that the Ely Beet Sugar Factory will be fully erected and equipped within the next four weeks or so. The whole frontage of the river has been concreted and unloading berths provided for 30 barges. There are farmers situated several miles from a railway station but near the river and the Factory Company are having their own fleet of steel barges which will be towed by tugs propelled by oil engines. Two overhead cranes, worked by electrical power, can be run along the quayside and used to empty the barges.

Ratepayers association formed, p5

1925 08 28 ES

Stonea lightning fatality, man & horse killed. 25 08 28&(2)(3)ES

1925 08 29

Sir Charles Walston expressed pleasure that the Air Ministry were anxious to avoid pollution of Offa's Brook by petrol or oil from Duxford airfield. For a great many years inhabitants of Newton had drunk the water from the brook & he had never heard of any case of typhoid in the locality. Now by strange coincidence, within a fortnight of the examination of the sewage system of the aerodrome by Ministry experts, two cases of typhoid had occurred. "With all due respect to the expert opinion of these Ministries", he said, "the combination of oil and sewage effluent may be favourable for the breeding of dangerous bacilli"

School MoH report, p3

Duxford air crash, p5

1925 08 31

Air crash inquest, p5

New Theatre annual report, p6

September 1925 CDN

1925 09 01

Whatever the merits of the controversy which the site of the Jesus Green Baths aroused a few months back, there can be only one opinion as to the usefulness of the baths themselves. Thousands of happy, healthy hours have been spent there this season; in the last four months 20,000 tickets have been issued for male bathers alone. With such vast number of swims it is inevitable that mishaps should occur. Mr W. Clee states that 25 rescues from drowning have been made. In most instances bathers of indifferent ability have ventured into deep water and then lost their nerve at the thought of not being able to swim to the ladders. In addition nine children have had to be pulled out of the river opposite the bathing sheds. Despite a warning board children persist in paddling and frequently venture into water that is too deep.

1925 09 01

There is an epidemic of scarlet fever in the district and the Newmarket fever hospital is full. Some patients are being sent to Cambridge Fever Hospital at an expense of 2½ guineas a week. At present the accommodation for nurses in the hospital is so limited that nurses have to sleep in the wards used for cases brought in and suspected of infectious disease before any fever has developed. The Hospital Board are strongly in favour of providing more accommodation for the nurses but the slow progress of the Newmarket Housing scheme and the fact that there is practically no unemployment in the building trade has rendered it inadvisable to divert labour to the extension of the fever hospital

1925 09 03

Linton Rural District Council congratulated themselves on the latest movement in their house building campaign. Houses are to be built at Balsham at £400 or less apiece – assuming free sites can be obtained. On these conditions rents of 4s 6d a week are to be charged and the cost to the rates is only a farthing in the £. They were also likely to be able to build houses at West Wickham and Carlton and there were vacant sites at Sawston & Hildersham. The Government would give £12.10s a year for 40 years for every cottage built.

1925 09 04

Linton poor law guardians, p3

1925 09 04 ES

Welney Suspension Bridge correspondence. 25 09 04ES

The Ouse Drainage Board discussed the proposed reconstruction of Welney Suspension Bridge. They were not liable to maintain a bridge to carry a greater weight than that for which it was originally designed and to bear the traffic of that day. They was not liable to build a bridge to carry modern traffic. The annual tolls amounted to £123 last year. But with wages at the present level it could be questioned whether it justified the expense of collecting them. 25 09 04ES

Ely Sugar Beet Factory: photos. 25 09 04(2)ES

P.c. Landin said he saw a motor cyclist proceeding at a very great speed in High Street, Chatteris and called upon him to stop. He was riding what looked like a racing machine with no mud-guards on it and passed a motor lorry, going about 20 mph, three times as fast as the lorry. But the rider took no notice and went faster. The policeman was unable to take his number as he had no plate on. He phoned to March police and have particulars for him to be stopped.

P.c. Drew said he was in the Avenue, March and stopped the motorcyclist. The man said he had gone through Chatteris and had to accelerate to 25 mph to pass a horse and cart. He had seen the policeman but thought he was giving him a friendly wave to slow down a little. But his licence had expired, there was no identification plate on the rear of the machine and the front plate was lying flat across the mud-guard tied with string. He was fined £2. 25 09 04ES

In Soham where about 100 houses were supplied from 56 polluted wells, 55 have been corrected with the public water main. Of 1,129 structurally separate dwellings occupied in Soham 860 are now supplied from the mains, which are being extended to the outlying portions of the parish.

In Fordham, where wells are relied, 13 out of 22 samples analysed in 1924, including a public well, were found to be polluted. The Soham Water Works are near Fordham and could furnish a supply to that parish. 25 09 04(2)ES

1925 09 05

In spite of the difficulties caused by the long drought in June and July and the recent heavy rains, the harvest in most districts will be up to the average; one or two even say it will be better. At Cherry Hinton twelve hours incessant downfall on August 4th have delayed the end of the harvest in some cases. Potatoes, mangolds and sugar beet look well on the low land where sown early, but otherwise they were checked by the drought and will prove a light crop. At Cottenham plums are a variable crop and light except in a few orchards where we hear of wonderful crops

1925 09 05

Sir – When are Fulbrooke and Owlstone Roads going to be taken in hand. The longer they are left the greater the disgrace to companies who cut channels across the roads and never filled them in properly. Grantchester Meadows beyond Marlowe Road does not win much praise from foot passengers, and it is the approach to the most popular walk around Cambridge. As someone has rather neatly said ‘The road to Paradise is a path of difficulty’

1925 09 07

Enthusiastic scenes marked the close of the Brass Band Contest in Cambridge Guildhall, which was won by the Cambridge Railway Silver Prize Band, the only local competitors. When the result was announced there was a furore of applause from the large audience present, and the bandsmen themselves momentarily lost their heads in their enthusiasm. The dignity of the large hall, which had rung for well nigh two hours with the blare of brass instruments was quite forgotten. Hats were thrown high into the air and trombones and cornets waved to delighted friends among the audience.

1925 09 09

Pointed speeches and noise in plenty characterised the public meeting held at Haddenham to discuss the question of a water supply to the village. A few weeks ago a petition signed by over 100 residents was sent asking for a supply. Pandemonium reigned at the back of the room, there being so much noise that speakers could not make themselves heard. The proceedings were temporality transformed into a wordy conflict between leather-lunged 'waterites' and 'non-waterites' near the doorway and it was several minutes before peace was restored. Mr Peacock said he was never out for water just to wash his car and have his bath. They should ask people who had dyke water not good enough to drink about the matter. Mr Camps said that if they wanted water they should have their own reservoir.

1925 09 10

There is to be no change in the wages of agricultural workers over 21 years of age for the next twelve months. The County Wages Committee have decided that labourers are to receive 30s for a 48-hour week as from November 1st, and 30s for a 51-hour week commencing March next year. That is a continuation of the rates now prevailing. The workmen's representative pressed for £2 and a 48-hour week all the year round.

Ely cycling, p5

Roof-topped buses, p4

1925 09 11

Gog Magog blaze, p5

Torchlight tattoo, p5

1925 09 11 ES

Haddenham public meeting opposed to water scheme. 25 09 11&(2)ES

The feelings of the people of Haddenham are very mixed over the all-important topic of water supply to the village. Recently a petition signed by over a 100 inhabitants was forwarded to the Rural District Council urging the necessity of the village being connected up with a proper supply of water, and the subject was productive of an animated discussion in which the views of those favouring the supply, and those that held the conviction that the existing supply was sufficient for the present demands were freely expressed. Eventually they referred the question to the Water Committee to ascertain the cost, the Engineer at the same time receiving instructions to prepare a plan for a public inquiry.

Since that time Haddenham has been concerning itself as to whether it can stand the cost of such a scheme. With a view to thoroughly testing the feelings of the village a public meeting was held in the Girls School when a large number of people attended.

The last meeting on the subject had been in March 1922 when there was only one ratepayer in favour of the scheme. The Parish Council had been four years and done nothing. Then a petition had been raised without calling a public meeting. In March a Parish Council had been duly elected to carry on the business of the parish but had never approached residents with reference to the scheme.

But during the hot weather there were heart-rending cases of people wanting water; one woman and her children were crying because they could not get water and had to wait until the husband came home at night. In Hillrow they had to go half a mile for water and when they did get it home, the water was more or less filthy

It was the duty of councillors to see that people had water. The Council had done nothing criminal, but had come out to assist the people that wanted water

Wherever they had got the water supply, they had got more houses built, and if they had more houses they would get more revenue from the rates.

They should consider the poor working men and women and old age pensioners and ask if they can afford to pay. But they should also consider some of the people who want a bath. Some of these people with plenty of money can very well afford to pay for having a nice bath in the attic or somewhere else. With the increased buildings and houses being put up, where there was not good water it was quite possible the Ministry of Health would compel them to have a water supply whether they wanted to or not.

The meeting gave an emphatic 'No' to the suggested scheme. 25 09 11&(2)ES

1925 09 12

Newmarket Urban Council considered handing over the administration of certain allotments to the Newmarket Allotments Association Ltd. The allotments to be handed over are the Ditton allotments, the White Gate allotments, the Railway allotments & the Field terrace allotments. The Association is to pay an annual rent of £190 a year and to maintain the hedges, fences, roads and boundary stakes in as good order & condition as now. Two entrances at the bottom of the Field Terrace road would be stopped up which would leave additional plots of ground surplus to requirements, but the Council may offer these for sale as building plots at some future date.

1925 09 12

At Ely police court Albert Coulson of Stansted was summoned for driving a locomotive at a speed over the two miles per hour limit on the highway at Littleport. Police Sergeant Moon said he considered defendant was travelling at eight mph, and he got on his bicycle, caught up and stopped him. The latter said he was doing four mph and could not do eight mph. The policeman said he had seen locomotives go even faster than that. Fined 10s

Riskitt & Betty, p6

1925 09 14

A party of Cambridge people had a nasty experience when returning by charabanc from a trip to Yarmouth. When about two miles from Newmarket the petrol pipe broke and some petrol became ignited. Passengers jumped from the car which belonged to Messrs Brown Bros of Abbey Road, Cambridge, but only slight damage was done and the only person injured was a lady who sprained her ankle. A second car was following and some of the passengers were transferred to this. The damaged car was patched up and both proceeded to Cambridge.

1925 09 15

The East Cambridgeshire Motor Cycle and Light Car Club held their motor cycle 'Rodeo' at Fordham. The track was in good condition and some really exciting racing was witnessed. The events included Balloon Bursting, Ski-riding, Potato race, Polo match & Egg and Spoon Race. Riding Mechanical Lizzie - this was a pole mounted on two wheels and D. Muggleton gave a splendid exhibition of riding whilst drawn by a motor cycle. He survived one round, but on the second he fell off, and the wheel collapsed, to the intense merriment of the spectators.

1925 09 17

No-one at the wheel, p6

1925 09 18

The danger arising from coins being thrown on to a theatre stage was emphasised when a man was fined £1 for damaging an electric bulb in the New Theatre. The bulb was splintered and flying glass might have gone into the eyes of the artistes and cause serious injury. Defendant said he threw two halfpennies to a comedian because he did not like the song he was singing. He did not know a bulb was broken.

Central dance hall, p5

Share-out clubs, p5

1925 09 18 ES

A victory for water; evidence in favour of Haddenham supply; Stretham submits petition for water. 25 09 18&(2)ES

Mepal new bridge opening: photo feature. 25 09 18(3)ES

Stretham head-on collision Cambridge Road turning. 25 09 18(4)ES

1925 09 19

Cambridge Town Council will consider a report as to the sale of houses to persons having little or no capital. Purchasers would pay a weekly sum, being more than the normal rent and the house would be conveyed to him when he had paid an amount equal to the difference between the cost and the mortgage. The weekly rent for a three-bedroomed house, sale price £600 would be 11s. If the purchaser paid 16s a week the property could be transferred and the mortgage executed after two years.

1925 09 21

Library lectures, p5

1925 09 23

Two memorials of former members of the congregation were unveiled at St Barnabas church. The first was a tablet in memory of Mr William Saint. There were several sacred buildings in Cambridge which spoke of his skill and work. A stained glass window was dedicated to James Ringe who rose to the rank of express engine driver on the passenger train from Cambridge to York. It was the work of Messrs McLean-Leach & son.

1925 09 23

Mr Taylor, employed by Messrs Pamplin Bros. of Cherry Hinton as a steam roller driver told the court he stopped the roller and living van near Bartlow cross-roads for the night. He left the van locked. In the van was half a pound of cooked ham, four eggs, half a pound of butter and a quarter pound of Brooke Bond's tea. Next morning the door had been broken open and the provisions taken.

1925 09 23

Sturton Street Methodist church hall was packed when Mr W.J. Parr gave an interesting talk upon "Memories". 50 years back Sturton Town was a new district of Cambridge. He remembered having to wade through water and mud ankle deep, and being often carried over the roads by his parents. He reminisced about the singing and parading of the streets by the Primitives, then known as 'Ranthers' who went out singing 'Hark! the Gospel news!' He urged the young men and women to carry on and in the coming 50 years get a larger church, which they greatly needed.

1925 09 24

Coun Porter said councillors might not realise what an old crock the ferry over the Cam at Chesterton was. When one went over in rough weather the water had to be baled out and the sides of the ferry shook. At the time of the fair the ferryman would not risk taking over a crowd of people because it was so dangerous. Children were taking a very great risk in using the ferry and the council taking the greatest risk of all in not taking steps to prevent somebody being drowned. The ferry was obsolete, it should be condemned at once and done away with.

1925 09 25

Pure feed for fish, p5

Canterbury Street bungalows, p5

1925 09 25 ES

Haddenham Vicar, Kermode, dies. 25 09 25&(2)ES

1925 09 26

The great annual rat hunt week, organised by the Ministry of Agriculture, will take place in November. Already brigades of Boy Scouts have been enlisted for this Great War. Rats are more numerous this year, having returned to their winter quarters in the towns earlier than usual owing to the cold snap and early harvesting.

1925 09 26

Five donkeys and two horses composed Stourbridge Horse Fair. Year by year this once famous animal sale had dwindled. Twenty years ago there were about 100 animals brought to the Fair. As far as the main fair is concerned there are a few more booths than there were last year. The licence allows the Fair to last six weeks. Actually it goes on for three days.

1925 09 26

Chesterton council heard of overcrowding in Great Wilbraham. In one instance a man was living with his wife and 12 children in a house containing one bedroom. In the same yard was a house of four rooms in which there were generally 16 people sleeping. The owner said the overcrowding occurred subsequent to the letting of the houses and under present tenancy laws it was impossible to get rid of the occupiers without providing other accommodation for them

Sale Isleham & Fordham – Fyson, p5

1925 09 29

Ely police concert, p5

October 1925 CDN

1925 10 01

The problem of safety first in the Cambridge streets was addressed by the University Vice-Chancellor. “The motor habit, when it becomes an obsession, induces a state of mind out of harmony with the best traditions of Cambridge. The alarming increase in the number of motor vehicles called for some legislation and regulations prohibiting the use of motor vehicles by undergraduates in their first year have now been approved. Total prohibition may become a necessity but I prefer to think so drastic an act may be rendered unnecessary by loyal acceptance of the reasonable restrictions which have been sanctioned”.

1925 10 01

The ceremony of laying the foundation stone of the new Evangelical Free Church at Swaffham Bulbeck was performed. Four big stones were laid and a number of bricks, the donors having each given a guinea towards the church fund. The site was given ten years ago and it is estimated the church will cost £850. Captain Tinton made a plea for the retaining of the mission hall, little would be got for it if it were sold and it might be utilised as a social amusement institute for young men. Mr Selby said that it was in 1900 that the Free Church Wardens’ Society was formed with the object of providing a building for Nonconformists to worship in and when the building was opened it is hoped all the debt may be cleared off.

Through East Anglia in a lorry, p3

1925 10 02

The new Harvey Goodwin Home for Boys which has been erected at St Luke’s Park, Victoria Road, Cambridge under the auspices of the Church of England Society for Providing Homes for Children (Waifs and Strays) was formally opened. The house is a fine, red brick building, capable of housing 35 boys and stands on a splendid site, and within its own grounds. The Bishop of Ely spoke of the work of sending boys from these homes to the Dominions under proper supervision.

1925 10 02 ES

Bishop Chase funeral 25 10 02&(2)ES

Haddenham water: has village enough water for its own scheme. 25 10 02(3)ES

1925 10 03

In October when summer time is over, people turn again to books, and now there is a library in every village the population of rural Cambridgeshire need not be at a loss for occupation, recreation and means of improvement during the winter evenings. Borrowers will be glad to learn that many additions have been made. The well-stocked agricultural and horticultural section has been enriched and books on basketry, rush and straw works, hat-making and other home crafts added. Radio enthusiasts have been catered for and there are works dealing with the construction of receiving sets. A large number of books have recently been withdrawn from circulation as a result of careless handling by readers.

1925 10 05

An inquest was held at Soham on the body of a boy aged 3½ who was killed by being run over by a threshing machine. The father said he was a healthy child and had often been with them in the yard and roadway when they were working. He was told an accident had happened and saw his boy lying in the road with his feet towards the grass and his head towards the crown of the road. His little head was crushed flat. The jury agreed that boys were very troublesome and would not keep away from engines. The only way was to give them a touch of the whip, but that would cause trouble with the parents. The jury handed their fees to the father of the deceased lad.

Lorry in flames, p5

1925 10 06

Haverhill motor ambulance, p5

1925 10 07

A Whittlesford man was seriously injured in a motor cycle accident. He was driving his machine on the Huntingdon Road towards Cambridge with two girls on the pillion seat when, near the Madingley turning, he ran into a cow which, with several others, was on the road. The motor cycle overturned and the passengers thrown from the machine. The Borough Police ambulance was summoned and the man and the two girls (who had luckily escaped with cuts about the knees) were taken to Addenbrooke's Hospital where it was ascertained that the man was suffering from a fracture at the base of the skull.

1925 10 08

A Cambridge man who has been at one time or another general labourer, cook, dock labourer, railway worker, amusement caterer, ice-cream vendor, toy retailer, fish merchant, wholesale biscuit dealer and greengrocer, appeared for his public examination in bankruptcy at Cambridge. He had come to Cambridge in 1916 and started an "amusement arcade" in Mill Road. The amusements consisted of automatic machines, darts, games etc. He used to go round public houses with his automatic machines, half the profits were to go to the pub and half to himself. Soon after he opened business the police issued a summons against him and he scrapped four or five gaming machines.

1925 10 08

It is reported from Oxford that the Oxford trousers are rapidly passing, and that plus fours are to reign in their stead. According to a leading tailor they will be in brown shades of Scotch and Shetland tweeds, with shirts, collars stockings and pullover jumpers to harmonise. The day of the vividly coloured jumper is over. The hard felt black hat is also regaining popularity. There have been inquiries for brown bowlers, and they may return to favour

1925 10 09

A crowd of 500 farmers watched with interest a demonstration of sugar beet lifters at the College Farm, Duxford. Altogether there were 10 lifters and as quite a number of growers had not made up their minds as to which lifter they were going to purchase the opportunity of inspecting various machines materially assisted them in making their choice.

1925 10 10

Spalding's Directory, p6

1925 10 12

Saffron Walden loss of corporation horse, p5

1925 10 13

A remarkable demonstration in scientific shoe-fitting is being conducted in Cambridge by Messrs Faulkner and Son, the high-class bootmakers. Gentlemen are invited to have their feet examined by the X-ray pedoscope to determine which of the 54 distinct sizes they require. Gentlemen who do not require shoes at the moment are invited to have their pedal extremities X-rayed so that their size can be registered for future use.

1925 10 14

The principal item dealt with by the County Education Committee was the decision to recommend the scheme for a village college at Sawston. Six villages are catered for in various ways and the provision of a new building would cost no more than the patching up of the existing of the old one. The senior school would provide for 200 boys and girls with rooms for instruction in practical subjects (woodwork, metalwork, cookery, laundry and housewifery, including mothercraft)

1925 10 15

Speaking at the dance organised by the National Fascisti at Cambridge its President made an appeal for more University members of the party. It was not an organisation of hooligans but advocated that this country should be ruled entirely by those of British birth and British descent and not by aliens. They were not prepared to allow Jews to join. They had the courage of their convictions and were prepared, if necessary, to meet force by force. The dance was an unqualified success. There were close on 300 present.

Littleport diphtheria, p3

1925 10 16

The Ely Beet Sugar Factory was officially opened by the Minister of Agriculture. It is about a year since activities in connection with the erection of the factory commenced. Gradually large tracts of arable and pasture land have disappeared beneath the industry of the contractors and today there are well over two acres of buildings on a site of 66 acres. The average number of men employed in building operations had been nearly 1,000 and the wages bill alone had amounted to £100,000. During the factory campaign now commencing they would employ about 500 men.

1925 10 16

The handsome village hall which has been erected by the people of Little Shelford as part of their memorial to the men and women who served in the Great War was opened in the presence of a fairly large company. It has seating accommodation for over 300 persons. A stage has been provided for plays and behind is an operating box so that cinema shows can be given. A kitchen, dressing room etc are also attached. The hall was a record of the great united effort made by everybody in the village, men and women, young and old, for King and Country & was inspired by the same spirit of unity that had won the war.

Fascists formed 15 August, p5

1925 10 16 ES

Lt Thetford all out for water: public meeting. 25 10 16&(2)ES

A meeting was called at Little Thetford to discuss the Rural District Council's suggested water scheme. A public inquiry would be held. The meeting could ask the Council to supply them with water, as many parishes have been supplied, or they could move a resolution opposing water. Mr Kisby did not for one minute think that there would be any use opposing the scheme because he quite believed that after the Minister had investigated, it would be almost compulsory for villages to adopt the scheme.

Haddenham had proposed an alternative scheme as they believe they have water on the spot. Thetford was situated very differently. There was not a farm in the parish that would not benefit by having water and there was not an individual who would not have it. There was not a workman in the village who was not be put to some inconvenience to obtain good water at some time in the year. If they could get the water laid on under the Council schemes would be able to get it better than at the present time. It costs farmers upwards of £20 every year to get their water supply and the charges would not come anywhere near that through the council scheme. It would cost an ordinary cottage 6d, a week. If they had a standpipe in the village and fetched the water from it, it would be better than fetching it from further down the road as present. A petition should be drawn up and signed by parishioners; there were some in Little Thetford who opposed it and it would be a better method of dealing with the matter.

Ely Beet Factory opened: photo. 25 10 16(3)(4)(5)ES

At no time in the history of the little village of Queen Adelaide has a more distinguished gathering of people visited than that which came for the opening of the new and magnificent Sugar Beet Factory. Who more fitting than the Minister of Agriculture, could have been found to open it.

It was an important day for the whole surrounding area, the agricultural interests of which are bound to derive immeasurable benefit from the pressure of the factory. Inhabitants have watched with interest the volumes of smoke and steam pouring away from the great structure and have speculated as to whether this represented the tests of the machinery or the actual process of making sugar. It will be one of the show-pieces of the country and the last word in that is all in modern. In the erection of this new centre of industry as many as 1,300 men have been employed at one time and when the factory settles down to normal work, hundreds will be absorbed, both in building, and in the fields. The factory has been built on the banks of the Ouse, one and a half miles from Ely station and is at the junction of a number of railway lines. Four miles of sidings have been installed, to deal with the beet traffic. An area of 50,000 square feet have been built for the receipt of beet, which come in by rail road, and by water. A wharf has been constructed sufficient to accommodate the largest barges which can be used on the river and they have their own fleet of 50 barges. A house has been built for the manager, three houses and a bungalow have been constructed for members of staff, as well as a pair of cottages. A spacious and fully equipped canteen has been built for the employees.

There is little peace or rest for the backache sufferer. If you have kidney troubles take the remedy that is so strongly endorsed by your friends in Stratham. On 6th May, 1902 Mrs. E M Murfitt of 'Huckle Cottage', Stratham said, "For years I had cruel pains in the small of my back. I was almost bent double, at times, and I had severe rheumatic pains. But thanks to Doan's Kidney Pills I am now completely cured". On 10th of March 1924 Mrs. Murphy said. "My health continues good thanks to Doan's Pills, which cured me of kidney complaints twenty-two years ago. (Signed), E.M. Murfitt" 25 10 16ES

Ely Council, sell or repair Barracks property. 25 10 16&(1)ES

1925 10 17

During the last few days undergraduates have been busy taking out licences for motor cars and motor cycles under the new regulations made with a view to decreasing the traffic in our narrow streets. Undergraduates are not allowed to use any motor vehicle before 12.30 in the morning or after 8.30 at night. An amusing rumour is that proctors are to patrol the streets in a motor car, followed by 'bulldogs' on motor cycles, but there is no necessity for such 'flying squad' methods as garages are to report any undergraduate who has his car out during the prohibited period.

1925 10 17

Something of a new departure is to be made in the outward appearance of the Pro-Proctor and his satellites. Commencing next week he will patrol the streets on foot but minus cap and gown, and the 'bulldogs' will wear some less conspicuous headgear than 'toppers'. It is said that some students will keep their motors outside the town and cycle out to fetch them but should any resort to such expedients they will probably receive an unpleasant surprise.

1925 10 19

A comprehensive scheme for the provision of parking places in Cambridge will be laid before the Town Council who are empowered to authorise any part of a street as a parking place, though no charge can be made for parking cars in the public streets. Sites include Trumpington Street opposite the Leys School, Maids' Causeway, Lensfield Road, King Street & Jesus Lane. In Pound Hill it is proposed to allocate space for parking motor buses from St Neots and St Ives

1925 10 19

Mr T. Musgrave Francis said they had been in search of a site at Harston for the provision of a policeman's house for a long time and had not been able to get one. Eventually they were offered one outside the village and, whilst the price was high, they felt they must accept it. Now, however, Mr Arthur Hurrell had offered the Chief Constable a most suitable site as a gift to the county. They could not have a better site and he moved a vote of thanks.

Hawkin's fire, p5

1925 10 21

Little Downham parish council are hoping to brighten the main parts of their village by means of acetylene gas lamps but they want the money to do it. In expectation of support for such a project they arranged for a public meeting, but scarcely a dozen ratepayers put in an appearance. The idea is to revive a custom started in 1911 when acetylene gas was generated at the Pound, Town End and voluntary subscriptions met the financial obligations. Since the war the gas plant has been lying idle and the lampposts have served only for supports for the weary, but now it is trusted the scheme may be revived.

1925 10 22

There was another 'battle of the bridges' at Cambridge Town Council when the question of the erection of bridges across the Cam was brought forward. With the opening up of Mill Road there were people who only got ten minutes home to dinner owing to delay at the ferry. The Paving committee recommended that the footbridge at Pretoria Road be proceeded with and that a temporary footbridge be erected at Dant's Ferry pending construction of a vehicular bridge. It was dangerous to go over Victoria Bridge and they must have a new vehicular bridge if only to modify that danger.

Soham water scheme complete, p6

1925 10 23

Unemployment, p6

1925 10 23 ES

Rural Libraries scheme recommended Isle council. 25 10 23&(2)ES

Ely Sugar Beet Factory interior – photo. 25 10 23(3)ES

A village of darkness: Lt Downham says 'no' to street lamps. 25 10 23(4)

A village of darkness: Lt Downham says 'no' to street lamps. 25 10 23(4)

Little Downham a Village of Darkness - Fen Times October 23rd 1925

Little Downham is a village of darkness, and if its 2,000 inhabitants maintain that present apathy, it is likely to remain such.

Standing in the positions in which they were erected on the occasion of the coronation of King George about 15 lamp standards, all of which from that date distributed a flare of light, provided by acetylene gas, which enabled residents to move about in safety during the dark winter nights.

The coming of the war brought about the end of the lights and the acetylene, equipment, costing somewhere about £85 to install, has now fallen into this desuetude

But darkness has no terror for the inhabitants of Little Downham. They move about with a facility born of experience. If one should chance to collide with a disused lamp standard, they take it for granted it is part of village life. Some villages are apprehensive, lest the inky darkness should cause them to slip or break a leg or an ankle, and have these now armed themselves with a flash lamp or hurricane lamp but others retain a desire to see the village illuminated by a proper system of lighting. A public meeting was called to test the feelings of parishioners in regard to light. The villagers displayed an old time apathy and the meeting had to be abandoned without a word, being uttered. Not more than a dozen ratepayers attended.

When in 1911 the Parish Councils endeavoured to adopt the lighting Act they were outvoted by the inhabitants of the fen who did not see why they should be called upon to contribute to a lighting scheme from which they were to derive no benefit. As three-fourths of the ratepayers reside in the fens their point of view can readily be appreciated.

When it was decided to install the lighting system in celebration of the coronation of King George the necessary money was forthcoming by voluntary subscription and until the war the people voluntarily subscribed the necessary money.

Now some residents have volunteered to pay the cost of a light apiece if others do the same. It would cost between £13-£20 a year to light the lamps with oil and spare Downham from remaining a village of darkness.

Isle schools to be condemned?; heavy expenditure by new schools and improvement of others; many buildings have ceased to be suitable; consider Chatteris, Downham, Black Horse Drove, Lt Ouse, Newton, Thorney, Wisbech St Peter, Downham Oxloode & Pymore, Littleport Town, Upwell. 25 20 23(5)

1925 10 24

Wesley House, the new Wesleyan Methodist post-graduate theological college which has risen on a site in Jesus Lane, was formally opened. It was five years ago that the Wesleyan Methodist Conference decided to set up the college at Cambridge and a site was purchased from Jesus college. The architect, Sir Aston Webb, has carried out a pleasing design in red brick. The building comprises accommodation for 29 students. The work of the college has been carried on for the past four years in hired buildings

Toll of roads, p6

1925 10 26

Sir – in the course of clearing the refuse from the household dustbins the employees now have instructions to sort out all empty fish, fruit and other tins from the refuse and leave them behind for the householder to dispose of how he may. This regulation may not be a hardship for those who have a spacious garden where they can dig a hole and bury their tins. But we, the ratepayers of Petersfield Ward, blessed with councillors who have suggested homes in the fields for our poultry, ask them in their wisdom to be good enough to provide us with a home for our empty tins – A.M. Morley

Archery, p5

1925 10 29

Papworth fire, p5

1925 10 30

Chesterton RDC was told that it was very well supplied with water but five parishes had no public pumps, three had private supplies and one relied upon artesian wells where they had 13 wells continuously running. They should take powers to prevent that water running to waste. At Stapleford the council had bought land for the erection of houses but the Cambridge Water Company area did not include the village and although the main passed in front of the land they had no right to supply water.

1925 10 30 ES

Scathing comments on Agricultural Labourers' conditions; electric light for pigs, paraffin oil for men. 25 10 30&(2)ES

The housing condition of agricultural workers are a national scandal and disgrace. The racehorses at Newmarket are better housed than the bulk of the agricultural labourers in this country. You could find pigsties far better than the houses of the agricultural labourers. There is electric light for the man when he goes to feed the pigs and paraffin oil for him in his home. It is inhuman and callous, Albert

Stubbs, Chairman of the Agricultural Wages Committee claimed. "I've never felt more humiliated in my life than when the farmers moved that the wages of an agricultural neighbour should be cut from 30 shillings to 24 shillings".

Agriculture was the most important and essential industry in the world. The agricultural labourer was being treated more like a beast of burden than a human being. He was called upon to work 51 hours a week and when he had worked that he took home to his wife is 30 shillings. The agricultural labourer's wages worked out at tuppence a meal for his wife himself and three children. If the farmer's wife or the landowner's wife had to live the life of an agricultural worker in this country for a fortnight they would be calling for a down-tools strike.

Even in a sleepy place like Ely the Sugar Beet Factory was going to be a success. The industry was of great national importance. Men we're going to be in the factory something like four months and then back to the land. But where were they to get the labour from?

Men had been earning seven shillings and eight shillings a day at Shippea Hill and the farmers had been glad to get labour at that price. The Cambridgeshire rate was at the moment 30 shillings a week or seven pence halfpenny an hour. It was a disgraceful wage to pay a man but they would have gotten less if it had not been for the work put in by the union. The sugar beet rate was 10d an hour and the ordinary building rate was over one shilling an hour. Workers had the right to sell their labour in the best market 25 10 30 ES

First consignment of sugar manufactured by Ely Beet Factory delivered to Fred Bennett's shop in Market Street: photo. 25 10 30(4)ES

1925 10 31

Mannequin parade, p5*

House refuse, p6

November 1925 CDN

1925 11 02

A dispute between the Vicar of Meldreth and his Parochial Church Council over the repair of the church and churchyard has come to a head with a petition for a faculty. In 1919 the churchyard was in a scandalous condition and had been made the dumping ground for the village. It contained old boots and tin cans and had been allowed to become infected with jackdaws and bats. Somebody shot the jackdaws from time to time and dead bodies lay about. It had never been mown and tombs were obliterated with brambles.

1925 11 03

Theft of socks, p5

Victoria Cinema tour mix, p5

Isleham church window, p6

Battle of bridge, p6

1925 11 04

Sir – if all the grumblers would combine to get the custodian of the Histon Road cemetery, Cambridge, a better wage they would do some real good. Each man begins cheerfully and willingly, but how can he be expected to keep a good heart and pay for auxiliary labour out of a 25s. wage. Every man who had taken the job has gone out owning himself beaten by a starvation wage. I heard one say he had to buy his own grass-cutting machine and bedding-out plants. Even with a house thrown in the job appears to be more a 'man-trap' than cemetery. – 'Anti-Fat'

1925 11 05

Pearl Lambeth – Barton, p5

1925 11 06

The Vicar of Shepreth's action in placing upon his church door a notice drawing attention to a pamphlet entitled "Work or Starve" was severely criticised at a meeting of the strikers in the East Anglian Cement Company dispute at the village hall. Mr Watering, the men's organiser, gave an account of a somewhat stormy interview with the Vicar and announced his intention of writing to the Bishop over the use of the church door as an advertising medium to divide the strikers. It seemed hardly possible that the dispute had been in progress thirty-five weeks. Only when Colonel Tebbutt was willing to meet the men's representatives and agreed to the approved rate of wages would the strike come to an end.

1925 11 06

Cambridge usually expects a 'rag' on Guy Fawkes' night but this year's affair was of a harmless character, plenty of noise being the chief characteristic. Fireworks galore were discharged and the Market Hill was occasionally lit up with flame-coloured flares. But this was rather a tame sort of amusement for undergraduates and they proceeded to accomplish the now stale feat of extinguishing the gas lamps in the neighbourhood of the Hill. Some undergrads took it into their heads to relight the lamps in the centre, which enabled one of their number to climb the fountain on the top of which something indistinguishable was placed. This being done out went the lamps again, coins being the smashing factor once more.

1925 11 06

Two fires caused damage to the extent of thousands of pounds in Cambridge and both are believed to have been caused by fireworks. It was particularly unfortunate that one occurred a few moments after the other, for the second was a much bigger conflagration than the first, and the fire engine was not then available. The first was to a corn stack in Natal Road but the other was at Messrs Kidman & Sons' wood factory yard and workshops in Abbey Walk. The outbreak occurred at the end of the building nearest the Coldham's Common allotments, but it quickly spread along the rafters and within ten minutes there was no earthly chance of saving the building. The roof of St Columba's Mission Hall was soon alight and the outskirts of Simper's rope works also began to blaze.

Crossing white line, p5

Cycle club jubilee, p6

1925 11 06 ES

Meldreth churchyard 'a howling disreputable wilderness'. 25 11 06&(2)ES

A Consistory Court meeting at Ely Cathedral heard that Meldreth churchyard was 'a howling disreputable wilderness'. I had been made the dumping ground of the rubbish in the village - old pots and tin cans - and the tower had been allowed to become infested with jackdaws and bats.

Somebody had shot the jackdaws from time to time and their dead bodies lay about. There was an accumulation of cinders in the churchyard, which was estimated as the accumulation of 10 years, by virtue of which, and never having been mown, gradually got higher and higher until the graves were obliterated. There were thistles and brambles in the churchyard and a terrible crop of nettles. Earth had grown up against the wall and by taking it away they had made the church drier.

The inside of the church was very dirty and had been distempered. The Vicar had entrusted a village tradesman to do up the south door porch without expert advice and was running a grave risk of damage being done. It had some Tudor carving of great antiquity, archaeological value and beauty.

25 11 06 ES

Remarkable scenes were witnessed during the closing services of the United Mission conducted by Gipsy Ezekiel Smith at the Primitive Methodist Church, Soham. The meetings held during the whole of the 10-day mission have been crowded ones. Seldom has such a vast audience attended a place of worship in Soham.

The strange story of the missionary with his simple gospel story has caught on more and more each day until the audience became too large for the interior of the Primitive Methodist Church.

On Sunday, the congregation was unusually large; every available seat was occupied, even every inch of standing room right to the pulpit, which was also used by visitors. Even before the advertised time of the final service many were doomed to disappointment and unable to get within hearing distance of the Gipsy whose visit will live in the memory of hundreds. 25 11 06(6)ES

Haddenham new Vicar, Bywaters. 25 11 06(3)ES

Wilburton death John Gifford, nonconformist minister. 25 11 06(3)ES

Stretham:

Accident due to mist, Mabel Neville

Leslie Badcock hurt hand at Beet Factory

Death Mrs Mary Lister, widow Henry James Lister. 25 11 06(4)ES

Middle Level Board Chairman resigns under pressure; report. 25 11 06(5)(6)ES

1925 11 07

There are at least two very happy married couples in Cambridgeshire today. In Melbourn there dwell Mr & Mrs John Preston Hall, who were married 68 years ago. They have lived in the same old-world thatched cottage in Drury Lane for 65 years. He is a working carpenter and at one time there were seven of his people all over 70. In Horningsea are another married couple whose name, curiously enough, is Melbourn, who celebrate their diamond wedding. Mr Melbourn worked on one farm from early boyhood until a few years ago. Hearty congratulations to both couples on their wonderful record

Mayor Mrs Hartree year review, p3

1925 11 09

The adjourned sitting of the Ely Consistory Court severely criticised the Vicar of Meldreth. The vicar said he felt plans by the Parochial Church Council regarding the church path was an attempt to interfere with consecrated ground and the graves of the dead. It was monstrous to disturb the dead who cannot take care of themselves and he stood for the dead in his churchyard. It was impossible for him to attend meetings of the church council owing to the attitude of one of the members. Everything connected with the council, the parish and everything else he was always finding fault with and complaining. It was impossible for the vicar, as chairman to attend any longer. So he gave up.

1925 11 09 c

Three undergraduates were fined £2 each for extinguishing street lamps. James Haynes, a watchman said he saw the gentlemen approach Drummer Street. They overturned the brazier containing his fire and he had to put the fire out because the tar on the pavement commenced to flare. He saw them turn out the light of a lamp in Emmanuel Street. Two of them hoisted another up to do this. In Short Street they turned out three more lights and another five were turned out along Victoria Avenue.

1925 11 10

Three-card trick, p5 (& 12th)

1925 11 11

With commendable solemnity Cambridge honoured England's dead. Never before was the Two Minutes Silence so well observed in the busy parts of the town, a striking testimony to the increasing reverence which is attached to this impressive ceremony. Many wore their poppies as an outward sign of their remembrance and heads were reverently bared as the first maroon boomed forth from Parker's Piece. Except for a few instances of chronic forgetfulness or callous disregard the silence was complete

Fen Drayton smallholdings, p3

1925 11 12

During the Newmarket race meeting season gangs of card twisters took out railway tickets to cover the period and 'worked' the trains between Newmarket and London. People were enticed to play, or if they refused, they were in serious danger of being assaulted. A Cambridge undergraduate was deprived of two banker's cheques, valued at £10, by the three card trick whilst playing in the train. As a result two men were sentenced to four month's imprisonment

1925 11 13

Cambridge dog show, p3

1925 11 14

"We the undersigned, convinced that all disputes between nations are capable of settlement by diplomatic negotiation, hereby solemnly declare that she shall refuse to support or render war service to any Government which resorts to arms". The declaration having been signed by members of the University they called a public meeting. The hall was nearly filled with undergraduates but a section of the audience showed their displeasure by continual interruption. Mr G.L. Trevelyan spoke of the horrors to be met in the next war, and was greeted with the remark: "No they will kill us nice and cleanly in the next war".

1925 11 14

Rarely does a stranger pay a visit to Cambridge in term time without commenting on the extraordinary number of bicycles to be found here. But apparently we cannot claim the record for the number of bicycles in proportion to the population. The number of push bicycles in Bedford is computed to be five to every six people. They have no tramway system and an inadequate service of omnibuses. On market day bicycles are propped against every wall and in one place they were almost two deep for 150 yards.

New Chesterton Institute 40th party, p6

Cottenham fruit picking station, p6

1925 11 16

Tango at Liberal Club, p5

Cottenham slaughterhouse, p5

1925 11 17

Mr Sidney William Washington, of Littleport, was a member of the crew of the great submarine M1, which was reported to have sunk with all hands off the Devonshire coast. It means the breaking of a happy romance, for only three months ago he was married. To the young wife and his parents the news came as a great shock. They first gained the sad information from the daily newspapers and official confirmation was forthcoming from the naval authorities when a letter was received that no hope was entertained for the crew's survival. An invitation was extended to them to attend a funeral service at Portsmouth. In Cambridge the deepest sympathy will be felt for Mrs M.G. Philpott, whose eldest son was aboard the M1 when she made her last dive.

Ely flower & feather show, p3

1925 11 18

Enormous interest was taken in the result of an inquest on an 11 year-old boy, the son of a college servant, who was killed in Victoria Avenue, Cambridge, by being knocked down by a motor car driven by an undergraduate of Emmanuel College. He had driven a hired Morris Oxford car with defective brakes at an excessive speed round the bend of the road and on the wrong side. The student was committed for trial on a charge of manslaughter

1925 11 18

The 100ft high chimney stack which has stood for close on 300 years on the site of the old disused flour mill at the corner of Mill Lane and Granta Place, Cambridge, was pulled down. A platform was erected at the base of the stack which rises from the now dry river bed, and fuel in the form of straw, wood and corn was placed thereon. The whole was then soaked with paraffin oil, a match applied and the work of destruction begun. But the old giant took a deal of shifting and it was not until the flames had licked about his feet for over a quarter of an hour did he sway and crash to the ground amid a deafening crescendo of falling masonry.

1925 11 18 c

Foreign missions take an important place in the religious life of Cambridge, and the reports from China of the shocking ill-treatment and martyrdom of missionaries at the hands of the Boxers, have been read with grave anxiety and pain in this town. The fate of Mr & Mrs Herbert Dixon has greatly exercised the minds of their many friends and it is now recognised that all hope of their having escaped is past. They were for some months in Cambridge, residing at Mill Road and when leaving were recipients of presentations from the congregation of St Andrew's Street Baptist church. Another melancholy case is that of the sister of Mr Doggett of The Farm, Cherry Hinton but Miss Gregg has escaped and is now on her way home.

1925 11 19

Major D.J. Fryer, prospective candidate for the Isle of Ely, speaking at a Labour meeting held in the Ely Co-operative Hall, said he was so ashamed at Mr Winston Churchill's reduction of the super-tax and income tax that he gave £123, which he was saved from paying, to the Shepreth strikers. It was nonsense, he remarked, to pretend such men as himself needed relief. The Government should start at the other end of the scale.

Mania for bicycles, p3

1925 11 21

In Cambridge, as throughout the country, the sad tidings of the death of the Queen Mother were received with feelings of profound sorrow. The flags on the University buildings, colleges, churches, municipal buildings were half-masted, and at various places of entertainment the audiences, on hearing the news announced, stood in silence while the National Anthem was played. The Mayor moved a vote of sympathy with their Majesties King George V and the Queen on the loss of their mother. To every Englishman the name of Alexandra has stood for love and sympathy.

Share-out clubs, p3

Queen Alexandra & Cambridge, p5

Cambridge learns about itself, p8

1925 11 20 ES

Ely man, Sidney Washington, drowns in submarine M.1, twice torpedoed during war. 25 11 20ES

Ely Rosewell Pits pollution. 25 11 20ES

Ely Beet Factory footbridge under construction: photo. 25 11 20(2)ES

A massive footbridge is in course of construction near the new Ely Beet Factory to enable pedestrians to cross the river and walk along the bank instead of in front of the Factory as they did prior to the magistrates granting permission for the diversion of the footpath. construction: photo. 25 11 20(2)ES

1925 11 23

C.L. Tebbutt death, p5

1925 11 24

Mr John Berry Hobbs, the English, Surrey and Cambridgeshire cricketer, was honoured by his native town when over 400 sportsmen from all parts of the country gathered at the Cambridge Guildhall to meet 'the greatest batsman of the age'. Four well-known County captains, including three former leaders of England, accepted invitations and all paid tributes to the master batsman. Autograph hunters were busy during the evening and Mr Hobbs, Mr Warner, Mr Leveson-Gower and Mr Fender must now be suffering from writer's cramp.

Tipperary club, p5

1925 11 24 ES

L.N.E.R. installing a coaling plant at white moor to be operated mechanically, constructing a triangle for engine turning purposes, providing additional water facilities 50 11 24(2)ES

1925 11 25

Sir – is it not time that attention was drawn to the question of homework meted out to the boys at the Cambridge and County School? Is it right that boys of tender years, between the ages of 10 and 16 should, after doing a day's work at school, sit up night after night till the hours of 10, 11 and even 12 o'clock, pouring over lessons long after their brains refuse to function. If parents complain to the school the boy subsequently bears the brunt of it. I should like to know if other parents are experiencing the same difficulty – A Parent

1925 11 26

A Soham farmer was summoned for employing a child under the age of 14 years 'in such a manner as to prevent him attending school at Soham'. The school attendance officer saw a number of children working in a field picking potatoes. The farmer said he was most anxious to get his crop in before the frosts and he employed all the men and women he could get. The school had closed for a fortnight on account of the scarcity of labour so he did not think there was any harm in employing children. He was fined 10s.

B. Campkin presentation, p3

Captain Tebbutt inquest & funeral, p5*

1925 11 26 c

At the close of the public examination in bankruptcy of Dr - - of Bottisham the official receiver said he had received a resolution of sympathy passed by all the debtors' creditors – all except the money lenders. He was a medical practitioner and had invested all his capital in the practice, which he continued successfully until the war. About three years ago he got into financial difficulties and had recourse to money lenders; he had been in their hands ever since, sometimes borrowing from one to repay another.

1925 11 27

Acclaimed as the Swedish nightingale in 1850 and taking the world by storm, Jenny Lind has been re-born in 1925 in the person of Frieda Hempel who gave her celebrated 'Jenny Lind' concert in Cambridge Guildhall. A most enthusiastic welcome was accorded by her many admirers for besides having a glorious voice, she possesses great beauty, enhanced last night by white satin rose-trimmed crinoline and her beautiful fair hair parted in the middle.

1925 11 27 ES

County Library proposal: to adopt scheme. 25 11 27&(2)ES # c.77

Aeroplane forced landing in snowstorm in field on Downham Road. 25 11 27(3)ES # c.26.1

Ely Beet Factory sidings: photo. 25 11 27(4)ES

Murrow rail mishap: goods trains collide. 25 11 27(4)ES

1925 11 28

Drummer Street parking, p8

Queen Alexandra's visits to Cambridge, p8

December 1925 CDN

1925 12 01

Sir – The scenes on Sunday night in Petty Cury & Market Hill, Cambridge are disgraceful. Low hobbydehop youths and flat-chested flappers congregate and parade, whistling and shouting after each other and using language that would shame Billingsgate. Surely the police can put an end to such disgraceful proceedings – A.E.C.

Defiant parents, p5

1925 12 02

The overnight frost in Cambridge was sufficiently severe to ensure another day's sport for skaters. At the Cambridge sewage Farm, Milton Road, where the ice had a thickness of about two inches, skating was continued with safety and there were quite a number of people, chiefly Varsitymen, "making gay while the ice holds". The popular plus four suit and warm pull-over, is just the thing for this kind of sport, but one noticed a number skating in ordinary suits.

1925 12 04

Sir – I must utter a strong protest against the action of some person in authority in the town in trying to put a stop to skating on the Corporation Sewage Farm at Milton. It does seem a pity that when the opportunity for such a splendid form of recreation occurs only once in a generation, that some kill-joy should throw hot water, in this case, on such inexpensive pleasure for the public, with notices of 'keep off the ice', barbed wire entanglements, and a policeman taking the names of trespassers on skates. There were hundreds taking the risk of being prosecuted rather than miss the opportunity of such splendid sport - Bertram Pearson

Skating, p58

Ely deanery fire, p3

1925 12 04 ES

Ouse Drainage Board, loan for dredger for Old West River. 25 12 04&(2)ES

Mourning for Queen Mother. 25 12 04ES

Ely paid a simple but beautiful tribute to the memory of the late beloved Queen Alexandra in the form of a memorial service in the cathedral, and the businessmen of the city closed their establishments in order that they might attend this memorable commemoration service.

Ely was indeed a city of mourning, synchronising with the funeral service in London. Blinds were drawn in every part of the city. Flags floated at half-mast and everywhere there was an atmosphere of reverence.

Men, women and girls quitted the office, desk and counter and wended their way through the snow-coated streets to the cathedral. Black was for the most part the dress order for women while men wore black ties and in some instances armlets of black.

After the services a muffled peal was rung on the bells of St. Mary's Church

Exceptionally severe weather has been experienced with frost, snow, fog and wind.

Fortunately, most of the roots are up although there is still some sugar beet remaining out and a piece or two of mangolds. The sugar beet will not be greatly hurt but the mangolds must be affected. When the sharp weather commenced, many of the graves of the roots had yet to receive their winter coats. Some in fact, were only covered down with straw. But all available hands have been engaged in making the clamps safe and very few roots have been affected in this way.

The sharp winter has put a sudden stop to winter drilling and with the land too hard on several days to plough some manure carting has been done. On stubble lands or where deep ploughing was being done, one or two days have been sufficiently open to allow the teams to work. And it has been a pleasure to see that soil being turned up.

Potatoes continued to go away steadily although there is a slight steadiness in the trade at present. Under present conditions, great care is needed to see that any which are loaded are strawed well down in the truck and also to adequately cover up any standing in the field.

The chief difficulty has been to get stuff loaded. The roads have been like ice and have been very dangerous for travelling. On several mornings motor cars, bicycles, and lorries have needed extremely careful handling to prevent them skidding all over the place. Horses have needed roughing before they could venture out. 25 12 04

1925 12 05

Sir – in reference to letter concerning the so-called ‘flat-chested flappers’ parading the streets on Sunday evenings, I am afraid the person who named them as such must be either a very-narrow-minded person or a gouty, flat-footed individual. He may perhaps recall that these flappers may be shut up in shops and factories all the week and are only too pleased to get a little fresh air and recreation in Sunday evenings – ‘One of the so-called flat-chested flappers’

1925 12 05 c

Sir – I must thank ‘One of the flat-chested flappers’ for corroborating my remarks as to the disgraceful conduct of the motley mob to be found in Petty Cury on Sunday nights. I should not advise anyone, particularly a young lady, in search of fresh air, to visit the Cury then, for the atmosphere is ‘too blue’ to be healthy, and reeks of cheap cigarette smoking, indulged in by ill-bred youths and flappers alike – A.E.C.

1925 12 05

Lively scenes took place at an intended auction sale of goods distrained on the instructions of the Ouse Drainage Board for non-payment of the rate. Some 30 men attended the sale at Scales’ Hotel, Milton Road, Cambridge. As soon as the auctioneer opened the sale there was loud cheering, followed by a continued hubbub. Accordions were played more or less melodiously, the shriek of penny whistles rent the air, and mouth organs and toy trumpets added to the general pandemonium. A Welsh pony was trotted out from the stable, it’s back covered with a large Union Jack and was run to and fro to the sounds of much music amid a constant flow of racing terms. It was also sternly admonished to ‘keep its tail up’ and was confidently dubbed next year’s Derby winner. No bids were forthcoming.

1925 12 05

Regular services were resumed in the Leper chapel last summer, conducted by members of Westcott House. If these services are to be continued a proper floor (there being at present no other floor than beaten earth) and some form of heating apparatus are necessary, while the condition of the interior plaster, which is continually dropping, calls for immediate and careful repair. This means the raising of a considerable sum of money and it is estimated that £300 will be required.

Queen Alexandra at Cambridge, p8

Rendezvous film hirer bankruptcy, p5*

1925 12 07

The advent of Father Christmas in Cambridge marked the approach of the festive season. He entered the town by means of the railway line. Crowds of young and old alike assembled outside the station and as the train steamed in a vision of scarlet and white, with a long white flowing beard, was seen at the window. The coach that awaited his arrival might have featured in the pages of some Hans Andersen’s story with his coachman resplendent in his green and gold livery, a footman in blue, & two trumpeters attired in old gold facings and velvet breeches. To the sound of a fanfare of trumpets and the strains of the band he started on a triumphal tour of the town. On his approach to his temporary home at Heyworth’s stores in Burleigh Street he was officially welcomed to ‘Treasure Island’

Polo players & horses, p5

10 mph speed restriction, p6

1925 12 08

Jesus Green pavilion, p3

Heifitz at Guildhall, p5

Car on fire, p5

Ely skating, p5

1925 12 09

The public examination of the film hirer of the Rendezvous Cinema was held at the Cambridge Bankruptcy Court. He had taken over the lease from Mrs Mason in June 1924 with Mr Wallace Lester and managed the business on behalf of the partnership. The concern never made any profits. He started with a salary of £10 a week and as the concern did not go very well it was reduced to £5. The cinema took about £90 a week, and wages and other expenses amounted to £120 a week, so that there was a gross loss every week.

1925 12 10

Guildhall bill hoardings, p5

1925 12 11

Motor speed regulation, p8

1925 12 11 ES

Skating at Ely: photo. 25 12 11ES

A remarkable exhibition of the ancient game of darts was given by Mr. George Dimock of Stretham. Playing on an ordinary match board he succeeded in placing nine darts in the bulls-eye in two and a half minutes. Previously, he had taken four minutes to secure the nine bulls. Mr Dimock claims this to be a record and he has issued a challenge to any darts player to beat this remarkable display, which was witnessed by several interested players of the game

1925 12 12

The Cambridge Women's Welfare Association was formed recently to bring a knowledge of birth control methods within reach of poor mothers. It is a rule that every woman attending must be seen by a doctor and the Cambridge Centre, Fitzroy Hall, Wellington Street has both a lady doctor and a certified midwife in attendance. The London Society for the Provision of Birth Control Clinics began its work in a small way at Walworth and now has centres at North Kensington and Wolverhampton as well as Cambridge. At Walworth 5,275 separate cases have been dealt with since its work began in 1921.

1925 12 12

Discussion took place on the proposed Ten-Mile Speed Limit through Cambridge. Whether such a limit is workable or not, we have got to find some way of minimising traffic dangers. Cambridge and Oxford stand apart from all other towns by reason of the very large number of young men possessing motors, and Cambridge is worse than Oxford because our thoroughfares are so much narrower. Undergraduates – if they are the chief offenders – have to be made to realise it is not so easy to 'damn the consequences'. If heavier penalties and suspended licences will bring about the desired improvements well and good. If not more drastic measures must be sought.

Gt Wilbraham overcrowded houses, p5

Allotments, p8

1925 12 14

Saffron Walden speed limit, p5

County bowling association formed, p6

1925 12 15

Haverhill ambulance, p5
Xmas in shops, p8

1925 12 16

Fordham water scheme, p5
Xmas – Winton Smith, p7

1925 12 17

Two large bundles of rabbit-skins, one consisting of what is known in the trade as 'fresh pulled' skins and the other of what an expert witness described as 'summer rubbish' were exhibited in a Cambridge court. Percy Wheatley, skin merchant of Staffordshire Street, Cambridge claimed £18.14s. for alleged breach of contract. He had agreed to pay 4s.6d. a dozen provided they were fresh pulled off., but he found 90 per cent of the skins were 'summer rubbish'. He produced two bundles of skins and held them up for the judge's inspection, pointing out the difference. His Honour gave judgement for the plaintiff.

Rendezvous cinema affairs, p5
House families, p5

1925 12 18

Sir – regular users of the main road between Milton and Cambridge have occasion to complain of the unsatisfactory working of the Milton Road Level Crossing. The gates are practically never open to the users of the road, the average being about once in twenty that one can get through. The L.N.E.R. say that on account of the heavy traffic on the line 'the gate-keeper is justified in keeping his gates across the public road in the normal position'. The dangerous and almost prehistoric state of the avoiding cutting is utterly unfit for modern traffic & is nothing short of a public disgrace. – P.W. Essex

New tennis club, p6*
Children sent workhouse, p7

1925 12 18 ES

Sutton 'horrible site' for housing. 25 12 18&(2)ES

About 100 inhabitants of Sutton assembled at the school to protest against the squandering of ratepayers' money on an unsuitable site of land offered to the Rural District Council for Council Housing. The land in the Brook was unhealthy. The site was at the back of other houses and the soil was clay. The feet of the people would always be cold if they got there. To put a lot of houses together on one site was not healthy - it was insanitary.

The land had been offered by the owner who was a member of the Rural Council sitting and voting on that body. No man should sit and vote and be the vendor of land for which he was going to take money from the ratepayer.

They did not want that land, they wanted land at West Lodge. If not, then let them live at the Ely Road site and not on the one suggested which was the worst in the parish.

The site owner addressed the meeting and said he had a fair amount of mud thrown. The piece of land on Ely Road was purchased to build houses before he'd been elected. He was not pressing the land on the Council. He did not know why he should have been abused.

Mr. Darby said when Council contemplated buying the Ely Road site he told him the question of the drainage and sewage would arrive and it would cost a considerable amount of money to deal with it. They still purchased the site. They could build 40 houses there if they like but he would not allow the drainage or sewage to come directly into the park. If they built they would have to put a sewer down the public road. If he's wanted to stop building he could buy the site because the Council had agreed to sell. But no one would pay the price asked because they had paid too much for it.

25 12 18&(2)ES

1925 12 19

A confetti-strewn pavement outside St Philip's church, Romsey Town, told the tale of a happy romance of ripe old age. The wedding was that of John Crane, a 78-year-old Argyle Street bricklayer, and Mary Ann Sparrow of Madras Road, aged 72. The couple walked to church and the bride, who looked the picture of happiness, was given away by Mr James Taylor, who also acted as best man. The romance is quite a short one, but this is not the first adventure in matrimony for either. Both are wonderfully active and healthy and do not look their age, while Mr Crane still pursues his occupation of a bricklayer. When interviewed after the wedding Mr Crane replied, "I don't remember what has happened, but we are both very happy"

Waterbeach share-out societies, p7

1925 12 21

Dr Radio – Addenbrooke's, p7

1925 12 22

Romsey Town's champion girl sprinter, Kathleen Fabb, was presented with the silver cup which she won at the Crystal Palace. She competed in the first Annual sports held by the English Schools Athletic Association and came first in the 100 yards race for girls under 14, thus being the proud champion of the country in this event.

1925 12 23

A meeting of ratepayers protested against the compulsory attendance of the children of Rampton at the elementary school at Cottenham. They object to their children, whom they cannot afford to appropriately clothe and feed, having to tramp long distances to school through slush and mud and in all kinds of weather. The children need extra clothing and boots, and the food they have to take with them costs more than if they were fed at home

1925 12 23

The Isle of Ely County Council claimed £37 for arrears of rent of smallholdings at Tower Farm, Lt Downham. The defendant said he had three acres of sugar beet, one acre of mangolds, two acres of brank, a fowl house with about 100 fowls, and agricultural implements. He had advertised to sell his stock but in consequence of bad trade withdrew them. He had a valuable horse for which he had been bid £70 that he had sold for £24.

1925 12 23

A referendum was taken in the village of Fordham on the question of providing a public water supply in place of the present methods of landlords supplying their own properties by means of private wells. This was not sufficiently decisive and it was decided to take a poll of the village. By a majority of four to one Fordham has refused it. The result was quite expected. A few wells have been found to be polluted but they only need to be deepened and the top soil kept free of sewage. Between the two streams the soil is boggy and the water polluted by decaying vegetation.

Exning bier, p2*

Fascisti at Rendezvous, p5

1925 12 24

Oxlode washland, p2

Santa Claus & twin brother, p5

1925 12 28

Well, Christmas had come and gone again and all that remains are the parties and indigestion. Christmas isn't like it used to be. It never was. With the world changing so quickly it would be surprising if, outwardly at any rate, Christmas did not change with it. But although nature may not give us what the Christmas card designers have led us to believe was the traditional Yuletide weather, what is more important is that the Spirit of Christmas is still with us and is indeed stronger than ever. On Christmas Day the football match between Cambridge Town and Thurrock was witnessed by a crowd of about 1,500

1925 12 28

The many hundreds of people who crowded Market Hill to see the meet of the Cambridgeshire Hunt on Boxing Day morning will have an opportunity of trying to pick themselves out in a special film at the Victoria Cinema. The photography is extraordinarily good and the picturesque scene well depicted. The spectator gets good views of various sections of the crowds and the huntsmen are seen partaking of the refreshments supplied by the Mayor. Later as the Hunt moves off we see them in King's Parade.

Child died Xmas day, p5

1925 12 29

The Water Engineer submitted a scheme to Ely RDC for the extension of water supply to Haddenham. He recommends the erection of a reinforced concrete water tower with a capacity of 100,000 gallons as the existing towers at Littleport and Sutton. The site chosen is the corner of a field at the back of the Rectory House, abutting the bowling green. There are other convenient sites but this is nearer to the existing pipeline and enables it to be laid straight to the tower without unnecessary curves or awkward bends.

Don deprived of readership, p5

Ely housing sites, p5

1925 12 31

The RSPCA prosecuted a Linton man for overdriving a sow. He had been given the job to drive the animal to a farm where it would be used for stock purposes. On arrival the sow was so exhausted that it died within a minute. The man said: "I took an hour to get her there. She started 'blowing' before I got out of Green Lane and she was a trouble all along the way. I have driven a good many pigs, but she capped the lot for 'blowing'." He was fined 13s. 6d.

Overdriving sow, p5*

1926 Cambridge Daily News

I have scans of these articles

January 1926 CDN & Ely Standard (ES)

1926 01 01

1925 was sent from among us, and 1926, was ushered in by the century-old custom of firing two rockets on Parker's Piece at midnight. A small band of townsfolk gathered to attend the funeral obsequies of the dying year. At ten minutes before midnight Mr A. Deck arrived with the rockets and the crowd stood in silence. Then the bells of Great St Mary's were drowned out by a mighty rushing noise, a whiz and a bang and 1925 had gone. Then as the first chimes of the Catholic Church reached the ear there was a second whiz followed by another loud bang and 1926 was here.

Property market, p2
St Matthew's Piece, p5

1926 01 01 ES

The Ely Rural District Council Surveyor reported on the water scheme for Huntingdon, Wilburton Stretham and Thetford.

The ground levels at Haddenham are too high to prevent to permit a supply to the entire village by gravitation from Sutton tower. The height opposite the Baptist Chapel and opposite Peacock's Industrial Home facing the Recreation Ground is 122 feet and at the crest of the hill on Wilburton Road 123 feet. This is the height of the floor of the Sutton tank. After allowing for the distance the water would have to travel from Sutton tower, the friction in the pipes and the loss due to house connections en route, the quantity delivered at the top of Haddenham Hill be quite inadequate for the proper supply by gravitation, even supposing the Sutton tower was maintained at two thirds full. Consequently he recommends a reinforced concrete water tower at the back of the Rectory house abutting the Bowling Green. There were other sites, one down Church Lane in the direction of West Fen belonging to Mr Feast the builder. But Mr Hephner suggested the best available site would be the Recreation Ground.

At Stretham the main will turn north at the Mission Hall and follow Front Street and High Street past the church to the windmill at the crest of the hill. It will then follow the main Ely Road The whole village will be controlled by suitable valves, and hydrants could be fixed at convenient distances. -26 01 01 & (2) ES

January 15th, the date on which medical benefits are due to begin under the National Insurance Acts will find East Anglia well prepared. In Cambridgeshire, Ely and Huntingdonshire sufficient application for medical men for admission to the various panels have been received to assure adequate attendance on insured persons. Up to last Saturday, the doctors showed an apparently strong front against working the act. But on Monday, a meeting was called at which a resolution was passed: "To save from absolute ruin many of our fellow practitioners and to retain for them they're just and legitimate rights we can no longer rightfully condemn those who are forced in self-preservation to go onto the panel. But we accept this attitude with feelings of bitter animosity against the government's methods in violating the liberty of action of a profession which has always been on the side of just and generous dealing". In the Isle of Ely practically every practitioner has signified his willingness to serve. 26 01 01ES

1926 01 02

One has been glad to see the new sign posts erected in various parts of Cambridge for in these days of ever-increasing road traffic we want to make it as easy as possible for motorists who pass through our town. As originally erected one directed travellers to Bedford along King's Parade and through Magdalene Street, but when it was pointed out that the traffic through the town should be diminished as much as possible, this offending arm was removed.

1926 01 02

Mrs Angelina Dunn Gardner, of Fordham Abbey, left £1,500 to the Fordham Parochial Church Council for the purchase of a suitable piece of land and the erection thereon of a Church Hall to be used primarily for occasional services or the moral, physical, social, intellectual and spiritual interests of the inhabitants. She directed that the building should bear a tablet of stone recording the gift and its object.

1926 01 02

An outbreak of smallpox has occurred and a young man of March has been isolated. Recently he paid a visit to Cambridge where he attended a market. He became unwell and three days later spots began to appear on various parts of his body. On Boxing Day the doctors arrived at the opinion that the case was clearly smallpox and the man was removed to March Isolation Hospital and 20 'contacts' have since been treated.

St Matthew's Piece, p6*

1926 01 04

Newspaper men at dinner, p3

1926 01 06

Alderman Few asked a question as to the condition of a teacher's house at Westley Waterless. The rent appeared to be fixed at £6 per annum. Was the place fit to live in? Mr Fordham said it was a very small house, let to an uncertificated teacher. One woman lived by herself. There were two living rooms, two bedrooms, a scullery, and an entrance through the schoolroom.

1926 01 07

Further manifestation of the stubbornness of parents in the Bottisham area against sending their children to school at Burwell was forthcoming when a number of summonses for non-attendance were heard. One case was adjourned in order to consider whether the County Council would sanction a child remaining at Saffham School, where there was plenty of room. One parent contended it would be detrimental to the health of his children, who were delicate, to go to Burwell. If the girl was allowed to go to Reach school for a year he would be prepared to send her to Burwell after that, if she grew out of her delicate condition.

Post office children's party, p5

1926 01 08 ES

Ely and low-lying parts have luckily escaped any serious encroachment from the flood waters passing down the River Ouse. On Monday the river reached it's highest at 16 ft 9 ins, the normal being 13 ft 6 ins. Denver sluice was a godsend, for had it not been for the fine manipulation of those sluices another two to three feet would have been recorded at Ely. Along the 100 ft Bank however and between the Old and New Bedfords, the flood water stretches for at least 20 miles. Many parts around have suffered, but no serious damage is reported.

The Nene Washes between Peterborough and Guyhirn are again inundated. Dredging operations have been proceeding for two years in the Nene, and it is expected that within nine months the work will be completed. It is not, however, possible for the watercourse to cope with such a rush of water as has forced its way down and when the water rises to its present abnormal height, flooding of the land cannot be prevented.

The water has risen very rapidly and has been feet above the newly-erected dam at where the pressure has caused a burst in the earth embankment at Morton's Leam Sluice.

Flooded for 18 miles, with an average width of half a mile, and to such an extent that gates from field to field are not even visible, the submerged washes have been attended with their usual inconvenience.

Road traffic between Whittlesey and North Side has been stopped, the road being impossible and the local boat men have again bought out their oars. Those who are compelled to travel across the flooded space are dependent upon the owners of the boats to transport them and with water at such an exceptional height it is a practice fraught with dangers and difficulties. 26 01 08ES # c.29

No new case of smallpox has been reported in March. Although the danger cannot definitely be said to have past there are great hopes that the outbreak will be confined to the original case. The 20 persons who came into contact with the case have been kept under the closest supervision and been medically examined. One patient, Mr. Sidney Stacey has had an unpleasant experience, but the fact that he was vaccinated and re-vaccinated in the Army has undoubtedly saved him from the more serious form of the terrible disease. His attack has been a modified form of smallpox and he is now making satisfactory progress. The fact that the town of March has been saved from a serious outbreak, imperilling not only the health but also the trade of the district, is due to the efficiency of the measures taken by the local authorities. The prompt vaccination of the contacts has also saved them from being infected with the disease. Their immunity is remarkable evidence in favour of vaccination. Quite a number of adults and children have been vaccinated in March but the medical authorities are not satisfied with the response to their appeal. All those who have not been vaccinated are urged to take advantage of the cost-free vaccination. Although the danger in March may be said to have past, there is still a rise of in risk of infection owing to the alarming spread of smallpox throughout the country, especially in the adjoining counties. 26 01 08ES

1926 01 11

Cambridge Railway Clerks' Association annual dinner heard of the serious commercial encroachment which road transport is making upon the railways. It was entirely unfair that railway companies should have their business taken away from them by this new form of transport. The country would have to make up its mind whether it was going to have an efficient railway service or an inefficient, anaemic railway system hampered by this new form of competition with which it was unable to compete. Railwaymen were getting very restless about this question

1926 01 12

The proposal to establish a parking-station in opposite Brookside in Trumpington Road, Cambridge, is meeting with opposition. Residents resent the possibility of charabanc crowds congregating in front of & gaping into their windows. The scheme will interfere with their privacy, comfort and peacefulness; the noise caused by the arrival and departure of motor vehicles would create an intolerable nuisance; the outlook would be entirely spoilt, & the value of the properties seriously depreciated.

Cattle Market closed, p5

1926 01 13

Miss Maisie Fry of the Gogmagog Golf Club is one of the seven winning beauties in a "Daily Sketch" beauty competition and will receive a prize of £50. She is typical of the English girl, with fair curly hair and a well-built, girlish figure. Living a secluded life at the old club house nestling at the foot of the Gog & Magog Hills, her success came as a great surprise to her. She entertains very strict views upon the use of cosmetics. When the cheque arrives she intends to purchase a new cycle.

Thomas Ivatt, Cottenham death, p5

1926 01 14

Boxing Day mishap, p6

1926 01 15 ES

Studying village history ... great deal of interest but doubtless whether a better scheme could be evolved anywhere than in Cambridgeshire. Based on assumption that the best plan is to work through the village schools and teachers. The headmaster of Foxton, H.W. Saunders is an expert and under his supervision the County have set up a comprehensive series of courses in local history for rural teachers. They are held weekly on Saturdays in Cambridge and will extend over a year. All courses are very largely attended by the head teachers and staffs of the village schools. It is hoped teachers will begin to compile local histories of their villages. An information bureau has been set up at Foxton with Dr W.M. Palmer. It distributes materials to assist teachers and gradually collates all the materials obtained to compile a reliable local history of Cambridgeshire. Assistance is give without charge ... translations made of Latin passages, transcription of Old English, Manor Rolls ... and existence of valuable date made secure. Considerable help has been given in the University and by Cambridge antiquaries and CUP assist to publish 'History Teacher's Miscellany' and 'Documents relating to Cambridgeshire villages'. County Library says demand for village and county histories cannot be fully met; books and pamphlets are read from cover to cover and we cannot have too many of them

26 01 15(2) ES # c.43

Ely by the sea

The floods which spread over the washes last week and gave the city the appearance of Ely-bythe-Sea now rapidly disappearing. The water come no longer comes over the bank at Annesdale Quay where Mr. T.C. Appleyard has known it actually come into his house and boat lofts. He did not regard last week's floods as being of a serious nature. They they might have been at least two feet higher had it not been for the improvements at Denver Sluice. The water is bright at the present time. If however, it had been thick and muddy he would have expected to see more come down. At the Hundred-Foot Pumping Station midway between Oxloodie and Welney Suspension Bridge, the steam engine has had to be worked day and night for a week to cope with the water. The engine is capable of throwing 200 tons of water a minute and even at that remarkable rate, it would take a complete week, pumping day and night without stopping, to cover the whole area. The work of installing and completing the new oil plant at the Hundred-Foot is proceeding satisfactorily and it is hoped to have this working within a month or two. 26 01 15ES

1926 01 16

There were lively scenes in East Road, Cambridge, when another "sale" of goods distrained by the Ouse Drainage Board for the non-payment of rates was to have taken place. A "jazz band" quickly attracted a crowd to the scene and the sight of 30 men attired in top hats, paper hats etc, caused considerable amusement. Some had toy trumpets, some hunting horns, some penny whistles while a few motor hooters added to the "harmony". Attempts to conduct the sale were drowned in a general uproar and all the lots were withdrawn.

Ely women conservatives, p5

1926 01 18

Sir – Years ago the owners and residents of Brookside, Cambridge, planned and built their houses. Naturally these men were entirely ignorant of the future introduction and rapid growth of motor traffic and innocently planned their property to the main road in the form of a large parking place. Necessity soon decided that man should chose sites as parking places for stationery traffic to shelter from danger, load and unload etc, out of the busy road. Now an avaricious council espied the large ready-made parking place and coveted it, causing its lawful owners such 'nuisance' as will eventually drive them from their homes. – Sympathetic Ratepayer

1926 01 18

The spectacle of a heavily laden steam waggon careering backwards down Fore Hill, Ely, was witnessed by a large number of people. The waggon, owned by Messrs Clark and Butcher of Soham was conveying a large quantity of flour and the driver was unaware that as it was freezing the road surface resembled a sheet of uneven glass. All went well until the waggon had reached the top of the hill but then although the rear wheels were revolving they were not 'biting' the surface of the road. It came to a stop and began to slip back. It gathered momentum and presented a curious sight, the rear wheels revolving in the opposite direction but with no effect. Sliding past Ye Olde Tea Rooms it skidded along the pavement and came to a stop a few yards past the Rose and Crown.

1926 01 18

Skating has been in full swing over the weekend. The Cambridge Sewage Farm has been the rendezvous of the majority of skaters and on Sunday over 500 skaters were 'on' in the afternoon. Mr Nicholls' field in Grantchester Meadows was flooded and many skaters availed themselves of the opportunity it offered, whilst others went over to Swavesey. Hundreds indulged in winter sports on the slopes of Royston Heath, tobogganing and ski-ing were general

Motor bus fire, p3

1926 01 19

Shepreth labour party, p6

1926 01 21

An action for breach of promise of marriage was brought against a Littleport cinema proprietor. In 1923 he started a concert party known as "The Passing Fancies" at Littleport and toured a great number of places, the woman going with them. In the August he bought the cinema hall for £2,000 and she assisted by taking the money. In January 1924 he had received a box containing his mother's effects. He picked up his mother's engagement ring, put it on her finger and said, "That's your engagement ring". She had heard of his marriage in September 1925. The man said that she was one of his "passing fancies". The jury awarded her £400 damages.

Plough horses unfit, p3

1926 01 22

Joseph Canham, p5

1926 01 22 ES

The rural water supply estimates – 26 01 22 & (2) ES

St Ives bus catches fire, destroys house – 26 01 22(2) ES

Sutton water tower

Much excitement was caused at Sutton when one of the main water pipes of the water tower burst owing to the frost, and thousands of gallons from the great tank poured out through the breach. Occupants of the Council houses in close proximity to the tower had an anxious time. The water poured out in a stream from 20 feet to 30 feet long into the front garden of one of the cottages and, for a time, it seemed probable that the lower rooms of the house would be flooded. Fortunately, however, it was found possible to divert the water to a nearby ditch which carried it back to the brook, though its volume was so great that it taxed the tunnel to the utmost. Following the bursting of the pipe, a shortage of water was experienced. No water was available from the taps until Wednesday morning, when pumping was carried on at Littleport and a supply was available for a short time. This temporary arrangement of pumping with a supply at intervals will continue until the new pipe is installed. 26 01 22(3)ES

1926 01 22

Happiness reigned supreme for two hours in the lives of some 90 of Soham's oldest inhabitants, when they met at the Congregational Schoolroom to participate in the annual tea and social evening provided by the local Salvation Army Corps.

This is one of the most impressive and inspiring events which takes place in Soham. Its origin is due to the Salvation Army whose interest in these old people continues each year. It is only made possible by the generosity of the public whose financial support may be relied upon.

Confronted with a sea of faces - old and careworn - bearing the unmistakable marks of wearisome toil it is a great joy to see the smile, which, if only for a short duration, has helped to shed a little light on their eventide of life. The entire arrangements were carried out by Captain Twine, the newly appointed officer of the Corps.

1926 01 23

"I want to remind you that the Labour Party is not a party of Bolshevists, or Communists, or Anarchists, or anything like that. Most of us are simple, honest, straightforward men and women. We have absolute confidence that our party is the part of the future", said Major Freyer at a well-attended meeting organised by New Town Ward Labour Party. He added: "I can assure you that the Liberals and Conservatives on Cambridge Town Council are practically the same." He believed the essential services such as water, gas and electric power, and transport should be community-owned.

1926 01 23

The Jockey Club appealed against the assessment of their racecourses and training grounds at Newmarket. They have 20 appeals spread over various parishes and are claiming that the gross estimated rental and rateable value of the property are excessive. The cost of training was "getting on for double" of that of 10 years ago.

Rural dilemma, p3

County Ball, p5

Bailiff 'crowned', p5

Ely RDC water, p7

Town & county council, p8*

Conan Doyle, p8*

1926 01 27

The adventures of a lady's new coat, ordered through the post were traced at Linton police court. From Worcester the coat journeyed on its appointed way until reaching Whittlesford station. Charles Walker, a parcels porter, said he conveyed the parcel from the train to the parcel office. It was later placed in the booking hall to await delivery. When the carman came for the parcels this one was missing. It was later found at the 48 mileage on the Duxford siding.

Maintaining district roads, p5

1926 01 28

A Haverhill labourer sued his employer under the provision of the Agricultural Wages Regulation Act of 1924 which fixed the wages for East and West Suffolk at 7d an hour. He was offered a reduced wage of 18s per week which he was told he might either take or leave. He did anything that came along including hoeing wheat, making faggots, raising stone, spreading manure and turning over and tying up flax put in the field. He had occupied a cottage owned by his employer but gave it up when it was in bad repair. He could not remember that he had the delirium tremens and that he pulled the tiles off the roof.

Linton milkman, p5

1926 01 29

Stretham manor estate purchased, p3

Cossack rag, p3

1926 01 29 ES

Charles Howard has retired from the position of station master Haddenham has spent 39 of his total of 50 years' service with the Great Eastern Railway Company.

He started as a clerk Godmanchester in 1875 and then moved to Six Mile Bottom and then Cambridge. When he came to Haddenham the platform was only about two bricks high. "I had that altered so that people could conveniently step into the carriages as they would be able to do at any other station. Before that was done we used to have to keep a pair of steps to enable people to climb into the carriages. In those days, we had a brick siding to cope with the tremendous brick trade which was done by Mr. Jewson's firm".

He touched upon the development of the fruit growing industry: in those days the gooseberry was the principal fruit grown, now people went in extensively for fruit of all kinds and large quantities were dispatched by rail

Prior to Mr. Howard coming to Haddenham there had only been one other station master, Mr. Jacobs and their joint services in the village represent a period of 60 years. When four years ago there was an amalgamation of the various railways he was given control of the stations at Stretham and Wilburton as well as Haddenham

He has six sons, three of whom have entered the services of the railway companies, one at March one at Sutton and one at Harston. A fourth son is engaged as an engineer on the Canadian Pacific Railway

You Mr Howard intends to spend the rest of his days in a beautifully situated house he had erected Aldreth Road named 'Herewake'. The house is fronted with an excellent Bowling Green and at the back, has a long stretch of ground which he intends to garden and keep poultry. 26 01 19(2) ES

Joseph Tokins retired from Barroway sidings signal box, Soham –

Following an interesting career of 45 years active railway service, 18 of which have just been completed Barroway Siding signal box, Soham, Mr. Joseph Tokins has retired.

Entering the service of the Great Eastern Railway in 1880, his probationary period was spent as a platform porter on the Cambridge station. Within a few months, he was removed to Earith Bridge where for about a year he obtained an insight into the workings of both passenger and goods departments. After being in charge of the Peterborough level crossing for 12 months, he spent a similar period as platform porter at Ely station after which he was appointed to Audley End. He was then promoted to the rank of porter signalman at Hilgay Fen.

Twelve months later he received a further promotion to the rank of signalman and at the opening of St. Germans siding was placed in charge of the signal box there. After other moves in 1907 he was appointed as signal man at Barroway Sidings signal box, a position he has since held. 26 01 29(4)ES

Stretham Manor Estate purchased by Fred Hiam – 26 01 29(4) ES

Tremendous has interest has this week been created at Stretham at the result of a big property deal. Sir Frederick Hiam the well-known agriculturalist has purchased the Stretham Manor Estate which covers 1,438 acres, as well as the Littleport and the Bottisham farms.

There are about 20 tenancies in the Estate, which was the property of Captain H.W.M. Willis, son of the late General Sir William Willis, who owned it for a considerable number of years.

Sir Frederick Hiam said he should not disturb any of the present tenants if he could help it. What he was anxious to do was to open that part of the country up for growing sugar beet. They had the water and the railway away close to the land which was within easy reach of the factory at Ely. He is particularly anxious that the present tenants should grow sugar beet and also go in for more intensive cultivation of the land. 26 01 29(4)ES

Attempt to solve Ouse problem

Proposals of great importance to the fen country are contained in the report just issued of the Commission which has been considering the vexed problems of the drainage of the River Ouse. The report takes the most comprehensive view of the situation and says works involving a possible expenditure of £2.5 are absolutely necessary to place the river and its tributaries in a satisfactory condition. If the work is not done inundation sooner or later is inevitable, and the danger of the district returning to its original condition of swamp is very real. The report refers to the conflict of interests on the Ouse Drainage Board and to difficulties including the passive resistance to the payment of rates which has produced an acute financial situation. The problem of draining the Ouse area is rendered particularly difficult owing to the unsatisfactory nature of the outfall which is beset with sand banks. The spring flood tides passing over these banks bring up the channel a mass of fine particles of sand, causing a continued deposit of silt which the more sluggish ebb time can only partially remove. They discussed a proposal to construct a barrage across the river above Kings Lynn to exclude the tidal water, but professional witnesses were adverse to the scheme on the grounds of silting. Welmore Lake Sluice is in a decrepit condition and must be replaced by a new one, and the improvements and enlargement of the old Bedford and Delft rivers in the neighbourhood is recommended. Causeways leading to Sutton Gault and the Mepal bridges are liable to inundation and serve as impediments to the rapid discharge of waters from the wash lands. It is recommended that they be raised and carried on piers above any possible flood level. 26 01 21 29ES

Unemployment

To see a large queue of men waiting outside the Unemployment Office in Ely is a pathetic sight, particularly when one remembers that a short time ago, the greatest difficulty was that of securing labour.

Unemployment figures have been steadily rising since Christmas and have reached disquieting proportions. Last week there were 523 unemployed including two boys and 14 women, during the previous week, it was 423 and the week before that 211. The rush is no doubt due to the closing down of the Beet Sugar factory and it is to be trusted that with the coming of the longer days and increased activities on the land that much of this manpower will be absorbed.

During the week there have been long queues extending along the pavement for several yards in front of the offices and the regular plethora of bicycles belonging to those who came from a distance have leaned against the kerb. The site has been reminiscent of the early post war days in the large centres. Nowadays, it is a common spectacle to see a big crowd of able-bodied men hanging about, hoping that something will turn up.

Some idea of the demands made upon the staff at the Unemployment Office will be gained from the fact that the principal official has suffered a breakdown in health and has had to be relieved. 26 01 29(4)ES

1926 01 30

"A general feeling of dissatisfaction at Harston as to the supervision exercised in quite an epidemic of scarlet fever in the village led to some questioning at Chesterton Rural Council. A child had been sent home too early from the Isolation Hospital and infected other members of the family who were now suffering from scarlet fever. Provided there were no traces of peeling or discharges from the ears and nose after six weeks isolation it was considered safe to allow a patient to be discharged. The parent had kissed the child on the station platform when it was discharged from the Hospital and did not realise how dangerous that was.

1926 01 30

The County Council is to make representation to the LNER about the difficulties occasioned by the gates at level crossings being unreasonably kept closed across the road. There were places where the gates were closed for a few minutes and at other where they were shut for something like 20 minutes before the passage of a train. Councillor Pearson said it was not the fault of the gateman. He knew of a gate-opener who was 'on' for 24-hours a day and the barber had to call to cut his hair. It was not fair to ask a man to be on duty so long having regard to all the traffic on the roads at the present day.

1926 01 30

An unusual sight was seen in Cambridge when a hare at full tilt careered through our crowded streets from the direction of Huntingdon Road. Ignoring the police signal at Northampton Street 'pussy' tore along Bridge Street and through the crowded traffic towards Hills Road. When last seen the hare was still running. Some employers must have had a shock to see how fast their errand boys could travel when there was something to chase!

Don Cossack choir, p8

February 1926 CDN

1926 02 01

Housing in Cambridgeshire, p5

1926 02 02

Red Cross message, p3

1926 02 03

Ely workhouse, p3

1926 02 04

The clerk of the Conservators of the River Cam read a letter from the bank with regard to their debt. The overdraft was £3,842, in addition to which there was a loan of £4,000. The value of the Conservators securities appeared to be about £1,500. It may be better to ask the Corporation to lend them the money

1926 02 04

Ald Raynes told Cambridge town council that the centre of local government was gradually shifting from the Guildhall to the County Hall. Mr Neville Chamberlain would in time abolish the rural councils. Town councils would be given delegated authority to function under the supervision of the county, which would be a very serious thing.

1926 02 05

Coun Few said they were very proud of the houses they had built in Vinery Road and Coleridge Road, but they were now proposing to build houses that in a few years would become a slum area. They would be spoiling Cambridge if they built non-parlour houses with only one living room. They ought to consider the women who had to live in those houses. "We men only pop in and pop out, as it were, we are only lodgers; it is our working women who have to put up with them all the time. I call that type of house unfit for human being to live in as far as the wife and children are concerned", he said.

St Matthew's Piece, p5

1926 02 05 ES

Successful fruit-packing station at Cottenham: illustrated feature – 26 02 05 ES

The Fruit Packing Station at Cottenham in 1924 was established by the Ministry of Agriculture in conjunction with the West Cambridgeshire Fruit Growers Association. In the first year summer growers were invited to send their fruit to have it graded, packed in standard packages and marketed under the registered label of the station. There was a good response and despite the poor apple season it succeeded in demonstrating the organised marketing did pay; 65 tons of apples were packed and graded. Next year the station was taken over by the Growers paying the Ministry the cost of the plant and equipment and about 200 tons of fruit were dealt with before it closed for the winter months.

They adopted the principle of the pooling of marketing resources. A fixed charge per bushel was made for the grading and packing of fruit sent in by members.

Cottenham fruit area is not as large as that which surrounds Wisbech. There are numerous small orchards and everything was to be gained by packing and grading and co-operative lines.

The station is housed in a small building containing the 'Cutler' grader. Apples are automatically caught up and graded into pockets on an endless belt; as they pass over weighing devices they are inverted over the appropriate bin. Thus all apples of approximately the same weight are brought together. Women stationed beside each bin carry out the packing of the apples. Only the best fruit is packed in the paper wrapper and packed in boxes.

Each grower is supplied with a return showing how his fruit has been graded. Those with the best fruit obtain the highest percentage of apples in the best grade and the bad grower suffers owing to the poor quality of his produce. The prices realised by the best grade of fruit has thoroughly justified the cost of grading and packing.

There are many benefits to be gained by this cooperative measure. Advantage can be taken of railway rates which are more moderate for larger quantities and it is possible to pick the market in which the fruit was to be sold. If one market is glutted fruit may be consigned to another centre. Under the current conditions growers are dependent on salesmen for their empties and must rail fruit to them irrespective of the state of the market. 26 02 05ES

Stretham Social Club

Annual Meeting of the Stretham Social Club heard it had been a successful year. The total membership was 54 which was very good considering the size of the village and there were several more who were desirous of becoming members. The success of the club was due to the efforts of their secretary Mr. Bridgman. It was one of the most successful ventures ever started in Stretham and they hoped it would continue to be so. The Mond Challenge Cup was presented to Mr. G. Lock, and Mr. A Reeves was presented with a billiards cue as runner-up. 26 02 05(3)ES

1926 02 06

The circumstances attending the death of a stableman in the employ of the Cambs Hunt, who lived nearly two days with a broken neck, were inquired into by the Borough Coroner. The man had ridden his horse into a field to allow a steam waggon to pass, and when he turned the animal round it kicked and threw him. The horse was a hunter and perfectly quiet, a lady had ridden it. He died in Addenbrooke's Hospital

1926 02 08

Parking on King's Parade, p6

1926 02 10

A railway accident occurred near Ely station. The 9.41 pm slow passenger train for Cambridge was proceeding to what is known as the branch up-road platform of the station, to get on to the main line. At the Dock junction the engine collided with the side of another engine which was drawing a goods train at a slow pace, bound for London. Both engines were of the large type and the impact resulted in the engines and a number of trucks and carriages being derailed. Fortunately there were only a few people in the passenger train – only five or six and no one received anything worse than a shaking.

Addenbrooke's Hospital wireless gift, p6

1926 02 11

Bottisham publican, p3

1926 02 12

An unemployed labourer pleaded guilty to stealing a packet of ten Player's cigarettes, value 6d, from an automatic box. He placed in the machine a farthing that had been cut down at the edge to the six of a sixpence and by this means obtained the pack of cigarettes. George Lay, tobacconist of Burrell's Walk, Cambridge, said he had placed marked packets in the machine after finding farthings, pieces of lead and foreign coins in the money box.

Hunt ball, p5

1926 02 13

"The town dweller is rapidly becoming the most helpless of living creatures; he drives a tramcar or minds an automatic machine; she buys the family dinner ready made in tin or packet. Country folks are hastening to follow suit, and all the resources of the State have to be called upon in order to resuscitate agriculture and the rural industries," says the Chief Scientific Adviser to the Ministry of Agriculture. He pleads that proper instruction in some useful handicraft should run concurrently with the teaching of reading and arithmetic in our elementary schools.

1926 02 13

I am glad to record that the projecting clock near Downing Street, Cambridge, which for many years pointed to "twenty to three", has now been removed. St Paul's church clock, which was badly damaged by a storm last spring, is in such a useful position between the town and the railway station that we would be glad to see it going again. It hardly seems fair that the repair should fall upon the church, when it exists largely for the passers-by 1926 02 13

Mr John James Withers, C.B.E., was elected Member of Parliament for the University of Cambridge. The Vice-Chancellor attended at the Senate House between the hours of 10 and 11 to receive nominations, Mr Withers was the only person nominated and at 11 o'clock declared him duly elected. A small body of interested members of the University was present and Mr Withers turned up in time to hear his election announced.

1926 02 15

Cambridgeshire Rural Community Council resolved to purchase three four-valve loudspeaker wireless receiving sets at £20 each, to be sold to villages. They also asked the Women's Institute to sponsor a set, and they had recommended the villages of Orwell and Elsworth. Orwell however, in view of their village hall enterprise, preferred to wait. Ickleton Men's Club had agreed to take one and it had been ordered and would be installed immediately.

1926 02 16

Papworth colony, p3

Cottage dance studios, p5

Newmarket cinema, p5

1926 02 17

Saffron Walden slums, p2

Milton smallholdings & threshing machine, p3

Dr Swann death, p5 & 15th p6

1926 02 18

Much of the water supply for Fordham is derived from shallow wells in close proximity to groups of cottages, pit privies and refuse heaps. Almost all the 104 wells are liable to gross pollution and unfit for drinking purposes. In addition a few houses are dependent upon unfiltered water from the river. The Medical Officer of Health regards this as a grave potential danger and is of the opinion that the only way of dealing with the matter is to provide an ample and pure supply for the whole village

Chesterton fire pump, p5

1926 02 19

Linton RDC received an application on behalf of Clare College to a subsidy for the erection of a pair of cottages at Ickleton. Mr Brocklebank said the grant was to enable cottages to be built which could not be built if the grant were not given. He could not conceive that the Mater, Fellows and Scholars of Clare College were unable to afford to build these cottages. The council applied for permission to borrow money for the erection of 12 cottages in the parishes of Carlton, West Wickham and Hildersham.

Comberton Institute, p6

1929 02 19 ES

Stretham:

Isaac Asplin retires as postman;

Isaac Asplin has retired from his duties as postman in Stretham after many years. He has had a very interesting career. He was born in 1853 and in 1872 joined the army, taking part in the Afghan war.

After seven years in the army he became a reserve for five years. During the latter time he was a handy man, his duties including that of letter carrying under the late Mr T. Swan. After doing this for nine years he was appointed full-time postman and continued this work for 24 years. He has walked many thousands of miles, up to the last two years going on average about 100 miles a week. He has always tried to do his duty to the public and the department, being most obliging and very punctual at his post. There are many interesting incidents in his life which he can look back on with interest. He is still crier, and passes his leisure in gardening. In 1910, at the age of 57, when the weather vane on the church was under repair, Mr Asplin ascended the scaffolding to examine the steeple, which was reported to be in need of repair. We wish him every happiness in his years of retirement – 26 02 19(2) ES

Soham Barclay's Bank opening – 26 02 19(2) ES

Barclays Bank's new premises in High Street, Soham are not only a tribute to the business progressiveness of the town, but also to the bank itself. A beautiful all-white structure, the building constitutes a welcome street improvement and its artistic appearance immediately arrests attention. It has a commodious main office, the doors are of heavy English oak and an up-to-date strong room is provided. Mr. H. R Buck whose residence adjoins the bank is the Manager and there are five clerks. It was in 1906 when a full branch of the bank was opened at Soham with the Manager and one clerk and up to the erection of the new building the business was carried on in what is now the Manager's residence. Messrs. Fuller and Johnson of Soham erected the premises and the architects were Messrs. Long and Atkinson of Cambridge. 26 02 19(2)ES

Stretham Concert

MP attends concert Stretham School, so large attendance that two rooms were necessary; spoke of Government policy, drainage and housing; A.J. Larkin of Stretham comic songs. Mrs F. Martin diverting character study. 26 02 19

1926 02 20

Sir – there is a need in Cambridge for duly authorised and well-informed guides in order that numerous visitors may be properly conducted over the colleges. The qualified guides should be supplied with a badge and a fixed charge made for their services. They would be allowed in college buildings and other places where at present visitors are not admitted. Intelligent disabled soldiers might be available for such a job – A. Macintosh

1926 02 20

Sir – Cyclists and motorists who frequent the road to Sandy will probably have noticed Barton church tower, nestling amongst the trees. It is in need of considerable repairs. The east and west walls are badly cracked. There is a peal of five excellent bells which it is considered unsafe to have rung with the tower in its present condition. Barton is a small and poor parish. We have raised £200 for repairs but are stuck for the last hundred. Perhaps some of your readers may feel inclined to help us. – J.C. Carter, Vicar.

Three stamps for 1/2 d, p6

1926 02 23

Spotlight on car, p5

Huntingdonshire farmers oppose Government, p5

1926 02 24

Amateur photographers will find a warm welcome at the exhibition of the Cambridge Photographic Club. Mr Langdon-Davies has a very nice collection of oil prints, which show great artistic feeling; his local scenes include St Clement's church and the University Press. Mr L.J. Jarman has a set of six prints, particularly pleasing is his picture of snow on the Backs. Mr R.H. Bullen has four exhibits, of which "Fairy Barges" strikes one as perhaps his best. The Misses M. & A. Johnson were bold enough to invade the precincts of the club and were awarded with two excellent impressions of Mr R.T. Bellamy, one being inscribed "The minutes of the last meeting"

1926 02 25

A remarkable story of how a young coloured traveller bought war decorations for sheer vanity & wore them at the Green Hill public house, Linton, was related at Linton Police Court. Defendant was a native of Trinidad, the son of an eminent K.C. in the West Indies. He asserted he had joined the West Indian Light Horse in 1920 and went to France, but then admitted he had bought the medals in Clapham for 1s.11d.

1926 02 26

Householders in Chesterton Road have petitioned Cambridge Borough Council to lodge protest against the speed at which vehicles of the Ortona Motor Omnibus Company are driven down the road. "The effect of the excessive speed at which these jolting juggernauts are driven is to produce an intermittent earthquake which is doing great damage to our houses". They should not be allowed to exceed 10 mph, increasing to 15 mph when pneumatic tyres are fitted. The present indulgence, which allows solid-tyred vehicles to bump along at 20 to 25 mph, is altogether unreasonable, they claim

1926 02 26

Sir – as a business man obliged to use the railways I wish to draw attention to the lack of punctuality of trains from the St Ives branch at Cambridge station. The 8.25 pm is invariably anything from a quarter to half-an-hour late, generally waiting ten minutes at Mill Road bridge whilst room is being found to run up to the platform. There is a rumour that the Ortona Motor Bus Company is shortly linking up with the National Bus Company at St Ives. The railway companies grumble about road transport competition, but it is their own fault and they have a remedy by being more punctual with the passenger service – H.G. Parker

1929 02 26 ES

Model dairy: March farmer's enterprise – H.G. Morton – detailed article – 26 02 26 ES

The establishment of a dairy for the supply of certified milk of the highest grade produced under special conditions which makes for purity and cleanliness is a new departure in the Isle of Ely. The pioneer certified milk in the Isle is Mr. G. H. Morton of March. He has gone to considerable expense in renewing his herd, increasing and adapting his premises and installing the necessary equipment of the dairy. The result is the production of milk of the highest possible quality and purity.

Guernsey cows have been chosen to replace Lincoln Red Shorthorns due to the richness of the milk. Cow sheds are kept and clean and fresh as possible. Every day the cows are cleaned, the udders are kept free of hairs and are wiped with a wet cloth before each milking.

The milkmen wear special overalls and caps and are required to wash their hands and domed pans are used to exclude anything that might otherwise fall into the milk during milking operation. Milk from each cow is taken separately to the dairy. The dairy milk is poured into a tank from which it passes through a sterilised cotton-wool disk into the cooler and is drawn off into bottles through automatic taps. The bottles are sealed with a special wax pasteboard caps and are ready to be passed on to the distributor.

The cost of adapting and providing the plant has been about £300 and the milk is being sold at a halfpenny per pint above the price of ordinary milk. But it does not pay to produce it at that price; at Cambridge certified milk is sold at double the price of ordinary milk. A big demand for the milk has been met with in March and he has difficulty in supplying all those who desire to have it. 26 02 26ES

1926 02 27

College gardens, p2

March 1926 CDN

1926 03 01

Omnibus service, p6

1926 03 02

The motor ambulance service in Cambridge continues to prove of great benefit and increased demands have again been made both for accidental and private cases. An additional motor ambulance has been purchased and has proved of great assistance. The number of calls received was 701, 175 to accidents and cases of sudden illness in the streets and 526 to private removal cases. The Watch Committee have excused payment in several cases of private removals, where the persons were in necessitous circumstances. The ambulances are available at any hour of the day or night upon application to the Central Police Station or Fire Station.

Dangerous pistol firing, p5

1926 03 03

Conservators future, p5

Burwell school parents, p5

1926 03 04

Eighteen huge elm trees, which stood in a row on the north boundary of St Neots Common, were blown down in last night's storm, carrying away many telephone wires and completely blocking the road.

Huntingdonshire agricultural protest, p3

1926 03 05

At the Licensing Session Mr Eric Pointer made an application for a new music and dancing licence for the Assembly Rooms, Market Passage, Cambridge, from 1pm to midnight. A complaint had been received on the grounds of the noise being more or less a perpetual nuisance. During term time the noise and hubbub had been almost unbearable. Not only was there shouting and yelling, but there was hammering as if someone was tacking something up. There was plenty of accommodation for dancing – the Central Hall, the Guildhall, the Corn Exchange and the Dorothy – and this new licence was unnecessary. The application was refused

1926 03 05

An application was made for the renewal of the music and dancing licence of the Rendezvous, Magrath Avenue, Cambridge. Several residents objected on the grounds of noise very late at night caused by cars, people talking, and the band and the magistrates in renewing the licence curtailed it until 11 pm. Mr William Evans said the dancing was absolutely letting the whole district down. There were working men living in the area and their rest was being disturbed by motor cars until 1 o'clock in the morning. People promenaded outside and he had known them sit on the step in front of his house to do their courting.

1926 03 05 ES

Isle of Ely County Librarian

Miss Alison Philip of Edinburgh has been appointed to librarian of the Isle of Ely County Library. There were 49 applicants for the post and four of the candidates were interviewed. Miss Philip impressed the Committee very favourable and she presented excellent testimonials. One wrote: 'As the daughter of a country parish minister, she gained an intimate knowledge of village life and, besides taking over a school in an emergency for over a year, she established a village library which now has over 1000 volumes. Her tastes are literary, and she is extremely well read. On the grounds of business ability and knowledge of village life and of books, and of very fine character, I recommend her for the post'. Miss Philip was educated at the George Watson College. She went for a year to Brussels, and has since travelled for a short time in India and Canada. 26 03 05 ES, picture – 26 03 12 ES

1926 03 06

Described by one witness as coming out of a cloud of dust at 50 miles per hour, a motorist was fined £20 & had his licence suspended for a year for driving a motor car to the danger of the public. Ernest Carter, the crossing keeper at Milton, said he noticed a car coming from Cambridge at a fast pace. As it went over the rails the passenger in the back seat bumped up about a foot. There was quite a lot of traffic about. James Foreman, a bricklayer, noticed a car flash past him. He was slightly deaf and had he turned round he would have been knocked down.

1926 03 06

The Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr Winston Churchill, has come and gone, but alas! he has not revealed any Budget secrets, so we must possess our souls in patience a little longer. His speech at the University Conservative Association dinner lasted for one hour and 43 seconds, according to a gentleman with a stopwatch, and nearly the whole of it was devoted to the menace of Socialism. Perhaps the least cheerful point of his speech was that it would take the whole of the remaining three-quarters of the century to recover from the harrowing events of the first quarter.

Mrs Pankurst and Cambridge, p6*

1926 03 08

Sainsbury half holiday, p5
Milton theft hay, p5

1926 03 09

It is with great please that we are able to announce the arrival of what is hoped will be a satisfactory and lasting settlement of the long-drawn-out dispute between the men at the East Anglian Cement Works at Shepreth and their employers. Yesterday, a day after the anniversary of the beginning of the strike the men agreed to accept terms for the resumption of work offered by the Company. The Company cannot employ all the men immediately but the manager will be instructed to start as many as possible.

1926 03 10

Open Air School, p3

1926 03 11

Prof B.M. Jones told a meeting: "I look forward to seeing in my lifetime a state in which flying is as safe, and has the same order of expense as railway travel, carried out at an average speed of 200 miles per hour, night and day". Up to the present the amount of flying done was not sufficient to affect the ordinary man in the street & the flying industries were small but aeroplanes were reaching the stage when they could take part as a real world force. He feared there was a big future for aeronautics if there was another war

1926 03 11

The Bankruptcy court was told a woman had taken the Glengarry Hotel, Regent Street, Cambridge, in January 1921. It was entirely a licensed University lodging house for the students of Downing College only and continued so until 1924. It had not been successful owing to the college being unable to fill all the rooms. Subsequently she converted it into a private commercial hotel and made a profit of about £2 a week. The major part of the deficiency arose while it was a lodging house.

1926 03 12

A Cambridge school girl died of small-pox at the Infectious Diseases Hospital, Mill Road and as a result the East Road Boys', Girls' and Infants' Schools have been closed for at least a week for disinfection. The Medical Officer strongly advises people to get vaccinated. The last outbreak occurred in 1921 when a man was affected. There was also an isolated outbreak in 1919

1926 03 12 ES

Isle Librarian: Hoped a local would have got job: –‘Sir. The appointment of a Scotch lady as Librarian for the Isle of Ely has occasioned some heart burning as it was hoped the position would have been secured by a resident of the county. There appears to be quite a Scotch and North of England favour amongst the officials of the County Council, who will doubtless welcome in their midst another compatriot from the land of the mountains and the glen. But still the County Council would do well to remember the claims of applicants in this district when another minor post is open for competition, even if their qualifications are not as high as some of the candidates from other parts of the country. Surely out of 40 or more candidates, there could have been found a Fen man or Fen woman who could have undertaken duties of County Librarian efficiently and to the satisfaction of the officials. Yours faithfully a Supporter of the Scheme’ 26 03 12(2) photo

Ely Cottage Hospital debate – 26 03 12(3)(4) ES

A Cottage Hospital at Ely was a long felt want. In December they cases from the Beet Sugar Factory which overflowed the sick wards of the Workhouse. It could only treat people who were unable to be removed to the bigger hospitals & surgical cases must go to Addenbrooke's Hospital. But they could treat many of their own people who lived in unsuitable surroundings in which they could not possibly be treated. Many doctors were enthusiastic.

But where would they get the money from? It would not be fair to think about building a hospital in a small place like Ely without the sanction of a fair number of the ratepayers. Mr Laxton, said at the Jubilee he offered to give them an acre-and- a- quarter of land in the centre of Ely if they pushed forward with such a proposition, but the matter was dropped like a hot cake

Could they get voluntary subscriptions to build the place and then some generous-hearted people to leave something as a memorial when they had gone? The only other way out was the rates.

With regard to general upkeep they might prevail upon the local church parade committees and Friendly Societies. Employers of labour could get their men to contribute a penny a week. The Women's Institute was a highly organised body which might help considerably with the revenue. 26 03 12ES

1926 03 13

To the average man, a mannequin parade presents characteristics which combine to embarrass the most strongly minded. He is overwhelmed with the importance of the occasion and metaphorically “smothered” by the bevy of beauty which confronts him. No cheque book could have been greatly taxed at Messrs Sayle and Co's two parades as the moderate prices were an outstanding factor. It was an excellent demonstration of what really can be done for a modest expenditure and record attendances marked both the morning and afternoon displays. We look forward to a parade of men's wear, when the ladies may blush in their embarrassing minority!

Shepreth strike, p6

1926 03 15

Much damage was done by a fire which broke out in a shop occupied by Thomas Stubbings, a dealer in new and second-hand furniture at the corner of Tanner's Lane and Sand Street, Soham. The firemen soon got to work, but the fire had such a hold that nothing could save the contents so they turned their attention to saving some of the five houses adjoining. There was a shed at the back of the shop in which were stored a quantity of paraffin but by keeping the building wetted this was saved.

Modern dancing, p5

Girl Guides helpers, p6

1926 03 16

Hudson's Pampisford Brewery applied for the renewal of the licence of the Dog and Gun public house, Saffron Walden. Inspector Ridgewell said there were three licensed houses within 100 yards and the situation was generally bad. There were no sanitary arrangements on the premises. There had been a decrease in trade from 61 barrels in 1921 to 41 barrels in 1925. The principal trade was done on market day when they supplied dinners and bread and cheese. The persons using the house were generally working class. The licence was renewed.

1926 03 16

Newmarket council considered an application in respect of a proposed new cinema at Stamford House, High Street. Mr C. Reeve said the council should consider their own "white elephant", the Memorial Hall, on which they had lost £200-£300 a year. And they ought not to take building men off the necessary work of building cottages for the people, this application could wait. Mr Dring said it was time there was something more up to date; the application would improve the house and employ labour. There were plenty of men to build the cottages and build the cinema as well. The licence was granted.

1926 03 17

At Newmarket council Mr Dring called attention to the case of small-pox at Cambridge and asked what measures of protection there were against the disease being imported into Newmarket. Small-pox might be brought in railway carriages. Could these carriages be disinfected. The Medical Officer said it had not been overlooked.

Old Cambridge lecture, p5

1926 03 18

The Rural Council heard that Sawston had enlarged and new cottages were badly needed. The Chairman thought they would be built for the factory hands & it was wrong that the taxpayer should be asked to shoulder the burden for the increasingly prosperous factory. Mr Bowers said if the Council wished industries to increase and prosper it was up to them to provide new homes for workmen. Men would not seek employment where no proper houses were to be found. Mr Eccles said the cottages were wanted for people who were at present living in hovels.

1926 03 18

Sir – I shall be grateful if you will allow me to call attention to the urgent need of a gramophone for Stanton House (Cambridge Shelter for Women and Girls). There can be no doubt as to the desirability of providing counter attractions for the girls who seek amusement in the streets but it is not easy to do so without some form of music. An unused gramophone (or still better, an old piano) would be most thankfully received – Shirley Blanch

Rock allotments, p6

1926 03 19

Melbourne Place rookery, p3

1926 03 19

Disastrous Soham fire, furniture shop Mr T. Stubbings–

Residents of Sand Street, Soham, were woken during the early hours by loud knocking on their doors and the cries of fire from the street below. The fire originated at the furniture shop on the corner of Sand Street and Tanners Lane occupied by Mr. T. Stubbings.

P.c Hanes observed what he thought to be an outbreak and rushed to the spot. He raised himself onto the sill of the lower floor window and acted as a ladder in rescuing the neighbour, Mrs Doe, from the bedroom, which was becoming seriously threatened. The fire was obtaining a fierce hold and residents of neighbouring cottages were alerted and moved out of danger

Soham Fire Brigade connected hoses to the Council's new main at two hydrants but the furniture shop, warehouse above and cottage adjoining were by that time completely enveloped in flames and all chances of saving these properties appeared hopeless. The Brigade centred their attention on the cottages adjoining along the main road, under the roofs of which flames were beginning to spread with rapidity. To do this, they had to knock a large hole in the slated roof into which one of their hose pipes was directed.

It was feared at one time that several of the thatched places nearby would have been ignited by many large pieces of burning substances which were blown about. Animals were removed to safety and furniture cleared from some of the houses.

The contents of the furniture shop and warehouse together the cottage belonging to Mr. Stubbings was completely destroyed as well as the furniture in the cottage occupied by Mr and Mrs Doe.

The fire proved the importance of the Rural District's water scheme as there would have been no other available supply within almost a quarter of a mile. 26 03 19 ES photo – 26 03 19(2) ES

The Rural Society which has its headquarters at Swavesey, was formed for the purpose of securing the combination of all those concerned in the prosperity of the agricultural industry and to promote the best interest of arable farming. It would not run against the Landowners' Association, the Farmers Union or the Workers Union. One of their main objects was to increase rural cultivation: food imports were increasing at an alarming rate when a large proportion could be produced at home. The state had never pursued a persistent policy for encouraging food production. 26 03 19ES

1926 03 20

Water certificate, p5

Abolish queues, p6

1926 03 22

Stretham & Mepal football, p5

1926 03 24

The action of the Master of the Cambridge Workhouse in ordering without authority the fixing of five extra wireless plugs evoked an indignant discussion. The Wireless Committee reported that they had provided for 12 plug points, one of which was in the Master's dining room. He had ordered five extra, including one in his drawing room and another in his bedroom. Mr Lofts asked: "Does the Master want singing to sleep" (Laughter). They did not consider it necessary for the Master to have three plugs in his own quarters and they should be removed.

Melbourne Place rooks, p5

1926 03 25

Damage to the amount of about £3,000 was done by a fire at a large granary in the station yard at Royston. It was very difficult to get a sufficient pressure of water and the whole of the vast storehouse was soon in flames. A railway elevated siding became involved, the metal rails twisted into grotesque shapes by the great heat. Nearby were some petrol tanks belonging to the Anglo American Oil Company; a band of volunteers secured the cans of petrol and deposited them in some gardens at a safe distance from the fire

1926 03 26

A dissertation on a chimney delivered in a pompous manner was one of several features of the meeting of the Cambridge town council. They sat for just over four hours without a break and on many occasions feeling ran high. Clashes between Labour members and others were frequent. Everyone was tired and hungry but a proposal to adjourn for a cup of coffee was defeated and the Council proceeded to the bitter end. Two Aldermen and several Councillors rose and left the room as Mr Purvis was speaking about repairing the chimney shaft at the sewage farm.

1926 03 26

At Cambridge council discussion took place upon the proposal to purchase some land at Coldham's Lane where St John's College were prepared to sell 21 acres for the sum of £5,250. They could get 86 houses and there would be land for allotments at the back. At this stage Councillor Briggs returned to the Council Chamber with a paper bag and members of the Labour party were soon seen to be eating chocolate. Councillor Amies drew attention to the "picnic party" and asked them to make a little less noise. (Laughter). Councillor Edwards: "I think they might practice Socialists and pass it along".

(Renewed laughter)

Regent Street widening, p6

1926 03 26 ES

Middle Level propose pumping station at St German's – 26 03 26(2)(3) ES

The Middle Level Board has received a report that their existing means of discharging the water is so unsatisfactory as to involve grave risk of flooding, and strongly recommending that a pumping station be installed without delay at the outfall at St Germans.

The reduced the ability of the Middle Level Drainage system to discharge its water out into the River Ouse has been emphasised recently. Since 1875, there had been a loss of approximately six feet in the average low water level in the Ouse. The tides now only recede to a level six feet higher. than they did in 1875 which represents a serious impediment to the flow of water from the Middle Level. There have been times during recent dry summers when the doors at St. Germans have been silted up on the Ouse side to a height to greater than the water level in the outfall channel.

And while on the one hand the discharge of water has been more and more impeded, the improvement which has taken place in the internal drainage equipment has greatly increased the demands upon the drainage system. When windmills and scoop wheels fulfilled the function of lifting the water into the main drains the process was comparatively slow. But today's centrifugal pumps driven by steam and oil engines transferred the water at probably 10 times the speed at which it was formerly accomplished.

This, coupled with the water from the high lands, places a severe attacks upon the rivers of the Level in times of heavy rainfall, and the water moves so slowly owing to the slackness of the fall and the obstruction met within the Ouse that the rivers are filled to a height that involves serious danger to the level.

Another factor is that in the last 70 years, there has been an appreciable shrinkage in the Fens and nothing has been done internally to counter act this.

The Engineer holds the opinion that the margin of safety is too narrow to be relied upon as a combination of adverse circumstances might arise which would result in disaster. He has therefore recommended that a pumping station be provided at St Germans. 26 03 26(2)ES

Sutton fire, George Clark, High Street – 26 03 26(4) ES

An outbreak of fire occurred at Sutton when farm buildings, the property of Mr. George Clark of High Street, were reduced within two hours to a smouldering mass of debris. The buildings occupied an isolated site at the end of the grass covered cul-de-sac at the bottom of Red Lion Lane. Thus situated just beyond the end of the steep climb some 70 feet below the level of the Main Street it presented a rare spectacle to those who viewed its various stages.

The buildings composed as they were chiefly of timber with zinc and tiled roofs quickly became a mass of flames. The livestock at the time consisted of a number of fowls, all of which perished. The flames made rapid progress and although a huge crowd of spectators assembled, little was possible in retarding the flames or in salvage work. The greater part of a large, open shed that jutted out was dismantled retarding the progress of the flames. By 10 o'clock the blaze had run its course and all that remained was an irregular mass of debris illuminated here and there with glowing incandescent piles, from whence but one solitary corner post towered forlornly, whilst all round were scattered sheets of scorched zinc. 26 03 26(4)ES

Ely car parking proposals – St Mary's Green, Barton Square, Market Square – 26 03 26 ES

Ely Urban District Council recommended the parking of motor cars on at the west end of St. Mary's Green, the north side of Barton Square and on Market Square except on market days. They recommended a charge of sixpence be made for parking on Market Square. They would have to be very careful that no nuisance should be caused to people living around the Market Place by cars leaving, and tinkering or messing about at one o'clock in the morning. No one would object to paying sixpence as if a car was left there, it would be in the care of an attendant who would collect the money and be responsible for seeing for anything moved out of it. This was disputed it was just for parking.

But cars would leave a considerable amount of oil and the centre of the city ought to be kept clean. It was now getting a pretty smooth surface and if they got oil there, people would be slipping about. When it was known, there were two places where motorists could park for nothing and one where they park for sixpence most people go would go to the place where they could park for nothing. 26 03 26 ES

1926 03 27

At the County Agricultural Committee Mr Amos said a tremendous amount of damage was done by rats and at the University Farm they had recently killed between 1,000 and 1,500 of them. Mr Taylor said a rat jumped on one of his students and scratched his face. They had killed 5,000 rats since harvest, they are all over the fields. Mr Pearson: "I think everybody who had land should be paid 1d or 2d per rat. Nobody has got the time to catch rats unless they are paid for it."

A.E. Pink death, p6

1926 03 29

Something of the progress of Trade Unionism in Cambridge was indicated at a meeting of the Workers Union at which 150 members participated. Twelve years ago there was hardly any trade unionism in the town, with the exception of the craft unions. Agricultural workers had met with tremendous disappointments. The Wages Board had sent the wages of agricultural labourers up from 12s (60p) a week up to £2. Then had come the scrapping of the Board, wages went down to 25s (£1.25) and the worker was faced with the wreck and ruin of his home. The men had lost faith in trade unions.

1926 03 30

A splendid film of the Boat Race was screened at the Playhouse on Saturday evening and received a great reception from crowded audiences. Added interest was shown by the inclusion of pictures of the "Go-Ahead" wireless car receiving the copy of the film for Cambridge outside the offices of Pathe Gazette. It came with musical accompaniment as the loud speaker was giving forth the Daventry programme and when broadcasting in Wardour Street, London, the road was blocked by people who stopped to gaze at the novelty and to listen in.

1926 03 31

Drainage Wicken rectory, p6

April 1926 CDN

1926 04 01

The annual meeting of Swaffham Prior parish council turned out to be quite a passive affair. Mr R. Cooper said they wanted a school and there would never be any peace and quiet in the village until they got one. The parents who sent their children to Burwell only did so on sufferance. The grouping scheme had been brought about to suit the pockets of the "money-grabbing" ratepayers. They had been "diddled" out of their school and the labouring parties had been put down as if they had no sense.

1926 04 01

A mysterious stranger is reported to have appeared on the main road between Cambridge and Peterborough and distributed something like £200 in sums of £5 to unemployed men he had met. The procedure of the highway benefactor is to enquire how far they have walked, offer them a cigarette and present them with a sealed envelope which he says contains a charm, and if handed over any counter will bring good luck to the bearer. "We regarded the whole thing as a joke", said one of the men, "until we opened the envelope and found five £1 notes in it. We passed one of them over the counter of the first eating house we came to, and it certainly brought me luck in the shape of a good square meal"

Parish constables, p5

1926 04 02 c

A friend brought me in a letter this week to show how widely the C.D.N. circulates. It came from Copiapio, Chile, and asked for a copy of the "House Hunters Guide", "as advertised in the 'Cambridge Daily News'". No charge is made for this guide, so that the recipient will not have to pay cash on delivery.

1926 04 02 ES

New Hundred Foot Pumping Station opening – 26 04 02(2)(3) photo (5)ES # c.29

Many assembled at the Hundred Feet River, Lt Downham for the opening of the new oil-driven engine and pump which have been erected by the Littleport and Downham Commissioners. Although the new machinery is not capable of dealing with such vast quantities of water as the existing steam engine, it more or less supersedes, it will reduce running costs to a very appreciable degree. The new engines will cost five shillings and six pence per hour to run against one pound spent on the steam engine, which will be retained for emergency work. Mr. Horace Martin, Chairman of Commissioners, who performed the opening ceremony, has served on the Commission for 42 years and possesses a thorough knowledge of drainage. His speech was of absorbing interest. Originally there was a steam plant known as a scoop wheel. It was the largest of its type in existence and was replaced some years ago by a new high-speed steam plant direct-coupled to a centrifugal pump. This did its work remarkably well but was perhaps too powerful for the job. Consequently, the Commissioners decided to have an alternative standby pump, which should be used to do ordinary pumping work and leave the steam plant to deal with exceptional floods and heavy rainfall. The new pump is oil driven, driving a centrifugal pump capable of delivering 100 ton of water per minute under the worst possible conditions of low water in the drain with high water in the river. The whole of the machinery is enclosed in a most attractive-looking brick building on pile and concrete foundations. The old engine was built in 1829 or 1830 and in about 1880 they enlarged old paddle wheel because the land in the fens had settled so much. That dealt with the water very well until 25 years ago, when although the engine ran a lot they could not get water low enough to drain the land and the Commissioners put in a new pumping plant at the Ten Mile Engine. It was opened in 1910 and ran very satisfactorily getting rid of the water well. Two years later, the Commissioners built the steam engine near them and both had proved satisfactory. It was however the cost of running that they wanted to save. Another reason was the other engine in ordinary times was too big. It emptied the drain so quickly that the water could not get from other parts of the district fast enough to feed the engines. The new engine could be started in 15 minutes whereas the other one took hours to get running. If they found the new engine satisfactory and economic they might put in a similar plant at the Ten-Mile Engine. Mr Martin had been to the openings of the engines at St. John's Little Ouse and Prickwillow where they were getting excellent service and economical working. Mr C. Wright said that the engine that Stretham Fen was proving a good friend to them, and that was a district which had been badly drained for a great number of years. He had never seen the drains empty until the last 12 months. The cost for fuel and lubrication was only 17 shillings for the eight hours they were running whereas the cost for throwing the same amount of water with the steam engine would have been five pounds. 26 04 02ES

New sluice at Denver: new eye with latest machinery – 26 04 02(4)

An important improvement has been effected at the sluice at Denver. The work was undertaken in 1923 when the sluice was taken over by the Ouse Drainage Board. It was first decided to repair the floors and sills of the sluice but during a very wet period, there was a 'blow' in the dam and the Board decided to construct a new eye, an improvement which the old Commissioners had been considering before the control passed from them. The new eye is built on the Stoney roller principle and the latest machinery has been installed to work the sluice. The immense doors are moved by electric power and the sluice is illuminated at night by electricity. 26 04 02(6)ES

1926 04 03

The system of 'C.O.D.' does not seem to have caught on to any extent locally. The Post Office says there had not been more than a dozen parcels delivered under the system. It is obvious that if the practice becomes general it will entail considerable extra work. If people do not happen to be in when they arrive, or if the cash is not available then the parcel will presumably have to go back where it came from.

New Inn, Oakington, p5

1926 04 06

Florrie Forde at New Theatre, p6*

1923 04 06 ES

Stretham appeal case; county court judgement upheld. Appeal by Stilla Curtis, wife of Fred, bootmaker, on claim for personal injuries by falling of tree. She a fruit picker and agricultural worker. On 17 March 1922 was on field property Charles Murfitt of Stretham. Chapman & Co, timber merchants, felled tree in adjoining field which struck and knocked her down, killing her child whom she was carrying and causing her serious injuries. Claimed damages £100. But she, instead of running away from danger, had ran into it. 23 04 06

Stretham Mission Hall 23 04 06a

Easter saw plenty of pleasure for those seeking amusement at Ely. The Motor Club set the ball rolling in the morning by embarking for Brampton Steeple Chases after forming up on the Palace Green for the customary first photograph of the season. Private parties were also numerous and a never-ending stream of motorists commanded the main road. After the town bade farewell to its enthusiastic motorists, thoughts turn to the struggle on the Paradise Ground when 22 footballing schoolboys sought to win fame in the final of the Ludington Cup between Ely and Littleport. The babble of excited youngsters blended hilariously with the shouts and laughter of a big crowd of adults and it was agreed that the final had never produced a better fane. After a hurried luncheon city was again in the grip of football cup fever and the exodus to March, where the city team met Chatteris was a revelation. The train was crowded to standing room and a disappointed company returned later, their favourites coming to grief at the last hurdle. It was the only gloomy spot in a bright day. Better fortune awaited visitors to the Downham Road enclosure. Once more the Railwaymen qualified to meet Newmarket in the final of the Creak Charity Shield. Others found enjoyment on the Barton Road where the King's School held their annual athletics sports. A crowded afternoon completed the holiday menu for the City Band whist drive and dance in the Public Hall was another record affair. A special holiday programme was also provided by the enterprising management of the Electric Cinema and it is some time since queues in Market Street reached such dimensions, some 700 persons paying for admission. 23 04 06ES

More evidence of the hospitality of the staff of Ely station was given recently. A party of Scottish fisher girls arrived at Ely by the up-mail train in the early hours of the morning on their way back to Scotland via Peterborough. They found the station restaurants closed. Members of the station staff on duty made them coffee and provided them with food at their own expense. A few days later, the Stationmaster (Mr. H. Everson) received a postcard from Scotland, asking him to thank the railway men for their hospitality. 23 04 06 ES

1926 03 15

Much damage was done by a fire which broke out in a shop occupied by Thomas Stubbings, a dealer in new and second-hand furniture at the corner of Tanner's Lane and Sand Street, Soham. The firemen soon got to work, but the fire had such a hold that nothing could save the contents so they turned their attention to saving some of the five houses adjoining. There was a shed at the back of the shop in which were stored a quantity of paraffin but by keeping the building wetted this was saved.

1926 04 07

John Mere benefaction, p6

1926 04 08

Fordham motor 'rodeo', p3

Express kills horse, p5

1926 04 09

The annual report of the Cambs District Milk Recording Scheme records the total number of herds was 96 and the number of cows 1,168. The maximum yield of milk given by a cow was 16,194 lbs. It was with regret that members heard that Mr A. Macarthur has decided to give up the Hall Farm at Bottisham. He was the first chairman and the owner of one of the finest herds of heavy-milking commercial cattle in the Eastern Counties. The Rev C.H. Brocklebank is leaving Bartlow & Col. W.F. Northman has disposed of his herd to Major S.G. Howard of Kirtling.

1926 04 09

Residents of Ely who visit the riverside must observe a great change in the scene as compared with a few years ago. Then basket makers, with a crowd of women 'peelers', would have been busy making baskets and peeling the reeds in order to cope with the summertime demands upon the industry. But now the scene is a very different one. Only a mere handful of men and women are found employment and the industry is threatened with extinction. This it is stated is due to the importation of foreign goods, which can be shipped into the home markets and sold at similar smaller cost than it actually takes to make the baskets in Ely. Mr Oliver P. Scott, 70 has been associated with the industry ever since he was a schoolboy and told A reporter that he could trace his relatives who have been basket makers in Ely since 1710. "When I was a boy", he said, "the industry was a fairly prosperous one, but just before the war, and particularly since, it has declined considerably. With foreign goods coming in from Holland, France and Germany, and with the reeds being imported from Africa, the business is absolutely ruined in Ely. There was a time when I used to supply one firm alone in London with 7,000 baskets of different kinds, and now I don't send them one. Before the war I used to employ nine men making baskets, but now I only employ three and a third of the number of women peeling rods which are used in the construction of the baskets." Mr Scott, who is the last surviving member of his family, has about 26 acres of land which he devotes to the growing of reeds, but since the industry has become so bad he has turned six acres down to grass, which pays him better. The peeling of the reeds cost twice as much today as it used to do. Illustrating how foreign competition was killing the trade, Mr Scott said that what were known as picking up baskets were being put on the market by people from Holland at 9d each, compared to 1s 2d which english makers were bound to charge. "It costs me", he explained, "sixpence for making the basket alone, and over and above that I have to pay for growing the weeds, peeling, weeding, cutting and drying them, so you will see I have not much profit out of them." Mr Scott was firm in his belief that it was nothing but foreign competition that was killing the industry, which could only be saved by a tax on the importation of foreign goods

26 04 09 ES

1926 04 10

A thunderstorm broke over the Saffron Walden district, the lightning and thunder being particularly severe. The fire brigade was called to Ringer's Farm, Newport where three stacks were ablaze. An eyewitness saw a flash of lightning pass between the stacks. Farm workers attempted to fight the flames but although there was plenty of water, they were completely destroyed. Several large trees were burnt. The fire could be seen for miles around. The Saffron Walden brigade was composed of ten firemen under the command of Major F.W. Acland and were on duty for ten hours

1926 04 10

Steps are being taken to set up an "Organisation for Maintenance of Supplies" committee in Cambridge. It is a non-political organisation for enrolling and classifying lists of volunteers for the use of the Government in the regrettable event of a general stoppage of the essential public services. One may be quite sure that such volunteers would be readily forthcoming in a grave emergency, but for the sake of efficiency it is thought better to have personnel ready beforehand. It does not question the right to strike but exists to prevent the mass of the population being victimised by a far-reaching strike that affects the well-being of the community.

1926 04 11 c

Anglesey Abbey, the fine old historical residence, is to be offered for sale. Founded by Henry I, the Augustinian Monastery was one of the first of its order in England. After passing through various hands the estate became the property of the Rev John Hailstone, Vicar of Bottisham, who beautifully restored the house in 1860 and whose representatives after his decease sold it in 1888 to the present owners, by whom it has been completely modernised.

1926 04 12

Saffron Walden council had visited the slum houses in the town, and they were slums indeed. Coun Tanner suggested writing to a certain member of the House of Lords who owned property in the town and ask him if he would be prepared to replace 16 new houses for the existing ones. If the matter were nicely put to the noble lord, who was a millionaire, he would no doubt be willing to accede to the request. In any case there would be no harm in doing so.

1926 04 13

An "Organisation for Maintenance of Supplies" Committee for Cambridge was the outcome of a meeting held at Christ's College, its aim being to enlist and classify volunteers for the use of the Government in the event of a general stoppage of the essential public services. The questioners included Coun W. Few, President of the Cambridge Trades Council and Labour party who declined to allow his name to go forward as a member of the Executive Committee.

1926 04 14

A meeting was held at Prickwillow for the purpose of inaugurating a new troop of Boy Scouts. The vicar said scouting was not new to the village, a troop having been in existence in the time of Father Kingdon, their old vicar. There was a good number of young people and it would be a good idea if they could band them together. It was said that a boy had a spice of the devil in him, but he had also a spice of an angel, and it was the object of the movement to bring the latter to the top.

1926 04 14

Sawston Boys' School was crowded to do honour to Mr J.C. Falkner who recently retired from the headmastership. Commander Eyre of Sawston Hall, who made the presentation, expressed amazement that any man could have endured schoolmastering for 33 years! The Commander has only been in residence since 1925 but Sawston people have already learned to appreciate him as one who is sincerely interested in their welfare and the relations between the villagers and the Squire are of the very happiest. Mr Falkner said it was impossible to refrain from mentioning those lads – nearly 40 of them – from the school who had died in the service of their country and the audience stood in silent homage

Smallpox, p5

Policeman stops horse, p6

1926 04 15

Elsworth baker, p3

Hovis bread, p3

Milton smallholder, p5

1926 04 16

PC Bird told magistrates he saw the defendant riding a motor cycle in James Street, Cambridge. He was standing on the saddle and with his hands on the handlebars. Witness told him he had no control over the machine, and he replied "None whatsoever". There were other machines in the street and some children playing on the footpath. Defendant who pleaded guilty said: "I did not think there was any harm in doing it in a quiet street near my house", he said. Magistrates took a lenient view and dismissed him with a caution.

1926 04 16 ES

New Welney bridge tender £6,350, to replace Suspension Bridge – 26 04 16 ES

1926 04 17

Carnegie, Sawston, p6

1926 04 19

Mr J. Ramsey Macdonald, M.P., the leader of the Labour Party visited Cambridge and laid the foundation stone of the Labour Club and Hall in Romsey Town. A meeting in Romsey Council School was crowded with an enthusiastic audience. A brisk sale was done in red rosettes and on the table was a vase of magnificent red geraniums. Over the platform was a banner bearing the words "Labour offers you true friendship". In the evening he attended a dinner in the Lion Hotel where he spoke mainly on the achievements of the Labour Party

1926 04 20

Beer responsible, p6

1926 04 21

Cambridge Mammoth Show Society expressed indignation at the council for "abruptly refusing" the use of part of Midsummer Common on August Bank Holiday for the first time in 22 years. It cost £700 to maintain the racing track but it was no use unless they raced upon it. The council had refused permission to the only society who could afford to spend money in putting a hoarding around the track and ensure gate money. They obviously did not desire over 20,000 people should enjoy themselves on Jesus Green.

1926 04 22

An inquiry was set up into the working of the Cambridge Workhouse laundry. They were doing wrong with the washer, boiling the dirt into the clothes instead of rinsing it out. Soap was not put in properly, the waste steam was wrongly used, and there was waste in connection with the hydro. They had wooden rollers in the mangle and people swore about their buttons coming off. They could save two tons of coal a week. When this was done the engineer and the two girl workers should be given a bonus.

1926 04 23

Lady Newton, wife of the Cambridge MP, opened the new hall of the East Chesterton Ward Conservative Association, situate in Union Lane. It is completely equipped with cloakrooms, kitchen, stage etc with electric light and ventilating fans and other modern appliances, and an excellent floor has been laid for dancing. They are going to cater during the summer for flannel dancing and during the winter will run the hall for dances, whist drives and a smoking concert. A gentleman had promised a full-sized billiard table and another given them a cheque for a piano.

1926 04 23 ES

Flood danger in Middle Level:

The Middle Level Commissioners discussed the Engineer's report on whether or not a pumping station should be erected at St Germans. There was a long and interesting discussion and the meeting was by no means characterised by unanimous opinions.

Various parts of the level differed materially; the lowest lying land was most difficult to drain as it was further from the out fall. It was one-and-a-half hours after the sluice gates are open at St Germans before any notable effect at the aqueduct and the opening of the gates at Germans is not apparent at March until the gates have closed. In upper parts of the level of the effect was not apparent for days or possibly weeks. The reason for that was the water was held up in the upper part of the Fens because the pumping stations poured water into the rivers and there was not sufficient flow at the outfall to get rid of it.

In the Connington Fen, one of the lowest lying parts they sometimes had to pump night and day perhaps for a week without producing any effect at all. Because when the stood over eight feet in the Middle Level rivers the water poured back through the banks. These low lying lands were in a much worse condition now than they used to be. You. This winter they had been pumping night and day in many cases for weeks. They must realise what that cost in coal and they save on their internal pumping nearly what they spent on a pumping station at St Germans. In many parts of the level the land was black and sinking. They must not only look at the position today as in 10 or 25 years a lot of the land would have gone down several more inches and if the Ouse remained in the condition it was in now they would be in a much worse position. With a pumping station at St Germans a certain proportion of the Middle Level would drain naturally and that would affect a saving on internal rates. Some say if they could do away with navigation rights and get the water down to three feet. They would be better off. but that could not be done without pumps 26 04 23ES

Ely Urban Council; Prickwillow Road 'disgraceful' – 26 04 23(4)

Ely UDC considered the supply of water taken from the standpipes at Prickwillow by people who did not pay for it. They recommended a separate supply pipe, suitably protected in a wooden box, be provided for the use of persons requiring water for domestic purposes, whose premises were not adjacent to the existing water main, and all such persons should be required to pay at an annual charge of five shillings and be supplied with a key to enable them to obtain such a supply. People requiring a supply of water in bulk from the existing standpipes should be charged six-pence per horse-load. Prickwillow Baptist Church said a baptistery had just begun to be used, and they wished to use the Ely water supply. But as there was some quantity used they asked what charge would be made. The baptistery was seven feet long and two-feet-six inches wide and the water would be four-foot deep. The use of the baptistery was very uncertain and irregular and it was suggested a charge be made each time it was used. It was agreed that permission be granted a charge of a shilling a time. 26 04 23ES

At the 'New Ideals in Education' conference at Somerville College, Oxford. Mr. H.W. Saunders, in a paper on local history in rural areas, said that while the human element was the subject matter, there could never be a science of history. Local history was the most humanising of all branches of history. It was also a subject of the greatest utility which cried out against the isolation of the village. Any locality in this kingdom miniaturised the whole of English history. They should get away from glittering generalities and come down to hard facts. He complained of the lack of support given by members of the teaching profession to the efforts made by Cambridge to promote a study of local history. 20 04 23ES

1926 04 24

The old Theatre Royal, Barnwell, has been acquired for a repertory theatre. The auditorium is to be re-seated and the stage remodelled and equipped on modern lines. It will have its own company of actors and actresses and a play will be presented each week during term. Mr Herbert Prentice of the Sheffield Repertory Company will be resident producer. The building will be known in future as the Festival Theatre and it is hoped to establish with it a training centre of dramatic art.

1926 04 26

Coun Unwin asked what steps could be taken to avoid the dangers to traffic on the blind and awkward corners on the main road through Histon. At Stone Corner the road including the pathway was about 15 feet wide and it was quite a blind corner. Imagine two Ortona buses each measuring about seven feet wide, meeting each other there. It would be an expensive job to take down the buildings which were close to the edge of the road. Perhaps a bye-pass road would be a better alternative

1926 04 26

An inquiry was held into the provision of two underground public conveniences at the junction of Milton and Chesterton and Newmarket and East Roads where there would be an island in the middle of the road. The Inspector asked whether they had designed the roof to carry the weight of a heavy motor lorry; it would be a very simple matter for a lorry to jump a kerb on a foggy night as had happened at Southend when people had been injured. He also raised the question of a convenience for women and the Mayor said the matter had been very carefully considered by the committee who were anxious to get on with the work as quickly as possible.

Mammoth show, p5

1926 04 27

50 years with Morley pawnbrokers, p3*

Underground conveniences, p5*

Footbridge, p6

1926 04 28

Charles Wright, Stretham dies, p3*

1926 04 29

Farmers & summer time, p3*

1926 04 30

A machine something of the nature of a glorified cash register which will save the services of three rate collectors is to be purchased for use in the Cambridge Council's Treasurer's Department at a cost of £220. It really was a most extraordinarily effective machine which really eliminated the human element of error and would deal with errors when they were pointed out to it. (Laughter). Anyone who had any knowledge of scientific management would know they were the machines of the future. It would have to be specially adapted in American to meet the Cambridge circumstances.

Building land, p2

Jesus Green pavilion opened, p5*

Wireless licences, p5

1926 04 30

A serious fire occurred on the premises of Mr Herbert Warren, The Grange, Wilburton which resulted in the complete destruction of a motor garage and an almost new four-seater Morris Oxford car. Mr Warren was starting his engine in the garage when it backfired and ignited the petrol in the carburettor. The car immediately burst into a dense volume of flame and it was at once realised that little or nothing could be done to save it. At the time Mr Warren was without assistance, otherwise the car might have been withdrawn from the garage and thus saved the building. Unfortunately, before assistance was forthcoming, the petrol tank exploded and the heat was so intense that it was impossible to get near. So violent was the explosion that it was heard a mile away. Practically the whole of the village were attracted to the scene and, thanks to a good supply of water, and a willing band of helpers, their efforts were successful in preventing the flames from spreading to the adjacent buildings. Word was sent to the Ely Fire Brigade; the men were immediately summoned and the steam raised on the engine. But so splendidly did the inhabitants fight the flames that they had of the outbreak well under control and were able to extinguish it before the arrival of the firemen. The outbreak occurred within a few yards of Mr Warren's residence, which escaped harm. 26 04 30(2) ES

Charles Wright, of Orchard House, Stretham farmer obituary – 26 04 30 ES – photo – 26 04 30(3) ES
Charles Wright passed away at his residence, Orchard House, Stretham, aged 74. He was the son of the late Mr. Charles Wright and in addition to being the largest landowner in the village, he at one time farmed over 1000 acres. He was noted as a man who fed the best beasts and his death has robbed Stretham of a valuable resident and farming of an expert. Mr. Wright, who did not marry, was of a retiring disposition. He never undertook public work apart from being a Commissioner of the Waterbeach Level, and Bedford Level and was chairman of the Charity Trustees and a Trustee of the Baptist Chapel. In his younger days, he was a cricketer and once played that the county team. 26 04 30ES

The work of the NSPCC was emphasised at a meeting held in the Bishop's Palace in Ely. The Bishop said it was almost impossible to believe that parents ill-treated children. He was ashamed there should be so many cases into which the Inspector had to inquire. When they were told that the total number in the district was 483 children involved that there were 110 cases of neglect and starvation, 21 of exposure and 19 of ill-treatment and assault and 16 of other wrongs, when they realised that the Inspector paid 878 visits, all of them necessary, and when they realised that was only one part of the whole country, they would see a need for the Society. 26 04 30ES

Now that spring is here in all its glory fen cottage gardens are gay once more, and there is one in this district that is well worth a visit from any garden lover. It belongs to Mr. And Mrs. John Moulton of Heney Farm near Barway and the brightness round their home more than replace them for the hours of care they bestow on their flowers. The way to a garden is through a farmsteading across a grass field by a path simply asking to be followed and there you catch your first glimpse of the flowers. Over the little stile between the green hedge is a blaze of colour. Aubrietia, masses of it bordering the paths, great big anemones, pink, purple and scarlet bunchy wallflowers all as gaudy as gipsies, and tulips the loveliest ever seen in growing groups fill this enchanting garden. You may cross the stile and there is a right of way through to the fenlands on the other side of the farm. Round the corner of the cottage there are flowers and more flowers and more flowers. Perhaps if you aren't lucky, too, you will meet Mr. And Mrs. Moulton, who will tell you how they managed to make so much beauty grow in one little place and how in spite of giving away such lots of the flowers, they always seem to have as many left to bloom in their garden. 26 04 30

May 1926 CDN

1926 05 01

The Trade Union Congress has decided upon a general stoppage of the vital services at Midnight on Monday. The London Gazette declares that a state of national emergency exists; the distribution of food, water, fuel and the essentials of life are threatened. Mr Lloyd George, who came down to Cambridge to deliver an address, said they were under the shadow of a great industrial conflict of unknown magnitude. Every citizen would feel it was his duty to support the Government of the day in the organisation and facilitating of the essential services of the nation.

Ickleton miller, p3

Lloyd George in Cambridge, p6*

Cherryhinton new church, p6

Woodcuts of Cambridge, p6*

1926 05 03

Cambridge is the administrative centre for East Anglia for the arrangements being made to meet the National Strike emergency. Mr F. Morris Warren of St Ives is the district coal officer. There are three Food Officers who will deal with complaints relating to the supply of provisions. The big job of the moment is the securing and registering of volunteers willing to help in any way with the maintenance of essential services and supplies with a recruiting office in the Guildhall. The Mayor of Cambridge, Ald Edward O. Brown, said: "Today we stand on the edge of an important crisis in the history of our nation. A dark cloud is overshadowing the life of our people. I appeal to all our people to prepare for sacrifice, and remain steady. God grant it may be averted"

1926 05 03

A public meeting organised by the Cambridge Trades Council, the Labour Party and the Co-operative Party was held on Parker's Piece and for an hour and a half speeches were addressed from two red wagons to a crowd numbering about 5,000. They were for the most part attired in red hats, scarves and rosettes and almost encircled by red banners. Lloyd George had said when the miners came back from the war they would find a country fit to live in but they had been asked to accept a reduction in wages and an increase in hours. Socialists were out to help the poorer classes. The meeting closed with the singing of the Red Flag.

1926 05 03

Cambridge had a Mock Funeral today, after a lapse of many years. Undergraduates, dressed in outrageous attire, paraded the streets of the town and marched to the station to observe "funeral obsequies" to two Trinity men who have been sent down for a breach of college discipline. The procession made its way to the college to collect the "corpses". On arrival however they found their unfortunate colleagues had made use of their newly-acquired wings and flown, but nothing daunted the party proceeded to the station headed by a drum-major and a figure in clerical attire. Amongst the occupants of the horse-drawn 'hearse' were two musical geniuses with a banjo and saxophone.

1926 05 04

Cambridge and the crisis, p2

Strike special, p5

Coal deliveries, p5

1926 05 05

Strike effects, p3

George Robey at Cambridge, p3

Railwaymen's views, p4

1926 05 06

Strike news, p3

Otto Wherle death, p3

Trades council and strike, p4

1926 05 07

Cherryhinton Free Church, p2

Cambridge appeals to premier, p3

1926 05 07 ES

The General Strike locally; its effect on transport; good stocks of food and coal in district. Conditions at Ely – 26 05 07(2) ES

In common with the rest of the country this district has been affected by the General Strike. The chief concern has been the stoppage of railway service with the effects on transport and travel and the interference of the suppliers of essential goods and commodities. Throughout the district the railways have been on at a standstill since midnight on Monday and the bustle of the stations has been replaced with a stillness which seems almost akin to desolation. On Ely station, which normally is exceptionally busy, large quantities of trucks, carriages, and about 15 locomotives are to be seen. About 90 Men employed at the station are on strike.

An opposite effect of the strike has is seen on the roads where largely increased numbers of motor vehicles have been journeying day by day. It is an almost common spectacle to see huge motor waggons passing through with the words 'Food Only' inscribed in bold letters on either side.

Apart from an increase in motor traffic and an entire absence of daily newspapers it would be difficult in me to imagine the country was in the throes of a serious strike. The manager of a big Ely provisions store says there is nothing to worry about; providing people take the normal supplies they have plenty of food.

The possibility of a coal strike was anticipated by the March Gas and Coke Company who got in a considerable supply of coal beforehand and there will be enough gas to supply for the town for three months without rationing. 26 05 07

Lakenheath Drainage Commissioners

Lakenheath Drainage Commissioners tested the new oil driven pumping plant and were satisfied with the performance which promises to cut down the pumping cost by at least 50%. Coal has been used hitherto using a beam engine erected in 1846 and before that a windmill driving a scoop wheel. The three generations, namely windmill, steam plant and the latest oil plant may now be seen together. Messrs Gwynne installed one of their 'Invincible' centrifugal pumps with a Vickers Petter semi-diesel engine. The main drain was filled up to the running mark and in less than three hours the drain was pumped lower than it was possible to do with the old steam plant. The Commissioners saw the bottom of their drain for the first time. The new plant is in an independent engine house set on piles. The work was only started in September last and has been carried out through the winter months. 26 05 07

Motor cycle crashes into crowd at Ely Sports Association competition – 26 05 07 ES

Soham Nursing Association annual meeting – 25 05 07 ES

Over the last 15 years the Soham Nursing Association has become so firmly established that it is now regarded as an important parochial asset. The services of an efficient nurse are available and within the financial scope of every resident whose membership contribution is graduated, according to their income. Nurse McHugh's efficiency in all branches of work were to be commented on. During the last year she paid no less than 2,077 visits to patients. Owing to the accident to Nurse Cope, the holiday nurse, the expenses were increased the amount of a new bicycle which cost seven pounds six shillings. 25 05 07ES

Wicken Feast takes place on the green near the Maid's Head on old May Day. The following lines were composed by the Reverend Robert Aspland, a native of Wicken 100 years ago.

And now there comes our village feast

On 13th day of May the best

When out-town folk bring in their wares,

And every pleasant richly fares

When sweethearts sweeter far become

And lads the Jews-harp gaily thumb.

Dust is cut up on the barn floor,

Such dust no thresher raised before.

It appears that farmers used to allow dancing in their barns at that period.

1926 05 08

Cambridge station looked exceptionally bright this morning. Undergraduates in gaily coloured blazers added colour to the scene. The train services are gradually improving and great keenness had been shown on the part of undergraduates in bringing down supplies from London for the Station refreshment room. Tilly, the popular little tea shop girl, remarked while serving hot coffee and doughnuts to hungry undergraduates that she had never seen such cheerful and plucky workers as the volunteers who visited her counter during the General Strike.

Strike issues, p4

May Queen, p4

1926 05 08

The effects of the general strike were brought more closely home than hitherto. In many a Cambridge home the housewife found she had less to "manage on" and tradesmen large and small found their takings considerably decreased in consequence. Parties of undergraduates who had been doing volunteer work were seen coming home for a Sunday rest carrying kit bags over their shoulders. The University has further postponed examinations so that a clear three weeks interval for study will be allowed after the present emergency has ended. A further contingent of 30 undergraduates left in cars to take up tramway services in Hull; the windscreens were protected with wire netting.

1926 05 10

Five hundred of the Civil Constabulary reserve, mostly undergraduates, left Cambridge early this morning for duty in the East End of London. An advance party of 100 went off yesterday. The journey was made by road, the procession of cars stretching for a distance of nearly a mile. In addition some are cleaning carriages at Paddington and Waterloo stations and others unloading cargo at Tilbury Docks. A large number are at dock work and engineering jobs at Hull, while a small contingent is at Grimsby employed at the quayside. A number of Girton and Newnham girls are working as cyclist messengers in the district

1926 05 11

Six hundred of the new Civil Constabulary Reserve, mostly undergraduates, are leaving Cambridge to take up duty in London. It is a paid body, organised and administered by the War Office. They wear plain clothes, armlets and tin helmets & carry truncheons. The force will be on duty chiefly in the East End of London and will serve for the duration of the strike. People at Saffron Walden are putting up with the inconvenience with good humour; coal has been rationed and shopkeepers asked not to supply more than their normal quantities. Volunteers are doing duty at the Anglo American oil dump. At Sawston paper mills 70 men returned to work out of a total of 150 on strike

1926 05 11

The Recorder gave his judgement on the appeal of residents of Brookside, Cambridge, against the council's order authorising part of Trumpington Road as a parking place. They anticipated noise from the vehicles and their attendants who would gaze into their windows. They also thought it would be used for charabancs and omnibuses. Having heard the evidence and visited the spot he was satisfied that the fears are to a great extent groundless

Railway accident, p3

Reach fair, p3

1926 05 12 c

The Paper Mills at Sawston have been running ever since the General Strike was declared, the manager said. "Although half the men were out the other half remained loyal. Many of those who went are now offering their services, but it is impossible at present to find work for them". Little effect has been felt at the Papworth Tuberculosis Colony. Lorry drivers have got all supplied through from London without mishap, and there is no shortage of newspapers, the "British Gazette" having been obtainable in good numbers. Undergraduates were seen today delivering coal. All were attired in morning dress. Their labours will leave abiding marks.

1926 05 12

When the news of the end of the General Strike was broadcast on Market Hill, Cambridge enthusiastic cheers broke out. "What rotten luck!" an undergraduate was heard to remark, "I only started work to-day and was looking forward to driving a lorry up to Town". "Never mind, old boy", cynically replied his companion, "They'll be out again in a few weeks". "I'm glad it's all over", remarked a flapper, and then added demurely, "All the 'Varsity boys will be coming back". In many parts of the town children were carrying flags within two hours of receiving the news.

Birth control, p2

1926 05 13

The situation was quiet at Romsey Town this morning, the railwaymen concerned in the new crisis patiently waiting developments which are taking place between the railway companies and the various unions in London. At the Co-operative Hall a telegram was read instructing the Cambridge men to remain out on strike until the unions got satisfactory assurance with regard to the men's reinstatement

Fordham kola, p3

Rat campaign, p4

Rev Bywaters, Haddenham, p4

Back to work – CDN & strike, railwaymen, p5

1925 04 14

Cambridge and new crisis, p3

Tribute from Royston, p3*

Stortford rail crash inquest, p4

1926 05 14 ES

End of the General Strike; effects comparatively little felt; railwaymen remain out – 26 05 14 ES

It was with a deep feeling of relief that people throughout this district heard the news of the ending of the General Strike, which has been in progress since Monday week. Among the railway men there was at first a disposition to doubt the truth of the announcement and uncertainty was created by the announcement of by the L.N.E.R. regarding a reduction of staff. In some places the men did not present themselves for a resumption of duty, this being the position at March where the whole staff of over 1500 men remained out. A similar state of affairs exists at Ely and elsewhere.

The continuance of the strike has not resulted locally in any very serious effects being felt by the public. In some places, industries have been interrupted in consequence of the cessation of the railway transport system, this applied to Whittlesey with its brick works and Chatteris with its engineering works.

Road transport has been maintained on an extensive scale and every day large numbers of heavy motor vehicles have been travelling along the main roads conveying food to the larger centre of population. A very large acreage of potatoes has been removed by this means. Farmers who had large stocks remaining on land and before the strike were concerned they might not be able to dispose of them have found themselves relieved of anxiety on this account.

The strike has not been attended by any disturbances. But at March on Tuesday, there was a noisy demonstration to mark their disapproval of the action of men who had remained at work on the railway away. No violence was shown however, and there has been no attempt to molest other voluntary workers who were carrying on. 26 04 14ES

1926 05 15

Fulbourn Hospital, p3

Local railwaymen back to work, p5

Strike and Cambridge, p4

1926 05 17

St Ives Town Council expressed feelings of profound relief at the cessation of the General Strike. St Ives had responded nobly in voluntary service and all classes had loyally carried out any duty required of them. None of the council employees relinquished their duty and no single case of lawlessness or friction had occurred in the town. The committee of ladies who had supplied refreshments at all hours, night and day, to transport drivers should be especially mentioned.

Undergraduates' part in strike, p5

1926 05 18

The Cambridge Joint Emergency Committee wish to place on record their gratitude to the many friends who have helped the men who were on strike; the ministers and clergy who lent rooms and the members of the University who gave lectures and concerts, helped in the club rooms and took parties to see the colleges. Many lent their cars to distribute the "British Worker". By means of the Strike Fund the committee have been able to relieve many cases of distress. The last gathering took place in the Co-operative Hall which was crowded with hundreds of women who enjoyed their entertainment.

1926 05 18

Messrs Bidwell were to have offered the Anglesey Abbey estate for sale by auction but have announced they have been successful in selling it privately. We understand the purchaser is Captain H. R. Broughton. It was actually sold during the General Strike and now that the prospects for the country are so much brighter and confidence restored there is a pronounced revival in a general investment in land. At Haddenham 18 acres of accommodation land were sold to Mr J.C. Parnell of Stretham for £650.

May Races postponed, p5

1926 05 19

Newmarket Emergency Committee reported that although the General Strike was declared off yet the coal strike was still on. They allowed several appeals for extra coal in the cases of sickness or young children. There were 487 tons of house coal, 320 tons of steam coal and 97 tons of coke on sale. The Master of the Workhouse had a good supply and the Guardians would probably allow coal being sold in small quantities.

1926 05 20

Stretham annual feast was in progress when an 11-year-old boy ran from behind a stall and attempted to cross the road. At the same time a large motor van was passing and before any warning could be given the boy slipped under the wheels, which passed over his body. Dr Howe was sent for immediately and the boy, under the care of P.C. Waghorn, was removed in an ambulance to Addenbrooke's Hospital where he lies in an extremely critical condition

1926 05 20

Cambridge court heard that when an undergraduate came to Magdalene College he brought with him a bay gelding, worth £200, which was placed in stables in Cambridge and hunted with the Cambs Hunt and the University Draghounds. In December an agreement was reached with the L.N.E.R. for the carriage of the horse to Berwickshire. During loading into the horsebox at the station it lurched forward, fell out and broke its spine.

Stretham Hospital Sunday, Charles Wright gives £1,000, p6 26 05 20

1926 05 21

Newmarket food control, p5

Littleport doctor Edward Willis' bankruptcy, p6

1926 05 21 ES

River Board meeting – 26 05 21(2) ES

A large number of Middle Level Commissioners attended a meeting to consider the question of the installation of a pumping station at St Germans. The Lower Ouse Drainage Board formerly controlled to river from Denver to the sea, and the Middle Level had to contribute 60% of the cost of any works done. When the present Ouse Drainage Board was bought in the whole system was altered and under the existing Act, the Middle Level practically had to contribute about 50% of all the works below that outfall. Unless they prepared to allow the Ouse to become derelict, the Middle Level would be bound to contribute something towards the River Ouse. But other people had greater grievances: it was proposed to bring in land which had never paid any drainage taxes, that could not be benefited in any way by any work the Board could do. Yet they were asked to pay exactly the same as the lands in the Middle Level, which were liable to be flooded and which might benefited by the works of Ouse drainage. 26 05 21

Isle of Ely County rising expenditure; increased costs of roads. Proposals for improving two corners on Cambridge Road; at one to fell six trees (Hiam to keep timber) and the other R.T. Wesley gave up strip of his garden – 26 05 21(4)(5) ES

Large six-wheel motor lorry carrying 12 tons of potatos sinks into road at Mepal – photo – 26 05 21(7) ES

A large six-wheeled motor lorry carrying 12 tons of potatoes from Christchurch to London got into difficulties on the main road at Mepal. Two of the near side wheels sank into the road up to the axle. After unloading the major portion of the potatoes, the driver and his mate by jacking up the wheels, and placing timber under them, was able to extricate the vehicle by its own power. 26 05 21(2)ES

Ely Medical Officer said that the principle industry is agriculture, without question the healthiest of occupations, though the standard of living is lower than it should be owing to the low rate of wages which the industry is capable of supplying. There are two chaff factories in the district and Hope

Brothers factory at Littleport provides a certain amount of employment. The sugar beet factory in at Ely has provided a considerable amount of work for many who would otherwise have been unemployed during the winter months and has contributed largely to the well-being of many families. The number of houses recorded as unfit for habitation was 115, overcrowded 33, and the shortage was estimated at 206. This shortage will disappear when the Council's housing scheme is completed. Overcrowding is now relatively small, mainly caused by a shortage of cottage of the larger type suitable for families. The Council have in many cases let their cottages to overcrowded families. The general standard of housing is low, many being badly lighted and ventilated, rooms being too low or too small, especially the bedrooms. 26 05 21ES

Ely railway station photos during and after strike – 26 05 21(9) ES

Pumping station for Middle Level outfall to proceed despite opposition – 26 05 21 ES # c.29
Middle Level Commissioners considered the installation of a pumping station at St. Germans. The rivers filled very quickly, before they knew where they were they had a condition of flood and before it was felt at St Germans they had reached or even gone beyond the danger point. The water in the rivers got much higher than it ought to be. The banks were in a rotten condition, and were not strong enough to bear the strain and the water instead of being confined to the channels percolated through the banks into the Internal Districts, which had to pump it over and over again. It was obvious that if they could get the water lower in their rivers, they would save a considerable amount of money in their internal pumping. 26 05 21ES

1926 05 24

An appeal for the modification of the ban on gramophone music has been addressed to the Vice Chancellor on behalf of a party of musical undergraduates. University orders forbid the playing of gramophones in punts on the river during the May terms and gramophone music has been banned from certain colleges altogether. "We have no wish to express any opinion upon the playing of jazz records but suggest the playing of good music, such as the London String Quartet, by students in their hours of relaxation on the river could do nothing but enhance the beauty of the surroundings and the taste of the modern young man", they say.

Death – poison mistaken for port wine, p3
Gogs fete, p4

1926 05 26

A journey to London and back in an invalid chair is something of an achievement. This is how Mr H.D. Davies, son of Dr Davis of Histon, spent the Whitsun holiday. Starting from home at 10.30 am Sunday, he reached London at 7.30 pm having stopped at Royston en route for dinner. Early next morning he had a run into the city. He returned to Cambridge safely at 8.30. Mr Davis has ridden in his chair for two years or more but had never been faster than Saffron Walden before. His chair was "the ordinary standard pattern" and he could travel at a rate of ten miles an hour, "But of course I have to go slow uphill", he added.

Strike volunteers, p6
Mammoth show, p6

1926 05 27

Cambridge councillors agreed to allow the Mammoth Show Society to use part of Jesus Green on August Bank Holiday, on the understanding it is the last occasion they will be permitted to use it. No roundabouts are to be allowed on to the show ground. It was amazing that when ratepayers' money had been spent in laying out one of the finest recreation grounds anything should be permitted which would plough it up again. The Mammoth Show Committee seemed to be trying to convince the public that the council were trying to deprive them of a show. It had got bigger than a town of this size need for a single day

1926 05 27

Sawston is feeling the ill-effects of the general strike. Of nearly 150 who left the Paper Mills, nearly 70 are still out. For about a week the union members remained solid, but after this some began to return to work. A condition of any that are re-engaged is that they would sign a declaration that they would have nothing more to do with any union. A good many employees have worked at the mills for many years but the formation of the local branch of the union is quite recent, having started in April 1925.

1926 05 28

Cambridge councillors heard that in 1912 a piece of land in Shelley Row, together with the house adjoining was given anonymously to the Corporation as a perpetual playground to the children of Castle End. It was assumed that the rent of the house would be available for the upkeep and improvement of the playground. £80 would be required to make a really satisfactory playground; it was resolved to spend £20 on putting the ground in order

Papworth Nonconformist chapel, p2

Ely allotment theft, p6

1926 05 29

Cambridgeshire Nursing Association considered it must be a great strain on a nurse to have to go long distances on an ordinary bicycle. If they were supplied with motor bicycles they would be able to get to their cases sooner and cover a larger area. The expanse ran to about £11 or £12 per year but there was a possibility of taking on fresh villages through a great ease with which a nurse could travel from one place to another

Mammoth Show, p6

Cambridge and coal shortage, p6

June 1926 CDN

1926 06 01

A demonstration of ju jitsu was given in Cambridge by Mr A.J. Morgan and C.W. Boxsell who deputised for Professor Saddington and the son of Professor Sitton, the old University boxing instructor. A carpet about five feet square was requisitioned for a mat and Professor Saddington supplied ju jitsu costumes. The proceedings opened with a demonstration of "Kime-no-Kata, or ju jitsu self-defence methods. This was followed by methods of defence against an armed assailant which was loudly applauded. A display of ju jitsu wrestling literally brought the house down.

1926 06 01

Now that the excitement of the General Strike has passed away it may be of interest to note the effect of the strike upon local employment. Messrs Pye have only had about 2½ days short time but at the Cement Works the coal difficulty has resulted in a spell of enforced idleness for some of the hands. The Saxon Company's employees are being given their usual holidays on full pay and since short time started have been given work turn and turn about on repairs but unless the coal comes along there will be no more work for the present.

1926 06 02

Mr Ramsay Macdonald, ex-Labour Prime Minister and Leader of the Opposition will not be one of the recipients of honorary degrees at Cambridge. His name was included in the Grace to come before the Senate but certain members intended to "Non Placet" it & a flysheet was to be issued declaring this intention. News to this effect reached Macdonald who signified that he did not wish it to go forward unless it was absolutely unanimous. Opposition was more or less spontaneous because he was a party to an illegal act in bringing about the General Strike.

Police sports, p5

Haddenham Hospital parade, p6

1926 06 03

Stag skeleton in Cam, p5

1926 06 04

Longstanton fete, p3

Alf Pope, Wicken farmer, suicide, p5

Sawston paper work strike, p6

Women peacemakers' pilgrimage, p6

1926 06 04 ES

Isle of Ely County Library seeks donations of books – 26 06 04(3) ES # c.77.7

1926 06 05

Ramsey McDonald degree, p6

1926 06 07

A large crowd assembled in the grounds at Cherryhinton Road, Cambridge to see the daring leap from an aeroplane by Mr Geoffrey V. Peck. The descent was made with a Guardian Angel parachute from an aeroplane travelling at nearly 100 mph and 1,000 feet high. Crowds rushed to the adjacent field where Mr Peck had landed; he was surrounded by eager autograph hunters and signed innumerable photos. Passenger flying was very popular and the pilot will loop the loop and corkscrew at a slightly higher cost. The two aeroplanes belong to the Southern Counties' Aviation Company and are quite reliable so anyone who would like to fly should avail themselves of this opportunity.

Conservative fete, p5

1926 06 08

Sir – the aeroplanes which make daily trips from a field off the Cherryhinton Road, Cambridge, are becoming something of a nuisance. They have been here nearly a month and show no signs of going away. They fly low over the houses and are even more of a nuisance on Sundays. A quiet residential district like the Rock Estate is not an appropriate district for amusements of this kind which should be carried on over open country, far from places where people live and work – John Bousfield, Cavendish Avenue.

Big Brother movement, p6

1926 06 09

Sir – you published a letter complaining of the noise and inconvenience caused by aeroplanes at present operating from a field on Cherryhinton Road. These 'gypsy' aircraft companies which tour up and down the country giving joy-rides are educating the country up to aerial transport. They are giving people an "air-sense" which is essential before aviation can become at all general; people have to be made to realise how extraordinarily safe flying is even at present, when several problems of control have yet to be completely solved – S.V.C., Christ's College

1926 06 09

Newmarket surveyor reported the correspondence he had had with the Automobile Association with respect to the signs relating to 10 mph limit through the town. They alleged that a prosecution had taken place for exceeding the speed limit which had arisen through a motorist proceeding from a side street where was no sign. He said two of the speed limit indication signs, one in the Avenue and one in Rous Road were now down and it was resolved that they be re-erected.

1926 06 10

A large bus belonging to Messrs Bowyer and Topper of Ely was returning from the Soham Grammar School sports, and was filled with Ely citizens, mostly ladies. Some distance from Stuntney a motor lorry, proceeding in the same direction, made an attempt to pass. The bus driver pulled off to the left but the lorry drove too close, knocking the hub of one of the wheels off. The bus turned to the left and rushed into the dyke, falling on to its left side with its radiator embedded in the bank. The occupants were in a serious plight with seats collapsing and broken glass flying about in all directions. Most of the ladies suffered from shock and it will be some time before they will recover from it

1926 06 11

The Mayor of Cambridge told members of the Special Constabulary that the general strike had come as a "staggerer" to him. They had had to appoint various officers to control the various department of work – the food, transport, coal, volunteer service and Special Constabulary. It was impossible to forget their service and the willingness to help their town and country. No one on May 3rd knew what lay before them. They had been as near to revolution as they would ever be, but they faced the situation as Britishers should. What would have happened had the people been disloyal and untrustworthy he could not bear to think.

Premier dance hall, p5

1926 06 11 ES

Stretham Wesleyan Chapel renovated – 'costly but not showy'; built in July 1885 and until recently never renovated; redecorated by Routledge Bros, cream, carpets; special service – 26 06 11(2)
Stretham Wesleyans are justly proud of their chapel which has just been renovated and was reopened. The chapel was built in July 1885, and until recently had never been renovated. The decorations had been carried out by Messrs Routledge Brothers, painters and decorators. Most of the work of cleaning was under taken voluntarily. At the rear of the school room was a little plot of land which previously belonged to John Wesley who wished the trustees to purchase it. 26 06 11

Stretham successful fete, Rectory; three-mile marathon race; names stallholders; sports – 26 06 11(2)
Stretham successful fete, Rectory; three-mile marathon race; names stallholders; sports – 26 06 11(2)
The weather on Tuesday was of a very serious nature and just as the residents of Stretham were entering the ground of the Rectory to attend the garden fete, rain fell sharply but after a few minutes, the sun shone brightly. Besides the usual stalls a great attraction was a three mile marathon race from Stretham across to Thetford corner and back. A large number of young men competed and all ran well. Nearly everyone in the village assembled at the cross when the marathon was run. The first man home completed the course in 20 minutes. H Fletcher was the winner, L. Badcock second, J Cross third and P. Acred fourth. The first prize was a handsome silver cup. 26 06 11ES

Sutton old people tea – photo – 26 06 11 ES

Ely flooding, Minster Place – photo – 26 06 11 ES

A violent storm broke over Ely shortly before four o'clock. Heavy peals of thunder were first heard followed by a fall of hailstones almost as big as marbles. There were slight flashes of lightning and the rain which subsequently fell was so terrific that the streets resembled a flooded area, particularly in front of the Lamb Hotel. Here the pavement was underwater and to such a depth did it rise in the street, that one motorist, unconscious of the depth of the water, drove through it. His car suddenly stopped and refused to start and he had to leave it on the side of the road. People in the market and in the streets had to beat a very hasty retreat in any and every direction in search of shelter and in the Market Place, pots and pans floated about as though on a lake. The storm lasted about 20 minutes 26 06 11ES

1926 06 12

St Ives Housing Committee heard reports on defective houses. One house in Wellington Street was so dilapidated that a demolition order was necessary. A large heap of manure had accumulated in a hovel at the back and outside buildings were in a dilapidated condition. It was difficult to deal with properties which were defective when it was known that the owners were not in a flourishing financial condition. There was not the slightest doubt that the housing problem was a serious one. It was imperative to do something for people who could not pay high rents.

May Week prospects, p6
First lady cyclist, p6

1926 06 14

Saffron Walden council heard that 52 houses in Hockley's Yard, Ingleside Place, Bridge Street, Castle Street, Camp's Yard, East Street, Long Row and Museum Court were beyond satisfactory repair and should be condemned. The following sites are available and can be purchased if the council decide to proceed with the housing scheme: Little Walden Road, Radwinter Road, Thaxted Road and Seward's End. Eight houses should be erected in each site

1926 06 15

One of the contingents of Women Peacemakers who are converging on London from various parts of the country arrived in Cambridge. Meetings had been held in village after village by the side of the war memorials. They were met by members of the local Pilgrimage Committee and proceeded to the Market Hill where an impromptu meeting was held. They carried various banners and red and blue flags. Mrs Rackham said the gathering recalled the great Women's Suffrage Pilgrimage of 1913 when crowds gathered on the same spot. The Pilgrims leave for Saffron Walden tomorrow.

1926 06 16

A meeting of the Women's Peacemakers' Pilgrimage was attended by a large audience at Cambridge Guildhall. In the next war they would have aeroplanes dropping poisonous bombs that would destroy civilians who had never been near the firing line. They must create such an atmosphere of repugnance that the nations dare not go to war. There were hundreds of people in Newmarket who were not yet converted to the idea of the League of Nations and it was their duty to make converts of all who had not yet joined them.

1926 06 18

Chesterton RDC 200th house, p5

1926 06 19

So far May Week has been a pale and melancholy ghost of its former self. What with the powerful counter-attraction of Ascot, the fact that a good many of the men have already "gone down", the restricted train service and the gloomy uncertainty of the weather, Cambridge is having a bad time just now and tradesmen, hotel and lodging-house keepers, boat-proprietors and others who look to May Week to bring a little much-needed grist to their mill have received a severe blow. Usually May Week comes before Ascot, and visitors to the Mays have been accustomed to go from Cambridge to Ascot. Now that Ascot is over there seems to be no reason which the process should not be reversed.

Castle Hill, p6

1926 06 21

A Dry Drayton lad named Arthur Goodfield was playing with a ball on his way to school when it rolled into a hedge. On going to find it he found two coins lying in the soil and his teacher told him they were 5s. pieces. When school was done he returned to the spot and further search revealed sovereigns and half-sovereigns. A thorough search was later made by all the boys of the school and nearly £20 were recovered. The latest date on the coins is 1893 and they may be the proceeds of a burglary committed nearly 30 years ago.

Cambridge housing & sales, p5
Quy farm sale, p6

1926 06 22

The science of air manoeuvring was demonstrated at Duxford Aerodrome when a rehearsal for a part of the Hendon Air Pageant was carried out by R.A.F squadrons based at Duxford, Northolt and other aerodromes. Fifty-six planes, six squadrons and nine machines took the air at a given signal. The display was witnessed by a number of civilians who were smothered in clouds of dust when the formation was about to take to the air and on landing.

1926 06 24

Councillor Briggs said he was very pleased the Committee were raising the wages of men working at the Cambridge Sewage Farm by about one farthing an hour. He remembered when there was skating on the farm the chairman said it was dangerous, because there were germs about. (Laughter). These men were there daily and were engaged in a dangerous occupation, and a very unpleasant one. The men got 38s. (£1.90) a week, and extra for sludge work. They had the best of conditions. (Laughter). They had a shed which they ran into when there was a shower. What better conditions could they have? The rate for farm labourers was 30s a week (£1.50)

1926 06 24

The Coroner held an inquest into a lady who died at Newmarket from burns suffered in her bedroom. She had petrol in bottles that she used to clean her hair. She was very proud of her hair and had a little spirit lamp and curling tongs. She had a "toupee" of her own hair, which she was always cleaning. The toupee was now missing. The chauffeur said he had given her two pint bottles of petrol; she did not say what she wanted them for. Dr Gray said there was a very deep burn on the left side of the head. He thought she was caught in a petrol explosion and collapsed.

1926 06 25

Bus accident Stuntney, p5

1926 06 25 ES

Mepal chapel new porch – photo – 26 06 25 ES

1926 06 26

Midsummer Fair shows no sign of declining popularity. The increase in motor travelling facilities has tended to swell the number of visitors. The crockery and curtain stalls seemed more numerous and attracted large crowds nightly. One feature which appears open to criticism is the increasing number of gambling devices. A good deal of effort has been taken to put down such devices in public houses and some of the things at the fair are at least as dangerous. They place temptation in the way of young children who do not go to public houses and are not likely to meet it in any other way.

1926 06 28

The King paid a special visit to Papworth Colony & proceeded on a lengthy tour of the industrial side of the colony, visiting the carpenter's & trunk shop where he was presented with a specially made pigskin trunk and purchased another. He then proceeded to St Peter's hostel, the sign writing, printing, upholstery and cabinet shops and eventually inspected the huts in the south park.

1926 06 29

King at Papworth, p5

Quy farm sold, p6

1926 06 30

Lively scenes were witnessed when Cambridge was "invaded" by visitors from Soham who came to protest against the sale of goods distrained by the Ouse Drainage Board from Barcham Farm for the non-payment of rates. No one could mistake their "leader", Mr A.E. Elsdon, who was attired in "cap and gown" and wore a large buttonhole of sweet Williams, supplemented by a rhubarb leaf. Another wore a slightly battered "topper" and enthusiastic supporters had rattles, concertinas and "screechers". A blind man in charge of a street organ had been hired and did his work thoroughly.

1926 06 30

An inquest was held on the body of a man killed by a tube train at the Bank Station on Saturday morning. He was to have been married at St Barnabas church, Cambridge, on Sunday morning. The bride and her friends arrived at the church but found no bridegroom awaiting them, and after lingering some time had to return home. It was some time later they learned through a paragraph in a Sunday newspaper that he had been killed on the underground

1926 06 30

Last Sunday was observed as Feast Sunday at Stuntney when £14 10s.3d. and 457 eggs were collected for Addenbrooke's Hospital by the villagers. This is an extremely creditable effort in view of the small population. This year a horse-drawn wagon was decorated with evergreens and flowers by members of the Mothers' Union. The vehicle, which was lent by Mr Ambrose and driven by Walter Fretwell, represented a hospital ward. A procession headed by the church choir marched through the village singing hymns

July 1926 CDN

1926 07 01

Health of borough, p6

1926 07 02

An application was made for the closing of a footpath known as the Top Footpath at Cherry Hinton. There was no opposition. Mr E.G. Pamplin, the owner of the premises through which the footpath runs, had agreed to put in suitable repair an alternative route which had been almost impassable in winter and in wet weather. He would also pay over to the Parish Council the sum of £100 to be applied as they chose. When the back lane was put in repair it would be over 50 yards shorter than the present route which was really dangerous for children from cyclists.

1926 07 02

It is not generally realised that human beings can get foot and mouth disease and when the scourge attacks them it is far more serious than when it attacks humans. This announcement was made by the Minister of Agriculture in justifying the recent "carcasses order". "I do not imagine we have found the sole cause of the outbreak, but we have probably found the most important cause. In the last month we have had only six outbreaks; this is the lowest we have had since September", he said.

Swim through Cambridge, p5

Otto Wehrle death, p5 (funeral 7th p5)

1926 07 03

Three village shows, p5

1926 07 05

Cam Upware drowning, p5 (inquest 6th p5)

1926 07 07

Ely Burial Board received a letter to say that the Privy Council had passed an order closing Stuntney churchyard. Its care and maintenance transferred to the Parochial Church Council who could recover the cost from the overseers. But they thought that as the Burial Board was used to the work they would ask them to undertake it. It could be done by those who did the work at the cemetery. This was agreed. The renovation of the cemetery was being proceeded with satisfactorily.

1926 07 07

A visit to the Industrial Trades Exhibition of Household Requirements at Cambridge Corn Exchange is well worth while. Housewives will be interested in a gas saver by which three sets of pans can be heated on one jet. At the Nugget Boot Polish Co's stall "boots" will clean your shoes free of charge. Messrs Robert Sayle have armchairs and some luxurious baby carriages while Messrs Miller & Sons are displaying pianos and gramophones.

Wilburton Hospital Sunday 26 07 07

1926 07 08

Meldreth mystery, p5*

Hay at Ely, p5*

1926 07 09

Death in ditch, p5

Swavesey gipsy fair, p6

1926 07 09 ES

Wicken drowning tragedy – photo Albert Breed who rowed boat to rescue Arthur Betts and Lawrence Caswell; Stanley Caswell drowned – 26 07 09 ES; Wicken church service 26 09 10 ES

1926 07 10

Pymoor roadman knocked down by horse, p5

Great air race, p5

1926 07 12

Princess May at Clare College, p5

Saffron Walden housing, p6

1926 07 14

Sir – Words fail to describe the condition of the river during the past week or so. As soon as the Long Vacation begins the edict goes forth – the weeds must be cut. They rise idly to the surface and drift at the mercy of the wind and stream. They collect along the banks, they form floating islands that attract all to the other flotsam and jetsam of the river. The rower is helpless against them, his oar must be laid aside. I vainly assayed to reach Baitsbite but had to tow my boat through a clinging mass of ribbon weed, Canadian pond weed, flannel weed etc. For more than three hours I carried on the unequal struggle but then walked home a sadder man – M.A., Cantab.

Charles Wright of Elford Closes, Stretham, leaves £67,229, Sarah Wright, Orchard House, executor, p5

Steam lorry accident, p5

1926 07 15

The citizens of Ely were all excitement when it was learned that a big bullock had run amok. The animal was being driven near Forehill when owing to the intense heat the animal began to act in a dangerous manner. The owner dropped to the ground, letting the animal rush madly over him. In Lynn Road the bull put its head through the window of the George and Dragon; it hesitated at the Electric Cinema where they were showing the "Rodeo". One gentleman who had hunted buffaloes in America took to his heels. Various men were now after the animal which was finally landed into a field in the Downham Road.

Christs Pieces dance, p5*

1926 07 16

Cherry Hinton pageant, p3

1926 07 16 ES

Charles Wright, Stretham farmer of Elford Closes, left £67,229; sister Sarah Wright of Orchard House exec. 26 07 16(2) ES

‘Cambridgeshire Times’ agent

Mr. J. G Washington of March sold copies of the first edition of the Cambridgeshire Times in 1872 and has been an agent during its 54 years life. He has seen it progress in size and popularity and today its circulation has reached a record as one of the leading provincial weeklies of the country.

During the last 54 years he has handled millions of copies of the paper. The first batches which he took out for sale in 1872 consisted of parcels of 100 but the demand quickly multiplied and he found that the paper, known in those days as the ‘Isle of Ely Gazette’ had come to stay.

He started with the newspaper as a schoolboy, then was ‘promoted’ to errand boy in September 1872. He was apprentice to the printing trade as a compositor in the newsroom where he spent 36 years in the atmosphere of type, ink and paper and when he left the thud and noise of the printing machines, he still kept up his association by continuing his newspaper rounds.

He has seen the Cambridgeshire Times issued from at least six different machines, each being an improvement. First was the old-fashioned hand press and today the old methods of hand printing are replaced by a fine row of linotype machines, mechanical wonders rapidly setting up many columns of news by the guidance of one operator each, and the fast moving rotary machine printing folding and counting 1000s of copies every hour. 26 07 16ES

Swimming

The sudden burst of summer has turned the Bedford canals near Sutton into a mecca for perspiring and aspiring inhabitants. Swimmers may be seen in action daily. On Sunday Mr. George Herrick swam from the New River Bridge to Mepal Bridge, a distance of some one-and-a-quarter miles or more. Entering the water during the lull before the turn of the tide at 11:50 he landed at Mepal at 12:35. Several other local swimmers accompanied him for a distance, before eventually retiring; only Mr. Peacock stuck his task and, helped by the tide on the last lap, landed some 15 minutes after Herrick. Friendly rivalry has sprung up amongst many local swimmers and with favourable weather, some very interesting long-distance swims will probably be staged in the near future. 26 07 16ES

Chatteris Swimming Club held a successful water carnival at Horseyway and a crowd of people lined the banks of the Sixteen-Foot River to witness the events, some of which were keenly contested. The ladies who entered both swimming and diving events added further interest to the proceeding. The ladies’ diving competition was keenly contested. Miss Johnson of Wisbech was first, her graceful diving being loudly applauded by the spectators. Miss Palmer came second, her high diving being especially good. H. Willett of Littleport won the men’s high diving. In the swimming races the chief attraction was the 200 yards open event for the seven-guinea cup. A water polo match brought the programme to a finish with Chatteris and Littleport clubs competing. The Town Band enlivened the proceeding with music from the barge on the river. Owing to the large number of vehicles on the road, en route to the water, several minor accidents occurred. Cyclists were thrown from their machines and a motorcar ran into a ditch. 26 07 16ES

1926 07 17

The Star Brewery applied for the renewal of the licence of the Crown beerhouse in Wellington Street, Cambridge. There were seven fully-licensed houses and three beerhouses within 260 yards. They had lost the licenses of the Woodman’s Arms & Crown and Anchor in Newmarket Road in 1907 & 1910, the Oxford, Crispin Street in 1916 and the Priory Tap in 1911. The brewery had rebuilt and brought the Crown up to date in 1914 but as the tenant’s family increased the trade was neglected: It was not a good thing for a house of this kind when there was a lot of children running about.

1926 07 17 c

Trade at the George the Fourth public house in East Road, a beer drinking, working-class residential neighbourhood, had been carried on for years without complaint. There were about 20 persons living there every night of whom 16 had been there from one to 12 years; one old man, aged 83, had been living there for ten. Housing conditions in Cambridge are very bad, there were 700 or 800 applications for houses at the present time. It was difficult to see what was going to happen to these people if the license was withdrawn and the pub closed down

1926 07 19

One of the greatest enterprises of the age in the fen district in draining 16,000 acres of land has been accomplished by the Burnt Fen Commissioners with the formal opening of the new oil power plant at the Lark Pumping Station at Prickwillow. The Blackstone engine connected to a Gwynne centrifugal pump will cost £400 a year to run, a saving of £1,000 over the old steam plant

1926 07 21

A flannel dance is taking place at the Royal Air Force Station, Duxford in aid the station memorial fund. Dancing will take place in one of the hangars and the Station Jazz Band will provide the music. A handsome triptych has been erected in the camp chapel and the chaplain hopes to add a brass inscription plate with the names of those who have been killed on the station since the official declaration of peace.

Rev Ward leaves Ely, p5

1926 07 22

The County Architect reported that a proper set for the foundation piles at Dimock's Cote Bridge on the Stretham to Wicken road was not obtainable at the depth of 40 feet provided in the contract, but by continuous driving a set was obtained at 65 feet. If the whole of the 38 piles had to be driven to this depth the additional cost would be about £2,500. By driving the piles intermittently there was every reason to believe a set could be obtained at a less depth with many of the piles and the cost would be proportionately reduced.

1926 07 22

The story of how a young Wicken labourer met his death through the sudden discharge of a double-barrelled sporting gun whilst conversing with a civil engineer at the new bridge being erected over the River Cam between Wicken and Stretham was told to the Cambridge coroner. He had told his mother "I think I'll go and have a shoot" on the land of Mr A. Hall who had told him anytime he wanted a couple of rabbits he could have them. The gun was an old type that he had bought off a pal. A surgeon said it was a very difficult case to handle, miles from anywhere; only if medical assistance had been at hand within a few seconds would the case not have been beyond recovery. A verdict of accidental death was recorded

1926 07 24

Members of the 1st Battalion, Cambs. Regiment have been attending a voluntary camp at Madingley, situated at View Park and surrounded by sturdy trees, the main belt of which was responsible for saving the camp being blown down during a storm. One evening the Commanding Officer was approached by a private who announced he had been sent for the white-wash brush. He replied: "I supposed you want to paint the Last Post", then turned on his heels and sought the retirement of the officers' mess to conceal his mirth.

1926 07 23 ES

Hard by the River Lark at Prickwillow now stands another monument to the economic supremacy of the oil-power pumping plant over that of the rapidly disappearing steam driven appliance. This has been installed by the Burnt Fen Commissioners and the formal opening ceremony took place at the Lark Pumping Station with a large attendance of land owners. The new plant supersedes a steam engine erected in 1882 by Messrs Haythorne and Bailey and will save £1,000 a year to the Commissioners who spent £1,400 a year on coal for the steam engine and will in future be called upon to expend £400 on the oil engine. This is the first engine of its type to be used for an extensive fen drainage scheme. The area to be drained lies between the Little Ouse River and the River Lark. Two stations have been installed with Blackstone oil engine driven plants practically identical. The Brandon station has had one season's run and during the 100 days it has worked it is not been found necessary to use a spanner on the engine or to clean a valve of any sort. A remarkable feature of the pump supplied by Gwynnes Engineering Company was the complete absence of vibration. Several of the guests placed coppers on end on the pump and not fell from the position in which it was placed. There were no speeches at the opening ceremony which occupied only a moment or two. Mr Luddington simply opening a valve which set the engine in motion. Immediately vast quantities of water were being pumped into the River Lark. – 26 07 23 & (2)(3)(4) - pic ES

1926 07 26

Cambridge Housing Committee received an offer from Messrs Underdown Ltd to erect a pair of demonstration concrete houses on Council land, at a cost of £690, the Council to take over the houses when completed if satisfied with them. If they are not prepared to take them over Underdown are willing to purchase the land on which the houses are erected at a price to be agreed.

1926 07 26

The County Wages Sub-Committee considered an application from a meeting of roadmen for an increase of 5s. per week and for them to be paid weekly instead of fortnightly. Coun Garratt spoke of the delay caused by sending out cheques once a fortnight and said they did not get it until after Saturday dinner hour or on Monday. A cheque was difficult for roadmen to cash, and the only way was by going to a public house. That meant he had to have a drink. Other councils paid cash and they could do so if a clerk was sent round to various points in the county. It was resolved not to increase wages and that payment should continue as before.

Norfolk Street manslaughter, p5

1926 07 27

Premier Dance Hall, p6

1926 07 29

Cambridge Workhouse committee considered the question of the laundry; while the engineer had been in charge a saving had been made in the laundress's salary, but not on the coal. Mr Francis said there had been much talking about the subject; everybody was interviewing everybody else. A great many misrepresentations had been made and the whole matter was very unsatisfactory; they were putting the laundry people in a most unfair position. It was the most serious case they had ever had to settle.

1926 07 29

Loss of business through the reduction in agricultural wages, expenses through illness of his first wife (who had died) and the high rate of interest to moneylenders were given as causes contributing to the failure of the landlord of the Golden Lion, Bourn. It was an agricultural district and wages were small while the cost of living was as high as when the men were earning twice as much. He had an unfortunate experience of being convicted for selling alcoholic liquor to a guest during prohibited hours; the guest eventually committed suicide owing him £20

Burrell's Walk, p4

1926 07 30

A large building at Isleham, forty feet high, used as a stables and barn and belonging to Mr Fred Robins, collapsed. Three horses which were inside were killed, being entirely buried in the debris. Mr Victor Driver, who is in charge of the horses, was just outside the door and so escaped by a few yards. Four other horses had been taken out just before. The dead animals were dug out in the evening.

1926 07 30

James Diver told an inquest that they were cycling home together from Chivers' factory. Two trains were about to pass the Impington level crossing; he waited by a lamp post and the deceased went to the gates and stood there. Owing to the noise of the trains neither heard the approach of a bolting horse; its knees hit deceased's bicycle and knocked him into the gate, which was broken in half.

1926 07 30

The Ouse Drainage Board is to apply for a grant of £70,000 in aid of works in the South Level district. Sir Frederick Hiam said that the money was only available for four years & if they neglected to take advantage of it their rivers would not get done. The greatest opposition was because the Littleport and Downham district would not pay as much as the other areas. He was a landowner in that district and would make up any difference rather than see the scheme fall to the ground.

Steep Bumpstead farmer bankruptcy, p2
Electricity conference, p8

August 1926 CDN

1926 08 04

The East Cambs Motor Cycle and Light Car Club organised a grand motor rodeo at Fordham. They are fortunate in having people whose names are household words where grass track racing is concerned. Mr H. Smith's machine burst into flames, but a Pyrene was brought into action in time to save it and the owner was able to resume in later races. Events such as trick riding, ski-riding, chariot racing and plank jumping were received with acclamation. At the conclusion a ladies' race was suggested and if they had not quite got the speed they had at least got the proper racing attitude.

1926 08 05

Littleport tragedy, p5

1926 08 06

Mr Blake, of the National Union of Printing and Paper Workers spoke of the situation in Sawston. There were 35 members still out on strike but the firm refused to meet representatives of the union or to reinstate them. An article in the "Workers' Weekly" had claimed the union had deserted the men but he had done his best to brighten the lives of the Sawston workers. A person in the village connected with another trade union was endeavouring to induce workers into their ranks. These were "despicable tactics".

1926 08 06 ES

Prickwillow splendid show – 26 08 06(2) ES

Prickwillow Horticultural Show was if possible a greater success than in previous years. There are very few, if any villages of its size that can boast such an excellent show as that held by this energetic Society which has been in existence for over 40 years. About 1000 spectators from the villages and the surrounding fens viewed with interest the 100 classes of flowers and vegetables and were entertained to a splendid sports programme

Fred Hiam employees tea and sports, Prickwillow – 26 08 06 ES

The employees of Sir Frederick Hiam from his farms at Prickwillow and the surrounding districts gathered to be entertained tea and sports. For the last few years they have been treated to an outing to Wembley or to the seaside, but this year it was decided to give them a treat at home. A field in which the Horticultural Society holds its show had been prepared for the sports so when guests arrived they found it decked with bunting and presenting an appearance of gaiety. Several stallholders were present with coconut shies, swing boats, etc. making a miniature Fair which added to the amusements of the afternoon. After sports employees adjourned to the large marquee where tables and seats had been arranged to accommodate 400 people. A second sitting down had to be arranged as the estimated number of guests was 632. 26 08 06ES

1926 08 09

A Country Dance party on Christ's Pieces, organised by the English Folk Dance Society who are holding a Summer School in Cambridge, attracted a large audience. The party comprised some 500 dancers from America and all parts of England whose dances such as "Rufty Tufty", "Newcastle" and "Sellenger's Round" took one as far back as 600 years. The natural and care-free movements were a pleasant relief from the Bunny Hug, Cakewalk and Charleston.

1926 08 10

The County Medical Officer reported that more than 400 schoolchildren are systematically re-examined on accounts of varying degrees of malnutrition. Treatment mainly comprised the provision of malt and cod liver oil, and in some of the worst cases, maintenance for some months in an open-air school. With separation allowances and the revival in trade after the war improvement was rapid and the proportion of subnormal children dropped, but in the last three years the figure had trebled to about 12 per cent.

1926 08 11

Blythwood Mansion, Stansted was completely gutted by a fire. Sleeping in the house were Lord Blythe, his nephew and eight servants. All these were trapped in upper rooms. Lord Blythe was rescued by his nephew who tied a rope around him and lowered him to the ground from a window. The Butler, Mr Albert Hackwood instructed the footman to telephone for the fire brigade and subsequently rescued the servants. One girl fell as she had one foot on the ladder but he grabbed her legs. His Lordship said: "If it had not been for him everyone would have been burned to death. He discovered the fire, helped to rescue everybody in the house and acted with the most cool courage anybody could possibly have displayed"

Swavesey accident, p5
Library report, p6

1926 08 12

A woman was fined 5s for breaking bylaws under the Housing of the Working Classes Act, 1885. She owned land at Clavering occupied by caravan dwellers. There was no supply of drinking water and the sanitary arrangements consisted of four posts driven into the ground and covered with sacking. There was a stream of running water which was fit for washing and making tea, but unfit for drinking; if necessary drinking water could be obtained from the village pump, half-a-mile away.

1926 08 13

Cream of traders, p5

1926 08 14

Sir – Folk medicine is bound to die out. The substitution of district nurses for the village handywoman as the repositories of most medicinal secrets and customs is tending to do away with the customs and traditions of the good old times. The members of Women's Institutes know a great deal about the subject and old family recipe books will contain interesting matter. I am trying to collect everything I can & shall be glad to hear from correspondents – Mark Taylor, Norwich.

1926 08 14

Herbert Diver, caretaker of Milton Hall, told the court he noticed the lead from the roofs of the laundry and dairy was missing. The ridging had also been taken off the coal shed and accumulator house. In the laundry he had missed the copper. The prisoners said: "We did it sir. We had not much money to buy food with. It was either that or starving". They were sentenced to six months' hard labour

Adult school, p7

1926 08 16

Earthquake shocks of unusual severity were felt on Sunday morning. In Cambridge occupants were awakened by the rattle of windows, crockery and furniture. Two residents in West Road were aroused from sleep by the oscillation of their beds; a lofty wardrobe continued to shake and its contents to rattle for some time. Railwaymen on night duty said the telegraph poles rattled and the windows of signal cabins shook. Several residents of Huntingdon felt three tremors

1926 08 16

Saffron Walden Council debated whether 48 new houses should be erected, as they only had twelve months to complete the whole scheme and obtain the subsidy. The houses could be built for £420 each and would be let at 5s.3d. (26p) a week. Knowing how badly houses were required it was proposed to erect 24 as a first instalment in the Little Walden and Thaxted road, and consider building another 24 in six months' time.

1926 08 17

New Theatre – Marie Lloyd junior, p3

1926 08 18

A Duxford aeroplane crashed on the Gog Magog golf course, killing the pilot. The fatality occurred on the first tee, the machine first hitting the road and crashing through the hedge; as it struck the ground it burst into flames and was soon reduced to ruins. Bullets were flying around all over the place. Some time after the accident the pilot's tunic was found with a fountain pen and letter, both only slightly damaged. His hat was found intact and inside this was his name. We understand he had recently inherited a large sum of money

1926 08 19

A thorny question which seemed to have everybody guessing was investigated at the County Court, the matter at issue being an alleged encroachment near Stapleford railway bridge. Plaintiff said he had purchased the old toll house, double tenement and barns in 1925 and soon after a quickset hedge had been planted eighteen inches from his property. The little bit of land was nearly valueless for the purpose of agriculture but was not valueless to him. The judge said it was always desirable in a dispute between neighbours to settle the case if possible; he thought the hedge should be set back one foot.

Tenancy cases, p5

Breast of chicken, p5

1926 08 20 ES

Ely R.D.C.; new road at Lt Downham. Haddenham well, 26 08 20 & (2)ES

Earthquake felt locally – 26 08 20(3) ES

1926 08 21

A father's objection to his child having to attend another village school to receive elementary education was related to the court. Rampton School was now a junior institution and children over 11 years of age had to go to Cottenham. An offer of a bicycle had been made in order that the child should attend school, but this was refused, as had an offer of 15s. (75p) per year in lieu of a bicycle. The judge warned that the child might be sent to an industrial school and would have to remain there until he was 16.

1926 08 21

Dear Sir – Do you think you could use your influence to get August and September kept free from holidaymakers and visitors to Cambridge. Landladies and most traders could do with the rest & business premises require internal cleaning and lime-washing which cannot be done while going full speed. The students hang on so long now during vacations, and the position is not as it used to be – A Trader. No one would be more pleased than journalists if conferences came a little less thickly, but the presence of hundreds of delegates presumably means benefit to some people and a big effort has been made in recent years to advertise Cambridge as a holiday resort to help tradesmen in the "lean time".

1926 08 21

Sir – A steam driven lorry was proceeding along Histon Road, Cambridge, when suddenly the covering over the goods was blazing on top, as a result of a hot cinder being thrown up from the fire of the engine. This happened right outside one of the long-since obsolete hand manual lock-up sub fire stations. It would be of enormous advantage if they contained something more effective such as buckets of sand, hand patent chemical appliances, a hatchet or two, a crowbar and a couple of extending ladders and if the key might be procured from an obliging near-by resident – A. Burlton

1926 08 25

St Ives Breton fair, p5

1926 08 26

As a result of a police raid at Coldham's Common, Cambridge, nine men were summoned for gambling with coins at a game known as "heading 'em". PC Northrop said he watched them for a few minutes but could not say whether individuals had actually spun any coins or laid any money down. The men dispersed but were caught by other officers. The Mayor pointed out the seriousness of the offence; they were liable to be punished as rogues and vagabonds and fined £25 or sent to prison for three months. Two were fined £5 each

1926 08 28

Chesterton Guardians' Coal Emergency Officer said the emergency would be on for another month and they should buy another 200 tons for the needs of the district. The villages were still suffering from shortage and farmers had no coal to thrash with. That morning he had three smallholders from Milton begging for coal. He had managed, through the kindness of Mr Warren, to let them have three tons. In future as soon as there was any indication of the likeliness of a strike they should take precautions.

1926 08 28

The Post Office proposes to bring into operation a scheme for using obliterating post-marks on letters for commercial advertising, but is meeting opposition. The teetotaler may object to having his letters stamped with an invitation to drink whisky. Many firms print advertising matter on their envelopes and wrappers and this would be obscured by the official post mark advertisement. It would be worse when circulars posted by one firm were delivered bearing an announcement that its competitor's goods were the best.

1926 08 28

Sir – Probably the hardest-worked and the poorest paid college servant is the kitchen porter. In full term he puts in from 13 to 14 hours a day and at the end of the week if he draws 25s. (£1.12) (his food included) he may consider himself lucky – and perhaps the less said about the quality of some of the food the better. They get few tips – an average of 4s. (20p) a term, and perhaps nothing, and in all probability have to stand off during the Long Vacation. These men are honest and trusted servants who should be paid a living wage – A British Worker

1926 08 28

A Haddenham man was summoned for driving a horse and trap without lights. Defendant said he was going to Hillrow and had the usual off-side light on his cart. Between the Chequers public house and the war memorial the rim of the wheel caught the screw that turns up the wick, which evidently made the lamp go out. He was in the act of lighting it when the constable came up. A fine of 7s 6d was imposed and defendant asked for leave to appeal against the fine. The Clerk: "You talk too much".

1926 08 30

The report on the Bishop Stortford railway accident during the General Strike says that the country was on the whole admirably served by the volunteers who undertook responsibilities of various kinds. In this case the district locomotive superintendent at Cambridge was left with one driver and a clerk, out of a staff of 600 men. By degrees a little band of volunteers was got together, all of whom were necessarily unfamiliar with much that they would encounter. The driver involved in the accident was under test to be qualified and had worked trains satisfactorily for some days. The actual circumstances which developed were of a type which would not be expected, though the results were very regrettable.

1926 08 30

The Coroner has heard from the Secretary of State about the disposal of coins found under a hedge at Dry Drayton by children. It had been suggested it was property stolen from the post office kept by a man named Frederick Walker in 1896 and been buried by the person who had stolen it. Neither the Treasury nor the Postmaster General proposes to claim the coins and agree they should be distributed among the finders.

1926 08 30

Sir – the average wages of porters in college kitchens before the war were about ten or eleven shillings per week of 85 hours. At that time they got more money in tips than now. I have known many kitchen hands whose pay per hour worked out at three-farthings to a penny. Today they have a pension scheme (I believe at 65) but few live to that age. Some of the humane employers now pay wages during Vacations having come to the conclusion that an employee wanted something to eat, even when resting in the purer air of Parker's Piece – A.D. Somme

September 1926 CDN

1926 09 01

Jack Jones at Ely, p6

1926 09 02

A retired Cambridge postman's many years of labour in the postal service was acknowledged when Mr Amos Edwards was presented with the Imperial Service Medal. He entered the service 41 years ago as postman at Pampisford and was transferred to Cambridge. For the last ten years he was a mail-messenger – he conveyed in horse-drawn vehicles mails from the Post Office to the Railway Station and back – until the motor vehicles were introduced. He then went back as a postman

Ely horses ordeal, p5

1926 09 03

Capt Ronald Leavey, who was burnt to death when an aeroplane he was piloting crashed and burst into flames near Leatherhead, is not unknown to Cambridge. Two months ago he visited Cherry Hinton where he took many passengers up at different times for pleasure flights, and also accomplished many noteworthy feats of daring in the air. His untimely end will be regretted by all who met him.

1926 09 04

L. Caswell boating tragedy, Wicken, p5

1926 09 06

Harvest reports, p3

Bucken old palace, p5

1926 09 07

A white-hot meteor of gigantic size rushing towards the earth from out of space at a speed of 40 miles a second, is believed by scientists to have caused the vivid flash which illuminated the country from London as far north as Yorkshire and the loud bang which followed it. It is thought probably that the meteor exploded at an altitude of about 40 miles above the earth and showed the Midlands with a spray of molten metal. At Hull and other towns the streets were lit up by a green light for five seconds and windows shaken by the explosion. Detailed observations are being anxiously awaited so the exact point of at which the explosion occurred can be calculated.

1926 09 07

A vivid flash followed by a terrific explosion occurred last night and at about the same time various people in Cambridge declare that they, too, saw a peculiar flare in the sky. No noise was heard. A police constable described the flash as lasting from five to six seconds and as making it appear as bright moonlight. Miss G. Gould, who was in charge of the coffee stall on Market Hill, said the whole of the sky in the south was lit up for about five seconds by a blue flame. A member of the "Stop! Look! and Listen" company said she noticed a vivid flash from her dressing room window.

1926 09 08

A professional photographer claims he was the author of one of the greatest hoaxes ever perpetrated on scientists and astronomers in this country and that he alone was responsible for the "meteoric" displays thought to have been seen all over England. "The lights were caused by the ignition of bags of ordinary photographic flashlight powder which I sent into the air attached to gas-filled balloons. Three sets of balloons were sent up, one from Beaconsfield, one from Bradford and one from Birmingham", he said. The article in the Daily Express is illustrated by a photograph of a real meteor in the act of exploding taken at the Solar Physics Observatory at Cambridge.

Workhouse room stank, p5*

1926 09 09

An article on the London "Daily News" gives an impression of Great and Little Wilbraham. After a thrilling account of the pursuit of poachers by the squire's foreman, the schoolmaster and ex-Police constable Walls, now a blacksmith, the reporter tells of his experiences in the village bakery. The squire's shepherd, turned 70, can sing 'something wunnerful'. "I can be singing at six in the morning and finish at ten at night, and never sing the same song twice", he said. "They be old songs and some of 'em ud take a time. 'The Old Cow Shed' takes 20 minutes".

1926 09 09

Ely Councillors discussed government regulations requiring every cowkeeper or purveyor of milk to be registered and all who keep cows must have cement floors. It means that the cows kept on fen farms, to employ labour, would have to be sold. A man would not be able to keep his own cow in his own yard or sell his own milk. It appeared a lot of tomfoolery and was helping the foreigner instead of those at home. It was agreed to protest against the order.

Invention of sugar beet loader, p3

1926 09 10

St Ives Council River Committee reported that a cross head had given way at the Staunch, wrecking one of the gates and causing a fall in the river; repairs had been carried out. They communicated with Mr Simpson, the owner who replied: "There seems to be some misunderstanding. Your council rent the staunch which comprises the lock and pen. In times gone by the lock had only one pair of gates (the second being put in when the navigation was restored about 1850). The barges came up the river and made fast just above the pen and flood gates; the gates of the pen were then shut and the flood gates lowered, and when sufficient water had come down the boats proceeded to the next lock. Would the council care to buy the whole structure? They would then not have to spend money on other people's property"

Military tattoo, p5

1926 09 10 ES

Manea or Charlemont – account of Thomas Neale ‘Ruinous state’ – 26 09 10(3)(4) ES

1926 09 11

Cambridge Women’s Housing Association has been formed to assist in the supply of houses for the town and, in particular, to meet the urgent demand for the provision of more housing accommodation at an economic rent for the educated woman worker and others. It proposes to purchase suitable houses and convert them into self-contained flats of one, two or three rooms with kitchenettes. At a later stage it is hoped to build a residential club. Already nearly £1,000 has been subscribed.

Trumpington village hall, p6

1926 09 14

At Cambridge Education Committee Ald Starr said that recently children had gone to school showing signs of chicken-pox. Were proper steps taken to prevent them going to school? Dr Dalton thought a very big mistake had been made in excluding an enormous number of children because they happened to be in a house where chicken-pox was. Children were excluded where necessary but in cases like mumps and chicken-pox it was very much better to let the children go to school. When it came to more serious diseases like measles it was a very different matter

1926 09 15

Considerable interest was taken in agricultural circles in a demonstration of stubble cleaning on the University Farm, Huntingdon Road, Cambridge. It had the dual object of acquainting farmers with the instruments available for such work and of bringing instrument makers in touch with them so they may visualise what improvements are required. Light land was used in the morning and heavy loam in the afternoon and included both tractor and horse work by a variety of instruments, though the exhibition was in the main concerned with tractors.

1926 09 16

Sir – Will the Transport Authority please have a look at Mill Road junction with East Road, Cambridge. Corners are being rounded off and visibility increased in many parts but at this extremely busy point efforts seem to have been multiplied to prevent a safe flow of traffic. The large block of lavatories and the telephone kiosk form nuclei for masses of trees, shrubs and large flowering plants which entirely obstruct the view. Everyone enjoys greenery and colour, but in this instance they are in the wrong place, without doubt, and call for removal – “Safety First”

Noisy motor cyclist, p5

Ely cycling Russell Wright cup, p6

1926 09 17

P.C.Q – “Please Charleston Quietly” is the plea of all real dance lovers as was evidenced at the Rendezvous Ballroom, Cambridge, when demonstrations of the new Flat Charleston Waltz, Tango and Fox-Trot were given. In its new form, with all distasteful kickings and stampings eliminated, the Charleston will appeal to the most fastidious. The Rendezvous with its new decoration, improved sitting-out accommodation and the popular Nobby Clark and his band is assured of an even greater following.

1926 09 17 ES

New sugar beet loader invented by T.W. Clarke, Ely – 26 09 17 ES

1926 09 18

Sutton straying animals, p5

Cambridgeshire walking club, p7

Old writing at Ely, p8

1926 09 20

West Wickham property, p6

1926 09 21

Wallis' garage fire, p5*

Cottenham fen farm, p5

Silver jubilee – changes over 25 years, p6

1926 09 21

Deep regret will be felt of the news of the death of Councillor H.W. Hurrell of Newton Manor. A staunch Conservative he took a prominent interest in public affairs and was chairman of the County Education Committee since 1922. During his period many of the elementary schools have undergone great changes. He will always be remembered for the Newton School of Metal Work where boys produce beautiful works of art in copper, brass, silver and pewter which are sent all over the country as well as to America and India. "It is one of the finest things the village ever had", said a resident.

1926 09 22

Newmarket Urban Council has relaxed severe restrictions on the sale of English coal and is to increase permits to meet the requirements for the race weeks. It was also decided to commence full street lighting. But the regulations on the use of light for the purpose of advertisement and display allowed no exceptions and they prohibited all lighting beyond the minimum required to carry on the business or protest property. Although restrictions might be relaxed it is still of the first importance that all householders observe the utmost economy in the use of coal.

Coal directions, p5

1926 09 23

Cambridge Guardians received a complaint from a resident in Gwydir Street: "How much longer have we to put up with the filthy, stinking smoke which is belching forth from the Workhouse chimney in Mill Road. My little girl is delicate and it makes her so ill that I have to take her out of the house as the smoke penetrates every room, besides killing the flowers in our little garden and making our washing filthy". The black smoke was terrible and had made people ill. The Workhouse Master attributed the trouble to steam coal which had to be used.

1926 09 23

Cambridge Workers' Hospital Fund raised nearly £3,900 last year but expenses of Addenbrooke's Hospital were liable to increase. They were now installing new operating theatres, two of the women's wards were being remodelled to provide sanitary annexes and in the near future they would have to build a new ward on the top of Victoria. This all cost money and unless their income was increased they would have a drop in efficiency. It was a worry to know where the money was coming from. One bright spot was the parades; before the war they only received £600 from them, this year it would be over £4,000.

1926 09 24

A young man in Newnham Street, Ely, was digging sand from a pit and was using his pickaxe somewhat freely, when he struck a human skull. A further removal of the earth revealed the whole skeleton; around it was found very ancient pieces of pottery. Many years ago an old public house with the sign of The Cherry Tree stood on the spot and it was an occasional rule to have a "dust up" before some rowdy parties broke up at night-time, but the skull showed no marks of violence, except where the pick had come into contact with it. The remains were collected and carefully reburied.

Savings movement, p5

Melbourne Place cottages, p5

1926 09 24 ES

Ely angler T.A. Martin reminisces; Marquis of Granby fishing club started 1906 – 26 09 24 ES

1926 09 25

Rampton parents, p5

Hoaxing scientists, p6*

Longstanton & church, p6

1926 09 27

Another housing scheme, p5

Botanic Garden work, p6

1926 09 28

An article in "Country Life" relates to the house, no.21 Madingley Road Cambridge in a choice spot beside the Backs which is included in an auction sale. "Everyone knows that building is costly, but there will be curiosity as to how as much as £6,000 could be spent in building a house in which the chief accommodation consisted of only six bedroom. Some four years ago an American laid out that sum on the house which is he now vacating. The auctioneer have orders to treat on the basis of market value, not cost, so someone will get a bargain".

1926 09 28

We understand that Sir W. Graham Greene, K.C.B., of Harston, has been approached as to his standing as an Independent candidate for the vacancy on the County Council. He has had an interest in Harston since 1893 but official engagements at the Admiralty and Ministry of Munitions have prevented him hitherto from passing as much time in the County as he would have liked. His sisters, Miss Mary and Miss Helen Greene are well known for their public and philanthropic work and the new hall at Harston is largely due to their efforts.

1926 09 29

Murder & suicide, blazing car – Marshalls, p6

1926 09 30

The idea of demolishing a couple of dilapidated old houses in Melbourne Place to erect workshops and a caretaker's house at the Central Council School appeared repugnant to several members of Cambridge council but were adopted by a large majority. They contain kitchen, basement, one room on the ground floor and two bedrooms, one very small. The basements are unfit for habitation and very damp. There were no stoves. It would cost £100 to renovate the interior and exterior. The Mayor said it was not the time to demolish houses when there were 600 on the waiting list. Why were they unfit for habitation? They were half-buried by the rubbish from the school.

1926 09 20

Cambridge Town Council passed a scheme to provide houses to be let at a rent of 5s or 6s per week for people who cannot afford to pay more, and especially those with large families. A Utility Society is to lease building plots from the Corporation at nominal ground rent for the erection of the houses, the cost of which would not exceed £450 each. It was an effort to help men with families of three or four children who earned 35s or 45s a week & could not pay 7s 6d a week rent

1926 09 30

At the Newmarket Police Court a solicitor on behalf of Greene, King & Sons, brewers, said there was a real difficulty in Ashley in obtaining premises for the sub Post Office and he proposed that it should be attached to the Crown Public House. In order to do this it would be necessary to carry out structural alterations. Nobody could enter the public house through the Post Office, or the Post Office through the public house. If it were possible to get another property it would be desirable to do so as the language at a public house was not always of the best

October 1926 CDN

1926 10 01

Economy in gas, p2

Vice Chancellor retires, p5

Burwell fire, p5

Omnibus motion, p6

Dutch houses, p6

1926 10 01 ES

F. Hiam complains about delays in sending vegetables from Shippea Hill station – 26 10 01(2) ES

New drag-line dredger does work 40 men, Middle Fen Commissioners – 26 10 01 & (3) ES # c.29

1926 10 02

A mild sensation has been caused at Hemingford Abbots by a notice on the Rectory Gate. “Young persons and others have adopted a style of dress which is immodest and most objectionable. I disapprove strongly of the short skirts, bare necks and bare arms and hope women will wear more to cover themselves. In fact some cannot be said to be sufficiently clothed. I trust all women not to come to church so attired”. It is the work of the rector’s warden, Col. Charles Linton, a brisk, short, military-looking man who belongs to the Victorian era & speaks his mind bluntly.

New milk tank, p3

Cherry Hinton free church opening, p6

Swallowed by county, p7

Bus shelter, p8

1926 10 06

Waterbeach centenary, p5

Meteor, p6

Photographic record, p6*

1926 10 07

A public inquiry on the Cambridge Town Planning Scheme heard of problems with dust from the cement works. If the works were increased the dust must increase and if the material was ground finer it would be more difficult to collect. The smell from the Gas Works was merely unpleasant but the dust actually affected the health of the people who had to breathe it; they had the dust on their lungs and were permanently affected by it. The Company did not admit that the dust from their works is, or ever had been injurious to health.

1926 10 07

By the death of Mr Henry Flanders, chemist of Mill Road, Cambridge we feel we have lost a friend to whom we could have gone at all times for advice. We admired his knowledge and tact and the way he treated everybody alike. There was no distinction between rich and poor in his shop. He was the poor man’s guide, philosopher and friend. We who have in time of many ailments sought his friendly counsel have come away relieved by his cheery words. When it happened – fairly frequently – that a poor client had not at the moment the cash ready he would invariably say, “Oh, yes, yes, that’s all right”

1926 10 08

The Lord Lieutenant of Cambridgeshire opened the newly-acquired hall of the Cottenham British Legion. The branch, which numbers over 100 members, was formed in January 1923 and a short while ago received a substantial grant from the United War Services Funds which enabled them to take over "Pepys Hall" as their Headquarters. They had given a lead to other villages in the way of halls and if others followed the villages would be "snowballing up" in the getting of halls

Globe-trotter in Cambridge, p5

Prickwillow tenders, p5

1926 10 08 ES

Ouse Drainage Board objections to £140,000 South Level scheme – 26 10 08 ES

1926 10 09

Strawberries in October! Such a sight in the front window of Sambridge's in Petty Cury, Cambridge, promoted a CDN representative to ask some questions. They were grown within 15 miles of Cambridge on one of Messrs Chivers' farms and were picked that morning. In the future we may get English strawberries all the year round. Experiments are being carried on all over the country. And the strawberry season is reckoned to close in the middle of July! Life is full of wonders and disappointments!

Histon elm tree, p3

'Secretly damaged' workshop, p4

1926 10 11

Rail crash, Adelaide, p5

1926 10 12

Miss Olive Edis whose photographic portraiture is well-known in Cambridge has come again to St Columba's Hall. The collection is the fruit of many visits to Cambridge during recent years. There is an interesting collection of colour plates, some being fine examples of the Lumiere plate and others in the new gum-grain Agfa plate. The scarlet gowns make effective touches of colour and the portraits include Sir Arthur Shipley at the gateway of the Lodge at Christ's and a fine head of Sir J.J. Thomson which gives a far more natural portrait than most of his paintings, with colour. A view of King's College from the Backs is an exquisite example of what Miss Edis can do in landscape work and portraits of children and well-known nonagenarians and centenarians play an important part. # c.65.5

Rampton parents, p6

1926 10 13

Dr W.M. Palmer is chairman of the joint committee of the Cambridge Antiquarian Society and the Cambridge Photographic Club which is engaged in the formation of a collection of photographic records of old buildings and other objects of interest in the county, particularly those which are likely to disappear. He displayed 160 lantern slides made by him during the last two years of old houses, taken from the outside and from the inside, and a number of old photographs showing buildings now vanished and costumes that are no longer worn. The record will be of great value to the historian a hundred years hence.

1926 10 13

On Cesarewitch day Newmarket was invaded by big crowds and apart from the well-laden trains, large numbers of visitors were conveyed from all directions by motor vehicles and the new stand afforded a fine vantage point for thousands who have hitherto had to pack themselves into confined space. The volume of wagering by the general public is probably the smallest on record. That does not mean that there are not vast fortunes at stake over the race, because there has been some heavy wagering by some of the wealthy owners and when one looks at the list of owners and notes it includes names of eight or nine millionaires such a state of things is not surprising.

1926 10 14

Willingham flower show, p6

1926 10 15

The old Albert Institute, Grafton Street, Cambridge was the scene of great enthusiasm on the opening of new headquarters for the Cambridge Boy Scouts' Association which will supply a much-felt want. Afterwards the presentation of medals for athletics and swimming took place. An enjoyable sing-song followed and then a meeting of leaders who discussed the uses to which the headquarters could be put. Meanwhile refreshments were served to allay the pangs of hunger caused by such enthusiasm. Lantern slides on India and China were shown by Assistant Commissioner W.B. Gourlay and the evening closed with everybody in the best of spirits.

1926 10 15 ES

Turning beet into sugar – photos of unloading beet – 26 10 15(2) ES

Turning beet into sugar – photographs afford a splendid idea of tons of roots at present being taken into the Ely Beet Sugar Factory, where work is now in full swing. In the top picture enormous stocks of beet are seen waiting to be carried from the flumes into the factory to be converted into sugar, and below many tons of beet can be seen in a flume constructed this season. It is here that horse-drawn vehicles and motor lorries unload beet. This innovation enormously facilitates the important task of unloading beet – 26 10 15(2) ES

Ely railway smash signal box – photos - 26 10 15 ES

Ely railway smash: Photographs of the railway smash at Ely late on Saturday night show the signal box through the brick work of which two trucks were hurled. The front, which is covered in with tarpaulins, was completely carried away by the force of the impact. In the lower picture are the two trucks, one of which is being lifted clear of the lines on to a railway workshop train. By the side of the truck are some of the bricks which fell in when the front of the signal box was demolished. 26 10 15 ES

The Sydney Morning Herald recorded the death of Mr James Fuller of Day Creek, Scone. Australia in his 101st first year. He had been born in Soham on May the 15th 1826 and arrived at Newcastle 72 years ago. He worked for a considerable time in the construction gang on the great northern railway and settled in the Upper Hunter in 1877. He was one of the best-known men in the north, have a family of nine, five sons and one daughter survive. Two sons, James and John Fuller, were amongst the first white people to pioneer the Northern Territory where they remained for many years. There are 38 grandchildren, and 36 great grandchildren. The cutting was sent to the Ely Standard by A. Wiseman of New South Wales, who says "I thought it might be of interest to some of the Fuller, descendants of Soham. I'm a native of Soham myself and often get your paper sent out. 26 10 15(3)ES

1926 10 16

Car footboard alight, p3

Ashley post office, p3

Rampton appeal, p7

1926 10 18

Stretham Red Lion inquest, p3

Obsolete parish courts, p6*

1926 10 19

Cambridge sensation, p6

1926 10 20

Land fit for rabbits, p6*

Slum housing, p8*

1926 10 21

Ely bankruptcy, p3

Sawston general strike, p6*

1926 10 22

Soham Parish Council say that as their fair and feast were still wanted by the public the question of its abolition did not arise. Enquiries showed that many years ago the tolls had been taken by the Lord of the Manor, but certainly during the past 50 years he had neither taken tolls nor exercised any control. They have no knowledge by what rights the stalls are placed in the highway though a search had been made of old parish books and documents.

St Giles parish room, p7

1926 10 22 ES

Ely stationmaster, H. Everson, retiring – 26 10 22 ES

Serious mechanical breakdown place when one of the turbo alternators suddenly failed at the Ely Beet Sugar Factory and left the whole huge building with only one alternator. And as through this, the supplies of electrical lighting and power are furnished, the seriousness will be fully appreciated. At the time the factory was working at full pressure, and it was necessary to ease the amount of electricity used, cutting down as much as possible the amount of power required. As soon as the breakdown occurred engineers were busily engaged in an endeavour to overhaul the machinery.

Later in the day further trouble was experienced place when engineers went to start up a reserve gas engine which runs the dynamo, for the 'out of campaign' lighting set. This also broke down completely. The effect of this wasn't the factory was without any reserve lighting for the night. Even with this the troubles did not cease. As arrangements were being made to concerning this engine, the one remaining turbo alternator suddenly shorted and threw out a sheet of flames. Happily nothing caught fire. And no one experienced any harm. In consequence, the whole of the factory stopped dead, the lights went out, and everything was at a standstill.

After working all day and night, the engineers succeeded in getting one alternator to work but the pressure at which the factory is working has had to be materially reduced.

A spare alternator had to be bought from Ipswich on two large motor lorries, which drove through the night to reach Ely. But even with this place, it is difficult to say, when it will be able to resume work. It has been necessary to stop all supplies of beet 26 10 22ES

1926 10 23

The Officers' Training Corps range on Grange Road, Cambridge, has been closed down, having been condemned by a Military Board on account of the danger to Coton. The Cambridge University Rifle Association will for a time carry on shooting at the Territorial range on Coldham's Common. But there is a likelihood of this range being closed down too in the near future because the new road in course of erection will come up behind the butts. A united effort will be made to secure a sufficiently large area of land for the erection of a new, full-sized range.

Ambulances, p3

Fen Causeway, p6

1926 10 26

The Imperial War Graves Commission has undertaken on behalf of the Belgian Government to erect headstones over the graves of deceased members of the Belgian Forces in various cemeteries, including Cambridge. They will be made in Belgium and forwarded to this country for erection. There are two graves of Belgian soldiers in the Cambridge Borough Cemetery, two bodies being interred in each grave, and permission was given for the erection of the headstones.

Workhouse buildings, p6

Electricity line, p6

1926 10 27

An important new block is about to be opened as an extension of the Cambridge Poor Law Institution. The Mill Road workhouse received its first inmates in September 1838; just before Christmas married couples and the aged women arrived, and the sick and infirm were brought 'in fives' from the Poorhouse of St Sepulchre and St Mary-the-Less. As tea was then 3s.3d. a lb 'small beer' was allowed in its place and sometimes given in excess so the quantity was limited to one quart daily per inmate. It has served with certain alterations and additions for three generations but now is inadequate for present requirements. The new block contains sick wards, maternity wards and nurseries. It will prove very useful and be a credit to the town.

Council houses, p6*

1926 10 28

Fen Causeway, p6

1926 10 29

The name of a well-known onion – Nuneham Park – as a fitting one for the new recreation ground at Newnham, because of the many tears it has caused on the ground of cost, was suggested by Councillor Edwards at Cambridge council. Another name proposed was Lamentations Land as a perpetual reminder that they had been guilty of the most extravagant and wilful expenditure of public money. Finally the Council decided on Lammas Land. It would signify that the ground formerly opened during certain seasons of the year was now closed permanently against any private owner's rights and the public had the rights for the whole of the year.

1926 10 29

The Ministry of Health has been informed that in Dry Drayton meat, bacon and other foodstuffs sold from travelling motors and horse vans were contaminated by dust, petrol etc. The Council could do little in the matter. If the people found that their food was unclean they need not buy it from the vehicles about which the complaint was made.

Straying buds, p5

Speeding Ouse, p5

1926 10 29 ES

Beet factory effluent – 26 10 29 ES

Ely Coroner drew attention to the speed of steam boats and other craft using the river Ouse. He asked for directions be given to the River Board's employees not to exceed three or four miles an hour while passing through Ely, or in passing any other boats anywhere on the river. And as coroner, haven given this warning, the employees would run the risk of being committed to the Assizes for manslaughter. The Council Chairman said: We have a speed limit. All boats are supposed to conform to that. No action was taken. 26 10 29ES

1926 10 30

Cambridge Borough Surveyor submitted four schemes for the lay-out of land at the Cattle Market. The site comprised 11½ acres and was purchased about 1884 from Jesus College. The west side was used for vehicles of those attending the market, the east side was partly used for allotments and the question had arisen of developing part for conveniences, a free library and an abattoir, which was most important. The Railway Company wanted to provide up and down platforms at the station. It was unlikely the bridge would be widened for railway traffic was decreasing.

1926 10 30

Two aeroplanes from Duxford Aerodrome came down on Coldham Common, one being overturned and considerably damaged. One of the machines in a flight of five passing over Cambridge was observed to be in trouble. The single seater fighter had been engaged in firing practice at the Wash.

He made a good landing, coming to rest near the bathing-place with just a buckled wheel. A similar machine went to its assistance but was not so fortunate; it struck some bumpy ground and turned right over, coming to rest flat on its back with the wheels in the air.

1926 10 30

How does the cost of living at Cambridge today compare with the pre-war days so far as an undergraduate is concerned? A writer in the Morning Post says "With an income of £210 a year, I went down at the end of my fourth year owing a year's income; and my debts were accounted for by entertaining on a rather lavish scale during my last year. I know post-war undergraduates with an income of £250 who went down owing nothing." He says that nowhere in the world has the cost of living risen less & adds that University expenses are surprisingly reasonable.

Balsham British Legion, p7

November 1926 CDN

1926 11 01

The Mayor of Cambridge (Ald E.O. Brown) addressed the New Street Men's Bible Class, which was the outcome of the Ragged School. He took them back to the old school, before the new road to Sturton Street was made, and visualise the children that assembled outside. The teachers were devoted to their work. There were working parties where shirts were made for the boys and petticoats for the girls. Public houses were numerous, rows and fights were the order of the day. There were fighting men prepared to take on all comers, rat catchers, beer tasters. Those days had passed and gone, and they were benefiting from the seed that was sown by the devoted teachers many years ago

1926 11 02

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle presented a "creepy" evening among ectoplasms, spirits, and the like at St Catharine's college, Cambridge. The hall was crowded with an audience of dons and undergraduates to hear the famous novelist talk on "Psychic Experiences". He had postponed an earlier visit as the college was in mourning for its Master & his doctor had ordered him not to come now because of a bad cold. But he had disobeyed, thinking that if for the second time he did not materialise – laughter – they would imagine he had no objective existence at all. He showed a photograph of the crowd round the Cenotaph on Armistice Day; above a small band of spiritualists hung a vapour comprising faces of young men killed in the war.

1926 11 04

No little excitement was caused when an undergraduate, fully-clothed and wearing cap and gown, jumped off the Magdalene Bridge into the river, using an umbrella as a parachute. A film record of the exploit was taken by Lord Burghley, the famous athlete, who had his baby film camera mounted on the top of his motor car. The undergraduate, being hard up, had hit on this idea as a way of getting money and has netted enough to keep him for a week or two in pocket-money

1926 11 05

Rentokill advertisement, p3

Rag, p8

Great retreat, p8

1926 11 05 ES

Ely beet factory's seven tugs and 100 barges – 26 11 05(2) # c.26.3

1926 11 06

Ely Guardians new ward, p3

Drummer Street, p6*

1926 11 08

Walking cyclist, p3*

Duxford court martial, p5

'Raggers' appreciation police, p6

1926 11 11

For two minutes Cambridge stood still in silent homage to the glorious dead. Everywhere the Great Silence was religiously observed. As the hour approached a general atmosphere of expectancy enveloped the whole town until just before the great moment arrived a significant hush seemed to fall, and those in the street trod softly in fear unless they should disturb the slumbers of the sacred dead. As the bells of the Catholic church struck the hour a faint boom followed by a reverberating explosion from the direction of Parker's Piece announced that the fateful two minutes had arrived, and traffic and pedestrians came to a simultaneous standstill.

C.U.M.S. children's concert, p3

General Strike sequel, p6

1926 11 12

The Rev G.A. Studdert Kennedy, M.C., better known as "Woodbine Willie" spoke at the great Armistice Day at the Cambridge Guildhall. It was packed for the meeting and some hundreds were accommodated in the Corn Exchange where they heard the proceedings by loud speaker. There was a tradition growing up round Armistice Day which was bound to have a great deal to do with the making or marring of the human race in the future. War was a great folly, a great madness, a great tragedy. "I will love the things for which they died; and I will hate with a bitter and lasting hate the things that brought them to their deaths", he said.

1926 11 12

A deeply moved audience cheered and sang when some forty local heroes of the Great Retreat, some in uniform and all wearing their medals, lined the stage at the conclusion of the first performance of "Mons", the great war film, at the Central Cinema, Cambridge. It was a memorable scene and showed very clearly how much Cambridge admired the part they played in the immortal episode. By special invitation 100 men of the Cambridgeshire Regiment also witnessed the performance. Some of the Cinema staff saw war service and were displaying their medals. "Buttons" sold his chocolates and cigarettes wearing two medals won by his father, who was killed in the war.

Undergraduate shell-out, p5

1926 11 12 ES

Ely High School comes of age – 21 years of progress feature – 25 11 12 ES

A meeting of the Isle of Ely Educational Committee held on the 26th of June 1904 agreed that a secondary school for girls should be opened at Ely. It was the first step in the formation of the Ely Girls High School, which has become one of the most important girls' secondary schools in the district. It celebrated its coming of age, combining the anniversary with the annual speech day. The army hut which is capable of helping a large number of persons was well-filled with past and present scholars.

From its very start the school had been identified with Miss Fletcher and it would be difficult to put into words what the school owes to her. She had put up with a building which was so ill-adapted to the requirements of the school with many difficulties of carrying it on. The waste of war had affected prejudicially the educational programmes in the county.

Miss Fletcher said schools made it possible for really intelligent children, of whatever class of society, to receive a good education up to the age of 16 or 18 and create a way for the more intelligent to pass on to a place of higher education. They had over 600 pupils in the roll book and of these 100 were boys.

She referred to the scene in the large room, with the rounded bay, in May 1905. Seated in the room were 42 girls subdued, silent and shy. Amongst them was the Bertha Sennitt, age 12, who won a county scholarship, first class honours in the Cambridge Senior, then a mathematical bursary to the Royal Holloway College and afterwards was the beloved mistress of the school for five years. Included amongst her hopes for the future was the building of a permanent two-storey block to replace the hut, containing an assembly hall, cloak room, art room and several school rooms, and the end of the exposure of staff and girls to all weathers in passing from one part of the building to the other.

In 1906 the first hockey practice was held. In spite of the fact they had hire playing fields and could only play on stated days, they had a hockey eleven comparable with any in the Eastern Counties

1926 11 13

Poppies, p5*

Undergraduate escape, p6

1926 11 15

Poppy record, p5*

1926 11 16

Cossacks, p6

Etchings, p6*

1926 11 17

Casuals admission, p6

1926 11 18

Bookmaker claim, p6

1926 11 19

A Cambridge dispenser claimed he used drugs to make up "pick-me-ups" for undergraduates in the morning. The judge: "Do they require 'pick-me-ups' in the morning?" (Laughter.) "They do things now that we never thought of". He made them up out of his head, usually mixing three tinctures. They were drunk in a wineglass of water. They were used every day during term time. The undergraduates looked something of a wreck in the morning and owed to having had a little refreshment at night. (Laughter.)

1926 11 19

When the new Festival Theatre in Newmarket Road, Cambridge, opens on Monday a fresh phase in the history of the Drama in England will have commenced. Without destroying the principle of the old Theatre Royal, with its memories of the old Regency days, the promoters of this new venture have so adapted the building that it is the most modern and up-to-date in England. The new stage gradually merges into the stalls by a series of shallow steps, behind is a revolving middle stage backed by a raised and sliding backstage with the cylindrical cyclorama as its background. The lighting will be a special feature and the theatre will be warmed by a central heating system.

Complaint undergraduate, p5

1926 11 19 ES

Mr & Mrs George Richardson of Top Street Stretham celebrate golden wedding.

Mr & Mrs George Richardson of Top Street Stretham celebrated their Golden Wedding. Mr Richardson served his apprenticeship in the painting and decorating trade at Chatteris then moved to Stretham where he set up a business of his own as a sign writer

Despite his great age he entertains no fears of mounting a ladder and working on a sign over a shop.

"Only yesterday I was in Ely and put 25 names on a board. I do most of the signs in Ely and have done 200 this year. I have painted the clock faces at Stretham, Sutton and Wilburton but these are a bit too much for me now. I could do the work, but the height is too great. I do ten times more work now than I ever did before."

When a boy he used to commence work at 6.30 and continue until six at night. Sign writing has increased to an enormous extent and much bigger demands are made upon the writer's skill. "In the old days we used to turn out signs painted in an ordinary way, but now business people demand much more elaborate letters in gold", he says

In the 65 years he has been a Wesleyan local preacher he has travelled all over the circuit. In the early days he walked everywhere he went preaching, walking as many as 500 miles in a year. His Wife Eleanor was the only child of the late John Savage, and was born in the snug little house she now occupies. For 14 years she played the organ at the Wesleyan church had treasures a magnificent clock they presented her on her marriage. 26 11 19ES & (2) – photo

1926 11 20

The County Agricultural Organiser gave an interesting lecture on the destruction of rats at Lt Shelford village hall. People did not pay enough attention to the rat menace. There were far too many rats about Cambridge for his liking and if they held a Little Shelford Rat Week it would do a world of good. Everybody should kill rats whenever they got the change. If each person killed one a week it would be doing some good.

Lansbury speech, p3

1926 11 22

Many people have asked how it is that the CDN is able to get later news in its columns than can be obtained in the London evening papers sold at the same time on the streets of Cambridge. This is due to the Creed System of news-getting, by private wire installed between our offices at Cambridge and the Press Association Offices in Fleet Street. The news is collected, sub-edited and sent to the telegraph room where an operator transfers the scrip on to a paper slip in Morse for transmission. At the CDN offices a Creed receiver transfers the signals on to a paper tape which passes through a printer and is transposed into script at an average speed of about 80 words per minute. The operators at each end of the wire are able to talk to each other in Morse for the purpose of queries.

1926 11 23

Festival Theatre opening, p6

1926 11 24

A Kedington farmer was summonsed for the recovery of wages due for harvest work. The men knew they were to be paid on acreage but they did not know how much per acre until they had finished. All they had to do was the carting and that took 14 days. The usual amount for a man to take at harvest in the way of carting was 30 to 35 acres but in this case they averaged only 19½ [AND A HALF] acres for which they were paid £6 17s which was 7s per acre for with 6d extra. If a man was not employed during the whole of the harvest period on harvest work he was only entitled to a portion of the bonus.

1926 11 24

Addenbrooke's Hospital has launched an appeal for funds to start a scheme of radium treatment, which is invaluable for the treatment of malignant diseases but cannot be generally administered because of the very high cost. At present they have to pay for the hire of a supply of radium and apparatus when it was needed. About £900 is required to obtain a minimum supply and the necessary apparatus. Once obtained it could be let out on hire and produce an income. It would be the most valuable gift the hospital could receive. Cambridgeshire is not a rich county but there are people rich enough and beneficent to make the gift.

1926 11 24

The Cambridge Electricity Supply Company is one of the oldest in the country, having been formed in 1892. It was the first in the world to adopt condensing steam turbines, now used everywhere in all large electricity generating stations. A suitable site for the generating station had to be found where large quantities of water for condensing were available and as the Corporation had insisted this should be within the Borough the site on Quayside was chosen. By 1900 the site was too cramped and is now somewhat obsolete. They must decide whether to provide an up-to-date generating station or purchase a bulk supply from elsewhere.

1926 10 25

Sir – At my home we have adopted the penny-in-the-slot system for the use of gas. One would think that, after placing a penny in the meter, we had fully paid for the gas to be consumed until the light fails. According to the collector it is not so, for having taken what he finds in the meter he demands two or three shillings more. This appears to me to be a slip-shot way of doing business and I hope gas consumers will raise a strong protest – “A Gas Consumer”. Sometimes the users of the penny-in-the-slot machine get some pennies returned – Ed.

Pick-me-up allegations, p6

1926 11 26

Workhouse dance, p8

1926 11 27

The Cambridge Central Conservative Club in Market Passage was gutted by fire in the early hours of the morning. There were a large number of trade premises nearby and the task of saving the club, with flames nearly 100 feet high, appearing a hopeless one the Fire Brigade concentrated on confining the conflagration to the one building. Had there been a strong wind a centre of shopping would have been destroyed. The Central Hall, which had been booked for many social events for months ahead, suffered severely. The billiards room, which contained four splendid tables also suffered considerably; two of the tables fell through the floor. The club was opened in February 1888

Electricity supply, p8

1926 11 29

Rural Community Council, p3

Conservative Club fire, p7

December 1926 CDN

1926 12 01

A Dullingham youth pleaded guilty to a charge of assault. Complainant said he was driving at night when the defendant, who was standing in the road, fired a pistol in his face. The powder scorched his face all down the side and he was obliged to pull up his car because he could not see. The wad of the pistol hit him in the face and was like a lot of hot pins going into his face. The lad said he fired the pistol for a lark so that the sound of the revolver would make the motor driver think he had a burst tyre. The pistol was confiscated.

1926 12 02

The official testing took place of the bridges along the new road through Coe Fen, The Fen Causeway. They are Snobbs' Bridge, Flood Water Bridge and the River Bridge. The last is the most important and five steam rollers and one steam tractor, together weighing 63 tons were driven across it, passing each other, thus making 63 tons rolling weight, equivalent to about 100 tons dead weight. The Cambridge Borough Surveyor and councillors boarded a punt and viewed the deflectometer under the bridge, which gave a satisfactory reading. The foundations consist of 100 piles of 40 feet length, weighing about four tons each

1926 12 03

Ely Guardians heard a complaint from a vagrant of a shortage of accommodation in the casual ward of the workhouse which was full up with Beet Sugar Factory employees who paid 1s per night. There was no registered common lodging house in Ely but the workhouse was for destitute people and not for those with money in their pockets. But some of them concealed what money they had. If they filled the casual wards with people with money what were they going to do with the poor chaps who really were down and out? Some of the casuals were looking for work. If the Beet Factory did not take them on they would only go on the land and take jobs from agricultural labourers. Last year there were 60 or 70 living at the Jam Factory. The matter was left to the discretion of the Master

1926 12 04

Cambridge people who have relatives abroad will be interested in the scheme for sending Christmas cards by cable which is being "pushed" this year. Originally inaugurated by the Eastern Telegraph Company they are now becoming the rule. Greetings may be sent to South Africa, Australia, China, Japan and South America. The minimum charges are for messages of ten words, the rate being 5s to Australia. The telegrams will be delivered on seasonably-designed forms.

Boatbuilder's action, p4

1926 12 06

Electricity, p8

1926 12 07

Two houses were destroyed as a result of a fire which broke out at Willingham. A young man named Cecil Denson noticed a fire at the back of a house in Church Street occupied by Walter Munns and found that a beam of an outhouse and the thatch was on fire. The alarm was raised and the occupants taken to safety, some of the furniture also being removed. Willingham Volunteer Fire Brigade turned out but soon the house was ablaze, as was another thatched house next door occupied by Mrs Hopkins, a widow.

Peace message, Cambridge & Newmarket, p6

1926 12 08

There have been complaints of certain effluent entering the parish ditches at Histon and Impington and Messrs Chivers had approached Cambridge Borough Council to draw up a scheme whereby sewage could be taken by means of pipes to the Cambridge sewage farm. The parish council had not been asked to be parties and it raised the question whether they should work jointly with Chivers. It would cost a considerable amount of money. There had been talk of Histon and Impington being taken over by the Borough of Cambridge. If so the cost would be borne by the whole of the people in it, to the great advantage of the village. Extensive building was going on and it would not be long before they built up to the boundary.

1926 12 08

Ely ratepayers association discussed traffic in the streets which is becoming absolutely dangerous. One-way traffic was not nearly so necessary as in towns such as Cambridge and there would be opposition. It would be very difficult to manage. The best way was to have special parking places for the buses where they could drop off passengers. The problem would be solved if buses were parked in the Palace Green. There have been as many as 25 different vehicles in Market Street and 14 cars in the Cattle Market. Mr Rickwood said the trouble was from people putting their carts in the main streets; they were often left outside public houses from 10 am to 4 pm and in Brays Lane it was nearly impossible to pass.

Ickleton church hall, p5*

1926 12 09

Fen Causeway, the new and important link between Newnham and the rest of Cambridge, was opened by the Mayor. The bridge and its approaches were gaily decorated with bunting and presented a colourful scene. The project of relieving Silver Street traffic had started as long ago as 1904 and discussion had gone on for nearly 20 years before the Town Council approved the plan in 1923. Nine proposals had been put forward and had it not been for the urgency of the unemployment question the same position would have existed today, only instead of nine there might have been nineteen different schemes (Laughter)

1926 12 10

Soham Grammar School – Beechhurst, p3

Businessmen & cars, p6

Slums a blot, p7

Rents Kings Hedges & Suez Road, p8

1926 12 11

Ely traffic, p3

Electricity station or bulk supply, p5

1926 12 14

Banham gifts, p8

1926 12 15

A Haslingfield youth, serving an apprenticeship at Messrs King and Harper's, Cambridge, had a miraculous escape when a car in which he was seated fell 19 feet from a lift in the garage to the concrete floor beneath. The lad, who had little experience of driving, got into a light car which was in the lift and endeavoured to reverse it in order to park it on one of the upper floors. Instead of putting it into reverse, he put the gear in the first speed and the car, shooting forward, turned a complete somersault, crashing on to the concrete floor below, with the driver underneath. The car was badly damaged and the youth taken to Addenbrooke's Hospital.

1926 12 16

Sir – As a member of the Cambridge branch of the College of Nursing I should like to say a few words against the profession being organised on trades union lines. Nursing is not a trade, it is a profession. It seems the thin edge of the wedge for discontent, strikes and everything that undermines the proper spirit of the work. Nursing would become a “mundane job” instead of a “noble profession” and so all the greatness would be lost out of the service – D. Clarke, Royston

1926 12 16

The Cambridge Camera and Wireless Co. of Alexandra Street offers a very complete range of component parts or complete wireless sets. The famous Pye sets can be seen in their windows, also the self-contained “Britamax All-Wave” receivers. Specialities of this firm include reliable, but cheap, H.T. batteries, valves and loud speakers.

1926 12 16

It may not be generally known to the Cambridge public that Mr Carne, the manager of the Playhouse, Mill Road, is the “Victor Carne” who figures in the record list of the Vocalion Gramophone Co. He has recorded “The Holy City” and “The Star of Bethlehem” for their Christmas list and these and other of his records are obtainable at Messrs Leavis's, Regent Street. Wireless enthusiasts will no doubt remember the many times he has sung from London and Daventry.

1926 12 17

“Daisy Lee” was summoned for professing to tell fortunes to the wife of P.S. Hillier of Ely constabulary. She made a picturesque figure in court and said she was a member of the old and well-known family of Gypsy Lee. She was born in a caravan and called a gypsy. She carried on a business as a “character reader” and had stood in Ely Market Place often on market days without any complaint being made. Mrs Hillier said he had visited Lee's caravan at St John's Farm, Ely, had handed over a half-crown and been told to make a lucky wish. The gypsy then told her she had had a lot of worry and trouble – which was not true – and that she had a very good husband. The Bench fined Lee £10 and 10s costs and said she “must consider herself lucky they had not given her three month's hard labour”. The money was paid forthwith

Waterbeach share-out club, p6

1926 12 18

Struggle in train, p5

Tramps, p7

Unattended cars, p8

1926 12 20

Premier Dance Hall, p6

1926 12 21

Saffron Walden magistrates heard an application on behalf of a number of licence-holder for an extension of hours on the occasion of the share-outs of the respective slate clubs. The houses had a large number of members – some as many as 150. Many of them were bricklayers working out of the town and it was not possible to commence sharing out before 7.30. It was 10 o'clock before it was finished and up to 11 pm the members desired to have refreshment and a “sing-song”. The police said they had no objection. The application was not granted.

Electricity supply question, p8

1926 12 22

Colonel Archer told Ely council that the congested state of the streets on market days was growing serious because of the large number of buses. Brays Lane had to take a very large share of the traffic because it was a short cut to the Beet Sugar Factory and was dangerous. The Chief Constable said there were three kinds of vehicles: the farmers' carts, the private cars and the motor 'buses. He did not think they could compel the farmer to put his cart some distance from where his horse was. They did not want to drive trade away. The only solution was there must be no parking of private cars other than in places specially allotted to them; the council must decide where these should be. All setting-down and taking up of bus passengers should occur between the junction of Lynn Road and Market Street and the Sun public house.

Newmarket fever hospital, p3

Haddenham Cross Keys hanging, p5

1926 12 23

Haddenham publican hanged, p6

1926 12 24

We regret to record the death at his residence of Mr Thomas Strangeways, Lecturer on Special Pathology in the University and Director of the Research Hospital. He did a good deal of research in rheumatoid arthritis but had recently been very keen on the cultivation of animal cells in the test tube and was one of the pioneers in this work

Wireless, p6*

1926 12 24 ES

Gorefield motor garage destroyed by fire – 26 12 24(3) ES

Something like £350 damage was caused by a fire which broke out in a motor garage and shed belonging to Mr. Joseph Scrimshaw, Decoy Farm, Gorefield. The wooden structures, which were lined with asbestos, and a Maxwell touring car were completely destroyed by the outbreak which burned very fiercely. Flames illuminated the sky for miles around. The maroon was sounded and in five minutes the brigade with its pump was ready. Within 15 minutes they were on the scene having covered a distance of four and a half miles. It was then seen that two buildings were involved and there was a likelihood of a third, a grocer's shop belonging to the same owner becoming a prey to the flames. At this time, the roofs of the garage and shed had fallen in and brigade directed their attention to preventing the spread to the shop. Fortunately, a deep drain runs beside the premises and plenty of water was available. The pump was soon working on the fire which was quickly overcome, so that the shop received nothing worse than a slightly charred side. 26 12 24ES

Haddenham inquest on William Dearman, landlord Cross Keys, Hillrow – 26 12 24 ES

1926 12 28

Christmas Day and the two following days will be fully occupied in the good old-fashioned way; then will come the reaction and the question will arise, what to do with the children. Pearl Lambeth will help to solve that problem by presenting her annual children's' pantomime, "Betty and the Fairies", at Cambridge Guildhall together with a spectacular ballet and a good old harlequinade to follow. The programme certainly looks attractive and it is hoped that Cambridge will accord her bumper houses as a reward for her enterprise.

1926 12 28 c

Expectations of a white Yuletide were not realised this Christmas. The weather Harlequin at the last minute performed one of his celebrated quick-change acts and brought a sulky drizzle which lasted all day. The visit of the Helder football team from Holland proved a considerable attraction to the Town ground on Christmas morning and there was a fair attendance at the local Derby between the Abbey and the Swifts. Apart from this there was little to tempt folk abroad and happy family gatherings round the home fire, fortunately replenished since the resumption of work in the coal mines, were the order of the day.

1926 12 29

Mr J.G. Davies of Histon had another long jaunt on his two-speed hand-propelled invalid chair just before Christmas. He left Histon intending to go to Manchester but when he arrived at Leicester decided to come back again. A considerable part of the journey was done by night and he had several little adventures on the road including a collision with a milestone and being thrice stopped by tramps, one of whom threatened violence. "He became so wild that as I could not defend myself very well in my chair I had to resort to the gun which I carry with me on these little journeys and, pulling it out, I threatened him with it, so he cleared off, to my relief", he said.

1926 12 29

The Agricultural Wages Committee met to receive objections to the reduction of the minimum wage of special classes of workers under 18 years of age from 30s to 27s a week for the customary hours for men employed as horsemen, cowmen or shepherds, and limiting the minimum wages of 12s provided for boys under 15 years to boys of 14. The committee could extend the definition of overtime to include work on particular days. This had been done in the case of special workers in glasshouses in Hertfordshire where all work after 12 o'clock on Christmas Day was treated as overtime.

1926 12 29

A pleasing little ceremony took place at Hildersham when the Mayor of Cambridge (Ald J.S. Conder), who is a native of the village, was presented with an address. Though the population has decreased somewhat of recent years, the inhabitants make up by enthusiasm what they lack in numbers and the mayor received a very hearty welcome back to his old village. The rector said that if anybody had attempted 25 years ago to predict that the Mayor of Cambridge would be a native of Hildersham they would have been disposed to ask in wonder: "can so great an honour belong to so small, so poor and so unknown a place?" They believed that the honour which had been conferred upon him would live in the annals of the village

1926 12 31

The Great Ouse River Board heard that a number of stages had been erected on the banks of the Ten Mile River and the Wissey for loading sugar beet. The banks in many cases had been cut. Furthermore in loading the beet on to barges a quantity of earth was allowed to fall into the river. It should be made clear this should not be done without the approval of the Board. Sir Fred Hiam proposed notices be printed so the factories could sent one to each farmer who contracted with them to supply beet.

Newmarket workhouse wireless, p6

1927 Cambridge Daily News

I have copies of the articles summaries or marked, they seem not to have been scanned*

January to December 1927

Includes articles appearing in the Ely Standard

January 1927 CDN

1927 01 01

The Christmas holidays passed off very pleasantly in Cambridge and the great majority of workers no doubt appreciated to the full the four days' respite from their labours. But the arrangements with regard to closing on Tuesday were far from satisfactory, the multiple shops being the main cause of trouble. For traders who deal in perishable goods the problem is difficult and some did not see their way to agree to the fourth day. With such confusion it was hardly to be expected that any considerable section of the public would go shopping on Tuesday and it is doubtful if those who did reopen then found it really worthwhile.

Stokesley laundry, p3

Welcome 1927*

1927 01 07 ES

An old bargee's reminiscences: canal traffic in the fens 60 years ago by Isaac Collett; Waterman's hours – all hours. My father used to put me on the horse while the man rested on one of the barges. Sometimes he would shout "Boy! You're asleep" and I would answer "Well I may be, I didn't have any rest last night".

I remember when 10,000 tons of coal were taken from the Nene at Wisbech to Cambridge for the Lighting Company there. It used to go through the Wisbech Canal, having been brought to Wisbech my sailing ships (and afterwards steamers). The sluice keeper, Benson Woolhand, used to take so much money that he daren't go to sleep. You could not get canal shares for love or money. The charge made was 6d per ton and we kicked up several 'rows' about it, because we used to charge freightage for gravel at so much a yard and had to pay at the rate of 1½ tons per yard – the eighth being what we paid for carriage

The last time my gang of lighters came through the Canal, I came from Whittlesey with a cargo of gravel for Elm Bridge. I went to Jessop, who then kept the lock, because the sluice doors were locked. He said 'Yes – they have been locked and they are going to keep locked. The Company's closed the canal'. I asked him what I was to do with the gravel and he answered "I don't know". So I said I would go and see someone. I went to Jackson's office – Mr Edward Hugh Jackson – and the clerk there declared "It's private property, we can do as we like. We shan't open it any more"

With us gangling so, Mr Jackson came in ... he said "It doesn't pay". I fired up and challenged him: "It paid in your father's time – you made fortunes out of it". He said, "I shan't open it if you argue for a month". I then said "I shall be here tomorrow morning with a certificate demanding £10 a day for as many days as you keep me outside". He said, "You'll get nothing if you do – we have nothing".

“I thought I could walk, but the clerk got to the lock first, and the gates were opened for me immediately. There was not enough water that night, but we got through the lock next day and discharged the cargo at Elm. That was the last time the local gates were opened. I told Mr Jackson, incidentally, that he must have an Act of Parliament to close the canal”.

Here Mr Collett broke off to descant on the serious position that would arise if the sea gates burst and allowed the tide to flow in. It is his serious opinion that in such a case Elm, Fridaybridge and Emneth would be flooded. He remembers when there was a flood from the Canal which extended to St Augustine's Church. That same Sunday night Sutton Bridge dock 'blew'. He was fetched out on the Monday morning and literally never 'took his shoes off; until the next Saturday night.

This led Mr Collett to shed an interesting sidelight on local history. He saw the Sutton Bridge dock catastrophe from a special point of view. He had told the contractor when he was building the dock of the risk he was running in not adequately protecting the entrance gates. There was an apron extending out 60 ft but this was a delusive protection. On this particular Sunday evening as the result of the great weight of water, the piling began to give way and the quicksand boiled up until a hole was made, and the water started boring under the threshold. Mr Collett was called in to drop clunch down to fill the hole, and although 220 tons were deposited in one night, the hole was deeper than ever in the morning, and all the labour had been ineffective.

The antagonism that was created between Wisbech and Sutton Bridge was well indicated as Mr Collett continued his narrative.

“Wisbech were 'dead' on the Sutton Bridge dock”, he said. “They wanted it at Wisbech, but the gunny part was that as soon as the dock 'blew' they came to Wisbech for help. They knew I had a cargo of clunch here – as a matter of fact there were 220 tons belonging to the Wisbech Corporation. The dock people thought if they could get that it would hold the breach. They came and made me an offer, but I said, as it was for the Corporation, I did not know whether I should be justified in letting them have it. They said, 'Go and see the Mayor'. Ald. Ford was Mayor at that time and Mr Poole the Surveyor. I went and called them both up, but, knowing how keenly they opposed the dock being at Sutton Bridge, I had little hope of getting permission. However, what the Mayor said was, 'Now you have the chance of your life. We will let you have the clunch all right, but you must charge your own price for it'”

“You may bet your life I did” (proceeded Mr Collett, with evidence relish as the memory of the deal). “I told them my price – and it was a little bit extra, and all they said was 'Bring it all' – they were so anxious to get it. But when I got it there it melted away like snow under a mild rain”

Mr Collett was commissioned to get all the gangs of lighters he could find to rush clunch down to Sutton Bridge to save the dock. After three days and nights of it – travelling in trains and every other way to get to the owners, he felt he could not go on. The clunch was dropped on the sill and in front of it during the ebb of the tide. “I took a good mess of the stuff down, but I didn't expect it to stand – I said it wouldn't. And I was right”

“I was there”, he went on, “when they put the 'Gallant' in the dock and 'went on', and was so pleased to see the first ship got in. When I got there on the Monday morning I never saw a man more 'cut up'. He sunk some month there!”

Mr Collett often travelled from Wisbech to Northampton – 121 miles by water, and he was familiar with every inch of the way. There were some hazardous journeys when the floods prevailed, and he remembers mooring barges to the railway bridge at Peterborough when the sleepers and metals were lifted out of position. In such difficult days he took risks, and on one journey netted £100 which he characterised as a slice of good luck.

His memory of Whittlesey Mere is of a different place from what it is today, because there could be storms there then were by no means pleasant things to have to weather. His father carried the stone to make the first road when Whittlesey Mere was drained, completing three trips a week – which was not losing any time.

The drinking capacity of the bargemen is well exemplified in several anecdotes Mr Collett tells, but one of the most amusing of his stories deals with the vicissitudes of a trip when the floods carried a gang of lighters into the churchyard at Water Newton. The lighters had got adrift and were fouling the gravestones, when the parson came along and declared he would rather have any of the stones damaged than a beautiful marble memorial which was in imminent danger. Everything was done by Mr Collett and his men to prevent this being broken, but in his anxiety the parson began to swear. Somebody reproved him for his impatience and instanced the behaviour of Job under his afflictions. “Job”, ejaculated his reverence – “he never had a gang of lighters in his churchyard” – 27 01 07 ES

1927 01 03

The Cambridgeshire Chief Constable reported he had carefully considered the question of the retention of the parish constables and hoped the committee would agree to retaining them as he felt they were quite worthy of the duty they were called upon to do. Many members of the force were from time to time taken for special duty in connection with racing. On such occasions it was important to have parish constables. It gave a sense of security when the regular members of the force were away. In the prospect of a riot or disturbance when a regular policeman was not at hand, the parish constable was the one man for organising some method of maintaining order.

Corn Exchange roof, p5

1927 01 04

A part of twenty Cambridge undergraduates who are paying a social visit to New York are providing the citizens and police with incidents amusing and sometimes thrilling. One borrowed a fast sports car and gave the police an opportunity of testing the pace of their large red car. Chased down Fifth Avenue he was able to turn into a side street while the heavier police car was compelled by its momentum to continue straight on. By the time it had returned he had disappeared into the intricacies of Greenwich Village and was lost. He has also dived into the Hudson River, in order to do which he had to cut a hole through the ice which was six foot thick.

1927 01 05

College servants ball, p6

1927 01 06

Cambridge council agreed to spend £7,653 on the reconstruction and widening of Victoria Avenue. The scheme was criticised on the grounds that it would tempt motorists to increase their speed along the avenue. The Surveyor said that the railings should go back an extra 11 feet as far as the trees, making the road 55 feet. Chesterton wanted a vehicular bridge at Walnut Tree Avenue which would carry much of the traffic, but this had been coming for the last 35 years and it had not come yet (laughter).

1927 01 06

Sir – I am surprised to find the facilities for the Cambridge business man to play golf are so small. They can never get a round as the courses are so far from the town that they cannot get there. It is not everybody who can afford a car or motor cycle. They would welcome a municipal or public golf course near Cambridge and I am sure if the Town Council could entertain the idea of establishing a course it would be a paying concern – Robin

1927 01 07

Fuel officer, p6

1927 01 08

At Hildersham dances play an important part in the evening's entertainment. The foxtrot, which is universally accepted as the most popular present-day dance, has to bow its head to the valeta and the lancers, both of which appear to be great favourites with the inhabitants. One seldom hears of these dances nowadays and few would believe that young people participated, and what is more, enjoyed them. It is a village not ashamed of indulging in what the inhabitants like – however old the dances may be.

1927 01 08

Mr A.E. Stubbs said that housing conditions in some part of rural Cambridgeshire were worse than in any other parts of England and were a national scandal. Race-horses were better housed than some agricultural labourers. He knew cottages that one would not put a pig in where there were six, seven or eight people in two rooms; where a curtain had to be drawn across a bedroom for a mixed family of boys and girls, and where a woman had to put the food in an old tin trunk at night or there would be no food in the morning owing to the depredations of the denizens of the forests – rats ran over the beds and ate the food.

1927 01 08

A verdict of "Accidental Death whilst in the course of his employment owing to an error of judgement on the part of the driver" was returned on a Soham roadman. He was at work with a steam roller on the Stetchworth to Dullingham road. A motor car came along, ran over the rough gravel and stopped twelve yards passed the roller. This had occurred hundreds of times; if a car came over rough metal in high gear it often stopped. The roadmen always helped & had given them a push. This time the driver, instead of getting into third gear, somehow got into reverse and on letting in the clutch the machine ran back and crushed the man between the car and the road roller.

1927 01 10

Police at church, p6

1927 01 12

C.E. Goodrich spoke of 'Some joys and sorrows of a professional photographer'. A very irritating thing that every portraitist experienced was when a lady bought back her proofs with the statement that neither she nor any of her friends knew for whom they were intended; no one recognised them, in fact. On one occasion the complaint was met by a profuse apology from the photographer for having in error sent her another lady's proofs. Woe to the photographer who, catering for the general public in a moment of inspiration sought to apply some of the principles of art by suppression of some surplus furniture so as to allow the face of his sitter to become the centre of interest, for he would be thought to be working with a defective lens and not giving value for money. – 27 01 12

1927 01 12

The Chief Constable, Mr R.J. Pearson said that when he came to Cambridge there used to be only one or two policemen on point duty, whereas now there were seven or eight. The force had not been increased so one had to scheme accordingly. During the past year nearly 2,000 bicycles were found in the streets; up to Thursday morning there were 300 at the Police Station but 70 had been claimed that day. One seldom saw a drunken man in the streets and returns showed they were one of the best towns from this point of view.

Victoria Avenue, p3

1927 01 15

Rating compensation, p6*

1927 01 17

Deep regret is felt at the news of the death of Mr Frederick James Stoakley, chief laboratory assistant at the Chemical Laboratory for fifty years. He made a life-time study of colour photography and made the first 'three colour' photograph seen in Cambridge. He was one of the first to handle the Autochrome plate and produced some remarkable renderings of chemical objects. He was in great demand as a lecturer on colour photography and his photographic studies have been exhibited in all the big exhibitions. He was one of the founders & past President of the Cambridge Photographic Society

Ouse drainage, St Ives, p3

1927 01 18

H.L. Hughes spoke on how town planning could be improved. The last 100 years have seen an enormous increase in population and as a result town planning if not a problem for the future but more for the immediate present. The traffic, the sewers, the gas or electricity all have to be thought of. There are roads from the foot of the Gogs to Shelford and Stapleford which only contain one or two houses along them. Buses may pass the door but one has to go miles for a doctor, a church or a school. In a few years' time people will not live in such places and these houses will be left to fall down and spoil the approach to the town

1927 01 18

Newmarket U.D.C. received a letter from Lord Glanely for the tenancies of six of the cottages now being erected on the Burwell Road, Exning. He had contracted to sell his estate at Lackham and would shortly be removing his establishment to Exning and required the cottages for the accommodation of his domestic staff. Mr Dring said he quite appreciated the fact that Lord Glanely was a big ratepayer but the council was building these cottages for the working class, not for gentlemen's servants. If he wanted to bring his servants here surely he was in the position to build his own cottages for them. Major Griffiths said they might meet him by letting him have two or three.

1927 01 19

Newmarket pavior, p5

1927 01 20

A claim by a Cambridge motor engineer and taxi-cab proprietor against an Indian student who met with an accident while driving a hired car was heard in the County court. He had hired the car for the afternoon and agreed to pay 25s. (£1.25) plus the cost of the petrol and oil and accepted full responsibility for the safety of the car. He had the misfortune to collide with a motor cycle and sidecar at the Abington crossroads. The car was taken to Messrs King and Harper with instructions to repair it, but they were not quite satisfied their charges would be met. Plaintiff told the court the car had been brought to him with a view to being sold; the owner wanted £70 for it. He had paid £36 but one never knew the condition of a car after an accident.

1927 01 21

A.E. Stubbs, organiser of the Workers' Union gave a family budget from a farm worker's wife. Rent 3s., coal 3s., milk 2s., meat for a family of five 5s.8d., groceries 8s., oil and candles 1s. 4d. bread and flour 5s. 3d., insurance 9d – a total of 29s. One shilling was left to provide clothes, boots, household things that wore out – such as bedding, pots, pans etc.- doctors' bills, clubs, papers and finally holidays at the seaside every year. What a disgrace it was that, whilst the land provided a good living for landlords and farmers, the farm workers had to exist on a standard lower than a pauper

1927 01 21 ES

Isle of Ely County Library

The Isle of Ely County Library has been successfully launched and 45 centres established. The demand for books exceeds the supply and people are asked if they have any book which seems to interest to pass them to the librarian. The big strain on the store of books was entirely due to the demands at March where there was a great thirst for knowledge

In addition to the shortage of books, the working of the March branch was hampered by the large number of people who congregate there during the hours it was open and the consequent inability of the librarians to deal with them. There were 1,000 borrowers and causing a rush and difficulties for the librarian. But Mr. Hay, who helped at the branch, said the only thing they could not cope with was the demand for books. They changed over 300 books in three hours on Friday night, and it could be done quite easily.

Readers in Littleport have taken every opportunity to avail themselves of the privilege of the free use of books from the County Library. Every Tuesday evening since its inauguration, the local depot has been well patronised by a number of borrowers who make their choice from a wide selection of fiction and nonfiction. There are now over 180 members and the demand for books far exceeds the supply. The books are changed every few months and those in Littleport are being returned at the end of this month to the Guildhall, March. This being so the local librarian, Miss Cheek, is retaining all the books and in order that the exchange may be as complete as possible, readers should return every book on library night. 27 01 21 & (2) ES

Stretham veteran carrier's death

No longer will residents at Ely see the familiar old figure with his grey mare delivering parcels in the city. At the advanced age of 82 years death has claimed Mr. Edward Lowe, who has regularly driven into Ely as a carrier for upwards of 68 years. He was known to everyone for miles around, and his happy personality won him a host of friends, not only in Stretham where he died, but particularly in Ely where he could always be seen on market days.

Stretham residents will miss the well-known figure of Mr. Edward Lowe, the veteran carrier, whose death occurred at his little cottage in Berry Green, where he had resided for 28 years. He was born in Stretham, 81 years ago and for 65 years he carried on his business as carrier to and from Ely, having started at the age of 15. Mr. Lowe was a regular attendee at the Baptist chapel, and was its oldest member having attended there since the age of two years. 27 01 21(3)(4)ES

1927 01 22

With the extension of the Trans-Atlantic telephone service it was appropriate that the first "call" from Cambridge should be to one of the leading American universities. A room at Sidney Sussex College had been fitted up with plenty of receivers and the Vice Chancellor of Cambridge University and the President of Harvard exchanged greeting. Sir Ernest Rutherford then spoke to the President; he said: "We have snow on the ground in Cambridge. Have you also snow". "No I wish we had", was the reply. All were surprised at the clearness of the reception although occasionally it was difficult to distinguish a word owing to the loud volume of sound. Nevertheless effective conversation was possible, there being an entire absence of atmospherics.

Gwydir Street baths, p6
Newnham roads dispute, p6

1927 01 24

The Cambridge Albion Band and the Cambridge Town Band have decided to amalgamate and will be known in future as the Cambridge Silver Band. They proposed to buy a complete set of new triple silver-plated instruments made by Messrs Hawkes, London with the now famous 'Profundo' basses as played by the St Hilda Colliery Band. This would greatly improve the tonal qualities of the band; there was not another band in the Eastern counties with such instruments.

1927 01 24 c

Additional County council expenditure on first-class roads is due to increased heavy traffic seriously damaging the roads. This is particularly evident when the subsoil is clay. The council is to contact the Minister of Transport for an additional grant. To widen an existing metalled carriageway one foot would cost £270 per mile. It was agreed that the road from Willingham to the county boundary near Earith, and from Over church towards Willingham should be declared to be main road.

1927 01 25

The County council considered the possibility of joining with other counties to establish a maternity home within the curtilage of a hospital. There was an arrangement with Addenbrooke's Hospital for cases of difficult confinement to be admitted at an agreed payment per case. But as there was no maternity department they were placed in a general ward & there was great difficulty in finding space

1927 01 25

A Lt Downham farmer died after a serious accident at his home. He had been attending to his electric lighting plant and his clothes had caught in the large fly wheel which threw him violently to the floor where he was found unconscious. He had been a great sportsman. Those who attended Pymoor Sports could never fail to be impressed by his inspiration. He was always a "live wire" and offered a field as a playground for youngsters.

1927 01 26

Downham inquest, p5

Stoaksley appreciation, p6

1927 01 27

Swavesey RDC have built eight houses under the assisted scheme and sites had now been selected for six houses at Swavesey and four at Conington which was plenty for that village. Over did not require any and Boxworth and Lolworth had 16 thoroughly good cottages and there was no need for fresh houses. They had the Bourn water supply put on. The cost to supply water to Hatley St George would be about £40; were they justified in laying such a large burden on a small village with only about a dozen cottages.

1927 01 28

Chesterton RDC considered filling up the pond at Girton. Half belonged to the Wellbrooke Laundry, over which the Parish Council had rights, and half to the Charity Trustees and if the pond was filled in it was essential they should waive their rights to it. The matter was urgent because the Laundry, which abuts the pond, had extended their premises. There was a quantity of building material they were anxious to get rid of which could be used in filling up the pond.

1927 01 28 ES

Tragic death Mr G. Darby

Nothing could have been a greater shock to the district than the tragic death of Mr. George Darby of Little Downham following a serious accident which occurred in the engine shed in which electric light is supplied to the house.

From small beginnings he built up a big business. Not only was he a well-known miller, but he owned and farmed with conspicuous success in Pymoor and Lt Downham.

Exactly how his shocking end came about is not known. He left his house in the morning to go about his farm, as was his custom. At noon, a boy happened to be passing the engine shed and there saw a body stretched out on the floor. He rushed into the house and informed the housemaid. She rang for the gardener who removed him into the house. The coat he was wearing was badly torn as a result of coming into contact for the engine. 27 01 28 ES

William Langhorn, who has died aged 94, came to Ely when about five years of age. There were no railways in those days, the only means of transportation being the old stagecoach.

He was apprenticed to Mr. Pashler, painter and paper-hanger of High Street Ely and then went to work for Messrs. Freeman the greatest grainers and stainers in Cambridgeshire, at the time. When Mr. Freeman died, he set up a painting and decorating business on his own at Railway Terrace where he lived for over 70 years. He did a great deal of work on the cathedral and other buildings.

He could recall the toll bars in the fen district, one in particular being at Witchford, where his father in law Mr. Henry Legge was the keeper of the gate. 27 01 28 ES

1927 01 29

The rector of Offord Cluny has died from injuries received in a heroic effort to save his ancient rectory from destruction by fire. He had just retired to bed when he was startled by cries from his wife who had gone into an adjoining room for a Turkish bath. The bath is enclosed in a wooden cabinet and heated by a methylated spirit lamp which suddenly burst into flames. The rector fought the fire until he had overcome it – but at the expense of his life

Newnham allotments, p6
A.G. Almond death, p5

1927 01 31
Field artillery, p8

February 1927 CDN

1927 02 01
The Cambridge Borough Surveyor reported that he had asked the authorities of St John's College if they would consent to the fence between the spinney and footpath leading to the bridge at Burrell's Walk being set back. The Bursar said they were prepared to give up the spinney, containing 1,225 square yards, for the use of the public. It was resolved to accept the offer with thanks and that the land should be placed in charge of the Commons Committee. Magdalene College are prepared to set back and re-erect the old wall in Magdalene Street on condition the Corporation would contribute £160 towards the cost. Coun King drew attention to the desirability of pedestrians being directed to keep on the left of the pavement, but no action appears to have been taken.

1927 02 01
The Rendezvous placard trolley, which has so many times gone its rounds of the streets of Cambridge advertising "thrillers" and "heart appeal" stories at this cinema met with an ignominious fate at the hands of undergraduates. It was seized by a party of merry gownsmen and pulled in triumph down Hertford Street and Magdalene Street where they sought to dispose of it by pushing it into the river. It fell on to the landing stage moored at this point but with undamped ardour the undergraduates endeavoured by their united efforts to confine this "publicity agent on wheels" to the cold depths of the Cam. Then, the last rites having been performed, the revellers went on their way rejoicing.

1927 02 01
Thirty years ago the Salvation Army tried to come to Newmarket, but they were not well received. Now the town had reformed and was holding out its arms to them. They had only been at work there for three years but already had outgrown their little tin hut and were now launching a fund for the provision of a new permanent home

1927 02 03
Housing – health – beds, p6

1927 02 04
The Rendezvous Dance Hall asked for an extension of the dancing licence. The hall was built in 1909 as a skating rink and there was then no houses in Magrath Avenue. Those who came to live there afterwards came knowing the hall was there. From 1912 it was used as a variety and picture hall and in 1915 was commandeered for the War Office. In 1919 it was returned and conducted as a dance hall and cinema. In 1925 magistrates decided it should be open until midnight but there were complaints that people leaving made a noise with their motors & cycles. It was the best dance hall in Cambridge and now no one ever dreams of a dance ever terminating until 12. The Guildhall and Masonic Hall had licences until 2 a.m.
Coleridge Road cycle sheds, p3
Baths while you wait, p6

1927 02 05
A stranger, p3
Fourpenny baths, p8

1927 02 07

A momentous event in the history of extra-mural teaching at Cambridge University was marked by the opening of Stuart House. Standing in Mill Lane it is a beautiful house and a worthy addition to the architectural wealth of the town. It is named after the Right Hon. James Stuart, Fellow of Trinity College, who founded extra-mural teaching work in the University and was largely responsible for its extension to other parts of the country.

1927 02 08

The Great Chesterford Rat and Sparrow Club dinner was told that 2,845 sparrows had been killed, against 7,135 in 1925 and 6,527 rats against 8,600. The society was doing good work in keeping down the vile rat. The sparrow was also a pest but it did good when in search of caterpillars. They hoped the other side of Saffron Walden would form a club as it was hardly fair that one district should take steps to keep down the number of rats and sparrows and others do nothing at all.

1927 02 09

60-years after, p5

Cambridge architecture, p6

1927 02 10

Since the Cambridge Conservative Club in Market Passage had been destroyed by fire there had been many busybodies who knew exactly what was going to happen to the club premises and the site. The Chairman could now tell them: it was going to be rebuilt and rise like a Phoenix from the ashes. A very satisfactory arrangement had been made with the Northern Insurance Company and they had today received a cheque from the company.

Workhouse name, p3

1927 02 11

Visitors grievance, p6

1927 02 11 ES

E.R. Fyson of Soham, social and philanthropic labours – obit – 27 02 11(2) ES

Death Edwin Norman, pioneer Haddenham Fruit Grower – 27 02 11(3) ES

The water supply for Haddenham, Stretham and Little Thetford was practically all derived from surface wells; they were all contaminated and the water derived from them was in every case unfit for drinking purposes, an Inquiry was told. Analysis from Haddenham, where there were eight wells - six public and two private - were all highly polluted: they all contained organic matter. Only one which came from a deeper well at Hinton Hall was satisfactory. A member of Haddenham Parish Council asked if two of the samples were taken from Wolden Well and from outside Mr C. Searle's house at Hill Row. Would it be possible to find two pumps in the parish where you could get more impure water than from these pumps? These two wells should be filled up and two others dug with a pump further up the lane preventing any of the fluid coming from the farmyard into the well. Mr Porter said there had been no epidemics for 50 years and they had the biggest percentage of old age pensioners in the area. Mr A.E. Wright of Haddenham said he had lived in the village for 30 years and considered the water supply fairly good. He objected to the scheme on economic grounds: the land was saddled with such a burden of taxation at the present time that amounted to £1 an acre and any additional burdens were almost impossible to bear. 10 out of 11 members of Haddenham parish council were against the scheme.

In Stretham three samples were taken, two from public pumps and one from a well which supplied the council houses. The sample from the public pump in Top Street showed a very bad analysis. The water was polluted with sewage and unfit for drinking purposes. The other one, taken from a pump near the school, was satisfactory, the water was unpolluted and fit for consumption. The sample from the Council Houses well was also satisfactory and fit for use. 25 people had signed a petition for water but half wished they had not done so

A sample from a well near the school at Little Thetford showed it was contaminated and unfit for drinking purposes. There had been no epidemics but the present supply was a real danger to people. Wilburton enjoyed an unlimited supply of water of its own. There were upwards of 100 houses there every one of which had its own supply. – 27 02 11 ES

Rly Station site

The War Compensation Court heard a claim for damages arising from the Government's occupation of site and buildings erected on it, whereby the site was damaged and the executors of Mr Chapman had to sell it at less than proper value. It should have realised at least £5,000. The buildings erected on it were practically irremovable. In January 1924 the Government declared the field surplus and actually sold it for £35,000 with buildings on it. The Government claimed that the buildings cost £48,000. No doubt they were very solid buildings. The surface of the soil was taken away and concrete put in feet deep in some places and in others inches deep.

An advertisement described the site as immediately in the rear of Ely Station, with a frontage to Station Road. The first sale approved abortive and the buildings were eventually disposed to a Mr Oakley. Mr Chaplin had died in September 1924 and the executors took the best price they could get and sold the site for £2,000.

An architect said he had surveyed the site consisting of two fields in 1922. One field was covered with about 20 buildings and there was a system of macadam roads and a drainage system. Concrete foundations to some of the larger buildings were carried down five or six feet and floors were constructed of thick concrete. The place looked a desert.

In his view it was an excellent building site. There was need for new houses in Ely. He valued both fields at £6,300 pounds, supposing they had been a perfectly free site. He submitted a plan showing housing accommodation for 450 people.

But a valuer from Downham Market expressed the view that Ely was a feeble town, a dead and alive place with practically no business of importance carried on. He thought the site could never be developed for housing purposes or factory sites.

The Government had a right to remain on the land until December 1924 by which date the claimant had sold their rights and no possible claim could arise. The court reserved its decision. 27 02 11(2)ES

Coursing

One event in the year two which coursing enthusiasts look forward to is the private meeting which Sir Frederick Hiam, the President of the Isle of Ely Coursing Club gives on his Hilgay farm. The occasion is always one of the happiness in the season. Although a chilling wind blew over the land, it had no effect upon the enjoyment of the day. There was no rain and the guests were able to move about on the land, which was in the capital condition. Sport was as good as anyone could have desired. There was an abundance of hares strong and fast and these provided some remarkably good courses. Everyone present voted it an ideal sport providing a day of social happiness 27 02 11(2)ES

Rainbow trout

An incident of great interest to local anglers occurred when Mr. Arthur Meadows the well-known angler of Broad Street, Ely caught a rainbow trout in the Cresswells. The fish which was caught with a lob worm struggled vigorously for five minutes and before being landed jumped two feet out of the water. The trout is just one foot in length and weighs one pound. When out of the water, its colours strikingly resemble those of a rainbow. He had caught a rainbow trout in 1913 and had never heard of any other angler catching a similar fish in the Ouse. He caught his trout about 100 yards from the spot where he caught the other one in 1913. When caught the trout had in its mouth, a minnow which is a small fish upon which they feed 27 02 11(2)ES

Haddenham death

With the death of Edwin Norman, aged 92, Haddenham has lost one of its oldest and most respected inhabitants. A keen and successful farmer he won many prizes as a breeder of Hackney and Shire horses and was a pioneer of the fruit-growing industry in Haddenham being amongst the first to take up cultivation on a large scale of raspberries, strawberries and asparagus. The first part of the service was conducted in the Hinton Hall in the presence of a large number of relatives. Blinds were drawn all along the route to the cemetery as a token of the respect in which he was held. 27 02 11(3)ES

1927 02 12

Some eighty or more men and women cycled, "bussed" or walked over to Histon to watch jam made on a large scale at Messrs Chivers' Orchard Factory. It was the first organised visit by the Cambridge Workers' Educational Association. They felt the last word had been said in mechanical efficiency without in any way de-humanising the workers who seemed cheerful and busy. Numerous questions were asked as to the conditions of labour, the psychological effect of repetition work and the way in which a one-time seasonal trade had been brought to its present stage of regular employment all the year round. The next visit is to the Tapestry Works.

University Labour candidate, p8

1927 02 14

The Rural Planning Sub-Committee is preparing a scheme to submit to Cambridge Council – not only for the area around its borders but including all the villages from Histon to Stapleford. It was important that a regional survey should be made now, before unconsidered development complicated the problem too much. Questionnaires sent out to the Women's Institutes had brought valuable suggestions of things to be preserved. The County Council was considering a comprehensive scheme.

Pentacle club, p6

1927 02 16

The work of maintaining a pictorial record of the streets and buildings of Cambridge is greatly facilitated by modern photography and much credit is due to those enthusiastic amateurs who perpetuate these important historical records. There are some excellent examples of the work of the Cambridge Photographic Club on exhibition at the Borough Library and the short time required to view the photographs will not be wasted.

1927 02 17

Grange Farm, Grunty Fen, Stretham sale, p2

1927 02 18

A suggestion to the Chief Constable that a small parking place should be made in Tennis Court Road, Cambridge, may lead to archaeologists being less inconvenienced than hitherto. One of them was summonsed for obstruction. PC Hagger stated the defendant put his head out of the Museum of Archaeology & explained he used his car to take specimens to the museum for demonstration purposes and it was difficult to know what to do with it during the lecture. He was fined 10s.

1927 02 18 ES

The Isle of Ely County Council received a letter from Ely R.D.C offering part of a field in the parish of Stretham if the County were prepared to construct a new road across it, connecting the road to Wilburton with Cambridge Road. They are prepared to agree to the road and to take it over as a main road provided the width be 60ft. The Surveyor submitted a plan showing the new road which had been approved by the Ministry of Transport who would make a grant of 50%. It was left to the Surveyor to arrange terms with Mr R. Bent respecting the frontage of his property on the new road – 27 02 18 & (2) ES

Stretham Cricket Field

Stretham Parish Council called a meeting to ascertain whether the parish were in favour of the Council buying the cricket field from Sir Frederick Hiam as a Recreation Ground. The clerk explained that Sir Frederick had offered the field for £600, which was afterwards reduced to £500. A loan would be necessary if they were to purchase it. After a great deal of discussion it was agreed on the proposition of the Reverend Stitt that the Parish Meeting recommend the Parish Council to purchase the field and consents to the expenses or liabilities of such a purchase, which will involve a loan. 27 02 18

1927 02 19

The newly-formed Cambridge Housing Society has lost little time in getting to work. It has obtained a site in Green End Road, Cambridge and plans for 22 houses have been approved. The houses are to cost about £420 each and are to be let at a weekly rental of 5s.6d. It is hoped to have them complete by September.

1927 02 19

Ely Rural District Council have offered the County Council part of a field in the parish of Stretham if they are prepared to construct a new road across it connecting the road from Wilburton to Stretham with the Cambridge Road. It would be a main road, 60 feet wide and the Ministry of Transport would make a grant of 50%. The Surveyor said there had been an alarming increase in road traffic during the winter months with a consequent increase of damage to the roads.

Portrait of David, bookseller, p8

1927 02 21

A craze for driving cars lead to the appearance at Cambridge Police Court of two youths who were charged with stealing petrol and oil used while having a joy ride in stolen cars. Terence Gray of Gog Magog House said he had left his car at the Sun Street parking place, Newmarket Road, Cambridge; when he went for it it was missing. The Chief Constable said he had received numerous complaints from people who had left their cars there. The prisoner said: "I did not intent to steal it. I have a craze for driving cars. We have had three".

1927 02 23

The dedication and formal opening of the new buildings of Soham Grammar School at "Beechurst" took place in the conservatory in the presence of a crowded assembly. The people of Soham were very proud & jealous of their school. They now had the opportunity for providing a secondary school with a rural curriculum to fit its scholars for a rural career. It showed the value parents attached to the education given in that school as the farmer would keep his son at school just as long as anybody else.

1927 02 24

Lt Downham farmer bankruptcy, p5

Soham cycle agent, p5

Workhouse name change, p6

1927 02 25

"The first marriage according to the new Prayer Book" was solemnised in Cambridge when an undergraduate "bride" and "bridegroom" were joined together in unholy matrimony on King's Parade. The blushing bride with the bowing bridegroom was preceded by a piper and a clergyman who was wearing "flannel bags" under his surplice and carried a doll's sunshade. The bride's dress was a pair of white lace curtains and she carried a large bouquet of Brussels sprouts. The bridegroom wore a dilapidated silk hat and a red nose – and carried a banana. They stepped into a waiting carriage followed by a motley throng of ludicrously attired "relations and friends"

Wilbraham pit collapse, p5

Wicken concert, p6

1927 02 25 ES

The recent introduction of three recent modern shops has had a wonderfully improving effect upon the appearance of High Street, Ely, which is becoming an increasingly busy shopping centre. One of these is owned by Mr A.V. Bonnett, a progressive local confectioner, the others belonging to Hipps, the well-known tailor, and the Star Tea Company. – photo – 27 02 25(2) ES

Soham Grammar School new building opened – 27 02 25 & (4) ES

Tuesday was a red-letter day in the honoured history of Soham Grammar School, the valuable work of which is no longer carried on in the old surroundings but in that palatial structure known as Beechhurst, standing in its own picturesque grounds.

The history of the School went back to the 17th century. It was owing to the Bedford Level Commissioners that land was vested in the Lord of the Manor to provide a school to train apprentices. In 1687 the Exchequer vested the foundation in the body of trustees and in 1699, the school was erected. It carried on that work until 1878 when a scheme was drawn up under the Endowed School act. At that time the school was known as Soham Moor School. In 1909, a new scheme was drawn up and provision was made that its endowment should be administered under the name of Soham Grammar School. The school carried on its extremely valuable work until 1916 when it transferred to the County Council. Since then and during the tenure of the president Headmaster it had grown in numbers and importance.

The President of the Board of Education honoured the occasion with his presence and spoke of the progressive spirit of the headmaster Mr. J. Clement Pratt. He was generally highly impressed with the general tone of the school, its lofty spick and span classrooms and particularly its important aim at imparting knowledge expressly suited to the requirements of the district.

The events which led up to the purchase of Beechhurst were the increasing number of boys in attendance and the overcrowding of the school buildings, even the laboratory and two rooms in the People's Hall were used as a form-room and not only were these crowded but unsuitable in every way. In 1921 Inspectors suggested definite improvements but the economy campaign prevented any immediate steps and it was not until 1924 that proposals were put forward for extensions to the school buildings to include new classrooms. Plans had already been prepared when two other properties were offered to the Governors. One of these was Beechurst. As great as have been the educational achievements of the school in the past, they should be even greater in the future because the buildings lend themselves to the health and happiness of the boys whose good fortune it is to be there. 27 02 25 ES

Stretham Parish Council received a letter from Messrs Grounds relating to the purchase of the cricket field, and another from Messrs Ellison, solicitors of Cambridge, containing particulars of the sale of the field. Ellisons indicated they would be prepared to advance the Council a loan of £500 for the purchase of the field subject to the sanction of the Ministry of Health being obtained. 27 02 25
Stretham Social Club's fourth Annual Meeting heard the past year had been a very successful one. They would shortly have a big expense on both billiard tables which needed recovering. The membership remained the same at 64. With the purchase of the cricket field under consideration by the Parish Council, it would be a good idea if the club were to have a piece of land added and fenced in. If that could be done, the Club could run its own Bowls Club. 27 02 25

1927 02 26

Lord Bledisloe said there was knowledge emanating from Cambridge University which was of unparalleled benefit to agriculture and was unequalled in any part of the civilised world. This was a district of very good land – when it was not under water – (laughter) – and of good farmers who were on the road to bankruptcy. They were passing through the most critical period the industry had to face since the depressing times of the 1890s, but the knowledgeable farmer could keep his head above water and be proud of doing it.

1927 02 26

Compared to other towns Cambridge is badly off for fire equipment; we have only one motor fire engine whilst other places have two or three. The Chief Constable has recommended the purchase of a new "Dennis" 250-gallon Light Type Engine at a cost of £880. It will be more useful in the narrow streets than a larger type whilst the "First Aid" attachment can be got to work so expeditiously that small fires would be put out before the main hydrant could be coupled up. Will the council be convinced or will the question of pounds, shillings and pence be uppermost in their minds?

1927 02 26

Hearty congratulations to Mr A. Townsend, the Assistant Town Clerk, who has completed 50 years' service with Cambridge Corporation. Hard work and a cheerful disposition have contrived to keep him young. The Town Clerk presented him with a silver cigarette case. Two more officials have completed 40 years' service. Mr N.C. Hedge joined the Town Clerk's department as an office boy and never left, while Mr H.E. Foster joined at the same time but later transferred to the Treasurer's office.

March 1927 CDN

1927 03 01

Dr Francis Shillington Scales one of the foremost radiologists in the country has died. He was appointed medical officer in charge of the X-ray department at Addenbrooke's Hospital and made much of the apparatus himself. He had an extensive private practice in the special branch of medicine to which he had elevated himself, and had an elaborate X-ray apparatus installed at his residence in Adams Road

Fire engine, p3

Maintaining district road, p6

1927 03 02

March railway works, p4

1927 03 03

Sir – I read of the sale of the old-established grocery and provision business of Hallack and Bond. It is regrettable that the ownership of another great business passes away from Cambridge. To many the name has been a by-word and a guarantee of quality and good service through the personal supervision of people resident in Cambridge. This must become a serious menace to the welfare of the town and all good citizens should avail themselves of the service ably rendered by locally owned firms - Loyal Citizen

1927 03 03

The chief engineering feature of regional planning will be a new ring road all around Cambridge about two miles from the centre of the town. One length would be a road running north and south joining the Hills Road with the Newmarket Road, a length of about three miles. Certain roads and bridges were contemplated to obtain an inner ring road around the central portion of the town. Mr C.H. Tebbitt said that what had been done haphazard in the villages was the joy of the countryside and he wondered what would have happened to these beauty spots if they had been regional planned.

1927 03 03

An important step in the activities of the Cambridge Trades Council and Labour Party was taken when approval was given for the purchase of premises in Norfolk Terrace for party headquarters at a cost of £975. The building was a substantial one with a very large hall & offices. There was a large piece of ground suitable for a bowling green. They could have a hall over the top of the present building and convert the bottom portion into a really up-to-date club. It would serve as a real "home" for members of the party.

Police 'ambush' motorists, p6

1927 03 04

The Ely Medical Officer said an epidemic of influenza had started on the male side of the infirmary with no means of isolating the cases. There were 30 cases in the male sick ward, six inmates in the House who could not be admitted to wards for lack of accommodation and two nurses on the House staff. In addition they were asked to take in nine cases of influenza from outside on one day. The closing of the female side of the infirmary to visitors, except in cases of extreme illness, had delayed the spread of infection for some weeks, but it had now broken out on that side too. There were 12 deaths in the infirmary, three directly due to influenza

1927 03 04

Cambridge Library Committee recommended that steps be taken to provide reading rooms in Chesterton and Cherry Hinton. At the time of amalgamation in 1911 it was one of the conditions that Chesterton should be given a public library. At Cherry Hinton they had in 1924 prevailed upon the council to provide a public reading room. It was hoped to set up a small reference library at each. Suburban Cambridge was growing rapidly and they were a necessity.

Linton Shepherds' war memorial, p3

Coldham's Lane houses, p5

University Arms ballroom, p5

1927 03 05

Corpus undergraduate suicide, p5

Cambridge military band, p6

Baldwin at Cambridge, p8

Cambridge novel, p8

1927 03 07

Wilbraham chalk pit fatality, p6

1927 03 08

Police report, p6

1927 03 09

Dr William Mortlock Palmer addressed a meeting of Cambridge Antiquarian Society. About 20 years ago a photographic record was started by the Society, chiefly at the instigation of Dr Allen, who was an enthusiastic and skilful photographer, Palmer reported. But the exertions of one man were not able to overcome the inertia of the mass of indifference which then existed on the subject, and the record did not get very far. Such progress as was made was almost entirely due to Dr Allen. The record had now been started again and the Society had been fortunate to secure the active assistance and co-operation of the Cambridge Photographic Club and an exhibition in the Museum of Archaeology in March 1927 featured a number of photographs they had given of houses in Duxford and elsewhere. But one did not need to be a photographer to contribute. Palmer urged members to "Go into any village shop and buy as many different picture postcards of the village as you can – particularly those issued before the war". They would accept any size of print or negative, large or small, but preferred half-plate, quarter-plate or postcard size, even bad prints if they showed an object no longer in existence. Palmer singled out the example of J.H. Bullock's arrangement of his pictures. He numbered prints according to the number of the plot on which the building stood, as given on the large-scale Ordnance Survey map. Care should be taken to be exact in the name of the village, street or place. He showed about 140 slides representative of photographs taken by one individual or begged, borrowed, bought or stolen by him for others during the last four years. They were classified in groups such as churches and other places of worship, monastic buildings, ancient houses, houses associated with persons or events of importance, general views of streets, village greens etc, water mills and windmills, dovecotes, sundials, stocks and pounds, ancient earthworks, Roman roads and ancient trackways, old customs and ceremonies, rural occupations, characteristic landscapes, notable trees, fords and bridges, ruins, ornamental ironwork etc. There were other groups for church plate and University and college buildings – and he thought there were enough people of culture and leisure to undertake that part of the record which related to these buildings in Cambridge. A slide was shown of a peasant's house at Meldreth built in 1722 at a cost of £29.18s.11½ and another photograph showing the various items making up that amount. Another showed an old wheat hovel or storehouse, Meldreth, with in the background the chimney of the house in which Dr Palmer was born – and as a boy he used to hunt for hens' eggs under the hovel. There were views of old workhouses at Leverington and Dullingham while a photographic curiosity was a slide of a wax paper negative showing Mr G.N. Maynard sitting in his garden at Duxford in 1860. Others showed some fine old watermills, notably the mill at Shepreth which was bunt down a few months ago, Topcliff Mill, Meldreth to which much romance attached and Quaker's Mill, Meldreth, burnt down more than 20 years ago. A number of slides were taken from pictures by Mr Maynard of some interesting old customs and ceremonies, including Valentine's Day, May Day, harvest home and other quaint old scenes at Whittlesford and the Green Pea Feast at Sawston in 1899 and rural occupations such as saffron picking at Whittlesford in 1845. One of most interesting showed house at Hildersham pulled down in 1866 and a group of people in the characteristic dress of the time in the garden, including the curate playing croquet in a top hat. Other pictures included the old High House, Hildersham, the old course of the river at Hildersham before the water was diverted for the mill, a haymaking party at Hildersham in 1891 and the "Furrills" or Furze Hills, Hildersham.

J.M. Keynes honoured, p8

1927 03 10

An inquest was told how an 82 years old lady, who had fallen, was moved about from one institution to another until she had, against her relative's inclination, to find a last refuge in the Cambridge Workhouse Infirmary. Addenbrooke's Hospital had said she was noisy and disturbing the rest of the ward and could not be detained. She was sent to the Infirmary from which she was removed to the Devonshire Nursing Home by her relatives. But they said that whenever she moved she cried out very loudly on account of the pain and was too noisy to keep. So she was returned to the Infirmary where they diagnosed a broken rib.

Cheveley, Dullingham water, p6

1927 03 11

Cambridge Women Citizens' Association heard that a cats' shelter should be provided in Cambridge for the reception and humane destruction of neglected, starved diseased and homeless cats. Mrs Norman Mason said last year 478 cats were brought to the home but the council had now ordered the shed to be taken down. Now if a pet cat was brought in they had nowhere to keep it and it had to be chloroformed.

Hard labour for BA, p5

1927 03 14

Pungent remarks were made at Saffron Walden council on the unsatisfactory rail services on the L.N.E.R. There were widespread complaints about unpunctuality and persons had threatened to leave the district in consequence. The time taken by the railways to deliver coal was scandalous and in many cases men had been stood of because it was impossible to get delivery of goods. The railway companies were given a charter by the Government and if they were unable to provide a better service they should be compelled to hand over control to someone else.

1927 03 16

Cambridgeshire Education Committee discussed Swaffham Prior Church of England School. The church trustees were prepared to build a new school for junior children and infants, the older children being sent to Burwell. A deputation wanted a Council school, suitable for all classes and ages but it was not their policy to do that sort of thing.

1927 03 16

The owners of the Playhouse, Mill Road, Cambridge, have just completed negotiations for the sale of that cinema to a syndicate who are said to be the owners of the Central Cinema and the Tivoli. We understand that the transfer will take place in September. The Picture Playhouses Ltd, who owned the Playhouse, also have property in Sussex Street and they are also disposing of this.

Farren bird photography, p6

1927 03 17

Electricity failure, p6

Chrishall fire, p6

1927 03 18

A donkey of diminutive proportions caused a good deal of excitement in the Fen Causeway, Cambridge. A CDN reporter saw it pulling a small four-wheeled cart on which was seated a well-built young fellow. Then he heard shouts and was amazed to see the driver lying on his back on the pavement and the little animal vigorously stamping on him with its tiny hoofs and making lunges at him with its teeth. Passers-by hastened to the young man's help by which time the donkey was standing as quiet and unconcerned as though it had been rooted to the spot all its life. It then obediently carried its owner to Addenbrooke's Hospital to receive treatment.

1927 03 18

An exceptionally well-attended meeting of Royston ex-Service men enthusiastically agreed to form a branch of the British Legion. The election of officers took place including President Lieut-Col E. Phillips, chairman Lieut-Col Danyon, secretary H.G. Harris and committee members E. Bonnett, A. Woods, H. Mowberry, C. Wilkin & W. Blows

1927 03 18

Landwade church is small & dates back to the 15th century but today there is only Lord St Davids and a few labourers in the congregation. Some wonderful old armorial glass which was taken away by the Cotton family has now been handed back. Its re-erection will enormously add to the interest of this unique old church but the stonework of the window is so much decayed that it will have to be restored. The summer services begin usually on Easter Sunday but this year, owing to the repairs, it will not be possible to open so early in the year.

1927 03 19

Undergraduate singers and musicians are distinguishing themselves just now. Following the enjoyable broadcast by the Trinity Madrigal Club I hear that the Quintaginta Band are to appear at the Holborn Empire during Boat Race week. Mr Charles Gulliver who heard them whilst on a visit to Cambridge has made them "a tempting offer" to appear in one of his halls in the Eastern vacation. The salary, however, is not stated.

1927 03 20

It must be 25 years since the seats and fences of Clare Hall Pieces were burnt on the Cambridge Market Hill. With the increasing number of visitors the lack of seats on the Backs is often felt and now that Cambridge attractions are being advertised the placing of seats in this favourite spot, where so many visitors go to view the west elevation of King's Chapel would be appreciated by many.

Dr Palmer lecture, p6

Cottage for three shillings a week, p6

1927 03 21

Micawber, Tony Weller, Uriah Heap and other famous Dickensian characters stepped on to the Cambridge Guildhall stage. Their creation in the flesh was the result of the wonderful art of Bransby Williams, the world-famous impressionist and Dickensian who was making his first appearance in Cambridge. It was all very wonderful and did more to establish an image of the great novelist's creations than the most imaginative reader could ever have gained from reading the books from whence they came.

1927 03 21

The Charleston shows no signs of waning in popularity at the Premier Dance Hall, Chesterton, and still reigns supreme among the habitués there. In fact this dancing habit has become so much of the place that one sees more uniformity in the style than at any other hall in Cambridge. On Saturday evening Manning's Band were in their usual good form and played extremely well. Miss Robinson must be one of the last jazz pianists in the town at present.

Parish constables – policewomen, p3
Fort St George ferry, p3

1927 03 22

The Chief Constable has no objection to private motor cars parking on Ely Market Place, but did object to motor 'buses. If they allowed one 'bus to park there it would be difficult to stop others, and there could not be any hardship for a bus setting down passengers at the Public Room for a dance and then parking at Barton Square or St Mary's Street. Market Square parking was for use by private motor cars only and only available on days other than market days and fair days.

Hallack & Bond, p5
Fashion parade, p6

1927 03 23

Tragedy on line, p5 – inquest 24th p5
Sussex Street site sale, p5

1927 03 24

Cambridge Guardians were asked whether they were prepared to receive maternity cases in their new ward, and if so at what cost. There was a great shortage of maternity accommodation; negotiations had been going on at Addenbrooke's and arrangements made for a maternity ward to be built. Even then there would still be a need for beds at the institution. In a town the size of Cambridge a separate maternity home was needed.

1927 03 04 ES

Lighter side of fen floods: cartoon by Harold Painter – 27 03 04 ES

1927 03 26

The death of Col Thomas Walter Harding, the High Steward of Cambridge, will occasion widespread regret. He was a most agreeable person, blending a courtly dignity with a rare courtesy and kindness. He purchased the beautiful Madingley Hall in 1903 and two years later took up residence. He found time to bring out a romance entitled "Tales of Madingley" in 1912, which has been widely read. In 1901 he presented a jewelled badge for the use of the Mayors of Cambridge. The Mayoral chain was presented by his father in 1890.

1927 03 28

Drama festival, p4

1927 03 29

Panoramic view Cambridge, p3

1927 03 30

Comberton, which made itself laugh very heartily over a mock trial two years ago, staged a similar piece of amusing make-believe when the village institute put on the dignity of a "police court" and the Vicar sat in judicial pomp over the hearing of a sensational burglary case involving the theft of a pearl necklace. The "prisoner", who described himself as "a bit of a farmer and a bit of a dealer, said he was in the habit of collecting eggs by aeroplane. He admitted having a drink at Eversden – "such a slow place” - and admiring the barmaid. He was discharged and advised in future to keep clear of bars and barmaids

Parish constables, p5

1927 03 31

Cost of living, p6

April 1927 CDN

1927 04 01 ES

Stretham: Church wall widening and improvement is now complete and thus a dangerous corner has been disposed of. Motorists have always found this a trying bend to negotiate and more than one has come to grief here.

1927 04 02

The Overseers of Cambridge have come to an official end & the passing of this ancient institution was celebrated at the Dorothy Café. It used to be their duty to help any poor person by granting relief without asking any questions, to be called in cases of suicide and take charge of mental cases. When they rated houses it was remarkable the very small value owners placed upon their own property. They sometimes felt it would not have been a bad thing if they could have bought the house at the price just stated by the owner. (Laughter). They had been in existence about 300 years they were handing over their duties to a Borough going back 700 years.

Free library books, p6*

Expiring overseers, p8

1927 04 05

Cambridge Council will debate the site of King's and Bishop's Mill, Mill Pool. Two years ago the buildings were dangerous and have been demolished. They had a scheme to beautify the area by leaving it open & constructed a new weir with facilities for getting boats from the lower to the upper river. Now the University has offered to purchase the site for erecting lecture rooms.

1927 04 05

A small group had a very enjoyable trip to London on one of the new Varsity Pullman motor coaches which it proposed to run daily between the metropolis & Cambridge & Oxford. The handsome saloon coach provides plenty of elbow and leg room for 20 passengers, completely enclosed and protected from the weather. Small mahogany tables can be raised at will for dining and other purposes. Balloon tyres and four wheel brakes are fitted and at all speeds the coach travelled smoothly and steadily. The journey to the West End was accomplished in 2¼ hours.

Cinemas & Good Friday, p5

1927 04 06

Great St Mary's church council replied to the Corporation's plans to widen St Mary's Street. They cannot sanction obtaining a faculty for the proposed work as increased heavy motor traffic coming so close to the church will be a very real danger to the safety of the foundations and fabric. Widening the street would create a death-trap and they propose to adopt every means in their power to prevent the scheme being carried out.

Histon roads, main road, p3

1927 04 07

Workhouse windows, p6

Broadcast interference, p6

1927 04 08

Under an Act of 1877 the Prison Commissioners took over Castle Hill, Cambridge, together with the prison from the County Justices. The prison itself has been loaned to the Record Office for the reposition of certain deeds etc. The hill could be visited by application at the old prison gates, but few availed themselves of this. Now the Cambridge Antiquarian Society suggested it be handed over to the Corporation as public open space

1927 04 08

The Cam Conservators reported they had got the Fort St George ferry up, but it sank again. It was impossible to do anything with the boat and impossible to get another one. They had agreed to employ a man to do the work but could not undertake the risk. At lunchtime too many people crowded on to the boat and a man could not order them off. The Conservators had carried on the ferry at a loss for years. They had a contract to take the people across the water and had to do something. Chesterton people felt they had been badly treated.

Haverill farmers, p2

Burwell footballers, p3

'Venice in Cambridge' – mills, p7*

1927 04 09

Cambridge councillors debated whether part of the King's and Bishop's Mill site should be sold to the University to erect new lecture rooms. The Corporation should not sell its property in this way; it should do so on the public market. They might get a higher offer from a firm who would like to put up a Woolworth building but they wanted an appropriate end to the Backs & such improvements would give an almost Venetian effect to the whole of the Backs river. To consider turning the site into a recreation ground with railings and white paint would be most regrettable. They should pull down the remains of the mill so that everyone could see what the site looked like when the fag-end of the foundations was up. It would expose some quite ugly buildings which would not be hidden by any plans before them

1927 04 09

In view of the increasing numbers of road accidents and increased road traffic, the British Red Cross and the St John Ambulance Association are endeavouring to cover the country with road ambulance stations consisting of (a) motor ambulance stations, (b) first-aid detachment with equipment and (c) posts where a haversack of first-aid equipment will be kept. It is hoped to have the scheme running during weekends and Bank Holidays. There must be a number of young people in Cambridge who have qualified in first aid who can come forward to help in this great humanitarian work.

Schoolboy foxtrot, p7

1927 04 12

Two Cambridge taxi men applied for hackney carriage licences to ply for hire at Newmarket, particularly during race week. Both had invested all their spare capital to purchase three cottages in the town, having been persuaded this would enable them to obtain a licence. The Clerk said four others had also applied. It was manifestly unfair. Newmarket men were supplying the town's wants for the other 44 weeks of the year, during which time they were often standing idle. Yet when the races came and they expected to recoup themselves they were rushed off the road by these men from Cambridge who brought in their fares and wait to take them back at night. They want to compete with Newmarket cabmen on the streets. The licences were refused.

1927 04 12

Saffron Walden councillors considered taking steps to keep a portion of the Common in a fair condition as a playground for children in castle Street and that the sales usually held there be discontinued and held adjoining the Slade. The Lord of the Manor would have no objection. The committee had done nothing in the matter, not even allowing a steam roller to be run over that part of the common. But if the children were herded together there would be more fights than there are now.

1927 04 13

The proposed appointment of a woman as county instructress in poultry keeping did not find favour with the County council. It was not a suitable job for a woman to go round to many of the outlying farms and it was questionable whether she would be able to get to the meetings in the villages as well as a man. Ald Jackson said poultry on the farm today were not being taken so much advantage of as was possible and if a woman was appointed it would spoil the whole thing from the start. Women looked after poultry on the farm and it had been argued it was best to have a woman to teach the subject. But he never knew a woman yet who sent for a woman doctor to treat her when she was ill (laughter)

1927 04 15 ES

Manea licensee's suicide: Joseph Austin at White Horse Inn – 27 04 15(2) ES

New Middle Level dredger

The huge new floating dredger that was recently assembled and launched at the Middle Level yard March has been towed to the junction of the Twenty Feet and Nene rivers where the capacities of the monster machine were tested for the first time and found to be very satisfactory. The dredger which was built by Messrs Ptistman of Hill is one of the most modern machines turned out by this firm and although not the largest owned by the Middle Level, it is nevertheless of enormous dimensions, weighing between 60 and 70 tons. The dredger is 55 feet long with a 22 feet beam at the top and a 15 beam at the bottom while the depth of the floats is four foot three inches. With a capacity of from 11 to 16 cubic feet per bucket the dredger is capable of making two grabs a minute. It is seen at work off the south side of the Twenty Feet Corner from where it will dredge in the direction of March. 27 04 15ES

1927 04 16

Hot cross buns, p8

Poultry instructor, p8

1927 04 18

An inquest returned that a Lt Shelford woman found in a well had committed suicide while of unsound mind following an attack of influenza. She had had two lapses of memory. A month ago she had lost her memory for a day and "woke up" in the evening and found her way home after the people in the village had been looking for her all day. Then she had gone to the butcher's but did not arrive and woke up to find herself in the main road in the dark eight miles from home. On Friday they noticed the lid of the well was open and looking down they saw her with her head under the water. Royston to Cambridge walk, p4

1927 04 19

Sir – there are a large number of persons of both sexes who are intensely interested in aeronautics and would welcome the formation of a light aeroplane club. Learning to fly in this way is moderately cheap and invigorating. This county is specially suited for flying as in almost every village several fields may be selected which would make excellent landing grounds. – R.C. Jonas

Territorial training, p3

Easter holiday, p4

Collision, p6

1927 04 21

A farmer of Skippers Hall, West Wickham was successful in a house possession case brought because of arrears of rent. The tenant said the place was in bad repair, the floors were in a bad state and if he had not wired them the windows would have fallen out. The farmer said there was nothing wrong with the house and he had done the repairs. The rent was 2s.6d. a week

1927 04 22

Cambridge Guardians discussed provision of suitable accommodation for the Assistant Master by adapting the aged men's dormitory. His present room was nothing but a pig-sty and they ought to be ashamed to house their servant in such quarters. If he were given the proposed quarters he would be in a better position to carry out his duties. But there were undergraduates living in rooms no better and thousands of men and women living under worse conditions. The Master had suggested he could put four old male inmates in a bedroom which was not considered suitable for one person. Who was going to "rule the roost" – the Master or the Guardians?

1927 04 22 ES

Littleport – M.J. Duncombe, manager Lloyds Bank leaving – 27 04 22(3) ES

Death P.c. Samuel Fincham of March; born Lt Downham, fought WWI – 27 04 22(5) ES

Trooper-Sergeant Watson of Wilburton in Shanghai Police – photo – 27 04 22 ES

1927 04 23

Why does skipping always take place on Parker's Piece, Cambridge on Good Friday and Easter Monday? An old man of 83 remembers skipping there as a boy of five or six and his father apparently did so before him. It seems that Good Friday used to be the publican's "day out" and they used to repair to the Piece for a game of bat and trap, while their youngsters amused themselves with a skipping rope. We don't hear much about Bat and Trap nowadays but the skipping goes on as of yore.

1927 04 23

There is quite a fluttering in the political dovecotes of Cambridge over the Government's decision to give the Parliamentary vote to women at 21 on the same terms as men. This may produce as many as 15,000 new votes. The strongest criticism comes from Cambridge Conservatives who fear for the effects on their own prospects at the poll. In the county very few young girls remain in the country but take up positions in the towns and so do not come on the county registers. Seeing the new bill would bring in women nine years younger, and in addition a number of women of 30 years of age who have not now got the vote, it is estimated the number of new women electors at 5,000.

Whippet racing, p3

Cambridge and cocktails, p8

1927 04 25

Night raids hen houses, p5

1927 04 26

Exning diamond wedding, p6

1927 04 27

"It does strike me as a little odd that neither the University nor town had done anything to preserve relics of old Cambridge. So much has left the town and is now scattered all over the earth. I should like to see the Borough start a scheme to preserve what is found and keep together for the study of old Cambridge anything that turns up". This wish was expressed by Dr Louis Clark, curator of the University Museum of Archaeology and Ethnology. When one visited other places one did feel that there was a serious lacuna in the civic life of Cambridge.

1927 04 27

"I feel it should be the utmost endeavour to get townspeople now existing in Burrell's Walk out of those hutments and into council houses with the greatest expediency", said A.C. Taylor, the Independent candidate in the Castle Ward by-election. He was gravely concerned with the sanitary conditions of the place and while the huts served a very useful purpose years ago they were never intended to be permanent abodes of civil population. There were some worse cases in Cambridge but for young people with families the cramped conditions and colourless surroundings did not make for the bringing up of bright, healthy children.

Conan Doyle spiritualism debate, p6

1927 04 28

Linton RDC was told that houses, which had cost £900 to build, were now being valued at only £300. There were houses in every stage of decay, many of them past repair. They were owned by private owners who received such a low rent that they did not feel like spending money on the preservation of their property. Owners were reluctant to spend money they would never get back. People were leaving the villages and flocking to the towns and how could you keep them unless you build houses for them to live in. There were places where cottages had not been built for 20 years.

Kirtling farmer failure, p6

Littleport grocer failure, p6

Bartlow bridge, p6

1927 04 29

Crowds of people thronged to Papworth Everard on the occasion of the opening of the new Wesleyan Chapel, which is up-to-date in every respect. The funds had been mainly raised by a visit of Gypsy Smith, a sale, and a gift from the Home Mission Department. Mr Inskip offered a word of warning: In small congregations quarrelling could be a cause of trouble. They should work together to make this venture a success. Many people come to Papworth on account of their health and will come to the chapel with hearts full of thanksgiving.

1927 04 29

Mill Road Baptist Church, Cambridge, was packed when a new organ which has just been installed was formally opened. There was a time when a church of that sort would not have had an organ at any price. It appears to be a good all-round instrument and some of the stops are beautifully mellow. The organ was built by the local firm of Messrs Miller & Son, Sidney Street, and they have certainly made a splendid job. They have used some of the pipes of the old organ and worked in the old with the new excellently.

1927 04 29

The stone-laying ceremony in connection with the new hall at Hills Road Wesleyan Church, Cambridge took place. It will be a single-storey building but with a view to enlarging later, if necessary. Mr C. Kerridge and Mr W.A. Gray, members of the church, are the honorary architects and the building is being done by Messrs J.R. Bennett & sons. Too often had they had to work under most depressing and unfavourable conditions. The Young Men's Fraternal had increased from five to nearly 50; if they did not make provision for these young fellows others would step in and reap what they had sown.

Ouse Drainage bill attacked, p5 & p6

1927 04 30

Part of the club room of the Footlights Dramatic Club above the Masonic Hall in Corn Exchange Street Cambridge was damaged as a result of a fire with flames coming through the roof. It was fortunate it was discovered early or it would have worked round to a little stage where inflammable material might have created a more alarming blaze. It is feared some photographs of former members of the club have been destroyed. The water came through the ceiling of the Masonic Hall and the fine dance floor was soon flooded. The Rodney Dramatic Club had engaged the Hall for a dinner dance and it may not be available for part of the function.

1927 04 30

A demonstration of a new British invention which insures motorists against tyre trouble was given at Messrs Saints' garage, Newmarket Road, Cambridge. The Otomatic Service is a powder composed of particles of raw rubber and cork and flakes of mica which is inserted into the inner tube of a tyre through the valve hole with a small quantity of liquid formalin and water. When the tyre is inflated and the car put in motion a thin film is distributed inside the tread which automatically seals any puncture which may occur. In event of a burst the inner tubes will be repaired free of charge for 12 months, no matter how numerous the bursts, provided they are not over three inches in length.

Ely bowls new rink, p7

Spiritualism debate, p8

May 1927 CDN

1927 05 02

Twelve people were rendered homeless and lost the whole of their possessions as the result of a fire at Pampisford. The conflagration was on College Farm and two adjoining cottages were involved. . There is just one wall and two chimney stacks left standing. The walls of wood, which are hollow with a canvas covering inside, and the thatched roof blazed with great fierceness. One family consisted of seven persons, the husband, wife and five children, while there were five in the other cottage and they had to escape in their night-clothes. They are now homeless and clothes-less. The only property saved was a chair, a perambulator and a toothbrush

May Day demonstration, p6

1927 05 03

Frost free crops

1927 05 04

Businessmen in Cambridge are brought into closer touch with Paris by the acceleration of the Southern Railway's night service, Southampton and Havre. As the result of close co-operation with the State railway of France and the mutual alterations of timetables, the double journey to Paris can now be made with only one-day's absence from England and the traveller is allowed about nine hours in the French capital. The acceleration results in a saving of 84 minutes on each journey.

Littlechild & Foster retire council, p6

Burwell row charity, p6

1927 05 06

Cambridge Guildhall was packed for "Welcome Home" and jubilee celebrations organised in honour of Gypsy Smith, the world-famed evangelist, who has just returned from Australia and New Zealand. The Gypsy told of some of his experiences during this last tour and recounted again how he was converted in the little chapel in Fitzroy Street. A telegraph of "much satisfaction" was received from the King and he was presented with a history of Cambridge. The Mayor said that 50 years of service was a wonderful record. He was the missionary and evangelist to the English-speaking people and had probably spoken to more of the English race than any person, living or dead. Cambridge ought to be particularly proud as his career had started here.

1927 05 06 ES

Isle County Library progress – 27 05 06 ES

The Isle of Ely County Librarian reported that an increased supply of books would result in a largely increased membership. This was especially the case in the larger villages, in some places, notably Whittlesey and Wisbech, the librarians had felt compelled to refuse registering fresh borrowers, as they had no books to give them. With regard to Whittlesey, Littleport and Chatteris she would advise a standing collection of some 400 to 650 volumes to include a certain number of reference books and a floating library which would be partially changed. To house these larger collections bookcases would be necessary and she thought the townspeople themselves might be called upon to raise the money. 27 05 05ES

Superstitions of Cambridgeshire fens. The age of superstition is not yet over, and many of the following odd notions, which are extracted from a book published in 1620, are yet to be met with amongst people in Fenland.

That it is a sign of ill luck to find money.

That to dream of gold is good luck but of silver ill.

That it is very bad luck to have a hair cross one in the highway.

That when the cat washes her face over her ears we shall have a great quantity of rain.

That when a candle burns blue it is a sign that there is a spirit in the house or not far from it.

That if a man stumbles in the morning as soon as he comes out of doors it is a sign of ill luck.

That when the left cheek burns it is the sign somebody talks well of you, but if the right cheek burns it is a sign of ill.

That it is a sign of death to see someone in the house where crickets have been for many years if on a sudden they forsake the chimney corner.

That it is a very unfortunate thing for a man to meet early in the morning an ill-favoured man or woman, a rough footed hen, a shaggy haired dog or a black cat.

That it is ill luck for any man to give a pair of knives to his sweetheart for fear it cuts away all love that is between them. 27 05 05ES

1927 05 07

The Festival Theatre in Newmarket Road, Cambridge has opened a roof garden. In warm weather there could hardly be anything more pleasanter than a meal on the roof preparatory to seeing the performance below and there is not the slightest doubt that it will be a great attraction to visitors. The view is not extensive, it is true, but the surroundings are novel and amongst undergraduates it will certainly be "the thing to do" as often as funds permit.

Women co-operative jubilee, p7

Bowls openings, p8

Cheap houses, p8

Cambridge Independent Press to start pictorial record, p8

1927 05 10

It is just 50 years since the Cambridge Mission began its work in Delhi and the event was marked in Sidney Sussex Chapel. The two young Cambridge men who went out to Delhi in 1877, the Rev Edward Bickersteth of Pembroke College and Mr John Murray of St John's, were charged to help to the missionaries of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, and the fruit of their labours have been carried on by the Cambridge Brotherhood. No mere recital of the details of its organisation can give any idea of the interest and the romance of the Cambridge Mission. It owed its inception largely to Dr Westcott and has given to India outstanding missionaries and a host of devoted workers. It affords unique opportunities for Christian service to the Indian people in one of their greatest and most historic cities. The wonder is that it is not better supported by Cambridge men, past and present.

Good news – lino, p3

1927 05 11

An 18-hole putting green on Jesus Green, Cambridge, was opened by the Mayor. This is an innovation so far as the town's open spaces are concerned and promises to be a great attraction. There was a good attendance of aldermen and the chairman said that many of them played golf, and he understood that everyone who played golf could swear (Laughter). The Mayor said he did not play golf and they could assume from that there was another thing he could not do. Cambridge owed the initiation of the green to the generosity of Col Tebbutt who promised £150 if such a green was provided. It had cost £200. The Mayor played the first round and won by three holes.

1927 05 11

Fifteen years ago the Mayor, as plain Mr J. Conder, suggested that that Lammas Land at Newnham, might be turned into a recreation ground. "I little thought it would come true", he confessed when he opened the said Lammas Land to the general public. This latest recreation ground will supply a long-felt want. The habits of the people had improved and one reason was the provision of suitable recreation which enabled them to enjoy themselves in a healthy and happy way.

1927 05 11

The complete story of the Festival Theatre in Newmarket Road was told by Mr C. Harold Ridge to the Cambridge Rotary Club. It had sprung from the kindred interests of Mr Gray, Mr Prentice and himself. They had spent a couple of years in London searching for a suitable building to start a repertory theatre but regulations made it impossible. They considered Sheffield but eventually the Barnwell Theatre was taken. They wished to present some of the great number of plays which stood no chance of being publicly performed elsewhere. There was no room for actors who wanted to be waited on at the Festival Theatre. All were expected to make themselves useful, putting their hands to stage carpentry and before one performance were washing down the stage steps. They worked seven days a week and 14 hours a day, and everyone was frightfully keen.

Clara Butt, p8

Ortona advert – picture, p3

Addenbrooke's Hospital new building, p6

Fen Drayton meeting, p6

1927 05 12

The foundation stone-laying in connection with the new houses being built by the Cambridge Housing Society at Green End Road, Milton Road was performed by the Master of Trinity. The Society was formed to provide houses for people with larger families who are not in a position to pay council house rents. Overcrowding produced bad results and in Cambridge there were 200 condemned houses which could not be scrapped because there were no other houses in which to put the occupants. It was hoped that what was spent on these houses would be saved on gaols, workhouses, hospitals and other institutions.

C.H. Ellis market toll collector, p6

1927 05 13

Cambridge councillors proceeded to the site of the open-air school which, when completed, will provide accommodation for 120 physically and 50 mentally defective children. The two departments will be quite separate. They read of children who were excluded from school owing to ill-health and many were running wild in the streets without education or discipline. The remedy was a day open-air school where they could receive the treatment they required – open air, good food and rest, while at the same time their education would be continued. Vinery Road school had been opened in May 1916 with 20 children and benefits had far exceeded expectations. When this new school was finished they would look back with amusement on the tent used as a classroom and the first wooden shelter which was still in good enough condition to be moved there.

1927 05 13

The foundation stone of the Brunswick School in Walnut Tree Avenue, Cambridge was laid. It will provide accommodation for nearly 1,100 children. The Mayor said it was unfortunate, perhaps, that the other Brunswick School fell down but this was a better building. When they compelled children to go to school there was an obligation to see the building provided as much fresh air and sunlight as possible. They hoped that with the extra communication which some day would make traffic over the river easier for schoolchildren (laughter) Chesterton people would send their children to that school

Lino sale, p3

Housing contractor bankruptcy, p7

Cambridge & Cambridgeshire re roads, p8

1927 05 13 ES

Littleport disastrous fire at engineering works of Henry Judd

Great havoc was wrought by a fire which broke out the general engineering works of Mr. H Judd on the Ely Road Littleport in the early hours of Saturday morning. With such fury did the flames spread that Mr. Judd's private residents and workshops were completely gutted, save one shed, which only hangs together on blackened timbers. In the top picture, Mr. Judd holding his pet dog is seen with his son and Mr. C. W. Thornhill, whose collie dog drew his attention to the outbreak by its incessant barking. Below is a general view showing how devastating were the effects of the conflagration. All that stands there now is a charred and twisted mass of mechanical parts and the galvanised roofing of the worktops. A bungalow adjoining the property was saved but the woodwork on the side of the house was badly scorched, and the glass in the window resembled frozen glass more than anything else. So fierce was the blaze that within one and a half hours the whole of the property was reduced to ground level with the exception of the shed at the bottom of the yard. Even this had every piece of timber in it charred black, and so dangerously does it hang together, that it will have to be dismantled and rebuilt. 27 05 13ES

Tom Mitcham, farmer of Coveney stated he was driving a horse on Wentworth corner at about 10pm He had two front lamps on his car and a rear one for safety. He noticed a motorcar just as he got into the Coveney Road the car pressed into the back of the cart. The horse was upset and slid four feet along the road. The driver got out of the car and told them they were too slow. He also said they had stopped his little Morgan. No one was hurt. The driver told PC Hammond he was driving towards home from Witchford and did not see anything until he got to Wentworth where he hit a horse and cart. He would be travelling about 20 miles per hour at the time. He admitted having had a glass or two of beer. He was fined five pounds 27 05 13ES

1927 05 14

Mr Oswald Mosley, Labour MP for Smethwick, was howled down when he attempted to address a meeting under the auspices of the Cambridge University Labour Club at Cambridge Guildhall. Some 300 undergraduates congregated as the back of the hall and shouts, cat-calls, and cheers were almost continuous, completely drowning the speakers' voices. Mr Mosley, exerting his powerful voice to the utmost, battled gallantly for a hearing for half an hour but eventually sat down and the meeting was abandoned.

Tale of tablet, p8

Undergraduate film, p8*

Chesterton Hall estate verges, p8

1927 05 16

Trinity Hall Boat Club centenary, p8

1927 05 18

Property purchase, p5

Cattle on Coldham's Common, p6

1927 05 19

Guardians wood cutting, p6*

1927 05 20

Prompt action by a young Ely man averted what might have proved serious damage at an Ely railway bridge. The fire occurred at the Cresswells bridge over the River Ouse. The bridge, which is an iron structure, has a large amount of wooden sleepers, well pickled, and it was here the fire originated with flames rising seven feet into the air. Realising that a train was due to pass over he attacked it with pails of water from a tank close by. His first idea was that it was caused by a passing steamer or barge on the river but it is now thought it was started by a spark or hot cinders falling from a passing engine.

Public libraries, p6

Burrells Walk & Library, p6*

1927 05 20 ES

Stretham Hospital Parade – account & photos from Rectory Wall in High Street – 27 05 20 & (2) ES

Water cart in Lt Downham, cut off by burst main – photo – 27 05 20(3) ES

A photograph shows the few of the early birds to raid the water cart which brought a supply to Ely from Little Downham on Thursday afternoon when housewives were despairing of how they were to make that afternoon cup of tea, in consequence of supplies being cut off through a burst main. The man in charge of the tank spent a busy but good humoured time, distributing the water which was never more appreciated than on this occasion. 27 05 20ES

Crossing Hundred Feet Wash – new railway bridge

Where main-line trains of the London & North Eastern Railway wend their way through the heart of the fens between Black Bank and Manea there is now in progress a big scheme of railroad construction, which will see the disappearance of one of the two timber structures that have carried the railway above the Hundred Foot washes. Huge quantities of concrete have been sunk into the wash to form the foundation.

One item of interest was the finding of two skeletons, evidently of a man and a woman, which were dug up by the workmen and afterwards sent to Cambridge. 27 05 20ES

Cockshutt Tractor Plough: advertisement. 27 05 20ES

1927 05 21

Boy in Cam – Gerry, p3

Burrells Walk huts, p7

1927 05 23

The coming of age of Viscount Hinchbrooke was celebrated at Huntingdon. Luncheon was served to the tenantry & Colonel Chichester, Chief Constable, on behalf of the tenants presented Lord Hinchbrooke with a magnificent travelling clock and weather barometer. In the evening the house staff and employees on the farms and gardens were entertained to tea at which his Lordship was presented with a handsome silver inkstand. The band of the 5th Hunts Battalion, Northants Regiment played for dancing.

1927 05 24

There is one day in the whole year when the little village of Reach throws off its cares and takes a holiday all on its own – the day of its fair. And this year the day re-captured its old spirit of joyous abandon and merry-making. The roundabouts soon had a load of laughing councillors who rode their wooden steeds with schoolboy enthusiasm, the coconuts went over at a merry pace to the accompaniment of civic cheers while the bell of the test-your-strength machine was rung time after time by the strong men of the party, the Mayor of Cambridge showing himself to be a past-master at the game.

1927 05 26

Fordham seedsman, p3

Soham pastor bankrupt, p6

1927 05 27

Perse Girls pageant, p3

Ouse Drainage Board payment, p6

1927 05 27 ES

The old Welney suspension bridge has disappeared from view and in its place has arisen and imposing modern structure. Welney Suspension Bridge was a unique old span of which nothing now remains but its age-worn buttments standing side by side with the concrete pillars of an imposing successor. The new bridge with its huge concrete supports strikes a lordly note in its very rural surroundings. It carries across the water a 30-foot roadway on each side of which a graceful arch of concrete will divide the traffic from the five-foot wide footpaths at the extreme sites of which pedestrians are guarded from the river by fencing of attractive design. The bridge is of the same style as the new structure across the Ouse at King's Lynn although it requires only one span. The disappearance of the Suspension Bridge, which had a particularly interesting history, removes an impediment from the progress of the users of the road. No more when they pull up before the outstretched hand of the toll gatherer, brakes will cease to be applied before the gates of custom and pedestrians who even had to produce a penny for their passing will now go on their way in peace. The new bridge is complete but is closed for making up the approaches. A steady gradient of 100 yards is being made on each side of the approach road and the large quantity of earth are being moved from adjoining land by means of a miniature railway. The original bridge was built in 1826 by the Rector of Welney at his own cost. A 99 year lease was granted by the Bedford Level Corporation which has since been merged with the Ouse Drainage Board. The bridge had fallen into a very bad state of repair and about 15 years ago the owner offered to hand it to Norfolk and Isle of Ely County Councils, together with a sum of money to relieve him of the responsibilities. The offer came to naught and the owner spend money in repairs, putting in a new floor and causing the structure to hang on to the time the lease expired. Then came a move for the new bridge. All agreed the bridge was in a dangerous state and had to be rebuilt and an estimate of £15,000 was submitted by Norfolk County Surveyor. Happily this estimate was substantially reduced later on. The Ministry of Transport agreed to pay half the cost and the Ouse Drainage Board, Isle of Ely County Council and Trustees of Marshall's Charity also contributed. The Ministry have insisted it should in future be a free bridge – 27 05 27 & (2)& (3), photo (4) ES

1927 05 28

A new private road – Sedley Taylor Road – will be opened shortly leading from the Hills Road via Luard Road to Long Road. It has been constructed under the supervision of Messrs Bidwell & Sons, acting on behalf of Trinity College on whose building estate the road is situated. It opens up a large number of building sites in this popular residential district. The late Mr Sedley Taylor was a distinguished Fellow of Trinity and well known for his foresight in promoting the establishment of school dental clinics in Cambridge, the first in the country.

Littleton House school, p3

County & Borough, p8

Pillion-riding, p8

1927 05 30

Buses are taking people right through Regent Street into the town and, once there, they make their purchases at the nearest shop. Now Regent Street tradesmen have organised a shopping week & made their windows more than usually attractive. They claim to be the "Street of Specialists' Traders" & boast the only taxidermist in Cambridge and many more lady hairdressers than any other street. A slogan is being used: "You get what you want and want what you get in Regent Street"

1927 05 31

Regional Town Planning, p6

June 1927 CDN

1927 06 01

A remarkable story of the exploits of youths in temporarily appropriated cars, which were subsequently abandoned, was related to Cambridge magistrates. Two teenage boys were charged with stealing a Morris Cowley motor car to the value of £80, two gallons of petrol and a quantity of oil. The lads were guilty of a “foolish prank” It was evident that they went out for what was called a “joy ride” and had no intention of stealing it

1926 06 02

Death J.B. Bury, p3

Red Indian chief, p4

1927 06 04

A Cambridge Swifts Football Club player was suspended for a month for threatening the referee following his receiving “marching orders” in the final of the Cottenham Nursing Cup. Mr Smith, the referee said the player threatened to smash his brains out after the match after he had ordered him off for deliberately kicking the centre-forward of the home club on the thigh.

1927 06 04

The Mercury Press has produced a verse by Quentin Nelson, in which an undergraduate learns that a road is to be built across Coe Fen, and gives vent to his feelings: “Every frog and every toad, Will croak damnation to your soul!” Well in the first place we don’t speak of Coe Fen Road now – it is Fen Causeway – and secondly most of us believe the Fen is being appreciated more nowadays than ever it has been in the past. Still Mr Nelson’s poetic outburst is none the less interesting because we do not happen to agree with him

1927 06 04

Right alongside Fenner’s cricket ground in Cambridge is a dumping pit for horse droppings and sweepings of the street. The authorities empty this store in mid-afternoon which permits visitors to get the full flavour of the town. Now orders have been given for the labourers to get to work before 9 a.m., but there is a slip – they forgot to give orders not to fill the receptacle while play was in progress! Would it not be possible to have the hole finally closed and let the entrance to Fenner’s be clean pleasure?

Whitsun, p6

Rhymes of the river, p8

‘Grit’, p8

1927 06 06

Demonstrations of hostility against the Vicar of the Essex village of Manuden have been staged on alternative nights in the village streets outside the Vicarage since he returned from London, where he had married within a month of the death of his wife, the nurse who had been in attendance during his wife’s last illness. A crowd numbering about 300 armed with petrol cans, pieces of sheet iron and a bugle, made as much noise as possible. One said: “we are trying to show the displeasure of the village and will carry on in order to move them out”. A neighbour said: “This mobbing is in very bad taste. The vicar has done nothing wrong morally and legally in marrying again”.

Wednesday 5th June

1927 06 07

Foxton tableau, p6

1927 06 08

Chief Os-Ke-Non-Ton, a prince of the Mohawk tribe, gave a fascinating song recital of North American and Red Indian music at Cambridge guildhall. Arrayed in the picturesque costume of his race he rendered invocations, incantations and war whoops of various tribes and concluded with a selection of primitive Red Indian music to tom-tom accompaniment, and a demonstration of making fire by rubbing sticks together. The local arrangements were made by Messrs Miller & Son.

800 choristers, Ely Cathedral, p6

1927 06 09

Cambridge Undergraduates took upon themselves the duty of opening “Joanna Southcott’s” famous box on the Market Hill. A crowd of mammoth proportions assembled. A melancholy dirge was heard from Petty Cury and there appeared a party of pipers and following them in one of Dale’s lorries came a weird array of 24 “bishops” and a delegation of “Mormons” wearing huge straw sombreros. One “archbishop” proceeded to open the box, producing several layers of red tape, a teddy bear, a pair of old football boots and a number of bananas with which he pelted the crowd. The “rag” was organised to provide funds for the Cambridge Fruiting Campaign to help strawberry pickers in the Wisbech area.

1927 06 09

“Grit” is an undergraduate film taken by a little Cine-Kodak and projected by the Kodascope at the Tivoli Cinema. It is believed to be the first serious attempt in an English University to obtain experience in the technique of film production and is one of the first amateur films to be exhibited in the country. It has been directed by Mr Dennis Arundell and we get some good views of Cambridge streets and colleges. It shows how the stroke of a college crew is kidnapped so his boat might not go head of the river.

1927 06 10

The Chancellor of the Diocese of Ely presided at a Consistory Court when the Vicar of Ickleton asked for a petition for the casting of all the bells of the church. It had originally been decided that only one be re-cast but the bell-founders advised they should all be done and the work had been completed. This was rather serious. On account of their wrongful action the bells were lost forever and no order would restore them. The churchwardens were suspended from office and the Vicar reported for acting in a most improper way

Undergraduate prank, p5
Burrells Walk tenancy, p7
Rag photos, p8

1927 06 11

Rag sequel, p5
Rag filmed, p7
CUMS concert broadcast, p8
‘Grit’ film, p8
‘Ian Hay’, p8

1927 06 13

One of the largest crowds in memory witnessed the last of what may go down in history as the “Microphone Mays”. Both banks of the Cam at Ditton presented the spectacle of an unbroken line of sightseers. There were three men up a tree at Ditton Paddock; they and their friend the microphone were telling all England what was happening and theirs was truly a romance of the tree tops. One wonders how many old Cambridge men were listening-in to a drama in which they once played a part.

1927 06 13

Jesus College were the fastest rowers on the river and deserved to succeed in the May Races. As in other years a huge bonfire was lighted in the grounds of the college and the undergraduates celebrated the return of the Headship by dancing round the flames, shouting and singing. The "orgy" was kept up to midnight. The revels were watched by a large crowd of townspeople and some of the merry-makers engaged in good-humoured banter, amusing them with impromptu speeches.

1927 06 13

A great deal of interest was taken in the private performance of Strindberg's "Miss Julie" at the Festival Theatre, Cambridge & the house was packed. The play was to have been produced earlier in the term but owing to its public presentation being banned by the Lord Chamberlain it had to be withdrawn. Banned plays create more interest and discussion than they deserve. There is nothing very terrible about a count's daughter running away with his footman & we agree with Mr Gray that it is difficult to find any reason for the Censor having frowned upon the piece.

May Week memories, p3

Gamlingay lady burnt to death, p5

1927 06 15

Three well-known Cambridge sportsmen who have completed their academic careers distinguished themselves by spending part of the night in the grounds of one of the women's colleges and part in another. At midnight on Saturday they climbed into Newnham, taking with them a tent which they pitched in full view and were not discovered until they were all snug in "bed", when they commenced community singing. Newnham Dons became alarmed and phoned for the police, who turned them out. They then motored to Girton, scaled a twelve-foot wall and pitched the tent. They were not discovered until the early hours of the morning when the earliest risers amongst the lady students saw the strange sight in the middle of the court.

Vagrants increase, p5*

1927 06 15 c

Cambridge station had a very busy weekend. Over 4,000 travelled on Saturday to visit the Midsummer Fair. Extra carriages were attached to all incoming and outgoing trains and late special trains were run to Haverhill, Newmarket, St Ives and Great Chesterford.

1927 06 16

Wyatt accident, p4

1927 06 17

Deaf & dumb institute, p8*

Ouse Drainage bill, p8

1927 06 18

Kings Hedges houses, p3

Isle MP opposes Ouse Bill, p6

Reserved spaces for council cars, p6*

1927 06 20

Conservative fete, Gogs, p5

1927 06 21

Huntingdon Road junction, p5

1927 06 22

Cambridge slums, p6

Mammoth Show wound up, p6*

1927 06 23

Student extravagance, p5

Playhouses, p8

1927 06 25

Neither Borough nor County ratepayers can have much cause for satisfaction over the roads controversy between the councils. It is a thousand pities that things should have been allowed to reach such a pass. If both councils only stood by the lip-service they have given to the supposed good relations between them, then the present deplorable state of affairs would never have arisen. Now the matter will be fought out to the bitter end. Even if Cambridge wins their case the County can maintain the roads through the district councils.

1927 06 25

When the honours degree men were presented to the Vice Chancellor there was distinct evidence of a movement to break down the tradition of wearing evening dress. Many graduates were in morning dress and soon the sight of men walking about the streets of Cambridge at noon in evening dress will be a thing of the past. The old statutes prescribed that recipients of Bachelors' degrees must appear in black clothes and since the war impecunious undergraduates found their only black suits were their dress clothes. The new statute states that dark clothes must be worn which brings in the lounge suit. The evening dress tradition is not very old and rests on nothing but undergraduates' customs.

Gipsy Smith jubilee, p6

1927 06 27

An inspection of the River Rhee from Guilden Morden to Cambridge showed banks were much overgrown and a number of trees had fallen into the stream. There was only one foot of water in the river in places. There are two mills in use, at Guilden Morden and Grantchester. One at Harston had not been used for a year and at Barrington no work had been possible for some years and the channel was blocked up. The river at Shelford was in a most dilapidated state

Midsummer Fair trains, p3*

Midsummer Fair accident, p4

1927 06 28

Her Royal Highness, Princess Mary, visited Papworth Village Colony and opened the new Guides' and Scouts' headquarters, a hut of asbestos and wood, which has been erected by men of the settlement. The village was en fete, flags flying from nearly every house and a large crowd assembled to welcome the Royal visitor.

1927 06 28

Princess Mary at Papworth, p5*

1927 06 29

Hundreds of Cambridge people forsook their beds very early and hied them to various natural observation points in the hope of seeing something of the eclipse. Most of the roads leading to some elevated point in the surrounding countryside had a stream of cars, motor cycles and push cycles. In Cambridge itself people were seen in the streets gazing skywards and framed in bedroom windows wrapped in eiderdowns and blankets. But generally speaking the eclipse was eclipsed by clouds.

1927 06 29

Many will regret the death of the Rev J.C. Rust, Vicar of Soham. In 1863 he was admitted to Pembroke College when there were never as many as 30 undergraduates in residence. They might have excused their absence on the river by pointing to the fewness of their numbers but passed the resolution "That so long as there are 18 men in the college, Pembroke shall keep two boats on the river” and Rust was made cox. In 1874 the college living of Soham fell vacant and he was instituted. He was elected chairman of the Parish Council on its formation in 1895 and appointed a member of the first County Education Committee. He was vice-president of the British Esperanto Association and preached the first sermon in Esperanto.

1927 06 30

The memorial sports pavilion in the recreation grounds at Fordham was formally opened by Viscount St Davids. It was erected to the memory of the late Mrs Dunn-Gardner in the grounds she gave to the parishioners. The building contains two spacious dressing rooms, for the Cricket & Bowls clubs. Fordham possessed one of the best recreation grounds in the whole of the Eastern Counties, what they had to do was to improve the ground and keep it tidy. What they would like in time to come was an athletic ground

July 1927 CDN

1927 07 01

Sir – in a recent issue it was suggested that a visiting sewing maid should be able (at 2s.6d. for three hours) to earn from £2 to £3 a week. Possibly if she had no domestic work to do for herself and were an expert machinist and dressmaker she might, but it means working eight or nine hours to reach even £2. The eye-strain is the worst part; I do fine mending and needlework, chiefly repairs, at 8d or 9d an hour and can make only 13s. a week. I believe charwomen are better paid – “A poor sempstress”

Stretham garden fete, p5

Sempstress’ lot, p7

1927 07 02

Sir – the work has been started to widen Victoria Avenue, Cambridge, from the Four Lamps to Victoria Bridge. The roadway when finished will be wide enough for vehicle traffic to proceed four abreast. The Bridge will not be so wide as the road and heavy traffic may mean serious congestion. Some suggest the road over the bridge may be made wider by making the footpaths overlap the river. If this were done the narrow road on the north side would be an obstacle and as this roadway cannot be made right through to Chesterton Road this scheme should never go forward – E. Clayden

MoH smallpox, p6

1927 07 04

St Ives tragedy, p5

1927 07 05

“A state bordering on perfection” is the report of the Cambridge Public Dental officer on the treatment of elementary school children during 1928. 642 parents had written to refuse treatment for their children but we shall slowly educate the public that dental treatment for children is well worth while, he says. The improvement in the condition of the teeth has advantageously affected the physique of the children – in 1908 17 per cent of the Cambridge children were of poor physique, whereas in 1925 only 1.8 per cent were found to be so.

St Ives tragedy, p5

Histon Baptist Smith minister, p5

1927 07 06

School discipline, p6

1927 07 07

The Conservators of the River Cam considered a scheme to make the river navigable for cargo boats up to the Quayside near Magdalene Bridge. Mr Banham had recently bought a vessel for conveying cargo and at present it can only come as far as Jesus Lock. There had been no traffic for years and the state of the river was very bad. There was a possibility that the river could be dredged but the Commons Committee had taken a lot of trouble to make Jesus Green a beauty spot and would not sanction the deposit being placed on the Common.

1927 07 07

Eight people were rendered homeless as a result of a fire which involved two old-fashioned cottages in High Street Waterbeach. They were built of brick and plaster with a galvanised iron roof over thatch. In one, containing five rooms, a pantry and a wash house lived Mr & Mrs Cudworth and their five children, while the adjoining cottage, occupied by Mrs Hole, consisted of four rooms. The Waterbeach Fire Brigade was soon on the scene but the supply of water from neighbouring pumps soon proved inadequate. Meanwhile a band of willing helpers assisted in removing furniture & some money which Mrs Hole kept upstairs.

Peace demonstration, p6

1927 07 08

Messrs Galloway and Porter, Cambridge, whose business operations extend to all parts of the world, have formed a private limited company. Mr Charles P. Porter, for many years sole proprietor, becomes chairman. He is well known as a Cambridge councillor and was formerly chairman of the Free Library Committee. His clients range from queens to factory boys and include foreign and colonial libraries extending to every part of the globe.

Gipsy Smith on Jazz – Cherryhinton Road Free Church, o8

1927 07 09

There is a waiting list at Addenbrooke's Hospital of 23 men, 56 woman and 7 children and it is felt that a new ward on top of Victoria would ease things. It is now necessary to close a ward for cleaning and that means keeping out patients. The hospital is working practically all the time and considerable inconvenience is caused in many ways. The doctors have to have all their meals in the Board Room and when this is being used for holding an inquest they have to wait

1927 07 09

The Long Vacation promises to be as full as ever of conferences, congresses, summer schools and the like. It is sometimes said these conferences cause a good deal of distraction to residents in Cambridge but they bring trade to the town and give an immense amount of pleasure, and perhaps, edification, to those who confer in the pleasant surroundings of Cambridge.

1927 07 11

Newmarket burglars, p5

1927 07 13

Addenbrooke's Hospital propose to build a children's ward with 22 beds and it was thought the children would enjoy being nearer the street and that passers-by would enjoy seeing the children. The X-ray department is at present very cramped; they had already decided to obtain fresh X-ray apparatus and the place wanted extending. Seven bedrooms for the medical and surgical staff could be built above it. The present staff numbered four but before long they would need six. It was a difficulty as to how the staff was to get into the main building but a covered way could be made.

1927 07 13

Fifteen hundred representatives of Young Cambridge gave a display of drills, games & folk dancing on the Town Football Club ground and provided an audience of 3,000 with a most delightful entertainment. The event was organised by the Cambridge Elementary Schools' Sports Association. Their annual sports meeting is always a great success and this display is another feather in their cap.

Last stretch of tram lines removed from St Mary's street [3.6]

Wicken suicide, p3

Electricity supply, p5

1927 07 14

The history of the Ouse Drainage Board since it was formed in 1920 could not be said to have been a success. There was a revolt on the part of the uplanders who declined to pay the drainage rate and it was impossible to recover the funds necessary. The Board had an overdraft from the bank of £65,000. Twelve county councils and four boroughs opposed the plans. A gathering of the "warring hoards" at Cambridge was unanimous on one thing, and that was that the Government should step in. It was obvious that some measures must be taken

Unemployed – Ely beet, p6

1927 07 15

Burrells Walk houses, p5

Wicken Fen appeal, p7

1927 07 15 ES

Floods: streets inundated at Soham, Littleport & Isleham houses flooded – 27 07 15(2) ES # c.12.5

Ely café-museum, Ye Olde Tea Rooms operated by Vernon Cross – 27 07 15 ES

At Ye Olde Tea Rooms, Fore Hill, Ely, Mr. F. Vernon Cross is continuing to spread the fame of a wonderful cafe museum which visited by Americans in increasing numbers. They revel at the antiquities and marvel at the collections of articles suspended on all sides of them.

The 15th century establishment with its quaint has low ceilings with massive wooden beams and rooms alive with interest. Into each you can ramble, climbing narrow staircases, the sides of which are bulging with relics of past ages. As a bakery the business has been conducted for a great many years but the tea rooms themselves are of more recent date. Immediately one enters a suggestion of age is given by the beautiful Jacobean pillar and confirmed by the dining room on the first floor with its flint pistols, long old English rifles and flintlock guns.

Facing these are some rare old coins including an Ely token. Among the pottery is an ancient vegetable drainer made in Ely by Lucas whose business ceased in 1750 and tobacco pipes made by a Lupson as far back as 1710. This was an industry which once flourished in the city

There is a Roman horseshoe found at Coveney, Roman keys and Jacobean locks. Amongst the furniture are pieces by Sheraton, Jacobean and Chippendale chairs and old tables and forms made from beams taken from Bedford house. These constitute only a fraction of the treasures stored in this treasure house where friends can meet and partake of a meal, served in the appetising styling for which the house of Cross is famed far and wide. 27 07 15ES

1927 07 16

It will interest many people to know that the authorities of King's College propose pulling down the railings in front of the college on King's Parade but are a little timid about what might follow this step and have consulted the Town Council. The Watch Committee was asked to enter into an agreement not to take any portion of the land between the railings and the college buildings for a parking place. They have reassured the college that they have no power to establish parking places on private property.

Ouse drainage, p3

New fire engine, p6

E.R. Vincent leaving for Oxford, p6

Elm Tree licence, p6

1927 07 19

Swavesey railway station was the scene of an accident. A horse and empty cart belonging to Mr Jabez Day, farmer and fruitgrower, was standing near the up-platform when the horse backed the cart into a large pile of baskets of fruit, upsetting the contents, and then fell on the line, dragging the cart with it. A train was rapidly approaching the station & the leading coach struck the horse and cart. The coach was derailed, the cart reduced to fragments of splintered wood and the horse so badly injured that it died in a short time. A breakdown gang from Cambridge soon cleared the down line on which both up and down trains had to travel, piloted by Mr H. Whitehead, the Swavesey stationmaster.

Green End housing, p3

New cinema, p6

1927 07 20

Village fairs by roadside, p6

1927 07 21

A showman was convicted for obstructing free passage of High Street, Lode. A farmer said he was driving his car and had to pull up as a roundabout was half-way across the road and a crowd of people and little children near by. A fair had a definite legal origin but a feast was an individual enterprise by proprietors of the amusements and there was no possible right to obstruct the highway. But at Bottisham the feast was held opposite the church and a feast and a fair were really one and the same. It was an occasion where the inhabitants who had left the village came back for a short time. He had visited for ten years and had a statement signed by the vicar and most of the inhabitants who were in favour of the feast being held on the same spot.

No more war, p3

Sutton trader bankruptcy, p8

1927

Cambridge Motor Club social service campaign is being continued this year and a number of inmates of the Cambridge Poor Law Institution were taken for a half-day circular trip to Royston and then on to Duxford where the party visited the Flying School and hangars. Special arrangements had been made for spectacular flying and three fighting scout planes took part in some remarkable stunts

Newton Walston memorial, p3

Palmer CAS photo lecture, p7

Fort St George house, p8

1927 07 23

There was a good deal of grouching before the inhabitants of Chesterton had a footbridge over the Cam at Dant's Ferry. Now they have got one they have found something else to grouse about. At five minutes to eight every morning the instrument workers at Pye's are hurrying to work from the other side of the river. They curse and groan, trip and stagger under the burden of carrying their bicycles up and down a steep double flight of steps. Sooner or later some panting person carrying a bicycle will fall backwards or pitch into the river. The bridge was not made for cyclists who should get up earlier and ride up Victoria Avenue.

1927 07 23 c

Cambridge council considered the erection of advertising boards by the Empire Marketing Committee at Corn Exchange Street, Market Hill, Drummer Street, Butts Green, Northampton Street and the Cattle Market. But the path in Corn Exchange Street was only five feet wide and it would be dangerous if people stopped there to look at it. They would have to put up another sign, "Safety first. Passengers must not stop to look at this advertisement". (Laughter).

1927 07 25

Councillors said that not allowing village fairs to be held on the grass at the side of main roads was an “autocratic measure” designed to safeguard “wretched motorists” and restrict the liberties of the subject. At Harston a large crowd of caravans gathered at the side of the road at a very dangerous curve where there was a lot of traffic. The fair was on the very verge of the road and it was impossible for any vehicle, especially at high speed, to pass without danger to those attending the fair. There were three constables on duty but even so the danger to children was very great. The proprietors of roundabouts had the option of a field but would not go there as long as they were able to go on to the roadside.

Newmarket poor law wedding, p5

No more war demonstration, p6

1927 07 26

A remarkable demonstration of the new “Bibendum Comfort” tyres was given at “The Backs”, Queen’s Road, Cambridge. The test consisted of driving a car along the road at about 38 mph and bursting the inner tube of the back tyre by means of a special device. The car was driven to the same spot at about 30 mph with the tyre half deflated and then purposely skidded and again with the tyre fully deflated. These tests were particularly severe, the car skidding right round, leaving skid marks 25 feet long, but the tyre never budged from the rim.

St Luke’s church retirement, p3

Fort St George house, p6

1927 07 27

Rotary house, p6

1927 07 28

Ely Housing Committee found a case where 17 people were using one W.C. and that sort of thing could be dealt with. More difficult were houses that were absolutely dangerous and unfit for the habitation of pigs. It would be a good thing if they made an example of a couple of cases and pulled down the houses to show that the Council had the matter in hand. Water supplies and the cheap manufacture of soap had done a great deal to encourage people in the ways of cleanliness and they now wanted better housing conditions for people to live in.

1927 07 29

Messrs Hunt Bros, millwrights, Soham, sued Thomas Peake, corn merchant of Littleport, for work done. Defendant owned a mill at Littleport and had there two sets of stones. He needed a new bottom stone and a workman went to the mill and took the dimensions. But some mistake was made and the new stone was found to be three or four inches too thick. That was a fatal defect. Their case was dismissed.

Cherry Hinton dusk, p8

1927 07 30

A young man, fashionably attired in a brand new plus-four suit paused at the cigarette machine outside the New Theatre, Cambridge, and inserting a sixpence drew forth a packet of cigarettes. Instead of shutting the drawer in the orthodox manner he turned his back on the machine and applied pressure by a retrograde movement. “Snap” went the drawer, taking with it about six inches of the seat of the young man’s voluminous “bags”. Finding himself held captive he appealed for sixpences to release the drawer but none would do the trick. “Debagging” was out of the question and the prisoner would not hear of being “cut away”. After twenty minutes one bright person tried the very obvious idea of pulling the handle of the drawer and he was released amid loud cheers.

Putting green, p6
Americans & guides, p6

August 1927 CDN

1927 08 01
Lloyd George at Cambridge, p3

1927 08 02
Fire broke out in the garage of Mr George Rolfe, motor mechanic in Market Street, Newmarket. The danger to Primrose House Stables was so imminent that the butler got into telephonic communication with Cambridge Fire Brigade but by the time they arrived, 50 minutes later, Newmarket Brigade had got the flames well under control. The garage was completely burnt out and four motor cars destroyed. So great was the heat that some of the glass windscreens melted and ran like tallow. It is suggested that the fag-end of a cigarette may have been smouldering among the cushions of a car until the fire reached the petrol

Band of Hope to Clacton, p4

1927 08 03
A well-known figure in Cambridge and Histon, John Guillian Davies, has died. Mr Davies, who was a cripple paralysed in the lower limbs from a very early age, gained considerable notoriety for long distance journeys in his two-speed, hand-propelled invalid chair. Last December he travelled to Leicester and back, a distance of 150 miles and previously he had journeyed to London.

Stretham band, p5

1927 08 04
German wreath cenotaph, outbreak WL, p5
Witcham grocer bankrupt, p6

1927 08 05
Fulbourn Hospital Visitors agreed that the farm was no longer large enough and more land was required for production of milk. At present 27 acres of land was hired at a fairly high rental. The price of the Cauldle Corner Farm was excessive but there were very excellent buildings and it practically adjoined hospital property. If they enlarged it was only fair to the inmates that they should have proper work to do and they should have a farm in which they could take interest.

1927 08 05 ES
Strengthening Hundred Foot River bridge – photo of train crossing - photo – 27 08 05 ES
Work on the Hundred Foot River Bridge which crosses the wash between Furlong Drove and Manea is being pushed on as rapidly as possible and will probably be completed by the end of August. The bridge is being reconstructed of iron, and while the work is in progress trains pass over it at a very much reduced speed. Until August 28th the line will be closed on Sundays and trains normally using this route will be diverted by way of the St Ives loop. The picture gives a clear idea of the improvement which is being effected and also shows a train passing from the old to the newly constructed portions of the bridge. 27 08 05ES

1927 08 06
The death took place of Mr Edwin Samuel Fisher, who was head of Downing College kitchen for nearly 50 years, having commenced his career at the early age of 13 when he became an apprentice in St John's College kitchen. While still at school he had worked under the famous chef M. Bruvet when he presided over the Downing kitchen. Mr Fisher had a very trying time during the war, at the outset of which the college suddenly was called upon to house some 90 Territorial nurses, for whom meals had to be provided in the college hall, and later he had, under great difficulty owing to rationing, to provide in a similar fashion for officer cadet battalions.

1927 08 06

Mr Lloyd George's tour in the rain of some of the Cambridgeshire smallholdings was evidence of his anxiety to gain first-hand knowledge of the problems faced on the land today. He described as "marvellous" the development of the holding of Mr David Easy, who started with three-quarters of an acre and now has 200 acres and a herd of 30 cows. Tea, taken at Mr Street's farm at Landbeach was "like a family party" and Mr Lloyd George found considerable interest that some of the articles placed before him for consumption were home grown or home-made. The tour continued to Cottenham and Willingham.

Vacation conferences, p6

1927 08 08

Mrs Whipple death, p6

1927 08 09

A butcher's shop belonging to the late Mr Fred Harrison of St Ives, with house, domestic offices & slaughter house was auctioned. Bidding started at £500 and quickly rose to £950; the Peterborough Co-operative Society eventually securing it for £1,000. A freehold old-fashioned thatched cottage at Hemingford Grey, the property of Mr A.V. Woods, was sold for £330

1927 08 10

The indiscriminate erection of bungalows along our main roads came in for criticism at Cambridge Rotary Club. Dr Charles Searle spoke of "these miserable little bungalows" but John Few said the residents might have been ordered out of a bad cottage by the Medical Officer of Health and it was often a question of expense. There were development schemes for certain parts of the outskirts of Cambridge but no planning scheme for the whole town, it was important that what was done should be done with care.

Maternity home, p6

1927 08 11

There was a large attendance at the stone-laying ceremony of the new Parochial Hall for St John's Church, Cambridge. The object is to supply a building for Sunday School work, social and other parochial gatherings. The building would have been of a different type but for the fact that part of the site has been acquired by the Corporation for making a roadway from Blinco Grove to Cavendish Avenue.

1927 08 11

A man was arrested in connection with the burglary at Norman Bradley's Fitzroy Street premises where entry had been made by forcing apart the iron bars of a window. He was traced and identified by fingerprints left on a glass panel inside the shop. They had been sent to New Scotland Yard for examination. The jewellery, which amounts to £239 has not yet been recovered.

1927 08 11

Cambridge Guardians decided to erect a barbed wire fence four feet in height on top of the wall adjoining Perowne Street to prevent casuals escaping from the Institution. The Master said there was supervision when the men were at work but they escaped when the Labour Master was at breakfast. He was afraid they would get over the cemetery wall even if this work was done. They got out of prison these days so they could not hope to keep them in the Institution. Mr Stubbs thought it was brutal to erect barbed wire.

1927 08 12

An outstanding feature in the reconstruction of our new premises at 2, Market Hill, Cambridge, are the windows which are unique for a grocery business and compare in style with a London west-end store. We welcome an opportunity of showing you a store fitted and stocked in the most complete and scientific manner and where prized traditions inherited from our predecessors (Messrs Hallack and Bond) are upheld and carried forward with modern equipment. Shoppers may actually see their coffee roasted and ground. International Stores, the greatest grocers in the world. Advert.

1927 08 13

Duxford sergeant at court, p5

New Theatre lighting, p6

Novelist is Mayor

1927 08 16

Negus jubilee, p6

1927 08 18

Linton RDC has been made a council under the Rural Workers' Act. This provides a grant of money, not for repairing cottages, but for enlarging them and making buildings which were faulty more perfect. They were empowered to make a grant of between £50 and £100 either as a donation or a loan. Conditions were set up and if any were broken the owner was liable to repay the grant with interest.

1927 08 19

A meeting for re-starting a Scout troop in Ely was held at the Shack, Nutholt Lane. The old troop was starting on a new footing, under a new name and most probably in a new type of uniform. Every boy would have to pay 2d a week, whether he was absent or present. Mr Morton was in charge and anything to do with the troop would be his matter. The Scoutmaster was not an officer of his Majesty's Army; he was not a schoolmaster or a clergyman. He was the big brother of the troop.

Lt Downham fight over horse, p5

1927 08 20

Sympathies go out to the President of Magdalene College and all concerned in the tragic motoring accident near Godmanchester. Cambridge is the poorer by the loss a lady of high ideals who had devoted much of her time and energies to the advancement of women. She was an experienced and extremely careful driver who had taken three-quarters of an hour to cover 14 miles and there cannot be the slightest suggestion of reckless driving or excessive speed. 30 mph is reckoned a safe speed, provided there is a clear, straight road but the consequence of a momentary swerve may be fatal. There is no doubt that nowadays few people stand in greater jeopardy than those who venture on the road.

1927 08 22

Street lights, p3

1927 08 23

Fennings, Ely carriage builder, p5

1927 08 23 c

Four persons from Cambridge who were on one motor cycle were fined at Highgate for dangerous driving. It was stated that one man rode in front on the petrol tank, a girl was seated on the tank, another girl was on the saddle and a man rode on the carrier. PC Squires, from Cambridge, said that neither of the men did any work and their favourite pastime was to take out girls for pillion rides.

1927 08 25

An empty furniture van belonging to Mr R.W. Finbow of Hooper Street, Cambridge, was proceeding to Kentford when it suddenly burst into flames. Mr Fred Saunders of Histon, who was closely behind, obtained a fire extinguisher but the flames had secured a great hold and this proved of no avail. Other motorists and an A.A. scout rendered every possible assistance but their efforts were in vain and the van was soon reduced to charred ruins.

1927 08 26

Mr Dick Atkin of Ely UDC was pursuing his duties down at the bottom of a manhole in St Mary's Street, with the trapdoor up. "I heard a lot of crashing up above and for the moment thought the whole place was going to collapse around me. I was in complete darkness for over 20 minutes and wondered what had happened until someone pulled the horse's tail out and gave me a little light to go on with", he said. It appears a horse was standing patiently when it was struck by a car; its offside leg and hind quarters went down the hole and completely stopped the opening up. After half an hour's struggle the animal was pulled safely from the hole and daylight restored to the imprisoned man

1927 08 26 ES

The growth of March – few towns have made such progress in the building of house in recent years; new site for 100 houses on Upwell Road - photo feature – 27 08 26 ES

1927 08 27

Bidwells open Ipswich, p5

Library assistance & periodicals, p6

1927 08 29

The season 1927 is likely to be long remembered by agriculture generally. And those recollections will be anything but pleasant. Nor is the weather entirely responsible. Wheat came up well, but on heavy land we had a bad set in the spring, the land being sodden with wet, and late frost most nights played havoc, from which recovery was impossible. Some fields of spring oats are good but are mostly tangled by adverse weather conditions and difficult to handle. There are some excellent crops of sugar beet but when growers note the profits made by the beet factories and compare it with their own year's accounts one fails to see the justice in the contract price offered – R.L. Fuller, Wicken

1927 08 30

A man was convicted of stealing two gentlemen's overcoats from a motor car outside the Conservative Club, Saffron Walden. Mortimer Medcalf, farmer of Copt Hall Farm, spoke of leaving his coat in his car which he valued at £3 5s. and Arthur Dix said he had also lost a pair of gloves and a 2-foot rule which had been in his coat pocket. PC Turner said he saw the prisoner wearing both coats. He said he was a travelling mat mender and could not get lodgings. He took the coats because he wanted one for the winter. He was badly in drink at the time. The prisoner had a very bad record and was sentenced to three month's imprisonment on each charge.

Child scalded tea, p6

1927 08 31

Mr John Goddard has been railway stationmaster at Fordham for 18 years and taken an active part in village affairs. He is now retiring and the sum of £44 was raised by his fellow villagers, some of whom were blessed with an abundance of this world's goods and some who had no such encumbrances. As stationmaster he had been the friend of all, helping to forward everybody's traffic with the greatest despatch and the least amount of friction.

September 1927 CDN

1927 09 01

Sir. I wish to protest against the almost intolerable nuisance caused by the beating of college carpets on "The Backs", which is robbing not a few of us of all possibility of quiet thought and study. A vast number of visitors can hardly carry away an agreeable impression of a place where their ears have been so persistently assailed and affronted. Why cannot the Colleges do what is done by all the great hotels. The resources of modern science and ingenuity lie equally open to them. Why then these means of barbarism? – Thomas Thorneley.

1927 09 01

The foundation stone of two new cottages were laid at the Cambridge Victoria Friendly Society's Institution in Victoria Road, Cambridge when. One is to house the nurse-matron and the other will be for an extra inmate. They have been made possibly by the generosity of the late Miss Emily Flack. They will be one-storey buildings containing a living room, a bedroom and a scullery. The nurse's cottage will have a bathroom in addition. It was only right that old people who had worked all their life and exercised thrift by belonging to a Friendly Society should in their old age find a haven of rest, said the President, Dr E.H. Parker.

1927 09 03

Chesterton folk looked very happy at the opening of the Pretoria Road footbridge and there was a fairly large crowd on both sides of the river. The bridge has been a very long time coming. There is an old proverb: "Bridges were made for wise men to walk over, and fools to ride over". Cyclists should remember this and the warning of the penalties awaiting those who do not dismount when crossing the bridge.

Soham motorist, p3

1927 09 05

James de Rothschild candidate, p6
Stourbridge Fair opened, p6

1927 09 07

A "rag" by four Cambridge undergraduates in Bedford has cost them the suspension of the degrees (the gaining of which they were celebrating) for six months. A constable in Regent Street, Cambridge saw the defendants at two o'clock in the morning 'larking about' with a lifebuoy and notice board belonging to Bedford Military Band. They regretted what they had done; this kind of thing might be all right in Cambridge, where it was understood, but that it would not be tolerated in Bedford. It was within the power of the college authorities, in the event of them being convicted of a felony, to prohibit them from taking their degrees at all which would be a lifetime penalty and debar them from taking any post under the Government - in the Civil Service, Army or Navy.

1927 09 07

What may be regarded as the most important news ever announced to wearers of glasses in Cambridge has come to hand. Mr H.C. Moscow, late Principal Optologist and Optometrist to Dr Hamilton's Institute of Optics, New York, U.S.A., has made arrangements to visit Cambridge. He is an enthusiastic young man who has made a remarkable success in demonstrating America's latest scientific optical methods of Eyesight Testing and Refraction Correction. There is no charge for admission to his demonstrations and consultations at the Guildhall and he will freely and generously give his advice to all those who seek his art. He is in a position to prescribe and supply Eyeglasses and Spectacles at hitherto unheard-of prices.

1927 09 07

During the holidays a good deal of wanton damage had been done to the wall and outbuildings of the Romsey Council School. The plots of ground adjoining – a no man's land at the present time – enabled young people with very little else to do to try to climb the wall. On top of that the caretaker had received notice to vacate his premises and was now in Burrell's Walk. That was a long way from the school. The council will inquire of the Bursar of Jesus College as to the cost of purchasing the site immediately next to the school.

H. Downie, Ely death, p5
Library 'misunderstanding', p5

1927 09 08

Cambridge Guardians said the number of casuals received into the Institution had been increasing year by year. A position had been reached on crowded nights when the number had reached as many as 117 men. It was quite obvious that extra accommodation had to be found and a place large enough to ensure the two night's detention – a great deterrent to the work-shy tramp, and to provide suitable work for the casuals. A farm had been found near the village of Cherry Hinton, in some ways the ideal place, but the project would be expensive.

1927 09 10

There are 270 afflicted blind and crippled girls in the schools in connection with Mr John Groom's Cripplegate and Flower Girls' Mission. They make the most beautiful flowers for all decorative and artistic purposes, producing indistinguishable copies of nature's product. The Cambridge Guildhall will be occupied by an exhibition of artificial flowers. The girls will be seen at work and those who visit will be astonished with all they witness. An opportunity will be offered of purchasing at prices within the reach of everyone.

1927 09 10

A poem had been received on the subject of carpet beating on the Backs. "One noon two hypochondriacs, Were strolling through the Cambridge Backs. Said one: It seems to me that I hear smacks, And slaps and thumps and bumps and hacks, Distinctly and nerve racking thwacks, My ear drum's split, my limbs relax. It seems to me we'd best make tracks, Till carpet beating's off the Backs"

Eyesight specialist, p7
Guardians' problem, p8*
WWI Chippenham, p8*,

1927 09 13

Waterbeach vicar, p6

1927 09 14

A large stone coffin of the 10th century pattern was unearthed at St John's Farm, Ely, where once there was an old monastery, part of which is still standing. Recently a very old employee intimated that something of unusual interest could be found in the garden. Digging operations commenced and it was not long before a large stone slab was discovered. The coffin had been cut out of a block of Barwick rock. Inside were bones of more than one person.

Engines at Ely, p3

1927 09 15

The question of water supply was becoming more and more serious, Linton RDC was told. In one side of the district there was no water. The ponds were all very low, and the people were drinking out of roadside drains water which was impregnated with decayed vegetable matter. There was no even water enough for cleanliness, and something must be done. But the other side was plentifully supplied. Sawston people would object to paying for Horseheath or Castle Camps. The question was whether they should go on digging wells or whether it was possible to take any other measure which would be more perfect or less expensive

1927 09 16

Sugar beet farms, p5

1927 09 17

Street improvement operations are taking place at the corner of New Square and Fair Street, Cambridge. The corner house occupied by Mr Woodley Betts, the dentist, tends to obstruct the view of traffic and work has started on demolishing it. It is proposed to round the corner by pulling down the present house and building another with a rounding feature. In this way a good deal of ground will be thrown into the public roadway and the line of vision greatly improved.

1927 09 19

Premises in Peas Hill, Cambridge, may be acquired for the purpose of extending the Guildhall. Trinity Hall, the owners of nos 15 & 16 will sell for £5,500; Mr Sennitt will sell no.17 for £3,500, the price to include compensation for disturbance of the business and the tenant to have the option of hiring the premises until required by the Corporation. Corpus Christi College has agreed £2,200 for no.19. The Council is to apply to the Minister of Health for sanction to borrow the sum of £11,700 for the purchase

1927 09 19

Three pianos were badly damaged by an outbreak of fire in a warehouse behind shop premises opposite the Porter's Lodge in Magdalene Street, Cambridge and it was only through prompt action that a considerable amount of the old property in the district was not destroyed. An oil stove was kept alight in the warehouse used by Mr W.J. Moore, music dealer, to prevent the instruments from becoming damp and in some way this was responsible for the outbreak.

1927 09 20

Stourbridge Fair, p6

1927 09 21

Sir – The other evening I had occasion to be motoring on the Soham-Wicken road. The increasingly heavy traffic has reduced it to such a mess of pot-holes as to prove a nightmare to the driver. Although the car was carefully driven, more than once it was shaken from one side of the road to the other. Someone suggested that the holes would be filled when there were enough bodies to do so. Unless this road is soon repaired I fear many folk will be described like this: "They drove along the Soham-Wicken road, and, behold, when they arose next morning they were all dead corpses" – Much Perturbed

1927 09 22

Petrol caused quite an explosion at a meeting of the Cambridge Town Council. For some time the Corporation has been obtaining petrol at the rate of 11d. per gallon and the Public Works committee now recommend that 200 gallons be obtained at 1s. 1d. Some members objected to paying more and suggested the change had been made because the cheaper grade was of Russian origin. Were the housing committee going to stipulate that no Russian wood should be put in houses they are building? The cheaper petrol was known as Power petrol and used by all the large firms in Cambridge.

Sir Arthur Shipley death, p8

1927 09 23 ES

10th-century stone coffin discovered at St John's Farm, Ely – photo – 27 09 23 ES

1927 09 24

The terrible secret of Power petrol discussed by Cambridge councillors is out. All motorists have felt the power of the grip imposed by the combine firms who sell at 2d per gallon more than those refiners outside their ring. Power petrol is manufactured at the refinery of the Medway Oil and Storage Company at Isle of Grain, Kent. Supplies of raw material come from all over the world – including Russia and Rumania but the petrol is as British as any other and more British than the large majority. I have not noticed many places in Cambridge where they sell Power petrol. Very few seem to retail it, although certain large garages take bulk supplies.

1927 09 24

Damage estimated at £2,000 was caused by a fire which broke out at the Cambridge Motor Service Co. Hobson Street. The night watchman found that motor cycle department, which also stored several cars, was alight and among the vehicles which were badly burned were a Bugatti racing car, an Austin Seven, a Trojan van and a number of motor cycles and bicycles. Some people returning from the New Theatre were attracted down Hobson Street and watched the Fire Brigade at work.

1927 09 24

Almost everyone in Europe was in debt and could not meet their obligations, Sir George Paish told the annual conference of the National Savings Movement at Caius College, Cambridge. The great distress of unemployment was entirely brought about by the failure of people to make the savings they should make. They were spending their money on luxuries, on motor cars. "Can we afford all these motor cars? Can we afford to do what we are doing today and neglect the more important things", he asked. The Savings Movement was not a class movement. They wanted to create the opinion in all classes in favour of saving and in favour of more and wiser spending.

Duxford plane crash, p5

ASLIB conference, p6

Corporation plate sale, p8

1927 09 26

Duxford plane crash inquest, p6

1927 09 27

New Theatre report, p6

1927 09 28

Cambridge Photographic Club celebrated its 25th anniversary. They were doing admirable work in conjunction with the Cambridge Antiquarian Society in securing a preserving a photographic record of various places which might disappear in course of time. Ald Starr said he had joined Hills & Saunders as a lad in 1880. They used wet plates at that time and had to coat them and sensitive them, and they would not keep for more than a few hours.

1927 09 29

Members of the Cambridge Labour Party showed a justifiable pride in their new "home" which was officially opened by their prospective Parliamentary candidate. A somewhat dilapidated one-storey building in Norfolk Terrace, latterly used as a knitting factory, has been transformed in a wonderful way into bright, comfortable and well-equipped premises, although the walls are unfinished owing to the plaster not yet having been set sufficiently.

1927 09 30

Crowds of people were unable to gain admittance to the new Labour Hall in Norfolk Street, Cambridge for the pageant 'The Temple of Vision'. It represents the ideals of the Labour Party in eight episodes. These took rather an inordinate time to get through but the show was exceedingly entertaining. The relative merits of co-operation and private enterprise were contrasted and the performance was punctuated with frequent and enthusiastic applause.

12-hour road race, p7

1927 09 30 ES

Large monoplane lands Lt Downham owing to engine trouble – 27 09 30 ES

October 1927 CDN

1927 10 01

St Ives RDC recommended a bonus of £50 be paid to collectors for the Somersham and St Ives districts. Mr J.L. Barton, speaking against the proposal, said that on a previous occasion he stated that University men were willing to take the position at 50 shillings a week. Things were no different today. He knew a case of a Cambridge University man who was so pleased with an offer of 50 shillings a week as a milkman that he was taking it.

Animated pictures, p6

1927 10 03

Weston Colville Hall sale farming stock, p6

1927 10 04

A motor road sweeper and street cleaner was demonstrated in Jesus Lane, Cambridge. The makers claim it has a small capital outlay, low operating costs, small turning circle and ease of control. The brush can be lifted when not in use and sprays fitted to damp down dust in hot weather. The machine worked over 150 yards of road which had been specially covered with a layer of refuse. It showed a fine turn of speed - with the brush not in use it can do 20 mph - and the rubbish was quickly and neatly removed to the gutters. Compared with the horse sweeper now used it is much superior.

1927 10 04

Theophilus Philip Starke, a boot and shoe maker, told magistrates that two men called at his shop in Regent Street, Cambridge, and said they had come about the sun blind, which needed repair. They borrowed a ladder and appeared to do the work. He paid them 25 shillings but his suspicions were aroused by the way they "scuttled off". The blind was examined by an expert who found practically nothing had been done to it.

Abandoned baby, p8

1927 10 05

Hildersham inhabitants turned out in force to hear the Mayor of Cambridge, J.H. Conder, talk of the village as he remembered it 50 years ago. There used to be a parish herdsman as the cows belonging to various people all went into a common herd. A great fire had broken out in two places at once. The Rectory farm buildings, tithe barn and Manor Farm barn were burnt down. A large house called the "Rookery" was standing empty and was pulled down so the bricks could be taken to build a new barn. This was a great pity because the house was a very fine one.

1927 10 05

Cambridge Photographic Club had made progress with the photographic survey of the county and over 100 prints were produced. There was still a great deal to be done and this should be regarded as one of the most important parts of the club's work. A collection of photographs of Cambridge was exhibited in the Public Library. The East Anglian Federation had held its summer meeting in Cambridge, but the weather was not in favour of photography.

1927 10 07

The Medical Officer told Ely Guardians he had nowhere at the Institution to put infectious cases. Recently they had a refractory tramp in one ward, two lunatics under observation, both of whom required extra assistance, and had no means of isolating them. He had one case in the bathroom and another in the general ward, which upset the inmates. It was illegal to keep children in the House and some years ago they had turned the isolation hospital into a children's home which now housed 11 children and they might get an influx of two families with five or six in each.

Hils Road Wesleyan Church hall, p8

1927 10 08

A fire broke out in the stackyard at Further Farm, Stretham fen and eight were totally destroyed. Considerable difficulty was experienced in getting the fire engine to the farm owing to the condition of the drove, but with the help of three horses from the farm this was accomplished. Mr F. Oakey drove from Ely in his motor and arrived before the firemen. He dashed into the flames and drove out a practically red hot tractor from between the blazing stacks into a place of safety. Luckily a good supply of water was available from the dykes which had been filled by opening the dam at Morton's Farm.

1927 10 08

Members of Cambridge Corporation paid a visit to the gasworks to see for themselves how gas is produced. They were greatly impressed. The Mayor said: "Some of us have grown up in the belief that essential services should belong to the public but no matter who owns them when we have efficient managers things are done well". The Vice-chairman of the Gas Company said that the Town Council and the Gas Company both exist to produce gas. "It may be that the Town Council gas is more lethal than ours!"

Charles Kerridge death, p6
Radio Society reformed, p8

1927 10 10

No woman has photographed more Royalty or distinguished people than Miss Olive Edis, the well-known expert in the production of monochrome and colour photography. She has her third annual exhibition in Cambridge, although she has worked in the town for some 20 years. One wall has a display of portraits of well-known Cambridge people but the greatest attraction will be the colour photography of local scenes

Boxworth rector death, p6

1927 10 11

The Prime Minister is expected to visit Barrington to open the new cement works. A distinguished company of about 100 will journey from London by special saloon carriages and the light railway direct to the works. The new works are already turning out great quantities of cement and when the second kiln is complete will be one of the largest cement works north of the Thames. About 200 men will be employed there permanently and it is expected that from a country village Barrington soon will be transformed into something like a small industrial town

Wilburton accident, p6
Market Street fire – Smart, p8

1927 10 12

No longer does the Oxford or Cambridge "Bobby" walk about in fear of his life and his helmet, no longer does the local publican wax fat on healthy young thirsts and the tailor bemoan bad trade. Undergraduates are changing their "manners". The "sloshing" of policemen is out of fashion. Roaring ribald songs between great draughts of ale is simply not "done". Nowadays slovenliness in dress is revolting. This is the age of "refinement". Nowadays the undergraduate "works off" high spirits by "rushing about the country on wheels" – so said the Warden of All Soul's College, Oxford

Croxton school, p6
Goodrich talks Photographic Club, p7

1927 10 13

Sir – I see that Mr Baldwin is so delighted to find an undertaking which is employing more men rather than turning them off, that he is coming to open the new cement works in Barrington. I wonder if he will ask where the 200 men who are going to be employed are to be housed. I doubt if 20 houses have been built in neighbouring villages since the war and there is a long waiting list of people not connected with the works. A large proportion of the men at present employed are being lodged in houses where there is no proper accommodation for them, and if another hundred men are to be taken on shortly the congestion will be appalling – G.T. Garratt, Barrington

1927 10 13

Considerable progress has been made with the restoration work in old buildings at Buckden Palace, partly demolished many years ago. The destroyed north wing of the Gate House is now to a great extent rebuilt on the old foundation. The material used is largely old, having come from Stanwick Hall, Yorkshire, the lately demolished house of the Duke of Devonshire.

William Le Keux death, p5

1927 10 14

Pre-war dances, p8

1927 10 14 ES

Wilburton double fatality

Wilburton double fatality – Alfred Alsop and George Gillett hit unlit stationary motor lorry with their motorbike on Wilburton Road; inquest at Red Lion – 27 10 14(2)(3)(4)(5) ES; photo 27 10 14(8)

Ralph Brown, a lorry driver from Battersea she was carrying five tons of sugar from Cambridge to Wisbech. When he got on the Stretham Road he had some trouble with his magneto. He got out of his lorry three times to mend it without success and stopped as near the side of the road as he could with the front wheel on the grass.

He inquired of the first passing motorist where he could obtain assistance. The motorist said he would come back with help and try and push the lorry off the road, but he did not. A farm labour was passing and the driver asked him if it was possible to get assistance from next village, Wilburton. He advised him to walk there and catch a bus into Cambridge. He gave the man a shilling to look after the lamps if he was not back from Cambridge. To light the lamps he borrowed matches from a motorists who waited while he did so.

He then came to a garage in Stretham and asked the man to direct him to the nearest police station. He was accompanied to the home of the police officer to whom he explained the circumstances. He told the officer he had broken down, and that it was impossible to move the vehicle. He said he had left his lights on and asked the policeman if he could keep an eye on it. The officer said he would, but would not be responsible for the goods. He decided to go to Cambridge where he was hoped to get a lorry. He then went to the Merton Arms but found no lorries there so he went to London, which would he knew be reached that night by one of the lorries from Sheffield.

Victor Warren of Wilburton, a fruit agent, told Pc Seymour there was a lorry on the road in a dangerous position and asked permission to go and put lights on it to avoid any accident. Permission was granted and he bought a tin of bicycle burning oil. He trimmed the rear lamp, but the wick would not turn up. He lighted it three times, and the third time it burned longer. He then went to the front lamp and found it was a candle lamp. He had no candles with him so he got on his motorcycle and rode to Mr Hazel's stores and bought a ten-hour candle. The Coroner described him as 'a very good fellow' to do what he had done for the benefit of the public

Alfred Martin of High Street, Stretham, a bus driver said he saw the lorry standing by the roadside, and had to pull up to pass. It was still there when he returned at 8.35, the offside front light was on and he could see the obstruction 100 yards off. He afterwards went to the Beet Factory and returned with the 10 o'clock shift.

Charles Watson, of Wilburton, said he came from the factory in the company of several other workmen. They travelled in the bus as far as Stretham when they all got out and got their cycles. As he approached Wilburton he heard someone call for him to stop and saw two men lying in the road with a motorcycle nearby. He recognised them as being Alfred Alsop and George Gillett, two workmates who had set off from Stretham on a motorcycle. When he picked them up they did not move or speak.

Kenneth Moxon, of Wilburton, a tug-boat engineer said he too had ridden a motorcycle. The lorry stood in the shade of a tree and he did not see it until he got close to it. When he got up to the lorry he saw a motorcycle lying by the side of the road and before he could stop he ran into it and I threw him off.

Dr C.W. Howe of Haddenham stated he received a telephone message that an accident had taken place on the road, and that two men had run into a stationary lorry. He found the bodies of both men laying on the grass beside the road. He examined them and pronounced life extinct. The bodies were moved to the Red lion Hotel, Stretham to await an inquest

The funeral of the victim, took place at Wilburton, and was attended by practically every one of the inhabitants.

Further Fen Farm Fire. A disastrous fire involving the complete destruction of six large stacks of hay and corn occurred at Mr Bagel's Further Farm, Stretham fen, late on Thursday night. With such fury did the stacks burn that grave fears were entertained for the safety of four of the stacks which stood in close proximity. Fortunately, it was a comparatively still night otherwise to whole of the ricks and sheds must have been destroyed. The fire was discovered by Mrs Constable, wife of the farm foreman, who saw a great sheet for flame shoot suddenly into the air and run right across the top of six stacks. She immediately sent her son, Henry Constable, to Stretham on his bicycle to summon the fire brigade and the fire bell was sounding in Ely about 10 o'clock. Within five or six minutes, the whole of the brigade assembled at the fire station and were soon speeding along the road to the scene of the fire, the approach to which is extremely difficult to negotiate. The motor was able to draw the engine to a point near the new bridge which is in course of erection between Wicken and Stretham and from here had to be drawn along a rough drove by horses. The stacks stood in the yard close to a bountiful supply of water with which the firemen were able to concentrate their energies on preventing the flames from reaching the stacks and the shed that had not been reached. With the help of farmhands and Mr. Bagel they succeeded despite the intense heat and blinding smoke. Fred Oakey of King William IV pub, Ely, had rushed out to the farm to render assistance and saved a tractor which was almost red hot. He succeeded in doing this by getting other helpers to pour water over it in order that he might grip the tractor. Others devoted their attention to saving a drum and elevator which escaped with no more damage than a scorching. Several pigs were housed in close proximity to the fire, near which also stood an unoccupied cottage, and it was deemed expedient that these should be driven for safety into an adjoining field. Completely circling the yard in which the fire was raging were tall trees many of which must have suffered and intensified the fire had there been any wind. Such quantities of water did the brigade pour on the fire that at one time there was practically two feet of water in the yard and to enable this to flow back into the dike on the edge of the yard, a gully had to be cut. The Brigade was occupied between 15 and 16 hours in quelling the outbreak and were provided by Mr. Bagel with food and warm drinks. The cause of the outbreak is not known. 27 10 14 ES photo – 27 10 14(6) ES

New bridges: the two bridges under construction are now nearing completion. The one over the River Ouse is practically finished with the exception of making up the approaches. That over Cam not quite so forward

1927 10 15

Baldwin not to open Barrington, p3

1927 10 17

A slight failure occurred at one of the Electricity Supply Company substations and for about half-an-hour people living in Mill Road, Cambridge and not equipped with gas were feeling their way in the darkness. Temporary confusion reigned at the Gwydir Street baths where the weekly ablutions were being performed. All the baths were occupied and the bathers found themselves in a somewhat awkward predicament. One gentleman spent some time looking for the soap. But the situation was overcome by the prompt action of one of the attendants who sped to a nearby shop and purchased some candles.

1927 10 17

The new ballroom in the University Arms Hotel, Cambridge, with its delightful atmosphere, its perfect spring floor and super-modern lighting, welcomed the first of its dancing parties to a first-class dinner-dance equal in every way to the Savoy Hotel or any other London night-club. Splendidly rehearsed the Cambridge University Arms Hotel Band played all the latest music from London and New York. It was supplied by Stanley Miller whose Cantabrigians have already made good impressions on the Cambridge public

1927 10 17

Cambridge Co-operative Society opened its new model dairy at Sleaford Street. The manager, Mr J. Quincey said they were now retailing nearly 400 gallons a day. They served the purest and cleanest milk possible. "People say they want milk straight from the cow. But if they only saw the cleaning machine when it was taken to pieces it would surprise and probably stagger them to know the filth and dirt which came from the milk, even though they were getting the best milk from clean producers".

Soham police, p7

Parish constables' insurance, p7

1927 10 18

Cambridge Planning Committee considered a letter from the Cambridge Co-operative Society asking for St James Road to be renamed Sleaford Street. They agreed to take steps to this end. The Housing committee agreed that Triplex stoves be installed in the 112 houses being erected on the King's Hedges site and that work proceed with distempering 24 timber-framed houses on the site.

1927 10 18

The County Education Committee approved the erection of a village college at Sawston. The basis of the institution is a Senior School which will be an elementary and not a secondary school. This will provide an advanced education for older children and pay special attention to practical instruction, particularly woodwork, domestic subjects and gardening. They were anxious to give a really good education on a rural basis. It was an experiment that was practically unique. The name 'village college' has been chosen for a building which provided for both elementary and adult (including agricultural) education and at the same time would be available for social activities.

Corporation petrol, p5

Papworth scouts, p8

1927 10 19

The Ely coroner sat for four hours at the Red Lion, Stretham to inquire into the death of two men who met with a tragic end whilst motor cycling to their homes. The constable at Wilburton said he had received complaints respecting a motor lorry stationary on the Wilburton Road. He made an examination of the rear lamp, which was not alight so he obtained some oil and lit the lamp. Mr Warren later asked for permission to go and put some lights on it. Dr Charles Howe of Haddenham said he received a telephone message that two men had run into a stationary lorry and found the bodies lying on the grass beside the road.

Wilburton Road tragedy, p7

1927 10 20

The Chief Officer of Ely Fire Brigade reported on the fire in Stretham fen. It was in a most inaccessible place and they had difficulty in getting there. The lorry lamps were absolutely useless; any new lorry should have an electric lamp. Mr Harvey asked if the firemen got extra for the night hours. They put in a lot of time and the insurance people must be obliged to them for saving what they did. He thought they were not paid much for it. If there had been any farm hands to help they would have been away seven or eight hours earlier.

Wilbraham chalk pit fatality, p8

1927 10 21

King's Mill site cleared, p8

1927 10 21 ES

Wilburton fatality inquest, Stretham P.c. Saberton questioned – 27 10 21 & (2) ES

Black Bank station master

Mr A. Porter was appointed Station Master at Black Bank in 1890..

During his time the station yard has been considerably improved and enlarged. Formerly it was so narrow that the heads of horses hung over the fence when loading against the trucks and to improve this a piece of land was acquired. At the time of his appointment there was no siding at Pymoor, but this was later erected through the efforts of Mr G. Darby and Mr J.C. Wilkin, both of whom extensively use the sidings. The sugar beet traffic has also made big demands upon the station and in order to cope with this additional traffic a new siding was constructed last year to hold 29 trucks. Since August 1921 Mr Porter has also had charge of Chettisham station. In the 28 years he has been at Black Bank not a passenger was hurt. He has enjoyed the happiest of relationships with the whole of his staff and users of the railway – 27 10 21(3) ES

Ely Rural Water Extension to Stretham, Haddenham, Wilburton and Lt Thetford ... 'a monstrous proposition'. They could not afford to bring Grunty Fen in – it was the most badly-off place in the district. Having regard to the present great depression in agriculture and the difficulty in collecting the present rates, they should not proceed. – 27 10 21(4)&(5)

Laying Ely electric light cable, Barton Road

Rapid progress is being made with the work of laying the electric light cable in Ely where a gang of fifty men are employed upon the task. The photograph shows a number of men preparing the cable for placing into a trench in Barton Road. photo – 27 10 21(6) ES

1927 10 22

An extremely lively meeting was held at Matthew's Café in connection with the Cambridge University Labour Club's first meeting. Mr Jack Jones, M.P. was the speaker. The room was overflowing with undergraduates and women students of various political sections. Sugar was thrown, red flags exhibited and cries of "We want Jones" contributed to the general laughter and talking. Although interrupted countless times he managed to make his audience listen to what he had to say.

Pictures of Week series starts, p6

Housing shortage, p7

Tram line, p8

1927 10 26

Cambridge councillors spent a couple of hours observing the capabilities of another motor road sweeper, the "Karrier" Patent Road Sweeper, Sprinkler and Collector". It was first tried in Jesus Lane where a large quantity of newly fallen plane tree leaves were thickly scattered about the roadway and had drifted to a depth of four inches. A quantity of road sweepings had also been laid and pressed down firmly by passing traffic. Some of this and patches of horse droppings proved very difficult to remove and the large leaves presented a serious problem. A great quantity of the leaves was removed and lifted into the tipping truck at the back of the vehicle but some of the leaves spun round with the brush and were deposited on the roadway again behind it.

Grantchester village hall, p6

1927 10 28

Chesterton RDC considered the proposed erection of a bridge at Twenty-man's Ferry, near Cottenham. An application was received from Wilburton parish council that the bridge should be erected and the road be put in good repair. It would relieve the traffic from the Ely main road and relieve the congestion which was very acute on that road. They ought to get the feelings of the Cottenham people; the bridge would be a bigger benefit to them more than anybody else.

Tugs & Beet factory, p6*

1927 10 29

The fascinating experience of lunching in Cambridge in the atmosphere of our Elizabethan forefathers is made possible by the opening of new rooms at Messrs Matthew's Café in Trinity Street. They have acquired the two upper storeys of the building & turned rooms which were formerly part of a lodging house into a charming medieval retreat. The original beams and window frames remain as well as some beautiful old carvings and the rooms have been furnished in the style of the period, pains having been taken to secure faithful reproductions even down to lamps and pewter pots.

Ashley water, p3

Gale, p5

Bike parking, Sidney Street, p8

1927 10 31

Scrambler accident, p5

November 1927 CDN

1927 11 03

A man was charged with stealing a sack containing one pair of men's breeches and a shirt from the taproom of the Three Pickerels public house at Mepal. Henry Thomas Smith told the court he had gone to the pub with his bag, put it under a seat in the taproom and then gone into another room. When he went for his sack it had gone. The accused said: "I thought it was my mate's bag so I picked it up and took it away. When I saw Bill I found he had got his sack. It was a great mistake, and, on my oath I never stole it". He was fined £1.1s.8d

1927 11 03

A catastrophe was narrowly averted at Cambridge workhouse when the boiler "sprung a leak". Had the trouble not been promptly detected an explosion would have inevitably occurred. This was the second occasion during the week and it had only to be incapacitated for the laundry, heating and cooking to be at a standstill. The trouble was caused by an accumulation of chalk deposit from the water. It would not have occurred had the apparatus been cleaned out at regular intervals. The sooner they got rid of the boiler and chimney the better.

1927 11 05

Sawston village college, p5* & 7th p6

J.W. Snelson death, p7

1927 11 06 c

A verdict of accidental death was returned at an inquest into a labourer from Tan Yard, Northampton Street, Cambridge who died as the result of injuries sustained in a motor accident. John Mayes, cinema attendant at the Tivoli Cinema said deceased was pulling a handcart; he was in the shafts on the river side of Chesterton Road. He saw the left wing of the car hit the cart and the man went right under the car. William Tams, a photographer, estimated the car's speed at about 25 miles an hour. PC Brown said he saw the handcart being used to lever the car up in order to lift it off the man. The boy said "Some --- fool ran into me; don't let mother know".

1927 11 07

The County Council considered possible legislation to facilitate the conversion into hard metalled roads of fen droves, green lanes or similar roads which by reason of insufficient hard material were not fit to carry traffic at all seasons of the year, including private roads, occupation roads and roads set aside under Enclosure & Drainage Awards. At present it was nobody's duty to look after such roads and what little work was done to them was largely wasted. If the Government was going to do anything to encourage agriculture it could not do better than to improve these roads.

Twentypence bridge proposed, p3*
Sawston village college, p6

1927 11 10
Streets of Cambridge, p5
Linton water supply, p7

1927 11 11
Poppies! They were everywhere. The streets of Cambridge were ablaze with them. They were on every coat, in every conscience. Their spirit turned the town into a red riot of remembrance. As the day wore on the poppies grew thicker. A great army of 2,000 undergraduates sold the emblems with an enthusiasm which was unbounded. Early in the morning they were at their posts with their trays of flowers and collecting boxes and all through the day carried on their merry money hunt. Many played the role of highwaymen, boarding buses and holding up the traffic.

Bishop Stortford beet, p3
Jack Overhill, p5
River rescue Ely, p8
Dullingham shepherd, p9

1927 11 11 ES
County council discuss bridge over Old West at Twentypence and Cam at Dimock's Cote – 27 11 11 ES

1927 11 12
The Ouse Drainage Bill was rejected by a Joint Committee of Parliament. It was proposed to construct training walls, embankments, sluices and deepening channels and rate – differentially as between uplands and lowlands – the whole of the watershed from Oxford to the Wash. It was the adequacy of even this elaborate scheme and the apportionment of the cost which provoked strong opposition. Experts reported that if the proposals were not carried out “the danger of the district returning to its original condition of swamp is very real”.

1927 11 12
Gloucester Street workshop for disabled soldiers in Cambridge, opened by Princess Mary last year, is represented at an exhibition at the Imperial Institute. Their stall contains all kinds of basketwork, knitting and other things made at the workshops. At present there are eight men working there. All are of over 60 per cent disability through the war, and one is of over 90 per cent. The workshop can never be a paying concern but good work is being done in enabling the men to earn sufficient money to keep them “off the dole”. Colonel Willis, the secretary or Miss Brearley, manageress and instructress, would be pleased to see anyone interested.

1927 11 14
Rural planning – cottages, p6

1927 11 15
Two of the proudest men in Cambridge are Mr H.A. Hagger and Mr F.C. Fuller who were in charge of the stall of the Disabled Men's Workshop, Gloucester Street, at the Imperial Institute. It was the only stall attended by the actual men who made the goods and the contents were completely disposed of by mid-way through the week. The Queen bought a pair of heather-mixture socks and a waste paper basket. The Duchess of York bought a fancy rush stool remarking "It will do for Princess Elizabeth for the nursery". By the time the Prince of Wales visited they had nothing left to sell him.

Undergraduate death, p6

1927 11 16

Remarkable scenes in which an undergraduate fainted were witnessed at the Cambridge Union Society debate on the desirability of a wider knowledge of contraceptive methods. Ladies were excluded from the Hall for this debate and the gallery, which is usually used by them, was completely filled with undergraduates. A speaker referred to the effect of an overcrowded population on the poorer people. It was only by birth control that they had been able to keep up their standard of living; the issue was quantity of population against quality. But the best education a child could get was to grow up with brothers and sisters. The debate concluded that a wider knowledge of contraceptive methods was in the interest of both morality and social welfare.

1927 11 17

Described as one of the finest shop sites in Cambridge, no.3 Petty Cury was offered for sale by auction. The shop, now in the occupation of Mrs Kemp as a toy and fancy warehouse, was offered with vacant possession and is freehold. The auctioneer mentioned the tremendous difference that would be made to the Market Square end of Petty Cury by the opening up of a big new shop at the corner. Bidding quickly rose to £7,350 but did not reach the reserve price and was withdrawn. Immediately after the auction it was sold privately.

1927 11 18

A fire completely destroyed the premises of Messrs Norton and Naylor, electrical engineers, at the rear of 9 Staffordshire Street, Cambridge. It was a large wooden structure used as a store and workshop, situated in a yard at the rear. It contained a large quantity of electrical fittings and a car, which was garaged there at the time was reduced to a complete wreck. This morning the derelict car stood in a setting of charred and blistered framework whilst among the debris was the frame of what was once a bicycle as well as numerous bulbs.

1927 11 21

Cottenham man at dance, p6

1927 11 22

Syd Greenall, the famous fen skater and professional champion of 1901, has died of double pneumonia. He was born in Cambridgeshire 42 years ago. At Belle Vue Kennels, Manchester, last summer, he was bitten by a dog and said, "This will kill me". Greenall was not only one of the world's fastest skaters, but was also a fine figure skater.

1927 11 23

The Cambridge Photographic Club exhibition contained 120 entries made in connection with the scheme for providing photographic records of objects of interest in the county, most of them thatched cottages which are not unlikely to disappear. Whittlesford, Balsham and Toft provided the largest numbers, these being villages to which excursions were organised during the summer months.

1927 11 25

The awkward position of the members of the Ouse Drainage Board on account of the rejection of the Drainage Bill led to lengthy discussions. The uplander, the fenlander and the lowlander were opposed to that Bill, the forces against it must have been tremendous and the rejection was a surprise to the Government officials who drafted it. They hoped that the new Bill that came forward would be from the fen people themselves, the trouble with the last one was that it came too much from above

1927 11 25

It was a memorable day in the history of St John's Church, Hills Road, Cambridge with the opening of the new Parish Hall and Sunday School. The hall, which is dedicated chiefly to the use of young people, is a fine building of red brick and is situated on the site of the old Mission Church in Blinco Grove. The Women's Union have made themselves responsible for the porch and entrance, raising £130 & money for the electric light has been raised by Miss Gwatken and her Bible Class.

1927 11 25

A Cottenham drain had got into a very bad condition and was an offence, councillors heard. The matter had been raised in 1913 when the owner of the house was prosecuted and the magistrates had decided the drain was a sewer. At Ivatt Street there was a main road and a private street and two blocks of six houses nearby. Every pair of houses had a gully into which they threw refuse and that drained into the cesspool. The drain had got into a very bad condition and was an offence to all 12 houses, but the owner declined to take any steps.

Chesterton Road fatality, p5
Ouse Board's future, p6*

1927 11 25 ES

Isle roads and bridges; includes new road from Downham to Welney; at present were fences and gates across the bank for letting herbage in sections, these should be removed. Concrete Road laid to carry traffic to Beet Factory. Dimmock's Cote Road to be main road. Mepal Counter Bridge reconstruction. – 27 11 25 & (2)(3) ES

Stretham: estimate of W.T. Rayner for rebuilding a boundary wall and shop front in connection with an improvement to the main road accepted. Correspondence on abolition of feasts and fairs on public highway, more particularly with proposals for the discontinuation of the annual Feast in Stretham; Isle take no action but write Home Office requesting opinion of Secretary of State – 27 11 25(2) ES

Littleport Cinema

A debtor told the court he started a cinema business in Littleport in 1915. He hired a disused hall on a lease of 14 years and spent £2,000 on it, paying for it out of his jewellery business. The fitting up of the premises and the loss on the venture amounted to £2,500. The loss was gradual and he spent £800 or £900 to fit the cinema. The cinema was a failure after the first month or so. He closed it about four years ago, having run it for six years. He had bought the hall off Mr. Peak in order to sell it as a going concern. He gave £1,500 for it and sold it at £2,225. He then paid for the hall and banked the balance. He lent money to a man who was a dealer and an undischarged bankrupt, who had since died. He raised two mortgages on his premises and then his wife had an illness which cost a good deal of money. He had been in the hands of moneylenders since 1921 and had borrowed from relatives or friends. He had been treasurer to various friendly societies, from whom he borrowed money which he had paid back with interest. He continued to trade and increase his deficiency. 27 11 25(2)ES

Typewriter

The County Medical Officer was authorised to obtain a new Smith Premier typewriter. This was not manufactured in this country, although in its distribution alone, the company employed more people in this country than were employed in the manufacture of any British made machine. He considered it was less confusing to have two machines of one make rather than two different styles of machine and he preferred this special machine to any British make he had yet seen.

But Councillor Buswell said: This will not do. We have had a very fine example set us recently by the King, who expressed a wish that typewriters of British manufacturer should be used more extensively. Since the King's speech, British typewriters had been better known and more widely used; 90 per cent of the typewriters purchased had been of British manufacture. If the Council purchased the Smith machine they would be setting a bad example and ignoring his Majesty's advice. We want to be a nation of manufacturers, not a nation of distributors. He proposed he proposed a British machine be purchased. 27 11 25(3)ES

1927 11 26

Chesterton RDC received the layout submitted by Cambridge Estates Ltd for a new building estate in the parish of Impington. They had acquired 30 acres of land. The estate a considerable frontage to Arbury Road. It could be drained mainly into Milton Road by a new road to be called Hurst Park Avenue. It would be developed uniformly on garden suburb lines with wide roads & grass verges.

1927 11 26

The Isle of Ely County Council intends shortly to remove the constable stationed at Coveney to Wimblington and the police station would be abolished. The Coveney beat would then be amalgamated with Witchford. They discussed suggestions that the Isle and Huntingdonshire police forces should be amalgamated, but they did not know whether one Chief Constable could be able to give the same attention to two counties as he had given in one. The County Medical Officer preferred to have a Smith Premier typewriter to any British make he had seen, but Coun. Buswell said it would not do.

Littleport rats, p7*

1927 11 30

The annual concert and prize distribution of Slepe Hall School took place in the Corn Exchange, St Ives when a large gathering enjoyed a delightful programme of music provided by the staff and pupils. The certificates and prizes won by the girls were distributed by the Principal of Homerton College. She urged parents not to withdraw their girls, whenever possible, until the end of their school time, as a completed education was more necessary than ever in the new world and urged the girls to choose something for their future life which might be to them a vocation, no matter how bold such an enterprise might seem.

December 1927 CDN

1927 12 01

A portion of the estate of the late Mr Benjamin Jolley, comprising practically the whole of Great Eastern Street, Cambridge was offered for auction. There was a large company and prices ranged from £120 to £142 each. Ten houses in Gwydir Street fetched £2,250 but nos.38-42 Cherryhinton Road were withdrawn.

1927 12 02

Shelford Amateur Sports Association held their boxing competition in the Village Hall when the building was packed to its utmost capacity. The best fight of the evening was that between A.C. Manser (RAF) and C. Stubbings (C.A.B.C.), both men fighting the whole bout without easing for a moment. Manser, despite the handicap of a cut eye, gamely stuck to his task and was warmly applauded for his spirited show when Stubbings was awarded a well-deserved decision.

1927 12 02

The Coroner was occupied for some time inquiring into the death of an Automobile Association patrol scout who collided with a motor lorry at Sawbridgeworth. He had been a scout for two years and previously been a despatch rider in the army. He had ridden a motor cycle for 13 or 14 years. A lorry driver said he was just pulling up to light his lamps and heard a crash. He was travelling at about ten miles an hour. He found the scout had run into the offside front mudguard of the lorry and damaged the oil box. The lorry was a three-ton Fiat and averaged 12 miles per hour.

1927 12 02 ES

Middle Level pumping scheme

The Government has rejected a proposal for a pumping station at St Germans

It would be too far from the danger area intended to be relieved, the distance from Whittlesey Mere being no less than 30 miles.

It would be impossible for any water to escape by gravitation if the water level at St Germans was lowered by pumping as proposed.

The pumps proposed were not of sufficient lift to allow continuous running, assuming the water level in the drain to be maintained at the low level contemplated.

If pumps could run continuously they would not prove of sufficient capacity to deal with the volume of water which had to be evacuated.

If pumps of sufficient capacity were installed the water would not flow to the pumps fast enough to enable them to work to their full capacity.

The Ministry was advised that the effect of pumping plant at St Germans would tend to be harmful to other authorities discharging into the Ouse and when the proposed Ouse works were completed and the full benefits obtained, pumping plant at St Germans' sluice would become useless. – 27 12 02 & (2) ES

1927 12 03

According to the Master of Bailiol, not even a Scot can now manage in Oxford on less than £200 a year unless he had not enough to eat. But £250 should suffice for anybody. One undergraduate thinks a man can do "fairly comfortably" on £300 a year, providing he had not expensive tastes. A Cambridge Fresher says he has spent £150 on college bills, £30 on furniture, clubs £16, clothes £30, books £13, tips £15, gate fines £2 this term. If he goes on at the same rate for the next two terms he is in for an expensive first year!

Lofts Hall estate sale, p3

1927 12 05

A fire which might have spread with serious consequences broke out at the Ely Beet Factory. The canteen, which is a wooden building used for sleeping quarters, was discovered to be on fire at 12.57 am and within 20 minutes a considerable portion was burned to the ground. Immediately on discovery of the outbreak a telephone message was sent to the police and they gave the alarm to the Ely, Cambridge and Littleport Brigades. Within 11 minutes Ely brigade was out of the station and arriving at the scene found the place burning very fiercely. They played on it with water from the Ouse, which flows by the factory. Fortunately the flames did not spread to the sugar store, which stands close by. All the occupants of the sleeping quarters managed to escape uninjured with the exception of the nephew of the canteen manager who sustained bad burning injuries to the face.

1927 12 06

Cambridge Councillors heard that Mr D. Page had been appointed to act as pindar at a wage of £2 18s. 2d. per week, which included 5s, the value of the cottage now occupied by his predecessor, Mr C. Everitt. As he was unable to occupy the cottage at Coldham's Common there was a difficulty in locking and unlocking the gate and it was agreed that Mr Everitt be paid 10s a week for such services.

1927 12 06

Alfred Seaman, of Lt Chesterford told magistrates he was driving a steam tractor and saw a lorry proceeding towards Saffron Walden. The lorry was travelling about 25 mph and he gave it plenty of room to pass. He looked back and saw it crash into the Eight Bells public house. William Wright said he did not understand much about speed but the lorry was travelling at a terrific rate, which caused it to skid. PC Little said there were marks which showed it skidded 27 yards before it mounted the pavement and crashed into the doorway of the public house.

University Press, Trumpington Street improvement, p6

1927 12 07

Sir – the death of Mr Alfred Lander has cast quite a gloom over the Sidgwick Avenue – Silver Street bit of Cambridge. For many a year his familiar figure stood in all weathers under his big old tree, sheltered by the wall, generally accompanied by a robin or dog, his special friends. A casual passer-by might suppose he did nothing but stand there holding his broom, but he was a very useful man. To the best of his limited ability he was famous for going messages and taking care of this and that – and all this above and beyond his ‘professional’ work as a crossing-sweeper (the only unofficial one in the town). So afflicted, but such a simple, kindly and cheery soul; accident made him a cripple in his childhood, and life must have been a long struggle but of late things have been brighter again for him – A mourner

1927 12 08

For some times the rivalries of various motor bus drivers plying for hire between Newmarket and Burwell have been particularly keen, and there has been some trouble that has got as far as the Police Court. A bus driver employed by Albert Norman of Exning said he had got to the corner near the church at Burwell when an Ortona bus passed, going 30 mph, and cut right in front of him, which necessitated him jamming on his brakes to avoid an accident. The driver told him: “If you don’t let me pass I shall smash the back of your bus in. That is just what you little people want, so that you can get a new bus”. The magistrate said the rivalry among the bus drivers was a danger to the public and must cease.

Littleport jeweller affairs – Davies, p7

1927 12 09

Sentence reduced, p3

Motor services, p6

1927 12 09 ES

Ely Beet Factory canteen gutted – 27 12 09 ES; photo – 27 12 09(2) ES

A disastrous fire broke out at the Ely Beet Sugar Factory in the early hours. So disastrous was the outbreak that within a comparatively short time the whole of the canteen was gutted and so reduced to the ground that only charred pieces of wood and bent and twisted iron pipes remained. It was only by the direction of the wind and the wonderful work of the Ely City Fire Brigade, which saves the factory from becoming involved.

Standing in close proximity to the canteen with a huge molasses tank and sugar store and had the wind been blowing from the north it is difficult to perceive how these could have escaped. Within a few moments, the place was a roaring furnace, enormous flames licking into the air high above the molasses tank, a massive structure separated from the canteen by only a few feet.

The alarm was raised by Mr. Littleboy, the canteen manager who rushed to call out of their beds the 14 people who were asleep. In a canteen adjoining there were four women also asleep. These had to be roused and hurriedly dressing themselves they did what they could to fight the fire until the brigade arrived. So hurriedly had the occupants to leave the premises that they were unable to save any of their personal belongings which were swallowed up in the fury of the fire.

The heat was so intense it cracked a hole in the windows in adjoining canteen. Inside was a dog and three puppies but it was impossible to save them and all four perished.

The firemen were delayed for a few minutes at one of the railway crossings but as soon as they arrived, they worked with wonderful energy. The cause of the outbreak is unknown. 27 12 09ES

Christmas Shopping in Ely

H. Sykes

If it is a toy you want, you can find no better shop at which to make your selection than that of Mr. H. Sykes in Fore Hill where can be found gifts greatly valued by grownups. A wonderful array of gifts can be seen when going from one department to another in this progressive shop. It has every type of toy from the doll to the Meccano set and the steam engine including the Lucille unbreakable doll, a new departure and no little girl should be without one

F. Bennett

The wife who can well look after the gastronomic needs of a family is a sound possession, but before this, she has to consult a good grocer who can supply every ingredient. No one is better able to do this Mr F. Bennett of Market Street whose display of groceries and dainties is well worthy of inspection.

Everything he has is of the first quality. The prices are right. His fruits are as varied as they are delicious, the chocolates are of equally high quality.

Ye Olde Tea Rooms

If purity products means anything, then the establishment to which you must go is the House of Cross in Fore Hill. Here in Ye Olde Tea Rooms years have been spent in building up a reputation which has even been carried to America from which orders have come for Christmas cakes. When you buy your Christmas cakes, mince pies, plums, puddings and decorated fancies you can be assured you have the article upon which no improvement can be made, including the Cherry Geneva, a delicious cake studded with selective cherries which are luscious and appetising.

John A Gardiner

Many a charming gift can be purchased from the chemist shop and if you scan your eye over the delightful window display of Mr John A Gardiner you will find every article as good as it looks. Perfumes, soaps and bath salts, all in the most dainty packages, are more than tempting while toilet brushware and scent sprays offer yet further scope for the Christmas gift buyer.

S. & F. Brewster

In the establishment of the Misses S and F Brewster one can purchase presents which are bound to please, at moderate prices. There are dainty little slippers for the kiddies with pictures on them that would delight any little toddler and presentation sets of coat hangers and trees combined Garter sets and silk gloves of exceptional quality, scarves and wraps of every description and a good selection of umbrellas

W McFall

This establishment on Fore Hill has a large variety of goods for presents to male friends which may be purchased at reasonable prices. There are selections of silk and wooden scarves, sets of studs and links, arm bands, tie pins, woollen waistcoats and cardigans. 27 12 09ES

1927 12 10

Time was when "a village library" implied a shelf or two of antiquated and goody-goody books which had been discarded and presented by bygone residents who had fixed opinions as to the literary fare appropriate for villagers. Nowadays the books sent each quarter to a village can be selected by the residents, and their quantity and quality have only one limit – the demand that exists. There is a branch of the county library in every village, which means that everybody can now obtain any book needed for study from the Central Library for Students. The amount spent on a free library service which benefits every person in the community is not likely to be grudged by ratepayers.

Cambridge prison, p5*

1927 12 13

The Home of Mercy in Christchurch Street, Cambridge continues to do valuable work for girls in need, both in material matters and spiritually. It is almost always full & parents of the inmates express their gratitude for the care in training the girls. Eighteen have been admitted during the past year and eight have been provided with outfits, earned by good conduct marks, and placed out in service. Four have been certified under the Mental Deficiency Act, two returned to their friends, one refused to stay and one died of meningitis. Several have been baptised, confirmed and admitted to Holy Communion; some had to be taught even the Lord's Prayer and many are admitted in a low condition of mental and bodily health.

Wide roads, p5

1927 12 14

The new font cover of Balsham church is the work of the Rector, Canon H. Burrell and has taken eight years to build. It is a magnificent structure, reaching about thirty feet from the ground, and hangs from the roof. It is a telescopic: the upper portion is suspended as a permanent canopy over the font and the lower part, which acts as the lid, is hung to it by a system of steel wire ropes and pulleys. For the balance weight a 9.4 naval shell has been used.

1927 12 15

A conference is to discuss the problem of the accommodation of tramps at Cambridge workhouse. In 1926 there was an alarming increase of over 5,000 which they hoped was due to the general strike but this year the number had been exceeded. They could deal with 60 male tramps but on one night had 118. They had to sleep on the floor, between the beds and in the corridor and the arrangement for bathing, searching, disinfecting and washing clothes became hopelessly inadequate. The solution may be found in an agreement between the Cambridge and Chesterton Union to pool resources

1927 12 15

Cambridgeshire County Council has written to the Cambridge Workhouse Infirmary committee saying that a general authority could not be given for dentures to be supplied to defectives maintained in the Institution. But if they were necessary in special cases they would authorise the expense to be incurred. It was decided, with expressions of satisfaction, to furnish the names of the inmates requiring dentures, together with the estimated cost.

A.E. Wright, Stretham, death, p7
Hinxton schoolmistress assaulted, p8

1927 12 15 c

Some of the best-known makes of motor cars are to be seen at Cox's Motor Company, Cambridge, the firm being agents for Armstrong-Siddeley, Riley and Vulcan. Their showroom windows always attract the person interested in cars and accessories and just now they are making a special feature of Riley models, including the San Remo saloon at £265 and the Monaco model at £285. They also specialise in the Lea-Francis cars.

1927 12 15 c

Many a charming gift can be purchased at a chemist's shop. Ladies always find scent very acceptable and at Messrs Campkin and Sons, Rose Crescent, Cambridge, there can be obtained a choice selection of perfume. Soap and bath salts in dainty packages, or toilet brushware are suggestions that may help to solve the gift problems for those whose pockets are not very deep.

1927 12 16

2mph motoring, p3*
Fishery board, p5
Snailwell plane crash, p5

1927 12 16 ES

Ely Market Day crash

Not a few murmurings of regret were heard when the lamp standard at the Lamb Corner was unceremoniously wrecked on Thursday morning. Standing as it has done for a great number of years of the corner in front of Lloyds Bank, Ely, this lamp standard has been a faithful means of directing many thousands of motorists, and crowds of people stood and gazed upon it after it was bought down by a motor bus. – 27 12 16(3) ES

Land drainage

The Royal Commission on Land Drainage reports says that in the face of the prevailing agricultural depression, caution should be exercised in carrying out extensive drainage schemes.

Commissioners considered that the precedent prevailing depression in agriculture is so serious that additional burdens cannot be placed on it without disastrous results.

The greatest caution should be exercised in initiating drainage schemes of any magnitude in order to ensure that expenditure should not be occurred in cases where the cost of efficient draining would exceed the consequential increase in the value of land based on its productive capacity.

It may be that extensive schemes of land improvement by drainage are impracticable so long as the present depression continues and the recommendations are directed not so much towards the accomplishment of such schemes but rather to prevent the further deterioration of land which is at present used for agricultural purposes.

In the absence of proper drainage land is bound to deteriorate. The health of the community suffers and the rateable value of the land affected seriously decreases.

It is desirable to attack the problem of drainage before serious damage has been caused to the land. And as long continued neglect always involves considerable loss and relatively high ultimate expenditure.

We cannot disguise the fact that permanent deterioration through continuous flooding or waterlogging of large areas of land now in use involves the loss of a valuable national asset. Until the state is prepared to accept its financial obligations very little progress can be made towards the realisation of the ideal of an efficient system of arterial drainage. 27 12 16(2)ES

1927 12 17

Conservative club, p8*

Shepherds, p8

1927 12 19

Coxton Hall fire, p8*

1927 12 20

Skating, p5*

1927 12 21

Glacial morning, p6

1927 12 23

Newmarket Guardians refreshments, p7

Sandwich man, p8

1927 12 24

Thousands of bottles of old ale, specially brewed for Trinity College and matured in the college cellars, have been sent this Christmas to Cambridge men all over the country. Trinity Audit Ale is declared by brewers to be the finest known. Every year there is a big demand for it, but not a bottle is allowed to be sold to the public and only present and past members of the college are allowed to buy it. The ale is matured for two years before it is sold and treated with all the care of an old wine. The recipe of the drink, which until fairly recently was brewed in the college itself, is kept a secret.

Chesterton library, p11

1927 12 27

Christmas in Cambridge was of the good, old-fashioned sort. A dreary, drizzly, cold and miry Christmas Eve gave way to a fine rain which gradually changed to sleet and the wind began to rumble hollowly in the chimneys. About noon a few snowflakes made their appearance and by two o'clock the snow came swirling down, the air was filled with large flakes and the outer world was whitening rapidly. Every tree and shrub was a picture of wintry beauty and many of the eaves of the houses carried a fringe of slowly-dripping icicles.

1927 12 27

Cambridge Conservatives who, following the disastrous fire in Market Passage in November last year, have been accommodated in temporary club premises in Petty Cury, returned to the splendid new club which Phoenix-like has risen from the ashes of the old premises. As before there is a fine lounge billiard room with four tables on the top floor, and a fine lounge and smokeroom with secretary's office and card room adjoining. Two new rooms will be used as a reading and writing room and a committee room. The colour scheme is brown and buff. The ground floor is not yet complete but will consist of a large hall with a spring dance

1927 12 27

Many of the main roads in the county were blocked with snowdrifts from six to ten feet deep over Christmas. Trains, motor buses and cars were held up and travellers stranded. The wheels of the mail vans were equipped with chains with the result that hold-ups were uncommon, though one van on the Histon – Milton Road had to be dug out. A thatched cottage at Melbourn collapsed about seven o'clock in Sunday evening. The bedroom end of the house fell out, but, happily, Mrs Greig was in the bottom room and escaped injury. She would not move however until the policeman came on Monday morning. She is now living in a cottage just opposite.

1927 12 27

The Ortona motor buses had a terrible time in the blizzard. Two buses were stuck in snowdrifts out Newmarket way, one near Teversham corner, a Willingham bus on the Huntingdon Road near the Five Bells, a Caxton bus near Toft and a Saffron Walden bus near Whittlesford station, where they remained many hours. Another bus got nearly to Sawston before it got stuck and had to be dug out and the Fulbourn bus could only get as far as the Robin Hood, Cherry Hinton. Relief gangs were sent to the rescue of the stranded vehicles and they were being dug out and coming home one by one.

1927 12 28

Blizzard, p3

Xmas, p6

1927 12 29

Snow, p5

1927 12 30 ES

Snow: Wilburton Road closed to traffic, Military Road impassable, Old West River frozen bank to bank – 27 12 30 ES

1927 12 31

A serious fire broke out at the Edison Bell Gramophone Factory, Huntingdon, as a result of which 400 employees, the majority girls, are thrown out of work. The flames spread with great rapidity and as the majority of the buildings were of wood they were soon caught in the blaze. The works are the property of Messrs Hough Bros, the well-known gramophone record makers of Camberwell and have been in existence a little over three years. They have also added the manufacture of wireless appliances. Lost in the fire were many valuable stocks of records and electrical apparatus.

County to buy gaol, p6

1928 Cambridge Daily News and Ely Standard [ES]

I have scans of the articles summarised or marked *

January to December 1928

January 1928 CDN

1928 01 02

When Mr Arthur Deck fired the second rocket on Parker's Piece on New Year's Eve it was his parting shot, for he was performing the ceremony for the last time. A century-old custom, with which three generations of the Deck family have been associated, will fall into abeyance. Before the war the rockets used to be sent up at the entrance to King's College but in 1913 the stick attached to one of the rockets fell through a glass roof of a college and did appreciable damage so he changed the scene of operations to Parker's Piece.

1928 01 02

The Home Secretary has decided to discontinue the Cambridge prison on Castle Hill and has offered it to the County Council for £4,812. The buildings consist of a central block comprising laundry, workshop, kitchen, labour cells, ladder store, hospital, photographers' hut, execution shed, schoolroom and governor's house. The Office of Works wishes to lease the main buildings to store their records in. This would not prevent the council in the future from building a new county hall on the prison site.

Toft floods, p3

1928 01 03

Floods, p5

1928 01 04 c

At the annual dinner of the Cambridge Motor Club Mr King said that 32 years ago there was only one motor car in Cambridge, the owner being the Hon C.S. Rolls, then a student at Trinity College. He had seen him riding in the car with a friend with another man walking in front with a red flag. The speed was two miles an hour in the town and four miles per hour in the country. He did not know what some of them would do if that regulation came in force again.

1928 01 05

The rapid thaw has caused one of the worst floods at St Ives for many years. Low-lying parts of the town are flooded. The scene at the old bridge was a magnificent one as the ice on the river broke up into huge masses and hurled themselves with considerable force against the old buttresses, becoming piled up for many feet. The iron railway bridge near Enderby's was only a few inches higher than the water level. Wadsworth's steps and Mr Day's boathouse were washed away and some of the boats damaged. The floods extended for many miles.

1928 01 05

The Old West River at Stretham Bridge was brimming over by mid-day. Several of the cottages near the bridge had been invaded by the water which was lapping each side of the road & trickling over the top of the banks in one or two places. The water on the west side of the road was above the level of the roadway and was only held back by the low bank at the side of the road, through which it was forcing its way in thin trickles. A gang of men was busy stopping the leaks with gault but in one or two places a few inches of water lay partly across the road.

1928 01 05

Hardwick is the poorest parish in the district. The road in the centre of the village was not fit to be called a road at all. It was one of the most dangerous, treacherous, roads in England & was getting narrower. Application for purer water had been made in March 1899 but it was still unsatisfactory. They had applied for eight houses in 1919 but none were built. There were people in the village at present times whose children were living in other houses.

1928 01 06

A gale swept through Cambridge & telephone communication to all places was lost, with the exception of direct traffic to London. Three large windows at the front of Eden Baptist Church, Fitzroy Street, were blown in and the wreckage smashed three front seats in the gallery. The flag staff at Great St Mary's church snapped under the pressure of the high wind. Cyclists who attempted to battle against the elements were almost stationary on their machines. In Hills Road an errand boy was blown from his bike and sustained a cut knee. In the flooded areas the wind whipped the water into whirling maelstroms.

Lordship farm, p5

Deaf, p6

1928 01 06 ES

Grave flood dangers, 33 engines fighting River Ouse water – 5ft 4” above normal.

At Stretham Ferry Bridge the river overflowed banks on Tuesday morning but authorities were able to deal with the emergency. At Cottenham Lode the water was flowing over the banks.

The situation made worse by the big ice flows which were working their way into the Ten Mile River and work hampered because of the inability to get stores to the dredgers. In Sutton and Mepal districts snow still piled high on the roadside and in the fields.

The road from Littleport to Welney, a distance of six miles, is impassable, the floods being too great for any vehicular traffic to pass through.

The Causeway at Mepal flooded for nearly a fortnight and communication established by means of motor buses and boats – people had to be rowed across to the Mepal side of the road in a boat then taken by another bus. Boat work undertaken by John Waters but when the water was nearly 2ft 6” deep he was forced to discontinue, not so much on account of the tremendous rush of water which swept over the road but because of the tremendous ice floes – had the boat been struck it would have been holed. Gigantic masses of ice have hurled themselves over the road, carrying thick wooden posts as though they were matchwood. Some 20 men, unable to cross because of the ice, had to spend a weary time in an endeavour to reach their homes at Mepal. They were compelled to journey to Chatteris by car and from then proceed via Somersham to Bluntisham Station, where they entrained for Sutton. They then had to walk to Mepal.

Ice made the road between Sutton Gault and Earith Bridge extremely difficult for horse and motor traffic and on reaching Earith Bridge the road to Earith was completely under water. A small holder stated that in order to feed his cattle he had to board a train at Bluntisham and come that distance to get to Earith Bridge Station, which, had the road not been impassable, would have been a mere stone's throw. One man took the risk of going over the road in a motor lorry. This took three-quarters of an hour as the driver had to dismount and push away masses of ice. It was so thick that light motor cars actually crossed on it between Earith and the Hermitage.

At Prickwillow water is only a foot off the top of the bank; the pumping engine is working at full pressure. At the bridge the bank has been made higher with a miniature mud-bank and a considerable amount of water lies between the bank at the Anchor Inn. On Tuesday night water began to ooze through the bank near the Inn and buckets had to be used to clear the cellar. The new pumping engine is working at full pressure and Mr Fred Stannard, the engineer has had a very busy time looking after this important draining plant. The river outside the engine is only a foot below the top of the bank. The old engine is not being used at present but it may be necessary to call it into use at any time. The banks were weakened by the hot summer of 1921 and have not had any pressure of water against them since. It is about 30 years since such a flood was experienced near Prickwillow.

At Littleport, near Sandal Bridge, the river is flooded considerably and the water is level with the railway line - 28 01 06 & (2) ES # c.12.5 # c.29

Stretham:

Floods: after some 120 hours freezing the thaw has left Stretham a miniature island. An excellent view of the floods could be obtained from the New Bridge at the Gravel.

Some excellent skating was enjoyed ... Mr Cyril Parish had a miraculous escape. With a number of friends we was skating over the ice-covered river when without warning he found himself up to his neck in water almost twelve feet deep. B. Langford rush to his assistance and was able to prevent him sinking and slipping under the ice, saving his life

Skating

Some excellent skating was enjoyed by a large crowd of enthusiasts at Stretham during the weekend, but the sport was not entirely free from incident. Mr. Cyril Parish had a miraculous escape with his life on Sunday. With a number of friends he was skating over the ice covered river, when without any warning, he found himself through the ice and up to his neck in the water. In consequence of the river being flooded, the water was almost 12-feet deep, and, observing Mr. Parish's dangerous predicament, Mr. B Langford rushed to his assistance. Grabbing at Mr. Parish, he was able to prevent him from sinking and slipping under the ice. Eventually he was hauled out of the water a little worse for his unexpected and chilly immersion. But for the prompt and commendable measures taken by Mr. Langford, Mr. Parish was in grave danger of losing his life. 28 01 06 ES

1928 01 07

Everybody's buying parachutes. They are war-time parachutes purchased from the Air Ministry and are being sold at the business establishment of a well-known Cambridge alderman. A friend of mine dropped in to purchase one and was interest to note the date and place of origin stamped on each. The inscription in black lettering reads: "W. Holmes and Son Ltd, Orwell, Cambs". The date was 28th November 1918, just after the Armistice. It is a curious coincidence that these parachutes made for war purposes a few miles from Cambridge had come back nine years later to be sold in a Cambridge emporium for the practical uses of motor car covers, dust-sheets, tents and the like

1928 01 07

A fire broke out at a bungalow at Caldecote known as 'South View', home of John Smith, a market gardener. The building which was of two storeys consisted of four rooms and a lean-to attached. Owing to its exposed situation and the strong wind that was blowing the fire blazed with great fury and pieces of burning material were blown towards Manor Farm. Police and villagers did what they could but as its interior was match-boarded it was impossible to save the bungalow, which was completely destroyed. Only the iron framework and corrugated iron roofing and part of the lean-to is remaining. Even the concrete slabs of the walls were levelled to the ground. It was warmed by a stove, the chimney of which went up through the flooring of the bedroom above and it is believed that the high wind drawing up the fire in the stove overheated the pipe.

1928 01 07

A break 35 yards long in the bank of the Little Ouse River, two miles below Wilton Bridge near Lakenheath, occurred shortly after midnight. The Ouse Drainage Board engineers are on the spot with boats laden with gault and a gang of men are working hard to stop the leak. The floods are still rising in the Fen district. The situation is serious but no further breaks are reported. The banks are being carefully watched and weak spots have been strengthened and it is hoped they will hold out.

Castle Mound, p8

New Year rockets, p8

1928 01 09

An outbreak of small-pox is reported at Doddington Workhouse; there are six cases at present. The first was that of an ordinary casual and since his entry into the Institution four other male inmates and one nurse have been stricken with the disease. As there is no isolation hospital or isolation ward the situation is viewed with alarm. We are asked to emphasise that the Institution is closed to all tramps.

Longstowe carrier, p5*

1928 01 10

During the gales the terrific wind partly demolished the Baptist Chapel at Needingworth, a large brick and tile building erected in 1861, and rendered the remainder of the structure unsafe. The tiles were blown in all directions through the air and wrecked property all around. The plate glass windows of Mr Bedford's shop opposite were broken and Mrs Bedford's kitchen stove (an Eagle range) was shifted about two feet by the heavy concussion of tons of falling masonry. Windows were also smashed at the houses of Mr R & W.J. Senescall which adjoin the chapel on the other side. Several trees were also blown down and the telegraph wires were broken.

1928 01 10 c

A meeting was held to consider collaboration between the Cambridge and Chesterton Unions in the alleviation of the tramp problem. For some reason very few tramps go to Chesterton but very many go to Cambridge which is very seriously overcrowded. The indoor poor of the two unions should be managed by one committee who would gather together all the sick, all the babies, all the children and all the tramps and distribute them between the two existing union houses as seemed most convenient.

1928 01 10

The Toft carrier, Mr John Chapman, lost his balance when getting into his cart while owing to a strong gust of wind, and fell heavily, striking his head on the ground. For the past 43 years as a carrier and egg and poultry dealer he has regularly attended the Cambridge market on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Although 78 years of age he was a man of exceptional vitality, able to carry on his business with all the energy and vigour of his former days.

1928 01 10

An inquiry was held into proposals to alter the charges for stalls on Cambridge market. There were 112 stalls, 64 of which were interior stalls but some, particularly those at the four corners of the market were more valuable than others. The present charge was 2s. 6d. per day and it was proposed to increase it to 6s. 10s for corner stalls, with frontage stalls increased to 4s.8d and the interior stalls raised to 3s. 4d. But the proposals had not been received with enthusiasm by the traders.

1928 01 10

Reports from the flooded areas in the Fens show that the water is gradually subsiding. The position at the break in the bank of the River Wissey at Hilgay was unchanged. Water was still pouring through the gap and no attempt could be made at present to stop it. The arrival by rail of 10,000 more sandbags is being awaited. Men are in readiness to begin work on filling the gap as soon as the water level admits. At present the rush of water is too great.

1928 01 11

An inquiry was held into Cambridge council's application to borrow money for the purchase of property in Peas Hill for an extension of the Guildhall. There was an increase of administrative staff and the offices were not adequate to enable the duties to be carried out efficiently. With the acquisition of the property the Corporation would hold the entire island site which would facilitate the suggested scheme for the reconstruction of the Guildhall. They had been met in a conciliatory spirit by the owners of the property and a favourable provisional agreement had been arrived at.

1928 01 12

The condition of the boiler house chimney at Cambridge Workhouse which was erected a year ago was discussed. A fire had been lit two days after the work was completed when it should not have been lit for 14 days & the chimney had cracked because the cement was not dry. The Guardians tried to find who had given the order but the person responsible was not discovered. Mr Kidman's foreman said he had found the fire alight and the pipe leading to the brickwork was white hot. The chimney had been put up because of complaints of smoke from Gwydir Street but they only had to look to see a chimney double the height which got the same complaint.

1928 01 13 ES

Swollen fen rivers. Highest water levels for many years.

Littleport streets flooded, City Road residents gained access by walking over a plank from the garden of George Cox's home to a wagon stationed in the middle of the road. People wished to visit Mr Cox's shop had to use back door. Occupants of The Holmes had to be rescued and carried to safety, then stayed with relatives.

Ely high water – so large was crowd on High Bridge it was like a seaside promenade.

Stretham: one topic 'Would the banks hold the tremendous amount of water. Acres of land flooded, water several feet deep on Military Road smallholdings. Town allotments flooded as were those in Grunty Fen. The engines have been working continuously, day and night. The engines working continuously to combat the water. The Military Road engine had two or three feet of water on Sunday but this was pumped out after several houses and the floor re-cemented in order that the engine might continue to pump. The water was actually running on to the road at Stretham Ferry but remedied by silt and sand bags. Gale: chimney pots and tiles dislodged, hen-houses were minus roofs. One shed at the old tennis court was completely swept down; stacks blown down in farmyard

Prickwillow much anxiety for safety of banks. The Isleham bank showed signs of 'slipping' but gault gangs remedied it. Watchers were out all night testing the banks and soil was carted from the Shell Farm and Putney Hill to strengthen weal placed. It is many years since the parapet of the bridge was removed so as to enable the men to ship the gault by the lighters

Gale sweeps the fens; bathing huts at Ely blown into the river, telephone service disrupted, four breakdowns on railway between Ely and Cambridge. On line to Downham Market linesman had to wade knee-deep in water; it is twelve years since the lines were so badly disorganised

Damage at March – trees blown down, property suffers

Littleport station flooded a foot deep, hundreds of bags placed beside river, floods in Mr Purdy's premises and in front of Mr Cox's shop.

Wissey breaks its banks, 1,000 acres flooded; people leave homes and farmers save cattle

Sutton area danger, men rushed to strengthen west bank of Counter Wash drain. Road to Chatteris from Mepal flooded for a foot, Mepal Causeway had now been flooded for 20 days

Middle Level floods higher than since 1916. Old Bedford reached highest level since 1897; gates at Salter's Lode, which open automatically, could not open owing to the wind, combined with the fact that the Sutton and Mepal and Manea and Welney Drainage Districts were discharging water into the river by powerful centrifugal pumps installed in past three years in place of the old water wheels.

Great quantities of ice in Old Bedford but gale blew it to the opposite bank; men near Mepal Engine could hear the cracking of the ice on the other side of the Wash, half a mile away

At Sutton houses suffered damage; flooded washes turned into a raging sea. High waves rolled and crashed against and over the banks. The spray was thrown high into the air, a rolling, mist-like cloud hanging over the wash area as far as the eye could see.

Haddenham: F. Norman's garden wall, Linden End, blown down. Thatch and an iron harrow (put on top to keep the thatch on) was blown off. Vine House damaged, a walnut tree blown down at Hinton Hall. The 'Hare and Hounds' inn sign blown down. Gable end of Wm Savidge's bungalow (recently built) was blown in. A mustard stack belonging A.D. Palmer, was carried away and strewn on neighbouring fields. The top of G. Bearcock's office was blown off and a hanging lamp blown over the top of the house into the road.

Wisbech football grandstand wrecked. – 28 01 13 & (2)(3)(4)(5) ES

Flood photos, Littleport and Mepal – 28 01 13(6) # c.29 # c.12.5

Stretham death of Mrs Emma Parnell, widow of the late Rev J. Parnell, at The Haven. She was predeceased by her husband three years ago; had spent most of her life in London where her husband was Pastor of a Baptist Chapel at Manor Park. The first part of the service held at her residence. 28 01 13(7)ES

1928 01 14

Fordham sale, p7

Market tolls, p8

Denver sluice, p8

1928 01 16

Sir – there are a great many dangerous corners in Cambridge. Burleigh Street corner is dangerous on account of the Eden Baptist Chapel standing in the midst of this busy thoroughfare. I suppose this chapel has been in existence from time immemorial, but as times are now and as traffic grows bigger and bigger, there certainly ought to be something done to remove this obstacle from this blind corner – E. Claydon

1928 01 16

At day-break a four-roomed house at West Street Comberton suddenly collapsed while the occupants and their three small children were still in their beds. Both the upper and lower rooms at the north end, where they were sleeping, completely collapsed. One of the beds was precipitated partly into an adjoining yard and two of the ceiling joists fell heavily right between the two elder children sleeping in their beds. That they all escaped serious injury is a miracle. The greater part of the furniture was subsequently got out by willing helpers. Hundreds of people came and viewed the damage during Sunday.

1928 01 17

Dry Drayton fire, p6

1928 01 18

Pinehurst school fire, p6

Isleham drain, p8*

1928 01 21

Rage in West End, p5

Railway journey, p6

Camilla Carlisle wrote 'Silver Throne', p6

Poor men at Cambridge, p6

1928 01 23

Ald L. Tebbutt objected to proposals for a bridge over the Old West River at Twentypence Ferry. Cottenham would be linked to two villages in the Isle of Ely – Wilburton and Haddenham, but he did not see that even Cottenham had very great interest in the matter. It was a very awkward road from Cottenham to Cambridge through Histon. There were so many corners at Histon – it was one of the worst places in the country. If they spent the money in putting Histon straight it would be of much greater benefit.

1928 01 23

An interesting discussion in regard to the future of Cambridge Prison and the Castle Mound took place at a meeting of the County Council. The Home Secretary would convey it to them for £4,812. The County did not want the mound, which was more closely connected with Cambridge than the rest of the county. All persons interested, including the Borough Council and the Cambridge Antiquarian Society would be consulted when its future was settled. Something was also said about the possibility of removing the County Hall in Hobson Street to the Shire Hall site.

1928 01 23

It was with feelings of justifiable pride and deep gratitude that the Unitarians of Cambridge assembled in their new Memorial Church, Emmanuel Road for its dedicatory service. It stands as a perpetual memorial to the memory of Mr G.W. Brown. The church has been designed by Ronald P. Jones who was responsible for the Church Hall in 1922 and follows the normal "college chapel" design. Prof

Burkitt referred to the difficulties the movement experienced in the '80s when services were held in the smoky atmosphere of a billiard room in Green Street.

1928 01 24

Police box, p3

Abbey Road bridge, p6

1928 01 26

Ely traffic scheme, p5

Workhouse firewood, p8

1928 01 27

The Ouse Drainage Board discussed the breach of the bank of the River Wissey. It was said the cause was the action of the sluice-keeper at Denver in not opening the new eye during the floods. But the reason it had not worked was that the frost was so severe; the sluice was pulled up and great difficulty was experienced in getting it down as the grooves were covered with ice. When the thaw set in the door was eased and had worked splendidly ever since. The floods were caused by the large flow of water down the Cam and the other three rivers into the Ten Mile. It was the highest flood ever recorded at Denver Sluice, three inches higher than in February 1919

1928 01 27

Cambridge council discussed recommendations to build a bridge over the river at or near Abbey Road. An inner ring road would circle the town on the outskirts which was necessary in view of the ever-increasing traffic and congestion in the centre of Cambridge. They suggested that a direct by-pass road be constructed by linking Chesterton Road with Milton Road

1928 01 27 ES

Stretham – interest in proposed water scheme;

Considerable interest is being shown in Stretham in connection with the proposed water scheme of Ely R.D.C.

If they joined the Council scheme it would cost £6,000 and they decided it would be desirable to find whether the local supply could provide them with all the water that is necessary and that it was pure and ample for their requirements.

A public meeting was held to discuss testing one of the wells in the village. They had arranged with Messrs Lack of Cottenham to test the well near the old school during 24 hours without disturbing the pump for general users. There was a fair supply of water and everyone could see the test being made. Otherwise, they would have to bore holes to make a special well which would cost a considerable amount of money.

It was not supposed the well could give all the water required, but it was a sample one and they would be able to find the quantity of water available in the neighbourhood.

They had enough water at the present in the village and there was a vast amount they did not have but which they could get. They had water in the centre of the village which could supply the whole parish including Green End. The stream has been running for ages and was the one with which the mortar was mixed when the church was built. The Rector said 'There are springs on my premises, beautiful like champagne. It is gorgeous'. Were the residents of Stretham to ignore that supply which was one of the birth rights of the village and go straight away for another scheme. Having the supply is only right they should test it and if it was not adequate, all they could go for the R.D.C. scheme,

The District Council would not be able to force the parish to pay for a main going to the village if they did not use it. Details were given off the pipes that would be laid. The population was 897 which would allow an average of four persons in every house of 224 houses. 28 01 27ES

Cambridgeshire County Council received a letter from the Home Secretary stating an order had been made for the discontinuance of Cambridge prison and offering the prison to the Council at a sum of £4,842. The Office of Works had asked that they may retain possession of the main buildings within the prison walls, including certain of the outbuildings of the Governor's house and a portion of the garden. The Council recommended the offer be accepted and to negotiate for a lease of the main buildings, Governor's house and portion of the grounds. They recommended an additional storey be erected on the front of the County Hall. 28 01 27(2)ES

1928 01 28

Finding that the spire of St Clement's church, Cambridge was in a dangerous condition a small army of workmen are busy erecting scaffolding. The pinnacle above the tower is to be taken down and will not be re-erected. A hole in the spire about ten feet by three feet is visible from the road and it is believed that the trouble was caused by the recent gale. The spire is a later addition to the church, having been erected in 1832 according to instructions under the will of William Cole of Milton.

1928 01 28

Cambridge borough council considered plans from the Cambridge Estates Ltd for the construction of roads and sewers on the Hurst Park Estate which has an acreage of 30 acres, nine being in Cambridge and 21 in the parish of Impington. It is proposed to erect approximately 190 houses. Ald Raynes thought the public who were considering purchasing plots should be fully aware of what they were doing. Only a small portion of the estate was within Cambridge and the rest was in the Chesterton Rural District Council's area who did not have a single bylaw affecting buildings or the construction of roads

Bridges, p8

Castle Mound, p8

New Year rockets, p8

King's Mill, p8*

1928 01 30

The story of the Chesterton ghost has attracted crowds of people to the pathway skirting the Willows and there were quite 200 spook-hunters waiting for something to turn up. Of course nobody takes the story seriously and even children have braved the darkness and the barbed wire fences to join in the hunt. All sorts of practical jokes have been played and one enthusiast sallied forth with a sheet until people started throwing things! Someone said that the ghost was defunct, having been shot by a policeman. But if the spirit doesn't materialise on the Willows it most certainly will in a licensed establishment in the adjoining Cam Road

February 1928 CDN

1928 02 02

Stuntney will, p6

Bottisham drunkenness, p6

1928 02 03

A rabbit hunt was organised at Linton and a large number gathered to enjoy the sport provided. There were about 80 men, most of whom were armed with stout sticks and about 50 dogs of all sorts and sizes. The affair, which has now become an annual event, attracted people from all parts of the region. The hunt started from Green Hill and within 200 yards the first kill was made. Up to lunch 18 rabbits and one hare had been killed and afterwards they went to Payne's Pasture where rabbits were in abundance and kills numerous.

Haverhill trader, p3

Dunlop tyres, p8

1928 02 03 ES

Wentworth church dedicated memorial to Queen Victoria

The ancient and pretty little church of Wentworth was filled to capacity when the Bishop dedicated a memorial to the memory of Queen Victoria. The memorial, a coloured representation of the crucifix is composed of the central panel of the east window, and cost £80 pounds.

It may seem strange it should be erected so many years after Queen Victoria's reign, but the reason for that is that the money was collected several years ago and had never been expended.

The designer was Mr. F.C. Eden of London, who was also responsible for the work of fixing in the panel after it had been coloured. New hangings have also been provided for the altar. 28 02 03(2)ES

Adelaide Village Institute opened – 28 02 03 ES – photo – 28 02 03(3) ES

It was a great day for Adelaide when the new village Institute subscribed for by the villagers, was opened by Sir Hugh Lucas-Tooth MP in the presence of a large number of inhabitants and visitors. The completion of the Institute makes another step in the progress of this up-to-date village and will be very useful as a meeting place for all classes of the community of the district. The hall is a spacious one and contains a central room and two ante rooms.

Although the village has only a population of 340, it is distinctly progressive. The opening of the Institute, subscribed for and built locally, marks one more step in a series of important improvements that have taken place during the last few years.

The building is a splendid home and is an asset to the place. Previously, meetings and social events had to be held in the schools and this was not the best arrangement.

The idea was first mooted in 1925 when committees were formed. Building was commenced last August the contractor being Mr. A.J. Cross. Unfortunately, the completion was held in abeyance on account of a bye-law which demanded that it should be covered with non-inflammable material outside as well as in. It now consists of match-boarding being covered with corrugated iron and lined with asbestos while the roof is asbestos slates. A large number of people assembled for the opening ceremony. Mr S Cross said that since he had known Adelaide there had been a number of changes. He was there when the school was built, when the church was built, when the twin bridges and the loop line was constructed. Then came the Beet Sugar Factory and now he had seen the Institute. The MP said he had not visited Adelaide before. 28 02 03ES

1928 02 04

The tea given to old folks at the Comberton Institute was one of the pleasantest and most enjoyable functions ever held in the village. About 80 persons responded to the invitations. The long rows of tables had been arranged by the lady members and a plentiful supply of flowers and plants added to the cheerful scene. Many of those present were over 80 years old, the oldest being Mrs Ann Marshall who is 88. After a sumptuous repast the tables were cleared for dancing and tobacco freely distributed for the men and oranges for the ladies. William Huckle, who is 83, gave a step-dance with the vitality of a youth of 18.

1928 02 04

Justices turned down an application for the removal of the licence of the Elm Tree, Orchard Street, Cambridge to premises proposed to be erected at the junction of Milton Road and Green End Road. The Elm Tree was redundant and not necessary for the needs of the locality and there were over 100 people in favour of the new site. Large numbers of houses were being erected in that area which would be inhabited by people who would not be able to afford a wine cellar of their own and have to go to a public house for their bottle of beer. But the residents were people who had been taken from the slums; their incomes were very small and there was no margin for drink in their budget.

1928 02 04

The first annual report of the Cambridge Housing Society shows they have built 22 houses at Green End Road to be let at an average rent of 5s.6d. per week. Twenty-two families with 91 children are accommodated and thus given the chance of growing up in healthy surroundings in houses with three bedrooms, modern sanitation and good gardens. But there are still problems of providing modern houses for poor families at rents they can reasonably afford

1928 02 06

The football fraternity in Cambridge will regret to hear of an accident to Mr Cecil Cannon, the Town goalkeeper, who was overcome by fumes from a geyser in the bathroom of his house. He is greatly concerned about being indisposed in view of the Town's amateur cup-tie with Stockton at Milton Road next Saturday. Although this is only his first season he is a goalkeeper of exceptional ability, his name having been suggested more than once for international honours. All readers will wish him a speedy recovery and hope soon to see him in his accustomed position between the "sticks".

1928 02 07

Twentypence Bridge, p6

1928 02 08

While a labourer was cleaning out a ditch some distance from the road at Pidley he came across what he thought was a large stone. At first he took no notice of it and kept on digging, but on examining later he found that it was a human skull with a complete set of teeth. Digging further he came across most of the larger bones of a human body, but none of the smaller, and as they were in a heap it does not appear that a complete body had been buried. Many years ago there was a spinney where the bones were found, which was used as a gypsy encampment.

Lion Hotel waiter death, p5

Coal horses, p5

1928 02 09

Red Lion understaffed, p5

1928 02 10

Throwing chips, p7

1928 02 10 ES

C.W. Horn defeated in world speed-skating competition in Switzerland – 28 02 10 ES # c.38 : skating

1928 02 11

During the storm which raged with unusual severity over Bishop's Stortford lightning struck the parish church steeple at Takeley and set the old building on fire. The church was a beacon of light which could be seen for miles around, flames shooting out from the steeple. It was evident that the cross surmounting the steeple had been struck, the supporting king-post being well alight and the lead running down the sides of the roof faces. Crowds of villages watched from the churchyard. The vicar, who was greatly distressed at the unfortunate occurrence, sprained his ankle in attempting to assist the firemen and had to be conveyed to the vicarage in a car.

Cambridge Preservation Society formed, p8

1928 02 13

Licensed houses, p3

St Ives motor weed cutter, p5

1928 02 14

Sir – seeing that Sawston village has now been supplied with electricity for lighting, heating and power, I would like to express my sincere appreciation of this great boon to our village. I am delighted with the light in my house; it is clean and healthy and the supply is excellent. The village streets are now well lighted and it is a real pleasure to walk out in the evenings – William Resbury

Ely parish enlargement, p6

1928 02 17 ES

Middle Level Priestman dredger

The Middle Level Priestman dredger, which founded during the blizzard on Christmas night at Copalder, near Benwick, was raised on Monday afternoon. It has not been possible to attempt salvage operation before, owing to the floods as at times there was a depth of over five feet above the gunwale of the pontoon on which the drencher was supported. However, preparations were made so that on the first favourable opportunity, the work could be taken in hand. Dams were driven right across the river, which is about 60 feet wide and the salvage operations commenced. The water between the dams was pumped out and then the water in the pontoons was baled out. Just at that junction the upper timber dam began to give due to the pressure of the upper water river. However, at the critical moment, the dredger which weighs over 70 tons lifted so that the dam seepage was a matter of little concern. The river was only drained off for 40 hours. The work was carried out quickly due to the performance of the men who all laboured strenuously, forgetting meal times, realising that it was a ticklish job to undertake at this time of the year. 28 02 17ES(2)

Ely R.D.C. meeting: S.A. Cross of Stretham complained of depositing of refuse; H.W. Harris wrote re Pump Lane, considerably number of heavy lorries were passing over the roadway and could only recall one occasion during the past 18 years when any stones had been put down. – 28 02 17(3)(4)(ES

Branch Bridge across River Lark

Branch Bank which spans the River Lark at its mouth and connects Adelaide with Sand Hill, about four miles from Ely, suddenly collapsed. Fortunately no one was on the bridge at the time and the only damage done was to the bridge itself which crashed into the river. The Ouse Drainage Board had advised it being pulled down and re-erected. The bridge had been considerably weakened lately by the heavy floods and the exceptional wind. It fell about noon and only a few minutes previously a butcher's cart had passed over it safely. A dredger belonging to the Ouse Drainage Board was nearby at the time and was brought to the spot for the purpose of removing the debris out of the river. This week work was completed and the river is quite clear for traffic.

The bridge which consisted of three spans was about 70 feet long and the centre span being 30 feet. It was 10 foot 10 inches above the normal water level and was of oak. It was is well over 100 years old. 28 02 17ES

Tuesday was Valentine's Day and I doubt whether anyone in Ely received a Valentine greeting. It seems to be one of those many customs that formed an almost essential part of the life of the last century, but which have rapidly died out during the last 20 or 30 years. Our grandfathers and grandmothers look forward to February the 14th and were greatly excited if they received one of those curious cards, edged with lace and bearing two red hearts joined by an arrow from cupid's bow. I think we have advanced in the right direction in believing such childish sentimentality is behind. 28 02 17(3)ES

I have been handed an old coin about the size of a farthing made of copper. Evidently it was quite thin when made as the lettering is not worn very much. On one side ARE the words "Isle of Ely, Littleport" while on the reverse is the inscription "Ye overseers of ye poor". Unhappily the date is partly erased and only two figures remain one and six. I would be glad, if anyone with a knowledge of this matter could suggest the use of which this was originally put. 28 02 17(3)ES

1928 02 18

Three Cambridge youths appeared in court for unlawfully being in possession of a .45 Colt revolver and not having a firearm certificate. One said he had bought the revolver from a hairdresser in Berkshire; he thought it was only a relic and sold it to the second defendant. He said he never had any ammunition and had offered to sell it to the third youth who said he would buy it if he could get a licence for it. The Magistrates looked upon this as a very serious matter; defendants could be fined £50 or sent to prison for three months, but they did not think they had the revolver for any evil intent and the case was dismissed.

1928 02 18

Grantchester's new village hall was opened. The building, which adjoins the Reading Room, is of steel with a stage, kitchen and cloakrooms. Mr Adeane, in declaring it open, expressed the hope it would not only be a social rendezvous, but a place where political differences were left outside. It was desired to renovate the old reading room and start a small museum and a library. Babraham had a village hall 25 years ago, largely due to the enterprise of Mr Adeane who had also started a wood-carving centre there.

Motorists hospital treatment, p8

1928 02 18 c

A women's section of the Cambridge branch of the British Legion came into existence at a meeting held in the Guildhall. Since 1921 they had been growing at a tremendous rate and now had 745 branches of the women's section. It was a national organisation which welcomed applications for grants for training widows in employment and for assisting orphans in train journeys to school. The mayoress (Mrs E.W. Amies) was elected President with Mrs Turner as Chairman, Mrs Cutlack as secretary and Mrs Salisbury Woods as treasurer.

1928 02 21

Henry Percy Bowler, undergraduate of Pembroke College, was summoned for driving a motor car at a dangerous speed in Chesterton Road, Cambridge. Sergt Nelson, who admitted he had never driven a car, stated that defendant drove at 35 miles an hour round a corner on the off-side of the road. Defendant said he drove behind a small saloon car until he saw the road was clear and then passed it, his speed was about 27 miles an hour. The make of car was an H.P.B. and he assembled it himself. He bought the engine, which was 20 h.p. in 1912 for £6. A fine of 10s was imposed.

Town planning, p8

King's Mill site, p8

1928 02 22

A porter's sensational dash in front of an express train, travelling at nearly 60 mph, and a thrilling rescue, was witnessed by amazed onlookers at Waterbeach station. The Express from Ely was thundering into the station when the signalman saw a man standing in the level crossing gateway. The wicket gate can be locked by a lever in the signal box but he dared not lock it with the man standing where he was, as the result would be to crush him badly. The man, who was deaf and has poor sight, then began to make a crossing. The oncoming train was less than 20 paces off when Goods Porter Ernest Curtis rushed across the line and held him between the two sets of metals while the Express dashed by. The situation was so serious that onlookers thought both men had been killed.

Comberton Institute, p8

1928 02 23

A Duxford builder was charged with stealing three gallons of Ethyl petrol, value 4s. 3d. and a petrol tin from a garage at Whittlesford. The man said he had gone to the garage for a quart of oil and saw this special petrol. He had never seen it before and thought he would try some. He picked up a can within full view of the pumps and emptied it into his tank. He put another into the dickey, which was left open. After leaving the garage he went straight to London.

Motor tyre business, p6

1928 02 24

Some time ago an application was made for the use of the Green End pond at Cottenham as a dumping ground for the parish, and permission was given. At a later meeting a communication was received from about 40 inhabitants living in the vicinity of the pond protesting and an inquiry was called. Only a few people attended but a further petition said it was the "one beauty spot" and that Cottenham “could not afford to lose its picturesque entrance”. (Laughter). Chesterton council confirmed their decision that the pond be filled in.

Corporation salaries, p3
Guardian amalgamation, p6
Town planning, p6

1928 02 24 ES

March marshalling yard – photo – 28 02 24(2) ES

Stretham:

New road joining the Cambridge and Wilburton Roads was opened; three dangerous corners which have been the scenes of numerous motoring mishaps will be avoided. The road will be a great asset to the tenants of the new Council Houses at ‘White City’. These homes have lately been erected. An R.A.C. hut has been installed at the Wilburton Road end, with suitable signposts. – 28 02 24 ES

Wesleyan rally

Serious accident Frank Bridgeman, a pupil at the Scientific Schools, Cambridge. Was working on radial driller when arm caught in machinery. Hand and arm severely torn and cut.

Hospital Sunday arrangements – 28 02 24 ES

1928 02 25

Lloyd George at Cambridge, p6

1928 02 26 c

In the past Ely had enjoyed mild prosperity but this would not last unless the Government came to the rescue of agriculturists. This was a manufacturing and mechanical age and Ely must be prepared to take her part in it; manufacturers should be encouraged to come down and build factories outside the city, encouraged by being generously treated so far as assessment of rates was concerned.

Peterborough was none the worse for factories, said Major Gordon Fowler. But agriculture was the premium industry and employed the biggest number of hands.

1928 02 27

For the last two weeks the famous King’s College Choir has been struggling on in a depleted state owing to the illness of the juniors and as a result the daily evensong service has been suspended. About a fortnight ago some of the 16 choirboys became ill with mumps and on Sunday the service was carried through by the adult members only. It is the first time for well over 20 years that these services have been suspended in this way.

March 1928 CDN

1928 03 01

The object of the Great Chesterford Sparrow and Rat Club is that all members shall kill one fully-fledged sparrow for each acre, with one rat for every two acres of his occupation during the year, and that 29 sparrows or 10 rats be the minimum contribution. Any member not killing the requisite numbers will be fined a half-penny an acre; the money going towards the cost of the annual dinner. During the year 5,989 rats and 3,126 sparrows had been killed.

1928 03 01

An interesting debate on “the flapper vote” was held at the Liberal Assembly Rooms, Cambridge. In many spheres of life women were giving valuable service yet they could not have the vote until they were 30 years of age. But the modern girl knew practically nothing about politics. Give the woman of 21 the vote and they would out-vote the men – was that fair? (“Yes”). If women got the vote then the country would only be just “flapping” about. The vote should be used properly and a group of giggling girls could not do that.

1928 03 02

Public house licences, p5
Coal mine, p8

1928 03 03

Magdalene College hopes that a start will soon be made on the building of a new court on the opposite side of the Street. Plans have been drawn up for a three-sided brick court open to the river, traditional in style. The flank parallel with Magdalene Street will not interfere with the existing shops, but the thoroughfare is long overdue for widening and from the remodelled bridge there would then be a noble prospect of the new court with a lawn or gravel forecourt separated from the pavement by a low parapet.

Pubs fate, p2
First Eastern General Hospital, p8*

1928 03 05

Over 1,000 Scouts raised their voices in a Zulu chorus when their Chief, Sir Robert Baden-Powell attended their mammoth rally at Cambridge Guildhall. They packed the hall nearly to the point of solidity including Sea Scouts and University Rovers and some 600 Wolf Cubs. The Chief Scout was accompanied by Dr Eastman, the Great Chief of the Sioux Indians, who is commissioner of the Scouts of America. He wore complete Redskin garb with the traditional head-dress of eagles' feathers. The scouts were very interested in his tomahawk.

1928 03 08

Plans were submitted for a proposed new slaughterhouse at the rear of the White Hart Hotel, Ely. The Medical Officer pointed out the unsuitable position - there were 17 dwelling houses within 200 feet. The council had been very lenient in refusing to condemn existing slaughterhouses on the ground it might be a hardship to the owners, but the granting of a new licence was entirely different. It would be a great disappointment to a man who was starting a fresh business and a public abattoir was out of all reason as the ratepayers would have to find a lot of money for the benefit of four or five butchers. The application was refused.

1928 03 08

A meeting was held to resuscitate the Cambridgeshire Miniature Rifle Association which had lapsed since 1914. It was a fascinating sport and if they got hold of young fellows and taught them about a rifle they became enthusiastic supporters. After the war there was a great apathy about shooting but now great keenness was being shown

1928 03 09

Parish constables, p6

1928 03 10

An inquest into the death of a student at Emmanuel College, Cambridge, was told he had been attending a meeting of the Twelfth Club, a literary society which held a dinner once a year. Afterwards he went to a student's room and whiskeys and soda went round in the ordinary way. He was a scholar of great promise and it was to be regretted that someone out of youthful folly had filled his glass with neat whisky. He had slipped down in one of the courts sustaining severe injuries. It was quite possible that the fresh air affected him.

1928 03 10

A man told Cambridge magistrates he had been asked for some side screens for a motor car. He got into a Morris Oxford car in Drummer Street parking place, Cambridge, and drove it as far as the cemetery. He took the side screens out, rolled them up in a rug and sold them to an Ely man for a £1 note and an electric motor cycle lamp.

Eastern General Hospital, p8

1928 03 13

Great damage was caused by fire at Southill House, Bedfordshire, the country seat of the famous brewery family of Whitbread. It is a beautiful country mansion and stands in the finest and most extensive part on the county. A fire spread to half-a-dozen neighbouring rooms including the billiard room. The maids and domestic staff had an exciting time and the girls went off over fields to arouse the employees living in different parts of the estate. The staff cleared the mansion of all valuables, including many fine portraits in oil. There was one casualty. A man was carrying a Gainsborough valued at £2,000 when he slipped and the picture fell with a crash. A light was brought and it was found that the man had accidentally put his foot through the picture.

1928 03 14

Dr O.R. Ennion, p5

1928 03 16

Bourn diphtheria, p7

1928 03 17

Bullet in bedroom, Chesterton, p8

Widening streets, p9

1928 03 21

Imps greet Sir Clifford Fox, p8 (& 22nd p8)

1928 03 22

A remarkable story of how a Willingham flower and fruit grower took a farm at Whittlesford in order to get his two sons set up in farming and lost £2,600 over it, was told at the Bankruptcy Court. In 1881 he'd set up as a nurseryman and flower and fruit grower and bought additional land, but lost a considerable sum in a malting business in Ware. In 1920 he set up his two sons as farmers at Whittlesford New Farm. The cause of his failure was four barren seasons through the weather.

1928 03 22

A farmer at Pond Farm, Witchford, said that bad seasons, a fall in prices and land difficult to deal with in unfavourable seasons were among the cause of his failure. Other causes were the high cost of labour, and the Ouse Drainage Board. He took over the farm in 1915 and his father later bequeathed him some land, which was hired as smallholdings, but the tenants, surrendered it because they could not carry on. But he had an idea he could make it pay. He cleared the land with engine cultivation and ploughing but the drought set in and he got scarcely anything. Then a wet season 'did him down' and he surrendered the farm to the landlords because he was unable to pay the rent.

1928 03 22

Sir – May I draw attention to a new form of pastime which should be nipped in the bud before some fatality is recorded. I refer to the increasing practice of boys using roller skates in the streets and on the pavements. This afternoon two lads were careering along Regent Street amongst the traffic. Other towns have already taken action to put a stop to this new boyish craze and it is to be hoped that Cambridge will do likewise – “Safety First”

1928 03 23

Cambridge councillors debated the deplorable behaviour of certain members of the University. In the places of entertainment bad language was frequent and disorderly acts occurred in the streets. At the present time special constables were composed entirely of tradesmen and at certain times of the year the year the Chief Constable should try to enrol University fellows, tutors and dons. The proposal was rejected.

1928 03 24

Sir – may I appeal to rookery owners who find it necessary to keep down the number of rooks to have their eggs taken with sectional rods. This is far better than shooting a number of helpless creatures who need not have been born. It is so cowardly to shoot the poor rooks as they sit on the edge of the nest. Bang! and a nest full of helpless creatures is blown to pieces with a shotgun. Could anything be more revolting and unsporting. – “Play Fair”

1928 03 24

The Women's Institutes Home Crafts Exhibition at the Guildhall features a display of the rooms of village homes, the furniture and other smaller articles of which had been made by the villagers themselves. A sitting room had been made by Balsham members, including a carved sideboard, tables and chairs, a settee made out of boxes and cushions, and a screen made by 23 men. The Barton group showed a bedroom with a wash-hand-stand with marble top. Even the soap was home-made and a pair of candlesticks were made of cotton-reels.

Crossing sweeper, p8

1928 03 26

Boat race crews, p8

1928 03 27

On Saturday was laid to rest in Chesterton churchyard the last surviving child of the Rev Michael Gibbs, once Treasurer of St Paul's cathedral. He was appointed to Barrington in 1835 and found the church in decay, rain pouring through the roof and the north door gone. All this he repaired but when the villagers saw the door replaced they remonstrated, saying “But where are our cattle from the green to go in winter?” He also got a thatched school built.

Motor cycle advert, p6

1928 03 28

The largest bombing aeroplane in the British service, the “A” came down on Newmarket Heath and was exceedingly fortunate to make a safe landing. P.C. Bacon saw the aeroplane cross over Newmarket and turn back. It was evidently in distress for it had a strong searchlight turned on the ground as if seeking a landing and was firing red warning lights from its signal pistols. The descent was rather hurried and the plane bounced ten feet into the air from the impact with the earth. One of its two engines had ceased to work; mechanics put it right and stopped a leak in a petrol tank and the plane resumed its flight.

Balsham school, p8

1928 03 30 ES

During the last six months Stretham has seen been the scene of several improvements. Quite recently, the road opposite the ancient Cross had been widened to considerable distance and this improvement has now been extended further down the street, opposite the village pump, where the old wall has been pulled down and a lower been built further back. We understand that the workmen will next commence operation of Mr. J. Garner's shop, thus making the main road a safer thoroughfare for the ever increasing amount of traffic passing to the village. Mr. W. S. Rayner was the contractor for this work 28 03 30 ES

1928 03 29

Bottisham dogs, p8

1928 03 30

Owners of land served by Twentypence Road, Cottenham agreed to offer the sum of 30s. per acre as their share towards the cost of making the road a public highway as part of a scheme to make a through route to the Isle of Ely. The Isle of Ely & Cambridgeshire County Councils are considering the erection of a bridge at Twentypence Ferry.

1928 03 30 ES

Stretham: Further improvements: road opposite the Cross widened down the street opposite the village pump where the old wall has been pulled down and a lower one built further back. The workmen will now start operations on J. Garner's shop, thus making the main road a safer thoroughfare for the ever-increasing amount of traffic passing through the village. W.S. Rayner was the contractor

1928 03 31

A special issue of the Daily Mail dated 1st January 2000 has been printed in conjunction with the Ideal Home Exhibition. It contains quite a lot of news about Cambridge, including the Inter-Varsity Air Pushball Match which was won by Cambridge in front of a crowd estimated at 2,250,000. On the same day there was a 'Varsity girls' boat race in a covered-in stadium in Battersea Park. An air raid undertaken by undergraduates after a rugby match, which showered the women's colleges with confetti and a host of miscellaneous garments, has led to a complete ban on aeroplanes. The Aeroplane Proctor is to visit every private aerodrome in Cambridge to see that all undergraduates' machines are put out of action for the term.

1928 03 31

The latest issue of 'The Outlook' includes an article on motoring in Cambridgeshire. The writer found out country very much to his liking: "Although the roads can provide the motorist with nothing exciting in the shape of hairpin bends or sudden gradients there are pleasantly wooded heights and good level stretches that open up good possibilities for leisurely exploration. A country rich in scenic charm, it hides some of England's loveliest old-fashioned villages & yields the motorist a bumper measure of road delights". After this we shall expect a big invasion of motorists in the near future!

April 1928 CDN

1928 04 03

Photographic exhibition, p6

1928 04 05

The official testing of the new bridge over the River Cam at Dimmock's Cote took place. It is 216 feet long and 25 feet wide, constructed of ferrous-concrete throughout and is designed to carry the Ministry of Transport standard loading. This bridge, together with the bridge over the Old West River, completes the road which was constructed in the early years of the war for military purposes and provides direct communication between the Midlands the East Coast, opening up a large area of agricultural land between Stretham and Wicken. It will be open for traffic on April 16th.

1928 04 05

During dredging operations a short sword, believed to be of 14th century origin, has been recovered from the Cam. The weapon, which was sharper than one would have expected, was found near the corner of Saxon Road and will be handed to the Museum of Archaeology. Two traders' tokens of ancient date were also found in the river bed.

1928 04 05

The Cam Conservators had met Pamplin Bros who suggested using two of their steam tractors, one working at each end of Stourbridge Common, to barrow and roll the spoil deposited by dredging operations and prepare it for a seed bed. It will also need one or two horses with chain harrows to get at the small weeds. It was suggested that to make a good job of it and turn it into a recreation ground a drainer should be used. This would get rid of the water on the Common and make it quite dry.

1928 04 07

The sun worked overtime to make Good Friday a glorious harbinger of Easter-tide and all Cambridge was out of doors. Parker's Piece proved a popular children's playground, and the East Road end, where the quaint survival of Good Friday skipping is to be seen every year, was alive with the babel of children's voices. The inevitable ice-cream carts and sweet stalls did a good trade, and so did the stalls selling gaily-coloured windmills. A 6,000 crowd, which broke the Milton Road ground record, saw the Town beat Ipswich in the Southern Amateur League, while there was a very good attendance at the whippet races at Station Farm.

1928 04 07

A jobbing gardener was given half a stone of potatoes to plant on Chesterton allotments, but the owner was disgusted to find that only two rows had been planted and accused his workman of planting someone else's acres with his spuds. The jobbing man came to the conclusion there was only one thing to be done to prove his innocence and proceeded to dig up the potatoes. All but three were found. An inquest is now being held to decide whose is the responsibility of replanting what will be a very valuable crop of early spuds.

1928 04 10

The organisers at Foxton took the bold step of holding their garden fete on Easter Monday. In addition to many side-shows and stalls there was a football match, a push-ball match causing heaps of amusement, and a concert by Pearl Lambeth's Rosebuds who delighted the audience with their dainty work, whilst the fete was wound up with dancing in the evening. Foxton was not generally called a rich village, but it was rich with people who could work. The movement for collecting for the village hall was only started two years ago and they had already obtained £600

Cambridge – Royston walk, p6

1928 04 11

NUT conference,

1928 04 13

Sir – I protest against the ejection of Mr Pauley and his family from the ferry house, Midsummer Common. They have done their best to find a house but without success. The man and his son worked the ferry over the river, night and day, including Sundays, and in all weathers for the convenience of the Cambridge ratepayers, thus filling one of the most monotonous jobs; the man for 35 years and the boy for 16. On the completion of the footbridge they are completely cast over, no compensation being paid and no pension. To send people adrift in this matter is neither a moral or Christian act – Charles Porter.

1928 04 13

Dancers and band musicians thronged to a dance band contest at the Rendezvous in Magrath Avenue, Cambridge. Eleven bands took their turns on the platforms. Each played a fox-trot and a waltz. A fault with several bands was that the violinists showed a tendency to overdo their parts. Judging was by popular vote and the results were: 1st Cambs Mental Hospital Dance Band, 2nd Jack Vivian's Dance Band & 3rd Sid Parsley's Dance Band. The winners, who previously were practically unknown to the dancing public, played in confident style and nicely together. The band is a six-piece and undoubtedly more will be heard of it.

1928 04 13 ES

New Ortona garage, Ely

Costing just over £3,000 the massive garage which the Ortona Motor Bus Company has just erected on the Cambridge Road, Ely, was opened. Easy of ingress and egress with massive sliding doors it provides accommodation for 16 of the company's large vehicles. The rapid development of Ely has encouraged the Company to establish this, its first depo in the Isle of Ely.

It has swallowed up most of the smaller concerns which hitherto ran services from all parts of the district and they hoped to combine a high standard efficiency with courtesy. From the depot they will run a fine service with a magnificent fleet of vehicles including buses from Ely to Chatteris, St Ives, Cambridge, Soham, Prickwillow and Pymoor. No fewer than 10 buses operate in this district, one of which will be at Soham and one and the other at Chatteris. Special attention will be given to private hire work and they have everything from a 37-seater downwards with a 32-seater charabanc. 28 04 13ES # c.26.46

Massive bridge at Dimmock's Cote to open 28 04 13 ES – photo – 28 04 13(4) ES

The massive new bridge over the river Cam at Dimmock's Cote near Wicken will open to the public on Monday. Constructed of Ferro concrete it is 216 feet long and 25 feet wide and provides direct communication between the Midlands and the East Coast. It links up with the Military Road constructed in the early days of the war and opens up a large area of agricultural land between Stretham, Wicken and Soham. 28 04 13 ES

1928 04 14

'The Times' has published a picture of the proposed new Cambridge University Library from the provisional designs prepared by Sir Giles Gilbert Scott. For some years past the imperative need of additional rooms to accommodate the never-ending increase of books has been urged but the enormous cost of erecting an entirely new library on another site – the old playing field of King's and Clare Colleges - presented what seemed an insurmountable difficulty. Even if the proposed scheme is realised it provides for only one-half of the projected library and involves a debt which will not be cleared for 50 years

1928 04 14

At Cambridgeshire magistrates court two Willingham men were convicted of stealing potatoes from their employer, farmer Thomas Langan, and each fined 10s. A London motorist was convicted of not having a road fund licence at Hauxton; the last licence had expired in June 1927; fined £10. A Dry Drayton man pleaded guilty to using a wireless set without a licence; he was unaware he needed one for a crystal set; fined 10s. Two Cottenham men were convicted of riding bicycles without lights and fined 7s.6d.

1928 04 14

Newmarket council considered the question of standing places for motor 'buses and recommended the present arrangements in St Mary's Square should remain in force for the time being. This class of vehicle is likely to get more numerous on the road and certain portions of the Fordham roadside should be defined as hackney carriage stands for the setting down of passengers. It having also been suggested that St Mary's Square might afford a suitable site for a motor-park, but having regard to certain manorial rights existing there, it was resolved that the solicitors representing the Lord of the Manor be invited to attend the next meeting.

1928 04 14

A Suffolk teacher said that when she first went to the school she had a great deal of trouble from a dozen big boys of 14. They overturned desks, tied up the schoolroom doors on the inside and broke nearly every window. This annoyed her and she talked it out with them. They said they wanted a man teacher who could thrash them. The mistress in the next village thrashed her boys and they were taunted because their mistress did not thrash them. "I fetched the thickest luggage strap I could find and got somebody to try it out on me first", she said. "Then the boys came up and each one had the strap eight times on each hand. Every big boy had to have the strap because the others wanted him to know what it was like. There were no further tricks".

1928 04 14 c

I enjoyed a couple of rounds on the Cambridge putting green on Jesus Green and found quite a lot of patrons there. There are some folk who think that putting is only a temporary craze and will not enjoy continuing prosperity in the same way that tennis and bowls do, but a single tennis court takes ten years to pay for itself while the first putting green paid for itself within the first year. The committee has received a petition for a similar putting green on the Lammas Land, but they are a little timid about having a second one prepared until they see whether the success achieved last year is repeated. The rockery being constructed at the entrance to Lammas Land is being made from pieces of old and disused cattle troughs from Midsummer Common

1928 04 16

One of a block of five cottages at Saxon Street caught fire. The fire originated in the thatched roof of two cottages occupied by Alfred Foreman and his family of five persons. The adjacent cottages were occupied by Mr Elliott and family of four, Mr Edwards and family of two and Mr Allard and family of four. The Newmarket District Fire Brigade was called out and in spite of the difficulty of the time – all the firemen were at dinner – and the difficulty in getting a motor to take the engine, the response was commendably prompt. In spite of the high wind they were able to save entirely two of the cottages but the others were completely burnt out. Shortly before the fire a traction engine passed along the road & a spark from this may have caused the fire.

1928 04 18

A deputation of seven men from Isleham walked over to the meeting of Newmarket Guardians to ask the Board for work. Five are married men with families and four in receipt of out-relief. Mr Samuel Moore said he had heard of certain parties obtaining relief when they had £60 in the house. Some men left regular jobs to get a shilling more and then when the new job came to an end they were out of work. A land worker who had a good job should stick to it. This was the time of year when men were wanted on the land. The men said they had tried everywhere to get work.

1928 04 19

At the diamond jubilee celebrations of the Cambridge Co-operative Society the Chairman, Mr G.J. Golding, said he wondered what the people concerned with the little business in City Road, Cambridge, sixty years ago would think of the Society today with annual sales of £190,000, a membership of 16,000, 20 branches and 370 employees. Half the population of Great Britain, directly or indirectly, was now within the Co-operative movement

1928 04 19

Members of the Cambridge Horse Club spent a jolly time at their annual dinner. It was formed 35 years ago when there were a great number of hansom cabs and horses and flys in Cambridge and if a man lost a horse he went round from house to house and collected. Some people thought that was rather objectionable and a man named William Wallis conceived the idea of a club for people who owned horses. It only cost 1d a day to join and they still had 50 members; when they considered the increase in motor traffic it was feather in their cap to know they stood safe financially. The Chief Constable said Cambridge was losing horses very rapidly but he hoped they would not all disappear.

1928 04 20

Car removed, p8

1928 04 21

A furnishing establishment and four other shops situated on the corner of Darthill and Dartford Roads in the centre of March were burnt to the ground. They were Mr H.S. Greenhall's furniture shop, a millinery shop of Madame Furban's, the Cambridge Modiste, a cleaner's shop of Mr Layton, Mr Fletcher's hairdressing saloon and a dyer's establishment. Most of the structure was of wood and the flames quickly spread. The conflagration illuminated the whole town and the work of the fire brigade was watched by crowds of people rudely awakened from their sleep. Buildings at the back of the shops had been pulled down as the erection of a music hall on the site is in contemplation.

1928 04 21

There is one evening in the year which the inhabitants of the little village of Wicken always anticipate with much pleasure. This is the night when Mr Reg Alsop recruits his annual concert party. Long before it was due to begin the hall was well filled and those who could not find seats stood just outside the entrance whilst others had a cheap evening and listened from outside. Mr Alsop had again done his native village well, a fact they were not slow to appreciate. He was in his usual good form and sang 'Shopping' and 'The Good Little Boy'

1928 04 21

The new Road Transport Lighting Act calls upon users of motor cars or cycles to see that proper lamps are provided – at least two white lights in front and one red at the rear for cars and one each for cycles. After rear lights for cycles we must expect them soon for pedestrians, especially on country roads. Already there is a safety walking belt on the market with reflectors at the front and back. Pedestrians will protest, as the cyclists have done, but it will be of no avail. Motor traffic is increasing, road dangers are increasing and 'Safety First' is the order of the day

1928 04 23

Brinkley tractor accident, p6

1924 04 24

County Hall, p5

1928 04 25

A case of great importance to the motoring public was heard at Bottisham. The publican of the Prince Albert, Quoy was summoned for taking two gallons of motor spirit petrol from a Dominion pump, putting it in a Shell can and selling it as Shell. He had a pump outside his house of Dominion spirit which was inferior to Shell; it was 1s a gallon and Shell 1s 2½d. A Shell employee said he asked for a two-gallon can of Shell and took it to Newmarket police station where he asked it to be sealed. But they did not want to take sides in the matter. It was analysed and found not to be Shell. Defendant said his daughter had sold the petrol and did not know the difference between the various types of spirit.

1928 04 26

There were three genuine cases of overcrowding at Horseheath. In one house with two bedrooms there were six children and three adults; in another with three bedrooms there were eight adults and three children, while in a third there were four adults and five children. Other houses were in a dilapidated condition.

Soham smallholdings, p3

1928 04 27

The Ouse Drainage Board heard that great damage was done to the banks of the rivers during the January floods and some £15,000 will be necessary to put them in the state they were previously. The Ministry should be induced to make some contribution to the cost. The flood, which was accompanied by a strong gale, damaged 47 miles of the banks of the main rivers and 16 miles of the smaller rivers and lodes. Mr Tebbutt said that during his knowledge of the river for 50 years only on three occasions did he remember as much flooding as on the last occasion. It was exceptional.

1928 04 27

Cambridge Town Council granted licences to Messrs Brown Bros for a new Lancia saloon motor coach and the Westminster Coaching Services for three additional coaches. Coun. Doggett asked if the vehicles were fitted with pneumatic tyres and if they would not licence any with solid tyres from the point of view of wear and tear of the roads and the comfort of travellers. It was only a matter of time before solid tyred vehicles would be barred from using the roads at all. There was a nuisance with regard to bus tickets being thrown down in the roads and the Ortona Motor Bus Co are to be asked to provide receptacles for bus tickets on the buses plying in Cambridge.

1928 04 27 c

Coun Edwards called attention to the quality of certain scavenging brooms and said one was worn down in eight hours. Coun Kenney: "I think the council will be pleased to know that our roadmen work so hard". (Laughter). The brooms were 'simply awful' and not suitable for the job. But the best broom had been selected, it was not the cheapest, costing 21s. 6d. per dozen. Each broom lasted 14 days and it was an exceptional circumstance if one went wrong in eight hours.

1928 04 27 ES

Disastrous March fire

Five shops completely gutted in early morning blaze. The most disastrous fire that has occurred at March for many years took place in the early hours of Saturday morning, when seven business premises which included five shops were completely razed to the ground. The shops occupied a large corner site at the junction of Dartford Road and Darthill Road, and they consisted of an hairdressing establishment run by Mr. Leonard Fletcher, who had ladies' saloons overhead, a dry cleaning establishment known as the Layton Valeting Service, Furbanks the milliners, a house furnishing store rented by Mr. Greenall of Wisbech and a knitting wool shop let to Miss Smith.

The only property that was saved was the Pavilion Theatre on the site, which is in costs of demolition prior to the erection of a modern Theatre and Hippodrome. The total damage amounts to several thousand pounds.

The fire got such a complete hold in a short space of time that very few inhabitants were aware of the wholesale destruction that was taking place while they slumbered in their beds. But those who did notice the glow in the heavens were quickly on the scene and watching the flames devour with ravenous fury the buildings and their valuable contents. 28 04 27

South Level Board

The Littleport and Downham Drainage Board Engineer stated that the diesel engine had run 83 days and had been satisfactory through the winter but after a heavy season's work a certain amount of overhauling would be necessary. The steam engine had run full load, 22 days and 15 nights. The boilers had been in use 17 years and had been examined and tested once by a representative of the makers. They have not been insured or subjected to high pressure tests and he could not undertake the responsibility of reporting them perfectly safe, although he hoped such might be the case. Men had set to work in various drains, the Ten Mile Engine basin was not wide enough or deep enough to convey the water to the pumps and the amount of material to be excavated was too great to be economically done by hand labour. 28 04 27ES

1928 04 28

Less than 20 years ago I was doing journalistic work in a Hobson Street office. In those days there was no County Hall opposite, nor talk of one. It was begun only 15 years ago and if anyone had been asked how long it would remain the County Council headquarters he might have answered 'A hundred years at least'. But so great has been the extra work thrown on the Council that already the building has been outgrown and plans are now to be prepared for a new building on the Castle Hill site. There are now 86 officials and ratepayers may ask if such an army of officers are really necessary

Fulbourn cottage, p6

1928 04 30

New County Hall, p6

May 1928 CDN

1928 05 01

Mikado, p6

1928 05 02

Preservation of Cambridge, p8

1928 05 03

Cambridge Guardians considered allowing the inmates of the Institution to go out on Sunday afternoons. The patients were bolted and barred in the institution for the whole of the week, with the exception of about four hours. During the fine summer afternoons they would be better by being allowed out and enjoy the sunshine. The service in the morning was very nice and very bright and there were few on the Board who attended places of worship twice on Sunday. But the Rev. Batley said it was perfectly disgraceful. The decision was deferred.

1928 05 03

Cambridge was visited by a thunderstorm characterised by some very heavy peals of thunder and very sharp flashes of lightning. The chimney of a house at 54 St Barnabas Road was struck. Mr Easton, a Mill Road cycle agent, said his family had not left the back bedroom more than two minutes when they were startled by a terrific explosion. The electric light failed and they found that a bedroom fireplace had been blown out into the room and lay smothered with dust and soot on the floor.

1928 05 04

The Headmaster's house at the Leys School had a narrow escape during a storm when an elm tree standing about 40 feet from the house was struck by lightning. Although there is a large cedar tree between the house and the elm, the explosion was so severe that 13 windows were broken. The tree appears to have escaped much damage as it is still standing, though good-sized pieces of bark have been stripped off two sides. Queens' College chapel was also struck and the top of the small cross of the west end was knocked off.

1928 05 05

Littleport floods, p7

Water supply, p7

Warning signs, p8

1928 05 08

The work of the Cambridge Birth Control Clinic was explained to Cambridge Women's Welfare Association. The foremost difficulty was the absence of a contraceptive method so simple and effective as to meet the needs of the over-tired, feckless, under-housed, unintelligent or mentally-deficient woman. But although they should do something to enable people to have just the children they could manage, their methods, generally called 'birth control', were disgusting and filthy. There was danger in the free use of contraceptive methods by unmarried young people. They might be getting to the morals of the poultry yard.

Harston pub destroyed, p8

Bassingbourn fire, p8

1928 05 11 ES

Dairy Houses Church is district church for the parish of Littleport St Matthew. At its erection it was not given a name but lately suggestion that a title more worth than just 'Dairy Houses' might be given. It has been renamed St Mary the Virgin – 28 05 11 ES

Death of James Smart, former world champion skater – obituary – 28 05 11(2) ES

Mr. James Smart, the renowned fen skater and champion of the world in the late 1880's passed away at Welney at the age of 62 years. It was in 1888 that he first came into the limelight when he secured the two mile international championship at Amsterdam, with George See as his runner up. Until 1892 he, with one or two exceptions, held the championship and was conspicuous with many brilliant performances. He won the NSA Open Championship at Lingay Fen in 1889 and a day later he beat his brother 'Fish', the holder of the professional championship by 12 yards. Mr Smart had been in failing health for some years.

In his younger days, he was engaged on the work of laying the Wisbech and Upwell tram lines. He afterwards obtained a small farm at Welney and this has been carried on by his sons. 28 05 11(2)ES Dairy Houses Church, the district church of the parish of Littleport St Matthew does not appear to have been given a name or dedication at the time of its erection. But lately a suggestion was made that a title more worthy of the church might be helpful to the people. As a result, the assistant Bishop visited to name it St Mary the Virgin. 28 05 11ES

1928 05 12

Landing ground, p8

1928 05 14

The Cambridge Social Hygiene Council discussed how to interest young men in the development of the proper sex outlook. Their attendance at lectures and film displays was poor and the majority were undergraduates who clearly came to hear and learn, for their conduct was unexceptional. The meetings for women were attended by about 200 each day, a good part of them adolescent middle-class girls and young married woman, a type not often seen at such meetings.

1925 05 16

Newmarket chestnuts, p7

1928 05 17

Undergraduates were packed like sardines in a tin at the Cambridge Police court when King's College and Trinity College were fined for employing male servants without having in force licences as required. It was unthinkable that such bodies should attempt to evade payment but they had received no reminder from the County Hall. This was not an acceptable excuse: they were large and responsible bodies accustomed to regularly employing a number of servants and should be more scrupulous than ordinary citizens to see the duties were paid in proper time.

1928 05 18

Scenes of unprecedented excitement marked the arrival of His Royal Highness, the Prince of Wales at Royston. From an early hour the streets were packed with eager and excited crowds, despite rain and hail falling heavily, and every house and shop was gaily bedecked with flags. The guests' reserved stand was packed to capacity and the meadow behind was one mass of people. A roar of cheering went up as the Prince arrived to open the new children's ward at the Royston and District Hospital. Later he travelled to Papworth Village Settlement and opened the new Village Hall and Memorial Cottages

1928 05 18

The Vicar of Foxton has received remarkable letter from the Church Council requesting him to resign and, from the pulpit on Sunday he made a statement in reply. "The choir is at a standstill for the want of hymn books, the lead on the roof needs to be replaced, the heating apparatus is out of order, the gates are falling to pieces, the lamps are dangerous and a valuable old chest is falling to pieces. We have no parish clerk, no one to ring the bells, the clock is unwound, the churchyard a disgrace. When the Church Council have completed all these duties it will be time for them to turn their thoughts to throwing stones at their vicar".

1928 05 18

In the spring a motorist's fancy turned to the thought of a new car and the Cambridge public have the opportunity of inspecting the whole range produced by the well-known Vauxhall firm. These are attractively displayed in the spacious showroom of Messrs Herbert Robinson & Son, Regent Street. The staff has been augmented with chauffeurs, salesmen, mechanics and service engineers under the charge of the assistant car sales manager of Vauxhall Motors. The models on view include the Princeton tourer, £475; Bedford saloon, £495 and Kimpton coach-built sports saloon, £695

Charles Moden, Stretham, unfit horse, p5
60mph at Witchford, p8

1928 05 19

Newmarket is becoming a town of clubs and the publicans are becoming alarmed at their multiplication. The new social club of the Beacon Lodge of Oddfellows will make nine in the town – the Jockey Club (which is the most exclusive club in the world may hardly be counted in this category) – the Subscription Rooms, Masonic Hall & Marlborough, Conservative & Foresters clubs. In addition are the Astley Institute and Racing Lads' Institute but at these no excisable drink is sold and they are entirely for stable lads and stablemen.

Market parking, p8

1928 05 21

Herbert Spalding, parish constable of Landbeach, said he went to Milton feast and had a turn at a penny-in-the-slot machine. He started with 7d and got down to a penny but then won 8d and finished with 3d profit. He found it better to let the machine run and not press the controls. There were 15 automatic machines in the booth and men, women, boys and girls were using them. Some players used the knobs and some did not; it did not seem to make any difference. The games were chance and not skill. A fine of 5s was imposed on the proprietor.

Bridge Street excavations, p3

Motor smash, p8

1928 05 23

A Cottenham farmer said that heavy post-war losses in connection with heavy stallions were the chief cause of his failure. He had started about 30 years ago at Mitchell Fen near Twenty Pence Ferry. During the war his farming operations were successful and he bought four shire stallions. But after the war horses went down slump, the country was flooded with horses from abroad and farmers would not breed horses. So he had his stallions on his hands and sold them; the four together for which he had paid over £350 did not make more than 80 guineas.

1928 05 24

Ely council decided to open the Barracks Field in Silver Street to the schools for organised games. Ely was very badly situated for child life; the streets were narrow and motor traffic made things worse for children to play on the streets. This was a most ideal spot and they could find another field suitable for the council's horses. But their horsekeeper got no half-day on Saturday and if the horses had to go out of town it would be impossible for him to put them out to grass.

1928 05 25

Damage estimated at £1,000 was done in a fire which broke out at the S.P.Q.E. garage in Old Station Road, Newmarket. Mr Montague Cooper, who sleeps on the premises of Messrs Bedwell, music dealers, was awakened by the crackling of the fire and the smashing of glass. He informed the police who were soon on the scene and burst open the garage doors and found three motor cars in flames. They were the property of the Rev. W.G. Softley (Primitive Methodist minister), John Boardman and George Hogg. Six other cars were removed, amongst them one belonging to Mr Compodonico.

1928 05 25

Amid scenes of enthusiasm the Mayor of Cambridge opened the new Coleridge Road recreation ground which has just been completed at a total cost of £7,000. It was in September 1925 the Corporation bought the ground for the public and ever since then the Surveyor and his merry men had been preparing it. By the autumn they would be able to play football on it and by next summer cricket. They wanted to make a garden as well and if any person felt disposed to present them with a dozen flowering trees the council would make good use of them. Critics said it was not wanted but in the future many would be grateful for it. It would keep the children off the streets and from the danger of the traffic.

1928 05 25 ES

Stretham Hospital Parade, Haddenham and Wicken bands; wagon headed 'Hunstanton Convalescent Home' with sand castle and children wearing bathing caps; Hospital ward & 'Accident'. W. Parish's motor lorry used as a platform for service on cricket field. At hospital the services were in full swing, day and night, the operating theatre made ready for arrival patient ... this would not happen if the hospital became state controlled because when the state got hold of anything they had to fill in forms from A-Z- 28 05 25&(2) photos - (3) ES

Stretham:

Feast:

Stretham Feast this year was notable for the introduction of a new feature. Whereas in the past the stalls and vans have been allowed to stand in the street, this year they were all on the Eecreation Ground. The authorities are to be congratulated on this move. Had more time been available, they would no doubt have made better arrangements for the vans so that the cricket matches could have been played under better conditions than those which prevailed this week. Rain greatly marred the evening programme on Sunday but the loss sustained was partly aided by a comic parade on Tuesday afternoon, organised by Messrs. H. Holliday, J. Badcock and P. Acred. Their attires cause much amusement and it is to be hoped that their efforts considerably help the hospital at Cambridge to who so many Stretton people owe a deep debt of gratitude. 28 05 25ES

Picture of four foxes with George Fairchild at Hill Farm, Haddenham - 28 05 25(5) ES

A picture shows four foxes about a month old were photographed at Hill Farm, Haddenham where Mr. George Fairchild who is seen with his son. Reuben, holding their unusual pets caught them. Three of them are so tame that almost anything can be done with them and they play in a barn with a dog like a cat with a kitten. The fourth, held in the left hand of Reuben, is very wild and has to be handled with great care. 28 05 25ES

Wash

A great scheme for damming the Wash and harnessing the tide for the production of electricity is being promoted by the Dynamic Electrical Company Limited. The scheme provides for the erection of two dams - a sea dam reaching from Hunstanton on the Heacham side to Gibraltar point, Skegness, and a dividing dam to form the Wash into two basins. The sea dam will have inflow sluice gates to allow the high tide to enter into the basin and locks to allow shipping to pass, while the dividing dam will be to separate the full from the empty basin. Upon this dividing dam the power station will be erected so that the water will fall 15 feet through turbines from the higher to the lower level and generate a continuous output of electrical energy. It will be the largest hydroelectric power plant in the world. 28 05 25ES

1925 05 29

Sunday buses, p4

1928 05 30

The work of repairing the fabric of St Ives parish church, which was seriously damaged by a British aeroplane on 23rd March 1918 having been completed, a service of thanksgiving was held. The Bishop of Ely said it was hard that the burden of repairing a church should fall upon our generation, but we inherited these priceless treasures from those who had made sacrifices in days gone by. About £600 was still required for rehangng the bells and replacing the clock

1928 05 31

Milk, p8

June 1928 CDN

1928 06 01

The Clerk of Milton Parish Council drew attention to the cess-pool known as the pond and urged that the only way to remove this eyesore, which was a menace to the health of the village, was to fill it up.

The pond, being on a bend in the road was a danger to traffic on dark or foggy nights. The road was a County thoroughfare and it would be to their advantage if the pond were filled up.

1928 06 01

Cottenham pond had been filled in at a cost of £42. The figure was quite staggering but an excellent job had been made and the village beautified so the expense was warranted. An insanitary place had been cleared away – there had been talk of typhoid two years ago – and it was more economic than cleansing the pond in the long run. But it seemed that Cottenham had made a dump for their rubbish and charged the District Council with it. Nearly every village had a pond and they would all want them filled.

Clayhithe bridge, p8
Stretham speeding, p5

1928 06 02

Whitsun customs, p7

1928 06 04

It is estimate that 15,000 people attended the annual County Conservative Fete in the beautiful grounds of Harold Gray's estate on the Gog Magogs and the event was a bigger success than ever. The well-organised non-stop programme of amusements included sports, side-shows, a rabbit show, motor-cycle and whippet racing and made it impossible for there to be one dull minute from two o'clock in the afternoon until eleven at night, when the round of pleasure came to an end with a grand fireworks display.

1928 06 05

The first paid Marconigram was transmitted on June 3rd, 30 years ago. It was sent by Lord Kelvin who was visiting Senatore Marconi's experimental wireless station on the Isle of Wight. In order to illustrate his belief in its commercial future, Lord Kelvin insisted upon paying one shilling for a wireless telegram to be sent to Sir George Stokes at Lensfield Cottage, Union Road, Cambridge.

Auckland Road school traffic, p8

1928 06 06

As a result of much discussion it has been decided that Papworth should be the 'Papworth Village Settlement', and not the Cambridgeshire Tuberculosis Colony. The name had grown up by itself and the name of the county was no longer applicable. There was a continual need for more cottages as men, and women also, leave the sanatorium and desire to enter the village community.

1928 06 07

There was a thin line of spectators all along the towing path from the Railway Bridge down to Grassy Corner for the May Races, and the enclosures on the Ditton side were by no means deserted. The way to go to the races these days seems to be by motor car; visitors prefer to rush there by road instead of wandering there by river. Balloons and fantastic curio dolls did their best to give a carnival atmosphere and a loud speaker attachment to a gramophone on one of the motor launches emitted dance music. One of the best views was obtained from the five 'planes which flew inquisitively over the river in formation, wheeling and turning like giant silver birds.

1928 06 07

A dealer who kept a stall at Cambridge market and said that a few years' back he was taking big money and making a profit of £7 a week, ascribed his failure to a variety of causes. They included bad weather, law costs and keen competition since Woolworth's Stores had been opened. He bought a Ford lorry but it caught fire as he was going to Lakenheath for a sale and all the goods were burnt at the roadside.

1928 06 07

A Newmarket man told how the coal strike of 1921 caused him to give up his greengrocery round and take to selling peat. He 'made a pound or two' while it lasted and afterwards bought a truck of coal and started as a coal dealer. He did pretty well until the railway strike but then his coal was hung up and he never earned a penny for a month. He had nothing to do except sell a little coke and wood which did not bring £1 a week. He had a Ford motor lorry on the hire purchase system which cost him £128, besides which he had to pay a man to drive it.

Haddenham & Addenbrooke's Hospital, p6

Pymoor & Oxloodes sports, p7

1928 06 09

A meeting was held to protest against a proposal to close the public footpath leading from Bartlow to Bartlow Church and close to the historic Bartlow Hills. There had been an attempt to close the path 25 years ago and another attempt last year. The path was partly in Cambs and partly in Essex and a parish council meeting had given Linton R.D.C. the right to close it. If it were closed it would keep the majority of Bartlow parishioners from the church. The dead had been carried down that footpath and to many it was sacred. In these days of traffic they wanted to be able to walk down footpaths and enjoy true nature.

Uniting Ely parishes, p7

1928 06 11

The District council was told that the Hon Gerald Agar-Robartes had agreed to let the council have a site for some new cottages at Arrington. But he had now written a letter: "I have been thinking over the site for the cottages and am afraid they would not look well unless they were thatched. If the Council are not willing to thatch them they would have to build further down the road." However the other site was very unsuitable because there was no water and there was a very obnoxious ditch running near it.

1928 06 11

There are now 12 men on the books of the Cambridge Disabled Soldiers Workshop in Gloucester Street. Three have had the right arm amputated, seven the leg and of the remaining two one suffered from the effects of gassing and injuries to the head and the other from severe injuries to the abdomen. Half were employed up to the 48-hour week and the maximum wage was 36s a week to the foreman. In addition to the basket and rush work and wool knitting they were developing the knitting of silk stockings, jumpers and ties, the re-upholstering of chairs and the making and renovating of mattresses

Scarlet fever, p5

1928 06 12

May Week, p6

1928 06 13

Sir – a few flourishing factories would do more to enhance the prosperity of Cambridge than any future benefit from its dependence on the University. All the colleges possessing the necessary facilities are building with the object of accommodating their own students, which will mean a financial loss to many residents who depend on a lodging house for their meagre livelihood. It is high time the lodging house keepers organised for the mutual protection of their interests, otherwise pleasant landscapes will prove poor consolation for genteel and grinding poverty - Pessimist

1928 06 15 ES

Sufficient water in Stretham: Lack's report satisfactory; well in centre produced 2,000 gallons a day; that not sufficient, would consider 10,000 ample and that could be got by sinking a fairly large well.

Electricity will shortly be available and this could power a small pumping set so a large water tower would not be needed - 28 16 15 ES

1928 06 16

Cambridge has probably more gramophones than any other town of corresponding size. Many people thought that with the advent of wireless the enthusiasm for gramophone music would diminish but this is far from the case, as a walk by the river on a sunny day will show. It would not surprise me to learn that all gramophone records have been broken during the May Week with a sale greater than ever before. Mr Noel Coward, the 28-year-old genius has recorded the music from the revue, 'This Year of Grace' at the London Pavilion

1928 06 16

Damage estimated at £100 was caused by a fire which broke out at Swavesey. Smoke and flames were seen coming from the premises of James Prior, a furniture dealer of Boxworth End. Neighbours and men working in the fields brought pails of water and rendered what assistance they could and the Swavesey Fire Brigade were soon on the scene with hose and hydrant. A Morris commercial van, a horse trolley and sheds were burnt as also a lot of furniture, fruit baskets and carpenter's tools. Thatched cottages nearby were in great danger owing to sparks and a man named Thorp climbed on to the roof from where he played water. The fire is believed to have been caused by two little children playing with matches.

1928 06 16

St Ives Fire Brigade was called to a surprise false alarm. The engineer was at the Brigade Station in 3½ minutes, the captain was on the scene in uniform in four minutes and one hose was soon playing on the building. Two hoses were then tried but the force of water was quite inadequate, only reaching about 20 feet. The manual engine was put on the Quayside but it was found that the present fire engine would not be of any use in case of a fire. A demonstration should take place with the steam engine offered for sale to the council.

1928 06 17 c

Sir – the residents in Bridge Street and Magdalene Street, Cambridge, have just passed through a hectic week of sleepless nights, caused by the traffic and University men returning from balls etc all hours of the night, and just when we expect to get a little quiet and rest after May Week the Corporation start their offensive. If the street must be paved in a week why not let the men work from 7 am till 10.30 pm instead of dragging them out of their beds at 3 am and keeping other people awake as well? Why all the hustle. Is it to save the buses making a wider detour? – Harry Langdon

1928 06 19

Barton Hospital parade, p7
Tenison Road gun, p8

1928 06 20

Sir – I happen to live opposite the field-gun in Tenison Road. It is not a relic of the Great War but a captured trophy from the Boer War. To me it represents history and the enormous sacrifices made by the pick of our population. Our war memorials tell our children of a great deliverance. Had we been defeated no doubt we should have had more hideous monuments, probably statues of the Kaiser and the boastful Hindenburg, at which some of the pro-Germans could kneel. Let these small tokens that speak of victory over injustice be preserved for all time – C.J. Challess

1928 06 21

Fen Ditton school has been inspected but no attempt should be made to improve the existing buildings. Improvements would cost £1,800 but owing to the cramped nature of the site it would be a waste of money to try and patch up the old school and far better to spend a bit more and have a new one. It was possible that the population would increase and if a suitable site was available Horningsea School could be grouped with it, with a consequent saving in salaries.

Sunday buses, p5

Bartlow footpath, p7

'Casual' employment, p8

1928 06 22

The Cambridge Borough Librarian reported that a reader at the Central Library had been detected in cutting out a coupon from a daily paper, and that he had refused the reader permission to use the libraries until the matter was referred to the Library Committee. They approved his action and decided that the reader in question be excluded from the libraries and reading room for a period of six months.

Betting raid, p5

Coldham's Lane houses, p8

1928 06 23

As others see us, p8

1928 06 25

Rifle range, p8

1928 06 26

The annual shooting competition between the Cambridgeshire Regiment and Ely Divisional Police took place on the Butts, Lynn Road, Ely. The 'boys in blue' are to be congratulated in making such a good show against their brethren in khaki who are at present in actual training and the police were only 47 points behind their rivals. Capt D. Harper of Ely acted as hon. butt steward for the police and Sergt-Instructor Jackson fulfilled the like office for the 'Terriers'

1928 06 27

Mary White, alias Zeta was charged with using palmistry and crystal gazing to deceive at Midsummer Fair. Two policewomen gave evidence of visiting her tent and paying 3s to have their hands examined. But she had applied to the Borough Surveyor for the ground, six foot by four feet for a palmistry tent and had enclosed 5s for premium. She had a letter giving her permission to stand as palmist. Why was the ground let for business which was said to be illegal. The Bench decided to convict, but with no penalty.

1928 06 28

Mr & Mrs Burling of Milton were in their house during a thunderstorm. The aerial of his three-valve wireless set was attached to a large tree and the other end to the front of the house. Suddenly there was a tremendous clap of thunder and a noise like an explosion. The room was full of sparks and fire; he heard his wife scream and saw her hair was on fire. With great presence of mind he put out the flames and carried her into the next room. The curtains were alight and two of the wireless valves were completely broken.

Soham council housing, p3

1928 06 30

The proposed Twentypence Ferry Bridge would cost £8,000 and the road £9,300. The Government Road Board would give 75% and the chief landowners £1,500. Then there was the road from the church to the Jolly Waterman which would have to be brought up to second-class standard. It might seem a large amount but it would relieve some of the traffic from the Ely to Cambridge road. But was the District Council wise in incurring a debt of £2,000 when in six months' time they might cease to be a road authority as the County Council was going to take over all the roads.

1928 06 30

The quay at Littleport was becoming considerably worse. It had been erected about 30 years ago by the officers of the South Level Commissioners but they could not ascertain whether they paid or whether someone else provided the money. Mr Martin had spoken to representatives of the Ely Sugar Beet Factory, who used the quay, and they would be prepared to contribute. If the quay tumbled in it would block up the river. If it was their property they were bound to maintain it. But they did not know if it was their property or not.

1928 06 30

Fire destroyed two thatched cottages which stood by themselves in an orchard in Springhill at Widdington. Being of thatch, lath and plaster they quickly succumbed once the flames obtained a hold. One, known as 'The Nest' was occupied by Miss Pitcher, a school teacher who was away at the time. The tenants of the other cottage were sitting down to dinner when Mr Hanchett, a roadman, came to the door and said 'Madam, your house is on fire'. The cottagers carried their goods and chattels to the safety of an adjoining field. Standing amidst the remains of their earthly possessions, they made a pathetic picture as they watched their old home crumbling away.

1928 06 30

There appears to be every prospect of the 'siege' of Bridge Street being the quickest job of its size and character carried through by Cambridge Corporation for many years. The tradespeople whose business is greatly affected by the stoppage of traffic are in agreement as to the magnificent way the men on the job are working under the constant supervision of the Highways Inspector, Mr J. Gambling. There are between 100 and 150 men working in three gangs and already the big sewer is laid and 'Speed with efficiency' appears to be their slogan

July 1928 CDN

1928 07 02

Barnardoes, p6

1928 07 03

Mock auction, p5

1928 07 04

A verdict of accidental death was returned at the inquest into the Rev Henry Atkinson, vicar of Wilburton who died from the effects of injuries received in a collision with a motor car. The Vicar was accustomed to riding a bicycle and was going to fetch some hymn books for a Guild meeting. The driver said he saw a man on a bicycle with a leather Gladstone bag on the handlebars; he seemed to lose control and it went across in front of him. The jury expressed the opinion that a high hedge which obscured the view near the entrance to the Vicarage drive should be cut down to a reasonable height.

1928 07 04

The Clerk of Swavesey District Council read an anonymous letter expressing surprise that Swavesey was more highly rated than any other parish in the district. The Chairman said that it was a very expensive parish and if ratepayers were not satisfied with the efforts of the Council to keep the place in a sanitary condition they would have to get a qualified man able to drain the fens and who would be an additional expense. The statements were misleading and Council should take no notice of what they saw in the papers. If every little thing going on was reported they had better say nothing.

Wilburton fete, p7

1928 07 05

Newmarket roads, p8

1928 07 06 ES

Wilburton vicar's tragic death – hit by car outside vicarage – 28 07 06 &(3) ES

At five o'clock the Vicar of Wilburton had decided to go to the village church to fetch hymn books, which were to be used in connection with something taking place at the vicarage. He took with him a rather large bag into which he intended putting the books. The Reverend gentleman rode his bicycle down the drive which led down to the main road. This had a slope and there were hedges so that anyone coming along the main road would not easily see anyone coming out. A motor car driven by a chauffeur was passing. The unfortunate Vicar was not able to avoid the car which knocked him down and he died. 28 07 06ES

Shippea Hill stack fire,

Littleport Fire Brigade received a call about a stack fire at Shippea Hill at 8:45. The brigade were at the fire engine house by 9:00 and the fire engine started out at 9:55. At the scene of the fire there was not sufficient water and it had to be pumped from a drain. At the fire they had 25 lengths of hose and that would mean pumping 750 yards. This was a big strain on the engine and they pumped at 70 pounds of pressure. They could have put another 10 pounds pressure on but the hose would not have stood it and probably it would have cost the Council £30 in repairs to the hose. The little water that was found near the fire was sufficient to save the buildings and then the brigade went a quarter of a mile down a drove in search of water and found in the mud. In the end they had to pump from the drain. Some trouble had been experienced in finding Mr. Halsall whose lorry pulled the engine. Since then Mr Laddington had taken the engine in tow on his lorry down to Burn Fen and back as a test. It would be better to have a lorry which would pull at seven or eight miles an hour, than one that would go at 10 or 12 miles an hour, as the engine would not stand more than eight miles an hour on its present wheels. A councillor asked if they could not have an engine that ran under its own steam. The clerk pointed out but such an engine could not be used for going down droves. At present it was necessary to uncouple the lorry and put horses in to pull the engine. 28 07 06ES

Stuntney new sports and gala – 28 07 06(3) ES

Stretham water: report to RDC, no action taken – 28 07 06(2) ES

Stretham Parish Council shared in Engineer's Report about a pumping test carried out at Stretham parish well. The total water pumped for 24 hours was 2,700 gallons, and it could probably be depended on to give 2,000 gallons a day under these conditions - pumping night and day - or as a practical alternative sinking a well sufficiently large to allow of the day's pumping being done in a reasonable time, say six to 10 hours. 2,000 gallons a day would not be sufficient to supply a village as it was only 2.2 gallons per head of the population. The Engineer, Mr. Charles Lack, said he would consider 10,000 gallons a day ample for the village and he was convinced the amount could be obtained by sinking a fairly large well in a more suitable position. The problem was likely to be simplified by the fact that electric current would shortly be available in the village. This meant a small pumping set could be used could be used automatically controlled, and the number of pumping hours would be immaterial and a large water tower would not be necessary. 28 07 06ES

Smallpox had made an alarming advance during the last year or two. It was a serious matter and ought to be taken seriously into consideration. Some years ago the Ely Rural District Council erected a Smallpox Hospital in Grunty Fen and it was never used. It was there eight years, being erected in 1911 and sold in 1919. They were saddled as a rural council with 22 acres of land at £2 an acre, which was never worth 10 shillings. The hospital cost £338.4s in 1905 but it was not really completed. In 1919, the material was disposed of and they made £215.2s.6d which meant that they only lost only £123. If they had a hospital it would not be intended for the tramps and vagrants. If they were to erect a smallpox hospital several councillors had land which they willingly lend to put up a temporary building in case of an outbreak. 28 07 06ES

1928 07 07

Wicken church fete, p3

Girton burglary, p5

Argentine visitors, p6

West Ham invasion, p6

1928 07 09

Close to the windmill on the north side of Milton Road, opposite Chesterton Hall Crescent, occupying one of the highest and healthiest sites in the locality and surrounded by spacious lawns and trim walks stands the new open-air school for defective and sub-normal children. It is an ideal school, admirably adapted to its purpose and planned and equipped on a generous scale, a veritable children's paradise. The opening ceremony was an open-air function. Open air schools for delicate children have come to stay and in the future all schools will probably become open-air

1928 07 10

Clean milk competition, p8

1923 07 11

1,700 women members of the West Ham Central Mission Women's Meeting descended upon Cambridge on their annual outing. The huge party arrived in 56 motor coaches which drew up in a long line in Queen's Road. In a solid mass they came over King's Bridge like an army of Amazons on the march, some expressing disappointment that the Cam was not as wide as the Thames. But as they entered the cool sanctuary of the chapel there was a continuous stream of enthusiastic remarks. The chairs were quickly occupied with mothers with their babies. We doubt there was ever such a scene in the historic chapel before.

Stuntney sports, p3

1928 07 12

Sir – everyone associates Cambridge with a stream of young life spending the happiest and most fruitful years of their youth. But at the same time another stream of men is seeking in Cambridge some 'odd jobs', something to provide a few coppers. And does the crowd of the 'upper ten' realise the conditions under which their unfortunate brothers spend their nights? In the casual ward at the workhouse inmates are unable to get to sleep owing to the room swarming with mice, which scamper up and down the floor and run over the men on the beds. Surely the authorities could cleanse the room and eject the army of mice. How can such a condition of things exist in a 'seat of learning' where the laws of health are studied – Mary Higgs

Workhouse water, p8

1928 07 13

The Henny Farm, near Ely, was offered for sale by auction. Described as 'one of the best farms in the Ely district' it has the advantage of being close to the Ely and Soham railway, adjoining Barway siding. It has an excellent house and homestead, five cottages, main water and a hard road through the farm. It was bought by auction in 1904 for £13,000 and a considerable sum has been spent on improvements. Seven years ago it would have made £20,000 at least. But the opening bid was £5,000 and it failed to reach the reserve price of £9,000 – under £20 an acre.

1928 07 13 ES

Stretham: Church clock

Stretham: Church clock has temporarily been placed out of action through some material having fallen from the spire. Owing to the dangerous condition of the church spire, the morning service held in Parish Room. There was no afternoon service – 28 07 13 ES

1928 07 14

West Ham women, p6

1928 07 16

Thousands of people flocked into the old-world village of East Harling but there was little chance of getting into the court room where men well-known in the racing world were summoned to answer charges relating to cock fighting. They included defendants from Newmarket and Swaffham Prior. A horsebox had been fitted up for the fighting, with a red carpet on the floor and a ring of baize covered boards. Two birds had been prepared, each armed with a pair of artificial spurs. The defence said there was no case to answer. Cock fighting has been one of the oldest English sports and there was a great deal of misconception about the cruelty. But it has been prohibited by law since 1849.

Hilton fire, p6

1928 07 17

The New Theatre became a wireless studio and, with those present as the studio audience, a variety concert was broadcast from Cambridge. It had all the features with which listeners are so familiar, with exhilarating dance music, full-blooded radio melodrama and the much-maligned talk. "Just a Broadcast" introduces Mr Sidney Firman and his London Radio Dance Band. Cambridge wireless fans who have listened to the band's efforts over the ether will welcome the opportunity of seeing this sketch which takes listeners to the other side of the microphone and purports to show them what really does happen in a wireless studio. Mr Firman's items are announced through a dummy microphone in the approved radio style and the 'effects' in the wireless play are not the least amusing features of their turn.

Queen at Wimpole, p5

King's Mill sale, p6

1928 07 18

Most people in Cambridge have been affected by the closure of Bridge Street. Now it has reopened and buses and other vehicles of various types are passing along the greatly improved streets. Tradespeople whose business has been affected have taken a page in the CDN to inform the public that the 'Battle of Bridge Street' is over and to call attention to some of the goods in which they specialise.

1928 07 18

The future of the Bell public house, Botolph Lane and the Plume and Feathers, Park Street, Cambridge was considered by the Licensing Committee. The Bell was difficult for police to supervise. It had no downstairs accommodation for the tenant and meals had to be taken in the smoke room during closing hours. The renewal was refused. The Plume and Feathers had little accommodation and was frequently congested with a few customers. It had been done up and the yards had been covered over. The trade had gone up and was better than the Maypole.

1928 07 18

An important scheme for the making of a new road from Cottenham to Wilburton and the erection of a bridge over the Old West River near Twentypence Ferry will come before the County Council at their next meeting. They considered a petition from inhabitants in Horningsea and Waterbeach that the council should take over Clayhithe Bridge and abolish the tolls but are unable to recommend the purchase of the bridge at present. It was only 11 ft 6 inches wide and could not be widened without being rebuilt; it would only carry a vehicle of an axle load of eight tons and the approach roads were difficult.

Clayhithe bridge, p6*

1928 07 19

Ely Urban Council considered the advisability of obtaining a motor ambulance. Cases were frequently happening where a person was ordered off to the Hospital at once. Last week frantic efforts were made to find an ambulance but the only vehicle that might be termed an ambulance was being used at a funeral and they had to telephone to Cambridge for one. This was a standing disgrace to Ely. Their friends at March had purchased a first-class ambulance for £880 and Soham had one.

1928 07 20

Cambridge councillors recommended Robinson Crusoe Island should be cleared of dilapidated buildings and overgrown trees. Two rustic footbridges should be thrown across the stream and the island let for use either as a tea garden or for boatsheds. The place was in a deplorable condition and if something were not done there would be no Island to discuss. The surface was low and if the river were at the ordinary level it would be under water. It should be turned into a beauty spot rather than the dirt spot it was at the moment.

Stretham assault, John Sadler, p3

Ely ambulance, p6

1928 07 20 ES

Ely Wesleyan church organ rebuilding fund – 28 07 20 ES

Stretham fete to pay for spire repairs

Stretham fete to pay for spire repairs – considerable damage done to clock and spire by brick work, repairs needed; evening services held on Rectory lawn 28 07 20 ES

Stretham has a beautiful little church which is treasured by everyone in the village. It is in great need of financial support and recently considerable damage was done to the clock and the spire by some brick work falling from the top of the spire. Repairs which will cost a large sum of money are now being carried out and a fete was held in the Rectory grounds to augment the funds. While the beautiful weather lasted they could hold the evening services on the lawn as the church was not really safe. But the weather would not last forever and the sooner it was repaired the better. Competitions included picking up grains of rice with a hairpin, picking up peas with a knitting needle, guessing the number of wooden blocks in a stack. Musical selections were given by Bert Hazel's 'Rhythmic Five' Dance Band from Wilburton. The band consisted of Mr. S Shipp (saxophone), W. Handley (trumpet), G Sole (banjo), R. Watson (drums), and B Hazel (piano). 28 07 20ES

Henry Oates of the Red Lion Inn, Stretham, said he went into his yard where he kept his Airedale terrier in a stable. He then saw John Sadler in the yard who said 'Your dog has bitten me'. Sadler said his wife had been in bed in agony for days and had no rest day or night. The dogs were in the loft nine yards from the windows of the room. He went to the back gate, and as soon as he got inside he was attacked by a big Airedale dog which he had to kick off. Oates said he did his best to keep the dog quiet with the five greyhounds that he had. 28 07 20ES

An Ely swimming enthusiast went to the river to enjoy a dip in the placid waters leaving his clothing on the riverbank. When he came ashore, he found that someone had walked off with his trousers. In desperation and exasperation he strutted up and down the bank in search of them, but without success. Just as he had to abandon hope of finding the lost trousers, he saw them suspended from the top of the flagstaff standing in the garden of a nearby house. He realised he had been the victim of a practical joke 28 07 20ES

1928 07 21

Greyhound racing, p3

Ellen Terry, p6

Boat race, p4

1928 07 23

Ainsworth Street fire, p5

Famous band, p5

1928 07 24

The inhabitants of Barton evidently believe in the slogan 'Unity is strength' for practically all of the organisation in the village amalgamated and held a flower show and fete. No fewer than ten groups took part, representing all types of village life, including the W.I., Nursing Association, quoits, football and cricket clubs, boy scouts and the Institute for the Blind. Pilbeam's Band was in attendance and provided an enjoyable programme of music

Griffinhoof death, p5

1928 07 25

Motorbike noise, p8

1928 07 26

Burwell Parish Council called attention to the need of a shorter route between Burwell and Wicken now that Dimock's Cote Bridge had been opened to traffic. Although the villages were only two miles apart the present distance by road was 8½ miles. This could be remedied by the hardening of the first driveway and making 30 chains of a new road. It would reduce the distance for all traffic that had to pass via Fordham and Stretham and be a great saving of time and expense to road users which would pay for itself by lessening the mileage of road used

Town football club ground, p6

1928 07 27 ES

Black Bank station improvements, weeds replaced by flowers; inspection. Signalman said when he started 30 years ago they averaged nearly 5,000 trains per month; worked 12 hours per day, wages £1 per week and out of that wage brought up a family of seven – 28 07 27(2) ES # c.26.2

1928 07 28

A great cosmopolitan army has invaded and captured Cambridge. It is no new thing this descent by the legions from overseas but probably never before have they been drawn from so many nations or corners of the world. The 'Backs' heard such a murmuring of strange tongues as would have puzzled the most expert linguist. One reason was the International Geographical Congress attended by members of fifty nations, but ever since the 'Long Vac' started foreign visitors have poured into Cambridge, nearly all armed with cameras and a determination not to miss anything. They saw the river girl – and her flannelled companion – brought out by the heat wave; she was there at the punt pole with her light bright frock, so cool, so self-possessed and efficient, and even in this heat – no shiny noses.

1928 07 28

Members of the Cambridge Drawing Society made a strong plea for the preservation of the character of the King's Mill site, protesting against the Council's scheme for the demolition of the old Mill-race and the erection of a weir. They are thankful that proposals for a tea garden and rustic bridge were not passed but feel its unique character will be utterly destroyed. The two King's and Bishop's Mills were amongst the oldest things in Cambridge, and a monument of romance. A cascade was all very well for Bedford or Tooting but was out of keeping with the spirit of Cambridge.

Clayhithe drowning, p5

Fair Street, p6*

1928 07 27 ES

Black Bank station improvements, weeds replaced by flowers; inspection. Signalman said when he started 30 years ago they averaged nearly 5,000 trains per month; worked 12 hours per day, wages £1 per week and out of that wage brought up a family of seven – 28 07 27(2) ES # c.26.2

1928 07 31

Ely readers will learn with regret of the death of Mrs Elizabeth Cross, widow of the late Mr F.T. Cross of Forehill. She was born at Little Downham but for over 40 years had carried on the confectionery and bakery business at Ye Olde Tea Rooms, Ely and also at the Pem Café, Trumpington Street, Cambridge during the last two years. Of a kindly disposition she will be missed for her generosity to the aged residents of the almshouses who for many years have received a large hamper of delicacies at Christmas. She leaves a son, Mr Vernon Cross, and a daughter.

Mill site – Preservation Society, p8

August 1928 CDN

1928 08 02

Sir – the north end of Robinson Crusoe's island, Coe Fen, is occupied as a boatyard, the oldest centre for boating for the Freshers' river and a very charming spot. The southern end is occupied by the old ferryman's cottage and his garden, now derelict, but there are still standing upon it a large dilapidated greenhouse, a poultry yard, now deserted, and a neglected summer-house with a privet hedge. There are a dozen fruit trees, now dying because their feet are in the water, and a number of rose bushes. The neglect of the garden is due to a subsidence which allowed the river to flood it and turn it into a marsh. The cottage, before the iron bridge was built, was a licensed house and those who liked to refresh themselves with a glass of beer were ferried across the river free of charge – C.F. Clay

Burwell cottage, p6

1928 08 03

After a long period of inactivity the Stretham Sports Committee was reformed about six weeks ago and the outcome of their endeavours was a very successful show and sports on the Recreation Ground. This was formerly one of the most popular held in the vicinity and should all future events be as well arranged this enviable position will be soon regained. There was not a dull moment in the whole of the proceedings. The cycle events produced some keen tussles between S.G. Scott and W. Johnson and in the running events R.G. King of Soham took the hundred by a close margin.

1928 08 03 ES

Expensive schemes approved by Isle of Ely County Council; new bridges. Includes new teacher's house at Fridaybridge; new bridge at Mepal and Dog-in-a-Doublet; Twentypence Bridge costs to be shared if Ministry contribute

Welney-Downham Road reconstruction was far from satisfactory: the specifications had not been observed with regard to the surfacing of the widened areas with broken flints. On one part the final surface of granite had been laid before the flints had been consolidated on the haunches and the foundation of hand-pitched stone and broken flints was considerably less than specified. The County Surveyor said it would not be taken over as 'main' road and the County Council would refuse to take the road over and the Ministry ask to refund all the moneys paid under the grant. 28 08 03&(2)(3) ES # c.44.47 # c.44.65

Stretham: Steeple-jacks: a good many who thought they possessed all the faculties of a steeplejack endeavoured to scale the lofty church spire on Sunday morning in the same way as the steeple-jacks who are now at work repairing the steeple; they all reached the chinks safely – by steps from inside the church. But when they came out into the open about half-way up the Church, a different problem faced them. Ladders were fixed from the chinks to the summit. Many of the aspirants climbed four steps of the ladder and then hastily dismounted. Only two – Leslie Badcock and Cyril Parish – reached the top and from there a fine view could be obtained of the surrounding countryside – 28 08 03(5) ES

Middle Level pumping station at St Germans to proceed

The Middle Level Drainage Board have agreed upon an extensive and comprehensive scheme of heightening and strengthening the Old Bedford barrier bank from Welmore Sluice to Earith. They have also agreed a project of a pumping station at the outfall at St Germans. The question has been under consideration for some years but was denied by Ministry refusal to give a grant if the pumping station were placed at St Germans, believing it should be placed at the Aqueduct. The throwing out of the Ouse Drainage Bill has delayed any prospect of relief being afforded in the Ouse and the Level will be running a serious risk in going on indefinitely in the knowledge of the danger of floods. 28 08 03ES

English eggs were not so well-marketed to compete with the better-marketed eggs of foreign countries. When improvement had been made in home production, grading and marketing the Government should prohibit the importation of hen or duck eggs unless each was marked with an indication of their origin. If voluntary reform was not supported the proper marketing and grading of eggs would become compulsory so that better prices could be commanded for English eggs. The scheme would give distributors in the large towns and cities an opportunity of buying English eggs of first quality, clean, fresh, graded and packed in non-returnable containers. Eggs would be marked with a Union Jack in different colours indicating 'special', 'standard' and 'medium'. 28 08 03ES

The Isle of Ely County Council, in conjunction with the Milk Recording Society have decided to hold a clean milk competition to demonstrate that without expensive plant and specially constructed building, but in ordinary farm buildings under ordinary conditions and without excessive increase of cost, it is possible to produce clean milk which will keep well, create a better demand and command a higher price. The competition will be opened to 25 producers of milk and each must have a minimum of six cows in milk. 28 08 03ES

1928 08 06

A thirty-ton stack on the farm of Mr R. Mailer at Boxworth caused considerably anxiety when it caught fire. It stood in close proximity to a number of others and to the buildings of what is one of the largest farms in the neighbourhood. The whole stack had to be dragged to pieces with steel hawsers and traction engines before the fire could be effectively dealt with. The firemen arrived about 4 am and did not return to Cambridge until 7.35 pm. To add to their discomfort heavy rain began to fall shortly after they arrived and continued throughout the greater part of the day

1928 08 06

The quietude and peace of Sunday evening on the Vinery Road Recreation Ground, Cambridge, was rudely broken when some half-dozen pigs from a neighbouring sty, having burrowed beneath the dividing fence, burst violently on to the ground. At once they started to uproot flowers, dig holes in beds and generally make a nuisance of themselves. The custodian and several other men flung themselves on the invaders but the wily porkers were too much for them and a game of catch-as-catch-can over flowerbeds and paths, around clumps of perennials and bushes began. As if by magic half the juvenile population of Romsey Town began to drift on to the ground. After half an hour's strenuous efforts the invaders were recaptured and restored to their proper place and peace again reigned over the trampled beds and broken bushes.

1928 08 06

The verger of the parish church at Warboys found that six brass candlesticks and six brass vases were missing from the altar. The candles had been removed and laid on the Communion table. Entry had been obtained by prising open a leaded window at the south end of the church. This is the second time within 14 months that this church has been broken into.

1928 08 07

Soham recreation ground, p4

1928 08 08

Burwell Hospital parade, p6

1928 08 09

Rumours spread in incredibly short time to the effect that a Cambridge charabanc had met with a serious accident in the neighbourhood of Hunstanton and that many of the passengers – the numbers varied between 13 and 20 – had been killed and others were injured. Mr A.G. Brown of Messrs Brown Bros, the Lord Astor Motor Coach Company, had an anxious time as one of his charabancs had taken a party from Papworth Everard to Hunstanton. “I would give a £5 note if I could find the man who started the rumour”, he said. It was a cruel hoax and caused unnecessary anxiety to very many people.

Cambridge fatality, p5

W. Heffer death, p5

1928 08 10 ES

Stretham:

Train excursion to Yarmouth

Cricket

Ice-cream vendor's barrow crashing into by cyclist

Sports – local athletes fairly successful at Ely. – 28 08 10 ES

1928 08 14

Cambridge has lost a popular and familiar figure by the death of Mr James ‘Jessie’ Collins. He had an intimate knowledge of the antecedents and lives of almost every one of the inhabitants of ‘The Boro’ – the Castle End district - and was a character quite of his own. For 40 years he was employed at St John's College, rising from the position of shoe black to deputy head porter. He will be buried from St John's College, which he has served so faithfully and so long and today he lies in state in the college chapel – a fitting end to a remarkable life

1928 08 15

Ely fire brigade were engaged for nearly eight hours dealing with an outbreak at Hinton Hall, Haddenham where a group of stacks containing about 40 tons of this year's hay was involved. As they were situated in the middle of a group of farm buildings, the firemen had their work cut out. A good supply of water being available from a pond the brigade played two lines of hose on the blaze and they can be highly commended on their smart work

1928 08 15

Cambridge University has lost yet another distinguished son, by the death of Baron von Hugel, founder of the University Catholic Association. In 1883 he was appointed curator of the Museum of Archaeology, to which he had presented a unique collection of Fiji war instruments. Then commenced a period of service which will never be forgotten. He raised the money required for a new building and played a prominent part in the collection of local antiques, carrying out extensive excavations at Girton. During the War the Baron took charge of the Belgian refugees in Cambridge and received a medal.

1928 08 16

Sensational statements affecting the whole system of combating tuberculosis were made by Dr P.C. Varrier-Jones, medical director of the Papworth Village Settlement. The current system of dispensaries and sanatoria, where seriously damaged patients are crowded together, waiting for a cure which never comes, supported by medicine which prolong a pathetic and fruitless existence with nothing by failure at the end of it, is founded upon a wrong reckoning, he said. There should be provision of suitable employment under sheltered conditions, with facilities for treatment when required.

1928 08 16

Mr J.M. Barr of Wisconsin, an American beekeeper of great repute was the guest at the apiary established at Manor Farm, Lt Shelford. Several patterns of hives were shown, including one of an American type and here Mr Barr, in trying to pick up a bee from the alighting board received a sting. His host, Mr Clay had to apologise for the unfriendly reception accorded to the distinguished foreigner. The company then adjourned to tea in the garden room, a spacious verandah which just accommodated the whole party of 30 people.

Troublesome dogs, p6

1928 08 17

A terrible accident, occurred at Shepreth when the 10 am express train from Cambridge ran into a motor lorry at a level crossing, all the coaches being wrecked. The train was derailed the fireman killed and the drivers of the train and lorry seriously injured. The lorry, which was loaded with cement, was crossing the East Anglian Cement Company's level crossing at the same moment as the express was approaching. There was a terrific impact. The cement on the lorry flew up in the air so that to men at work at the station it seemed like the smoke of an explosion. After the impact the petrol of the lorry was ignited and in a short time was a blazing mass. The train continued for more than 100 yards, ploughing up the track, the carriages toppling over into a neighbouring field.

1928 08 17 ES

Stretham: Plague of insects at Newtown Council Houses, Ely Road: at Mr Badcock's, no.1, millions of 'Black Jacks' damage vegetables and flowers; are working through all the gardens

From Aug 16th 1878: Welney wedding – Mrs Naomi Groce and John Rumble of Upwell; he had been married six times and the bride three times – 28 08 17 ES

1928 08 18

Mr A.J. Kerr of Downing College, Cambridge, a passenger on the train involved in the smash at Shepreth crossing said: "Next to our carriage was a horse box, which was completely smashed, only the wheels being left. At the time of the collision a horse was in the box. It was thrown to the other side of the line, where it lay for some little time with a considerable amount of wreckage on top of it. Then it scrambled up and bolted down the line"

1923 08 20

There is one thought uppermost in everyone's minds, and that is the level crossing collision at Shepreth and the almost miraculous escape of the passengers. The accident must surely be without precedent in the records of railway disasters in the comparatively small number of casualties compared with the damage to the express. It is almost incredible that with nearly 100 passengers aboard the train not one of them was killed, though the engine fireman and the lorry driver lost their lives. The disaster is bound to raise afresh the question of level crossings such as that at Shepreth which is an occupation crossing opened and closed by those who use it.

1928 08 20

It is a far cry from the White House, the home of American President Calvin Coolidge, to the old-world village of Cottenham. Some time back one of the Coolidge family unearthed the fact that they had originated in the village and the Rev Robert Moline instituted a search in the parish registers. He has sent the President a leather bible with a picture of the parish church on the back and a photograph of the original entry of the baptism in 1604 of little John Coullidge. The family emigrated to America in 1631.

Haddenham suicide, Mill End, p6

1928 08 21

The funerals of the two victims of the level-crossing disaster at Shepreth, the fireman of the engine and the driver of the motor lorry, took place at Cambridge. The passing of each cortege along Mill Road was watched by a number of silent sympathisers. Owing no doubt to the rain comparatively few people had assembled when the procession of the lorry driver passed from Romsey Terrace. Heads were bared and traffic stopped, an Ortona bus remaining stationary until the party had passed. A short while afterwards the cortege of the fireman turned out of Suez Road. It was headed by railwaymen, then came the bearers followed by a motor hearse, the top of which was covered with beautiful wreaths.

1928 08 21

Rail inquiry, p5

1928 08 24

An important improvement in East Cambs will be effected by the new road which it is proposed should be made from Burwell to the Wicken main road in Heditch Field. It would relieve the main road through Fordham of a considerable amount of traffic and assist an agricultural area. Newmarket R.D.C. has appointed a special committee to deal with the matter

1928 08 24 ES

Littleport railway station fire – 28 08 24 ES

1928 08 25

After the Ministry of Transport Inquiry into the tragic rail smash at Shepreth it now remains for steps to be taken to prevent the recurrence of such an accident. It was no one's business to pilot vehicles or foot passengers over the level crossing but was left to drivers to use ordinary care. Among the women passengers was a lady travelling to Finsbury Park, and she had with her a basket of eggs. After the smash, of course, she transferred with the other passengers to a relief train. When he arrived at her destination a railway official asked, out of curiosity, if he might look in her basket. Not one egg was broken!

1928 08 28

Witchford inquest, p6

1928 08 29

Sir – much has been written on the subject of the talking film; there is very little likelihood of any such startling innovation. The public would not want it, the difficulties of training whole casts of actors whose vocal abilities were not commensurate with their facial gifts would prevent it. But there is a real demand for audible film: News of the Day – public men making speeches will be seen and heard and personalities enhanced. Dramatic effects will be heightened by the production of 'noises' such as storms. Music Hall and revue sketches or 'star' turns will offer welcome interludes between the silent film plays and incidental music become an integral part of film production and not be left to the mercy of the local cinema orchestra – N. Sandeman, House of Commons.

1928 08 29

Sir – the bottom of Jesus Green swimming pool is in a very slimy condition and the shallow end practically useless for learners as they dare not venture away from the side. The custodian does not think there is a simple remedy; I suggest weighted cocoanut matting or a layer of sand. The custodian is successful with learners but he does not go into the water and hold them up with his hands but has a belt and rope and supports them from the bank. He has to be paid for his trouble and it is not everybody who can afford to pay – W.H.F.

1928 08 30

Newmarket Council heard that the Stewards of the Jockey Club felt the cost of purchasing and maintaining fire equipment should be paid for out of the rates, and not by voluntary subscriptions. But if a fire occurred at the grand stand, which was worth perhaps £100,000 their fire engine would be called upon to go and it seemed a great pity the Jockey Club could not contribute £250 towards the cost of an engine. The increase of housing and the storage of more petrol rendered the risk of fire greater and the need for a well-equipped brigade more pressing.

1928 08 30

Four London men had an amazing escape when a motor lorry overturned and caught fire at the Gog Magogs. The heavily-laden lorry was descending the Linton side of the hill when the steering mechanism gave way and the vehicle, careering down the road like a drunken man, skidded for about 50 yards, struck the grass verge and completely overturned. The engine burst into flames and the chassis became involved, but the men managed to extricate themselves, having sustained only minor injuries. Some obstruction was caused by the derelict vehicle which was eventually removed by a breakdown gang from a Cambridge garage.

1928 08 31

Lecturer collapses, p8

September 1928 CDN

1928 09 01

A case of typhoid occurred at Caxton Police Station. The patient, a woman, had been away from home a week or two before becoming ill and it would be extremely difficult to trace its origin. Various ditches and drains in the district were in an unsatisfactory condition. Likely sources of infection such as drainage and milk supply were being investigated. There had been no other case of typhoid in the county for 2½ years. Two cases of scarlet fever occurred at Papworth Everard; the patients have been removed to Cambridge Isolation Hospital & the house disinfected

1928 09 01

Motoring friends have remarked that they consider the new island and lamp standard at the bend of Victoria Avenue, Cambridge, a danger to road users, and although the Corporation's object was to prevent accidents they may do more harm than good. The motorist who was unfortunate enough to crash into the standard this week had his vision partially obscured by heavy rain but it would be the easiest thing in the world for a stranger to meet with an accident there. Because of the green background of the trees the standard is not visible to motorists until they are nearly on top of it – why not paint it white?

1928 09 01

Sir – if you walk into King's Parade, Cambridge you see on your right, stretching almost indefinitely to Trinity Street a long varied row of shops – tailors, photographers, booksellers and cafes – in fine all the indications of the necessities of modern life. You may linger before window displays of the latest dance record, buns and cakes, photographs of college eights, and books and books. You notice the windows reflect your new summer suiting and admire its fashionable cut. Yet turn round and your gaze encounters minarets and towers, white gleaming the sunshine. Great walls, vulnerable with tradition, frown coldly down at you and you feel absurdly out of place in your flannel trousers and double-breasted coat – “Awe-struck”

1928 09 05

Ald Conder said the country was buzzing with town planners; the Cambridge East town planning scheme was drawn up by Cambridge Borough Council and covered part of Chesterton RDC area. It reserved certain land for allotments so the owner sent in a claim for compensation to the Town Council; as the land was in Chesterton they forwarded it to the RDC who decided to release it from allotments. So if one authority town planned an area outside its own boundaries it was possible that what had been done at great expense could be undone immediately it became inconvenient to another. That was the general trend throughout the country.

1928 09 05

Planners suggested there should be a belt on the west side of Cambridge where, if there were any development at all, it should be very sparse. Most of the land belonged to the colleges and it would be a good thing if they got together and put their estates into the hands of an association so that land which would be sterilised would be balanced by other where development was allowed. Ribbon development was bound to continue but there should be a very wide belt between the road and the houses. While people could buy frontages to public roads at about £2 a foot they did not mind going out a few miles.

1928 09 05

Cambridgeshire gets its quote of “Weary Willies” – the wandering fraternity and ne’er-do-wells – who, homeless and penniless, are content to patronise the various casual wards or ‘spikes’ and seek shelter at the expense of the ratepayers. I recall a visit to Cambridge ‘spike’ when bread and water was all we received in the way of sustenance and a stiff task of wood sawing or stone-breaking was expected in return. The ‘spike’ at Ely was, however, always regarded as a ‘cushy’ one. Today the tramp has a comfortable mattress to rest on, a hot bath, clean towels, nightshirt and sometimes a safety razor. On leaving he is provided with bread and cheese to sustain him on his journey.

All applicants for admission to Cambridge workhouse are searched for contraband goods – not a pleasant task for the porter, and anathema to the tramp, who endeavours by all the tricks in his calendar to outwit the searching fingers of the official. No tramp is supposed to take in any tobacco, pipe, matches or money but to place them in his kit which is returned on discharge. But “Weary Willie” dearly loves a smoke; his stumpy pipe he will conceal in a toe of one of his big boots, in the other he places his matches or a selection of ‘kerbstone mixture’ – cigarette ends picked up in the streets - and Cambridge in Term provides him with a plentiful harvest.

Money is often ‘cached’ outside the workhouse, the tramps burying the coins in the sides of some bank, below tree roots or behind loose wall stones. Another means of concealment is to embed some small coins in the pieces of soap “Weary Willie” generally carry; but a casual ward official has adopted the practice of probing every piece of soap with a hat pin and often comes across hidden treasure. Coins are also concealed in the mouth and an old tramp ‘Long Amos’ bemoans to this day the accidental swallowing of a sixpence while taking a bath in Royston ‘spike’

In a tramp’s kit, carried in a dirty sack, you will find a curious collection of articles. Foremost is a ‘drum’, a large tin can fitted with a wire handle in which to brew hot water or black, strong, smoke-scented tea over a ‘yog’ (stick fire) by the roadside. Other articles include strips of cloth, known as ‘toe-rags’ used for binding round the feet in lieu of socks, pieces of old leather, rubber and a variety of nails for cobbling boots, a broken-bladed knife and a rusty spoon. He will also have a tin box holding a collection of ‘hard-up’ and a number of sheets of out-of-date newspapers gathered from rubbish heaps – “Weary Willies’ Library”

1928 09 05

All applicants for admission to Cambridge workhouse are searched for contraband goods – not a pleasant task for the porter, and anathema to the tramp, who endeavours by all the tricks in his calendar to outwit the searching fingers of the official. No tramp is supposed to take in any tobacco, pipe, matches or money but to place them in his kit which is returned on discharge. But “Weary Willie” dearly loves a smoke; his stumpy pipe he will conceal in a toe of one of his big boots, in the other he places his matches or a selection of ‘kerbstone mixture’ – cigarette ends picked up in the streets - and Cambridge in Term provides him with a plentiful harvest.

1928 09 05

Money is often ‘cached’ outside the workhouse, the tramps burying the coins in the sides of some bank, below tree roots or behind loose wall stones. Another means of concealment is to embed some small coins in the pieces of soap “Weary Willie” generally carry; but a casual ward official has adopted the practice of probing every piece of soap with a hat pin and often comes across hidden treasure. Coins are also concealed in the mouth and an old tramp ‘Long Amos’ bemoans to this day the accidental swallowing of a sixpence while taking a bath in Royston ‘spike’

1928 09 05

In a tramp’s kit, carried in a dirty sack, you will find a curious collection of articles. Foremost is a ‘drum’, a large tin can fitted with a wire handle in which to brew hot water or black, strong, smoke-scented tea over a ‘yog’ (stick fire) by the roadside. Other articles include strips of cloth, known as ‘toe-rags’ used for binding round the feet in lieu of socks, pieces of old leather, rubber and a variety of nails for cobbling boots, a broken-bladed knife and a rusty spoon. He will also have a tin box holding a collection of 'hard-up' and a number of sheets of out-of-date newspapers gathered from rubbish heaps – "Weary Willies' Library"

1928 09 06

Labour library, p6

1928 09 07

Northampton Street picturesque houses, p6

1928 09 07 ES

Random notes on Barway:

In 1839 an assessment of sixpence in the pound was made to defray the expenses in, and about the chapel yard.

In 1856, the chapel was described as "A small, poor decorated chapel with modern brick chancel. The west window is good, decorated with flowing tracery now blocked up; over it are two balls let into Decorated openings in the gable under the roof, which is covered with thatch and ceiled. The south wall of the chancel inclines to the north.

1868, the roof of the chapel was slated in this year at the cost of £40. The owners of property in the hamlet apparently bearing part of the expense. The roof was a thatched one previously

In the probate registry of Bury St Edmunds are copies of wills.

They include Nicholas Johnson of Barrowway 1586: To the poor 20 shillings. To every one of my godchildren 12 pence.

William Peachye, 1543. To make a causeway from the chapel to the house where I did dwell in six showings and eight pence.

Davyd Johnson 1550. To Marget my wife, three mylche bullocks, which she bought to me and one myche bullock and all she bought with her and the seyd bullock to be kept by Nicholas my son, till winter be done.

I give to my daughter, Margret, one cove, one yearlinge calf and in money 26 shillings to be paid at the day of her marriage.

Thomas Brown: to Agnes my daughter one bullock and 20 shillings. And if any of my seyd bretherne will take my seyd chylde, I will that they shall have the bullocke and the seyd money, and the name of the said bullock ys called Yonge btyndle

In December 1630 there was scarcely enough corn to sustain the inhabitants and sow the land.

About 70 years ago there were so many outbreaks of fire that a great many fire offices declined to insure farming stock. The reason was the negligent use of Lucifer matches & recklessness in the use of steam thrashing machine engines. – 28 09 07(2) ES

The County Library; how it caters for various interests; books for farmers by Miss Philip, County Librarian: The long dark evenings will soon be with us, when even the farmer has time to read.

There is, at the county repository, an interesting collection of books written by experts on every branch of farming. Several Isle of Ely farmers have read and profited by such books as "Dairy Cattle and Milk Production", "Soils and Fertilisers", "The Growing of Lucerne" and "The Home Doctoring of Animals". We also have the report on the marketing of potatoes, fruit, eggs and poultry Books are sent by post to every bona-fide borrower and a postcard to the County Library, March, will bring you a list of available books from which you can make your choice. I do not want our useful books to gather dust on the repository shelves. Miss A.M. Philip, County Librarian for the Isle of Ely. 28 09 07(2) ES

Railway crossing Hundred Foot River, south bridge nearer Black Bank now being constructed – account of progress – 28 09 07 ES

The work to bridge the Hundred Feet Wash with an iron structure in place of a timber bridge is proceeding. The 11 concrete piers, supporting the steel work have been completed, and the 11 sets of steel girders fixed while the two buttments adjoining the river bank have been strengthened to carry the steel work from the span across the river itself. It will be a huge overhead structure and is expected to be fixed in position on September 16th. The bridge will be practically completed with the exception of painting.

The new structure is being built on a temporary structure across the river on the Welney side while another pile structure is being built on the opposite side of the bridge, so that when work is carried out the old bridge will be slewed on the structure on the down the road side, and the new bridge will be slewed on ball bearings into its place. Truly a fine feat of British engineering

Another bridge, the one at Furlong Drove Siding spanning a drain and roadway, an old timber structure, has been renewed with concrete piers and steel girders, and also the bridge known as the Drain Bridge between Bedford Bridge and Manea Station.

Bedford Bridge will undergo the same treatment. Work has been commenced and 11 concrete piers have been completed but there are still several more to be built. This work is being hastened on as much as possible so that much of the work may be completed before the floods arrive. It is evident however the bridge will not be ready this year, but it will be undoubtedly be completed sometime in 1929

With steel and concrete taking the place of wood, the risk of fire will be greatly reduced. This risk must have been big when one hears that a bridge watchman has had to extinguish nine small fires burning simultaneously, these being started by embers from the fire boxes of passing engines. 28 09 07 ES

At the point where the railway crosses the Hundred Feet Wash, there is in time a flood a big expanse of water half a mile in width. Across this the railway is raised for a distance of three quarters of a mile, the lines being carried on two timber bridges each about 200 yards long with the bank between them. The South Bridge, the one near Black Bank, is now being reconstructed. Great difficulty has been experienced in securing foundations for the piers on account of floods. In some cases, 18-foot foundations have had to be made and on one of the buttresses a 36-foot foundation has had to be built. Work has proceeded apace and the Hundred Feet bridge will soon be completed. The new structure is being built on a temporary bridge across the river on the Welney side, while another pile structure is being built on the opposite side of the bridge so that when work is carried out the old bridge will be slewed onto the structure on the down road side and the new bridge will be slewed on ball bearings into its place.

Another bridge at Furlong Drove Siding spanning a drain and roadway has been renewed with concrete piers and also the bridge known as the Drain Bridge between the Bedford Bridge and Manea Station

The Bedford Bridge will undergo the same treatment as the Hundred Feet Bridge. Work is being hastened as much as possible, so that much may be completed before the floods arrive. It is evident however, that the bridges will not be ready this year.

With steel and concrete taking the place of wood, the risk of fire will be greatly reduced. This must have been big when one hears that a bridge watchmen has had to extinguish nine small fires burning simultaneously, these being started by embers from the fire boxes of passing engines. 28 09 07ES

Stubble

With harvest cleared up there is now a space of a week or two which may prove invaluable for cleaning up stubble. Ploughs and cultivators may be used and every possible effort should be made to clean up as much as possible while the weather permits

A machine has been brought out in Canada which might be of use with the cleaning of stubble in the autumn and also for the after cleansing of strawberries where they are not between trees. It is a stubble burner drawn by two horses and worked by one man. The fuel is coal oil, which is converted into gas before use and the burners are so placed as to burn off the stubble and rubbish on the ground. The gas is forced out by means of a pump worked by hand and the fire is under complete control by means of valves which are regulated by the driver. The machine not only burns up the stubble, but also weeds and weed seeds and does the whole in one operation at a small expense.

One has only to think of the rapidly increasing spread of wild oats and the menace they are too good cultivation to realise what a boon such a machine would be for destroying the seeds. 28 09 07ES

Fishing the New Bedford recently an angler, prompted by the recognised movement of his float trawled in his line. Judge his surprise when the catch revealed was a mussel. It must have taken the bait and the angler had to open the shell to recover his hook. 28 09 07ES

1928 09 08

Harry Lauder's reminiscences, "Roamin' in the Gloamin'" includes many references to the son he loved so well who was an undergraduate at Cambridge where it was his intention to take his degree as Bachelor of Music. Harry was in Australia in summer 1914 and it was arranged that John should join him for the Summer Vacation. Within five days of his return he was ordered to rejoin his Territorial Regiment and went to France. Harry was playing in his first revue in London when the news came through that Captain Lauder had been killed in action.

Hobbs pavilion, p6

1928 09 10

Captain Harry Spencer, the famous balloonist, was killed while attempting to release a balloon piloted by his son which had descended on the roof of a house belonging to Rugby School. He became affected by the escaping gas and rolled off the roof. He was responsible for the design of the famous parachutes with which he made hundreds of descents and in 1922 his son and daughter, then 14 and 16 years of age, made simultaneous parachute jumps with him at Cambridge from a height of 3,000 feet.

Haverhill fire, p6*

1928 09 11

The Cambridge works of Messrs W.G. Pye, the well-known scientific instrument and wireless apparatus makers were entered and the workshops and office ransacked. The works consist of several blocks of buildings extending from Cam Road to St Andrew's church at Old Chesterton. The visitor got into the transformer shop and then into a corridor by means of a hole which had been made in the wall for the fixing of a checking clock. Practically no damage was done and only a small sum of money is missing. It appears he was not a wireless enthusiast because none of the wireless parts were taken

1928 09 12

A mass meeting of milk producers is to decide what to do in the present crisis. Cambridge is fortunate in that a number of the local dairymen are also cowkeepers and able to supply a certain amount of milk independent of what they get from the farmers. The farmers are considering setting up milk depots in Cambridge in the event of no agreement being made with the retail trade, to ensure that milk continues to be delivered. But the Co-operative Society who supply the town with 5,000 gallons a week say the farmers couldn't carry out the distribution – 'it wouldn't be very sweet by the time the customers get it'

1928 09 14

About 50 children from Milton Road school, Cambridge journeyed by special Ortona bus to visit the industries of Sawston. Two groups called on the paper mill where the various processes were explained while another was piloted through the glove factory by Mr Hutchings whose patience in giving so many simple explanations calls for commendation. They joined forces to visit the works of Messrs Thomas Evans to see the various processes skins go through. During the journey home childish voices exuberantly declared that they would live in Dixie, where the hens lay omelettes. School was reached at 8 pm

1928 09 14

The Rev Charles Harold Evelyn-White, who has been rector of Rampton for the past 31 years, has announced his retirement. His work in connection with the restoration of the parish church, carried out under circumstances of exceptional difficulty is outstanding. He spoke of the wrench it would be for him and his wife to tear themselves away from both place and people.

St Ives fire, p3

1928 09 14 ES

Stretham: False alarm – cry went up that Mr J. H. Martin's farm at the Gravel, was on fire. Many rushed down the Military Road on any conveyance that was obtainable and more still heard the Fire Engine rattle past. The 'fire' turned out to be the old remains of a mustard stack

Influx of visitors. Year by year the village is increasingly invaded by holiday makers at this season. This year a record number of people have visited. Probably this is due to the improved travelling facilities, such as the daily 'bus service to and from Cambridge and Ely, and also weekly trips from popular seaside resorts such as Hunstanton, Yarmouth and Skegness

1928 09 17

Standing on the site where 60 years ago business commenced in a small thatched cottage, the Sawston Co-operative Society's attractively reconstructed premises were officially opened. The old exterior has been pulled down and an up-to-date imposing front substituted. The Assembly Room upstairs has been dispensed with and the whole floor made into a spacious furnishing department. The Boot Department, which was formerly incorporated into the drapery section, is now entirely independent. Since 1867 so much trade had been done that if members had left their dividends and interest to accumulate it would have been possible to buy all the property in Sawston and allow the members to live in their houses rent free.

1928 09 17

Augustine Crossman, manager of the A.R.C. Knitting Works, Abbey Walk, Cambridge told the court he had left his Morris Oxford car at the Drummer Street parking place and when he returned it was missing. When found next day the spare wheel had been changed, the tyre being seriously damaged. The inner tube had been taken out and put under the rear seat. The body of the car had been strained, one of the doors leaving a gap when closed and the bonnet had dropped away from the radiator. A quantity of petrol and oil had been used and a pair of sun goggles stolen. The damage came to something over £10.

1928 09 18 c

Newmarket R.D.C. Corners Committee inspected the corner at the junction of Pound Lane with Church Street, Isleham. They were of opinion that an improvement could be effected by the removal of the frontage wall to the site of the Pound, which abuts on the corner, & by leaving the site open to the highway. The Parish Council is to be asked to remove the wall with the possibility of a builder carrying out the work in exchange for the materials. They then inspected a corner at the junction of Fordham Road and Red Row Soham and recommend that tenders be obtained for taking down 12 yards of concrete wall and rebuilding a new frontage five yards further back.

1928 09 19

Newmarket Rising Sun, p6

Gransden show, p8

Greyhounds Cowper Road, p8

1928 09 20

Soham – Wicken road, p3*

Greyhound racing, p6

1928 09 21

Cambridge Housing Committee was told some of the bays of Council houses in Romsey Town had been pulled down and rebuilt after they had been occupied. Rumours that a government inspector had been down and condemned some of the work were quite wrong. It was not a question of work being badly done but it could be seen as one passed down the road that they were out of the vertical. (Laughter). The clerk of the works responsible was no longer in the employ of the council

1928 09 21

Cambridge Watch Committee granted Messrs Brown Bros a further licence for a Lancia coach to ply for hire at Drummer Street on condition that only one of their buses is to stand there at any one time. But Ortona had six to 14 buses there at a time & Messrs Brown advertised fares at 6d to a shilling cheaper. Ortona paid the Council £250 towards the rates but if the public was being charged extra it was time this was dispensed with. A custom had grown up amongst police and other to give Ortona preference because they sent buses to various places, whilst the others went to only one.

Hazel, Stretham, horse, p5*

Victoria Avenue lamp, p5

1928 09 21 ES

A very wonderful engineering feat was performed on the London and North Eastern Railway on the main line between Manea and March when the old bridge across the Hundred Foot River was removed and a massive steel structure installed in its place. All in the space of one day.

To those unfamiliar with the achievements of modern engineering science the task may well have appeared to verge on the impossible. Yet it was accomplished practically according to plan and the line, which was closed after the passing of the Mail Train on Saturday night, was reopened to traffic on Monday morning with the new bridge in place of the old.

The immensity of the undertaking can only be adequately realised by those who visited the scene.

And they were an immense body. Despite the fact that the place is an isolated one in the middle of the fens between Manea and Black Bank people from a wide area around flocked to the spot and most of them must have marvelled at what they saw of the accomplishments of engineering skill.

The old bridge was pulled away on ball bearings and afterwards the new structure was similarly drawn into position. Though that's easily stated that task was by no means simple for great weights had to be moved, and so far as the new bridge is concerned had to be moved with exactitude.

The size of the new bridge may be imagine from the fact that it has a span of 135 feet with side girders to the height of about 23 feet, the whole weighing no less than 330 tons.

The new bridge had been constructed during the preceding seven weeks and spanned the river close to the old one on the Welney side. The massive girders were unloaded from the railway tracks by means of cranes and were slung over the side of the old bridge and the work proceeded until the whole rigid mass was completed.

Then came the major task of substituting the new bridge for the old. The old bridge was a lifted by hydraulic jacks and railway lines placed with ball bearings between them. Then steel cables were attached old bridge and drawn out. The next thing was to prepare the site for the new structure and the transfer of the new bridge begun. Several times it had to be stopped while adjustments were made but gradually it got nearer to its final resting place. Then the approaches had to be made up and the permanent way restored.

The first train was a goods train from March to Bury St Edmunds which passed at 6.20 am.

The new bridge forms part of a larger scheme to reconstruct the line over the washes which in winter are flooded. And now a similar project is being carried out on the other side of the Wash. When the familiar old timber bridges have disappeared a final length of railway built to modern standards will take their place. They have rendered splendid services.

Since the train wait was first carried across the Wash one ever present risk has been that of fire. In dry weather watchman have had to be on duty day and night guarding against the danger. Started by embers from the fire boxes of passing engines, small fires have often been discovered and duly extinguished. 28 09 21(2) ES# c.26.2

1928 09 21

A Jangling of the Bells. Last July an alarming incident happened. When Mr. A. Pope was attending to the flowers in the churchyard se was startled by a great crashed in the tower and a jangling of the bells. He informed the Rector who, with the Parish Clerk, Mr. B. Parish went up to the tower to find out the reason for the noise.

It appeared that a great block of stone used to keep the weather vane steady had broken away from the iron support on which it had been swinging for many years owing to the corrosion of the iron. This stone had fallen on the oak beam that protected the bells and had smashed it to matchwood.

The Diocesan Surveyor said the spire was in a highly dangerous condition and at once drove off to see the Bishop in order to get his permission to close the church for divine service until the spire was again safe. He was able to secure the services of Mr. W. Prentice, the well-known steeplejack of Southend who happened to be in the neighbourhood.

It appears that owing to the swinging of the large block of stone at least 30 feet of the spire was twisted and in imminent danger of falling. This danger had been looming over the church since 60 years ago, when certain repairs were done after the spire had been struck by lightning.

The necessary repairs are now almost completed and the spire, which is a well-known example of the beauty of medieval art will soon be again a beautiful landmark for the countryside.

But the sum of at least £350 pounds has to be found to defray the cost.

The parish is wholly agricultural and although a loyal response to the appeal for funds is expected it is hoped the situation may make a large appeal to all those who desire to keep up ancient landmarks and preserve ancient buildings. The Bishop has headed the list of subscribers – feature and photo – 28 09 21 ES

1928 09 24

Sir Horace Darwin, a son of Charles Darwin, died at his home, The Orchard, Huntingdon Road, Cambridge having been in failing health for some time. By his passing we have lost yet another distinguished son of inventive and scientific genius and a personality who will be much missed. A former Mayor and chairman of the Cambridge Instrument Company, he was much interested in the training of mentally deficient children and helped to establish a home for them at Girton

1928 09 25

F.W. Mills, engraver death, p5

1928 09 27

The most disastrous fire seen in the fens for some years originated in West Fen Farm, Ely. Owing to the bad state of the road the Brigade experience considerably difficulty in getting close to the fire. The flames were twenty feet high and showers of sparks floated about in all directions. In the midst of the blazing yard was a valuable drum and elevator which was practically reduced to scrap iron. The glow of the fire was noticed for miles around and many people who saw it motored or cycled to the isolated scene.

1928 09 28

Charles Coborn, the veteran comedian famous for his singing of “Two Lovely Black Eyes” and “The Man Who Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo” recalls an early visit to Cambridge: “We were drummed out of Cambridge a day before we had arranged to leave because of having infringed some Medo-Persian law of the Vice- Chancellor by stationing ourselves on market day in some prohibited place”. He also met two gypsy brothers named Smith who lived in caravans and supported themselves by chair mending. One was father of the now well-known Gypsy Rodney Smith.

Impington burial ground, p8

Rendezvous ballroom reopens, p8

1928 09 29

“Every member a sportsman and every sportsman a member” is the motto of the Cambridge Town Football Supporters’ Club which came into formation at a meeting at the Liberal Assembly Hall. They did not want supporters to grouse about players because they had not done the right thing, they left that to the Football Club. Supporters should not call out to the referee or players during a match and they wanted to stop the use of any bad language.

1928 09 29

The Chief Constable of Huntingdonshire, Capt J. Rivett-Carnac, is learning to fly and proposes to buy a Moth aeroplane. He said he was learning for fun: "Although in these small planes you can take off and land in any field you cannot often get from door to door within a county any more quickly than by motor-car. Only on very rare occasions do I foresee the need of an aeroplane for my official duties"

Chair of Dentistry, p8

October 1928 CDN

1928 10 01

Conditions at the University Library have become more and more serious and in 1924 a Syndicate recommended a new library on a new site. Land was bought and plans prepared by Sir Giles Gilbert Scott, estimated at £500,000. But it was possible for them to finance only half that amount. Now an offer has been received from the Rockefeller Foundation of a sum to enable the building of the complete library without delay.

1928 10 02

The advent of the Michaelmas Term finds hundreds of "Freshers" faced with the problem of choosing a suitable wardrobe for University life. Grey flannel "bags" have come to be universally associated with the 'Varsity man and he would be well advised to include two or three pairs in his outfit. Plus-fours however are nowadays almost as popular as they are particularly adapted to an undergraduate's activities. It is best to choose a really good tweed mixture of a fairly bright pattern.

1928 10 03

The chairman of the Ouse Drainage Board came in for some heckling at a meeting at Cottenham. After the disaster in Southery Fen in 1915 and 1916 the work of the Board had saved the entire South Level from being flooded last winter. But Mr Wright-Graves said the value of the land had been brought down from £25 to £10 an acre. The tax was more than the occupiers could bear and it would be better to have a flood once in seven years.

1928 10 05

Cambridge Council of Share Out Clubs celebrated a 'life' of 20 progressive years at a commemoration dinner. In 1908 it took seven or eight weeks to pay out a death claim because the Secretary collected a "penny per nob" from each individual member, now they were paid within two days. There was not a finer insurance system to which one could belong. There were now 89 clubs and a membership of 4,360 and in five years they had paid 260 claims amounting to £2,571.

1928 10 05

Negotiations have been concluded for a fusion of interests between the Oxford Playhouse and the Festival Theatre, Cambridge and J.B. Fagan and Terence Gray will be jointly responsible for the policy of both theatres. There will be an interchange of companies between Oxford and Cambridge and the ultimate aim will be the setting up of a theatre in London. When the ensuing term is finished the Oxford Playhouse will be demolished and an entirely new theatre constructed.

1928 10 05

An inquest at West Wickham heard how a roadman met his death by falling from the back of a steam roller. The driver said the deceased had been sitting on the tool box at the back of the engine, which was towing four vehicles. At church corner the man was all right but when he got round the corner a man shouted at him and he ran back to find his colleague dead on the road in a pool of blood. The body was left lying in the road for an hour before a policeman came and it was moved. The coroner said that if people found a man hanging or anything like that it was their duty morally to cut him down and try and save his life. It was not necessary to wait for a policeman.

1928 10 06

New University Library, p8

Grantchester discovery, p8

1928 10 08

“Ain’t it all right and all”, jubilantly exclaimed a man in working attire after looking round the new Cambridge Labour Club at Romsey Town. This remark expresses the general appreciation of the handsome and well-appointed new premises which have been built in their spare time by members of the various trade union organisations to provide the Labour Party with a home of its own. It is nearly 2½ years since the foundation stone was laid by Mr Ramsey MacDonald and since then work has been going on steadily on nights and Sunday afternoons. The men have been putting their hearts as well as their backs into the work and the result is a club-house of which the builders may well be proud.

1928 10 10

New potatoes, p6

Ely bus problem, p7

Concert losses, p8

1928 10 11

The churchwardens of Hauxton brought a suit against Mr J.H. Stevens of Brookside Cambridge for repairs to the chancel of the church which was at present very much out of order. The roof was sagging, rafter rotting and there were tiles off. Mr Stevens was now owner of various lands, the profits of which had been used in the past to pay for repairs. But he was not the lay rector or he would have the right to sit in the principal place in the chancel. He had paid tithe but had not been told of any responsibility to repair the chancel, if he had known he would not have bought the land.

1928 10 12

Linton housing needs, p7

Balsham water, p7

1929 10 12 ES

Isle of Ely County Library success

County Library success, school library appreciated, funding problems means Librarian post only part-time but working six days week

In a report to the Isle of Ely County Library Committee, County Librarian, Miss Philip said additional hours were necessary if they were to satisfy the public. One hour a week is not sufficient when over 100 borrowers are crowding around the books scattered on the desks. We cannot ask the local librarians in these centres to do more than they are doing.

“I should like to be able to give more personal help to the library branches, but this is quite impossible as the work is already very heavy and is constantly increasing.

“The School Library has been much appreciated, both by teachers and pupils and there are many appeals for a larger supply of books, which I have had to refuse. Some schools are still without books. Others are very inadequately supplied. We cannot hope for any of the promised grant this year from the Education Committee. This is a very great disappointment. Without money, even a small sum to replace worn books to add to our stocks, how is the library to continue? Books have been in constant use now for nearly 12 months. After another six months hard usage there will not be many left intact. A sum of £20 pounds would ease the situation and permit books being bought in repair

“I voluntarily undertook the purchase and distribution of the school library books and on account of the children and the teachers, I should be sorry to give up the work. Unless the scheme is properly supported, I cannot promise to continue to serve the schools as my work as County Librarian already absorbs more than my full time.

“No further progress can be made without more money. With a halfpenny rate suitable accommodation with bookcases could be provided in the town centres with a set of reference books. Paid assistants could be engaged and the work done much more efficiently. We are deeply indebted to the local librarians and voluntary assistants for their loyal co-operation but we cannot add to their burden of work”

The sub-committee recommended that local committees be formed at Chatteris, Littleport and Whittlesey. There was already interest everywhere and it was more real and extensive than the majority of the members of the Education Committee realised

They had again discussed the appointment of Miss A M. Philip, as a full-time librarian. They placed on record their high appreciation of her invaluable service, deeply regret they are able to recommend to make her a full time.

The Chairman said he was positively ashamed that Miss Phillip, who was engaged as a half time librarian, had been compelled for want of funds to give up the whole of her day and generally the greater part of her evening to library work. She was inadequately paid and grossly overworked. And it was due to her personal efforts that the library was the success that it was.

They gave a pledge to the County Council when the scheme started that the total expense would be borne by a farthing rate. As a result, they have not been able to increase Miss Philip’s salary, but she was so enthusiastic she was giving her whole time for half time of pay.

Rev Walton said the salary laid down by the Carnegie Trust for a full time librarian was £300, and taking that as a base, she was paid more than half.

But the salary was fixed on the assumption that they would require six half-days or three full days when she was working six full days. If they tried to get another librarian the Carnegie Trustees would refuse to sanction an appointment under £300 a year because they realised that it should be a full time job. – 28 10 12 &(2) ES

1928 10 13

Histon cemetery, p7

Notorious burglar, p8

1928 10 15

Willingham Ouse meeting, p2*

1928 10 16

In Salisbury Villas, Station Road, Cambridge is an embryo Missionary School of Tropical Diseases and Hygiene. Since its inception 85 missionary candidates have received instruction in anatomy, bacteriology and medicine to enable them to care for their own health when far from qualified aid and alleviate sickness and suffering on the field where they will be working. It was founded by the Rev. E.S. Fellowes-Farrow and housed in rooms in his private residence.

Guyhirn accident, p3

Chesterton police station, p8

1928 10 17

Sangerr’s circus, p7

1928 10 18

Cambridge Guardians have sanctioned the provision of a cinematograph at the Poor Law Institution. A Kodascope machine will be installed and a subscription raised to cover the cost of £1 a week. The provision of music on cinematograph or wireless was just as much part of the Institution as providing medical and dental treatment. The also considered the installation of a system of telephones

Pointer’s sale, p6

1928 10 19

The ancient parish church of Caxton has long been in a sad state of decay. The chancel, nave and tower, floor, walls and roof have been unsafe for some years. Last year toadstools were growing at the foot of the pillars, which were green with fungus, and ivy grew through cracks. Huge lumps of plaster continually falling from the ceiling have made it dangerous for worship in the nave. Water poured through the roof in twenty places, the walls were crumbling and the floor in the last stages of rot. Scarcely a pew can be used again and hardly a rafter is free from rot. The population is small and consists of agricultural labourers but they have already raised £100 and now appeal for funds.

1928 10 19

The 'Cambridge Chronicle' newspaper applied for a renewal of the lease of their printing works in Market Hill. For the last 100 years they have carried on business there, they were the best-known works of the kind and if they were obliged to quit the machinery and plant would be very costly to transfer. But the owner said she intended to pull down the premises to carry out a scheme of development.

Mortuary, p6

Victoria Avenue refuse, p6

1928 10 20

"There are probably a large number of people in Cambridge who would like to pull down half the colleges for street widening purposes and more who would be entranced by a design for a new King's College Chapel, done by the Borough Surveyor and suitably embellished with pagodas & geraniums", claims The Observer. The article includes the headlines 'A Threat to Cambridge. The Vandal on the Backs. Blackpool-on the-Cam'. It reveals how ignorant they are of modern Cambridge opinion.

1928 10 20

Judgement was given in the case brought by Hauxton Parochial Church Council relating to the liability to repair the chancel of Hauxton parish council. After investigation of ancient documents it was found that liability for such repair devolved upon the person who owned certain lands. Although he denied that he had been made aware of this when he brought the land, Mr Stevens had paid certain sums to the vicar, which had been another part of the responsibilities specified. It was therefore adjudged that he was indeed responsible for the repairs to the chancel.

Swaffham Prior pump, p7

Abbey church porch, p8

1928 10 22

Haverhill Literary Institute committee drew attention to the very small sum placed in the collection box at the Reading Room during the year. It had always been the rule that the Institute should be open to non-residents but they would be expected to show their appreciation by contributing something towards the expenses. Judging from the amount received the privilege was not valued very highly as the average income was twopence-halfpenny a week. The reading room was used very largely by outsiders, especially on market days. Such habitual users should become members

1928 10 22

Viscount Ennismore, the Cambridge undergraduate who is the son and heir of the Earl of Listowel, has decided not to use his title. In future he wishes to be known by his family name as plain "Mr Hare". The Viscount, who is at Magdalene College, has been talked of as a Socialist but he definitely denied belonging to the Labour Party. "I am a member of the University Labour Club, but we are merely a body of young men interested in progressive politics. It is a matter of conscience: I feel I have enjoyed an unfair advantage and believe that titles are an artificial distinction", he told a CDN reporter.

1928 10 22

Newmarket was deeply shocked by the news that Mr Fred Archer, the well-known racehorse trainer and nephew of the famous jockey, had been thrown from his car and killed in collision with a stationary bus in Woodford High Street. Mr Archer was alone in the car, a big limousine. Until recently he trained for Lord Glanely at Newmarket. His greatest achievement was the winning of the Grand National in 1925 with Double Chance, a horse given him by Anthony de Rothschild as being useless for racing but which went on to win eight races.

1928 10 23

What is probably the largest single deal in Cambridge business property ever known has just been completed. A well-known local young man has purchased property with frontages in Market Hill, Petty Cury and Sidney Street and this will be developed by a company consisting of Cambridge people. It includes premises occupied by the Craft Shoe Company, the Cambridge Chronicle offices and printing works and Boots the chemist. As Messrs Boots recently secured a large amount of property in Petty Cury and Sidney Street it would appear that big changes will be seen in this part of town when both sites are developed.

Tipperary club, p6

1928 10 24

Downing Place fire, p6

1928 10 25

Pointer sale, p6

1928 10 26

Abbey church porch, p6

1928 10 26 ES

Ely de-luxe motor ambulance

For many years there has been need of an up-to-date ambulance for Ely and the Rural District. Discussion was taking place as to what means could be employed to raise sufficient money. Now Mr F.L. Harlock has offered to meet the cost.

Throughout the week, the ambulance, a Morris, costing £400, has stood in the showroom of Messrs A. Cass in St Mary's Street, where its graceful lines and perfect colour schemes of beige and biscuit have attracted the attention of an admiring and grateful public.

Equipped with five-lamp electric lighting, large size balloon tires, with efficient springing to ensure riding comfort, the ambulance is constructed on hygienic principles. It is panelled similar to a limousine car with fully-enclosed driver's compartment, comfortably upholstered. The windows of the ambulance are fitted with a special glass, allowing occupants a clear view outside but preventing the interior, being looked into,

Double doors are fitted to the rear and non-rattle and dustproof inspection boards fitted in the flooring. Provision is made for carrying stretcher cases and sitting patients. No pains have been spared in seeing it equipped in accordance with the wishes of the donor, 28 10 26 ES

1928 10 27

There is much speculation regarding the £42,000 Cambridge Market Hill deal; a large cinema and café are spoken of, but there are no details at present. It would be for the benefit of the town if the whole island site could be taken over by the Corporation; then as the leases run out it could be cleared and would provide a magnificent site for municipal buildings. Road traffic now demands that all building operations should be planned for what will be needed in the future, with a wider Petty Cury, Market Hill and Sidney Street. Something of the sort must eventually be done unless it is the intention to remove the Guildhall and market nearer the station.

1928 10 27

A Lolworth couple were sentenced to six months hard labour for wilful neglect of their four children. They were extremely dirty and verminous and their clothes, the shirts in particular were almost incredibly dirty. The boots were so bad it would be better if they went barefoot. Their beds consisted of old sacks filled with flock and covered with ragged blankets and coats, they were saturated and smelt abominably. The husband was a good working man but the woman made no effort to keep the house or her children clean, and was something of a millstone round his neck.

1928 10 30

Undergraduate drunkenness, p6

1928 10 31

A disastrous fire resulted in the almost total demolition of the famous old water mill at Grantchester. The flames spread with such rapidity that within 30 minutes the position seemed helpless. The interior was just like a flaming cauldron, presenting a fiery beacon for miles around. The fire originated in the engine room where there was an oil engine, chemical extinguishers were tried without result. The men were beaten back by the smoke and flames; several were unable to save their coats and three bicycles had to be left to the flames. The only lives known to be lost were those of a cat and her kittens but it is thought some rats were also trapped, judging by the squeaks that were heard during the progress of the fire.

Histon stone corner, p8

November 1928 CDN

1928 11 01

Sir – in last nite's paper it was sed there is a lot of drinking in the Kolleges and someone asked what does the waiter think of it. The waiter thinks it's a dry job, that's all – just a job and a boiled shirt and somebody's second-hand dress suit. The yarn about Kollege feasts is all rot: there is a lot of drinking – they drink enough water to drown three or four Rev Gentlemen – Sam

1928 11 02 ES

Ely accommodates England's greatest beet factory

The hodding spade which cut the first sod on the site of the Ely Beet Sugar Factory. Turbutsea Farm Adelaide on October 7 of 1924, now reposes in the General Manager's office, its blade silver-plated and its handles white and polished like ivory.

It is a fine trophy and a permanent reminder of a great enterprise which has since justified itself. How few people ever believed, could have imagined the outcome of the lifting of that first solid, or visualised the scene today when a marshy and dike-theaded piece of land has been transformed, as if by magic. into the site of a vast set of buildings and fine hard roads, a 200-yardss long quay and four-and-a-half miles of railway sidings

Those that conceived the whole scheme and the farmers that supported them, were obviously men of foresight, determination and faith, characteristics without which nothing really big has ever been achieved or maintained.

Happy over the results so far achieved and confident of the future the factory authorities are not resting on their labours. They are forging on towards greater efficiency and economy and still further important developments of the business. 28 11 02(2) ES

St Germans pumping station authorised – 28 11 02(3)(4) ES # c.29

The Middle Level Commissioners gave instructions to proceed at once with the installation of pumping plant at the outfall at St Germans. The scheme is estimated to cost £70,000 if oil plant is installed, the Board being authorised to alter the motive power to electricity if a supply is found to be available at a reasonably early date. An oil plant would cost £70,000 to install and cost £2,000 a year to run. An electrical plant couldn't be put down for £50,000 but they had no idea when current would be available or what price it would be. The costs might be twice those of oil

Serious floods which occurred during last winter made the long-debated pumping scheme appear to be a more still urgent necessity.

It was also resolved the necessary repairs to the Old Bedford high barrier bank should be proceeded with. The Engineer said during the winter months flood conditions prevailed in the level and lasted for a period of 71 days. The rainfall was not excessive; flood conditions were principally due to the abnormally wet summer of last year.

In a normal year after a family dry summer the initial rainfall of the winter was absorbed by the land. Last autumn the ground was saturated so that the winter rainfall quickly found its way into the dikes as the land was already full. 28 11 02(3)(4) ES # c.29

Coveney church to hear broadcast from Canterbury Cathedral – 28 11 02 ES

On Sunday evening, a special service is to be broadcast from Canterbury Cathedral when the retiring Archbishop would deliver the farewell address. The whole of the service will be reproduced in Coveney church. Mr H.B. Cheeseright, the wireless expert from Sutton, will bring over and operate one the new moving-coil loudspeakers which gives such wonderfully faithful reproduction.

Everybody who cares to come will be welcomed in church, but it is essential that the service should be regarded as an act of worship rather than an entertainment. 28 11 02 ES

1928 11 03

The Lord Lieutenant, Ald. C. Adeane said that a fatal accident at the Babraham cross-roads might have been prevented had they put up motor caution signs but the County Council had declined to do so. With the increase in traffic and speed of motor cars a grave responsibility rested upon them, such signs should be erected at all dangerous points. At another dangerous cross on the Great North Road at Eaton Socon the side roads had now been brought into the main road at such an angle that it was virtually impossible to have an accident and something similar should be done at Babraham.

Childrens' toy fund, p3

Bourn school, p7

Cambridge aeroplane club, p8

Prohibition candidate, p8

1928 11 05

Rail smash, Holme, p5

Barrington cement works, p5*

Electricity, p5*

1928 11 06

Sir – I apologise to the many residents of Histon and Impington who responded to our invitation to witness a demonstration of phono films from our Conservative Association touring van. Owing to the obviously organised attempts to cause damage to the van and its valuable machinery by the continuous throwing of large fireworks I considered it unwise to give the demonstration. We advocate the fullest freedom to all political parties to place their propaganda before the public but the opposition which was meted out to us that night, under cover of the fog, was unworthy of any body of Englishmen – Walter W. Light.

Wilburton vicar, p4

1928 11 08

Paderewski pianist, p6

1928 11 10

Soon after daybreak the advance guard of the thousand undergraduate poppy sellers sallied forth to all quarters of Cambridge, determined to beat the record figures reached last year. The warmth of their enthusiasm was sufficient protection against the keen frosty air, and scorning overcoats they patrolled the lonely streets and waylaid those hurrying to business. They were so cheerfully importunate that only a modern Scrooge could have refused them and most people seemed only too willing to pay off another small instalment of their war debt.

1928 11 10 c

Carnival conditions prevailed in Cambridge where the poppy-decked shoppers met amusing spectacles on all hands. On no previous poppy day has undergraduate ingenuity been so fertile. Chief among the many attractive schemes for money squeezing was "Banger's Circus" in which an unidentifiable animal with 'flannel bag' legs, and a monkey led on a chain by a top-hatted ringmaster were noticeable. The procession was disorganised when the monkey developed a thirst and dashed into the Angel, dragging the not-unwilling circus master with him

1928 11 10 c

An explosion in Lensfield Road, Cambridge brought people to their doors and it was seen that the cover of a large manhole in the pavement had been blown into the air and flung on the roadway where it had smashed. Fortunately there was no one near at the time and no personal injury. Even a horse standing by attached to a milk cart was untouched and apparently unperturbed by the untoward happening. The manhole contains GPO telephone cables; two employees were at work at a smaller manhole, about 80 yards away. They were applying a blowlamp when the explosion took place; it is thought the two manholes are connected and the flame must have ignited gas.

1928 11 12

Trinity Hall window, p5

Brockett, lab assistant, suicide, p5

1928 11 13

The bringing of the electricity supply to villages is not without its difficulties; the erection of power lines by the Bedfordshire, Cambridgeshire and Huntingdonshire Electricity Company would seriously effect cultivation and put the agriculturalist to more expense. It was reasonable that poles should be erected down green lanes rather than across a field planted with fruit. The lines had already ruined one of the most charming parts of the county. But others felt people would not object if that meant it prevented the supply coming into their area.

1928 11 15

Sir – As a motorist who has travelled 18,000 miles on English, Irish and Continental roads by day and night since April last I protest against the statement that there are few roads on which it is safe to drive at 30 mph after dark. The efficiency of modern cars, brakes and headlights, the invaluable illuminated night signs and the sound state of the road surface make such speeds perfectly safe at night in uncrowded districts. The night motorists one great menace has been the un-illuminated rear of the push cycle, but they are now required by law to carry a rear reflector thus eliminating any danger in this direction –Sir William L. Williams, Malcolm Place, Cambridge

George Asplin, Stretham, accident, p6

1928 11 16

Newmarket cycle accident, p5*

1928 16 C

Nearly 400 dogs of all sorts, shapes and sizes were on view at the Cambridge Canine Society show. Pekinese classes were well filled, while Cairn terriers were a very nice lot. Fox terriers too provided strong classes and West Highland terriers made a very good show. A splendid lot of cocker spaniels were headed by a beautiful black, Pilot of Cambs, shown by Mr A.J. Storey who took the cup for the best gun dog. An Irish wolfhound, shown by Mr J. Nagle, was outstanding and took the club cup, although Miss Cross' St Bernard ran it very close.

1928 11 17

The great gale which swept the country blew down trees, damaged roofs and caused damage. The most serious loss is the removal of the roof of the grandstand on the Cambridge Town Football Club's ground. The cross at St Barnabas church was carried away but no person was injured in its fall. Hoardings on the LNER Railway's property near Cambridge station have been razed to the ground and the line was blocked by a signal that was blown down near Waterbeach. At Trinity College the famous 'Sedgwick Elm' in the Fellows' Garden was partly blown down. At Ely two large sheets of lead were lifted on the roof of the cathedral nave and a huge chicken shed in Lynn Road was completely demolished.

1928 11 19

Rignall accident, p5

1928 11 20

A meeting for clothing workers was arranged at Haverhill to reform, a branch of the Garment Workers' Union. It should never have been allowed to go out of existence but during the slump of 1921-22, when trade union assistance was needed more than ever, the workers fell away. What the union was asking for was one penny an hour more for girl workers, a halfpenny an hour for men and a week's holiday a year with pay. Once there was a branch at Haverhill members could depend on being looked after by the union if trials and tribulations came.

1928 11 20

Earlier we gave details of a £42,000 deal in Cambridge Market Hill; now we can reveal proposals to build a super Victoria Cinema that will accommodate about 1,800 people and embody all the latest improvements with the most comfortable seating and an excellent orchestra. Large waiting lounges will be included to accommodate all queues in the building and protect patrons from the weather. A luxurious café restaurant is also promised. We are unable to state whether apparatus for 'talkies' will be included but no doubt if this art develops sufficiently well in time this new asset will not be overlooked.

1928 11 20 c

The executors of the late Mr P.P. Gilpin are to sell the famous racing establishment, Clarehaven at Newmarket, where a winner of practically every big race, save the Cambridgeshire, has been trained. It practically adjoins the Limekilns and is convenient for both sides of the heath. The property includes a gentleman's house, a splendid range of 40 loose boxes, beside yearling boxes, hack stables etc and is complete in every detail.

1928 11 20

Sir – I watched a Cambridge policeman on point duty outside Woolworth's and was struck by the smart way in which he held up, or signalled on, vehicles. I saw him stop the traffic to allow a lady with a child in a push-chair to cross the road, lead a child over and pull to safety a woman who was in danger of being run down. I asked him whether he often had to pull people out of danger and he told me: "These village folk are not used to town, and one has to expect such things" – M. Bowyer

1928 11 20

Members of the Cambridge public who have been mystified by the appearance of wooden huts in various places will be interested to learn they are police telephone boxes. They will be small sub-police stations. Each will contain a telephone in a cupboard which the public can use to get in touch with the Central Police Station, but not for general calls. The box itself will only be accessible to the police. Thirteen are to be erected

1928 11 22

1928 has been a bad year for the prevalence of diphtheria with over 100 cases in Cambridge, resulting in 14 deaths. There have been 37 cases in elementary schools since September and six have ended fatally. Taken early the disease can be treated with a serum but parents are liable to mistake the first symptoms for those of a slight cold, a sore throat or the mumps. There is no traceable cause for the outbreak and personal contact, not insanitary conditions, is a primary cause of its spreading.

1928 11 23

The Isle of Ely County Council has taken over the road across Mepal Causeway as a main road but have no responsibility for a concrete viaduct. But, recognising the great delay and danger to the public when the road is flooded, they are prepared to find 25% of the cost. During floods last winter traffic was held up for three weeks; it was impossible to get a boat across and 40 workmen from Mepal had to walk eight miles after a day's work, travelling from Bluntisham to Sutton by rail. If the viaduct was built it would be one of the greatest improvements since the Council had been in existence.

1928 11 23 ES

New bridges for Isle of Ely:

The Ministry of Transport is unable to make a grant for the cost of constructing a reinforced concrete viaduct along Mepal Causeway. Although the greater part of the road across the causeway had been taken over as a main road, the County Council had no liability for the erection of a reinforced concrete viaduct. But they recognised the great delay and danger of the travelling public when the road was flooded and in order that the scheme might be carried out they were prepared to recommend a payment of 25% of the cost. The Ministry should give a grant for 50%. It would be one of the greatest improvements that had been done in the county

It was suggested this should be 50%. It was a matter of urgency and necessity that the viaduct be built. Owing to the very bad condition of the river the Wash Commission had agreed to allow a further discharge of water through the Seven Holes Sluice each year, with the result that the causeway would be frequently flooded. During the floods of last winter the traffic was held up at one period for three weeks and 40 workmen from Mepal after their day's work had to walk eight miles and then travel from Bluntisham to Sutton by rail before they could get home. It was an absolute impossibility to cross the river in a boat. 28 11 23(2)ES

Epidemic

The Board of Education had stated that during an epidemic, the power to exclude individual children was to be used to the best advantage and it was only in special and quite exceptional circumstances that it would be necessary to close a school.

Dr Walker, the County Medical Officer said when they had children in school, they had some control. Whereas when they were separated and at home it was impossible to know what was happening. They had been doing everything possible to put down the epidemic.

He wanted to have the children at school so they could take swabs of suspicious cases. It was impossible to take into hospital all cases of so-called carriers, such persons might be in a good state of health and they would naturally object to being tied up. But they should be isolated until found not to be carriers. Councillor Everett expressed agreement. He knew of a boy carrier who was working with his mother chopping sugar beet. Although the doctor had certified the case his parents refused to send him to a hospital or keep him in. He did not know whether any steps could be taken to isolate the boy. However the school at Sutton had been ordered to be closed by the clergyman who of course had no power to close it. It should reopen. But one councillor disagreed. There was a serious epidemic of Sutton where the cases numbered between 14 and 20. Until the other evening, the schools were open. First they had an order to close the school, and then a telephone message came to reopen them. If the Rural Council was not sitting, the representatives of a Parish could close a school. He took advantage of that and had signed an order closing the school for three weeks. Dr. Howe had tried his utmost to confine the epidemic but for some reason the County Medical Officer had used his power to keep the schools open. Diphtheria was a serious complaint and he contended the school should be closed at the earliest possible moment. Especially when there was a recommendation from the local doctor. 28 11 23

1928 11 24

Almost every aspect of undergraduate life will be seen in the new 'talkie' film now in course of preparation. The director is an old Cambridge man and he has persuaded the authorities to permit the general public glimpses of the interiors of some of the most sacred institutions. Certain 'dons' whose names are household words are interested in the project and will describe the characteristics of some of the fine old buildings while in one scene the star part will be played by a popular University hairdresser whose saloon and waiting clients provide the setting.

1928 11 26

Hinton Avenue trees, p5

1928 11 28

Many parsonages in the Ely Diocese were too large picturesque 'white elephants'. They were expensive and the upkeep was quite out of proportion. The incumbent must repair and often improve it, but he could not sell it or even fell the timber in the grounds without permission. Trustees should be established to classify properties, sell or re-model and improve them. A list could be drawn up with the prices fixed and agents who wished to buy would know where to go. But this would mean more officialdom and be a step in Socialism. And nothing was said about security of tenure; the work of the clergyman was hard and this mischievous and wicked interference would make it harder still.

Diphtheria, p6

1928 11 30

Chesterton RDC would never sanction the erection of petrol pumps which encroached on the highway. But the danger was not so much encroachment as the arm of the pump blocking the footpath and causing women with perambulators to go out on to the road. They were also told that during the recent gale the total loss in their 374 houses was one pane of glass and three slates. This was a matter for congratulation.

December 1928 CDN

1928 12 01

In the administrative areas of Cambridgeshire County Council there is only one town, Cambridge; the population of the town and county area are almost equally balanced. In ordinary circumstances Cambridge would have been made a county borough with all the advantages that accrue, had it not been that this would paralyse local county government. As a result it has had to suffer and remains under the control of the County Council, a body which is almost entirely rural in character. Under the new rating assessment Cambridge will find some 70% of the money but has fewer representatives on the county council than the rural areas; this is an intolerable position the Cambridge MP told the House of Commons.

1928 12 05

The number of cases of venereal diseases in the Isle of Ely has increased; of those attending the centre at Cambridge the number ceasing treatment before their cure was completed was more than last year. Poverty was no bar to treatment since railway fares are paid to all necessitous cases on application and laboratory facilities are provided free of cost to all Isle medical men. Six beds are reserved at Addenbrooke's Hospital for in-patients' treatment for these cases and unfortunately there had been more call upon them during the year.

1928 12 05

A passenger train travelling from March to Cambridge at over 40 mph crashed through one of the level crossing gates at Milton during dense fog. A motor lorry was practically on the rails. The engine driver appears to have been ignorant of the accident until he stopped some distance from the gates to await a signal. He then sent the fireman back to see what had happened. The passengers were unaware of any mishap. The Milton gates seem to be ill-fated. Numerous similar accidents have occurred there.

1928 12 06

A Little Downham baker told the bankruptcy court that he had bought the business for £900, but there was little trade, the weekly takings averaging £15. The majority of the business was the bread round.

He took over two horses and a cart, but one horse had the colic and the other a stroke so had to be shot. He did the baking when he was able and produced about 12 stones of bread a day. Sometimes he had no profit at all. He blamed his failure on keen competition – there were four bakers in the village, much too many for the size of the place.

1928 12 06

Members of the Ely Musical Society were cut with flying glass and bruised about the body in a motor bus crash. They were returning from Downham Market along a winding road when the front wheel of the bus skidded and it charged two trees. Luckily Mr Medcalfe, one of the Ortona Company's most careful drivers, stuck to his wheel which saved the situation very considerably. They were taken to a farmhouse and the driver went on the pillion of a motor cycle to Ely to get help. Another conveyance was sent to convey the unfortunate singers home but a heavy fog hanging over the fens made it difficult for traffic to proceed.

1928 12 06

For some time Cambridge bowlers have felt the present facilities were not attractive enough and they ran the risk of losing fixtures with first-class counties because of the state of the greens. Now an anonymous donor has offered a lease on ground in Brooklands Avenue; it would not require a great deal of levelling. The act was one of extraordinary generosity and should allow the formation of Cumberland turf greens and other sporting attractions.

Ringling door bells, p7

1928 12 08

Sir – Undergraduate fashions have changed since I came up to Cambridge in 1877. I never saw an undergraduate wearing knickerbockers nor carrying an umbrella and on our heads we had to wear hard felt hats when not wearing cap and gown, winter and summer. Perhaps half a dozen men would venture out wearing straw hats but they were spoken of as 'snugs' – strange and weird people. Of course straws were worn by men who had gained a place in their college boats and was part of the rowing costume, but not worn in the streets. We all had to look smart and well-dressed, with no slouching about with hands in trouser pockets. What a change! – Senex

Ramsden Square lamps, p5

1928 12 10

The fine building in Newmarket High Street known originally as the Victoria Hall was built 31 years ago on the site of the Greyhound Hotel and cost £80,000 to erect. No expense was spared to make it equal to the West End Hotel. A theatre, a Turkish bath, a ballroom and garden with fountains were added. But it failed because it was too good for the needs of the place. It was bought by Barrington Lynham, a flat race jockey, who has made this huge hotel pay. A cinematograph now occupies the theatre and it has been the venue of dances, dinners and presentations. Now it has been sold. The Victoria Cinema will be carried on in conjunction with the Kingsway Cinema and the Victoria Mansions will be a residence for well-to-do persons who can afford to rent a flat with every accommodation in the centre of the metropolis of the Turf.

Cambridge Home of Mercy, p3

1928 12 11

Cambridge councillors considered the provision of a car to replace the Ford at present used in the Highways Department. They agreed to transfer the Austin used by the Borough Surveyor and authorise him to obtain prices for the purchase of a new car. Subsequently he submitted estimates for a new Austin in part exchange for the old Ford car from Messrs Marshall & Co, Jesus Lane (£285.2s) and Herbert Robinson, Regent Street (£276). They are to accept the Robinson's offer

Old Corporation documents, p8

1928 12 12

Women having been granted the Parliamentary vote the Cambridge Committee for Equal Citizenship celebrated this great event. Invitations were sent out to all members of the Cambridge Women's Suffrage Association to meet Dame Millicent Fawcett at Newnham College. There was a very large attendance. Mrs Bethune-Baker traced the history of the movement in Cambridge. Among the first subscribers were the Mayor and Vice Chancellor but the cause fell on evil days. Members of the voteless sex had stood all day at polling booths on a wet day and undergraduates had tried to force their way into a meeting at the Guildhall.

1928 12 13

W.G. Fullick complained of the dangerous state of Gypsy Lane, Dullingham; hardly a day passed without someone falling from a bicycle. He supposed the Council would rather pay out compensation than put a little gravel down and noticed that the Councillors all had good roads to their residences. He hoped the Council would soon wake up and do something

Grantchester Mill, p3

1928 12 14 ES

Stretham Water:

For some weeks past Stretham residents have been greatly interested in a scheme for supplying water from a well in the Rectory grounds of the new cowshed recently erected by Bertram Parish in order to comply with the new regulations of the Ministry of Health.

With the consent of the authorities, pipes were laid from well under the road to Mr Parish's premises nearly opposite. The work, which was carried out by Messrs H. & J. Cutlack, is now completed and the 'opening' was performed by the Rector, Rev. S.S. Stitt.

Mr Parish is now assured of an abundant supply of pure water which the Rector has described as 'gorgeous, like champagne'.

The water is pumped by a small engine into an enormous tank which can be filled in twelve minutes. This automatically keeps supplied the water pans in each stall, ensuring pure water for each cow.

The buildings which were erected by Routledge Bros on the most up-to-date scientific lines, are a model of cleanliness and Mr Parish is being congratulated on the manner in which he has overcome the difficulty of securing a good supply of water.

As there is an abundance of excellent water in the Rectory grounds, the question arises as to whether the authorities could not devise some similar inexpensive scheme for supplying other parts of the village with water. 28 12 14(2) ES

Hundred Foot Wash – second railway bridge completed

Another stage of the great scheme of reconstruction, which the London and North Eastern Railway Company are carrying out on their main line between Manea and Black Bank was completed with the erection of the final portion of the steel bridges over the wash itself.

Formerly the railway away was carried over the low-lying wash land on two timber bridges joined by an embankment. These old bridges were of great strength but they had been in use since the railway was first constructed, and the time had arrived when both they and the structures across the adjacent rivers were deemed to be no longer equal to the strain of modern, heavy traffic.

Consequently, for nearly a year and three quarters the Railway Company had been engaged in the gigantic undertaking of replacing the succession of old bridges with new ones. Three months ago a massive steel structure was placed over the 100-foot River. Latterly attention has been directed to the second length of Wash bridge on the Manea side.

While the old wooden structure continued in use, brick piers standing on concrete foundations were built underneath it to carry the new superstructure.

Everything being in readiness the substitution of the new bridge for the old was embarked upon a few weeks ago, Sunday's being chosen for the actual replacement and traffic stopped to permit the work to be done. Four Sunday's were allocated to the task, three of the 12 spans being dealt with each day.

The great deck type girders were bought to the spot and lowered by means of cranes to the bed of the Wash. Then after the passing of the mail train, a start was made at one o'clock each morning by a staff of some 70 men working by the light the flare lamps. The tracks were taken up and the next section of the old bridge demolished. Two powerful cranes lifted the girders into position before the track was speedily made up. Thus the old timber bridges have now been given place to fine modern structures of steel on brick and concrete piers. The work that still remains to be done includes the erection of new bridges over the Delph and the Old Bedford Rivers and the construction of three approach spans on the Manea side. 28 12 14ES photo 28 12 21(3) ES # c.26.2

1928 12 15

Cambridge Medical Officer said properties in Little St Mary's Lane were in a state so dangerous or injurious to health as to be unfit for human habitation. One house was so dark he could not read a newspaper, although the sun was shining. He recommended closing orders prohibiting the use of the houses until they are rendered and to serve notice to this effect on the owners. The nuisance of a rabbit skin warehouse in Sturton Street was also being dealt with

1928 12 15

St Catharine's Farm, Coton, has been taken over by the Stetchworth Dairies. Built in 1922 it contains the finest buildings of any farm in the Eastern Counties and it is because of the spacious byres for cows that the Dairies have secured it. It is another asset to their fine chain of model milk producing farms, which includes Ditton Hall Farm, Rectory Farm Milton and Aldham House Farm, Chesterton. At Merton Hall Farm, Madingley Road the cows are milked by electricity.

1928 12 17

A 15-year-old farm labourer from Melbourn was accused of having inserted a filed farthing in an automatic cigarette machine and obtained a 6d packed of cigarettes. Charles Cooper, postmaster and grocer of Shepreth said he had a machine outside his shop and had missed several packs of cigarettes this way. He kept watch, saw the accused leave the machine, checked the money and found the farthing. The lad said he had seen other boys do it too.

Whittlesford hall, p6*

1928 12 18

Stretham housebreaking, J.H. Savage p5
Rose & Crown, Newmarket Road, p5*

1928 12 19

Lady Glanely, of Exning House, was saved from almost certain death when her car overturned and burst into flames near Royston. She was accompanied by her maid and the chauffeur was driving when the car came into collision with a cyclist, skidded and overturned. Within a few minutes the car was a mass of flames and she was trapped inside, unable to open the door. A man who was passing immediately rushed up and fought like a madman and managed to drag Lady Glanely out of the debris to safety. He rescued also the maid and assisted the chauffeur who had been unable to free himself. But for this man's brave intervention nothing could have saved her ladyship. A motor scout who was in the vicinity did his best to quell the flames, but in vain; the car was completely burnt and all her ladyship's luggage and her jewels, which were of great value, were lost.

Eglantine Jebb death, p5

1928 12 20

Lady Glaney rescue, p8

1928 12 21

The Ouse Drainage Board heard the mud and refuse from Ely Sugar Beet Factory was clogging up the river so that even tugs could not get through even with no boats in tow, except on a channel ploughed day after day. The water was being held up towards Cambridge and there was serious danger of flooding. It was a waste of money to have dredgers in the Ten Mile River getting the mud out when it was being put in faster by the Beet Factory. Thousands of tons of mud were going into the river and it was a scandalous affair. The whole of the river between Ely and Denver Sluice had a thin coating of slime all over it and was the consistency of a mud-pie. It will not be the Ouse Drainage Board much longer if this goes on: it will be the Ouse Drowning Board.

Shepreth railway smash inquiry, p5

1928 12 21 ES

Stretham house ransacked and clothes stolen

Allen C. Savage, a baker, assisted father in his business P.c. Green received information that the dwelling house of John Henry Savage of Stretham had been broken into and clothing stolen. He visited the house and found entry had been gained by thieves through a window at the rear of the house. An iron bar in the centre of the window frame had been wrenched away.

On entering the house, he found that every room had been visited and ransacked, every drawer and cupboard being left open. In a spare bedroom behind the folding screen, he found an old pair of brown cord trousers, cloth herringbone jacket, dark double-breasted waistcoat, an old Macintosh and cap. He made inquiries and ascertained that four strange men had been seen at Stretham during the afternoon. He took the clothing to Ely and circulated the information.

Later he proceeded to Cambridge and at the Police Station arrested four men who were charged. One, when asked to account for a string of pearls said "They came from the house. The money is what was stolen from the house; also the spectacle case, but the glasses are mine". Another when asked to account for the trousers waistcoat, tweed jacket, and trilby hat he was wearing when arrested, said they all came from the house. 28 12 21&(2) ES

1928 12 22

Coal wharf tragedy, p5*

River pollution, p7

Eglantyne Jebb, p8*

1928 12 24

The benevolent spirit of Christmas descended upon Cambridge Police Station when 350 of the city's poorest families received good cheer at the annual distribution under the Police Poor and Needy Fund scheme. "Robert" again proved what a real good friend to the poor he can be. He relished his job of amateur shopkeeper, skilfully wielding the butcher's knife and shovelling potatoes into sacks with good-natured gusto. With a cheery word for every recipient he sent happy families away loaded with Christmas dinners and good things in general. Perambulators which had arrived empty were wheeled away bearing protuberant sacks.

Fulbourn centenarians, p5

1928 12 27

There was no place in Cambridge where greater efforts were made to bring about a happy Christmas than at the Poor Law Institution, Mill Road. Gone forever were the old traditions of Bumbledom and the hardships associated with the workhouse regime. Enthusiastic spirits and untiring hands had transformed this already 'rejuvenated' building into a place which re-echoed in every corner to the joyous note of Yuletide happiness. The vestibules were almost as gaily decorated as the wards, festoons and balloons meeting the eye in every direction. A novel feature was the use of Flanders poppies, given by the British Legion. Santa Claus arrived in a sleigh drawn by two Alsatians; strangely enough the Master was not to be found when Santa arrived.

Review Year (national), p3

Christmas bathers, p3*
Wyton licensee, p5

1928 12 28
Gautrey reminiscences of education, p6*

1928 12 28 ES

March Council's fine record of house-building; 192 houses owned by the town – photo feature – 28 12 28(2) ES

Few local authorities have made a greater contribution to the solution of the housing problem in their area than have the March Urban District Council.

Right from pre-war days the Council have sought to meet the growing needs of the town in the matter of dwelling and since the war, which left its legacy of a more acute insufficiency of homes, building scheme has followed building scheme until today the Council own no less than 192 houses. In addition, many houses have been built by private enterprise, the total being somewhere between 400-500.

The first housing scheme was in 1915, when the eviction of 16 dwellings in Gaul Road was decided upon. Houses had a large living room, a kitchen and three bedrooms. No bathrooms were been provided although the water carriage system of sewage was included. The sewage from the 16th houses were dealt with on the bacterial process of purification over a downward filtration bed from which the effluent is pumped into the river.

The shortage of houses after the war brought about by the virtual suspension of building influenced the Government to provide assistance for local authorities contemplating the erection of houses. The Council purchased a piece of land at the corner of St. John's Road and Station Road for houses with a living room, parlour, kitchen, three bedrooms and a bathroom A system of hot water supply was provided to the bathroom and kitchen.

This was a very difficult time for building supplies and materials were controlled and many setbacks were experienced. No further action was taken until the Housing Act of 1923 which provided state assistance in the form of subsidy. The cost of building having fallen very considerably the Council took advantage of the Act and purchase a site at the junction of Wisbech Road and the Old West End drove and a first instalment of 16 houses were arranged with frontages to Wisbech Road.

While the scheme was in process, the Council proceeded a step further and 28 houses were erected on the same site. The dwellings on Wisbech Road have baths fixed in the kitchens are those on Peas Hill Road had bathroom following instructions that all subsidy houses must be provided with fixed baths in separate bathrooms. The sewage presented a difficult problem no sewers being available in that district.

Despite Council efforts and the extensive building carried out by private enterprise considerable unsatisfied demand for housing remained. The Council therefore decided to enter upon an even larger scheme than before and acquired the old golf links field off Upwell Road. It decided also to make provision for a new cemetery. This was the first site that necessitated the construction of new roads. A layout for the erection of 100 houses to be built in pairs with three different elevations in order to avoid the monotony of a large number of houses having the same appearance. The roads were constructed on Garden City lines with the carriageway separated from the pavement by a grass margin, on which trees have been planted.

Finally the Council have this year carried out a project providing houses at rents within the reach of the lower paid workers on Wimblington Road. 28 12 28(2)ES

Ouse Drainage Board

Serious river pollution at Ely due effluent from Beet Factory – tugs could not get through; whole river towards Denver had thin coating of slime; it was full of beet refuse and bubbles and stank and was most objectionable. It would cost up to £1,000 to dredge it out. – 28 12 28 ES

The Ouse Drainage Board considered the pollution of the river by effluent from the Ely Beet Sugar Factory. The mud and refuse from the factory was so clogging and blocking the channel that even the tugs could not get through. Some drastic action would have to be taken or they would find themselves unable to save the fens from flooding in the event of excess water. It looked like wasting public money to have dredgers at work in the 10-Mile and then to get mud put in by the Sugar Beet Factory at a rate faster than they were taking it out

The question had been before them on many occasions. A week ago there was sufficient water to allow the tugs to go down, but there was a severe frost and on Monday the whole scum from the bottom of the Roswell Pits rose to the top in a stinking bubbling mass from the bottom of the channel and was over five feet deep. It started moving out into the river and the whole the river between Denver Sluice and just above Ely had a thin coating of slime all over it. In places it was four or five feet deep. It was full of beet refuse and bubbles and stank; it was most objectionable. 28 12 28ES

1928 12 29

No more rackets, p6

1929 Cambridge Daily News and Ely Standard

I have copies of articles summarised or marked *`

January 1929 CDN

Note: several of these stories were not fully typed up

1929 01 02

Home of Mercy cake, p8

1929 01 03

An Isleham baker was summonsed by the inspector of weights and measures for having loaves deficient in weight. He accepted the measurement although he always put three ounces of dough above the weight required to cover evaporation during baking. But under the prosecution act it was stated that the loaves must be for sale and these had been weighed in the bakehouse. They might in due course have been offered to the public but were not then for sale. The case was dismissed.

1929 01 04

Zion Baptist Church, East Road, Cambridge was opened on January 1st 1879 and nothing has been done to the fabric for several years. Now a scheme has begun for renovating and repairing the church. Mr Dunwell recalled his former Sunday school fellows: "The boys were ten times worse than they are today. The teachers used to read to them from 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' which often made them cry, but did their part in helping to build up character. Today there were not so many willing to work among the children"

1929 01 04 c

The new extension of Whittlesford Memorial Hall is of wood taken from the 1st Eastern General Hospital, Cambridge. If its timber could talk what a tale they would learn of the sufferings and bravery of many wounded men. It consists of two billiard rooms, one containing the billiard table from the officers' mess at Duxford Aerodrome and the other from the Red Cross Hospital at Whittlesford on which the soldiers used to play during the war. The whole is lit by oil lamps, though it is hoped that electricity will come to the village early next year. The original hall was opened in 1921.

1929 01 04 ES

Ely Rural Council takes palm for house erecting:

Ely Rural Council has built a record number of houses since the war. As soon as the cry for homes and more homes arose, the Council set out to meet it and in every part of the area stand smart little monuments to the splendid work of the Council. They have provided 400 homes since 1920. By some the rents of these houses have been thought somewhat excessive, but when the figures involved in their erection are laid bare it will be appreciated that they could be made no lower if the Council were to show any respect for the word 'economy'.

Now, apart from Littleport, where houses are still needed, the housing requirements of the area are practically met.; photos of Mill Field and The Crescent in Littleport; Ely Cromwell Road, Chief's Street – 29 01 04 & (2)-(5)ES

Stretham:

Child's death on Boxing Day – two-month-old son of John Forsythe of The Ferry

Prize winners: George Hitch of Cage Lane wins ton of coal, C. Chittleborough of Cambridge Road council houses wins £5 in draw

Obituary: Sidney George Houghton, late landlord of Sun Inn; during the four years he kept the inn he had made many friends and although unable, through illness to attend to his duties during the past year, he will be greatly missed. Leaves widow and two sons – 29 01 04(6) ES

1929 01 05

Cambridge always responds to a good cause with nearly £1,000 collected for the Miner's Distress Fund, but the County's response is very poor. It seems that requests for large sums – guineas or pounds - to send to one of the Cambridge banks does not appeal to the people in the villages, many of whom are not directly in touch with banks in the way which Cambridge residents are. They do not like to send in their modest contributions and local clergy should organise collections. The villages have done splendidly for Poppy Day and Addenbrooke's Hospital and would welcome the opportunity to support the Miners.

1929 01 08

The Chief Constable said that one of the cars now in use was a danger to the life of the Deputy Chief Constable; it had been used every day for the past ten years, so it had done extraordinarily well, but was now positively dangerous to go about in. The cost would be about £150. The question of payment arose and Mr Taylor objected to "this wretched system which is going on all over America of paying by instalments". It was agreed a new car be purchased and paid for now and a sub-committee was appointed to make the purchase.

1929 01 08

Too much time is now taken up by the police in traffic management, which is not a primary police duty; it could be controlled by the RAC and AA patrols, County Councillors argued. They were better than the police because they had motors. It would be difficult to make arrangements with the associations and would probably mean the motor scouts becoming special constables. Others felt traffic control should be dealt with by a special police, though the time was not ripe for them to increase the numbers. But Col Tebbutt said he would not like to see two sorts of police in the country.

Village plays, p3

1929 01 10

Two Ashdon brothers were charged with the theft of a pair of gent's shoes at a dance in the village Labour Hall. They had hidden them in a hedge. When the theft was announced by the M.C. the dancers made a collection amounting to 11s.6d. One brother had contributed to the collection but dare not say that the shoes had been taken as a practical joke. He later took them back into the lavatory of the hall. In a village like Ashdon there was not much humour about and by their actions they had made themselves look silly and idiotic

1929 01 11

Haddenham dog, p5

1929 01 11 ES

Littleport Labour Party's Social Club fire – 29 01 11(3) ES

James Heygate's draper's shop at Littleport celebrates Jubilee – 29 01 11(3) ES

Heygates, the well-known drapers of Littleport's shop windows are the centre of attraction to all the people who desire to be smartly dressed. Half a century of trading has made their name a household word in the district. Founded by the late Mr. James Heygate in 1879, the business was for a few years conducted next to the Wesleyan Chapel at present occupied by the India China Tea Company. In order to cope with the demands his then general's store was moved to its present commodious premises especially erected by Thomas Peacock the founder of the well-known London firm of Hope Brothers, who have a factory in the centre of Littleport. They were an unqualified success from the time they opened and 50 years later is being carried on by Mrs. Morgan. 29 01 11(3)ES

Four men pleaded guilty to breaking and entering the house of John Henry Savidge at Stretham. He was a baker and a few articles stolen belonged to his son. He had gone for a walk with his wife at about 2pm leaving the house shut up. When he returned, he saw that thieves had been in and the kitchen window had been forced open. The whole house had been ransacked, and some old clothes had been abandoned by the thieves. Information was circulated and police interviewed four men. One was wearing clothes taken from the house and the others were found in possession of stolen items. 29 01 11ES

P.c. Frost said he searched a woman and took a one-pound note from her glove. She said it was beet money that she had saved. She was taken to the police station and on the way the woman said she must go to a public convenience. He told her she could proceed to the police station and she then interfered with the lower part of her clothing. He saw there was a bulge in her stocking. At the police station, the stockings slipped down, and three five-pound notes fell out. Later eight pounds in note were found in her stockings. She said she knew nothing about the money in her petticoat. 29 01 11(2)ES

Since its formation 18 months ago the Littleport Labour Party has been making encouraging progress. The membership is now between 50 and 60. A little more than seven weeks ago the members were successful in acquiring part of a large wooden hut, the property of Mrs. S. Towler, for the purpose of organising a working men's Social Club. The hut was situated near the station and proved to be a great boon to the working men of the town until last week, when the whole of the hut was burnt to the ground, the cause of the fire being unknown. Despite this sudden drawback, members have not given up hope and have adopted a scheme to purchase a piece of land to erect a new hut to be built by the members themselves. 29 01 11(3)ES

Entering deep water on the flooded Causeway, Sutton Gault, a steam tractor laden with potatoes became stranded and had to be abandoned until the following morning when its cargo was unloaded by horse and cart. It was hauled from the water by another engine. A motor lorry laden with coal overturned on the corner of the foot of Toll Hill on the Haddenham Road, Sutton. The lorry, owned and driven by Mr. A.S. Gimbert ran foul of a gripple, skidded and turned over onto its side. Mr. Gilbert and Mr. Pond clambered out of the cabin, badly shaken and somewhat bruised, but fortunately without serious injury. The lorry was damaged. 29 01 11(4)ES

A serious accident befell George Charlton, who is employed by the Electricity Company in erecting the overhead lines from Histon to Ely. The unfortunate man, who is a native of Sunderland, was engaged in erecting poles on the Cambridge Road at Stretham with fellow workers when the support which was holding the pole in position gave way, and it crashed onto Mr. Charlton, hitting him on the forehead and nose. He was severely cut and suffering from a fractured skull. Assistance was immediately sent for and he was conveyed to Addenbrooke's Hospital where he is making good progress. 29 01 11ES

1929 01 12

The Wolseley 16/45 h.p. 'Silent Six' is the finest two-litre six-cylinder car that money and experienced have ever succeeded in producing. Its silence, smoothness and rapid acceleration are really wonderful. It is vibrationless from 6 to 60 mph. Let us give you a trial run – we shall be pleased to do so. Tourer £365. Saloon, £375. Authorised main distributors – E.T. Saint & Co. Ltd, Regent Street, Cambridge. – advert

1929 01 12

Sir – The Cambridge Surveyor offers to supply 'Standard Bins' at 4s. 9d and limit the amount of refuse. These are certainly tidy but judging from the state of some of the bins one feels that potential disease forces lurk under the lids, especially on murky warm nights. The advantages of the old wooden box or tub is that when the bacteria and damp have done their work the said container perforce refuses refuse – I.M. Tired. Editor: I believe the sanitary dustbins are infinitely preferable to the old wooden boxes without lids that often decorate our pavements and provide a happy hunting ground for stray dogs.

1929 01 12

At the Playhouse I had the pleasure of seeing 'The Three Students', the first of a series of Sherlock Holmes films with Eille Norwood in the role of the detective. It was of special interest because the greater part of the film was taken at Cambridge. A reference in these columns some years ago to another Sherlock Holmes film, 'Moriarty', in which John Barrymore appeared as Holmes in his college days at Cambridge, brought a letter from Mr Norwood who wrote "When we filmed 'The Three Students' we took some of the scenes at my old college, St John's".

A. Tillyard novel 'Young Milliner', p8

1929 01 15

The many Cambridge friends of Mr Raymond Bennett, the comedian, will regret to learn of the misfortune which befell him and the variety company, the Piccadilly Follies, when the New Hall Theatre, Tiverton, was completely destroyed by fire. His worldly possessions were reduced to a pair of stage trousers, an old coat and twopence. The company is in dire straits without money or their stock-in-trade as all their possessions were with them and they have lost everything.

1929 01 16

Joseph Ashworth Sturton, principal director of Messrs Sturton Ltd of Fitzroy Street and a former Mayor of Cambridge has died at Bournemouth. The son of Joseph Sturton, the founder of the business 100 years ago who developed the land now known as Sturton Town, he was born above the shop and proved an industrious business man, opening branches throughout the region. In 1919 he purchased Thurston's bakers and confectioners and soon added a café. Mr Sturton was one of the first in Cambridge to interest himself in the motor car and took up the commercial car in connection with his business. He was a prominent nonconformist and founded the flourishing New Street Men's Bible Class.

1929 01 16

Sir – Cottenham and Histon parents who have children using the Ortona bus to and from school in Cambridge are perturbed at the condition in which the children arrive. They are compelled to travel on the top deck of the open-top bus when it is full at the bottom. This usually happens in wet weather. What prevents the bus company from sending a covered double-deck bus for their use? Children from Histon have an alternative to go by rail, which is considerably cheaper and are provided with a heated carriage and kept dry – A Parent

Twin doctors, p6, (inquest 18th p5)

1929 01 17

Competition in the tea-shop line is terrific, Cambridge is stiff with them, a court was told. Two ladies had taken the tenancy of 11 St John's Street in 1923 and increased the takings with a large number of resident customers as well as undergraduates. They made everything they sold except for sweets and cigarettes & paid themselves between £60 and £80 a year out of the takings. Trinity College said if the premises could not be used as a tea shop the rental value would drop from £120 down to £85 as it was in a bad position for an ordinary retail business.

1929 01 18

Cambridge Councillors considered erecting 50 houses of a type within the pecuniary means of the people who would have to be moved from insanitary houses. In some places eight people were living in a single room under exceptional circumstances of poverty. But a man might say 'I am paying 3s. 6d. a week for two rooms and I cannot afford any more'. So what type of house was going to be built? In some of the houses there were elderly people and moving them perhaps two miles would be quite out of the question.

1929 01 18

There are about 800 unemployed men in Cambridge, due to seasonal work and the closing down of the Cement Works, one of which had closed permanently though the others would reopen in a short time. They include 84 builders' labourers, 138 painters, 32 carpenters and 16 plasterers. The council has drawn up a programme and 134 men are working for the Borough Surveyor but they urge all who had work for painters, plasterers or builders to put it in hand at once.

Fishery board restocking

1929 01 23

Caxton Rural Council received a letter from the Beds. Cambs. and Hunts Electricity Company seeking permission to fix an overhead wire from St Ives to Eltisley. The line would go through Hilton and Papworth and be a great boon. Mr Moss asked if the wires would be high enough to clear a man on a loaded cart. He had seen the wires near Cambridge and they seemed very low. The Chairman said this was a matter for the owners of the land. He pointed out that it was the top wire that was the dangerous one, and the lower ones were merely guards.

1929 01 24

Conington air club, p5

1929 01 25

Duxford air crash, p5

1929 01 25

The Inspector of Schools said that in recent years there have been great improvements in Cambridge; they had got rid of such places as Sturton Street Infants and Occupation Road schools which were not fit to teach children in. Not only was it impossible for the teachers to give of their best but it was absolutely cruelty to children to make them go there. Occupation Road in particular was really insanitary. They had done exceedingly well in the reduction of the number of unwieldy classes; there are now 11 classes of over 50 children and 35 with from 40 to 50.

1929 01 25 ES

Old Bank Farm, Littleport, a mile and a half down a winding lane, is one of the oldest in the district and has been in the Watson family for 157 years. In turning out an old drawer a letter dated January 1829 was found. The writing was good and in an excellent state of preservation. It invited Mr T. Watson to attend some function arranged by the Earl of Hardwicke. On the way his horse shied and in kicking out it broke one of its rider's legs, thus preventing him from being present. The present owner, Mr. Aaron Wilson, was born in the old house in 1857 and had not slept outside it for more than a week. One or two alterations have been made to the house. One modern window has been inserted, and on the roof sheets of corrugated iron had been substituted for the thatch but the old fashioned fireplace still remains in the kitchen – 29 01 25(2)

Stretham Baptist Sunday School treat in Infants' School – photo – 29 01 25 (3)

Stretham:

Football

Death Mrs Annie Henrietta Driver, widow Charles, Green End.

Baptist Chapel treat

Accident P.W. Hazel, motoring near Mildenhall when car skidded, he, his sister Miss Marion and his brother-in-law were all pinned in car.

Whist driver for Sports and Flower Shop Committee

Old Age Pensioners entertained

Obituary John Jones Barber of Cambridge Road; born at Lt Ouse he came to Stretham on marriage to Miss Annie Jarman. Had excellent army record having joined Militia in Ely in 1904 and see 11 years' service in India with the Territorials. At outbreak of the Great War he was one of first to volunteer and served as corporal in 2nd Suffolk Regiment 1914-1919. Body borne by men who had served in Suffolk Regiment. – 29 01 25 ES

1929 01 26

A young Cambridge lady in attempting to make a short cut across Midsummer Common to the towing path became embedded in the half-frozen silt and mud thrown up by the dredger. Another lady went to her assistance and suffered a similar fate. Their frantic signals soon attracted the attention of passers-by; two or three young men waded out to them while others formed a human chain. The would-be rescuer was extricated with little difficulty but the first lady became more deeply embedded. Eventually a ladder was procured and a rescue effected. Fortunately no bones were broken but she was so badly shaken up by her ordeal that she had to be removed on a hastily-improvised stretcher

Skating, p5

Photofilm van, p6

1929 01 28

The County Architect presented sketch plans for a new building on the Cambridge castle site, containing office accommodation, with council chamber, library and storerooms. It was futile to prepare plans for their existing needs when it was practically certain that under the new Local Government Bill they would have a large amount of additional work thrown upon them. Mr Dunn had erected the present County Hall in Hobson Street & was able to compete with the best architects in the country with regard to a beautiful scheme and a beautiful building. But if he was forced to collaborate with another architect there would be delays and they would never get the building erected.

1929 01 28

Certain documents of an historical nature are stored in Cambridge prison on Castle Hill and access is permitted to University students for the purpose of study. But if a County Hall is built on the site the Prison will be pulled down and the documents removed. The University fears that they would lose a very big educational factor and urge the County Council to provide accommodation for them in their new building. Having regard to the tendency of modern legislation to give Councils more work they would probably require considerably more accommodation at the end of 20 years and such storage would then be valuable for administrative purposes.

1929 01 29

A story of how a large family had been living in a tent of sacks and sticks was unfolded at Cambridge court. The man had not done any work for eight years and the woman provided for her family by hawking. They lived by wandering about the fen district camping out, and the only time the children had proper covering was when they were in poor law institutions. They had in a tent in Cuckoo Lane, Cottenham; it could not be called waterproof, on the floor was a small portion of straw and there was a foul smell

Rev Thomas death, p6

1929 01 30

Cambridge Preservation Society wishes to prevent any repetition of the disfigurement of the country as has taken place around the Shelford Road. They felt that at all costs the pleasant road to Madingley and the view from the Hill should be secured. Finding the danger was acute they decided to direct whatever funds were available to this end. They have bought about 380 acres of land but built up a considerable debt that must be repaid.

1929 01 30

Mr George Sharman, of March, the head of a well-known Isle of Ely family, was killed through falling in front of an express train at March railway station. He founded the 'Cambridgeshire Times' series of newspapers in 1872 and was actively concerned with the management for many years, two of his sons subsequently taking over the reins. Recently he took over an estate and land agent's business. Several years ago he had a seizure while waiting on the March station platform and fell on the line but was not seriously injured. A widow, five sons and a daughter are left to mourn their loss.

1929 01 30

General regret will be felt at the news of the death of Mr Eliab Pamplin, partner in the well-known firm of agricultural engineers. With his brother, Walter, he followed in the footsteps of his father who was a pioneer in founding the engineering concern and under them it grew to still larger proportions. He farmed extensively and also found time to devote to public service; his knowledge concerning road construction proving of great value to the Highways Committee. He took an active interest in the life of Cherry Hinton and recently made a gift of £100 to the Parish Council to extend the recreation ground.

1929 01 31

A Lancashire farmer who came south during the war and took a farm at Wimbish told the Bankruptcy Court that he should never have done so had it not been for Mr Lloyd George's promises. He'd said this kind of farming in this country should never fall back into the condition that it has done and also promised credit banks which have never been fulfilled. Six out of the last seven seasons had been bad; he had three sons working for him who never had anything for 11 years, not even pocket money. They thought they were entitled to 10s. a week beside their food: "At last they got so disgusted I gave them three guineas each and they bought a Ford car", he said.

1929 01 31

Mr Geoffrey Pyke of the Malting House School, Cambridge appeared at London Bankruptcy Court. He'd opened the school in October 1924 as a research school for children's education and never had any idea of making money out of it. He had expended £15,000 on it as against fees amounting to some £600. It was amply staffed and records were kept of the sayings and doings of the boys. That formed part of the research work and although the records were of scientific value they would fetch only ten shillings as waste paper. In fact he would not expect to receive a 'bean' for them from anybody who bought the school.

February 1929 CDN

1929 02 01

An aged Haslingfield woman who had lived for 17 years on parish relief in a state of semi-starvation was found dead in her cottage. After the funeral police searched the house and in all sorts of nooks and crannies found gold, silver and notes. But on several occasions the Relieving Office had found her eating a meal of toast, margarine and tea, and had actually sent out for bacon for her. Her family had no idea she was in receipt of relief and regarded her as a person of independent means.

Market day hours, p5

Potatoes, p5

1929 02 01 ES

Important road proposal, connecting link between Prickwillow and Soham; dangerous state of Adelaide road bridge – 29 02 01 ES

1929 02 02

Milton Road pub, p6

Sunday buses, p8

Parker's Piece tea hut, p8

1929 02 04

Mr Walter James Stearn, the Cambridge photographer, has died. He was a son of Thomas Stearn, the founder of the photographic business, and with his brother Harry made it well known in University circles. His success as a sporting photographer meant that he was known to more undergraduates than any other townsman. In his younger days he was a keen sportsman, rowing being his principal interest. He was president of the Rodney Dramatic Club and always sent bouquets to all the lady members of the cast of the plays, but could never be persuaded to appear on the boards

1929 02 05

The latest form of political propaganda, the Conservative's touring 'Talkifilm' is visiting Cambridge. The programme includes a speech by the Prime Minister which gives an uncanny effect of realism and a silent film showing the opening up of Canada. The van will visit Pound Hill, the Premier Hall Chesterton and Occupation Road, winding up at Cherryhinton Road corner

Shepreth school, p5

Stearn appreciation, p6*

1929 02 06

Cinema van, p5

Cambridge in fiction, p6*

1929 02 07

Workhouse visit, p5

1929 02 08

Abbey church porch, p8

1929 02 08 ES

Stretham:

Aaron Gillett of the Council Houses, Cambridge Road. Stretham was the village's oldest inhabitant when he died in his 94th year. His family reaches back five generations. A native of Littleport he married the late Maria Dent and came to reside at Stretham 56 years ago. He entered the employment of the late Mr. Joe Wesley of Reads Street, and later worked for the late Mr. John Wesley of Grove house in the occupation of engine driver. 18 years ago, he had the misfortune to lose an arm while at work, and from that time was unable to continue his employment. He was suddenly taken ill and passed away the same day. 29 02 08ES

1929 02 09

Licensed houses onjections, p5

Fiction, p6*

1929 02 12

Conservative talki-film, p6

1929 02 13

Histon Parish Council is to adopt the Lighting Act and install 16 standard electric lamps fitted with 100-watt bulbs at a cost of £225. There was every possibility of the electric light cable being extended in a year or so when several more lamps would probably be installed. Nine standards will be installed at Impington where the electric cable only runs down the main street. The Electric Light Company would lay more cables when a sufficient number of applications had been received from private consumers but this was unlikely to be for some time to come

Ice grip tightens, p5

1929 02 14

For the first time since 1895 there was skating on the River Cam. A thick sheet of ice powered with white snow, stretched unbroken from Silver Street to the electric light works. It was too inviting to be resisted and several skating parties took advantage of it. Many undergraduates took to the ice in front of King's College and at Quayside a man was seen cycling on the slippery surface. However the ice bore and he neither came off nor went in. At Silver Street it was possible to cross to the mill on the ice but below Jesus Lock, where the dredges is at work, the ice was broken up by the flow and black pools and crevices had appeared in the thin surface.

1929 02 14

A serious fire broke out at Caius College, Cambridge. Two rooms in Tree Court were completely gutted and others badly damaged. Policemen attracted by the blowing of a whistle in Trinity Street got a hydrant in the courtyard to work and the Fire Brigade was quickly on the scene but the inside of the building was almost a furnace. The fire was quickly got under but not before considerable damage had been done, including the falling in of a large part of the ceiling. The firemen experienced bad conditions owing to the intense cold, the water froze on their clothing and icicles were left hanging from the ledges

Woolworth's expand, p4

1929 02 15

Cambridge is becoming increasingly interested in folk songs and folk dances thanks to the local branch of the English Folk Dance Society. Keith Falconer, a Cambridgeshire man who is making a big name for himself in the singing world, is to perform at St Columba's Hall. A sword dance and Morris jigs are included in the programme.

Skating, p5

1929 02 15 ES

Chatteris council's part in solving the housing problem

Chatteris Urban District Council has done their utmost solve the housing problem by the erection of a class of dwellings, the rents of which are suited to all pockets, and claim themselves the pioneers for the provision of houses at economic rents. The Council have handled four schemes and provided 76 homes. Their task was great and the difficulties even greater, but with determination and enterprise they attacked the problems and all their houses are occupied.

The Council fully realise their responsibility for providing further homes, some of the accommodation in several quarters of the town being most undesirable and it is quite obvious that further homes will be erected in the near future.

In June 1919, the Council formulated their first proposals for the erection of 150 houses under the Housing Planning Act. When they advertised for tenders they received only one which was considered to be excessive, and they proceeded to build by direct labour. The scheme was a great success with prices much cheaper than those for houses of a similar type.

Another scheme was forwarded to the Ministry for approval. But at about this time, a good deal of criticism was being levelled by the Government owing to the alleged lavish expenditure on account of the increase in cost of labour and the 'rings' in building supply trades. The Ministry sent an inspector to Chatteris to inquire as to the urgency of 40 houses and to make an inspection of all the dilapidated properties. He reported adversely and in consequence the scheme was withdrawn.

Council are to be congratulated upon their efforts towards the provision of houses. 29 02 15ES

Beales Lee of Witcham celebrated 90th birthday; born Quay Hill, Littleport, one of family of eight; farmed at Oxloode – memories – 29 02 15 ES

With his wireless set immediately behind him and his Bible in his hand, there sat in his favourite chair by a roaring fire, a fine specimen of a jovial and upright fenman. He is Mr. Beales Lee who celebrated his 90th birthday. Covering a remarkably good shaped head was a mass of silver-grey hair and beneath this was a bright animated face the colour of which and its amazing freedom from wrinkles, spoke volumes for the qualities of the fen air.

To the right of where he sits all day long is a window which affords an uninterrupted view of his garden covering a little over an acre. It was up to four years ago that this veteran son of the soil used to do all the work on this piece of land. But a fall made this impossible and now he is compelled to sit in the house and with the aid of newspapers and wireless he keeps in touch with the world outside. Born on the Quay Hill, Littleport, where he spent the first 23 years of his life he is one of a family of eight children and worked for his father as a Boot and Shoe maker until he married. We congratulate him on attaining this grand old age and retaining his faculties to the remarkable degree he has done.
29 02 15ES

1929 02 16

All Cambridge seemed to be skating or carrying skates this morning and there is something like five inches of ice on many parts of the Granta. Eight hardy spirits took the plunge at the Town Bathing Sheds though it took nearly half an hour to break the ice. There have been bathers ever since the front began and many of them have hardly missed a day. The cold was so severe that the comb stuck in the head of one of them who was doing his hair. But the Open Flying Mile Straight Race, fixed to take place at Cowbit Wash, near Spalding, was abandoned after the Skating Association reported that it was not possible to provide a straight mile course to conform with the conditions.

Corner house and Venetian restaurant, p2
Cambridge mummers, p6

1929 02 18

The North East Coast contingent of the unemployed marchers who are making their way to London arrived in Cambridge. Carrying banners, singing old war songs and rattling collecting boxes they entered the town via Huntingdon Road. The local Labour Party and Trades Council having decided not to give them official recognition the 88 marchers proceeded direct to the Poor Law Institution, Mill Road, where the staff had made preparations for them. They were given Irish stew and entertained at their private cinema installation.

1929 02 18

A serious fire in which some valuable implements were destroyed occurred in a large hut at Whitehall Farm, Littleport. The Fire brigade were handicapped as the pipes were frozen and the whole of the structure was completely burnt out, including a 12 hp Alvis motor car, the axle and gear box of a Chevrolet lorry, a cultivator and set of harrows. Prompt action by Ely police & firemen averted a serious fire at the Bell Hotel Ely where a large beam behind a fireplace in one of the upstairs rooms had ignited. It was in a difficult position to get at and there was no alternative but to take the fireplace out.

Skating, p5

1929 02 19

Cambridge councillors debated the proposed exchange of Butts Green for New Square in order that it might be converted into a parking place. If I lived in New Square I should not be at all pleased at the idea of that nice little patch of green giving way to a parking place, but if I had a business establishment in Fitzroy Street I should say "Yes, let the cars park there by all means". There is a danger of New Square being built upon in the near future and residents may consider a car park the least of two evils. Others are concerned about using the amenities of Butts Green, though one questioned whether it was used for anything but beating carpets.

Mills site inquiry, p6

1929 02 20

New Square letter, p5
Skaters beware, p5

1929 02 21

Cambridge Guardians debated purchasing number 137 Gwydir Street for the few children in the Workhouse. Mr Francis said they should not build on that side; there were complaints of the smoke and grime and he could not imagine a much worse place. The right place was at Chesterton where they would at least get the air and the sun. Mr Lofts said they could not afford to expend that amount of money, while they could board children an extension was unnecessary. There was no rule against boarding out children under three but they tried to keep babies with their mothers

George Fordham death, p5*

New Square, p5

Frontage lines, p6

1929 02 22

Skating ends, p5

1929 02 22 ES

Donald Pearson of Mepal wins professional skating championship of England – 29 02 22(4) ES

Great ice carnival; important races include Mepal, Swavesey, March and wins for C.W. Horn of Upwell – 29 02 22 ES

Lovers of the ancient Fenland sport, skating have had a unique opportunity of indulging their bent since early last week. The severe frost, which has continued day after day, has kept the water on the washes and in rivers thickly covered with ice. And it is many years such excellent facilities were available for skaters over so long a period as during the past fortnight.

The Skaters Associations have been able to make their plans and carry them out without the setback so often experienced in other winters. Many important races have been run off and the Isle of Ely men have gained for themselves chief honours in the leading events.

With several miles of ice at their disposal the Mepal, Witcham, Sutton, Prickwillow and Chatteris Skating Association organised a professional skating match just off the Ely to Chatteris road. There was a large crowd of enthusiastic supporters. The snow did not spoil the ice or interfere with arrangements made, for a splendid course of one and a half miles with three turns was made marked out and swept clear. Several of the competitors had the previous day completed in the professional championships or Great Britain at Lingay Fen.

A crowd of 3,000 saw C.W. Horn achieve victory at Mere Fen, Swavesey. Amongst the entrance for the Cameron Cup was the 53 year old holder, A.E. Tebbit, who won the trophy in 1865 and 1897. The cup had not been competed for for 32 years. Despite his age Tebbit moved well, but could not gain any success against the young competitors.

Although the conditions of the ice made it hard going some excellent skating and fast racing was experienced on the Washes at Sutton Gault. Open to Sutton only the races were decided on the knockout principle. The course, altered from the original layout at the last moment owing to unfavourable conditions, was of uncertain measurement. 29 02 22ES

1929 02 23

C.W. Horn did not, as he had hoped, beat the professional time for the three-miles' circular skating course at Lingay Fen. The ice, though hard underneath, was distinctly soft on top and it gave the officials some anxiety owing to the large number of people who insisted on clustering round the finish. The crowd numbered several hundred. The closest heat was between G.E. Martin and F. Bebas from Spalding, there being only two-and-a-half seconds between them

Telephones at stations, p5

Swaffham Prior school, p7

New Square, p8

Sir – I admire the paintings of Edward Vulliamy and hope there may be an exhibition of his work. I have two examples of his genius. One, dated 1929-31, is a superb watercolour of a drainage windmill that stood near Wicken Fen, the other is a pencil sketch of the windmill on Madingley Hill. They hang alongside other fenland etchings – R.W. Macbeth's 'Fen Flood', 'Potato Harvest in the Fens' and Robert Farren's 'Holywell' and 'Sunrise on Wicken Lode'. I hope I shall find somewhere that Cambridge people may enjoy them as I have done – William Farren, Milton Road, Cambridge. 29 02 23f & 24

1929 02 25

A disastrous fire occurred the Hall, Little Shelford in the early hours of Sunday morning with the result that the building was almost completely gutted. It was discovered by Mme Carne, the governess who with the butler and the maid were immediately above the fire. Captain and Mrs Gordon Dill removed their children to safety in the Lodge. While waiting for the fire brigade, which was delayed owing to the terribly thick fog, the occupants attempted to subdue the outbreak, then confined to the pantry, with buckets of water. But the heat melted a lead pipe and the cistern emptied so water had to be fetched from a cottage about 30 yards away. The building is 71 years old being erected in the grounds of the old Hall which was pulled down in 1858.

1929 02 26

Pyke, Malting House School, p5

George Fordham funeral, p8

1929 02 27

An Ely watchmaker told the Bankruptcy Court that he had started in an upstairs room in the High Street in 1926, moved to a shop in Broad Street and then Fore Hill. He obtained the post of tenor lay clerk at Ely Cathedral at £110 a year and for twelve months collected the water rate, being paid £1 a week for it. He played in a band occasionally and got five shillings an evening but denied his problems had been caused by drinking and loose living.

1929 02 27

Cambridge Photographic Club's exhibition contains a number of local views. Mr Bellamy has eight nice photographs, the best of which is 'Farm near Barton'. Mr Watson's 'Suffolk Road' is a fine rich picture, as is also his 'Pampisford'. In the novice's section Miss Dorothy Bellamy has a well-arranged print 'Street in Chesterford' and Mr Boutflower shows a charming 'Over Ferry'

Skating, p7

March 1929 CDN

1929 03 01

Public houses – Star, p5

1929 03 01 ES

Ely lady skating behind motor-cycle combination – 29 03 01(3) ES

When the ice was inches thick on the river at Ely last week, the spirit of adventure caught an Ely motorist who is seen with his combination on the ice near the High Bridge. Equipped with her skates, his wife is enjoying the novelty of a tow over the surface. 29 03 01ES

1929 03 02

Sir: Quite a number of people took advantage of the frozen river last weekend to skate to Ely and among them were three Newnham girls. It is 34 years since last such a journey was possible. It was February 1895 that I and two friends undertook the journey. On arrival it was suggested we continue to Denver Sluice but after two miles the ice was very bad, so we returned. I wonder how many have ever succeeded in it, a distance of 72 miles there and back. I am fond of skating and have been to Ely five times – 'Septuagenarian'

1929 03 02

Cambridge Justices approved a hotel of a 'superior improved modern type' on land adjoining no.203 Milton Road. It would meet the needs of people as a social club and be a house for travellers as well, with a dining and tea room. The luncheon room should be open all day and the manager be a man of catering experience who should be encouraged to sell non-alcoholic refreshments and food. Opposition was forthcoming from the Master of Magdalene College who have a sports ground nearby and from various temperance, religious and welfare bodies.

1929 03 02

Caxton Guardians heard that an elderly brother and sister from Great Eversden had been admitted to the Workhouse because they could not get anyone to look after them. Their house had been searched and £34 10s. in notes, £7 in gold and £42.13.6 in silver, making a total of £84.3.6. was discovered. It is understood the woman also has £199 in the Post Office Savings Bank

Parking place, p8

1929 03 04

Reed Farm, a large house on the Babraham Hall Estate was completely destroyed by fire; all that remains are the walls and dislodged masonry which is strewn about the cellars and the ground floor so that the scene resembles the result of an earthquake rather than a fire. The house was occupied by Captain and Mrs Fraser with a staff of two maids. He had time to get into a suit of clothes and some gumboots but his wife and the maids were not so fortunate. She had time to dress downstairs sometime later but the maids had to dress in the garden

1929 03 05

Fire alarm system, p3

E. Jenkins, Borough Education Secretary death, p8

1929 03 07

Cambridge farmers heard that a telephone has now been installed at Bartlow railway station; they could not understand why they were not installed generally all over the country. Most farmers were on the telephone today and the railway company were losing a lot of business by not having telephones at all stations. Many farmers sent pigs to factories by road because they could not get in touch with the railway to order a truck

1929 03 07

A Linton butcher was fined for exposing for sale imported meat, each piece of which was not labelled with the word 'Imported' and the words disclosing the country of origin. An Inspector of Weights and Measures said he visited the shop and saw a considerable number of pieces of meat, some of which he suspected were imported. There was no label on any meat in the shop. The butcher produced a label marked 'Imported' from a drawer and said he had not put it on since the war. He did not attempt to deceive customers since the pieces of imported meat were not mixed up with English meat

1929 03 07

The Cambridge MP was told that the Post Office have been working on a combined handset for telephone purposes. The old handsets where the mouthpiece and the earpiece were combined – you picked it up and put it to your ears and you could hear and speak and were employing only one hand – was useless under modern telephonic conditions. Although still in use they are being replaced because you cannot get the same quality of speech as you can with the ordinary pedestal telephones. The American Telephone and Telegraph Company have provided the very latest type of apparatus and this has been improved on.

Wicken Road unemployed, p5*

1929 03 08

Meldreth fire, p8

1929 03 09

Sir – I have watched the progress of H.M.S. Dredger at present operating off the footbridge, Chesterton Road, Cambridge. Some months ago they dredged one half of the lower river in the vicinity of Jesus Locks and deposited the sludge on the Chesterton side in the river; later they dredged the river above the locks and deposited the sludge in the actual place previously dredged - ‘One of the financing party’

1929 03 09

The dislike of railings in Cambridge seems to be growing. Some time ago the heavy railings in front of King’s were taken down and now the University Press railings have been removed. This will make more room for pedestrians and traffic coming round the Silver Street corner. One wonders what is to become of them. Are they to be scrapped as ‘old iron’ or are there other people who would be glad to secure what we are anxious to discard.

1929 03 12

Newmarket councillors having considered the position of the temporary island refuge near the Clock Tower agreed it should be permanently fixed and be lighted by a double lantern to be left alight all night. Only two of the four corner lamps should be lighted in future. They also agreed to let the supper room at the Memorial Hall to the County Council for two hours each Friday to be used for issuing books from the county library

1929 03 13

The University Proctors have considered regulations for students who desire to use aircraft during term time. Undergraduates flying their own or civilian aircraft may lead to annoyance from low flying and accidents. A Light Aeroplane Club has already been formed which gives facilities for flying within a few miles of the University. Now no student may fly as pilot or passenger during term time without written permission from his parents and tutor. Those offending will be liable to be punished by suspension, rustication, expulsion or otherwise.

1929 03 13

Newmarket police court heard that the head lad to Mr Boyd-Rochfort was in charge of a string of 21 horses that wanted to cross the road. As they were crossing he heard a car coming from Mildenhall. He put up his hand and shouted but the driver kept on coming and did not slow down. He took his car off the road and went through the string of horses which became alarmed. The driver said he thought there were two strings of horses, had seen a gap and accelerated to get out of the way as quickly as he could. He was a careful driver and assisted the police on every possible occasion. But it was a serious thing to cut through a string of racehorses and he was fined £3.

1929 03 14

Bennett Ward, farm labourer of Toft said he went to fetch three cows from the field to be milked. He looked up and down the road, opened the gate and two crossed. The third was in the middle of the road when a motor car came along and hit her on the hindquarters, knocking her into the ditch. She weighed about half a ton and was full of milk. The two front lamps and the radiator of the car were damaged and there was a very deep skid mark which tore the road up. The farmer claimed £26 for depreciation of value to the cow, the driver counter-claimed £18 for damage to his car.

Teashop case, p7

1929 03 15 c

A Cambridge undergraduate was fined for an assault on a taxicab driver who attempted to push him off the running-board of a stationary cab. It took place after a bump supper when he was in a very excited condition. Robert Osborne said he went to the ADC Theatre and left his cab on the rank on Jesus Lane. The undergrad and others came along the road and turned the starting handle of the taxis.

He jumped on his running-board and would not get off, so he pushed him off. The lad then hit him several times.

1929 03 15

A case of considerable interest to people buying or selling goods on the hire-purchase system was heard at Cambridge court. Messrs Miller & Son sued the former musical director of the Tivoli Cinema, Chesterton Road over an H.M.V. gramophone and records. The agreement said that the machine was to be kept at a house in Chesterton Road but he had moved it to the nearby Spring Hotel without being granted permission. When he moved to the West Kensington Super-Cinema, London, the firm had seized the machine.

Fen Causeway bypass, p6

1929 03 15 ES

Soham new parish hall foundation stone laid – photo – 29 03 15 ES

1929 03 16

A member of the Cambridge Watch Committee was seen chalking the number on the front of his motor car in Market Street. His front number plate had recently been repainted and, forgetting it was not in its usual place, he went for a 40-mile trip. Next day he was stopped by an observant policeman who was adamant that he could not go on. "What shall I do", asked the motorist. "Go into Heffer's and get a pennyworth of chalk" said the policeman, which suggestion was at once acted upon.

1929 03 16

There was no man who stood higher in the esteem of his fellows than John Chivers and the news of his death was received with widespread regret. The Free Churches had in him a good friend and, always a stalwart Liberal, he rendered yeoman service to the party. As the name of Cadbury is to Bournville so that of Chivers is to Histon. He developed the business that his father built up with the active and personal support of his three sons and today the fame of the 'Orchard Factory' has spread far and wide.

1929 03 16

Whilst shaving the other morning I caught sight for the first time of one of the brand new motor dust waggons and called other members of the household to see it. "Freighters" is the correct word for them and they have the reputation for being dustless loaders and more hygienic generally. There are four openings each side with sliding covers so that everything is closed in & when the men are on the way back to the destructor with their load there is none of that unsightly mass of paper and rubbish above the loading line with which we have been familiar in years gone by. Altogether a great improvement.

1929 03 16

The new edict with regard to flying by undergraduates is well timed. Conington aerodrome is used by the Aeroplane Club and now comes news of a private aerodrome for Cambridge. Marshalls, automobile engineers of Jesus Lane are opening it shortly. It is on the main Newmarket Road less than two miles from Cambridge. There is a railway station 200 yards away and a 20-minute bus service connection. One hangar has already been erected and the whole site is about to be put down to grass. Marshalls are agents for the de Havilland Aircraft Company and already have their own demonstration machine ready at the aerodrome.

1929 03 19

Exning stable fire, p5

Gt St Mary morning bell, p7

Dorothy plans, p8

1929 03 20

Chivers funeral, p8

1929 03 22

Cambridge council is to introduce automatic traffic signals at the crossroads at Northampton Street and Chesterton Lane for a three-month trial. The present cost of a policeman on point duty was about £400 a year and the signals, with purchase, would be about £200 with about £25 a year maintenance and repairs. But Coun Stubbs described it as “robot policemen”; a friend in Liverpool had had to wait ten minutes with a clear road before he could get a move on. He did not see how traffic could be controlled as well as by human means: “I can see myself telling it to mind its own business” (Laughter). It was at the wrong place, being at the bottom of a steep hill; it would be better at the East Road – Mill Road crossing.

1929 03 22

Percival Rodrigo, a canvasser ... obtaining photograph ... from Gertrude Thompson ... said he was setting up a branch in Fitzroy Street and canvassing photos for advertisements – would enlarge it .. represented the Westminster Studios. Albert Chandler, photographer printed leaflets warning about canvassers - CDN 22.3.29

Advertising Royston, p5

Scotland Road dumping ground, p8

1929 03 22 ES

Stretham:

Football

Hospital Parade Committee

Labour Concert meeting

Wesleyan Guild concert

Accident Ronald Abbs, 4, of Cambridge Road council houses – running behind tumbril cart driven by H. Searle and struck by lorry

Search for van driver – serious accident near Ferry Bridge, two cyclists injured; van driver drove away

A serious accident occurred on the Cambridge Road near the Stretham Ferry Bridge yesterday. Two young cyclists were riding in the direction of Stretton when a motor car approached them from the Ely direction forward by motor van. As the cyclists were about to pass the motor car, the driver of the van past the car also, with the result that both the cyclists were thrown to the roadside. Both cycles were smashed, one rider received head injuries and less lacerated wounds to the back of his hand and knee. The driver pulled up 100 yards from the scene, walked back and having viewed the damage returned to his van and started to drive away. The other lad rushed up to the vehicle and succeeded in springing onto the footboard in an effort to stop the van. But the driver knocked him off and sped away. He succeeded in taking the number of the van which was communicated to PC Roythorne and the police are endeavouring to trace the driver. 29 03 22 ES

Death Mrs Sarah Lythell, widow Walter – 29 03 22 ES

1929 03 23

Centenary boat race, p5

Electricity cable, p7

Shire Hall model, p8

1929 03 26

An inquiry was held into proposals by the Ouse Drainage Board to carry out work at Welmore Lake Sluice. The Ministry had agreed to fund one half of the cost of £30,000 but local ratepayers objected saying it was unfair to expect them to pay so large a sum when the work would benefit many others. The sluice had been constructed about 1825 and benefited the Middle Level as it prevented the tide coming up against their barrier banks. Methwold and Feltwell Drainage Board protested against payment for a sluice which would confer not one penny benefit on them. They were being asked to 'hold the baby' and it was rather too lusty an infant for them to hold. If the cost were spread more fairly it would only amount to an 8d rate and no one would feel the pinch.

1929 03 27

Some interesting observations on windmills were made by Mr H.C. Hughes to the Cambridge Photographic Club. His talk was illustrated by large number of slides. The oldest drawing of a mill in existence was in Longstanton church, cut in the clunch of the porch. Doubtless as the miller was always a bad man his boy took after him and having been turned out of church had spent the time drawing his father's mill on the church. He spoke of the mill at Haverhill with its rotary vanes, the six-sailed mill at Wisbech and the mills at Stretham and Fulbourn, both of which were still working. The latter should be preserved if any should, so beautiful was it on the long rolling slopes behind the Roman road.

Conington air display, p7

1928 03 28

Melbourn harness firm, p8

1929 03 29 ES

Ely's new housing scheme – perspective view of houses on New Barnes Road site – 29 03 29 (2) ES

Hillrow serious fire Mr Newman's farm;

A serious fire causing damage estimated at many pounds occurred at Mr. Newman's farm Hillrow. A long shed divided into sections was seen to be alight at 2:10 but it was 40 minutes later before the Ely Fire Brigade was called, it taking some considerable time for a cyclist to cover the distance between Hillrow and Haddenham to put the telephone call through. The brigade was quickly away in spite of the fact that the lorry which draws the engine had to be summoned from Prickwillow. When they reached the scene of the conflagration, however, all that remained of the shed were the charred posts. the other parts having been burned to the ground. They concentrated their attention on adjoining buildings including the small bungalow in which Mr. Newman lives. The water that was available was a considerable distance away and 30 lengths of hose had to be used before an efficient supply could be obtained. In spite of that effort, so brigade was unable to save a motorcar, and two motorcycles from complete destruction. One a quantity of chaff and two small straw stacks were also burnt, Mr. Newman's horses and cattle being rendered homeless and foodless. 29 03 29 ES

1929 03 30

Coun Rowley spoke of the serious pollution of Histon Brook. There was a stream of black sewage matter six inches deep. From this pollution he had lost two horses and another which was about to die and he had been put to very heavy expenditure for water. If water was taken from a pump at Cottenham fed by the brook it ate through the tubes in one hour. They should apply for an injunction against Messrs Chivers resulting in the stopping of the factory. But there were a large number of cottages, a large laundry and a butcher all discharging water into the brook crude, and not filtered as at Chivers. The pollution came from up the brook at Girton as well as lower down

1929 03 30

Twenty years ago there were four weekly newspapers published in Cambridge in addition to the C.D.N. Then the Cambridgeshire Weekly News acquired the Cambridge Express and the joint production enlarged from eight to twelve pages. Much has happened since, including the incorporation of the Cambridge Independent Press and the introduction of a picture page. There has been a marked increase in paragraphs of village news; in 1909 three columns were needed, now they claim the whole of the last page of the paper and frequently overflow on to another. Members of the Women's Institutes may be interested to learn that last year we published about 600 reports of their meetings.

April 1929 CDN

1929 04 01

Four cottages, barn and outhouses gutted at Willingham; big blaze at Teversham; week-end blazes at Lt Shelford and Kneesworth

1929 04 02

Conington air display, p6

1929 04 03

Advertising Cambridge – Chamber of Commerce – pictorial posters issued, illustrated guides; more conferences wanted

1929 04 04

‘Talkies for Cambridge’ film in October – Central Cinema manager; new super-cinema on Market Hill next year, p5

Guardians decide against boarding out children , p6

Electricity Supply Company, p6

1929 04 05

Visit of famous eyesight specialist from America, p7

Old photos, p8

1929 04 06

‘Motor buses’, p7

1929 04 08

Southery school present Mikado, p7

1929 04 09

Newmarket gas works, p4

1929 04 10

The Sporting News new paper for Cambridge, p3

Death of ‘Dad’ Pointer, Waterbeach Salvation Army, p7

Trumpington car advert, p8

1929 04 13

Shire Hall courts debate, p8*

CDN motor fleet photo, p8

Rates, p8

1929 04 15

Waterbeach Salvation Army, p7

Burnt to death, Newmarket Road, p8

1929 04 16

Inquest, p5

Printing Cambridge Sporting News, photo, p8

1929 04 17

Isle school medical officer – children aged 5 admitted, p7

1929 04 18

Car plunges down bank at Six Mile Bottom, passengers through roof, p5

1929 04 19

Cleaners claim against Festival Theatre for altering curtains, p7*

1929 04 20

Visiting R101 at Cardington, p8*

Rural electrification, p6

Public executions, p8

1929 04 22

Cambridge undergraduate eloped with heiress, p5 (married 23rd p4)

Policeman assaulted trying to arrest drunk, East Road, p5*

Fen Drayton's tithes, p6*

1929 04 24

Brampton church stalls – University museum asked to return them, p6

1929 04 25

Prince Olaf of Norway visits Cambridge, p8*

Isleham suicide, p8

1929 04 25 c

Man changed mind over purchase land Cherry Hinton – CDN 25.4.29

1929 04 26

Gretna Green rag, p6

1929 04 26 ES

Adelaide bungalow fire – 29 04 26(2) ES

Ely Urban District Council meeting no longer open to public

Ely Urban District Council decided that the public would not in future be admitted to its monthly meetings because the paucity of the attendance has shown there was no desire to be present when the business was being transacted. They also voted not to hold meetings in the evening when a number of ratepayers would attend.

Mr. Vail oppose the motion because he thought the meeting should be open to the public. It was true they had not availed themselves of the opportunities given them. But there was a feeling that the meeting should remain open. Many people have told him they would like to be present if the meeting were held at a reasonable hour. Nothing objectionable was said or done by people at Council meetings and by closing the meetings, the Council would not close down any correspondence which people like to submit to local newspapers.

Everyone on the Council was quite prepared and invited proper criticism concerning their action. They were public men and were spending public money and we're prepared to receive proper criticism
29 04 26

1929 04 27

Cambridge to have a modern caravanserie matched the modern splendours of Oxford St & Regent street where a thousand people may dine without strain on the service & dance too if they are so minded, a place of dignity & comfort & of surpassing resource. The old Dorothy cafe is to disappear - not so very old though as a modern restaurant - & a building of 3 storeys spanning space between Sidney St & Hobson street. Ground floor entrance Sidney St is shop & showroom & on eastern side a dining hall or restaurant. Principal staircase to first floor will be from hall at Hobson street entrance & access to a dance hall with black hornbeam floor on springs. This accommodation for 320 diners at a public banquet but specially prepared for dancing for 450 at once. At western end another dining hall. Another on second floor, seat 80, suitable private dinner of clubs & organisations. perhaps this will be the oak room which intention of Hawkins to decorate; also roof garden looking across to gardens of Christ's College. Nags Head inn will not disappear but be given place in the basement. Will take 18 months but Hobson St side will be completed before start made with Sidney St front to ensure restaurant open throughout

Duxford aircraft crash, p7

Dancing bear, p8

Old Corporation documents, p9

First page of pictures, p10

1929 04 29

National Skating Association jubilee, p8*

Ernest Hopkins suicide, Stretham, p5*

1929 04 30

Millington Road, p8*

Cambridgeshire Co-operative creamery liquidation, p8

May 1929 CDN

1929 05 02

Balsham water scheme, p3

Fen farmers' bankruptcy

Burrough Green farmer, p3*

Cambridgeshire photographic records, p6

1929 05 03 ES

Haddenham Mill End ratepayers request sewer; with regard to extension of water scheme – at Thetford have been considering scheme to get water from the river but Ministry would not sanction scheme. Was time something was done. Mr Kisby said he was frequently coming through Stretham where he saw boys, girls and women going about with pails carrying water from the pump. It was cruel to the women, the children and the housewife. At Wilburton every man had voted against the scheme – 29 05 03(2) ES

Great scheme for the Middle Level: new sluice besides pumps at St Germans – 28 05 03(3) ES

Don Pearson of Mepal presented with speed skating cup won at Lingay Fen – 29 05 03 ES

Ely R.D.C.: Thetford's need of water 29 05 03 ES

With regard to the extension of the water scheme to the parishes of Haddenham, Wilburton. Stretham and Thetford the Council considered what steps should be taken. Mr. Kisby asked them to get on with the matter and let the parishes have some water. At Thetford they had been considering a scheme to get water from the river and had had an estimate sent them but the Ministry would not sanction the water they would get from that source. They must have water different to that they now. The Chairman remarked something must be done. He was frequently coming through Stretham where he saw boys girls and women going out with pails carrying water from the pump. It was cruel to the women the children and the housewife. Wilburton had meetings but up to now every man had voted against the water. If they could show a way of getting water cheaper, the parishioners of Wilburton might have a different opinion. 29 05 03ES

1929 05 04

Gray Elegy, p8

University MPs, p8

1929 05 06

Burrell's Walk, p3

1929 05 07

Guildhall flagpole blown down, p7

Burrell's Walk eviction, p7

Reach Fair, p7*

1929 05 08

Potato peeling machine for schools, p7*

1929 05 09

Coad comes to Cambridge, p7*

Fordham man buried in best suit – American custom, p8

Wood Ditton room, p7*

1929 05 10

Abbey Church new porch dedicated, p8

1929 05 10 ES

Stretham:

Football lose final

Easter at Parish church

Church council

Church whist drive

R. Parish resigns after 17 years as clerk to Charity Trustees – 29 05 10(2) ES

Stretham:

Cricket

Anniversary Baptist

W.I. – Lieut Stitt talks on Trip to Mecca attired in native dress – 29 05 10 ES

The trustees of Lt Downham Baptist Chapel have for some time had under consideration the question of purchasing the property adjoining the chapel at the corner of Meeting Lane for the purpose of building a Sunday School room. Without a room for an increasing Sunday School, and no available accommodation for meeting and social events, other than by hiring, inconvenience for years has been experienced and the progress in the work of the Chapel hindered in consequence. 40 years ago there were only six Sunday School scholars today there are approximately 70 on the books. At a meeting of Trustees it was announced that the whole of the property comprising a small occupied cottage and two other buildings had been purchased from Mr. Allen Jones of Waterbeach. A lady residing in London had offered to advance the whole of the purchase money of £150. The offer was immediately accepted 29 05 10ES

1929 05 11

Ashley runaway wedding, p5

Shop blinds drawn, p8

Shelford Road treat, p8

1929 05 13

Cycle paths proposed, p7*

Ouse Bailiffs, p3

1929 05 15

Alan Cobham's flying circus, Varsity flying rules, p5

Corporation Archives, p6*

'Talkies' & education & debate, p8

1929 05 16

Comberton college collapse, p8

1929 05 17 ES

Isle County Council accept tenders reconstruction Bell's Bridge near Littleport and Middle Fen Bridge, Ely; accept offer Burnt Fen Committee to contributed reconstruction Mile End Bridge – 29 05 17 ES

Supt H. Roythorpe retires Ely Police – details – 29 05 17 ES

Police Superintendent H. Roythorne, the Deputy Chief Constable for the Isle has served over 51 years. He joined the Constabulary at March in 1878 and spent time at Thorney, Welney and Guyhirn coming to Ely in 1892, rising to the rank of Deputy Chief Constable, a post he has held for 20 years. During the last two years of the war he took on the post of Chief Constable. In that time, the strength of the force has considerably increase and the demand made upon a police officer have become much more exacting. There is nothing approaching the amount of drunkenness which has now reduced to an almost negligible quantity. Cases of drunkenness are very infrequent which he attributes to the restricted closing hours and the additional facilities that exist for allowing people to move about. 29 05 17ES

Isle of Ely police off duty – named group photo – 29 05 17(2) ES

Soham Parish Council discussed the clearance of the unsightly ruins at the Tanners Lane corner. It was a long time since the premises were destroyed by fire and something should be done to clear away the unsightly ruins. Being at the junction of two roads and by the side of the main road, it gave a very bad impression to passers-by. Had it not been for the Fire Brigade, the owner would have had all the row of houses bought to the ground. He should be asked to either have the corner cleared up or give permission for someone else to do so. 29 05 17ES

Stretham:

Ascension Day

Fire destroyed bags of chaff near Quarter-Way House, ashes dropped from steam waggon.

Cricket match men v women on Feast Tuesday

Mothers' Union trip to London

Cricket – severely beaten

Wesleyan Guild concert – 29 05 17(3) ES

1929 05 18

Football referee attacked, p3

Flying pageant on Sunday opposed, p7*

Wilbraham fire, p5

Inaccurate map, p8

1929 05 22

First car in Cambridge, p5*

1929 05 24

Varsity flying, p3

1929 05 24 ES

Haddenham – serious fire

A disastrous fire occurred at Haddenham when the engineering and machinery shop belonging to Messrs. F. Peacock and sons, the well-known engineers and machinists, which stands just off the Wilburton Road was burned almost completely to the ground. The alarm was raised and assisted by a host of helpers. Mr. Peacock was successful in removing from the shop three valuable threshing drums and a quantity of other machinery, but they could not save an almost completely new chaff-cutter, which with a small car was destroyed.

Having rescued all they possibly could from the burning buildings the helpers obtained water from a nearby pump, and from one or two threshing engines which had previously been filled with water and stood in the yard and managed to get the buildings more or less under control. The Ely Fire Brigade found there was no good supply of water nearer than a pond owned by Mr. F. Ward which was placed at their disposal. About half the shop had been recently reconstructed and this was the part that was destroyed. The other half was badly charred. The cause of the fire is not known. 29 05 24ES

Owing to the fact that no guideposts exists at the junction of the new Hundred Foot Bank and Pymoor Sidings road many motorists taking this route from Ely to Wisbech for the first time have found themselves stranded at the termination of Pymoor road in the heart of the fen some distance beyond the railway siding. The Pymoor road being straight for two miles with the new road turning sharply to the left about midway, the latter is easily missed. 29 05 24ES

1929 05 25

Storm, p5

Runaway marriage, p5

Players cigarettes, p6

Gilbert & Sullivan, p8

1929 05 28

Election results, p7

1929 05 29

Work for Cambridgeshire men, p8

Festival Theatre changes hands, p8*

1929 05 30

Election candidates' tours, p5*

1929 05 31

Haddenham motor cycle sports & gala, p3

George Fordham will, p5

1929 05 31 ES

Ouse Drainage Board – reconstruction Welmore Lake Sluice – 29 05 31 & (2)(3) ES

Ely U.D.C. Surveyor's annual report – 29 05 31 ES

The Ely Surveyor reported that the sewage tank had been emptied in April and November. The previous year's sludge was carted in accordance with previous practice into Scott's orchard, the sludge from the tank being discharged into the lagoon to dry. The ground is now practically full and it will be necessary to make arrangements for the land acquired by the council to be bought in to use. The re-laying of the portion of the old sewer in West Fen Road was completed along the centre of the roadway thus discontinuing the use of the old main running the back of Waterloo Place and allowing this to serve these cottages only. Since the installation there had not been a single stoppage which were usually caused by accumulation of paper, insufficient fall, pipes of insufficient diameter and acute bends in the main sewers. The length of open pipe along the lower portion of West Fen Road was also piped in, but more effective steps will be required to prevent the occurrence of nuisance which will no doubt arise to sewage effluent entering the catchwater. The number of dwellings was increasing on the West End and Fieldside Roads, thus aggravating an already serious position. He also drew attention to the means of disposal the sewerage which was very unsatisfactory and was in such a state to merit serious consideration. On scavenging, the refuse from the upper part of the town was carted and tipped in Mill Pits where it was levelled and partly burned and the refuse from the lower portion of the town was still being carted into Scott's orchard. In both places, all offensive matter was buried and levelled by the Council's men. In connection with road scavenging, two men were permanently employed on this work. 29 05 31ES

June 1929 CDN

1929 06 01

Chettisham's water, p3*

Prickwillow bridge, p3*

Cambridge Undergraduate film comedy – Aunt Matilda's Nephew, p6*

CDN issue a 'Sporting News' morning edition, p6*

1929 06 03

Ely dispensary report, p3*

Burrells Walk, p8

1929 06 04

Why the Cambs MP was late – Capt Biscoe helps get horse out of ditch, p3*

1929 06 05

Cambridge Rifle club formed, p5*

1929 06 07 ES

Theft from Ely Convenience. Fittings and toilet rolls have been missed from the public conveniences in Ely, as many as nine toilet rolls had been missed in a week. On Friday the suspicions of the attendant were aroused by a man leaving with "a rather bulging pocket". The matter was reported to the police. This sort of thing had been going on for a considerable time and proceedings should be taken against the person concerned. If they acted now it would 'nip in the bud' this sort of thing and let people know that the property of the Council could not be interfered with in this way. – 29 06 07(2) ES

A Stretham tragedy. Youth found shot dead in garden. The lifeless body of Frederick George Garner, 19, of Main Street, was found with a double-barrel gun lying by his side. The discovery was made by his mother, whose husband and daughter had gone to Epsom to witness the Derby run-off.

The fatality is shrouded in mystery. When she went to bed she left her son listening to a wireless programme; he was in his usual cheery state of mind and in good health.

Next morning she noticed the gun case in the room but thought her son had taken the gun to scare cats which often made efforts to enter the butcher's shop conducted by the deceased and his elder brother. She went into the garden and found him.

No one seems to have heard a shot fired but the gun had one spent cartridge.

P.c. Roythorne removed the body to a shed at the rear of the house and took charge of the gun.

The young man had come to reside at Stretham five years ago and had won the affection of a wide circle of friends. He devoted much of his time to cycle racing.

Widespread sympathy is extended to the parents in the tragically sudden bereavement they have suffered. – 29 06 07(3) ES Inquest – 29 06 14 & (2) ES

Mr. B. Haddock of Sutton wrote complaining of bad smells caused around his house by the whey, from Messrs. Powell Brothers' cheese factory, which ran into the dike near his house and contaminated the water. The factory had no proper drainage system, and he was of the opinion that the nuisance was a danger to the health of his children. Four others also wrote concerns claiming of the nuisance, and one of them described the smell as 'enough to poison the devil'. Ely Sanitary Inspector investigated and found there was a cause for complaint 29 06 07ES

Middle Level new St German's sluice and pumping station agreed; described – 29 06 07 ES
The scheme for the construction of a new sluice for the discharge of Middle Level water at St Germans was explained to commissioners. It will be recalled that the original sluice built about 1860 failed due to the treacherous nature of the ground on which it was built in. The late Sir John Hawkshaw, after trying syphons, designed a new sluice, on a diversion of the outfall channel, which was completed in 1878. This is the existing sluice situated a quarter of a mile back from the River Ouse. The sluice has three eyes each 17 feet wide, but owing to the sharp bends in the channel, it very quickly silts up. The site of the proposed new sluice and pumping station is in the original outfall channel or nearer the Ouse than the existing Hawkshaw sluice. A novel feature of the scheme is that the pumping plant will be placed in the abutments of the sluice, thus forming a compact unit. There will be two sluices or eyes and the sluicing width will be 50% more than that the Hawkshaw sluice. They will be electrically operated and the necessary current will be generated in the pumping station. The pumping plant will consist of crude oil engines coupled to centrifugal pumps. The work will take about three years to complete. 29 06 07ES

Ely massage clinic to be extended to villages
Encouraging reports of the splendid work of the Ely Massage Clinic where presented. The valued and skilful work performed by the masseuse, Miss Bolton, was a continuation of the Addenbrooke's Hospital treatment. During 1928 42 patients were treated and 1,127 treatments given. Massage was most beneficial to children in cases of infantile paralysis and spinal curvature. Many children would have been crippled for life if they had not received massage treatment in good time. Addenbrooke's Hospital appreciated the help given to their patients by the Red Cross Massage Clinic as they were able to discharge patients sooner if they knew they could receive massage treatment at home, thus leaving the hospital beds free for other patients. 29 06 07ES

Stretham Hospital draw and winding-up concert – 29 06 07(4) ES
Considerable interest was taken in the concert arranged by a Stretham Hospital Parade Committee given by the Brevity Concert Party from Ely. A seed guessing competition arranged by Mr. C. Hale was won by himself. At the conclusion of the concert prizes in connection with the annual hospital prize draw were drawn for. They included a coomb of wheat, a case of scissors, a gentleman's brush and comb in a case, 500 cwt of coal, bottles of port, cigarettes and a jam jar and spoon. 29 06 07

Stretham:

Cricket

Death Frederick Murfitt, highly respected; employed as labourer by late John Dimock; also Sunday School teacher at Mission Hall.

Hospital contribution boxes – 29 06 07(5) ES

1929 06 08

Stretham suicide Fred Garner, p5*

Motorist's 35th conviction, p5

Corn harvest wages, p6*

CIP start family page, p8

1929 06 10

Corn harvest wages – CDN 10.6.29

1929 06 10

Cambridge air pageant opening Marshalls, p8*

1929 06 11

Conington air thrills, p8*

Sunday air pageant, p8*

Hawkings bakery fire, Parsonage Street, p8

1929 06 12

Drinking fountain on Christs Pieces, p8*

Conington air display, p6*

Sunday air pageant, p8*

1929 06 13

Haddenham theft of motor caravan, p5

1929 06 14

Punt accident, p5

Brooklands Avenue bowls, p7

St John's church nave extension consecrated, p8*

1929 06 15

A motor may week, p8

Cambridge names – comparisons and contrasts, p8*

Adelaide bridge, p3

Carlton brewer, p7

1929 06 17

Town council sensation – price of land, Milton Road, p6

1929 06 18

Litter baskets, p8*

Burrells Walk evictions, p8*

1929 06 19

Cambridge Post office talk, p8*

1929 06 20

Conington aero club, p3

Linton housing, p3

1929 06 21

Ring road, p3

1929 06 21 ES

Stretham church spire fund – residents work to raise funds; annual garden fete – 29 06 21 ES

King's School former headmaster, Rev Richard Winkfield, dies at Dry Drayton – 29 06 21 ES

1929 06 22

Linton cottage hospital, p3*

Stretham garden fete, p3

Telegrams, p5

Sultan of Zanzibar to visit, p8

1929 06 24

Tree planting at West Wrating, p6*

1929 06 25

Visit of Sultan of Zanzibar, p5*

Haddenham Alsop shooting, p8

1929 06 26

James Merry, lifesaver, Ely river man, p3*

1929 06 28

Talkies to start in Cambridge August – Central Cinema, p8*

Wisbech canning factory, p3

Histon pollution, p8

St Neots big blaze

1929 06 28 ES

Haddenham tragedy –

The quiet village of Haddenham was plunged into the throes of a distressing tragedy when it became known that a little boy of six had accidentally shot his 13-year-old brother. The tragedy occurred in a strawberry field. The lads had gone to gather strawberries and taken a .4.10 gun and four cartridges to scare the birds. The elder lad had fired it three times then went with other children into a shed in the field and placed the gun in a corner. His young brother picked it up and knocked it hard on the ground; it went off hitting his brother in the head.

The father said he kept the gun in a shed but it was always unloaded. He kept the cartridges loose in the shed which he always locked. It was possible for anybody to get into the shed through the roof. His son had a key.

The coroner asked: Do you think you are a wise man to leave deadly firearms for the use of children like that. Father: He was a boy, sir, but he was capable of doing a man's work. He would have been alright had he been alone.

The Coroner said by law a child under seven would not be guilty of any criminal offence; it could not be murder because he was too young. But he hoped people would not allow children to go on playing about with deadly weapons – 29 06 28 ES

Sutton: many who waited patiently at mid-day on Tuesday in anticipation of glimpsing the Sultan of Zanzibar, who, it was announced, would pass through the village, were disappointed. 29 06 28

1929 06 29

Men's dress reform, p8

July 1929 CDN

1929 07 01

Hauxton church maintenance, county councillor gaoled, p8*

1929 07 02

Hauxton church dispute – questions raised in parliament, p8*

Hauxton church – Stevens released

1929 07 03

Brunswick School accommodation problem,

1929 07 04

Armed burglar Newmarket – butler threatened, p5*

1929 07 05 ES

Ely Railway Station is to be modernised. It will bring a great speeding up in the delivery of goods. A new booking hall will stand on the site of the present one. The telegraph office will be linked up with the booking and parcels offices. There will be a new office for the stationmaster and a new staff room.

The 'down' platform is to be completely remodelled to double its present width and the entrances enlarged. At present congestion is almost insufferable to travellers who have to worm their way two and from carriages amid a maze of parcels and barrows.

There will be a new, commodious and handsome dining room, a new bookstall and improved lavatory accommodation. The old system of lighting will be dispensed with and everywhere the station will be illuminated by electricity.

The old Air Force Depot which faces the main entrance will be converted into a large and commodious goods centre. The new yard will aid out on modern lines. The present goods depot, a quarter of a mile away, will be demolished and relaid with marshalling roads.

The portion of the line between the Stuntney Road Bridge and Ely Dock Junction is to have an increased number of running roads to facilitate the working of trains between these two points.

At least six to eight months will be needed to complete the scheme but then Ely will be in possession of a station modern in every respect – 29 07 05(2) ES

Hauxton landlord ordered to pay for church repairs, committed to prison for refusal – 29 07 05 ES

An ecclesiastical bombshell has been dropped by the sentence of John Stevens, a wealthy Cambridgeshire landowner and a member of the County Council, to an indefinite period of confinement by the Consistory Court of the Diocese of Ely.

In 1916, he purchased 17 acres of land at Hauxton. A clause in the centuries-old deeds laid it down that the landlord was responsible for the upkeep of the church chancel. However, the clause was omitted from the deed of transfer which was given to him. Upon the present vicar coming to the parish, he went into the question of repairing the chancel. A year ago, the case was brought before the Ely Consistory Court when the Chancellor of the Diocese ruled that Mr. Stevens was liable for repairs and issued a decree Mr. Stevens is alleged to have ignored the decree until he believed himself to be in danger of being sent to prison, then placed an order with a local contractor to undertake the repairs. He refused to pay the fees of the Consistently Court and the case was put into the hands of solicitors. A writ was issued against him and he was conveyed to Bedford gaol. Mr Stevens is a busy man and friends are exerting every effort to have the repairs to the church carried out with the least possible delay. Even when these are completed it is unlikely that he will be released from gaol for some days because before he can return home the Diocesan Surveyor has to examine and approve the works

Cambridgeshire Times installs new printing press – 29 07 05 ES # c.04

During the last eight years the printing of the Cambridgeshire Times has been carried out on a modern type of printing press embodying the principle of feeding in the paper from reels. Previously hand-fed machines had been employed and these had to be superseded as the growing circulation rendered them incapable of coping with the task. At the time the machine was installed, it constituted an almost revolutionary advance in the previous means of newspaper production. The claims of both news services and advertisements, however, have continued to grow and during the last year or two a 12-page paper has been the invariable rule it became evident that another step had to be taken without hesitation. Another new printing machine has been installed involving an expenditure of several £1,000s. Dismantling and rebuilding of so large and intricate a machine as a Cossar press is a task which occupied several weeks and it was necessary to erect the new unit first so the paper could be printed upon it while the other section was being removed. The enlargement will afford scope for both local improvement of the news service and for additional features calculated to add to the interest of the Cambridgeshire Times, which has so long occupied the preeminent position amongst newspapers published in Cambridgeshire. 29 07 05ES

1929 07 06

Old documents, p3

Hauxton church, p5*

Disabled soldiers' workshop, p6

Ely fire, p7

Counth Hall site, p8

1929 07 08

Hauxton church – threatening letters , p8
Pye first fete, p3

1929 07 09
New Theatre reopens, p8

1929 07 10
Railway keys, p3
Guildhall extension, p8
F.H. Sanderson, photographer, death, p8
Brunswick school reopening, p8

1929 07 12
Brunswick school opens, p8*

1929 07 12 ES

Hauxton landowner released: penitent and willing to do church repairs – 29 07 12 & (3)ES
The final act in the ecclesiastical drama was staged in the South Transept of Ely Cathedral and people occupied seats long before the central figure, a well-known landowner and County Councillor appeared. He was summoned to appear before the Consistory Court of the Diocese of Ely for refusing to carry out repairs to the parish church of Hauxton as laid down in a clause in old deeds of land that he had bought in 1916. He was a man, apparently well-off, who had tried to shoulder off on the parishioners of a small country parish and obligation which he took over with his eyes open. He was now entirely penitent and willing to do the church repairs. 29 07 12ES

Stretham Church was filled to its utmost capacity when the congregation listened in to wireless broadcast of thanksgiving for the King's recovery from Westminster Abbey. With the aid of The Walbro, Ely, Rev Stitt arrange for three five-valve receiving sets to be placed in the church and a perfect transmission of the service was received. The Rector conducted a service prior to that from the Abbey and in the evening special hymns were sung and he made an appropriate address. Special reference to the King were also made at all the other places of worship in the village – 29 07 12(4) ES

Lancashire invasion – as in former years Stretham is again invaded by friends from Lancashire. The party, a society of about 40 members of the choir of the National Spiritualist Church from Barnsley, are spending their annual holiday in the village under the charge of Mr W. Mason. They are boarded out in various homes and during their stay enliven the life of the village by giving various forms of entertainment including a humorous sketch in the Lancashire dialect. This was repeated at Haddenham – 29 07 12(4) ES

It is sometime since so great an interest was taken in a sale at Chatteris as that when the whole of the threshing machines, steam rollers and machinist plant as the late Mr. J. Carly was put on the market. Buyers were present from all parts of the country and no less than 26 traction engines, five steam rollers and two sets of ploughing tackle was sold. There were also 10 threshing drums, and a like number of elevators, while four chaff cutters and 10-ton weighing machines, five living vans, too oil engines and a Lister petrol engine were sold. The catalogue included two saloon motor cars, three water carts, and a 70- volt dynamo and the whole of the machinery and trade utensils in the works. Excellent prices were realised and practically all the machinery was sold. 29 07 12ES

1929 07 13
More bridges in Isle of Ely needing reconstruction than anywhere else, p8
Dant's ferry footbridge and bicycles, p8*
Sanderson funeral, p6

1929 07 15
Haslingfield fire – phone call delayed by Post Office, p5*

Guildhall extension – co-operation with county?, p8*

1929 07 17

Foxton level crossing; proposed road Prickwillow to Isleham, p8*

Girls Parker's Piece, p6

1929 07 18

Hadstock water supply; Newmarket houses or allotments?, p7*

1929 07 19

Purchasing land between Histon Road and Frenches Road – Victoria Road – discussed, p8*

Electric cables, p5

1929 07 19 ES

Report of The County Library in the Isle of Ely. The County Library continues to grow in favour amongst those who read for recreation, amongst serious students and amongst seekers after information. Miss Edith Palmer has acted as an unpaid assistant and Miss Sears has again come forward gallantly to assist ... But in spite of continual overtime work, a great deal of what is essential to the smooth running and progress of the library has had to be left undone, and I respectfully beg to bring it to the notice of the Committee that a library of this size with urban centres requires constant, trained assistance, and that I cannot continue indefinitely working as I have had to do during the past two years – 29 07 19 ES

Witchford oil depot gutted – Somerlite Oil Agency of Fordham, motor delivery van burned to ground – 29 07 19(3)

The Witchford depot of the Somerlite Oil Agency of Fordham was gutted. A galvanised iron structure situated near the roadside at the southern end of Witchford, the depot was in perfectly in order at midnight but by 5:30 was on fire. It was completely destroyed, the roof having collapsed and the galvanised iron sides forced apart and in a sadly twisted shape. The motor delivery van which was garaged in the depot was burned to the ground, little or nothing of it remaining except the chassis and the tank, in which the paraffin is carried. Small oil stoves and various other articles were also destroyed by the fire, the cause of which is a mystery. 29 07 19ES

Isle police cricket team – named group – 29 07 19(6) ES

William Ashton, a motor bus driver of Soham stated he drove the Ortona bus from Cambridge to Soham. At the Greyhound corner Fordham he stopped to put down a passenger. Just then an Austin car drove in the direction of Newmarket at 35 miles an hour, which was very dangerous. The car passed in front of the bus on the wrong side and went onto the pavement knocking down a girl. The car dragged her three or four yards but the child was not hurt. It was not the position of the bus that forced the car onto the pavement. It was the speed it was going. PC Brasher, stated the driver, a barrister, said 'I am sorry I was going a bit too fast'. He found that the defendant's licence was six days run out. The driver claimed he was only driving 20 miles an hour and his car had skidded. Mr. K Narita of the Japanese Embassy who was in the Austin corroborated the driver's account but the magistrates decided he was to blame. 29 07 19ES

Stretham's Horticulture: splendid display at annual show in Social Club ... details – 29 07 19 &(2) ES
Congratulations must be extended to the Stretham Horticultural & Sports Committee upon the wonderful exhibition of fruit, flowers and vegetables staged at their Horticultural Show, and upon the exceptionally fine programme of racing at the sport. The horticultural show was held in the social club kindly loaned by the Social Club committee. The exhibits were exceptionally good considering the weather that had been experienced. The Association cup awarded to the highest number of points by any exhibitor was won by Mr. J. Hopkins. 29 07 19ES

1929 07 20

Burrells Walk evictions; Orwell scarlet fever, p6
Caxton pageant, p7*
East Anglia flag, p8

1929 07 22

New County Hall plans and tenders, p5*
No more war rally, Parker's Piece, p8*
Prickwillow & Isleham road, p6
West Wratting trees, p6
Littleport lightning death, p8

1929 07 23

Papworth Village Settlement visit by Duke & Duchess of York, p5 & 24th p8*

1929 07 24

Newmarket rural roads, p5

1929 07 25

Throwing stones at railway engine – banned from cinema, p8*

1929 07 26

Cambridge Town Football Club, p8

1929 07 26 ES

Haddenham – Albert Newman of New Town bathing in river rescued by Percy Page – 29 07 26(3) ES

Isle Librarian Miss A.N. Philip to be upgraded to full time – 29 07 26 ES

The use of the Isle of Ely County Library continues to grow amongst those who read for recreation, serious students and seekers after information. At the spring distribution of books a total of 6,200 were selected and sent out in the boxes. On average 20 books out of every 60 require repair or cleaning before being re-issued. In spite of unpaid assistance and continual overtime work, a great deal of what is essential to the progress of the library has had to be left undone; a library of this size with urban centres requires constant, trained assistance, and the County Librarian cannot continue indefinitely working as she has done during the past two years. 29 07 26ES

1929 07 27

Band of Hope train, p5
Cross-country travel, p6

1929 07 29

Rural Community Council 'Cambridgeshire House', p6

1929 07 30

Oakington pond, p3
Willingham suicide – Jakes, p8

1929 07 31

The Rev Frank Jennings is getting first-hand experience of our social problems and spent his holiday living the life of a tramp. Two tramps described the Casual ward of Cambridge workhouse: "Rotten, sire. The 'spike' there is 'no cop'. Swarms of mice run about at night. No baths, dirty wash basins. It's a disgrace to the city". So he visited for himself; the usual questions were asked by the porter but there was no attempt at searching. "I was directed to a large sleeping-room and bidden fetch my ration of 8ozs of bread and marg and a mug of hot but unsweetened tea. There was no bath, contrary to Government regulations as the boilers were due to be inspected. There were 18 people in the room and wire-framed bedspreads replete with three Army rugs made a comfortable lie down. There were no mice but I noticed a few holes in the floor”, p6

August 1929 CDN

1929 08 01

Balsham water, p3

Afforestation, p6

Littleport British Legion club room, p7

Well pollution, p7

Peak confectioner bankrupt, p8*

Ely sewage scheme, p8*

1929 08 02 ES

Soham Baptist church new organ opened – photo 29 08 02 & (2) ES

One of the greatest days in the history of the Soham Baptist was celebrated when crowds assembled on the occasion of the opening and dedication of the new organ. It is not entirely new for the better parts of the old organ, such as the pipes, had been taken down and reused in the new one. 29 08 02 - photo 29 08 02 & (2) ES

Littleport tenancy dispute – Herbert Watson of Mildenhall Road entered land tenanted by John Ivatt Sallis – 29 08 02(3) ES

Littleport Parish Council discussed the charge of £3 made to Cecil Mott for the use of the cart for about 60 days to take water to the people living on his farm. In future the charge should be sixpence per day instead of one shilling, and persons requiring the cart for the conveyance of water for human consumption should be given preference to those who required it for cattle. 29 08 02

At the last meeting Mr J. Cross made a statement that there was sufficient money in hand to cover the cost of completing the whole of the work of making up the piece of road between Sandhill Bridge and the Littleport Town Bridge. But the Accountant had been unwittingly misled by the Surveyor. The total cost was £310 and there was only £120 standing to the credit of the Parish Council. If they took way the total amount for carting – which should be paid by those such as local tradesmen who directly benefited from the road being made up, it left only £63 to be raised to complete the work. It was not right for the cartage to come out of the rates. 29 08 02

1929 08 03

Americans in Cambridge, p8

Histon sports, p8

1929 08 05

Millicent Fawcett death, p3

1929 08 09

Winning farms, p8*

1929 08 09 ES

Two memorial stones of new a new Primitive Methodist Chapel were laid in Feltwell Fen, one for Mrs Barber of Soham, through whose instrumentality this place of worship is now being built. The other stone was laid by Mr J. Dennis of Littleport. About £20 was laid on various other memorial stones and bricks. A public tea was afterwards taken in a tent by upwards of 300 people – 29 08 09

1929 08 10

Fawcett, p6*

Cambridge to Fulbourn cable, p6*

1929 08 12

Harvest mouse, p4*

1929 08 13

St Ives fire engine, p5

Talkifying cinema, p7*

1929 08 14

Pymoor railway sidings tragedy, p6

1929 08 16

Wicken Fen sedge fire, p8*

Burwell chemist McBeath life-saving method, p8

1929 08 16 ES

Stretham:

Cricket

Nursing Association meeting, elect officers – 29 08 16(2) ES

William Gautry of Stretham summoned for working crystal wireless set without licence – 29 08 16 ES

1929 08 17

Big Cambridge fire – sheds and railway trucks destroyed at Hills Road, p5*

Cambridge about to see the 'Talkies', Southend says no, p6*

1929 08 20

Talkies arrive - Broadway Melody at the Central cinema, p6*

1929 08 21

Wireless broadcasting masts, Ely, p7

1929 08 22

Burwell – Wicken road, p3

Albion Angling Society juvenile outing, p6

Burwell stream, p4

1929 08 23

Adult education world conference, p6

1929 08 23 ES

P.c. Roythorne was on duty with Sergeant Bent in his motor car just outside Stretham when he saw a heavy lorry fitted with solid tyres being driven at very fast speed towards Ely. They followed for two miles when the speed registered 18 to 23 miles an hour. The man was fined. On another occasion they stopped a lorry doing 25-30 mph – 29 08 23(2) ES

Griffin Hotel, March sold for £7,100: no sale has generated greater interest, one of the best-known hotels in Eastern England.

Its picturesque appearance, homeliness and comfort win the appreciation of all. It was a noted house in the old days and the coaches drove through the space where the front doors now are into the courtyard at the back. Alterations were effected by various landlords and many of the India curios inside were brought over by S.H. Farrington. In the commercial room is panelling of great value. An offer of £1,000 for it has been refused. The walls of the hall are of Indian carved teak. All the ceilings are supported by the original massive oak beams and the ancient card room is still in existence. This apartment has seen some hectic fund, for there hangs an old oil painting depicting three vessels under full sail. The hull of each ship has been punctured by pistol shot which has been fired by travellers in an endeavour to see who had possessed the steadiest hand. The bathroom contains a bath of real Italian marble hewn out of the solid stone and was originally used by the Italian monks. The hotel has been the subject of articles by such authors as Charles Dickens, G.K. Chesterton & Hilaire Belloc and American and Australian millionaires visit during the season. Numerous titled people, Cabinet Ministers and those well known in the musical and dramatic world have patronised it. 29 08 23(3) ES

Wicken fen devastating fire ... several homesteads were in danger of becoming involved in a serious conflagration in National Trust land at Sedge Fen, the home of many butterflies. Two sons of Mr Barnes, the custodian, found a patch of sedge well alight and owing to the dryness the flames soon spread and the fire reached gigantic proportions. Many spectators from far and near quickly assembled. Soham fire brigade called in Cambridge and there were plenty of willing helpers from Wicken but about 50 acres were destroyed. The scene resembled an Australian bush fire, the winds blew large pieces of burning sedge a great distance. Nothing but charred bushes and roots could be seen for many yards. – photo – 29 08 23(3)&(4)(7)(8) ES

Harold Ellwood of The Garage, Stretham had a problem. He cultivates a field opposite the Quarter-Way House, but has no horse to do the work. He has converted a 4h.p. BSA motor cycle into a machine for cultivating his land. He constructed a strong triangular frame and attached a driving chain from the engine to the back axle. A small hoe was attached to the frame and the engine geared down to give it the necessary power. He finds it quite a success for hoeing his sugar beet. Harold was also faced with the problem of ploughing the land and drawing potato ridge so has dismantled an old Maxwell motor car and used the engine with an extra gear box and special axles. By adjusting the gears it can be used for haulage work and is capable of attaining, on the road, a speed of thirty miles per hour. – photo – 29 08 23(5) ES

Littleport grocer Reginald Flatt failure – 29 08 23 ES

1929 08 24

Trumpington Road accident, p5

Education conference, p6

Talking letters, p6*

1929 08 26

Talking letters, p3

Queen's Road fatality, p5

Bromich death, p5

1929 08 27

Talkies, p6

1989 08 28

Hills Road fires, p5*

Talkies – 'twang', p6

1929 08 30 (ES)

Great undertakings in the Middle Level: details of proposed pumping station at St Germans – 29 08 30(5) ES

Ely's new Cinema Theatre – the Rex – feature – 29 08 30(6) ES

Locust caught at Australia Farm, Wilburton, victim of Wicken Fen fire – 29 08 30 ES

1929 08 31

Flies half an inch thick in Willingham district, p9

Joseph Dimock death, Stretham

Golf, p9

September 1929 CDN

1929 09 02

Fen Drayton church spire struck by lightning; stones were cut out and one of the buttresses torn away sending masonry crashing down on to a grave in the churchyard. More debris fell in Church Street or was hurled into Mr E.J. Warboy's premises on the opposite side of the road. Thomas Johnson had a lucky escape; he had been giving a little girl a ride on his bicycle and had alighted at his father's house. They managed to get inside as the stones rained down. – CDN 2.9.1929

Bakery explosion, p6

1929 09 03

Cinema – Show Boat 2nd talkie film - CDN 3.9.1929

1929 09 04

Cambridge traffic lights start – CDN 4.9.1929

1929 09 04

Ely Rex Cinema opened, p8

W.G. Pye robbery, p5

Soham fire brigade, p5

Traffic lights, p8*

1929 09 05

Ely City bandmaster's death, p6

1929 09 06

Eastwood cement, p8

1929 09 06 ES

Inquest on Joseph Dimmock following fall at Quarterway

Inquest on Joseph Dimmock; he was riding on the top of a load of wheat that was being removed from a field near the Quarterway House when the waggon rolled as it passed over some rough ground and he fell heavily. He sustained injuries to the back of his head and suffered from shock. Within a very short time Dr Booker came along in his car. They obtained a lorry and took him home. His condition became worse and he passed peacefully away. Evidence was heard from his wife Mrs Rebecca Dimmock, Ernest John White of Read Street, smallholder, Reuben Dimmock of 1 Ely Road, police officer & Doctor C.W. Howe – 29 09 06(2)&(3) ES

James Arnold Mott bandmaster James Arnott Mott was bandmaster of the City of Ely Military Band since 1922. A gifted musician, he did much to advance the work of the band and was ready to give his services to local orchestras. He was a violinist and a clarinet player much above the average. He served 22 years in the Lancers, enlisting in 1902, where his abilities as a musician soon marked him out for promotion and by the time of his discharge in 1924 he was Band Sergeant and Acting Bandmaster. It is somewhat of a coincidence that his old regimental band should have been in Cambridge when he died. 29 09 06ES

Fenland's past recalled in Wisbech pageant – 29 09 06(4) ES

1000s of visitors transported to an age dimmed era.

Never were there scenes of more brilliant animation in East Anglian history than those which 'The Heart of the Fens' has presented. By the magnificence of the spectacle thousands of people were enrapture. Many sat spellbound by the completeness of the picturesque stage, where a whole mediaeval community lived once more in the flesh

From the busy streets of a fast moving world disturbed by the shrieks and hoots of a thousand automobiles the onlookers passed through the gates of a prettily-wooded Park, stepping as they did so out of all that was modern into the beautiful simplicity of the Fenland of the past. Their spirits were carried away across the dimmed, years. They saw a world in which men and women gave vivid expression to all that was in their hearts, an age in which they danced with delight, together with zest, and loved with zeal that was equally great

In the beautiful park of Sibald's Holme, formerly the residents of late, honourable A.J. Peckover the colourful England of several centuries ago was called back to life. And Fenland's ancients have strutted the sward once more to delight their moderns with the fascinating and simple splendour of old England's past.

When one ponders on the wonderful success the performances, on the smoothness with which 1000 performers fitted into their parts 'The Heart of the Fens' has left a lasting impression on the memories of all who witnessed it. 29 06 09ES

Mepal-Chatteris road improvement.

When the massive new concrete structure which is to spend the Hundred Foot River at Mepal is completed, the Isle of Ely County Council will have performed a public service which will be of inestimable

Over the road between Mepal and Chatteris there is a daily heavy stream of traffic, and the existing narrow wooden bridge over the river is the bane of the existence of motorists who find themselves not only faced with a difficult corner to negotiate before reaching the bridge after passing through Mepal village, but a narrow bridge is on them before they realise its presence. The result is they are nearly halfway across the bridge before they are able to see what is approaching, or even on the bridge coming from the direction of Chatteris. Not a few are the occasions when motorists have to reverse in order to allow vehicles already three parts of the way across the bridge to pass on the road.

This will be alleviated. When the new bridge is complete. It is to have a 25-foot wide road with a five-foot wide road for pedestrians. And one of its principal advantages will be the direct connection with main road.

This is not the only improvement which is being effected at Mepal. On the Chatteris side of the bridge that is already erected a massive concrete viaduct which will prove of enormous value to travellers between March, Ely and the surrounding districts in time of flood. In the past the lowness of this road has been a serious handicap to traffic when floods have been at their height. Water has in fact stood so high on the road that for days motors and other vehicles have not been able to pass on it, while pedestrians have had to be rowed from the Chatteris to the Mepal side of the river in boats. With the heightening of the road between the new bridge and the bridge on the Chatteris side this should be completely avoided in the future. The viaduct is 320 feet long, and will be connected up to the bridge on the Chatteris side of it by an earth embankment.

The general work of construction is rapidly being proceeded with and when complete one of the finest road improvements in the Isle will have been effected. 29 09 06(5)ES

Rex Cinema, Ely: interior photo – 29 09 08(6) ES

1929 09 07

Harvest reports, p3

Shop fronts, p6

1929 09 06

Road v rail, p6

1929 09 11

Ickleton Old Mill occupied by electricity supply co destroyed by fire, p8

Blossom Street fire, p3

Wireless licences, p5

1929 09 13

Band of Hope cinema – David Moore, p8

Herts Mansion robbery, p3

1929 09 13 ES

Aeroplane in trouble, forced landing

Having experienced engine trouble while flying over Ely the pilot of a two-seater aeroplane made a forced landing in a potato field in Quanea Drove. The pilot made a perfect landing and asked for assistance to be sent from Duxford Aerodrome, at which place he was stationed. A large motor lorry was sent with a number of mechanics and they commenced to dismantle the machine. As darkness set in they ceased work but resumed next morning. Having taken the machine to pieces they packed it in their lorry and left for Duxford – 29 09 13(2) ES # c.26.1

‘Pilgrim’s Progress’ ...

The pretty village of Doddington has been all agog with excitement as Doddington was to have a pageant of its own. Large crowds flocked to the beautiful grounds of the Rectory to witness the performance of ‘Pilgrim’s Progress’ and a large concourse of prominent ladies and gentlemen honoured the programme with their presence

Photo of scene in Creek, March, taken by J. Walter Gent wins photographic prize – 29 09 13(5) ES

Death James Spratley at Marlborough House, Stretham ... popular resident ... cheery smile made friends with one and all ... many unknown acts of kindness. Previous to residing in Stretham was a library messenger in London. Seven years ago retired, elected PCC, chairman of Football Club ... 29 09 13 ES

1929 09 14

Search for temple treasure – Capt Robson, p3*

Colour talkies in miniature – synchronised with gramophone player, p8

Absence of wasps, p8*

Jesus Green baths strewn with rubbish, p8*

1929 09 16

Luard Road private street objectors, p8*

1929 09 17

Ely water shortage, p8*

1929 09 18

New wireless station transmitter benefits Cambridge, p7*

1929 09 19

Ramsey MacDonald prime minister surprise visit Cambridge, p5

Water polo, p7

1929 09 20

Savings movement, p7

Queen at Papworth, p8

1929 09 20 ES

Not often does a thrill come to the peaceful little village of Witcham but a balloon piloted by a competitor in the International Balloon race made a forced landing in field. When balloon seen approaching the news spread with the rapidity of a plague and by the time the dapper and smiling little Frenchman had landed in a field belonging to Ralph Vye, a crowd had assembled. Miss G.I.

Saberton, the local schoolmistress, with her knowledge of the French language was able to come to the rescue of the pilot who, in his decent, had struck a telegraph pole. Between 10 and 30 young men of the village rapidly helped him to pack the balloon in the basket which was conveyed by lorry to Ely Station for dispatch to France – 29 09 20(2) ES # c.26.1

The five manors of Chatteris – review of history – 29 09 20(3) ES

Heygate of Littleport celebrate 50 years of honest trading – full-page advertisement – 29 09 20 ES

1929 09 21

J.J. Thomson lecture to Aslib – CDN 21.9.1929

1929 09 23

An outbreak of window scratching has occurred in Cambridge over the weekend. Shopkeepers along St Andrew's Street discovered with disgust that scratches and scrawls which had not been there when the shops closed. On some of the windows grooves have been cut, apparently with a diamond. Among the worst affected are Johnson Bros dyers, Flack and Judge grocers, G.P. Hawkings confectioners and the Ideal Cleaning Company. Marks of a previous outbreak of a more serious nature are still to be seen on many shop windows in Regent Street, p8

1929 09 24

Green End Road land needed for housing inquiry, p8*

Jazz & quinquaginta, p6

1929 09 26

Ouse Drainage Board tax battle at Swaffham Bulbeck, p6

Ring Road round Cambridge & Battle of Butt Green – parking, 1929 09 27

Butt Green carpet beaters, p8

1929 09 27 ES

Thomas Fuller of High Field House, Wicken, well-known agriculturalist and good shot, dies aged 91 – obituary. Memories when oats and beans from Wicken were delivered to Newmarket to feed the face horses. Remembers when all corn was cut with reaping hooks. Upon the introduction of the scythe the workers regarded it with distain, saying the work was most untidy, but later they realised that with this implement the straw was cut much nearer the ground. Then later came the first reaping machine, pushed along before the horses. Barley was stacked loose in the barns and threshed in winter months with flails and machines driver by horsepower – 29 09 27(2) ES

Stretham:

Pc Roythorne promoted to sergeant and leaves Stretham for Littleport. Coming from Whittlesey in succession to Pc Saberton he has taken a keen interest in sport and made many friends

Drought problems ... many wells have gone dry and only the largest ponds still retain a small quantity of drinking water. This lack of drinking water is causing great consternation and people are wondering whether the RDC will ever extend their main to the village. Whilst some still obtain a comparatively good supply from the village pump, others have to walk a considerable distance to get a pail full. The supply for animals is an acute problem, many have to cart water a distance of three or four miles. – 29 09 27(3) ES

1929 09 28

Queen Dick, p8

1929 09 30

Engineers gather – Ouse Drainage Board organisation & Isle Highways, p8

1929 09 30

Ely Traders have decided to revert 'for ever' to the usual closing hour of six o'clock on Fridays, instead of seven as at present. Although they have benefited by the extra hour during 'summer time' it would not offset the extra cost of heating and lighting which would be necessary when the Daylight Savings Bill ceased to operate. Some shopkeepers were staying open after the legal hours – that was after eight o'clock and nine on Saturdays

October 1929 CDN

1929 10 01

Butt Green, p8*

Cambridge parking place problems

1929 10 02 c

Cambridge Town Council were asked to pay a Landbeach smallholder for the loss of his horse. It had slipped on the surface of East Road after a shower, and was killed. The Corporation declined to accept responsibility but it was suggested that a subscription list should be opened to which individual councillors would be pleased to subscribe. This was done with the result that the owner will receive £13, £3 more than had been suggested

1929 10 03

Cambridge Labour Party was told that if they wanted Butts Green as a parking place they must be prepared to face the question: 'Are you in favour of free parking?' They could not charge for cars on common land. Councillor Stubbs said there was no more objection to free parking than to free recreation. He personally objected to paying rates and then being charged for parking his 'Rolls'. Would residents in New Square like to have the noise and smell of the motors?

1929 10 03

The Cambridge Daily News has now installed a new and up-to-date block-making plant which will enable us to publish pictures of important events on the same day. It has all the apparatus necessary for the production of 'blocks', both line and half-tone – those from which newspaper photographs are printed

1929 10 04

The new organ was dedicated at Castle Street Primitive Methodist church, Cambridge. The need for was felt as far back as 1923 and an effort started to replace the old organ, which was showing signs of 'disease'. The opening ceremony was performed by Mrs John Few who unlocked the new organ with a silver key. There was a recital by Dr Alan Gray at which the church was crowded to capacity. The installation has cost £727 and with the church and schoolroom renovations there is a liability of about £1,000

News photo, p7

Cambridge Express crash, p5

1929 10 04 ES

The drainage of the fens.

The Institution of Municipal and County Engineers heard the casual observer looked upon the fens as a dreary waste and howling wilderness. But the heroism and outlay of the work and draining the fens ranked with some of the highest engineering feats throughout the country.

In the fenland area there was from 10 to 20 feet of peat, overlaying the clay. Through cultivation this was gradually disappearing and soon there would be no peat left. The level had been lowered from 10 to 15 feet and instead of being sufficiently high for the waters to run into the wash it has become a problem of how they were going to get rid of it. It needed a great deal of artificial pumping. When the area had a large amount of peat by the main overlaying clay, the peat absorbed the rain. Now that the peat had practically disappeared there was nothing to absorb the rain and it consequently lay on the land. This was a very difficult matter

Within the Ouse Drainage Board area there were over 80 internal drainage boards and many private pumping areas which remained responsible for the pumping of water into the main rivers and drains. Between the Hundredfoot River, and River Nene, the Middle Level Drainage and Navigation Boards still control the main drains of their area, which they took over from the Bedford level Corporation in 1861. Within this area there were therefore three drainage rates to be paid.

The channel of the tidal river is between below Denver Sluice to the Wash was too small for the first 12 miles and too wide and shallow for the remainder of its length. It had been improved from a winding river in its lower reaches by the new Eau Brink Cut, opened in 1821, and by the works of the North Norfolk Estuary Company as opened in 1852. These lowered the low water level at Denver Sluice by six feet in 1884, but the deterioration of the works and the river generally since that date had almost nullified this improvement. Owing to the very small summer flow down the river it silted up very badly each year. In 1922 the bed was at an average height of nine feet 11 inches above its proper gradient between Denver, and the Wash. Today, it was about seven feet. The silt mostly came from the Wash, and a small proportion from the erosion of the banks of the Eau Brink Cut and the channel below. The cost of the work necessary in the tidal River, and the comparatively small area of land to benefit from the consequential high cost per acre prevented the work from being done. But even when the Government were prepared to find half the cost, as in the Ouse Bill of 1927, the fen men could not agree either to the method of work or to finding the other 50% of the cost. And by their opposition contributed to the wrecking of the bill. 29 10 04 & (2), photo (7) ES

The old Beggars Bridge on LNER between March and Whittlesey was a wooden one of the gantry type, crossing the Twenty Foot River and two adjoining drove-ways. Of late it was apparent that the structure had outlived its useful purpose and was becoming increasingly dangerous for the heavy traffic on that route. In the early part of 1927 the work of erecting a new bridge was started. As both up and down lines had to be kept open to traffic the first section was to reconstruct a new down line, which was completed in June. The former down-line was utilised for the cranes and machinery necessary to carry out the second portion. The sub-soil was particularly bad but eventually foundations were made with over 300 piles driven into the ground. The third bridge, over the March side drove-way was then erected and the final stage has now been completed – photo. – 29 10 04(4) ES

Manea nurse, Mrs Collen, trained as a maternity and district nurse in 1919 under the war widows scheme. She entered here first duties at Cottenham, then moved to Soham and later London. She returned to Manea to await an operation at Addenbrooke's Hospital but died – 29 10 04(5) ES

Stretham: Rain welcome – pump had gone dry in severe drought. Occasionally water is to be had from the pump which Ely RDC have decided to open four hours a day – 29 10 04(6) ES

1929 10 05

The imposition of a one-way traffic in Petty Cury is not news, but a good many people are under the impression that they can ride either way after eight o'clock at night. This is not so. The actual regulation, which was adopted in October 1924, says that Market Street and Petty Cury will be one-way streets only. Obviously there would be great dangers in adopting a resolution for the day-time and changing it at night, especially in such a main thoroughfare. For although business vans may be off the road there is often plenty of other traffic on the occasion of concerts at the Guildhall or dinners at the Lion Hotel.

1929 10 05

Some authorities have been recovering useful matter from old tin cans and something could be done in Cambridge. Soft metal articles – tubes and tinfoil – are already collected by the authorities of Addenbrooke's and there are persons who collect bottles and jars. But tinned articles seem not to be regarded as anything but mere waste. A start on a small scale would need hardly any capital but how to dispose of it is the problem.

Newmarket van accident, p5

Gas fitter – song writer, p8*

1929 10 07

“There is much to be said for narrow streets with ancient houses and I consider a Town Council which destroys these houses in order to make its streets broader is acting with great folly”, the University Vice Chancellor told members of the Town Planning Institute. In certain Italian cities there was a rule enforcing motorists to leave their cars outside and proceed into the town on foot. Anybody who suggested such a thing in this country would be cried down as a faddist, but it was a practical proposition. “Of course I don’t think I should like to see people stopping four miles out of Cambridge”, he added.

1929 10 08

It was a red-letter day in the history of the Ely Co-operative Society when their magnificent new premises were opened. The old and dismal-looking premises in Broad Street have been superseded by a most modern and up-to-date business establishment. The design is Georgian in character, the front is reconstructed stone, the shop fronts are of teak and the window backs are oak. A large proportion of modern quick-service fixtures and counters have been installed and the comfort and convenience of both customers and staff have been furnished in every way. The premises are centrally-heated with electric light installed throughout. 29 10 08

University Camera Club, p7

1929 10 09

A. Tillyard death, p4

1929 10 10

For 25 years the parishioners of Soham have been aiming to possess a church hall and at last it was formally opened. The building is a credit to the town; it is capable of seating 350 people and has a kitchen. Chairs have been obtained by voluntary subscriptions but a piano and billiards table is still required. There might be tennis courts or a bowling green alongside. The site had been bought in 1912 but then the shadow of the Great War prevented them proceeding until last year.

1929 10 10

Performances of the talkie ‘College Love’ at the Central Cinema, Cambridge, were marred by undergraduates. The Manager admitted that to show such a film at the beginning of term was unfortunate. The undergraduates meet old pals, have drinks together and get more exuberant than usual. They were also resentful at the American features introduced into college life as they know it. Scenes of a match corresponding to Rugby were greeted with many ‘cat-calls’ while nobody expects undergraduates to remain silent during the portrayal of anything in the amorous line. The cinema has a special telephone by which the volume of extraneous noise is gauged by an operator. He had occasion to request several of the disturbers to remain quieter.

1929 10 11

Festival reopening photo, p5 & p7

P.H. Young death, p8

1929 10 11 ES

Ruston and Hornsby drag-line excavator on River Nene, March – photo – 29 10 11(2) ES

The operations of the Ruston and Hornsby drag-line excavator on the Gaul Road side of the River Nene, March, have been a source of interest and wonder to the many people who have watched the seeming havoc being wrought upon the bank. The weight of the bank has been gradually reducing the width of the river, and the excavator is being used to take off large portions so as to stop the encroachment. Three locomotives are employed to remove the earth, which has been placed on adjacent fields. Twenty men from distressed areas are engaged on the task with which great progress is being made. 29 10 11(2) ES

John Flatt of Littleport, started as a grocer's assistant at Nordelph. When he canvassed the Littleport district for orders, it seemed to him there was an opening, and consequently he secured a private house in Victoria Street and converted it into a shop. He had a motorcycle and sidecar and about £10 out of which he bought utensils and stopped the shop on credit. In January 1920 his wife bought a semi sports car. He exchanged his motorcycle for three new tires for the car thinking it would increase his business. He entered into an agreement to purchase a saloon car for £60 pounds on the hire-purchase system. But the car was not satisfactory, and he returned it. He thought he would take on drapery and let out the car for hire and pay for it this way. At first he paid £18 a week in wages but found he could not afford it. The expense of the car was 15 shillings a week. His profits fell and the business failed. 29 10 11(2)ES

Stretham: Fire: a small fire occurred in George Dimmock's hairdresser's shop ... an oil stove suddenly burst into flames. By the promptness of customers in the shop the lamp was thrown out into the roadway and the flames put out with sand. Mr Dimmock had a narrow escape from being burned as he was standing close to the stove when it caught fire. He jumped clear and assisted in putting out the flames. 29 10 11(3)ES

Stretham Nursing Association meeting

Stretham and Thetford Nursing Association meeting welcomed Nurse Nation. The Rev Stitt said a nurse was badly needed and as he went about in the village last winter it was distressing to see the suffering and to know no skilful help was forthcoming. He was glad that almost everybody had responded and they must co-operate to make the scheme a success. – 29 10 11(3) ES

1929 10 12

Two cottages in Middle Street, Stretham were gutted by a fire which was caused by a firework thrown by a boy descending on the thatched roof. So quickly did the flames spread that the whole roof was soon ablaze and fell in. Nearby blacksmiths Mr Lowe and Mr Crow rendered valuable assistance but a fire extinguisher obtained from the Rectory proved useless. The fire brigade connected their hose to the village pond about a quarter of a mile away, which owing to the drought was very low. They were unable to use the engine at full strength for fear of blocking the hose with mud.

1929 10 12

Many Cambridge people were among the thousands who saw the R101 at Cardington during her final tests. Every approach to Bedford was thronged with cars and cyclists, many of them from great distances. During the worst of the traffic there was a three-mile queue of almost stationary cars. Nearly 150,000 cars passed the mooring post and filling stations did a roaring trade. Many sold out of petrol. Hotel keepers had reason to be thankful for the presence of the great airship, while picnickers lined practically every road.

Errand boys, p8*

1929 10 14

Cambridge councillors will discuss swapping a portion of Butt Green running alongside Victoria Avenue from Jesus Lane towards the river. It would be surrendered to Jesus College and would be fenced, although a footpath would be made. In exchange they would get New Square which would then be converted into a motor car park, together with two acres of land off Auckland Road which would be thrown into Midsummer Common and a small piece of land in front of the new Brunswick School buildings.

R101 flight photos, p5*
Newmarket milk crash, p5*
Playhouse fire, p8

1929 10 16

Sir – a young one-legged tramp was struggling into town on his crutches when he was asked by a Universityman where he was bound. “Cambridge workhouse”, he replied whereupon the Varsityman at once called a taxi and accompanied him there. Having rung the bell for ten minutes and received no reply the student scaled the 10-foot spiked railing, took the gate key from the porter’s lodge, opened the entrance gates and led the tramp into the lodge where he seated him in a comfortable chair and was driven away. One can imagine the surprise of the night porter arriving some minutes afterwards – C.F. Lewis

C.B. Shaw on Cambridge, p3
Swaffham Prior shoot photo, p6

1929 10 17

Diamond wedding photos, p7
Butt Green, p8

1929 10 18

The 17 miles of river between Ely and Denver Sluice is in an appalling condition: it literally stinks and is covered with dead fish throughout its length. What was a beautiful river now resembles a sewer. When a barge passes it stirs up the water and the stench is horrible. It is a serious menace to public health for it is the only water supply for the cottages and farms above Littleport Bridge. The pollution is caused by the poisonous effluent discharged from the sugar beet factories. One has no wish to cripple the beet industry but this cannot be allowed to continue.

H.B. Dailey death, p8

1929 10 18 ES

Soham proposed road connecting Hasse Road at Castle Farm with the Great Fen Road at St John’s Farm to provide employment during the winter – 29 10 18(9) ES

Serious Stretham fire; two thatched cottages gutted. It was a matter of good fortune that there was an almost entire absence of wind on Saturday, otherwise a goodly portion of Stretham might have been burned to the ground. Shortly after 11 o’clock some cottage property in a narrow thoroughfare, which branches to the left opposite the parish church, caught fire, and, having a heavily thatched roof this quickly became a roaring furnace.

Before the fire engines arrive the whole of the thatched roof had been reduced to a charred mass and the interior of two cottages practically burnt out.

Happily almost all the furniture was saved by the splendid co-operation of residents who rushed to the scene.

Mr F. Curtis, who occupies the property which is owned by Mrs H.F. Sennitt, who resides in London, was at work when the fire occurred and was happily unconscious that his house was ablaze until he reached the village about one o’clock. On his arrival he could do nothing except stand in the streets and wash the flames eating up his little cottage home.

The fire is said to have been due to a boy throwing a lighted firework match into the air, which fell on the roof.

When the outbreak was discovered Messrs G. Low and P. Crow rushed for ladders; they were able to mount the roof and with buckets of water endeavour to get to the flames. Mr J. Badcock, by whom the roof was rethatched two years ago, came to their assistance and sought to subdue the flames with buckets of water which were handed to him by willing helpers. He faced the smoke and flames for some time but the fire got under him and he was forced to come down to the ground.

The engine was rushed to the pond at the lower end of the village and in a few minutes 22 length of hose were connected up and two jets were forcing a good supply of water on to the burning house. There was a danger of the adjoining house becoming seriously involved. The roof was alight from the back and by hacking away a number of slates this was put out of danger.

It was only the previous day that the new District Nurse had her furniture taken to the house; it had to be removed and stored across the road.

Crowds of people flocked to the village and watched with interest the efforts to prevent the spread of the fire. They could not make much impression because of the blazing thatched roof, portions of which fell into the house and street.

It was not only the part of the cottages which face the street which concerned the brigade. At the rear there stood an extension, the roof of which was already belching volumes of smoke ... efforts were of no avail and this part of the building burnt itself out, with the exception of the chimney stack.

By this time only the walls and gable end of the cottage stood and there was also danger of the gable wall collapsing so it was decided that these must come down.

A call was also sent out for the Cambridge Borough Brigade and in less than 20 minutes they covered the distance from Cambridge and were able to assist the Ely brigade – 29 10 18(2)(3)(4), photo (5) ES

Two aeroplanes give public flights at March – photo – 29 10 18(7) ES # c.26.1

Proposed Soham road, deputation to Ministry – 29 10 18(8) ES

Partly in order to provide employment during the winter and also because of the convenience of the road itself, Newmarket Rural District Council propose to make a new road connecting Hasse Road at Castle Farm with the Great Fen Road at St John's Farm. At present these two roads are metalled and in good condition but they do not meet any traveller at Castle Farm wishing to reach the Great Fen that Road must go all the way back to Soham. Between the two points there is a green goad 600 yards also long which is impossible to wheeled traffic. The Council want to make up the green road as a good metalled road, and, incidentally, to furnish employment to agricultural labourers, during the winter. 29 10 18(8)ES

Welney's Centre of Amusement

The people of Welney are to be congratulated for having provided their village with a commodious Parish Hall. Such a building has been a long felt want, as previously the Odd Fellows Hall had to be used for special occasions and local gatherings. As time went on it gradually became evident that a larger and more suitable structure would be necessary. A committee was elected to raise sufficient money for a village hall that would be open for use on all occasions. They set to work with zeal and the official opening of the building, took place on Wednesday. The hall was built by two Welney firms. It has galvanised walls and roof and took three months to erect. 29 10 18(2)ES

1929 10 19

With the passing of Mrs Eliza Jane Mason of the Livingstone Hotel, Petty Cury, Cambridge has lost a prominent member of the restaurant business. She commenced business with a university lodging house on Market Hill which became known as 'Masons' and was converted into a restaurant. It was largely used by cadets and catered for the officers stationed here during the Great War. Almost the first Belgian wounded soldiers were billeted there and she acted as a sort of nursing mother to them. Her next move was to Sadd's before she bought the Livingstone Hotel which was then only a coffee house. It is now one of the best commercial hotels in Cambridge. She also built the Rendezvous, Magrath Avenue as a skating rink in 1909.

Poppy day, p5

1929 10 21

Poppy Day & photo, p7

Ouse drainage, p8

1929 10 23

Train crash photo, p6
Archives list, p8*

1929 10 24

Opinion was divided on the wisdom of planting 11 acres of trees at West Wrattling. The County Council had purchased the land in 1915 and for ten years it had shown a profit. The value of timber that could be grown was estimated at £3,000 in 50 years' time. But some said the land was not fit to plant with trees, it was one mass of filth and in four years not one tree would be alive. Nearby smallholders would be prevented from farming

1929 10 25

Dry riverbed photo, p3

1929 10 25 ES

Cyril Horn, Upwell cyclist one of foremost riders in country, success – 29 10 25(2) ES

Octogenarian John Betts flies over March; lives near Chain Bridge – 29 10 25(3) ES

When the football matches at March were at their height on Saturday afternoon an aeroplane flying fairly low proceeded over part of the town. It was one of the machines in which many March people have availed themselves of trips, the plane having taken off from the temporary aviation ground in Elm Road, March. Many football spectators on hearing the roar of the engine gazed heavenwards as did shoppers in the streets. Few guessed that the passengers were two old gentlemen, one 70 years of age, and the other nearly 90.

We found John Betts, who resides in a cottage near Chain Bridge, sitting in the sunshine. There were a few wrinkles in his face and his head bore a shock of snowy white hair which fell in curls at the back, just beneath the brim of his hat.

He said, "I thoroughly enjoyed the trip" and pointing to the reporter's car said "I did not think any more about it, than I was riding in that car. But the wind was sharp, I never felt anything so fierce before. When I looked down the fields were like little bits of square gardens but everything is deceiving when you are up there. I was up there five minutes".

Mr Betts is well known in March and may be seen most days on Elm Road strolling along at a steady gate. He, retired from farming when he was 80 years of age, and will celebrate his 87th birthday next year. 29 10 25(3) ES

Death Edward Peters, 90; from Haddenham where veterinary surgeon for 50 years – 29 10 25(4) ES

River Ouse – stench at Ely & Littleport

River Ouse – stench at Ely & Littleport; Denver Sluice filled with dead fish, locks completely blocked. Once again, considerable consternation has been manifested by dwellers along the banks of the River Ouse from Adelaide towards Denver Sluice who are dependent upon the stream for providing drinking water and the hundreds of enthusiastic anglers who use this stretch to indulge their summer pastime, upon the seeming polluted condition of the water.

A survey of the whole stretch from Roswell Pits to Brandon Creek revealed nothing less than a soupy-coloured sluggish stream belching forth gas, which came up from the river bed in bubbles and gave up a most unpleasant odour, much to the annoyance of dwellers, along with the banks.

Annually this occurrence has prevailed since the Ely Beet Sugar Factory was erected and coincides with the opening of the sugar beet campaign. It is therefore conjectured that it is caused by the effluent from the factory which drains into the river during the campaign.

Previous to the erection of the factory the Ouse was famous for its excelled fishing, for large bream specimen roach and many other kinds of fish abounded in plenty attracting thousands of angling enthusiasts to Ely and Littleport each year, thereby helping to advance the business of the traders.

However with this annual putrid state of the water thousands of fish are killed and consequently, each year the fishing becomes poorer, with the result that these visitors seek other spots for their recreation. The Secretary of the Littleport Angling Club said there had been a large number of fish 'turn up' a week after the campaign had commenced. A serious situation has arisen at Denver, where the locks were completely blocked with dead, and partly-decayed fish, the stench from which was terrible. The back waters were completely packed with dead fish from which specimens of all kinds could be taken. Owing to the great accumulation the locks were opened to let the fish which had blocked them go down with the tide in the morning. But towards the evening decayed fish were rapidly filling the locks. As the tide receded that mud was covered with decomposed fish, above which 1,000s of gulls could be seen flying

Ely Beet Factory reject the idea that any fish have turned up through effluent from the factory entering the water. But analysis shows that whereas the water above the Beet Factory has the usual quantity of free oxygen present, three samples taken between Littleport and Denver were all very polluted and contaminated. The free oxygen had been absorbed by the sulphites in the effluent and the fish suffocated.

The Ouse and Cam Fishery Board have decided to take proceedings against sugar beet factories, and an inquiry has been asked for. – 29 10 25 ES

1929 10 26 c

Cambridge did not become a munitions-manufacturing area on the outbreak of the Great War. The consequence was that its full quota of men joined the ranks and left the district. Now, ten years after the Armistice, we are being reminded that hundreds of baby boys and girls did not come into the world at all. There is now a real lack of errand boys with 60 employers seeking them. This will create a serious position for shopkeepers in years to come. About 100 domestic vacancies for girls are also waiting to be filled. If the school-leaving age is raised the difficulties will be increased.

1929 10 28

The well-known cement works of Messrs R. Stephenson & Son between Burwell and Fordham, now closed, have been purchased by the Associated Cement-makers Companies, a powerful combine owning many cement factories. For a long time it has been felt in Burwell that the only hope of carrying on the factory was to merge it in a combine. During the war the factory did very well indeed because the Government wanted so much cement that every factory was employed. Today orders are far from plentiful. As one of a large combine the Burwell factory may get its share, and the works may give considerable employment.

1929 10 28

The Lord Chancellor has appointed a Government Committee to inquire into the whole question of the power of the Church to have offences against ecclesiastical law punished by imprisonment. At present the Consistory Court can only enforce its orders by application to the High Court. This is a sequel to the remarkable case of a Cambridge landowner who was sent to Bedford Prison for failing to pay for the repair of the church roof at Hauxton. Now the Committee is to consider whether the law should be altered.

‘Robins’ photo, p3

1929 10 29

The Government Office of Works have made arrangements for the records at present stored in the old Prison on Castle Hill, to be removed from Cambridge to another disused gaol. It is their policy to concentrate such records at Canterbury. The Governor’s House at the old Prison will be adapted to provide temporary accommodation for county council staff and rooms in the prison gatehouse used for storage purposes. This has released accommodation at the County Hall for other departments

1929 10 29

Sir – It is extraordinary that in an age when the importance of fresh air is being recognised the open motor car body should be apparently on the verge of extinction. Few saloon cars are adequately ventilated and on a long journey the choice is between a draught and a headache caused by fumes from the engine percolating into the body. To people advanced in years the closed car is probably wise but to young people taking so freely to such an enervating mode of transport is pitiable. The excuse is that our climate is so uncertain that a closed car is necessary but I motor for hours every day of the year and rarely find it necessary to put the hood up – ‘Saloonatic’

1929 10 30

Foxton crossing, p8

1929 10 31

Ouse drainage board, p8

November 1929 CDN

1929 11 01

The R.A.C. has decided to extend the benefits of its ‘Get You Home’ service to members of the Club whilst flying. It has hitherto provided a relief car free of charge for their members who have broken down on the road but a considerable number are now either owners of light aeroplanes or are members of flying clubs. Should any of them whilst flying be compelled to make a forced landing they will be able to send for an R.A.C. relief car and be conveyed to the nearest railway station. If the plane is of the folding wing type that can be towed on a public road the R.A.C. is prepared to pay for its conveyance to any town within the limits of the scheme.

1929 11 01

The giant airship R101 passed over Cambridge after a visit to Sandringham. It appeared shortly before three on its way towards Cardington. The great ship glittered in the low November sun as though made of silver and hundreds of people came running into the streets as they heard the noise of the engines. As it receded into the distance it appeared like some strange monster floating on the misty horizon. At Newmarket races there was a cessation in the betting and all race glasses were trained towards the sky.

1929 11 01 ES

Death veteran Ely solicitor W.J. Evans – 29 11 01(2)(3) ES

Pymore Improvement – filling station and garage near new road = 29 11 01(4) ES

Now that the new road that links Downham, Pymoor and Littleport has been completed motorists can reach these places under more or less ideal conditions. The road is already attracting its full quota of motorists, many of whom are there to get glimpses of the real fen life.

Prior to the opening of this magnificent road the needs of passing motorists were only crudely considered. Now Mr A.S. Barker, the proprietor of the general stores at Pymoor has with considerable enterprise converted an old shed into a trim little roadside garage, in which the needs of passing motorists can be met. Originally only one grade of petrol could be obtained but at the new station far more advanced facilities have been provided. The new station, which has acted a useful improvement, stands on the corner of the road as you enter from Little Downham and faces the new road. Already it is proving of more than ordinary value to the motoring public. 29 11 01(4)ES

Stretham:

Young man got lost when went to wedding – 29 11 01(6) ES

One can quite understand a person getting lost after leaving a wedding ceremony for home. The question that is being asked at Stretton this week is, who was the young man who left home to attend a wedding ceremony and got lost on his way to the destination?

Though it was dark when the young man set out, the thing that puzzles the villages is why he got lost when he knew the district so well. After setting out and walking some time, the young man found himself wandering around a field. And according to his story, he did not know whether it contained sugar beet or celery. Having unsuccessfully tried to find his way to his destination, he wandered back to his home, which he reached none the worse for his unforgettable experience. – 29 11 01(6) ES

Middle Level Sluice collapse 1862 – photo - 29 11 01 ES # c.29

A photograph shows the Middle Level Sluice at St Germans after it had collapsed on 4th May 1862. The sluice was built when the main drain was cut in 1847. Its collapse allowed the tidal waters from the River Ouse to flow in and out of the main drain. And after a few days the western bank of the drain burst at a point about four miles from the sluice inundating about 6,000 acres of land. To cope with the situation a cofferdam was placed in the river and syphons were installed to discharge the water. These operated for some years, but they did not disperse the water quickly enough, and in 1875, the existing sluice was built on a diversion of the outfall channel. Now the Middle Level Commissioners have entered upon an ambitious scheme for the construction of a new sluice combined with a pumping station 29 11 01 ES # c.29

1929 11 02

The Central Cinema held its first pictorial service, intended to attract the crowds of young people wandering through Cambridge on Sunday evenings. There was a very good attendance but the conduct of some of the young men left much to be desired. Some had evidently come in the belief they were going to see a cinema show and it needed a sharp appeal before cigarettes were put out and a semblance of order obtained. Though the singing was hearty the thing that impressed most was the beautiful rendering of Gounod's 'There is a Green Hill' on the panatrophe.

Poppy Day, p8

1929 11 04

Castle site records, p4*

Shippea Hill crash, 15-year-old, p5

1929 11 05

Barrington Light Railway Company was an independent company entirely disassociated from the cement works except in business transactions. The railway originally belonged to the Dreadnought Cement Works Company which went into liquidation. They bought the railway but the works were sold separately. It owned engines and trucks and worked in co-operation with the L. & N.E.R. The line was a mile and a quarter long with a full gauge track. Their terminus was the entrance to the works; the line continued into sidings, but was maintained by the Cement Company, a Rating appeal was told.

1929 11 05

Cheers greeted George Robey, the great comedian, on his initial entry at the Cambridge New Theatre. This riotous reception came, of course, from a huge contingent of youthful 'Varsitymen' but the theatre was packed in all departments. The brilliant show was carried along by waves of cheering, culminating in a furore at the end and a great roar for a speech to which Mr Robey responded in his own inimitable style and the 'house' departed in good humour. He had never appeared at the New Theatre before and so we had the unique spectacle of a famous father following his son, for Mr Robey junior was up at Cambridge a few years ago and appeared there in two of the Amateur Operatic Society's productions.

1929 11 06

Nearly thirty arrests were made during a Guy Fawkes 'Rag' on Cambridge Market Hill. Early in the evening an attempt was made to light a bonfire in Petty Cury and there was a considerable blaze in front of Falcon Yard before the police noticed it and it was extinguished. In Rose Crescent an effigy was soaked with petrol, stuffed with fireworks and deposited near the Market Hill end. This was quickly extinguished and the effigy confiscated, but the petrol continued to burn for a long time afterwards. A new feature of the scimmages was the use of police whistles by undergraduates which added to the confusion.

1929 11 06

Hunting cries and the sound of the huntsman's horn accompanied a debate at the Cambridge Union on the motion 'That this House hopes that fox-hunting, steeplechasing, deerstalking, shooting, fishing and all other sports of the field will ever flourish in England'. A Prime Minister, apart from being a learned man and capable of government, should be a racehorse owner. The pseudo-intellectualism of the opponents was a form of abject snobbery, founded on fanaticism rather than fact. Wild animals did not expect man to be friendly and foxes were not torn to pieces by hounds while alive. Blood sports employed a great deal of labour and gave colour to the lives of country folk. But the motion was defeated.

1929 11 07

A sheep farmer, who became annoyed on Guy Fawkes Night at being mistaken for an undergraduate, was summonsed for assaulting the Senior Proctor, Mr Frederick Dykes. He testified that he had been with his constables when he sent one after an undergraduate who attempted to evade him. He then heard a shout of 'Get the Proctor' and felt two blows on his head. One of his constables seized the man now in the dock. Defendant said he was a stranger to Cambridge and had been told that if he followed the proctors round he would see some fun. He was not dressed like an undergraduate. He was fined £3.

Burwell cement works sold, p8*

1929 11 08

The inhabitants of Houghton are up in arms because the postal authorities have removed their sub-post office, which has been there for more than a century, to the neighbouring village of Wyton. It is Post Office practice to give preference to ex-servicemen, but the Houghton office was run by the widow of an ex-servicemen who had lost her breadwinner in the service of his country. It should be returned and telephone facilities installed.

Lorry danger buildings, p7*

1929 11 08 ES

R101 airship passed over Isle – photo – 29 11 08(2) ES # c.26.1

Mrs R. Wilson of Prickwillow a remarkable woman – dug potatoes at 91 – 28 11 08
Alfred Lavender had no front light on lorry at Stretham - 28 11 08

Hilda Everitt

Hilda Everitt came to Haddenham where she worked Post Office; poor health; stayed 6-7 years; wrote poetry published by W. Jefferson of Ely, 'Summertime in Fenland' and 'In Norfolk'; wins prize for 'The Grumbler' – 29 11 08

Miss Hilda Everett came to Haddenham where she was engaged in the Post Office for six or seven years, although her health prevented her from indulging any of the usual outdoor pursuits. She now resides in Norwich

She was able to spend her leisure hours in writing verse and her latest success has been in connection with a competition arranged by the International Institute of British Poetry. Her winning poem of eight stanzas on 'The Grumbler' was hailed as exquisite and technically almost faultless.

It is unfortunate that this district has lost one who can picture so well for everyone to enjoy our beautiful country villages. Eloquent testimony to her work can be found two delightful little books published by Jefferson of Ely, 'Summertime in the Fenland', and 'In Norfolk'. To anyone who loves the countryside, these little books are well worth reading

An increased interest in the celebrations of November the fifth was shown at Ely where not only members of the younger fraternity but also many grownups indulge wholeheartedly in the time honoured custom. Throughout practically the whole day, one could hear fireworks being discharged in different parts of Ely. At night there were continuous reports until a very late hour. A huge bonfire was made on the Quay by boys living in that part of the city and undoubtedly many others had similar fires in different places. On the whole, the day was well celebrated and proved one of the high delight for youngsters 29 11 08 ES

1929 11 09

Every Christmas brings its novelties and now comes the 'Talkie' Christmas cards which Messrs Raphael Tuck have issued. Each card contains a small gramophone record which will convey to the recipient a suitable greeting. There are a variety of records, some with bells, others with carols but all with a spoken message. There is only one further development needed to make them absolutely perfect: an arrangement that will enable anyone to make and send a record of his own voice.

Photos – mayor-making, p6
Runaway car

1929 11 11

Foxton's new village hall, a substantially-built structure in the centre of the village, was opened by the chairman of the University Tutorial Press. It seemed only a short time since the formation of the committee. They were not a rich village, but they were rich in men and women ready to work for the village in which they lived. The hall would give them the opportunity of meeting together. A pleasure fair was held during the afternoon with 'pull the knob', 'hoop-la, bagatelle, tennis-ball throwing and hidden treasure. An evening variety concert was followed by a fancy dress and carnival dance to the music of January's band.

1929 11 11

The Cambridge Rifle Club's new range at Chapel Street, Old Chesterton was opened and Mr H. Ward Trinder, the originator of the club, fired the first shot. It is an indoor range of 25 yards and there is room for six people to shoot at once. It will be open from 2pm to 4.30 and 6 pm to 10 on weekdays. In the past there had been some very good clubs but owing to the war all except for one or two in the county and the Gas Company had fallen out. It was owing to Mr Trinder's efforts that this club was started and it would soon be out of debt.

Armistice, p8

1929 11 13

Addenbrooke's Hospital Musgrave Ward, p6

1929 11 14

Rag case, p5

1929 11 15

Paston House, p8

1929 11 15 ES

Stretham: Death Mabel Elizabeth Curtis, wife F. Curtis, 24. Had been ill since her house was destroyed by fire some three weeks ago. The resultant shock played a very detrimental part in her illness – 29 11 15(2)(3) ES

Ely railway station improvements; one section of new front completed – photo – 29 11 15(4) ES

1929 11 16

The Cambridge Daily News has entered its fifth decade. Times and newspapers have changed since 1888 when the late William Farrow Taylor undismayed by the shoal of gloomy predictions, ventured the first local evening news sheet on the streets of Cambridge. Like every successful paper it has changed with the times. But changes in make-up have not been more radical than those in the personnel of the staff. We have two representatives of the commercial department who have been with us from the beginning year and several on the mechanical side. But there are none in the editorial department who can go back to the time of Mr G. W. Townsend; he treasures a clock with an inscription recording eight years on the C.D.N. terminating in 1897 when he moved to the East Anglian Daily Times.

1929 11 16

The best-dressed sections of the University undergraduates are wearing more whole suits – as compared with the single jacket and flannel trousers. The plus four suits are made up in quiet materials and the knickerbockers are cut medium both in width and length. A pinkish brown colour is likely to prove a fashionable sports suiting. Restraint is the principle determining everything from lounge suits to socks. All the best tailoring shops are making overcoats and golf jackets in camel and llama pile and undergraduates are accepting the vogue with enthusiasm. Cambridge is better dressed than ever. Gone is the sloppiness that at one time was regarded as smart.

R.C. Sheriff & Cambridge, p3
Suicide freshmen, p5

1929 11 19

A meeting of the creditors of Messrs Headley and Edwards of Corn Exchange Street, Cambridge, in voluntary liquidation, was told they had been trading under difficulties for some time. They experienced a period of prosperity just after the war but the last account to show a profit was 1923 and they had got into financial difficulty. A buyer had been found to take over the assets as a going concern and a new Company would be formed to carry on the business.

Dr Mason, p5
Old Cambridge lecture, p6
Ensign demonstration car, p8

1929 11 20

The Royal Institute of British Architects has presented a bronze medal to be awarded annually for a building of outstanding merit erected in Essex, Cambridgeshire and Hertfordshire. One of the conditions is that it must front to a street, road, square or court to which the public has access. Its first award is for the Rose and Crown public house on Newmarket Road, Cambridge designed by Basil Oliver and built by W. Sindall for Greene, King & Sons. A suitable tablet will be fixed to the building

1929 11 20

The benefices of Ickleton and Hinxton may be united because of a shortage of clergy. There would be one minister and one parsonage house could be sold. But Ickleton Church Council said they should be kept apart and that the vicar should live there because it was double the size of Hinxton, the vicarage was the more central and a better house. A lady asked whether the new arrangement would be for all time to which the Chairman replied, "Supposing you discovered coal at Ickleton and started a new town, we should have to consider the matter"

Bus drivers & Park School, p3
Super cinema, p8

1929 11 22

A Cambridge Daily News van driver was travelling towards Huntingdon when he attempted to pass a stationary Vauxhall drawn up at the side of the road. His Singer van skidded on the greasy surface, zig-zagged over the road for a distance and then ran on to the grass. It struck a telegraph pole and one side of the body was torn completely off and the windscreen shattered. The van continued on its way tearing through a hedge and over the surface of a stubble field. In all it skidded for nearly 100 yards but did not turn over. The driver, apart from grazes, was unhurt.

1929 11 23

The parliamentary secretary to the Minister of Health visited Stapleford for the stone-laying of the 500th council house erected by the Rural District Council. It might be a good thing for Ministers of the Crown to come down to such places and see the conditions under which they were working. The former Housing Officer, Mr Bunnett, had been responsible for practically all the houses but the red brick corners on the present scheme were added by his successor. If they adopted every suggestion made there would be some very funny houses by the time they were finished. The party then went on to Harston where they viewed a new type of cottages built of concrete and timber with an old-world decoration made by pricking the plaster when wet, giving them a distinctive appearance.

Woodcock relative, p8

1929 11 25

University squash courts, p5

Transplanting trees photo, p6

1929 11 26

Complaints have been received of persons endeavouring to sell various household accessories on the hire-purchase system under agreements which are very unfair to the customer. These agents generally call when the male members of the family are at work and the housewife is alone in the house. They are adept in the art of 'blarney' and take advantage of her lack of legal knowledge to beguile her into pledging her husband's credit. But he is only liable if the article is a necessity and not a luxury. A machine costing £20 cannot be regarded as a necessity in an ordinary working-class household.

Selwyn Library photo, p6

1929 11 26c

Sir – as a successful representative of the 'Goblin' vacuum cleaners in Cambridge I wish to point out that I ensure that our terms of hire purchase are defined and understood before an agreement is signed and it is always my expressed desire to obtain an interview with the husband. This can be proved by people who have had dealings with the British Vacuum Cleaner Company through me. Trusting this will remove any doubts in the minds of past and prospective customers – J. B. Pearce, Russell Street, Cambridge.

1929 11 27

Women students packed the gallery at the Cambridge Union Society when a motion supporting full University rights for women was carried. A sensation was caused before the debate when it was proposed that in view of the importance of the issue involved the gallery should be cleared but the President ruled that this would cause too much disturbance. Women students lived under a code of rules that could only be described as fatuous; one of the women's colleges allowed its students to go unchaperoned to King's Chapel, but to no other. Girton allowed them to go to the theatre 'provided the party was of reasonable size', whilst Newnham were permitted provided the party 'was not of unreasonable size' (laughter)

Dangerous corner photo, p3

Gramophone recital & hire purchase, p6

Women at Cambridge, p8*

Journey's End, p8

1929 11 28

An amazing story was told at Huntingdon police court when a woman was charged with obtaining goods and money by false pretences. Edward Elphick, house furnisher of Huntingdon, said she had paid with a cheque that was returned marked 'No account'. Albert Bigmore, jeweller of Ramsey told a similar story. Police said she had made many untruthful statements. She came here about a year ago from Essex where she left her husband and four children and lived at Warboys with another man. She then moved to Wistow, Woodhurst, St Ives and Houghton before taking a cottage at Hartford. Wherever she lived she left behind debts and non-payment of rent. She wrote many letters to herself which purported to be from her uncle promising large sums of money and a motor car. She also claimed to be the widow of a naval officer. None of these were true.

1929 11 29 ES

New bridge erected over old River Nene at Northside on Whittlesey-Thorney Road. The old Dog-in-a-Doublet bridge has served to carry traffic across the stream for a great many years but was growing increasingly unsafe for growing vehicular traffic – 29 11 29(2) ES

December 1929 CDN

1929 12 02

An interesting improvement scheme will shortly be undertaken in Petty Cury and Sidney Street. Messrs Boots the Chemist have acquired extensive property with a view to re-housing their old establishment which has grown during some 30 years. Now the time is ripe to erect an emporium to provide an attractive shopping centre for patrons of all classes. The architect is Mr Percy J. Bartlett of Nottingham and his primary consideration is an external appearance that will harmonise with Cambridge's noble architectural traditions and raise the standard of commercial architecture. Building operations will commence early in the New Year

Sebley death, p8

Fordham British Legion club opens, p8

Accident, p8

1929 12 04

An explosion in St Andrew's Street plunged a considerable part of Cambridge's shopping centre into darkness. The cover plate of a junction box of the Electric Supply Company was blown off and several people had a narrow escape from injury. Flames leapt up from the hole and blazed fiercely. For some minutes there was great excitement, people rushing hither and thither. Police whistles were blown and the Fire Brigade turned out but found that the fire had already been put out by a motorist with a fire-extinguisher from his car. Shops and houses in a large area were deprived of light and the printing of the 6.30 edition of the C.D.N. was held up.

Central cinema photo, p3

1929 12 05

Heffer's wonderful new shop in Petty Cury, Cambridge, is a book lovers' paradise. In the basement are 'remainders' at reduced prices while the ground floor is devoted to the latest publications and an extensive foreign literature section. A wide range of second-hand volumes occupies most of the first floor where connoisseurs of original editions will find much to interest them at prices from £5 to £250. On the second floor are oriental, foreign travel and fine art books while higher still are Heffer's own publications, many of local interest. There is a special reference department and out-of-print books service. The front design successfully combines an old-world impression with a modern style.

Abington Hall, p6

1929 12 06

Talkies answer back, p3

Millers advertisement, p5

1929 12 06 ES

Presentation H. Roythorpe on retirement police – photo – 28 12 06(3) ES

Four cars collide on A10 beyond Stretham Bridge – 29 12 06 ES

‘Granny Harley’ of Littleport 88 and still going strong; popular resident – 29 12 06 ES

1929 12 07

Fifteen cows, four horses and a number of fowls were destroyed in a disastrous blaze at Russian Wells Farm, Barkway. The animals were in sheds which were burnt out very quickly owing to the gale which was raging. The farm is occupied by Frank Pigg and the owner is Mr D. Crossman. The fire was discovered by Charles Scripps who immediately informed the horseman; together they tried to get the animals out, but they were driven back by the flames. So he obtained a lift in a motor car to a telephone where he summonsed the Royston Fire Brigade

1929 12 07

Before the war the only real place of amusement in Cambridge was the New Theatre and even that found it necessary to close down when the undergraduates were away. Today we have two theatres, five picture places and frequent amateur productions. Recently I decided to see a show but the Central Cinema had no seats under three shillings unless I queued for two hours. I tried the Festival Theatre but they only had a ‘standing seat’; people were fighting to get into the New Theatre and the A.D.C. only had expensive seats left. As I trailed home I wondered where all the people and the money came from

1929 12 09

Cambridgeshire probably produces more eggs than it eats, it is an exporting county and in competition with the whole world; it is important that our poultry and eggs should be known as some of the best produced, poultrymen were told at the distribution of prizes won in the Egg-Laying Trials. There were 151,785 adult fowls in the county and with an average yield of 100 eggs per bird at 1s. 9d. (16p) per dozen this represented a value of £110,676. The Cambridge Poultry Research Station was doing important work and the University Farm had decided to adopt a poultry unit as part of its teaching equipment.

Sheeps Green flood, photo, p5, account p6

1929 12 10

Sir – I was in the vicinity of Fitzroy Street early one morning and could see a driver with a one-horse van coming from Burleigh Street. He turned right on the corner round Eden Chapel on the wrong side and left down James Street, heedless of any danger. On seeing a police constable I asked whether he had noticed the careless driving around these blind corners. He replied: “This man, being alone driving one horse and van is under no rules or regulations and if he wishes is at liberty to wobble all over the road”. I suggest members of Eden Chapel should be approached over this unsightly spot, with its projecting iron fence; it is a serious block to public traffic. All such dangerous corners should be abolished – E. Claydon, Parsonage Street, Cambridge.

1929 12 10

A Fowlmere baker, Frank Perry, had a narrow escape when his van overturned in a collision at Harston. He was delivering bread and just turning into a driftway when an Alvis touring car struck the front of the van which was twisted completely round and landed on its side. Its front axle was torn completely off. Bread and pastries were scattered all over the road as the doors burst and the driver was imprisoned in his cab. Beyond a bruised knee and cut hand he was uninjured. Alderman Webber who was motoring by, assisted by an A.A. Scout, directed traffic past the damaged vehicle.

1929 12 10

Soham residents considered two schemes for the supply of light. One was from the Soham Gas Company, the other from Beds., Cambs. & Hunts. Electricity Co. There was little information on the Gas Company scheme; they didn’t know whether it would be driven by oil, gas or steam or how long it would take. The Electricity Company would supply current by overhead lines to a substation, it would be installed in a few months and they have an alternative generating machine in the event of a breakdown. This was the one agreed.

1929 12 11

Motorists, p3

1929 12 12

Flooded roads, p5

Women rent collector, p8*

1929 12 13

Cambridge council agreed that the site of Grantchester Mill should be purchased by the corporation, they will offer £1,000. The house was formerly tenanted by Mr Nutter and carried with it the water rights and control of the river right through. This was of extreme importance to the town but what would they do with the meadow and the banks of the river? The bridge was built by Merton College for the use of the mill and might be a liability as it had never been taken over by Chesterton RDC or the County Council.

Giant tree Kings Backs felled – photo, p7

1929 12 13 ES

Death J.C. Bridgeman, ex-captain of Soham fire brigade – 29 12 13 ES

1929 12 14

F.A. Ridgeon, the Cambridge Town Football Club's inside left, travelled by aeroplane to Sussex for the F.A. Amateur Cup tie with Southwick. There was some doubt whether he could make the match owing to duties in Stamford preventing him from travelling by train. Hearing of his difficulty Mr D.G. Marshall of Aviation Hall generously placed his Moth aeroplane at his disposal. His son, Arthur Marshall, would have piloted the machine but he had gone on an air trip to Austria so a de Havilland pilot was engaged for the journey. This is, we believe, the first time an amateur footballer has travelled to a match by air. Cambridge won 2-0.

Shop window fire, p3

Victoria Cinema fire, p8

1929 12 16

French's Road houses photo, p5

1929 12 17

St Catharine's college houses demolished photo, p5

Housing & children, p8

1929 12 18

England has lost its oldest Freemason and Saffron Walden its oldest inhabitant with the death of George Moss Taylor. He was born in May 1833 and became a member of the Walden Masonic lodge in 1876, acting as Tyler for more than 50 years. He saw the first train run on the main London to Cambridge line from a hill at Littlebury 83 years ago. Cambridge has also lost a popular figure in Mr Frederick Dale, head of the brewery that bears his name. He started it 25 years ago and it rapidly became one of the largest in the district. He took a keen interest in the affairs of many local clubs and many forms of sport enjoyed his patronage, but he shunned political life. One of his chief hobbies was the collection of antiques and he had an extraordinarily fine collection of old English silver

1929 12 19

Alsopp & Wicken, p10

King & Harper photos, p12

1929 12 20 ES

Mepal washes flooded

Despite the abnormally heavy rain the area has escaped the floods due no doubt to the parched state of the land following the drought which caused a serious shortage of water during the summer. With rain such as that recorded in November, the land under normal conditions would in all probability have been flooded to a serious extent.

The land at Mepal has not been immune from floodwaters and floods of minor character have been experienced. But the benefit of the completion of the new viaduct over which pedestrians and vehicular traffic have been able to pass in comfort can be appreciated. When the reporter visited he found wonderful progress had been made with the massive bridge over the tidal river as well as the viaduct, both of which will be completed in the near future. Over the viaduct, a steady stream of traffic was passing. On the bridge itself a large body of men were at work. Another gang was engaged in shaping the road which will lead from the bridge to the viaduct. When the whole scheme has been completed, it will represent one of the finest and most useful road improvements that have been carried out in the county. It will form a magnificent source of protection against the great inconvenience caused by floods. 29 12 20(2)ES

Two men in steam wagon blinded by dazzling lights

A pathetic story of how two men in a steam waggon were blinded by the dazzling lights of an oncoming motor car and ran into a man with a cycle with fatal consequences was told to the Coroner. The victim was Stephen Wheeler, a well-known and highly respected Haddenham man, aged 56 years.

Arthur Sharp, a steam waggon driver in the employ of Mr. Robert Watson of Wilburton stated he left Ely driving a steam waggon toward Stretham and on approaching Brick Hill a car was coming towards him. It had very bright headlights dazzling him. Just before the car passed he felt a bump. He knew he had run over something, shut off the engine applied the brake. He found a man lying in the road. He stopped the first car and told the occupants to inform the police and the doctor. He went back to the man and raised his head. A doctor was passing and said he was dead.

The driver was asked how far the light on the engine would show anything that was on the road. He was told from five to 10 yards. The speed of the engine would be about six miles an hour. He was not putting out any smoke at the time: they always use Welsh coal and there is no smoke when from that. A witness said he had passed the deceased who had been walking with his bicycle within a foot of the left hand side of the road going toward Stretham. He saw no light on the bicycle as it was going away from him. He saw it after the accident and there was no light on it. There was a very strong wind.

The Coroner said a foot passenger was not bound to keep on the pavement. He had a right to walk in the carriage way. But he must use reasonable care not to get into the way. A bicycle ought to have a brilliant bright on the back as well as the front. A verdict of misadventure was returned. 29 10 20(3)ES

Soham Congregational Church reopened after renovations – 29 12 20(4) ES

1929 12 23

“How many in your family?” “Eleven”. With a happy swing of his spade a stalwart policeman dug deeply into the mountain of potatoes before him and a couple of shovelfuls went tumbling into a capacious sack. A wan-looking little woman smiled gratefully, lifted the sack into a perambulator and passed on. She was one of the 200 who received Christmas cheer at the Cambridge Police Poor and Needy Fund distribution. Each received a parcel containing a piece of English beef, flour, raisins, tea, sugar, margarine, nuts, oranges and milk.

1929 12 24

Market Hill decorations photo, p8

1929 12 27

Mill Road Xmas dinner, p5 & p6

Fred Dale death, p8*

1929 12 28

Review of the year – national

1929 12 30

Regent Street bus traffic, p5

Butt Green footpath, p7

Wireless licences – photo masts, p8

1929 12 31

The firing of the rockets on Parker's Piece, which has been a New Year's Eve custom since 1815 is now a thing of the past. The increasing pull of counter-attractions such as dances has seen dwindling attendance at the midnight ceremony and last year Mr Deck came to the conclusion that no useful purpose would be served by carrying on. So another old custom which served its day and generation well has passed away. There has also been a falling off of the Watch Night services, which once drew crowded congregations, but the Ortona Social Club function at the Masonic Hall was a lively function.

Chesterton railway bridge photo

Peeps from the Past feature in Ely Standard

Peeps ... 7th March 1879: St Mary's Church, Ely, to re-open after repairs – 29 03 08 ES

Peeps ... 17 Jun 1904: The Post Office telephone exchange was opened during the past week at Ely; twenty-one subscribers have already been found – 29 06 14(3) ES

Peeps from the past: 8th July 1904. While excavating on a site for some news houses at Town-end March, some workmen came across a quantity of human bones in a decayed state. There were no signs of any coffin, but, from the appearance of the bones that were unearthed, they are believed to be part of a skeleton of a full-grown person. Portions of the skull were found, and the lower jaw, with 16 teeth fairly well preserved, was intact. The other bones indicated that the person was buried with the hands and arms above the head – 29 07 12 ES

Peeps from the past: 8th July 1904. The promoters of the scheme for the erection of a bridge over the river at Guyhirn do not appear to be meeting with the success that was at first anticipated. The Isle of Ely County Council have practically refused to assist them in any way, and an application for a grant from the Holland County Council has been treated in the same manner. The estimated cost of the bridge was stated to be £3,800, and it would be of great benefit by opening another road between South Lincolnshire and Cambridgeshire – 29 07 12 ES

Peeps from the past: 11 July 1879

Sanger's collection of animated waxworks visited Sutton and have great satisfaction – 29 07 12 ES

Peeps ... 17 Jun 1904: The Post Office telephone exchange was opened during the past week at Ely; twenty-one subscribers have already been found – 29 06 14(3) ES

Peeps ... 7th March 1879: St Mary's Church, Ely, to re-open after repairs – 29 03 08 ES

Peeps ... 19th December 1879. Typhoid fever is very prevalent in the parish of Soham, there being no less than 20 cases on the One Fen Common. Measles are also very general and low fever is likewise prevalent - 29 12 20 ES

1930 Cambridge Daily News & Ely Standard

I have scans of articles summarised or marked *

January 1930 CDN & Ely Standard [ES]

1930 01

An inquest was held on the body of a Sudanese student of St Catharine's College who was found on Christmas morning lying in front of a blazing gas fire in an 'extremely hot room' in Pembroke Street. Police evidence showed that a ventilation canopy near the chimney had been closed. The student often felt the cold and sat quite close to the fire. He had probably been overcome by the heat and died from suffocation.

1930 01 01 c

Record crowds attended the New Year's Eve dances at the Central and Masonic Halls in Cambridge and many were unable to gain admittance. They will be wiser next time, perhaps and book early. A large crowd gathered at the Rendezvous but so great was the crush that serious dancing was impossible. A great many people stayed at home in anticipation of hearing something extra special on the wireless. They did – though it is doubtful whether some of it came up to expectations.

Gipsy Smith, p5*
Sawston water, p5

1930 01 03

Magistrates discussed reducing the number of public houses. But in the past few years almost all applications to close had been refused; closing public houses was a form of prohibition and very few would want to shut. Problems were caused by 'drinking all round' – the worst side of the public house - but there was no such thing as drunkenness in Cambridgeshire, and with the exception of a few days after Christmas there had not been a single case in Cambridge. However drunkenness was not the issue – it was a question of redundancy, the licensed houses closed themselves and a nominal sum of £50 was paid in compensation.

1930 01 04

George Lister, a life-long resident of Cambridge and for many years one of its best-loved employers has passed away. He set up the business of Lister and Sons, motor and general engineers in Abbey Road. He was the type of man who created an atmosphere of good fellowship; in dealing with the younger members of his staff he would go out of his way to assist them to acquire the practical knowledge of an engineer. The good feeling in the firm is illustrated in that several men have 30 to 40 years' service to their credit.

1930 01 05 c

Israel Custerson, a farmer of Kingston, told the court that the defendant, a caravan dweller, had said he was stuck up the road because he had no petrol and let him have a can of petrol valued at six shillings. The man said he was going to Bourn to fill up the lorry and would bring the can back. But he did not return. Police Sergeant Smith said he saw the lorry at Barrington Green, noticed the petrol can and cautioned him. Defendant said he was an iron and metal buyer, he had returned to the farm but it was getting late and his lights failed. The next day his engine went wrong and he had to do repairs. He was fined £2.

1930 01 06

CDN dinner, p5

1930 01 08

Sidney Street bus accident
Night safe photo, p8

1930 01 09

Cambridge bankruptcy court heard of a young man who began trading as a milk retailer. He bought a motor-cycle truck sidecar for milk work then exchanged it for a Ford touring car. But it was no good – he had engine trouble and practically everything went wrong. It was broken up and he bought at Austin 20 for £17 and had it converted into a lorry. He had about 90 customers in Mill Road but they dropped to 20 when the Co-op started in the milk business; he then tried his luck as a haulage contractor and finally tried to recoup his losses by racing greyhounds at Cambridge.

1930 01 09

A Soham grocer said he had started as manager of the Co-operative shop and then gone into partnership with John Everitt. They had bought a horse and cart and did delivery work, but found no cash. He had then started on his own and did well until the war broke out. Since 1913 five new competitors had sprung up, three in Soham, one with motor vans from Newmarket and another from Ely. People also went shopping by bus. He had used some of the money of the Soham Slate Club, of which he was treasurer to pay his debts.

Mowbray Road photo, p8

1930 01 10

The drove under the bank at Isleham which is the only means of access to the houses alongside the river is in a terrible state, full of holes filled with mud and water and well night impassable. Some of the children attending school have to wade through mud and water over their boot tops for two miles and arrive so tired they are not in a fit condition for their lessons. Some years ago the school had to be closed owing to the impossibility of the mistress getting to there.

1930 01 10

Extensive netting was carried out in the ponds at Madingley Hall; over 8,000 fish, mostly roach and rudd, were transferred in tanks to Newnham Mill Pool. The party, which included Mr Ambrose Harding and Horace Coulson arrived equipped with nets and tanks which strongly resembled dust-bins. The first haul was made across the bridge end of the pond and resulted in the capture of about 400 small roach which were taken to Cambridge by lorry. The next produced upwards of 2,000 fish, too many for the lorry so Mr Coulson took some in pails in his car. The third pond yielded a still finer catch

1930 01 10 ES

An ex-Police Sergeant had been a Recorder of the Ely Field Club taking special interest in the examination of bones and relics found in the district.

He displayed a keen interest in wireless. Numerous sets had been made by him and he was ever ready to rectify a defect in a set owned by one whose knowledge of wireless was limited.

He was charged with stealing a wireless high-tension battery from Curry's shop at Ely. Three weeks ago he had missed an Amphion loud speaker and a Triotron unit before that. He had marked a battery with a private mark. It was later found in the armoury at the police station.

The Manager said the policeman had been a good customer. He had several times taken things one day and paid for them the next. But he had neither given or sold the battery to him. 30 01 10

1930 01 11

The new night safe at Lloyds Bank in Sidney Street is not yet in working order but I had a peep and was impressed by the ingenious working of the arrangement. The safe is Lloyds' own invention and the Cambridge branch is amongst the earliest to have it installed. There was a time when people of small means did not trouble the banks very much but now the humblest investor seems to be welcomed. There are various kinds of home safe including a tasteful little book safe in four colours

'Wayabout' maps, p8

St Peters Street house photo, p8

1930 01 13 c

A child living in Isleham fen who was suffering from diphtheria had to be taken to the fever hospital in an open cart, there being no means of getting the ambulance up to the house, and it died the Monday following. Another child, aged nine, had to be carried on a stretcher for a long distance until the hard road was reached. The Fen Bank Drove serves a number of dwelling houses and three public houses together with the school which was built in 1879. Men have been employed filling up holes and now that there is a great amount of unemployment this is a favourable time to put the road into repair

1930 01 13

Cambridge experienced the full force of the gales. Broken fragments of tiles and chimney pots told their own tale including the house of Mr David Crown, the builder, which had a large hole in the roof. Many trees were blown down along the Backs of the Colleges; two on the corner of Queens' Green were both snapped off by the violence of the winds, another fell across the road opposite St John's College and several giant elms were snapped off like matchwood. A large tree fell across the road at Trumpington and a motor cyclist collided with it, without injury. A poplar on the edge of Snob's Stream, Sheeps Green fell carrying with it a large number of telegraph wires.

1930 01 13

A mysterious fire with some curious features occurred at the old Mill House, Ickleton. The house adjoins the works of the Ickleton Electricity Supply Company which were burnt down a few weeks ago. Inscribed on a battered tin tray, leaning against the door of the blazing mill, which was completely gutted, firemen found the words 'Revenge is Sweet'. The police have taken possession of the tray and inquiries are being pursued. Two brigades were unable to save the house. The occupier of the house was in Cambridge at the time of the outbreak and his wife was in London.

1930 01 14

Sir – at Wisbech the canal is being bridged over making it impassable to canal barges and steps have been taken to fill it in at certain places. For years this navigation has been a positive disgrace. All new bridges should be designed with ample width and head room. It is vital that all waterways linking the eastern grain-growing area and the great brick-making district at Peterborough with the Midland canal system should be protected. Without them no revival of arable farming can be looked for. If the Nene and Ouse navigations were remodelled and a 14-mile canal cut from Bedford to Fenny Stratford a vast acreage of farm land would be linked to the Midlands. We have 1,100,000 able-bodied employable men working for work instead of the dole – G.C. Henderson.

Sheeps Green bathing pace, p3*

Over house, p5

1930 01 15

From modest beginnings in Fitzroy Street the history of the House of Heffer is one of continuous progress. The Printing Works on Hills Road has been considerably enlarged, last year saw reconstruction of the Petty Cury Bookshop which is now twice its original size, and this year sees the reconstruction of the Sidney Street Stationery and Art Shop. It will be a shop worthy of its central position. The new premises will have five floors, the frontage will be in the Georgian style with pilasters, fascia and columns of grey polished granite and the upper part will be faced with red Flemish bricks with Weldon stone dressings to the windows. A unique feature will be the Picture Gallery on the third floor with a barrel-shaped ceiling

1930 01 15

An application was made for the winding up of the Cambridge Service Motor Company of Hobson Street. It had been incorporated as a private company in 1923, taking over the Service Motor Company engineering business. Their account was considerably overdrawn for much of its existence and it now had an overdraft of £6,744. The assets consisted of a number of used motor-cars of no great value. It was unable to pay its debts and should be wound up. 30 01 15 & 15a

Photo barges, p8

1930 01 17

The R100 airship which made a long flight from Cardington in fog was seen as a fleeting but fascinating object over Swavesey. Emerging from the mist like a spectre of the sky, the giant vessel attracted admiring attention as the sun glinted on her silvery nose, which, approaching head-on, was turned into the semblance of a full moon. She circled round the locality before disappearing in the fog in the direction of St Ives. 30 01 17

1930 01 17 ES

Manea model poultry farm in First Eastern General Hospital buildings 30 01 17 # c.21.4 *

In the heart of the glorious Fenland in the field near Manea railway station is a poultry farm claimed to be one of the best equipped and most hygienic in the country.

Mr H.O. Crouch is a well-known farmer but his wife is responsible for the poultry section which is a farm in itself. The incubator house is a shed large enough to garage a small car and the incubator is a huge thing almost covering the whole of the floor space. Known as the 'Buckeye' it is an American invention with the capacity for incubating 3072 eggs in three instalments.

Whereas with the old method eggs had to be turned by hand one by one at certain period, the attendant merely opens a glass door turns a handle and the whole contraption containing the eggs on the shelves automatically turns over. The temperature is kept at 100 degrees inside the incubator and the room temperature is invariably kept at 60 degrees. The heat is obtained from specially-made stove, the necessary moisture in the air being supplied by a small water tank nearby. The hot moist air is distributed by means of an overhead electric fan.

On average over 1,000 wriggling balls of fluff are removed from the chambers every seven days. They are then placed in what is known as the first brooder house. This building is fitted with Vita-glass windows which admit the ultraviolet rays from the sun. Running down the centre of the building is a fixture on which is built the pen into which the little chicks are placed. At the back of each pen hangs a small piece of green baize which the chicks pass to enter their sleeping or roosting apartment. It helps to retain the warmth.

The chicks are kept warm by means of a set of hot water pipes passing above them. Water is heated with an anthracite stove placed at the centre of the building. After the chicks have been in this building three weeks they are transferred to the second brooder house for hardening purposes. Here they are placed on ground level and each pen is connected to a run outside the shed.

All the houses and buildings and even the birds are daily sprayed with Izal disinfectant.

In order to give summer heat and light throughout the year all the buildings and the whole of the farm is lit by electricity produced by a crude oil engine

The water runs through a trough several feet off the ground and cannot become contaminated with grit and dirt from the birds' feet. In order to drink the birds are forced to fly onto a perch.

The store in which the food is kept is on the scale of a small granary and it is the intention to install a number of four-wheeled trolleys on which the food will be placed and taken around.

The farm has a capacity for 4,000 laying fowls and the eggs are dispersed in London markets and dairies.

The main laying house is a huge place and is not yet fully extended. When this has been done, it will be possible to walk through a quarter-of-a-mile of poultry-laying pens under one roof.

One would imagine that to manage such an up-to-date and elaborate poultry farm a number of skilled attendants would be required. But one man, his wife and two boy assistants are all the staff employed. The buildings were an old wartime hospital at Cambridge and were transported and erected by Mr. Crouch's own work men. 30 01 17ES

Stretham village pump was damaged when a motorist, backing out having pulled up at a garage close by for petrol, was blinded by the sun and straight into it. A resident was at the pump at the time of the collision, but ran clear leaving her pail which was destroyed. The motorist made good the damage to the pail, but drove off without leaving his name. The local authority is pursuing investigations with a view to finding them. 30 01 17b

1930 01 18

John Robert Bennett has died, aged 90 years. A native of Cambridge he married in 1867 and built his house in Gwydir Street in 1869. At that time that part of the town consisted mainly of fields. Since the foundation of St Matthew's Parish he has held the office of churchwarden on many occasions. He became the senior partner in the firm of Messrs J.R. Bennett and Sons, builders, contractors and undertakers, of Catharine Street which had been founded by his father. 30 01 18

1930 01 20

Demolition work has begun on the Chesterton Sub-Police station, Mitcham's Corner. At one time the office of the old Chesterton Urban District Council it became a police station on the amalgamation of Chesterton with the borough. Corner improvements have made its removal desirable. Workmen are hurrying in and out and already it is windowless and completely barren internally. It will be replaced by a police-box. The familiar fire standards are also doomed to disappear; five wall boxes have been erected which will be in operation as soon as the telephones are installed. The change has been made because the public dislikes the breaking of glass in the older standards and prefer to use a telephone case of emergency 30 01 20

1930 01 21

There was a return of undergraduate hooliganism when hundreds of 'Varsity men rushed one of the entrances of the Central Cinema in Hobson Street in an attempt to see the extraordinary British talkie 'High Treason'. The trouble arose with those who had booked their seats. The orderliness of the queue became disorganised through latecomers surging round the entrance and when the door was thrown open a dense and disorderly crowd surged forward like an avalanche. The attendants attempted to stem the tide but were bruised in their struggle to stop an inevitable onrush. "Such a thing has never occurred before; the undergraduates were undoubtedly the cause, they think they can do as they like. We never had all this fuss in the vacation and we had full houses then", the manager said. 30 01 21

1930 01 22

Fire caused extensive damage to a house in High Street, Duxford. The Fire Brigade was quickly summoned and an immediate search for water began. The nearest supply was the river, 300 yards away. A slight delay was caused by extra hose being needed from Cambridge and by the time it arrived flames were leaping from the roof. Difficulty was added to the situation by the complete darkness. The only lights available were a few torches and cycle lamps, but later aid was given by means of spot-lights from cars. 30 01 22

1930 01 24

Band of Hope car & cinema, p6

1930 01 25

Cambridge University Cinematograph Society has just started on its new film; it will be even more ambitious than last year's "Aunt Matilda's Nephew". That was a two-reel burlesque on University life but "Varsity" is to be a more serious affair. It will be a mixture of comedy and drama. There will be a strong love interest and the services of some professional actresses are being sought. The director is Mr S. Legg and the camera man Mr Graff. 30 01 25 & a

County Hall, p7

1930 01 28

The inaugural meeting of the Cambridge branch of the Council for the Preservation of Rural England heard that the appearance of a Charles II house at the corner of the road between Huntingdon and the Great North Road had recently been completely spoiled by some dreadful enamelled signs and that

Caxton – a gem of a village surrounded by lovely undulating land – could not now be approached unless one was ‘hit in the eye’ by a horrible advertisement which blocked the way. The Bishop of Ely said the motor business and traffic had a tremendous amount to answer for. The petrol stations were just like fungus. In regard to local beauty spots they had Wicken fen and also beet sugar factories. (Laughter) 30 01 28

Women workers – Mrs Adeane, p3

1930 01 29

Beet factory pollution, p8

1930 01 31 ES

Ely Beet factory maximum fine for pollution of Ouse 30 01 31

Ely Beet Sugar Factory which commenced operations in 1925, was fined for permitting liquid matter to flow into the river so as to cause the waters to be injurious to fish.

The Ouse and Cam Fishery Board were reluctant to prosecute and had tried persuasion first. The Act prohibited putting into any river any poisonous matter in such quantities that the waters when mixed with the poisonous effluent was injurious to fish. And there was overwhelming evidence to prove that the factory had done so.

The Factory stated they had employed the most improved methods of obtaining a pure effluent. This was untrue. They had done practically nothing. They were putting into the river an awful foul smelling liquid without any chemical to qualify in any way.

In October last year, the river was in a most appalling state: there were dead fish every few yards and near Denver Sluice dead fish were lying in hundreds 30 01 31

New Shire Hall plans 30 01 31b # I.B.

February 1930 CDN & Ely Standard

1930 02 01

The Backs look very desolate just now for fifteen of the giant elms have been condemned to death and the axe and saw has already accounted for most of them. The trees are being felled because their tops have become rotten and there is a danger of passers-by. Children are making the scene their playground and gathering firewood to take home and young amateur woodmen trying their skills with choppers when the workmen are not looking at them. The trees will be replaced by young elms. There is a variety of opinion about the age of the trees; some put them at 180 years but other say none is more than 100 years old. 30 02 01c

Architects, brewers and builders gathered outside the Rose and Crown public house on Newmarket Road, Cambridge, to witness the unveiling of a plaque proclaiming it one of the best buildings erected in East Anglia during 1928. They then adjourned to the very attractive club room for speeches. The Vice Chancellor said that Cambridge had a good tradition for good beer. When he was an undergraduate there was a college servant who sang: “I likes a glass of good beer, I does. It does you no harm, and does you a lot of good”. 30 02 01

1930 02 04

Sir – the misfortune which has fallen upon the seven tenants of Cheney Water Farm, Steeple Morden prompts a public appeal on their behalf. The destruction of a large brick barn and adjoining cart shed by the recent gale buried nearly all the carts and implements used on the farm; a number of other implements are badly broken, some beyond repair. About ten tons of chaff has also been damaged. It is urgent to carry out repairs in order that the work on the farm can proceed but the tenants are not in a position to bear the cost themselves. We shall be grateful for donations of any amount – G.T. Garratt, County Councillor, E. O. Fordham Chairman of County Smallholdings Committee. 30 02 04

Mrs Keynes, p3

1930 02 05

The novel sight of people being lowered from an upper window of Messrs Macintosh's establishment in Market Street Cambridge by means of a new automatic fire escape has attracted considerable attention. The escape consists of a small metal box containing geared mechanism through which runs a steel cable with a safety belt fixed at each end. It can be fixed to the wall inside the window. The belt is placed round the body, under the arms and the person is lowered to the ground automatically at the rate of two feet per second. Most of the colleges have been equipped with it. Anybody desirous of testing the escape can do so and already a number of people, including one of the CDN photographers have done so. 30 02 05

1930 02 07 ES

Robert Hinkin of Lt Thetford, 99

There are few people who have worked on the land all their lives and reached the remarkable age of 99 years. But Robert Hinkin of Lt Thetford is one of the grandest old men in the county.

Born in February 1831, his mother died when he was about three years old and he went to live with his grandmother at Wicken. Age 10 He started his career on the land, going to work for Mr. Johnson of Wicken Hall as a bird scarer. He then worked for John Dennis of Spinney Abbey and various people in different farms until about 31, eventually securing a position as a horse keeper.

He returned to Thetford 63 years ago, and for the next 50 years was the landlord of the Rose and Crown public house. But he never discontinued his work on the land and at the age of 97, dug over about an acre of land adjoining the little cottage which he owns which was covered with weeds and grass two feet in height.

He regularly visits Ely with his pony and cart and calls at the shops for parcels and people. He continued his business as a carrier to the time of his death of his wife four years ago.

In the days when there was no such things as organ Mr. Hinkin used to accompany the singing of the Baptist Church at Thetford on his clarinet and was one of the leading singers at The Chapel until his age prevented him. He was also the bandmaster of the Little Thetford band, which went out of existence some 20 or 30 years ago. It was regarded as one of the best in the district

Until four years ago he had never been attended by a doctor and had taken a little medicine. But he climbed a ladder leaning against a tree in his garden and when he was about halfway up, the ladder broke and he fell to the ground. This necessitated him being attended by a doctor but not for long.

He has retained all his faculties except his hearing which prevents him from listening to the wireless which is installed in his house. The greatest part of his time he spends in the house smoking but he takes one little alcoholic drink. Although he has not one tooth, and has not had for several years, he can eat practically anything but always has a good appetite. He is a fine old man with a kind face absolutely free from wrinkle and a full white silvery beard.

He can recall the time when there were no traction engines, no railway to Ely, no policeman and no iron ploughs. When the first traction engine came to Wicken a lot of people came from Exning and all parts to see it. 1930 02 07 ES

Ely Council agreed to purchase land suitable for dwellings.

They included a portion of Barton fields between the old Mill mound and Cambridge Road, sufficient for ten dwellings, the field adjoining the Water Tower (12 dwellings), The Oakery, Lynn Road (26), part of Dovecote Close facing Downham Road (14), the field south of Fieldside sufficient for 24 dwellings in substitution of the field on the Cambridge Road opposite Eagle Terrace. The whole of Nutholt Close, be acquired sufficient for 36 dwellings in substitution for the Dovecot Close. Additional ground in Barton field sufficient for eight dwellings should be acquired in substitution of the Reservoir Field that 16 dwellings be erected on the garden ground adjoining the Cattle Market. The Clerk would enter into negotiation with the owners of the several grounds with a view to purchasing the same for the erection of dwellings for the working classes.

Suggested Prickwillow-Littleport Road 30 02 07

Prickwillow Road Middle Fen Tolls are now let to Mr. J. Taylor for a period expiring in October 1920. The Isle of Ely County Council had agreed to take over the Ely to Prickwillow Road as a main road but insisted that the collection of the tolls at Prickwillow Bridge should be removed from that spot. The Commissioners are willing to move the collection of the tolls from that site provided the Council agreed to make and maintain a hard road 13 feet in width along the back of the Commissioners bank of the Lark to the boundary of Isleham. The Commissioners would be handing over £1,400, and why should they give them up without any recompense. They would lose a lot in rates if the bank broke and the land was flooded. The bank was a high one and was dangerous and a hard road would considerably strengthen it. But it would be an enormous expense to maintain a road there. 30 02 07 ES

Mr A.J. Cross, a coal merchant and farmer of Ely bought an action against Joseph Martin, horse dealer of Soham for breach of warranty.

He had attended Ely Fair and seen a horse which seemed suitable for his purpose and had asked whether Martin could guarantee the animal as a genuine one. Martin replied, "Yes, you can put him anywhere you like on the land or on the road".

He took the horse home and a day or two afterwards he was taken to the station in a trolley which was loaded with coal. The horse started off all right with this load, but when he reached a slight incline at the station approach he would not go any further becoming very troublesome. He backed into a fence and threw himself down. He had to be taken out of the cart, and a much lighter animal put in to take the coal away.

The horse was a powerful one but even when a trace horse was fetched, he would still not pull an ordinary load and would not let the trace horse do so either.

They put him into a cart after that, and as long as he was on level ground, he was alright. But when he got to the bottom of Fore Hill with only 5 cwt of coal on the cart, he stopped. Cross tried all means to get him going, but he refused to budge. He had taken the coal off and carried the sacks up the hill on his back. The horse went up the hill with the empty cart.

The next time he was in Nuthold Lane with 12 cwt of coal on the cart and after he had removed one sack he could not get the animal to start again. Eventually it backed into the gutter and nearly upset all the coal.

On practically every occasion Mr. Cross had to put on another horse before he could get him along at all. Whenever it felt the slightest weight it seemed to refuse to move.

Later, they thought they would try him on the land. He and another horse were drawing a load of manure but when he got to the bad road by the river he stopped and declined to go any further.

The warranty with the horse was obviously incorrect because he was proved to be almost worthless for drawing loads as for work on the land. Eventually it was sold. Mr. Cross wrote to the defendant, asking him to return the cheque, but there was no reply. 30 02 07 ES

At the annual general meeting of Messrs Sharman and Co proprietors of this newspaper Mr. C.A. Sharman was pointed a director. This is the third generation of the family to have control of the newspaper. The late Mr. George Sharman founded the business in 1872 and for many years it has been controlled by his two sons. The history of the newspaper is a record of continuous process. Commencing in a very modest way 58 years ago, it has grown from a small publication with a very limited circulation to the present large newspaper which commands a weekly sale now rapidly approaching 20,000. Great improvements have been made in recent years in the equipment of the office and works of the Company and the ever increasing circulation testifies to the public appreciation of the efforts which have been made to issue a first class newspaper 30 02 07

1930 02 10

Kubelik, the world-famous violinist who is playing at Cambridge Guildhall is one of the outstanding artists who have not succumbed to the lure of broadcasting. He objects to the microphone on the grounds that it can never give the listener the full benefit of a musician's art. But he has no objection to making gramophone records. Cambridge charms him. It is over ten years since he last visited but his affection is undimmed. 30 02 10

A memorial to Rupert Brooke may be erected at Grantchester using part of the money subscribed for the memorial on the Greek island of Skyros, where he died. But it will be deferred until the Skyros memorial is completed. The Rupert Brook tradition is still being maintained here; there is still a fabulous sale of his poems. In addition to his residence at Grantchester Brooke is most associated with it through his most famous poem, the original manuscript of which is one of the lesser-known treasures of the Fitzwilliam Museum. 30 02 10a

St Bene't's church, p6

1930 02 11

Cambridgeshire has lost another of its 'grand old men' with the passing of Mr S.H. Rowley at Histon in his 89th year. He was one of the original members of the County Council on its formation in 1889. He scorned the ordinary election methods but his victory was the signal for great rejoicing; the bells of Histon church were pealed and his supporters unharnessed his horse and drew him home amid hearty cheers. He resigned in 1896 becoming County Chief Road Surveyor, a post he held until 1909. 30 02 11

Mrs Hartree, p3

Gas Company report, p5

Kubalik photo, p8

1930 02 12

Kubalik concert, p3

Arbury Road Baptist pic, p3

1930 02 13

Trustees of the Hinxton Hall said two main roads passed through their estate together with some smaller ones. The County had imposed restrictions with regard to building and fencing at three corners, to prevent the obstruction of the views of motorists saying it was not essential to wait until a corner had yielded a crop of accidents before imposing restrictions. They should also consider the probable increase in the volume of motor traffic and the threatened abolition of all speed limits. But the drastic penalties foreshadowed by the new Traffic Bill would go some way to checking the exuberance of the reckless driver. The judge said a restriction of 50 yards was ample at all junctions except the one at Stump Cross but as this was injurious to the Estate they were entitled to compensation. 30 02 13a

Arbury Baptist church stonelaying photo, p5

St Andrews Street cables photo, p8

1930 02 14

Large crowds gathered for the stone-laying of the new Arbury Road Baptist Church Hall and School. The new church will have the support of the Old Chesterton Baptists who will vacate their present chapel when the new building is complete. It will serve the needs of inhabitants of Green End Road, Milton Road and the Hurst Park & Chesterton Hall Estates and will be able to welcome members of other denominations. The ceremony was one of the most unique ever performed, there being six foundation stones laid. 30 02 14

Bateman Street trees photo, p8

1930 02 14 ES

Ely's latest motor service station, Service Motor Company, Lynn Road – photo 30 02 14 *

1930 02 15

Photo widening corner station and Tenison Roads

1930 02 17

Mr Chris Waller of Bassingbourn, one of the most famous trainers and riders 'over the sticks' of his day, has died as the result of a collision between his four-wheeled American buggy and a motor car. He successfully trained and owned many horses in the course of a long association with the Turf. He steered Jolly Sir John in Old Joe's Grand National of 1886 and Aladdin in 1888. As a trainer he commenced at Welwyn and migrated to Royston whence he went to Stockbridge to manage Major Joicey's stud farm. 30 02 17a

St Botolph's church, p3

1930 02 18

A special train was chartered to bring Mrs Albert Maltby, who lives at the West River gatehouse, near Ely, into Cambridge. The wife of a railway employee he was engaged in feeding her chickens when she slipped on the icy ground, breaking her leg. The gatehouse is in a part of the fens almost inaccessible save by the railway so a special train consisting of engine and brake was sent out to take her to Cambridge station from where she was conveyed to Addenbrooke's Hospital in the Borough Police ambulance. 30 02 18

We have to record the death of Mrs Richardson, wife of Mr Charles Richardson, the late sub-postmaster of Over. She was much respected in the village where her 34-year's work as sub-postmistress was greatly appreciated. Upon their retirement in 1929 villagers presented them with a silver teapot, cream jug and sugar basin, suitably inscribed as a token of their good wishes. 30 02 18a

Mrs Alan Gray, p3

De Valois, Festival, p8

1930 02 19

Farren photographer, p8

1930 02 20

If one morning in passing your front door you see a strange design in chalk on the step, you may take it for granted that a tramp of the blood has passed that way and according to the reception he received at your back door so he has decorated it. The next tramp on seeing the pattern on the doorstep will know what to expect. The signs include symbols for a savage dog, burglar alarm or a kind-hearted women. Others advise 'Pretend to be ill', 'You will have to do some work for what you get' or 'Nothing doing!' 30 02 20

Talkies at Lents photo, p8*

1930 02 22

What is it that attracts people today? People do like jazz and syncopation is a rhythm which appeals to the staid English ear. Cambridge Guildhall was packed for a performance by Ania Dorfmann, one of the great pianists and the applause was fervid. She was encored several times but her famous "Ol' Man River" brought the house down. Can the public taste be educated to the highest things or is it too volatile? At any rate the public were satisfied, and that is important. 30 02 22

Muffin man, p3

W.B. Sheppard, p7

1930 02 24

Theophilus Percy Gallyon, the well-known gunsmith, has died. He was head of one of the oldest Cambridge businesses, established by his great-grandfather 150 years ago. Born at the very address in Bridge Street where his shop still stands, he took over the business from his brother & will be succeeded by his eldest son. Deceased was recognised as a master of his craft and at one time indulged in shooting, a sport for which he turned out some first-class guns. 30 02 24

The successful crews in the Lent bumping races celebrated in traditional manner. Hundreds of excited undergraduates in 'bump supper' costume filled the streets till midnight and over it all flickered the light and smoke of bonfires. Boats were burned amid shouting and bacchanalian merriment at St Catharine's, Selwyn and Emmanuel who for the first time in history had finished head of the river. An 'eight' was sacrificed in the paddock of the college upon a huge pyre. The manoeuvre of getting the boat into the college proved by no means an easy one and traffic was held up as the unwieldy craft, borne on the shoulders of the crews, was shunted into Downing Street before being passed through the narrow gate. At St Catharine's the boat was escorted to the burning by a procession headed by a band of unemployed ex-Servicemen who had been playing on the towing path. 30 02 24a

St Edwards church, p3
St Barnabas light, p3
Ancient document, p6
Buntingford fire, p8 (photo 25th p8)

1930 02 25

Sir – we Cambridge market traders notice that Councillor Longley wants to move our stalls into the Corn Exchange but we challenge him to produce a transferred market that has been a success. He wants to replace the stalls with car parking spaces. Cannot he see the utter foolishness of congesting the very centre of a town with cars. Those on Market Hill consist of business townsmen, clerics and travellers who sit in their expensive car, eat bread and cheese, beg an onion to go with it but do little business. The Market Hill and Peas Hill are open-air markets. An arcade was tried years ago. The building stands today, a sorry sight, in St Andrew's Hill. The stallholders all failed – W.J. Sambridge. 30 02 25

Mrs Webber, p3
Thaxted wreaths, p8
Photographers at work, p5*

1930 02 26

A woman was summoned for allowing a barn at Fen Ditton to be used for immoral purposes. She had converted it into a dance hall, teas were advertised and dances held. Det-Sergt Willis said he looked through the window and observed people inside. Some of the women attending were known to be of an undesirable character and the men mostly members of the University. The girls were dancing by themselves down the centre of the room holding up their dresses; another girl got on top of the piano and danced. Couples frequently left and went to a nearby cottage. Later the University Proctor arrived; he went to the dance room which was in darkness and by the light of his lamp could see four undergraduates and seven girls. They said they were telling ghost stories. 30 02 26a-d

1930 02 27

One of the objects of the Council for the Preservation of Rural England is to persuade advertisers to refrain from the use of advertisement hoardings and boards in the countryside where they spoil the approach to villages. It is encouraging that the Dominion Motor Spirit Company has decided to remove two large advertisements at the entrance to Caxton village on the Old North Road. They take the view that other means should be sought other than those which take away the charm of the countryside. 30 02 27

1930 02 27

Unparalleled scenes were witnessed in the Mission Hall, Wicken, when disorder at the annual parochial church meeting culminated in loud booing of the Vicar after he had peremptorily adjourned the proceedings. About 100 parishioners were present. The chief cause of demonstration arose from resentment, particularly among the younger residents, against his refusal to allow the use of the hall for dancing and other amusements. The vicar was escorted to his car by a police constable and the parishioners remained excitedly discussing the situation as the caretaker turned out the lights. 30 02 27 a-c

1930 02 28

Two bottles of dead flies were produced at Cambridge council meeting in support of the contention that a rabbit skin factory in York Terrace was still a public nuisance. They had been caught in neighbouring houses. Residents said life was unbearable on many occasions and a man suffering from tuberculosis had to sleep with his windows shut because of the obnoxious smells which were worse at night. But the Medical Officer said that in spite of careful inspection no smells, flies or bugs were found. 30 02 28-a

Bateman Street trees, p6

1930 02 28 ES

Wicken parishioners boo vicar

Wicken was the scene of a stormy meeting between the vicar and some of his flock. The annual Parochial Church Meeting, normally a quiet and sparsely attended event for the transaction of formal business conducted with the church, attracted a large number of people to the mission Hall.

A report was given on work on the restoration of the church. When the walls were opened out, it was found the cracks were much more serious than they appeared. The Vestry walls were consolidated, part of the west wall, including the windows, had to be taken down and rebuilt. The tower walls were strengthened by stitches of tiles across the crack. The tower roof had to be renewed almost entirely and the bell frame strengthened with new timbers. The westernmost arches of the nave were strengthened and partly rebuilt. There was not sufficient money to do the work which was necessary to the chancel arch and the east end of the nave and it was agreed that work ceased until more money was raised. When the election of officers was to be considered, the vicar declared that nobody had any right to be present at the vote except those whose names were on the electoral roll. He sought to persuade everyone in the building whose name did not appear on the electoral roll to leave. But no one attempted to leave their seats. It developed into a stormy meeting culminating in the vicar adjoining it and being booed by his parishioners. The local constable escorted the vicar to his car in which he drove away without further interruption. 30 02 28ES

Prickwillow Rev J.K.C. Payne leaving for Gorefield after nine years 30 02 28a

Residents of Prickwillow heard with deep regret of the impending departure of the Rev J.K. Cecil Payne, who has been the Vicar for the past nine years. An extremely popular figure in the village, he has set up a fund to raise money to put the church in the state of repair and has interested himself in all phases of life. He has been Chairman and Manager of Prickwillow and Prickwillow St. James's Schools, Chairman of the Nursing Association which has been established, Secretary of the village Cricket Club and a member of the Horticultural Show committee. His wife too has always been ready to identify herself with every good work in the parish. He has just been appointed to succeed the Reverend J.H. Rutter of St. Paul's, Gorefield. 30 02 28a ES

Another advance in March's nursing service

Bridging the Wash between Manea and Black Bank

Sunday marked the completion of another stage of the London North Eastern Railway Company's huge scheme for the better bridging of the Wash between Manea and Black Bank, two of the old wooden span approaches to the Old Bedford River being placed by replaced by modern steel structures. The upper picture shows the gap in the line when the old structure was demolished, and the lower photograph shows one of the giant steel girders being hoisted into position. On the left of the top picture can be seen part of the great crane which is being used in the construction of the new bridge over the Old Bedford River, this work being the last to be accomplished in connection with the scheme. 30 02 28b

March 1930 CDN & Ely Standard

1930 03 01

History was made on Parker's Piece, Cambridge, when thousands of farmers and farm workers attended a mass demonstration. The meeting was originally intended to bring together workers in East Anglia but interest had become so wide that nearly all the agricultural counties in England were represented. They passed a resolution protesting against the increase in unemployment amongst unless effective steps are at once taken then nothing but calamity faces the industry. Visitors arrived by train, car, motor coach and bicycle, the ordinary parking facilities were quite inadequate and cars were parked around Parker's Piece itself and along Victoria Avenue. More than an hour before the start crowds assembled in front of the platform of motor lorries covered with a Union Jack and fitted with a battery of amplifiers. They whiled away the time listening to the Railway Band and broke into song when they played 'Farmer's Boy'. 30 03 01a-d 104.12

1930 03 03

Several people had miraculous escapes when the Church Farm House at Arrington was almost destroyed by a fire. All but three rooms were burnt down. The occupants were sound asleep in the upper rooms when they were awoken by the cracking of flames and smell of smoke. The stairs soon became a mass of flames but with great presence of mind the daughter erected a ladder against the window of the bedroom in which two of her brothers were sleeping and they were enabled to escape. When the Royston fire brigade arrived they made use of a pond 50 yards away but this was quickly exhausted and water was then obtained from a ditch 350 yards away. 30 03 03

Holy Trinity church, p3

1930 03 04

Mrs Stevenson, p3

1930 03 07

Pubs 'Alhambra' and 'Dew Drop', p8

1930 03 08

Mr W.F. Turner has sent us a photograph of all that remains of the old Bottisham fire engine. He came across it in an old lumberyard. It was presented to the parish by Mr Jenyns and repaired by public subscription in 1881. Many years ago there was a fireman's fete at Cambridge and this quaint old engine was manned by some high-spirited undergraduates who called themselves the Darktown Brigade. They all wore old-fashioned top hats and masks and created a good deal of fun. 30 03 08a

Sir – the rabbit factory in York Terrace, Cambridge, is a disgusting nuisance, excluding a horrible stench. Had this factory been on Grange Road the foundations would never have been dug but York Terrace stands for poverty and insignificance and so maggots, flies and stench should apparently be borne with that humility that has been the bane of the workers all down the ages – P.J. Wright. 30 03 08

Sir – I am one of the fortunate ones employed at the rabbit warehouse in York Terrace, Cambridge. I came here about two years ago to grade these skins. It is a warehouse, not a factory; there has never been an outbreak of fever among the employees and a healthy child of 13 may start work there. To close it would add about 20 names to the unemployment register – T.A. Edwards. 30 03 08b

Wall of death, p5

Petty Cury demolition, p8*

1930 03 10

Pungent remarks on the conduct of the Fen Ditton dance hall were made by the chairman of the Bottisham bench in dismissing the case. It had attracted a great deal of public attention but they had come very reluctantly to the conclusion that the law did not admit their convicting. "If we are out to administer the moral law then no condemnation would be sufficiently strong for the shameless and wanton proceedings that have been allowed to occur; had we been in a position to impose a fine it would have been a very heavy one", he said. "I am ashamed that a young constable should have been called upon in the course of his duty to witness the scenes described and the only service the defendant can do us is to leave the neighbourhood". 30 03 10b-c

St Michael's church, p3

Greek play, p6

1930 03 11

Councillor Mrs Foster, p3

Swavesey fire, p5

Downing scheme, p6

St Catharine's College new block, p6

Sidney Street photo – Caxton Court, p8*

1930 03 12

Boots sale (withdrawn), p5

Orwell pub, Fox, p7*

1930 03 14

Molly dance photo, p5

1930 03 15

The major part of the two picturesque villages of Great and Little Abington is still on the market although over 20 offers have been received by United Kingdom and Overseas Ltd, the present owners of the estate. An advertisement reads: "Village for sale – Delightful property consisting of 45 cottages, general stores and village hall. Price £3,250. Bargain". All the cottages are thatched; the remainder were sold recently together with the school and inn. The post office and old smithy are now in the market. The estate would be a useful purchase for a working carpenter with a little money to spare as he would be able to do the repairs to the cottages himself. 30 03 15a

A deputation of 60 men marched unannounced into the Saffron Walden Council Chamber and demanded the provision of work instead of the dole. Unemployment is particularly acute and they didn't want to stand idle on street corners. The times hangs heavily and they would rather be in work. At Cambridge the corporation had provided work for the unemployed in improving dangerous corners and other schemes. Walden council was pushing ahead with a housing scheme and hoped to use 100 percent of unemployed labour. 30 03 15b

The time is drawing near for the opening of the new ward at Addenbrooke's Hospital. Named after T. Musgrave Francis, chairman of the General Committee. The hospital wards get their names in various ways; sometimes it is after royalty as in 'Victoria' and 'Albert' but the most interesting in 'Tipperary' which was built in 1913-14. For a long time it was known as the 'New' Ward but the 'long, long way' that one had to travel to get to it reminded people of the popular song and gradually the name stuck. The 'Tipperary' Ward always made the hospital look rather lop-sided from the front, but the new 'Musgrave' restores the balance. 30 03 15c

1930 03 17

Special prayers for the work of the Soviet Government were offered at a service at Thaxted church. The vicar, Rev Conrad Noel, has made no secret of his extreme political views. In his sermon he said "A good deal is being told us about Russia in order to egg us on to fight her when the time comes". He then came down from the pulpit and sat in an armchair in the body of the church to answer any questions. None were asked and the congregation rose and walked out of the church. A resident told the CDN that the service had little interest to local people. The congregation was chiefly composed of factory girls and people from outside who attended as a matter of curiosity. Some years ago the Vicar raised people's ire by hanging the Irish Sinn Fein flag and the Red Flag in the church. 30 03 17

Holy Sepulchre, p3
St John's church debt, p6

1930 03 18
Councillor Miss Blair, p3
C.S. Kenny death after car accident, p8, inquest 19th p5

1930 03 19
Demolition work has just begun on the Sidney Street corner of Sussex Street as a first step towards the most important reconstruction scheme for the improvement of Cambridge in many years. Sidney Sussex College will develop the whole site on modern lines; within the next year an imposing block of buildings, providing shops and offices will rise. It will be connected to Hobson Street by an artistically-designed crescent and colonnade of 12 shops which will allow vehicles to pass freely in the middle of Sussex Street. 30 03 19b

The death of Lord Balfour the former Prime Minister, great statesman, philosopher and Chancellor of Cambridge University will be particularly felt here. At Trinity College in the 1870s he was rather shy but fond of music and once owned four concertinas on which he delighted to play Handel's oratorios when anyone could be found to accompany him. He was renowned for the hours he would lie in bed and for his passion for blue china and pleasant knick-knacks. His seclusion nourished the fastidiousness of his mind and temper. 30 03 19

1930 03 20
Sussex Street sketches, p6
Cambridge Guardians final photo, p8*

1930 03 21
After 94 Years. Newmarket Board's last Meeting. Features of its history
Following an existence of 94 years, the last meeting of the Newmarket Board of Guardians was held on Tuesday, when important features of its history were recalled. Mr James Wheeler was in the chair, and there were present: Mr Harry Peachey (vice-chairman), Revs. S. Austin, L.L. Butcher, W.G. Dodd, Ernest Powles, and E. Wootton, Miss Ellis, Mrs Bocock, Mrs Ruston, Mrs Watson, Commander Boughey, Messrs. F.N. Bocock, W.P. Bocock, A.R. Catchpole, Seth Collin, J.E. Collin, W.C. Dimock, A.S. Frost, R.L. Fuller, H.W. Game, F.P. Harrison, Edward Leonard, Samuel Moore, W.J. Moon, C.C. Oakey, J.G.A. Paul, Harry Peachey, Charles Reeve, R.J. Robins, G.F. Townsend, J.H. Troughton, Thomas Webb, James Wheeler, C.Y. Woollard, B.J. Slack, J. Smallwood. The Rev. W.G. Dodd and Mr H. Edwards (former Guardians) also attended.
The Chairman said that in glancing at the history of that Board it was of some interest to note that the first meeting of the Newmarket Board was held at the White Hart Inn on December 31st 1835, and for 94 years Guardians had been giving their services on behalf of the community.
The first Board had for one of its members a Member of Parliament by the name of Richard Eaton. They could not claim that distinction to-day. Mr John Peter Allix was elected their first Chairman, and held office for 13 years. It was decided that weekly meetings should be held on Friday mornings at the Kingston House Room.
The First Union Districts
The Union was the same then as now, but was divided into four districts, with four relieving officers. At that time there were nine workhouses in the district, at Soham, Isleham, Newmarket (2), Snailwell, Wicken, Bottisham, Fordham and Swaffham. The contract price at that time for flour was 1s. 5d. Per stone, bread 4 ½d. 4lb loaf, and coal 1s. 8d. Cwt.

Early in that year it was decided to advertise for a married man to take charge of the All Saints' Workhouse at a salary of £30 per year, with board, washing and candle. At a meeting on March 4th 1836, it was decided to consider the desirability of building a central workhouse for the district.

The New Workhouse.

On April 22nd, 1836, it was agreed to purchase from Mr John Westley four acres of land at £84 per acre, on which to build the new workhouse. On June 3rd in the same year a contract was accepted for building the new workhouse at a cost of £7,500, and the fittings and furniture £485. Mr and Mrs Charles Martin were appointed the first Master and Matron in March, 1837, and the occupation of the new workhouse commenced on May 8th by the removal of the inmates from the Soham workhouse. Vagrants were a trouble in those days, for at the Board meeting on May 13th, 1835, it was decided to write to the Poor Law Commissioners for direction of how to dispose of them. There was no Mr Heasman in those days to deal with those knotty points. (Laughter).

The Enlargement Of The Workhouse

Of more recent history was the enlargement of the institution in 1902 at a cost of £27,000. They were now nearing the end of things. He thought they might well remind themselves that the Guardians had ever had to face human tragedy. They had had to deal with men and women with whom life had dealt hardly, many who failed in the fight, and some who had been false to themselves.

No sphere of public service had such a demand for wise judgment and sympathetic action, and the response had always been forthcoming. It was interesting to note that the Guardians of the Poor throughout the country controlled in their own institutions over 240,000 beds and employed about 10,000 nurses.

A Humane System.

Whatever else might be said of the present English Poor Law system, which was near passing away, none could ever say that it was not humane. The Guardians had been doing a specialised work for a special section of the community. They had to deal with human tragedy, and they had faced it with courage and sympathy. He thought they all felt the effects of its passing, and that the wrong thing had happened, but there was no help for it. He knew it had been their express wish to pass out of office quietly without any flag waving or beating of drums - without any shouts of victory or defeat, but he really did feel as their chairman at their last meeting it was his duty to say one or two words.

Government's Failure.

He had hoped that the Government, through the Ministry of Health, would have thought it worth while to have conveyed to the Guardians some expression of gratitude for the long and valuable services which they, together with other Boards, had rendered to the community. He thought they had failed badly in not expressing what must be the feeling of the country that day - some sort of appreciation for the tremendous amount of work put in during the last century by members of Boards of Guardians.

As it had not been done, he would like before discharging that morning, on behalf of those who had received the benefit of their labours, on behalf of the poor and destitute in this Union district, those who received, and those who were still receiving, either indoor or outdoor relief, and also on behalf of the ratepayers whose money they had always spent so carefully and economically - on behalf of all those he said, "I thank you."

Their contribution to the welfare of the nation had been no small one, and the poor and destitute of the Union had received more than they knew as a result of the sympathetic consideration the Guardians had always shown to their applications for relief. A more kindly disposed Board would be difficult to find.

He would like in their name and in his own to express sincere thanks to their friend, Major Ennion, the Clerk, for the help he had always given. (Hear, hear). They had always found it wise to follow his wisdom and advice, which had made their work much easier. For 38 years Major Ennion had served the Board. The same might also be said of their Assistant Clerk, Mr Blackburn, who had been with them 27 years.

They would agree also that they had been particularly fortunate in having so able a man as Mr Heasman as Master of that Institution. It was largely owing to his keen interest and sound judgment that they had that day an Institution of which they were proud. It was second to none either in this county or any neighbouring county. They all wished to offer Mr Heasman their best thanks. He had been with them 19 years. They would not forget the Matron whom they saw so little but knew so much of what she was ever doing for the comfort of the inmates of that House. Her kindness, gracious tact and hard work they appreciated to the full.

Their Medical Officer, Dr. Maund, who had been with them eight years, was never lacking in his effort to alleviate the sufferings. To him, and indeed to all the staff at their Institution, for their loyalty to their duties, they desired just to say, "Thank you."

The Relieving Officers, whose jobs were difficult ones, were also entitled to the thanks of the Board.

Mr F.N. Bocock proposed that the hammer which was presented to the Chairman of the Board for the controlling of its meetings, by Mr Tebbitt on his second marriage, should be presented to Mr Wheeler as the last Chairman of the Board. Mr Troughton seconded. The Chairman thanked the members very much indeed. Mr T. Webb said he would like to include the name of Mr F.N. Bocock in the thanks of the Guardians. Mr Bocock had hammered him more than anybody else. (Laughter). The Clerk said he could not let that occasion pass without thanking the Guardians for their kindness to him as their Clerk. The Master, on behalf of himself and the Matron, thanked the Board for its kindness to them. A photograph of the members of the Board was taken in the yard of the Institution, and this will be hung up in the Board room.

The Institution Committee.

The Master reported that the number of inmates was 191, against 183 at the corresponding week of last year, and that the number of casuals admitted during the last month was 37 against 33 in the corresponding month of last year. 30 03 21 a & b

[Notes by Geoffrey Woollard:

Francis Norman Bocock (1853 - 1932) farmed at Lidgate and was one of Sue Woollard's great grandfathers.

William Percy Bocock (1870 - 1930) farmed at Gazeley and was Sue Woollard's first cousin three times removed.

Arthur Robert Catchpole (1856 - 1945) also farmed at Lidgate and was another of Sue Woollard's great grandfathers.

Charles Yorke Woollard (1877 - 1932) farmed at Swaffham Prior and was one of Geoffrey Woollard's great uncles.

Captain Richard Jefferson Eaton MP (1806 - 1847) was Sue Woollard's fourth cousin four times removed.

Major Sidney John Ennion (1869 - 1951) was a solicitor in Newmarket and Sue Woollard's great uncle by marriage.]

Sewards End fire, p10*

1930 03 22

There never was a time surely when there were so many works of destruction going on as at present. Little bits of old Cambridge are going one by one and elaborate new buildings are rising up in their place. Following demolition in Petty Cury and Sidney Street now we see old houses and shops in Sussex Street being knocked down. No wonder that those who come back to the town after a few years' absence express amazement at the changes they see. When we think of the bridges built at Newnham and Chesterton, of the streets that have been widened, the new recreation ground opened and the great business changes effected in the heart of the town we may well gasp. 30 03 22 a & b

1930 03 24

St Clements, p3

Spiritualism, p6

1930 03 25

The opening of the Hobb's Pavilion, erected to commemorate the achievements of the greatest batsman in the world, upon his native playing field is an epoch in the annals of the game. Parker's Piece is one of the most historic cricket grounds in the kingdom. It shares in seniority with Broad Half-Penny Downs, of the famous Hambleton Club and the White Conduit Club, whose playing ground was the Artillery parade grounds at Finsbury before the Marylebone Club emerged and Thomas Lord had opened his first ground at Dorset Square. 30 03 25 a & b

Councillor Mrs McNair, p3
Chesterton railway bridge photo, p5*

1930 03 27

Cambridge Motor Service Company had taken over a firm of motor engineers and garage proprietors in Hobson Street and hoped to acquire the business of Hunnybun and Son, coachbuilders and painters. Then in 1927 they spent £2,000 to purchase a large stock of electric lamps which were being retailed at a considerable profit. But the British Thompson-Houston Company issued a writ and the present stock of lamps was now valueless. In addition the depression in the motor trade for used cars and dealings in sports cars for which there was at one time a good demand among undergraduates had contributed to their failure. 30 03 27a & b

1930 03 27

Ideal cricket weather favoured the long-awaited opening of the Hobbs Pavilion on Parker's Piece by the Mayor of Cambridge in the presence of Mr & Mrs Jack Hobbs. He was the greatest cricketer the world had ever known and had learned to play within sight of this new pavilion. All that was needed was a record of his achievements to hang in the building, but those were not yet over. It would induce the younger sportsmen to become keen again and to carry on the traditions so that in future Cambridge would never be without its representatives in first-class cricket. 30 03 27

1930 03 28

With the sun's warm rays streaming in at the windows – a fitting herald of life and health – the new Musgrave Ward was opened at Addenbrooke's Hospital. It is an addition to the top floor and intended as the second women's surgical ward. It contains 18 beds with three single-bed side wards and a balcony accommodating six beds for open-air treatment. Its name commemorates T. Musgrave Francis, chairman of the General Committee, who provided a tea and concert in the out-patients' department. 30 03 28b-

1930 03 28

Ely Ratepayer Association's dinner was told that it was no good rushing ahead with houses and factories unless they had a good sewerage scheme. They now had electricity and a good bus service. First impressions went a long way and Palace Green should be regularly cut and rolled as it presented a neglected appearance to visitors. They also had a splendid display of antiquated dustbins and people could not understand why something better could not be devised. Some people expected to find the luxuries of a large town but they were out in the country and had to cut their cloth accordingly. 30 03 28d-e

1930 03 28

Interesting reminiscences were given as Chesterton Guardians passed out of existence after 94 years. The first meeting in 1836 appeared to have been in a public house; amongst those attending were the names of Taylor, Linton and Foster and they still had members of these names on the Board. The final report showed the number in the institution was 39 men, 40 women and one child. 30 03 28f-g

1930 03 29

Mystery surrounds the discovery of a tramp lying bound and gagged in a gravel pit a mile from the main road near Ashwell. He was taken to Royston Union. The man is believed to be of mixed Chinese and Scotch extraction and says he lives in Italy. The police were unable to get a clear account as to how he came to be in the pit, since he speaks only a bad Italian. A peculiar feature of the case is that he was similarly found by a farmer in Hampshire and also in Hertford about three weeks ago. 30 03 29

Hobbs Pavilion, p8*

1930 03 31

Perhaps fired by childhood memories of Blondin, the famous tightrope walker, a young man attempted the perilous crossing of the River Cam in the wee small hours of the morning. Unfortunately his skill and possibly his sobriety were not equal to his enthusiasm. He first demonstrated his agility by climbing the lamp-post at the end of the bridge then wandered three paces along the parapet of Magdalene Bridge before sliding gracefully into the watery depths beneath. Although able to swim he was exhausted by the time he reached Quayside and it took the combined efforts of his companions and a policeman to get him out, wetter but slightly more sober. 30 03 31

St Mary the Less, p3
Guardians photo, p8

April 1930 CDN & Ely Standard

1930 04 01

The disappearance of Boards of Guardians and the transference of the Poor Law work to the Public Assistance Committees has caused some bewilderment. The chief institution in Cambridge is that at 81a Mill Road; it was erected in 1838 as a 'Union' to replace numerous small parish workhouses. The name has been changed to Poor Law Institution in recent years. The demand for accommodation became so acute that in 1923 they had to build a new block. The Infirmary of the old Workhouse has become a hospital with 124 beds in up-to-date wards with a large nursing staff including three certified midwives. 30 04 01a-c # c.32.9

Mrs Salter, p3

1930 04 02

Ely Guardians photo, p8

1930 04 04

Sheeps Green new sluice photo, p6

1930 04 07

The new electric traffic signals are generally working well but it seems that the average motorist accelerates when the green light is showing in order to get through before it changes. This is particularly evident at the Northampton Street – Castle Hill crossing in Cambridge as a driver going towards Huntingdon seeing a stiff climb directly ahead naturally tries to get through and up the hill. But a driver coming down often finds his car has a tendency to accelerate of its own and tries to get into Chesterton Lane a little too fast, swinging out into the standard erected in the centre of the road. 30 04 07

Gt St Mary's, p3

Whittlesford British Legion club, p8

1930 04 08

Councillor Mrs Rackham first came to Newnham College in 1895. Returning on her marriage in 1901 she entered into public life as school manager, Guardian and town councillor. In 1902 she started the first local branch of the Women's Co-operative Movement. Her clear-cut voice is well-known on radio and she has recently completed a series of six talks from Savoy Hill on Local Government. She is also a journalist of standing and has contributed a column to 'The Woman's Leader' for the last seven years. 30 04 08a

1930 04 08

To walk from Cambridge to London has been the ambition of many a healthy young man; I decided to do the journey by night. I left at 6pm and arrived at Royston three hours later for a substantial supper which I capped with a bottle of Guinness. It was not a cold night and I carried only a stout stick which I'd bought in the Cury for 7d. I met scarce anybody for tramps take shelter for the night in barns and out-houses. But there was an almost constant stream of lorries and private cars roaring through the night at 60 mph. My legs were getting very tired but I arrived at my house at Golder's Green just as the clock struck six. 30 04 08b-c

1930 04 10

Referee L. Sylvester complained of the conduct of the Littleport Football Club and their supporters when they played Wisbech Town. He said they followed him to the dressing-room, calling him 'everything under the sun', and threw pieces of mangold wurzel at him. But the Club Secretary complained that he was incompetent and his decisions 'bordered on the ridiculous'. The linesman had awarded a goal that was offside and used bad language. The club had been running for over 25 years and had only had one player ever reported. It was warned and the linesman suspended. 30 04 10

Coldham's Lane made up – photo, p6
Duxford plane crash, p9

1930 04 11

The Cambridge Skittle League was formed in August and proved that the average man was a sportsman; a lot of people were inclined to 'run down' the public house games such as darts, dominoes and shove ha'penny. The Skittles League met the requirements of these people and what should be more natural than they should go to the poor man's club – the local inn. Publicans went out of their way to provide every amusement and recreation. 30 04 11

1930 04 11 ES

New stationmaster for Guyhirn – C.F. Blackwell from March – memories

Mr. Charles Blackwell of March has been appointed to the post of Stationmaster at Guyhirn. He commenced his career as a clerk in the commercial department of the yard master's office at Whitemoor, March, where he was engaged in telegraph and general duties. He was transferred to the Cambridge goods office in 1910 and engaged in clerical work with cattle and goods shipping. In June 1914, he was re-transferred to Whitemoor and became station masters clerk at March in charge of the guards and staff and of the compilation of the pay bills etc. Consequence upon the opening of the new marshalling yard at Whitemoor, with the transference of goods guards to that depot, he was left in sole charge of the station master's office. He holds London University diplomas in railway operation economics and railway commercial economics and these have led to fit him well for the new appointment. 30 04 11

A Cambridge man was summoned for driving a heavy motorcar at a speed over 12 miles per hour on the Cambridge Road Stretham. P.c. Waghorn said he was in company with P.s. Bent in the latter's motorcar when he saw a heavy lorry travelling at a very fast speed in the direction of Ely. They followed the defendant for two miles, and his speed varied from 22 miles to 25 miles an hour. He rounded Wesley's corner Stretham on the wrong side of the road at 22 miles per hour and continue through Main Street at 25 miles per hour. When stopped, defendant said he had no speedometer on the lorry and did not think she would do that speed. The Lorry was fitted with solid tires. 30 04 11ES

Wisbech canning industry grows – Wisbech Produce Cannery feature 30 04 11b *

Wisbech is home of the pioneer fruit and vegetable canning factory of Great Britain, the most up-to-date of its kind. At the factory of Wisbech Produce Cannery important additions and extensions are now being effected in readiness for the approaching season. So successful was the firm's venture of last year when green peas were canned for the first time that the plant and equipment is now being tripled. Last year one long row of machinery was devoted to the pea industry. The vines were introduced to a contrivance which divested them of pods and peas which then travelled on through various stages of grading and cleansing until there emerged from the last piece of machine attractively labelled sealed tins ready for the counters of the shop.

Now parallel with the original machinery two new rows of similar apparatus are fast being assembled. The produce of over 1,000 acres of peas and beans are to pass through the factory in the next few months. Improved machinery is being installed which will mechanically grade and snip off the tops and tails of beans, this being work which was previously done by hand. Last year there were 350 people employed during the height of the season when the machines were working day and night. 600 hands will be required to cope with the work which is being undertaken this summer.

In the fruit canning department where improvements are also in hand another the busy season is anticipated. While peas are being tinned, strawberries, gooseberries and other fruits are being dealt with and it is estimated that 400,000 tins of food can be daily produced when work is going at full speed. The popularity of the 'Wisbech' and 'Smedley' brands is ever growing. Local produce is finding its way to every corner of the United Kingdom. 30 04 11ES

1930 04 12

A crowd of nearly 3,000 massed in front of the loud speaker which Pye Radio had installed in the main window of the Cambridge Guildhall. Business in the market was suspended and the lanes between the stalls were solid with people. In the shops and offices there was a general cessation of work; counters and desks were forsaken and faces appeared at every window. There was a cheer when the Cambridge boat crew drew level and overtook Oxford. Workers hurrying home eagerly bought copies of the special edition of the CDN and pictures are being shown at the Central and Tivoli cinema this evening. 30 04 12

1930 04 14

Spirituals, p3

LNER ambulance corps, p8

1930 04 15

"S.O.S. Wanted a Wife. A real girl, not a church prude". These notices have been placed by a Horningsea bachelor on the front of his cottage. He assured a News representative that he is quite serious. He describes himself as a poet and farmer, born in County Cork, but refuses to divulge his age. He went to sea and lived in the USA before coming to the village two years ago. He has published one volume of poems but complains that with working in his garden and preparing meals, he has no time to write. When he marries he will write a 'best seller'. 30 04 15a & b

1930 04 15

The new manager of the Broadway Kinema, St Ives, said he intended to put on most up-to-date films of a topical character, the 'talkies' were also to be introduced. But the presiding magistrate said: "We want superior films in St Ives, not so many murders and tragedies; something in the natural history line or travel pictures". The manager promised to bear this in mind and he fancied it would not be long before he knew the tastes of local people. 30 04 15c

Bethune-Baker, p3

Streetley Hall fire, p5

1930 04 16

Damage amounting to thousands of pounds was done by an extensive fire at Mr Owen Webb's farm at Streetly Hall, West Wickham. A number of valuable pedigree heifers, calves and pigs lost their lives and a great many farming implements and machinery, together with a motor car, farm carts and a large quantity of grain were destroyed. One of the buildings destroyed was an old thatched barn, one of the largest in the country with solid oak beams which once formed part of a church. The farm foreman was burned on the arms and legs when an oil tank exploded. With his clothing on fire he rushed into the pond at the bottom of the farmyard and extinguished the flames. 30 04 16a-c

Rabbit factory, p8

1930 04 17

For years men have beaten carpets on Butt Green and children have used New Square as a camping-out ground. But these ancient customs are soon to pass away with the transfer of the Green to Jesus College, and the construction of a parking place in the Square. 30 04 17

Hinxton corners, p6

1930 04 18

Railway bridge placed over Old Bedford River – feature – 30 04 18, 18a * # c.26.2

The huge engineering task involved in the reconstruction of the L.N.E.R. main line over the rivers and the wash land between Manea and Black Bank reached a final phase with the moving into position of the great steel bridge over the Old Bedford River. It was the second of the two such undertakings, the former having been performed in September 1928, when a similar bridge was placed over the Hundred Foot Root river on the opposite side of the wash.

The work represented an engineering feat of no mean order and during a brief Sunday closure of the line the old bridge had to be removed and replaced by a massive steel structure weighing 400 ton. By seven o'clock on Monday morning, the task had been completed and the line reopened to traffic.

A large steam derrick crane, elevated on a structure of piles over the side of the river was used to assemble the new bridge. Preparation for the substitution of the new bridge for the old had been so far advanced that everything was in readiness when the passing of the Mail Train on Saturday night gave a signal for the commencement of the operation.

The breaking off the 'road' by taking up the metals and sleepers at the bridge approaches and the breaking of the connection with the bridge was quickly carried out. Then the old bridge was lifted by means of hydraulic jacks and the placed in position. Steel cables from hand winches were attached to the bridge and when all was readiness, the winches were manned and the bridge drawn out. Setback was encountered, there were frequent heavy showers and it was not until 7pm that the bridge was finally in position. There was much other work to be done and it was not until seven in the morning that the line we opened to traffic. 30 04 18 ES

1930 04 19

The Horningsea man who placed notices in front of his cottage appealing for a wife says he has been inundated with letters. They have come from all parts of the country, including Jersey. Many have come from London, from Mayfair as well as Hampstead, from servant girls as well as from girls who run their own cars. One letter enclosed a photograph of a delicate, refined-looking blonde, whom he declares he will probably marry. But he will reply to all letters and hopes to have a June bride. 30 04 19a

1930 04 19

Cambridge has yet another claim to distinction. Mr James Gibb, who died recently, was the inventor of the game of ping-pong which enjoyed a tremendous vogue about 30 years ago. He was an old Cambridge athlete and started the game one evening with champagne corks cut as nearly circular as possible and the lids of cigar-boxes for battledores. Then he tried India-rubber balls covered with cigarette paper before finally sending to America to have celluloid balls made. 30 04 19b

Ballroom music, p3

Skipping, p6

1930 04 21

Littleport bus accident, p3

1930 04 22

Leah Manning, p3

Skin factory, p6

Grass track racing, p7

1930 04 23

A News reporter experienced the thrill of looping the loop in the joy-ride aeroplane now giving flights from the Cherryhinton Road ground: "We bounced across the bumpy field and before I was aware of it we had left the ground. We climbed until I saw the hand of the pilot's altitude clock creep round to the 2,000 feet mark. Suddenly we seemed to be hurtling downwards at a tremendous speed and I felt I had left my tummie up above. I saw fields and roads above, then the sky came back over the top. I suppose we had been upside down, but it seemed as if it was the world that had turned over. It was great fun". 30 04 23a

1930 04 23

A series of events contributed to an 'extra special' in traffic jams, even for Cambridge. Deadlock resulted after a motor bus, endeavouring to pass a brewer's dray in Bridge Street fouled a trolley used in cable laying operations. An outsize in motor lorries added to the general melee which took P.C. Lilley fully ten minutes to sort out. The first day of term also brought with usual 'crop' of taxis and cars which added to the jam. Altogether one of the narrowest and busiest parts of the town provided for the greater part of the afternoon something like a slow motion traffic scene. 30 04 23f

1930 04 23

Visitors to Newmarket expressed keen interest in the operation of the first fully electrical Totalisator under racing conditions in this country. The indicator board behind the chief rings flashed and twinkled with remarkable rapidity and the state of the market was easily discernible. All the bookmakers had been placed along two sides of the rails and no 'tictacs' or runners were allowed. Nine minutes after the number of the winner went into the frame the dividends were declared and every winning punter was paid out before the second race started. 30 04 23g

Sawston factory fire, p5*

Horseheath jubilee, p6*

Electric fete, p8*

1930 04 24

Mills circus, p6

Mepal new bridge – photo, p7

1930 04 25

Sensational scenes were witnessed when Cambridge Town met Ipswich in a vital football match at Milton Road. The crowd, numbering over 7,300, were annoyed by some disputable rulings by the referee. At the final whistle they surged on to the field and surrounded him. The situation looked very ugly when Cambridge players and police with drawn truncheons went to his assistance. They got him to the pavilion but the crowd tried to storm the building. When the Chairman, W.R. Paige, tried to gain order with the aid of a megaphone he was shouted down. But for the quick work of many police, both uniformed and plain clothes, players and officials, the referee might have been very roughly handled. 30 04 25

1930 04 25

The people of Burnt Fen filled St James's School to overflowing on the occasion of the presentation to Mr and Mrs H.H. Crowther, the respected headmaster and headmistress of the school, who after a sojourn of seven years, this week left the village to take up a new appointment at Castle Acre. From the beginning of their residence in the village they have entered wholeheartedly into every phase of the life of the people, both displaying an active interest in the work of St James's Sunday School while Mr Crowder has acted as organiser at the little church there. On three occasions they have organised jumble sales, the proceeds from which have provided the children with an outing to Hunstanton. The Men's Club which had been out of existence for the past 20 years was revived three years ago, and is a highly successful institution. Whist Drives organised providing presents at Christmas for the Day School scholars who now number 127.

The Vicar of Prickwillow said two people who were either loved or hated in a parish were the school master, but their school master was very much beloved by them. The task of raising the funds for the presentation was undertaken by Mr. Albert Plumber, and not a person in the village hesitated for one moment to make a contribution.

Accepting the gift to Mr Crowder said, the school which was full that evening was just as full with children doing their day in the work, and a large number of standards created an immense amount of work, and called for a great deal of strength and tact. They gave every boy and girl the very best chance, so that when the day came none would be able to lay the blame of failure to his account, or that of his wife. 30 04 25 ES

Inspector Riley of the R.S.P.C.A. went to a farm at Black Wing Drove, Prickwillow and asked to see two horses. One was a bay cart mare. It was aged and of poor condition. It was dirty and extremely lame on the near hind leg, suffering from a canker of long standing. The sole and frog of the foot were completely eaten away and the sensitive structures were exposed. There were no signs of dressings or treatment given to the animal for some time, and the foot was in a filthy, stinking condition. The animal could only move when urged to do so and then on one foot at a time.

Then they went to an adjoining field where there was another mare. This was in extremely poor bodily condition. It was lame on the near fore limb, suffering from cancer of the foot. The sole and frog were completely gone. It was only with difficulty that the animal could be got to move at all. The animal was in great pain.

The owner admitted he had not had the horse dressed for a time and said he would have it destroyed. He then fetched out of a shed a small empty bottle saying 'This is what I have used on it'. He had spent pounds on the animals which worked when they were young and he did not like to destroy them. The Bench felt he had not been deliberately cruel, but was fined 10 shillings with costs. 30 04 25

1930 04 26

Derailed train photo, p6

Chesterton railway bridge, p7

1930 04 28

Six men were slightly injured by an explosion at the Cambridge University and Town Gas Company's works during the cleaning of one of the purifying boxes containing ferric oxide. Staff made attempts to put out the fire with chemical extinguishers but the fumes defeated them and the Fire Brigade was summoned. Working in gas-masks they played water on the boxes for some hours. How the explosion occurred is not clear. 30 04 28a

1930 04 28

Chesterton railway bridge: replacement, p8*

Shire Hall tender, p3

Graf Zeppelin at Cardington, p6

1930 04 29

A terrible double road fatality occurred at Cambridge about midnight when a motor-cycle carrying a pillion passenger came into collision with a high-powered Delage car on the Trumpington Road. The force of the impact was such that the motor-cyclist was flung through the car windscreen and practically decapitated. His passenger died in hospital. The car was badly damaged and the front axle was wrenched off as it proceeded for nearly 150 yards, veering from side to side until finally coming to rest in a hedge. 30 04 29

Mrs Pryor, p3

1930 04 30

Cambridge Guildhall was crowded with an audience chiefly composed of young men and women, but with a fair leavening of older folk, who had come to hear Dr Marie Stopes give an address on birth control. She spoke rapidly for an hour and replied to many questions. Thousands of mothers, having had three or four children, with perhaps only one year between them, finding it difficult to get sufficient food and worn out were in dread of another unwanted child. What was wanted was spaced babies from radiant mothers. Dr Stopes had been abused, insulted and misrepresented but she made people think and talk about birth control. 30 04 30a & b

1930 04 30

A curious accident occurred in Melbourn when a Sentinel steam wagon crashed into the taproom of the White Lion public house. The wagon was about to pass a Co-op van when the driver saw another vehicle approaching. He swerved and crashed through the wall. Two men were in the taproom at the time but they escaped injury as did the driver and his mate. Fortunately the building was of plaster, or more serious injuries would undoubtedly have resulted to the men. Part of the house had to be propped up and traffic was diverted for some time. 30 04 30

1930 04 30

Fen Drayton Parochial Church Council launched an attack on Christ's College; they were collecting the whole of the tithes but for the last three years had only provided a 'half-time' parson. The Rev Abbott is also rector of Conington-cum-Knapwell so the tithe payers should pay half the tithes. It has been absolutely dishonest to take the whole of the tithes and then clip down on the services. 30 04 30d & e

May 1930 CDN & Ely Standard

1930 05 02

Crash, p5

Pay Radio first agm, p6

Chivers v Barrington cement, p8

1930 05 03

Chivers v Cement, p3

Ambulance, p6

Tram photo, p8

1930 05 05

Histon show stops, p3

May Day demonstration photo, p8

1930 05 06

The King, who celebrated the 20th anniversary of his accession to the throne today, attended racing at Newmarket this afternoon. He motored from Buckingham Palace during the ceremony of changing the guard and large crowds cheered as his car left. But only a few people noticed his arrival on the Heath. The King spent some moments at the new electric totalisator before proceeding to the grandstand. He will remain at Newmarket for the whole of the Spring Meeting. 30 05 06

Mrs Mellish Clark, p3

St Ives chicory factory, p6

Chivers v cement, p8

1930 05 07

A young man fired two pistol shots with deadly effect by in the Lion Hotel Yard, Cambridge. They were fired at a distance of a few yards – the first at a fire arising from a petrol-soaked strip of carpet, the other at a roaring fire in a wooden structure which had been soaked with tar and petrol. At each discharge a cone-shaped column of whitish powder was projected into the base of the fire and instantly extinguished the flames. The weapon was an 'Antifyre' Standard model and the man was W. Hardesty of Hills Road, who is the district agent. 30 05 07

Chivers v cement, p8

1930 05 08

Sheeps Green flood pic, p6

1930 05 09

Poultry farming, p3

King's chorister death, p8

Chivers v cement, p3

1930 05 09 ES

Revolution in track laying on L.N.E. Railway between Stretham and Waterbeach 30 05 09 * # c.26.2
The L.N.E.R. have recently placed into service a track-laying train consisting of a power van, a saw trolley, a train trolley and the track-layer proper. It was at work between Waterbeach and Stretham when two miles of new track were laid. The power van consists of a petrol-driven generating set which provides electric current to the various motors operating the track-layer together with the necessary switch gear. The saw trolley includes consists of two circular saws and the track layer proper is a 12-wheeled vehicle on which is mounted a cantilever crane. The materials train is loaded at the depot with rails already fixed to chairs and sleepers. On arrival at the section which is to be relaid the first operation is for the saw trolley to run over it and cut the sleepers down to a uniform length without removing the track. 35 05 09ES

Modern petrol depot for Ely – British Petroleum on site formerly occupied by RAF near station 30 05 09a

The ever-increasing demands for petrol have rendered it necessary for the British Petroleum Company to establish in Ely, a large and modernly-equipped depot. The photograph shows some of the fleet of delivery lorries employed in the district as well as one of the massive tanks used for storage. This is nearly 30 feet above ground level, while underground there are large tanks in which the company's products are stored. The depot stands on land formerly occupied by the R.A.F. near the Ely station and represents one of the city's latest commercial developments. 30 05 09aES

1930 05 10

The new talkie installation nearing completion at the Tivoli cinema, Cambridge, is manufactured by British Acoustic and was selected on account of its purity of reproduction. The entire sound equipment is duplicated so that no failure or breakdown can interfere with the performance. The programme selected for the opening week features Maurice Chevalier in 'Innocents in Paris' supported by the comedy 'Talkie'. 30 05 10a & b

King's chorister, p6

Victoria Cinema clearance photo, p8

1930 05 12

The Cambridge branch of the Association of Plasterers and Granolithic and Cement Workers celebrated its 50th anniversary. Mr G. Cook, their first secretary said they had experienced strikes and lock-outs; they had acted on the defensive and had been aggressive. They had a proud record for bettering the conditions for the workers. At one time they were 100 per cent organised and still had 95 per cent membership. 30 05 12

1930 05 13

Messrs Chivers told the court that they had been growing fruit at Barrington for more than 20 years. They had two plantations growing raspberries, greengages and Victoria plums near the summit of a hill. In 1927 the Cement Company started a new works half-a-mile to the south and soon their pickers started to experience unpleasant smells. The raspberry crop was scorched and shrivelled by dust and the same thing happened to the plums. It was caused by considerable quantities of dust from the company's new chimney stacks. 30 05 13a & b

1930 05 13

An NSPCC Inspector told the court that he entered a cottage at Croydon which was in a filthy and deplorable state. There was very an old iron bedstead, a patched mattress and a few articles of old and dirty clothing which had been used as a bed covering. The mattress in the bedroom used by the children consisted of a sack of brown flock. The children were in a verminous condition and their clothing in a filthy state. They had been taken to the Caxton Institution. The father was out of work and the mother needed to look after a child who was in hospital. They were each fined £5. 30 05 13a & b

Miss Cochrane, p3
Arrington verminous house, p8*

1930 05 14

Agriculture has been termed 'the hopeless subject which no Government cares to tackle' but it employs more men than other industries, except building. Now Mr G.T. Garratt, the former Labour candidate for Cambridgeshire has written a book drawing on his practical experience on a farm and as a county councillor. He says a million men and their families are tied to a decaying industry, bitterly divided socially and economically and politically impotent with no leaders for the future. Control of the land must be in the hands of the local councils which can provide modern buildings and parcel out lands for farms capable of becoming sound economic units. 30 05 14

Post office moves, p6

1930 05 15

A councillor complained that in 1921 an agreement had been signed with the Ortona Bus Company allowing them a monopoly of buses on the streets of Cambridge for a payment of £250 a year. "They have had a jolly good picking. There are no workmen's tickets, no children's tickets, no cheap tickets, which you get in any other town". The Mayor said the streets were already so congested that it was not possible to have competitive services in operation. But Ortona had been issued with extra licences to run buses on those same narrow streets. 30 05 15 & a

Green End Road houses, p3

1930 05 19

Cambridge has found dealing with motor traffic increasingly difficult in recent years, Counsel told an inquiry. He emphasised the inconvenience to motorists when no central parking places were available but now the council had made an agreement with Jesus College for the use of New Square as a car park in exchange for Butt Green and a piece of Midsummer Common. It would mean the surrender of 2½ acres of Common Land, but it would remain undeveloped & would allow the college to make a new entrance. The scheme was approved. 30 05 19 & b

Wesley House chapel, p8

1930 05 20

Mrs Anderson Scott, p3

1930 05 21

Castle Mound cartoon, p6

Electric transformers photo, p8

1930 05 23

The jurisdiction of the Ecclesiastical Courts over chancel repairs should be abolished, a Committee suggests. It was appointed following a dispute at Hauxton where a landowner refused to accept liability and was sent to Bedford Gaol. Notice should be given in writing to those responsible for such repairs and proceedings taken in the County Court should there be a dispute. 30 05 23

1930 05 23 ES

Walbro Cycle and Motor Works, Ely – advertisement 30 05 23a *

Air pageant, Whittlesey

It was a coincidence that the day on which Miss Amy Johnson completed her journey by air to Australia that Whittlesey should be treated to its first display of civil aeronautics. On the landing ground owned by Mr. Kenneth Whittome at Horsey Toll, where is kept his own aeroplane, the Northampton Aero Club organised one of a series of aerial pageants. The display gave great pleasure. The hundreds who crowded the field and lined the Peterborough Road were entertained by clever exhibitions of skill and daring in the handling of the aircraft. In addition to the Northampton Club's own five De Havilland Moths, machines were flown to Whittlesey by enthusiasts from long distances to take part in the event.

Mr. Rose thrilled the crowd by some crazy flying with one wing dangerously near the ground and then executed zoom climbs, flip rolls and a hair raising spin. Car bombing and balloon bursting entertained the onlookers who would have been more amused if a direct hit had been made by one of the bombs, which were actually bags of flour bursting into clouds of dust. But the occupants of the moving car sheltering beneath a large umbrella were lucky. Each plane dropped bags uncomfortably near them. There was a race announced as the Horsey Toll Aerodrome Cup contest from King's Dyke brickyards to the gasometer at Peterborough. 30 05 23bES

Old-Time Items

A certificate from the reign of Richard II refers to an old-established gild in honour of Saint Wyndreda ar March which provides for two wax tables to burn on festival days. If a brother or sister shall die when at one day's journey from March, the brothers of the gild shall solemnise their burial at the charge of the gild if they had no means to whereby to defray the cost of the burial. All the brothers and sisters shall meet together at the burial and make an offering for their soul and cause one mass to be celebrated. And each shall give one farthing to the poor of the soul of the deceased. Should the gild decay by reasons of pestilence, the goods shall be given to the fabric of the Chapel of March. 30 05 22bES

1930 05 24

The Isle of Ely Member of Parliament, James de Rothschild is the joy of the cartoonist and the favourite exhibit in the House of Commons lobbies. Nothing causes such effect as his appearance with his one-wing collars, one eye-glass and super-glossy hat. Yet he is very shy, a very nice chap and very fond of animals. 30 05 24

1930 05 26

A mock funeral procession paraded through Cambridge as undergraduates bade farewell to one of their number who had been sent down. It was headed by an old horse-drawn landau in which the 'corpse' sat, his face disguised beneath a war-paint of lipstick. He was joined by various persons who were to officiate at the ceremony; beneath top hats, black cloches and wideawakes were suits of grey flannel, blazers and plus-fours. All were garnished in crepe streamers on which hung rhubarb, beer and wine bottles, remains of the 'wake'. At the station the funereal party moved along the platform hilariously singing a dirge and the 'corpse' was installed in a third-class compartment where gifts of fruit and rhubarb were handed solemnly in. 30 05 26

Empire Day, p6

1930 05 27

Cambridge University Cinematograph Society's film 'Varsity' depicts University life through the eyes of undergraduates themselves. The director is Stuart Legg of St John's College and Mr J.Graaff is responsible for the production and photography. About 50 students take part including Mr Hunter, the son of a well-known Hollywood director and some well-known townsmen. It includes scenes at a Rugby match, Cambridge station and a roulette party at a public house. The film is not a talkie but includes gramophone recorded noises. 30 05 27

Miss Briscoe, p3
Mock Funeral pic, p8

1930 05 28

The bookshops of Cambridge are a special feature of the town; no visitor can possibly miss David's stall on the Market Place where the book-lover may pick up a bargain. He came to Cambridge in 1896 and started his career at this stall; in 1906 he took a shop in St Edward's Passage, which is full of interesting old books and though often locked can be viewed at leisure in the window. In such esteem is he held that a luncheon was held in the Hall of Trinity College and a lithograph cartoon by Mr William Nicholson presented to him. 30 05 28a & b

Undergraduate film photo, p8

1930 05 31

For generations a wooden, straw-thatched barn has stood opposite the church at Melbourn, its end used as the village bill-posting station. Two years ago it was purchased by Howard Bros, bakers, who decided to convert it into a shop. It would have been a very simple matter to demolish the barn and erect an up-to-date brick and slate shop but happily the brothers have a wide knowledge of the village's history and would never consent to the spoiling of this old-world corner. All are to be congratulated on their efforts and many motorists stop to congratulate them on preserving the amenities of the countryside. 30 05 31a & b & c

Gun photo, p8

June 1930 CDN & Ely Standard

1930 06 03

A terrible shooting affair occurred at King's College this afternoon. An undergraduate shot a Cambridge Detective-Sergeant twice with an automatic, then shot his tutor through the heart and himself in the head. The tutor died instantly, the undergraduate is not expected to live but the policeman is likely to make a normal recovery. The cause of the trouble is at present a mystery. 30 06 03a

Mrs Carter, p3

1930 06 04

The third of the men in the King's College shooting sensation, Det-Sergt Willis, has died from the effects of his wounds. The undergraduate assailant died yesterday from a bullet wound in the head whilst the tutor was killed instantly from a bullet through his heart. The undergraduate was heavily in debt and went away from Cambridge nine days ago on a motor-cycle obtained on credit. He was being interviewed by the policeman when the tragedy occurred. 30 06 04

The Cambridge Chief Constable paid tribute to Det-Sergt Francis Willis who was shot by a Cambridge undergraduate. He was born in Haverhill and joined the Cambridge force in 1920 serving as a uniformed and a cycle patrol constable until appointed a detective. He had commendations for his plucky action in stopping runaway horses and was the officer concerned in the recent 'Mr H' blackmail case. He had the making of a really great policeman and his death was a great shock. 30 06 04

A London lady has thrown fresh light on the movement of the undergraduates involved in the double shooting at King's College. They had knocked on her door at three in the morning; their clothes were torn and dishevelled and they said they were down and out, having been walking about on the Thames Embankment. They told her they were in trouble at Cambridge, but only through disposing of some property that did not belong to them. Both had pistols and said they would end things then rather than face fresh trouble, but she had dissuaded them. 30 06 04 Im2.15

1930 06 05

Scenes of academic splendour marked the ceremony of the installation of Mr Stanley Baldwin as Chancellor of the University of Cambridge at the Senate House. The historic building was filled to capacity with a brilliant array of distinguished Cambridge figures. Crowds waited in the precincts and Mr Baldwin's arrival was the signal for a prolonged outburst of cheering. 30 06 05a

1930 06 05

Further revelations of the escapades of the undergraduate involved in the King's College shooting have caused University authorities to make searching inquiries into the habits of undergraduates. The lad had surrounded himself with an atmosphere of false romance; he paid frequent visits to the Bell Hotel at Mildenhall. The landlord's daughter described him as 'a very nice boy, but terribly eccentric'. He always came in second-hand cars, but never in the same car twice, and spent time playing the gramophone. He always left in time to get back to college before the gates closed. 30 06 06b

1930 06 06

Inquest, p5*

Chivers fire, p7

1930 06 07

Poignant scenes of grief were witnessed at the funeral of Det-Sergt Francis Willis of Cambridge police which took place at Haverhill. His murder has cast a gloom over the old-world town; it is a community of sorrow. Blinds of private houses and business premises were drawn long before the arrival of the cortege headed by police colleagues; as it passed heads were bared and women could not restrain their tears. Traffic ceased, the engines of motor cars were stopped. The whole atmosphere was reminiscent of the silence of Armistice Day. 30 06 07b

1930 06 07

The University told Cambridge planners that if they would change the route of the proposed ring road to avoid crossing the University Farm on the Huntingdon Road then they would agree that the land would never be used for any business, commercial development or housing scheme but remain a private open space. After careful consideration the planners were unable to agree. 30 06 07 f & g

Sorrow, p8

1930 06 09

A disastrous fire broke out at West Wratting in which four old cottages, recently converted into one, were completely destroyed. One was the old post office and they formed a pleasant group of picturesque thatched buildings. A spark from a passing traction engine is believed to have ignited the roof. Mrs Barker, a bedridden lady of over 90 years lay helpless in one cottage and was removed to safer quarters by volunteers. 30 06 09

1930 06 10

Cambridge is a lurid place – according to the 'Daily Herald'. Days are spent in drunken dissipation, commencing with a champagne breakfast at 11.30 a.m. or later. At night bands of students invade the peaceful rusticity of the county in motor cars and on cycles causing general annoyance. Villagers have set up their own 'defence committee' – a determined band of sturdy young men who will be quick to stop misbehaviour. But a resident tells me "I have heard of the Flower Show Committee but a Defence Committee is news to me". 30 06 10

1930 06 10

The new motor fire engine at St Ives was called out for the first time to a blaze in some outbuildings at Colne. But neighbours rallied round and by the time the brigade arrived the fire was under control. The damage included the burning of two young calves. 30 06 10b

Mrs Wolf, p3

Huntingdonshire fire, p8

1930 06 11

Isleham headmaster, H.P. Hodges said the school had a room for special subjects where woodwork, cookery and washing were taught, and during the winter months the dinner hour was shortened and two-course dinners supplied at 2d per head. 18,000 meals were served in five years and a profit of five shillings had been made. It cost the County Council nothing. The teacher dined with the children and the cooking was done by the cookery mistress with the help of two older girls. 30 06 11a & b

1930 06 12

The crowd was large for the opening day of the 'Mays' bumping races but it was cautious. Diaphanous frocks gave way to less flamboyant costume and what colour there was came from the blazers of the undergraduates. On the river the most conspicuous figures was a balloon vendor selling his wares by boat. An inflated rubber swan and frog trailed behind his craft, while from the 'mast' hung all kinds of air-filled curiosities. 30 06 12a

1930 06 12

The University is opposed to the proposed ring road round Cambridge crossing the University Farm on Huntingdon Road. It was of national importance, a road cutting up the farm would do a great amount of damage to the experiments which had been in progress for many years. But everybody could use the same argument and say 'You are not going to come across my cabbage patch'. Somebody had to give way and the University should be big enough to do so. Anyway the road would not be wanted for 50 years. 30 06 12a-d

1930 06 12

An attempt was made by private bus owners to run buses to the May Races from the Ortona Company's stop at Holy Trinity Church. Six coaches blocked the bus-stop; they refused to move when ordered by police and a number of the drivers were arrested. But when the police attempted to move the coaches they found the magneto brushes had been removed. The traffic disorganisation which followed lasted for over an hour. 30 06 12b-d

1930 06 13

Swavesey church, p8

1930 06 14

Flag day, p5

Hoax, p5*

1930 06 16

By the courtesy of A.G. Marshall of the Newmarket Road Aerodrome, who placed a plane at the disposal of the C.D.N., our representative was able to secure a bird's eye view of the bumping races. "I could hear nothing of the general buzz which must be going on by the river, only the roar of the engine and the voice of my companion through the speaking tube. He tells me he is regulating his height so that we are well in gliding distance of a landing place all the time. I am very comforted – I should hate to drop on Jesus or a crew just making a bump", he writes. 30 06 16 & 16a

1930 06 17

All records were broken at Trinity ball when 1,700 guests attended the most brilliant of the May Week functions. Many townspeople waited to see the guests arrive and crowds flocked to Garret Hostel Bridge to view the grounds in all their evening glory. Up to mid-day next morning occasional stragglers, heavy-eyed but cheerful could be seen walking driving about the town. One such pair were mutually photographed beside their car in Silver Street. Sports coats over white waistcoats were common and in one a dishevelled figure in a flannel dressing gown lolled at the wheel, like a character in an Edgar Wallace film. 30 06 17a

Chivers, Impington Hall, p8
May Week, p8*

1930 06 18

Impington Hall has been presented to the County Council by Messrs Chivers & Sons to be used as a village college. It is in a good state of preservation and repair with central heating and electricity installed and is quite the finest site one could secure. It will provide a warden's house, caretaker's cottage, library and reading room together with two adult education rooms and staff room. A new block will be erected adjacent to it. 30 06 18

1930 06 19

Since 1921 the Ortona Bus Company has paid Cambridge Corporation £250 annually; this was for permission to fix bus stop signs on lamppost but in practice constituted a monopoly. Much had been made of the problems of running buses owing to the narrowness of the streets but Ortona had increased its services from nine to 33 for which the Corporation received the wonderful sum of 14s. a day. A maximum number of licences should be fixed and granted between the other companies who could run buses at a cheaper rate and reduce fares. 30 06 19b

1930 06 19

The New Cherryhinton Nursing Association was wound up; the nurse's time has been by no means fully occupied and much has been of an unskilled nature. Now Nurse Hodges has left. 2,204 visits had been made during the year but many people prefer to employ a private nurse rather than the district nurse, although she is fully qualified for every branch of the work. The district was growing but new people seemed disinclined to join the Association. 30 06 19d
County gaol photo, p5

1930 06 20

The old county gaol at Castle Hill was opened to the public. Since 1916 when it was closed because of a scarcity of prisoners – it has been said there were not enough to keep the place clean – the prison has only been used for Government record purposes. Then it changed hands and became the property of the County Council; a writer to the CDN threw out the suggestion that it should be opened for public visitation, and the scheme became an actuality. 30 06 20a

Maids in their scanty summer frocks, flannelled youths, mothers and fathers and grandfathers queued for admission to the County Gaol on Cambridge Castle Hill. The execution shed was a popular rendezvous along with the condemned cell, the burial ground and padded cell. People searched for links with the past. They found few. The gaol is not what it was. Dirt and rust have replaced whitewashed walls and polished steelwork and certain parts have become dilapidated. 30 06 20a

Willingham fire, p10

1930 06 21

Well over 700 people visited the Cambridge County Gaol; it is a dingy old place and looks a good deal the worse for wear. Most were surprised at the size of the prison and had no idea that such extensive accommodation was provided. Having explored the interior the majority couldn't resist the fascination of a visit to the execution shed just outside. 30 06 21b

1930 06 21

Aviation history was made when a Puss Moth aeroplane, one of the latest models of its kind, arrived at Cambridge airfield. It carried English oak caskets of samples of Leicestershire granite chippings. A cargo such as this has never before been transported by air. The idea of the flight was to further the interests of commercial aviation and to test opportunities afforded by this method of increasing sales.

30 06 21aa

1930 06 21

Six Cambridge bus drivers involved in the 'battle' of Sidney Street on the first day of the May races appeared in court charged with obstruction. Only Ortona buses were allowed to stop there but a long line of coaches had filled the whole side of the road. The drivers said the monopoly was unfair. They also complained that Ortona had increased the price of a ticket to Fen Ditton from twopence halfpenny to sixpence a trip. 30 06 21aa & b

Postcards, p5

1930 06 23

Gaol photo, p7*

1930 06 24

Ald B.W. Beales, p3

1930 06 26

A fortune-teller arrested at Cambridge Midsummer Fair appeared in court for palmistry. Two policewomen told how they had visited the 'Royal Gypsy Reader'. They were told that the face was character and the charge 1s.6d., the hands palmistry and the cost 2s.6d. One was assured that her worst financial worries were over and she would not go to the grave single; "You have not met the man yet, but he will come". Amelia Hazelhurst admitted the charge and was fined £1. 30 06 26a

Stretham garden fete, p3*

County School pavilion, p5

1930 06 27 ES

£300,000 railway scheme, duplication of new marshalling yard, March – 30 06 27 # c.26.1

The London and North Eastern Railway Company are to launch a huge scheme for the extension of the goods marshalling yard at March. With the new project it will become easily largest in the land. The scheme involves the duplication of the existing marshalling yard which is the only one in the country that employs the German retarder system for automatically breaking waggons on the 'hump', shunting lines. This deals only with 'up' traffic and now will be duplicated to provide for the 'down' traffic. Whitmoor, where the yard is located, is the centre for goods traffic between the Eastern Counties and the North of England and on arrival trucks are sorted out and made up into fresh trains before they proceed further. As a result of the extensions many more engines will be used with an engine shed that will enable 200 locomotives to be housed there. Modern washing-down plant and new preparation pits will be provided. Sunk ash wagon sidings will be constructed to deal with ashes and the existing triangle for turning engines will be replaced by a huge 70-foot engine turntable, capable of handling the largest and heaviest monsters with ease. Nearly 50 miles of track will be laid down. When the proposals have been affected, trucks for the collieries will be sent direct from Whitmoor without the necessity of re-shunting them at other marshalling yards en route and much quicker transit will therefore be effected. 30 06 27ES

July 1930 CDN & Ely Standard

1930 07 03

The annual excursion of blind and crippled people set off for Hunstanton. The long procession of cars provided by the Cambridge Motor Club was headed by an Ortona bus in its imposing coat of green, and in it was 'Dave' proving musical entertainment on his banjo. The Police Poor and Needy Fund provided the delicacies for lunch and tea on the beach. 30 07 03

Ping pong founder, p3

Barrington dust, p6

1930 07 04

Chivers' claims that their raspberry and plum crops had been damaged by dust from Barrington cement works was upheld by the court. One side of the berries had been scorched as if touched by some caustic substance. There was a visible film of dust coming over from the works which stung the eye and could be smelled and tasted. The works were quite ready to purchase the two fields and pay compensation. 30 07 04 -b

1930 07 04 ES

Welmore Lake sluice rebuilding

Built in 1825 the old sluice Welmore Lake between Denver Sluice and Suspension Bridge, Welney, has for some time been unsafe. The picture shows the old sluice in the background while immediately in front of it pile driving operations in connection with the new sluice are in progress. The approximate cost of the work is £16,000. The work is being undertaken by Messrs L.J. Sleight of London and will be completed by November. 30 07 04ES

Adelaide bridge

Queen Adelaide has loomed into prominence because of its accommodating the largest Beet Sugar Factory in country.

When 35 years ago the River Ouse was spanned by a massive steel bridge 100 feet long it was more than capable of dealing with every type of traffic ... but times have changed. At the height of the campaign enormous weights of beet are carried into the factory, rendering it unsafe. The decay caused by the passing of years makes it possible to remove bricks from the abutments by hand.

The new bridge of reinforced concrete will be built on same position ... more appealing to eye.

The old bridge was lifted on jacks and moved 40 foot along the bank of the river. Carriages were placed in position, the bridge lowered onto them and rolled into place. Two special gantries were erected in the river with grooves in which massive hardened steel balls were placed. The work was undertaken by Tileman & Co of London. 30 07 04a

A photograph and sketch appeared on 11th July 1930

Ely's greatly improved station – photo – 30 07 04b *

The work of reconstruction at the L.N.E.R. station at Ely is almost complete and anyone visiting will be struck at the enormous improvement made at the entrance, and on the down platform, where the work of transformation has taken place. The picture conveys a clear impression of the new main entrance. 30 07 04b

1930 07 05

Having expended over £1,000 during the past five years in restoration of Over parish church, those in this industrious village who control the affairs of their House of Worship are still endeavouring to keep in step with the ravages of time. Their appeal is done in a charming way: a fete. There was a concert, a shooting gallery and in the evening a dance on the Vicarage lawn. 30 07 05a

1930 07 05

The policy of building more rooms in college and drawing in as many men from the lodging houses is creating a serious outlook for the lodging-house keepers. Many have been told their rooms will not be required next term. If the University cannot continue to utilise services which came into existence to serve their needs some then other employment will be needed. If the University ceases to provide adequate support Cambridge will have no alternative but to seek other means of livelihood. We will be loath to see the town industrialised but people must live. 30 07 05b

1930 07 07

Conan Doyle death, p5

1930 07 08

Adelaide Bridge weighing 135 tons was lifted bodily to a different position across the River Ouse. During the past few years it has had to carry heavy traffic during the Sugar Beet season and its foundations were getting into a dangerous state. Large piles were driven into the river and four large hydraulic jacks raised the old bridge and moved it to out of the way. The new bridge will be constructed of reinforced concrete and will occupy the same position. 30 07 08

Ald P.J. Squires, p3

1930 07 10

Writing from Horningsea, Mr Hewson Cowen the bachelor who some time ago put up a notice advertising for a wife states: "I am engaged to marry Miss A. Fitch from Fulham and will be married on September 23rd in London. I desire to thank the Cambridge Daily News for the kind publicity leading to such a happy result." 30 07 10

1930 07 11

Proposals for the uniting of the benefices of Fen Drayton with Conington and Elsworth with Knapwell due to a shortage of clergy were discussed. But Christ's College was the patrons at Fen Drayton and could dismiss the parson at will; this had been done in when the clergyman was given six months' notice. Clergymen weren't satisfied with £300 a year but a lot of other people had to live and work on less than that for doing six days' work a week. 30 07 11

1930 07 11 ES

Adelaide Bridge on the move – photo – 30 07 11 & a *

1930 07 12

Sir – what good will be served by the narrowing of Castle Street? For as long as I can remember there have been cobbled areas alongside the pavements and cars have stood on them to avoid obstructing the main road. Now kerbs are being placed there. I regret the loss of one of the old-world features which used to make Cambridge an interesting town, though such things seem to count for little nowadays – A.S. Ramsey. 30 07 12a

1930 07 12

General regulations affecting the use of motor vehicles first-year men are already in force but in view of the numerous road fatalities last term much more stringent bans will be in operation next year. Clare College says that the possession of motor cars and motor bicycles prevent undergraduates from making the best use of their residence in Cambridge and none of its students will be allowed to bring or drive a motor vehicle. Cars must be kept in a public garage or in one of the college garages on Castle Hill. 30 07 12a

1930 07 12

Work has started on the provision of a model yacht pond and paddling pool as part of an extensive scheme for the improvement of Sheep's Green. This is one of numerous schemes for providing work for the unemployed and when operations are in full swing about 70 men will be employed. The Ladies' and Men's bathing Place will also be extended. 30 07 12b

1930 07 12

Great liberties have been taken with Sherlock Holmes and in plays and films you can learn things that Sir Arthur Conan Doyle himself never knew. In 'The Three Students' Sir Arthur laid the scene in a Cambridge college but in the 'Moriarty' film Holmes and Watson are both shown as undergraduates. It was here that their great friendship began and from here that Holmes set forth to track down Moriarty and his gang. 30 07 12b

1930 07 15

Alderman Ralph Starr entered the photographic studios of Messrs Hills and Saunders as a young man but then started a studio of his own and became one of Cambridge's most eminent photographers. He was Mayor in 1918 at a time when there was unrest among the ex-Service men. Trouble broke out in Luton and he was asked to send 20 constables to keep order. For the next three days Cambridge, which might have flared into disorder, was deprived of a considerable proportion of her own protectors but the danger passed. 30 07 15

1930 07 17

An old Cambridge rag and bone collector sued a motorist for damages. She was pushing her handcart across Newmarket Road when the car ran into her; it knocked one of the wheels 'all to smithereens' and scattered her bags of rags in the road. She claimed loss of earning of one big bag of rags at four stone each day and had to hire another cart at two-and-six a week. The motorist, who said he was 73 and first began driving a year ago, alleged the woman had 'persisted in going on' and getting in his way. 30 07 17a-c

1930 07 17

A stockbroker's wife told the court that she had stayed at the University Arms; in the morning she threw her pink satin pyjamas on the floor and left her door open when she went out. That night when she returned to her room after a ball she found the bed had been turned down but the pyjamas were gone. They had cost £7 17s 6d the year before and had scarcely been worn. Other guests had also lost their pyjamas and nightgowns. But the judge said she was negligent in not closing her bedroom door. 30 07 17 d-f

Stretham sports, p6*

1930 07 18

There were remarkable scenes at the opening services of the Arbury Road Baptist Church Hall and School. When the doors were flung open the crowd was far too large for the building. Although many stood at the rear many more had to be content with standing outside and taking part in the proceedings through the open windows. It meets the religious needs of a large residential area of 4,000 people which has come into existence since the war and it is hoped to build a chapel within a few years. 30 07 18

1930 07 18 ES

Peterborough Standard and Huntingdonshire Post pass to A. Sharman of March who has purchased from Commander Locker-Lampson, MP, the controlling shares in The Peterborough Press Ltd, the company which produces these newspapers. He is chairman and managing director of Sharman & Co. proprietors of The Cambridgeshire Times, Ely Standard, Littleport Gazette, Soham Advertiser, Chatteris Advertiser, Whittlesey Reporter and Wisbech Standard – 30 07 18b # c.04

The death has occurred of Joseph Bates, who twice won the race for the Littleport Skating Cup and win the British professional skating championship at Lingay Fen in 1902. His first appearance on fenland was at Swavesey on February 13th, 1895 and two days later he competed in a £50 skating match at Littleport, taking third prize. Bates won the race for the Littleport Cup, 27th January 1897 30 07 18es

1930 07 19

Queen Victoria's portrait has been moved from the Council Chamber at Cambridge Guildhall and replaced by a fine picture of Mr George Fisher who was mayor in 1840-1-2. It was originally presented by his son, but owing to its dilapidated state was not hung at the time. His grand-daughter Miss Enid Hudson has contributed to its renovation, carried out by Messrs Perry Leach and Son. It now hangs next to the portrait of the late Ald. Kett. 30 07 19

Castle Hill cobbles, p3

1930 07 21

Cambridge planners say that Huntingdon and Barton Road are already practically fully developed on both sides, similar building is taking place along Trumpington Road & housing in Madingley Road will increase now the sewers are laid. There will probably be spur roads which will have no regard to the traffic needs of the area as a whole and the result will be a hotch-potch similar to that before the days of town planning. Soon there will be no possibility getting a cross-road between Huntingdon Road and Trumpington without the demolition of buildings or serious interference with the land-owners. 30 07 21a-c

1930 07 21

Early in March football circles were much excited about the sudden disappearance of the joint treasurer of the Isle of Ely Football Committee leaving its affairs in a somewhat involved state. The accounts had not been audited for some years but now showed that the bank balance had been reduced from £69 down to £4. The chairman said the treasurer had been his son-in-law but there was no one who had not completely trusted him, as he had. Well he had let them down. 30 07 21e-f

1930 07 21

The annual 'No More War' meeting of the Cambridge Peace Council was held indoors instead of on Parker's Piece because of heavy rain. But accompanied by the Boys' Brigade Band they proceeded with drenched banners through the rain-swept streets. They met to ensure the catastrophe of 1914 did not occur again. One must remember the menace from the air. It was possible to turn civil aircraft into war craft and chemical factories into works for the manufacture of poison gases and lethal rays. 30 07 21g

1930 07 22

Cambridge councillors rejected plans for the erection of a bungalow on Robinson Crusoe Island & decided the existing old cottage and shed should be demolished and that the Surveyor should report on the erection of suitable sheds for boating purposes. They also considered land at Town Close, Old Chesterton which is occupied by numerous caravans; their appearance is most objectionable and they should be moved. 30 07 22c

1930 07 22

At Harston the flow of water from springs had greatly decreased; fountains were only trickling and one had ceased to run. At Barrington one of the chief fountains had run dry and other villages were beginning to suffer. A deep bore had been sunk at the cement works; after extensive pumping at the works the village water supply dropped off and when the works shut down for a week the water improved. 30 07 22a-b

E.O. Brown, p5

1930 07 23

Prince at Papworth, p3

J. Holt retires, p8

1930 07 24

Mrs Elizabeth Haslop has been described as a woman possessed of splendid business acumen. She carried on her late husband's butcher's business in Silver Street Cambridge and was the last link with the well-known firm which has been in existence for nearly 100 years and will be carried on. In her earlier life she was well-known in the Mill Road district where a small shop near Tension Road was run in her name. 30 07 24

1930 07 25

The controversy over the University Farm on Huntingdon Road was resolved when Cambridge councillors rejected proposals for a road across the land. It had never been a ring road, only a road to be planned in the event of traffic conditions demanding it. It was altogether wrong to put an arterial road in the middle of a rural area which they desired to preserve and which they hoped would never be required. They should ensure that Grantchester and Coton were not swallowed up by Cambridge in the way that Trumpington and Girton were. 30 07 25a-c

1930 07 25

Cambridge councillors have received consent for a new road from Milton Road to Histon Road at a cost of £18,135. St John's College would give the land which was required for housing purposes, it would be one of the best estates and the frontages would sell at very high price. Grants have been received for King's Hedges and Green End Road as part of the unemployment scheme with one-third of the labour being imported from the distressed areas. 30 07 25d

Road works, p8

1930 07 26

Council – roads, p8

1930 07 28

County councillors should contribute towards water supply in the Linton district because since the new Cambridge water scheme at Fulbourn came about a lot of the village wells had run dry. Coun. Frost said: "I would not mind paying for a motor charabanc to take them out to West Wrating and let them have a cup of tea out of the pond – but I very much doubt that I should bring them back alive". But this would be the thin end of the wedge and umpteen other applications would come in from other villages. 30 07 28a-c

Road works, p8

1930 07 29

J.S. Conder, p3

1930 07 31

Cartoon – police, p7*

August 1930 CDN & Ely Standard

1930 08 05

W.L. Raynes, p3

Ely Kings fagging, p3

Claydon, Haverhill cycle agent, p3

Cambridgeshire Regiment 'missing'

Sports, Girton, Ely, p6

Hauxton bridge crash, p8

1930 08 08

Opening Horningsea Hospital fete Miss Francis recalled that many people from Quy used to walk to the village on Sundays to attend church as they only had one service in their own. About 40 years ago, there being a good many men out of work, a scheme was financed for digging coprolites but the venture failed after four years. Ten years later Quy started their Nursing Association and the first patient was from Horningsea. 30 08 08

Brock jewellery, p8

1930 08 09

Sidgwick Avenue wall demolition photo, p8

Nellie Wallace, p8

1930 08 12

The air exercises have begun and squadrons of fighting planes took off to engage in bitter combat. Until the very last minute of peace 250 aeroplanes were being secretly moved to vulnerable points and the men in command have been planning their attacks. Five night bomber squadrons, nine day bomber squadrons and 11 fighter squadrons will be engaged. Some are fitted with robot controls which can relieve the pilot for extended periods on long flights. 30 08 12

1930 08 12

H. Franklin, p7

Barrow Road photo, p8

1930 08 14

The Star Inn, Waterbeach had sold no beer or spirits since last May and the licence was in jeopardy, a judge was told. The trade had run down and Pampisford Breweries had refused delivery unless they were paid £65 for the beer. They had another tenant ready to take over. The landlord said he had tried everything he knew to make the house 'go' – got up dances, a shove ha'penny league and so on. There was not a gallon of beer in the place. 30 08 14a

1930 08 14

Hubert Gautrey a Cottenham motor car agent claimed £60 from Messrs M. Mack, motor coach proprietors. They had advertised two Gilford 1929 sunlight saloon coaches for sale. They wanted £1,120 per coach or £2,240 for the two and agreed to pay him £40 per coach commission if he found a purchaser. This he had done, but Mack's claimed the buyer had only paid £1,850 and they had reduced the sum to £20. 30 08 14c

1930 08 15 ES

Ely's latest street improvement – Shepherd's Hall, Market Street – photo – 30 08 15a

1930 08 19

A reader has sent a picture of a locomotive engine built by Headley Bros of the Eagle Foundry, Cambridge in 1849. It was a small single-tank affair with two big driving wheels, painted bright green and named the 'Eagle'. At first there was no tender, only a small place for the driver, though later it was extended to carry a saloon. It was intended for the use of the Eastern Counties Railway's engineer but its career was marred when in 1850 it ran over and killed the district superintendent. 30 08 19a

Ald E.W. Amies, p3

Potato Growers Association, p6*

1930 08 20

The Beds, Cambs and Hunts Electricity Company sought permission to erect a power line across the Waterbeach Lodge estate. They wanted to supply the village with electricity and had secured way-leave for the whole route apart from this one pole. But the owner, T.C. Lethbridge said the overhead wires would cross a paddock and he would be unable to let it. He wanted an underground cable laid instead. 30 08 20c

1930 08 20

Cambridge is well known to 'Weary Willies' – tramps – as 'hard-up-town' owing to the quantity of cigarette ends which can be culled from its pavements, especially during Term; 'hard-up' being the name they give to the tobacco gathered from the streets. A few years ago vagrants found meagre fare in the casual wards: bread and water for supper and breakfast with a scanty bread and cheese dinner. Today the diet includes bread and margarine with tea or cocoa for supper & a dinner of cheese, bread, margarine and vegetables. 30 08 20a-b

1930 08 20

There are only seven patients at Oakington Isolation Hospital, the cases were chiefly scarlet fever and the virulence of this disease was decreasing. The matron and porter have retired due to ill-health. It would be best to close it and arrange for Cambridge sanatorium to take the patients. But the cost of maintenance there was three shillings and sixpence more a week, councillors were told. 30 08 20d-e

Rev Hicks, Prickwillow, p3
Milton Road new road, photo, p8

1930 08 21

'Ethyl', as every motorist knows, is a super motor spirit with remarkable properties. It causes engines to run more smoothly, delivers more power and eliminates the 'knock' without retarding the spark. A few years back it was obtainable at petrol filling stations almost everywhere and many motorists cheerfully paid the extra penny a gallon. But sinister rumours circulated that the lead tetra-ethyl it contained was injurious to health and gradually it disappeared. Now following tests it will shortly be on sale again at the Olde Castle Hotel garage in Cambridge. 30 08 21 & a

1930 08 23

One of the new Willys-Manchester 35 cwt lorries arrived in Cambridge as part of its 10,000-mile demonstration run. The lorry, which is fully laden & fitted with a special publicity body, toured the town attracting considerable attention. It carried 60 pennants of agents which have been visited and the proprietors of the Queens' Garage, Newnham Road added theirs before it left for Hitchin. The garage is to be shortly extended, provision being made for a showroom and toilet rooms. 30 08 23

1930 08 26

Ald T.A. Mathers, p3
Backs road repairs, p3

1930 08 27

Backs trees, p6

1930 08 28

Seven deaths have been reported from various parts of the country and no break is expected in the heat wave. In Cambridge temperatures of 88 degrees were recorded in the shade, two lower than yesterday. A girl in green striped pyjamas was seen in one of the main thoroughfares, an extreme symptom of the heat wave that holds the town in its grip. There was an outbreak of open-necked shirts whilst those who were less courageous fingered the tight damp bands that had once been collars and wondered whether respectability was worthwhile. At midnight there were bathing parties by the banks of the Cam. 30 08 28

1930 08 29

Sandy Floral and Horticultural Society's Show was one of the sunniest in the long history of the Society. Over 4,000 people paid for admission and were offered a splendid programme, the bands of the Irish and Coldstream Guards adding to the functions. The heat had a disastrous effect on some of the animals, six Angora rabbits and some pigeons dying as the result of the excessive sunshine. The most serious drop was in the Horticultural section, this being attributed by market gardeners and nurserymen to the hard winter. 30 08 29a

1930 08 29

The new premises for the Loyal Order of Ancient Shepherds now under construction in Market Street, Ely are being built by workmen who were members of the Society and the bricks which came from Warboys and Whittlesey are also made by members. In 1914 the district had been in a state of chaos but was now flourishing and the new building, designed by Tucker and Son, will be an everlasting monument to the Order. The Central Hall is panelled in oak and there will be a kitchen and four large offices. 30 08 29a-c

Heat deaths, p8*
P.H. Allin death, p5

Sugar beet report, p8

1930 08 29 ES

The Isle of Ely will possess one of the finest highways in the country on the completion of the work of reconstruction which is now taking place on the main Peterborough to Wisbech from Wryde corner near Thorney to Guyhirn. For a distance of five miles with only one slight bend in its whole length, a level concrete road of great strength is being carried across the flat Fen country, constituting a splendid example of modern highway engineering. Passing as it does through a totally agricultural landscape with fields of corn and other crops bordering it on either side, a road so ultra-modern strikes a somewhat incongruous note especially to those who have been familiar with the unpretentious road which it is superseding. The route, however, is regarded as of such importance that the Ministry of transport have now recognized it as a trunk road. The project is involving heavy expenditure and will cost over £10,000 a mile but durability is an all important factor and the new road should far outlast many reconstructions by the older fashioned methods. A scene of great activity has been presented at the scene of operations during the summer and remarkable progress has been made. Summer 150 men are engaged in the work, 10 concrete mixers are kept in operation and heavy motor vehicles are constantly employed conveying the enormous quantities of gravel, sand, cement and steel reinforcements that are being used for this reconstruction of the road. Bounded as the road is by dykes on either side difficulty is encountered due to the severe restriction of working space and the fact that the route has to be kept open for traffic. Nevertheless some three miles have been completed work is proceeding at the rate of mile a month. The old road surface was undulating in places and this is being overcome by taking off the rises and raising the low portions so that the perfectly level road is being formed. A reinforced concrete raft is being constructed to form the roadway eight inches thick with steel reinforcement and the final surface will be practically non-skid. When complete it will compare favourably with the best in the country and will demonstrate to those who travelled over it that Isle's finest highway: progress of the concrete road between Guyhirn and Thorney – will be one of the finest highways in the country; splendid example modern highway engineering ... 150 men engaged in work, ten concrete mixers kept in operation – 30 08 29 ES

1930 08 30

There are at present 107 stablemen out of work in Newmarket and there is little chance of their being employed. The number will be seriously increased by reductions in Lord Derby's staff at Stanley House. It is by far the largest racing stable and has always been noted for its good treatment of the men. Frank Butters, the trainer, said it was a great surprise; it was not the fault of the stable but the heavy additional taxation which compelled the closure. 30 08 30a

1930 08 30

There are a five-seater, a quad, a triplet and a tandem bicycle to be found at the Belmont Cycle and Motor Works, King Street, Cambridge. They were formerly part of the fleet of pacing multicycles used by the famous Dunlop racing teams at the old Herne Hill track. Owing to the amount of motor traffic nowadays it is not advisable to ride the 'quint', a lengthy machine, but the others are still available for use. 30 08 30b & c

1930 08 30

The opportunity of seeing the execution gallows and other grim items offered for sale by auction at the old County Gaol, Castle Hill, will doubtless attract a big crowd. As well as the gallows will be sold cell doors, the iron gallery railing, iron window grilles, stone steps and other component parts which went to make up a place whose passing will be lamented by none. 30 08 30e

September 1930 CDN & Ely Standard

1930 09 01

Sir – Old Romsey Town is a labyrinth of mean streets but it has enjoyed an oasis of green and trees on the area bounded by Mill Road, Cavendish Road, Sedgwick Street and St Philip's Road. But half of this green and pleasant land is destined to disappear. Already trees have been cut down and little box-like houses have been erected in their place in Sedgwick Street and similar erections are expected to displace the mature trees shading St Philip's Road. Except for the inclusion of bathrooms these houses are not one whit more attractive than many others in the area. An enlightened authority would have realised the potential of this site for recreation – 'Busybody'. 30 09 01

1930 09 02

A white-coated auctioneer started the piece-meal destruction of the old Cambridge County Gaol. Bidding was brisk as lot after lot was sold. Then came the execution gallows but there were few bids and it was eventually sold for one pound. The prison clock went for the sum of £5 amid the mutterings of buyers on the debris-laden floor. 30 09 02a-c

'Pickwick' amusement machine used in pub - bagatelle – 30 09 02aaa, bbb & ccc

Ald A.E. King, p3

Grass track, p7

1930 09 03

Huntingdon & Godmanchester Councils are to purchase Houghton, Hemingford & Godmanchester Locks together with Houghton Mill whilst St Ives have acquired the Staunch. They again have control of the locks and the chance of putting them into a proper state of repair. The town depended entirely on the river for its sanitation and it was essential to keep a good head of water in the river. The vendor, Mr Leonard Simpson says he regrets that his personal connection with the river that he loves will be severed. 30 09 03a & b

1930 09 03

Another example of the 'new Cambridge' in the making is the extensive site on which Magdalene College intends erecting an imposing new wing. It is at the rear of the Pickerel and Cross Keys yards originally occupied by Bird's vinegar and mustard factory. Mallory Court will provide the principal access but eventually a complete transformation will be effected by the demolition of all the property between the bridge and Northampton Street making Magdalene Street a broad and handsome thoroughfare. 30 09 03c

Gaol demolition photo, p6*

1930 09 04

A Cambridge women told the court she had locked the door of her home at no.5 Guildhall Place but left the front window unfastened to allow her son to get in during the night. She was awakened by her estranged common-law husband who had got in and was flourishing a revolver. He said it was a dummy revolver loaded with blank cartridges and explained they had lived together for 14 years until she took up with a new man. 30 09 04a

Hardwick fire, p8

1930 09 05

Preserving the beauties of Cambridge – no praise for what council has done – 30 09 05

1930 09 06

Phineas, mascot seized – recalls Cambridge rag of March 1923 – 30 09 06a & b* & photo – 30 09 06c

Conference, p8*

1930 09 08

A thunderstorm greatly marred the big rally of British Legionists at Newmarket. There were over 4,500 on parade and although a march-past was carried out the storm that followed forced organisers to abandon a service. But that part of the programme which the weather permitted was conducted with military precision and fine spectacular effect. The men took the rainfall very cheerfully and sang well-known war songs 'Tipperary' and 'Pack up your troubles' as it fell. 30 09 08 – a

1930 09 09

An Ortona omnibus collided with a stationary Ford van at Old Chesterton and the impact was so great that the van was hurled twenty yards along the road. William Holmes was delivering meat when the bus crashed into the rear of his butcher's vehicle. He was taken completely by surprise and flung across the footpath but managed to save a 70-year-old lady, Mrs Mansfield, by pulling her away. The van's steering gear was smashed, the body splintered and meat to the value of £10 scattered on the road. 30 09 09

Ald W.L. Briggs, p7

1930 09 10

After considerable discussion it was agreed to purchase apparatus for artificial sunlight treatment at the Cambridge Open-Air School. Some felt it might be dangerous unless carefully used and children could be burned and blistered. But Dr Paton Philip, the County Tuberculosis Officer, is an expert in this treatment and a nurse had worked with the great specialist, Sir Henry Lovain. Most of the children went there not from any disability but because they had the suspicion of tuberculosis hanging over them. 30 09 10a

1930 09 10

Saffron Walden RDC considered whether to give their roadmen a week's holiday: the County Council had already granted their employees one and they should follow suit. But they would then ask for a fortnight and the time would come when there was not a penny left in the country at all. It would upset the farmers: agriculture was in a very serious position and this was not the time to throw money away. It was agreed on the casting vote of the chairman. 30 09 10b-c

1930 09 10

The 'Wander Bug' has returned to Cambridge after an absence of four years. It was in April 1926 that Mr & Mrs L.G. Murray, the tallest married couple in England, started their journey round the world on two specially-constructed cycles. They met Mussolini and were attacked by wolves. But the journey proved too much for his wife who died because of the hardships and was buried in France. 30 09 10d-e

Royston town hall, p3

1930 09 12

The Edison Bell Gramophone and Radio Works at Huntingdon employ over 300 people. About 30,000 'Radio' records are made each week; they are stamped out between dies and passed to girls to put the edge and finishing touches. Various gramophones and wirelasses are manufactured including compact two and three valve 'all-main' sets in preparation for the Radio Exhibition. Amongst the machinery used are automatic lathes which need no human attention. 30 09 12

Fitzroy & Burleigh Street photos, p3

1930 09 13

Much has been said about the destruction of the beauties of the Backs. But I must protest against the awful wastepaper baskets that have made their appearance. It is good to try and prevent litter along this favourite walk but surely something more in harmony with the surroundings might have been found that these huge baskets which look more suited for undergraduates' laundry than litter. 30 09 13

Lt Stukeley churchyard, p6

1930 09 15

Parker's Piece article by A.E. Reeve, p6

1930 09 16

The secret marriage just been revealed of a Cambridge girl Miss Rosa Kester of Kimberley Road to Reginald Cory, a millionaire colliery owner and shipping magnate. Her family had no idea of the wedding and the first the groom's family knew was when they saw a notice in the marriage column of a newspaper. Miss Kester, who is a pretty blonde, first met her husband when she was secretary to the Curator of the Botanic Garden to which he was a generous benefactor. He built the Curator's house which is known as Cory's lodge after him. 30 09 16

1930 09 16

Ald C.H. Lavender, p3

Horningsea bachelor, p6

Inquest facilities, p8

1930 09 17

St Augustine's church in Cambridge was erected on land given by the Rev. T.J. Puckle in 1897. It was a memorial to the late Canon Churton, who was a saint; he considered its most important function was the training of children. His brother was a member of Westcott House and he suggested their men should assist. The new vestry was a much-needed improvement. It would be used as a storeroom for chairs and provide a room for small meetings. 30 09 17-a

1930 09 17

Miss Kitty Willers of Trumpington is a member of the Ladies' Guild of Change Ringers and is one of the very few women who regularly ring church bells. She has rung in over 200 towers in 14 different countries, once cycling 55 miles each way. On Saturday she biked 65 miles – partly in the rain - to attend the opening ceremony of the bells at St Mary's church, Bocking by the Bishop of Chelmsford. 30 09 17b

Threat to rector, p5

1930 09 18

Jack Hobbs came for the first time since the opening of the pavilion that bears his name. He brought one of the most brilliant cricket teams that Parker's Piece has ever seen with seven who have captained England including Hobbs himself and O'Connor, both of whom learned the game in Cambridge. By two o'clock there were at least 5,000 spectators massed three and four deep round the entire field. Others stood on the running boards of cars drawn up in Park Terrace to see the game. 30 09 18b-c

1930 09 19

Farm wages cut, p5

1930 09 19 ES

St Germans pumping station – feature – 30 09 19b, c * # c29

Ely beet factory scheme to protect fish – photos – 30 09 19d

1930 09 20

The whole of Mill Road, Cambridge, was affected by a two-hour electricity stoppage which came just as the first performance finished at both the Playhouse and Kinema cinemas. The Kinema audience who had been watching a Western thriller, whiled away the time in community singing. But some trouble was experienced with the queue for the last show at the Playhouse which did not finish until midnight. 30 09 20

1930 09 22

Miss Brooks, the Cambs County Librarian said some books which were distasteful to certain readers had been mutilated by self-appointed censors in villages. She had difficulties inducing youths to read, bringing to the notice of village craftsmen and farmers the technical book intended for them and exchanging books quickly enough to keep pace with rapid readers. Village halls seldom had any accommodation for a library; this should be made obligatory for any halls built with grants. 30 09 22

1930 09 22

There are currently very few people out of work in Ramsey but when the potatoes and sugar beet were lifted unemployment would be very, very acute. Labourers are so well paid that farmers cannot afford to employ them when they have only routine work to do. As soon as the harvest is completed they are thrown off wholesale and this is a heavy time for the Guardians until the spring. There is more actual distress amongst these highly paid men than from any other district. 30 09 22b

1930 09 23

C.H. Kemp, Town Clerk, p3
Bourn dirt track, p5

1930 09 24

Tens of thousands of old documents are being destroyed every year so that fancy goods like drums and tambourines might be made from the parchment. County Record Offices should be established where they could be housed and skilled archivists give them the proper attention. County Councils were too fully occupied with questions of local government to give archives proper consideration but their preservation was too big a matter to be treated as a sideshow, says Cambridge Antiquarian Society. 30 09 24

1930 09 24

Shop Mill Road, Sidney Street, p3

1930 09 26

In 1924 the Ministry of Agriculture established a packing station at Cottenham as an experiment in the better marketing of fruit on co-operative lines. Growers were charged a flat rate per bushel for the handling of their fruit. Next year they formed an association and took it over. In 1926 and 1927 the apple crop failed completely but in 1928 they reopened the station, purchasing apples from other growers to keep it working economically. But they lost money and when the 1929 crop failed decided to wind up the business. 30 09 26a & b

1930 09 26

A sensation was caused at a meeting of the Cambs Agricultural Wages Committee when all the farmers' representatives left in protest. Workers claimed that the present wages of one pound ten shillings for a 48 hour week was inadequate should be increased by half-a-crown. Fewer men were now being employed so the wages bill would not be higher. But farmers said that for many years they had only been able to pay wages out of capital and that capital was in many cases now exhausted. 30 09 26 c-e

1930 09 26

The Master of Clare College told librarians that a wealthy member of the college had made a benefaction on condition that his bones were preserved above ground. His body was put in a cupboard above the Hall. But undergraduates came to know of this and took away various bones as mementoes. The college replaced them with other bones so that skeleton remained more or less complete. But on Christmas Eve the ghost of the benefactor visits various undergraduate rooms gathering in his scattered parts. 30 09 26f

1930 09 26 ES

Crown Prince of Japan visits cathedral – pic 30 09 26

1930 09 27

The Cambridge Disabled Soldiers Workshop in Gloucester Street has made a trading profit for the first time since it opened four years ago. Four of the nine men had returned to their villages for better pay after receiving training in repairs to cane and rush work. They made good quality baskets for laundry and bottles as well as remaking mattresses. Manufactured goods were sold at local fetes and the Exhibition at the Imperial Institute when £300 worth of sales was realised. But the net loss on the running of the institution was £141. 30 09 27b

1930 09 27

Mr W.H. Evans who conducts the orchestra at the Cambridge New Theatre won fame as one of the first airman to fly to Cambridge. He founded the first flying school in Scotland and flew across the Firth of Forth in 1911. He made a flying tour on behalf of the 'Daily Mail' and chose Cambridge as his first stopping place, landing his Caudron biplane on the University Rifle Range, Grange Road on 27th June 1912. 30 09 27 b & c

1930 09 30

Ald W. Sindall, p3

October 1930 CDN & Ely Standard

1930 10 01

Dr Stokes, p5

1930 10 02

A woman told Saffron Walden magistrates that by hawking linoleum her husband and herself earned on average about two pounds a day. The lino was purchased in London, cut into strips and sold from door to door. They were hawking at Ugley when her husband asked if she would like a glass of stout as she was feeding a young baby. But they squabbled after he told her to continue selling while he stayed in the pub and he'd smashed a pint mug into her mouth. 30 10 02a

Dirt track, photo, p7

1930 10 03

Unemployment, p8

1930 10 03 ES

Cottenham fruit station's failure, wound up 39 10 03

In 1924, the Ministry of Agriculture in conjunction with the West Cambridgeshire Fruit Growers Association, established a packing station at Cottenham. A number of local growers formed themselves into a Society for taking it over and carrying on the packing station.

In 1925, nearly £1,600 was paid to growers who had sent fruit, leaving a balance of £31 to carry forward. But in 1926 the apple crop failed locally and after careful consideration, it was decided not to open the packing station that year. Next year the crop again failed and they suspended operations. The station was reopened in 1928 and lost £45.

The financial position was by this time, causing considerable anxiety. It was not lessened by the almost complete failure of the apple crop in 1929 owing to late frosts.

It was felt that losses were too great to recoup from future charges for grading members' fruit and certain members were also owed money for fruit sent by them in 1928. It was decided, therefore, to wind up the Society at the earliest possible date. 30 10 03

Great Ouse Catchment Area: Ministry's proposals 30 10 03a # c.29

The Land Drainage Act of 1930 divides England into 48 catchment areas which will be administered by a Catchment Board.

The Great Ouse Catchment Area is the first district to be organised by the ministry. There are two main functions: the maintenance and administration connected with the main rivers and arterial drains and the supervision of internal drainage districts within the area.

The first question to be settled is what considered main rivers and arterial drains. A number of objections have been forthcoming and there will be an inquiry. There remained a large number of smaller rivers, drains and lodes to be maintained by Internal Drainage Boards.

Under proposal the 'main river' ceases above Cambridge at Grantchester Mill, leaving Bourn Brook, the Rhee and the Granta to be maintained by an internal authority.

The Ouse Catchment area includes a portion outside the watershed to the north of March. The Ministry has somewhat arbitrarily drawn a line through this portion of flat land leaving Wisbech in the Nene catchment area. The waters of the Nene catchment area are delivered into the sea at Wisbech and those of the Great Ouse area at King's Lynn. 30 10 03a

Sutton in humorous frame of mind – photo comic carnival – features plane with swastika – 30 10 03d
*

1930 10 04

Few can have failed to be moved by the hymn 'Nearer, my God, to thee' that features in the new movie 'Atlantic'. It was written Sarah Flower Adams, the daughter of Benjamin Flower the former editor of the 'Cambridge Intelligencer' who was imprisoned for a libel on the Bishop of Llandaff in 1799. It was the only paper to denounce the war with France as 'absurd and wicked'. 30 10 04a

1930 10 04

Many in Cambridge will bid good-bye with regret to F.C. Pool, the general manager of the New Theatre. Despite ever-increasing competition he saw record profits and turnover in his first full year. His successor is Bertram Brown who is not used to the ways of Cambridge undergraduates but has had something to do with Leeds 'medicals' and imagines they are much the same type. 30 10 04a

Solving a mystery photo competition cartoon – 30 10 04b

1930 10 06

Sir – does Cambridge derive much pecuniary benefit from the photographer who blocks our busy street near the Post Office? I cannot believe that it was for this purpose that the graves were removed opposite Woolworth's. Other photographers would probably like the same privileges accorded to the one who now blocks our path – 'Old Cambridge'. 30 10 06a

1930 10 06

Rumours of the R101 airship disaster were received with incredulity in Cambridge where thousands of people had seen it passing over. Early on milkmen and postmen had the story that it had crashed in flames, but details were lacking. Inquiries in London confirmed that the greater part of the passengers and crew had perished and a special edition of the C.D.N. was issued. Amongst the victims was Walter Radcliffe, a rigger on the airship, whose wife is a daughter of the late Mr Charles Isaacs, the well-known Newmarket racing correspondent. 30 10 06b-e

1930 10 06

A big fire involving a large number of farming machines and carts broke out at Charity Farm, Whittlesford and brought many early risers running from their homes to help in the work of rescue. The first thoughts were for nine horses in the stable which was quickly filling with smoke and flames. The horsekeeper had no easy job in extricating the animals; one was particularly wild, and jumped a bar before dashing out and the end horse was nearly burnt before it could be freed. 30 10 06f

Grocers' Association photo, p6

1930 10 07

Counc. J.T. masters, p3

Henry Prior, p6

1930 10 09

The King and Queen will experience a sense of regret at the retirement of Inspector John Harrison of St Philip's Road, Cambridge. He has been Royal inspector since 1916 and was on the Royal train which took their majesties to Sandringham at the weekend. He remembers one occasion when he saw assembled on Wolferton station two kings, five queens, two princes and two princesses. Inspector G. Goddard, also of Cambridge, will succeed him. 30 10 09 & b

Before the days of Sawston college – schools – 30 10 09b-c

Tramp tries to steal money Cambridge man –30 10 09

Footpath, p8*

1930 10 10

Millers Radio advert

1930 10 11

For the past few months workmen have been engaged in constructing Cambridge's new Central Cinema in Hobson Street. The interior is decorated in a style reminiscent of the Regal Super Cinema at Marble Arch. The prevailing colours are mauve, orange and blue and the whole is surmounted by a dome in the form of a large star surrounded by sky effects. On each of the walls there are large panels with ornamental plastering surmounted by a design in the form of sunrise and illuminated by hidden lights. 30 10 11

1930 10 11

Cambridge is a wonderful place in these days, what with new cinemas, new restaurants and new shops, not to mention the midget golf centres. Another is being laid out at Belle Vue Gardens. It is an 18-hole course with fairways averaging 30 feet in length made of tarmac with a green fibre surface. In some holes it will be necessary to send the ball over a five-barred gate, through the muzzle of a gun and down a nine-foot 'snake' curled round a tree trunk. 30 10 11a

R101 funerals, p55-5

1930 10 13

Crowds thronged Hobson Street endeavouring to gain admission to the opening of the new Central Cinema. Many were unsuccessful. The Mayor gave a civic blessing to the picture house: it was appropriate because the assessment value of the property would go up and Hobson Street was going to pay a large contribution to the rates. The film was Harold Lloyd's first talkie 'Welcome Danger'. 30 10 13

Arrington fire, p6

Hinxton vicarage borstal, p8

Caxton dirt track, p8

1930 10 14

Councillor Edwin Jackson, p3

Altering the Backs – straightening road – photo – 30 10 14

1930 10 16

Mr James Matthews, watchmaker and jeweller of Market Street, Ely took over the business from his father and carried on with his sons till the day of his death. For over 30 years he was a member of the old Cambridgeshire Volunteers and was considered the crack shot in all the Eastern Counties. He attended Wimbledon and later Bisley for 21 years in succession and always came out with honours. 30 10 16a

1930 10 16

Five miniature golf courses are now in operation in Cambridge. There are Messrs Grays in Sidney Street and the octagon course in King Street. The Premier Hall, Old Chesterton, has added midget golf to its other attractions and the Newmarket Road has the course in the club-room at 'The Bell'. Its holes represent hazards encountered during a trip from 'Trafalgar Square' to 'The Oval'. The latest 18-hole course at the Belle Vue Gardens is all-weather and open-air. It features a howitzer gun and a water jump and has been laid down by Capt Mullett who has constructed others in Vancouver and San Francisco. 30 10 16c

Changing backs – removing elms, Queens Road with steam roller - 30 10 16b
Huntingdon airport, p8

1930 10 17

Steam lorry photo, p6*
Saffron Walden hospital extension, p8

1930 10 18

The purchase of the Old Vicarage at Hinxton for use as a private borstal institution has prompted debate. Criminals are manufactured by sending the first offender to prison. Recently a youth charged with sleeping out and being without visible means of support was sentenced to 14 days lard labour because he did not have a shilling in his pocket. Hinxton vicarage is to be used for such cases and once villagers realise this they will applaud Mr Barnett and his scheme. 30 10 18

Farm wages, p5

1930 10 20

The 'Westland Wessex' three-engined six-seater cabin monoplane de luxe arrived at Marshall's aerodrome. A CDN representative, seated in a padded brown leather seat with arm and head rests found it glided so smoothly that he could scrawl down his experiences in his best hand. From the air the new estate at Milton Road gave the appearance of a toy town, King's College chapel was a landmark and the white-fronted Central Cinema very prominent. There is no vibration and the businessman can take his secretary, for letters and notes are typed with ease. 30 10 20

Samuels burglary, p8

1930 10 21

Whittlesford, the scene of several fires in the last few weeks, was thrown into excitement by another disastrous blaze when 'Hilthatch', a picturesque residence near the Station, was burnt out. The RAF fire appliance was soon on the scene but could only fight the flames with buckets of water. By the time the Dennis engine arrived from Cambridge flames were leaping to a height of over 50 feet. It is understood the place was insured for the owner was seen searching for her policy before abandoning her house. 30 10 21

Councillor Sidney French, p3
Coldham's Common rifle range given up, p8

1930 10 22

Sir – the proposal to use Hinxton vicarage to house young men who have come into contact with the police prompts the question: 'What are they to do?' You cannot keep them shut up in the Vicarage, there is no ground to employ them on and if they are sent to the farms they will compete with local men. Are they to be allowed to loaf about the village? – Charles Robinson, Hinxton Hall. 30 10 22

1930 10 23

Herbert Robinson, the motor engineer told the court he had purchased the leasehold of 'The Fountain' pub, Regent Street, Cambridge from the Star Brewery intending to add the site to his business premises. He granted the lease to a landlord for five years with a provision that he could regain possession earlier and now wanted it back. 30 10 23a-c

Borough extension, p3
Cambridge men R101 inquest, p5
Isle Rothschild alarm, p5

1930 10 25
Leah Manning, p3
Air service, p8

1930 10 27
Jujitsu, p6

1930 10 28
Councillor W.H. Smith, p3

1930 10 29
Cottenham fire photo, p8

1930 10 30
The Prince of Wales set the seal of Royal approval upon an ambitious scheme of rural education which has attracted world-wide attention when he opened Sawston Village College. Should it prove a success it will prove a pattern for a chain of similar colleges not only for the rest of this county but for vast Dominions beyond the seas. The Prince received a most enthusiastic reception. The village was gay with bunting and the inhabitants turned out en masse to wave and cheer. 30 10 30a-c

1930 10 30
A labourer engaged in excavation work at the new Dorothy Café was killed, and another seriously injured. The men, who were employed by Coulson and Sons, were clearing the old brickwork and masonry under Hobson's Passage when a considerable mass of brickwork gave way without warning and they were smothered in the ruins. The ambulance was sent for and a crowd quickly gathered. The police had some difficulty in controlling the traffic, owing to its density at one time. 30 10 30d

1930 10 30
A fire broke out at Reed Farm, Babraham; a dozen stacks and several cottages were threatened by the flames. The big fire engine arrived but found that the nearest place from which water could be obtained was about a mile away. So the small Dennis engine was sent for and numerous small water tanks fed it with supplies. But water was so scarce that only the small hose could be used and the firemen had to concentrate on saving the stacks and cottages close by. 30 10 30e

1930 10 31
VAD work, p3

November 1930 CDN & Ely Standard

1930 11 01
Dorothy wall fatality, p5

1930 11 03
The new municipal year in Cambridge has opened with a note of sorrow. Upon successive days the hand of death has removed Alderman J.W. Purvis, the Deputy Mayor, and Alderman A.J. Lyon, the County Coroner. Both University and Town have suffered. Alderman Purvis was a University lecturer, an authority on food hygiene and Alderman Lyon a townsman who had attained considerable prominence as a solicitor. With the great increase in the number of road accidents in recent years his duties as coroner grew considerably heavier, but he always made a point of attending if he possibly could. 30 11 03-a

1930 11 04

It was with a certain amount of trepidation that I called on the Mistress of Girton College, Miss E.H. Major, for this little article. "Ten minutes" I said to the driver of the car that had taken me out. It was two hours before I started on the return journey. For I had been received by a most sympathetic woman in a room harmonious, of gracious proportions, with dishes of woodland flowers on the table; cakes and coffee and cigarettes had been offered to me in friendliness. We touched upon everything under the sun, from starvation in Ruthenia to the making of the college gardens. 30 11 04a

1930 11 04

In a quiet street in Cambridge, a very charming old lady celebrates her 100th birthday. She is Mrs Howes, widow of the late John Howes head of the bicycle firm in Regent Street. She comes of a long-lived family. She was born in Coronation Street. Her father, John Galley, a reader at the Pitt Press, lived to the age of 86 and her mother to 80. She has still living four sons and three daughters, 23 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren. Her memory is still good and she has vivid memories of her girlhood. She was present at the dinner on Parker's Piece to celebrate Queen Victoria's coronation, when her father was one of the carvers. 30 11 04b

1930 11 05

County Hall, p8

1930 11 06

Little Thetford was the scene of a big blaze, a large six-roomed thatched house built in 1300 being totally destroyed. After the old roof dropped the four main walls were a roaring furnace and the blazing embers carried long distances. Soon nothing was left but burning beams and scorched walls which had evidently been built of the old Fen mud. But for the efforts of villagers similar large thatched houses nearby would have been involved. The 'Three Horse Shoes' public house opposite was plied with ladders and a chain of buckets formed and water thrown on the thatched roof to stop a possible outbreak here. The cause is a mystery. Fireworks were being let off, but not at this end of the village. 30 11 06a

1930 11 06

When the Bishop of Ely attended St Peter's church, Wilburton, to dedicate their new organ he indulged in some straight speaking. The organ was dedicated to their former Vicar, Henry Atkinson, killed while performing his duties, but in order to secure it the parish had neglected urgent repairs to the roof that was in a very serious condition and could not wait. They had also not subscribed to the diocesan fund and this was the reason why none of the surrounding clergy was present. 30 11 06c & d

1930 11 06

Cambridge police had cold feet with waiting for something to turn up in a temperature several degrees under freezing point. But the dreaded 'Fifth', that traditional battle between University and police failed to explode in the time-honoured fashion. There was a constant bombardment on the outskirts of town and some spasmodic firework throwing on the market where smoke screens were used to some effect. Using the cloud as cover two lamps were extinguished under the very nose of a sergeant. There were a few arrests but no helmets were knocked off. 30 11 06b

1930 11 07

Mrs Emma Gunton is celebrating her 100th birthday; she is the second Cambridge lady this week to reach this wonderful age. She is remarkable: she walks without assistance, has her own teeth and eats her meals regularly. She has never had an illness and only required the attention of a doctor on one occasion she met with an accident. Born at Bottisham she possesses a fine memory and can recall the coming of railway trains. 30 11 07

1930 11 07 ES

Beet Factory largest tank of its kind in Europe for storing molasses – photo – 30 11 07*

1930 11 08

Girton College earliest students, p8

1930 11 10

Councillors questioned whether it was desirable to raise the standards of country roads: “we do not want to make them into racing tracks; we want decent country roads and nothing more”. It did not matter if a road was rather bumpy for a car going on 50 mph. If the best expenditure was to maintain them in perfect condition for bus and lorries could not such traffic be restricted to certain roads which would be kept at a higher standard? As for so-called improvements in the rounding off of corners – well the easier you make it for the motorist the faster they will go around. 30 11 10

1930 11 10

Cambridge has lost one of its best-known figures by the passing of Mr W.G. Robinson, keeper of the Guildhall. He had been chosen as town crier from among over 200 applicants and carried out his duties with characteristic efficiency before becoming keeper in succession to Mr Jacobs. He had been a boxer of some prowess in his younger days and was a member of the old Volunteer Fire Brigade. 30 11 10a

1930 11 11

It was in the state of mind anticipating moral extinction that I tapped on the door of the portress at Newnham College and asked if I could see the Principal's secretary. Within five minutes Miss Strachey had herself received me. Here was no austere 'school marm' but a charming, well-dressed, quite feminine woman of the world, with a sense of humour and the blessed gift of putting nervous people at their ease. She is a great educationalist but also a most charming and modest lady. 30 11 11a

1930 11 11

Reverently Cambridge stood and remembered its dead. The firing of the maroon was the signal for silence. Immediately life stood still, pedestrians stopped dead in their tracks and in homes, offices and workshops men and women stood to attention. But in one part of town their silence was jarred by the thoughtlessness of a motor driver who did not stop. 30 11 11b-d

Poppy Day rag – 30 11 11e-g

1930 11 12

Three Somersham boys confessed to stealing cigarettes from a machine in the High Street by means of brass buttons beaten and filed to the size of a sixpence. After a packet of Players had been taken in this way, other packets were marked and eventually made detection possible. One lad was told he had been 'sailing very close to the wind' and was placed on probation. 30 11 12

1930 11 13

Farm wages, p6

1930 11 14

Great anxiety is being felt by Cambridge's 2,000 railway employees over the Companies drastic proposals on rates of pay and conditions of service. The tobacco and other luxury trades were affected at the time they accepted a reduction in wages to ease the companies' financial difficulties temporarily but this would have a serious impact on the spending power of a large number of relatively high-salaried men. Coming at a time when trade enterprise in Cambridge is approaching its zenith and the University is being appealed to for commercial support the prospects may be regarded with concern. 30 11 14

1930 11 14 ES

Ely houses great Missionary Exhibition – 30 11 14

1930 11 15

Messrs Windover's disused motor carriage works in George Street, Huntingdon have been sold. For years the firm employed hundreds of skilled workers until they acquired more extensive works in London. It was a sad sight to see the great works standing idle but now Chivers are to establish a factory for canning vegetables, the most up-to-date of its kind in the country. Already local vegetable growers are alive to the fact that a regular output for their produce will be available close at hand.

30 11 15

1930 11 17

Crash hospital, p5

1930 11 18

Miss M. Allan, principal of Homerton College is a pioneer of a radical method of training teachers for elementary schools. She came to Cambridge in 1903 and her aim is to combine academic and psychological learning, the bodies of her students are developed as well as their minds and music, art, the drama as well as science and philosophy are contained in the curriculum. She may, indeed must, in so large a community rule sometimes with a hand not always gloved with velvet but the softness of understanding is ever present and she has retained much of the spirit of youth. 30 11 18a

1930 11 18

A fire broke out at Barley in a shed which contained an oil van and tank containing about 200 gallons of paraffin. The van belonged to Mr Robert Brown, oil and hardware merchant of Cambridge; the owner had started the engine and gone to fetch some water for the radiator. On returning he found the whole enveloped in flames. The tap at the rear of the van came off and a jet of flames 30 feet long shot out across the yard, igniting a pig sty. If the Fire Brigade had pumped water on the fire it would have carried the burning oil along the High Street. 30 11 18b

1930 11 19

Gondoliers, p8

1930 11 21

The old-established Sun Brewery in the High Street at March has been sold to Greene King. It was established in 1800 by Ambrose Ogden and continued in his family. It includes some 40 licensed houses in various villages. The brewing operations in March will shortly cease and the brewery will be dismantled with the premises becoming a depot.

1930 11 21 ES

Ogden & Sons, the well-known March brewers have disposed of their business to Greene King of Bury St Edmunds. Ogden's has long been one of the principal businesses in March. It began in quite a small way being established in 1800 by Mr Ambrose Ogden who started a brewery at the Robin Hood Inn, Town End for supplying that inn. Gradually he began to supply other public houses and when he retired and his son took over they had already a flourishing trade. So great was the demand for their products that it was found necessary to extend their premises and on 12th of December 1885 they purchased the Rising Sun Inn in High Street from Mr T. Phillips at the rear of which the present brewery was built. Then other public houses were acquired and the business gradually built up to its present large dimensions. It has carried on an extensive trade having 40 houses attached to it of which the firm owns 27. These are spread over the area of March, Wimblington, Doddington, Benwick, Chatteris, Mepal, Sutton, Manea, Welney, Wisbech and Whittlesey. Greene King's products are well-known in the Isle of Ely as they have a house at Sutton # c.27.4 30 11 21

Ely station new dining rooms – for long period station in state of dilapidation, now transformed – 30 11 21b, c *

Littleport crop of Brotex on Martin Bros Land 30 11 21d *

1930 11 22

Cambridge Co-operative Society opened a new bakery in Sleaford Street equipped with the most modern machinery. 500 sacks of flour a week arrive from their own private railway siding close by. They are lifted to the third floor and the flour passes through a series of automatic machines which mix and knead it into dough that is baked in steam-heated ovens. The confectionery department has a wonderful machine turning out a wide range of cake mixtures. 30 11 22a-c

A.E. Clothier, tailor, death – 30 11 22d

Roof-climbers, Trinity, p8

1930 11 24

Co-op Sleaford Street bakery opening – 30 11 24

1930 11 25

Never did learning of so weighty a nature sit so lightly on so smiling a personality as Miss Wood, principal of the Cambridge Training College for Post-graduate Women. She has a formidable list of classical achievements but proves that learning does not inevitably mean dullness. The College opened in two small cottages in Newnham Croft in 1885 and has provided hundreds of teachers for secondary schools in many parts of the Empire. 30 11 25

1930 11 25

Mystery attaches to two outbreaks of fire which occurred shortly after midnight within three-quarters of a mile of one another. The first was at Mr Scambler's farm, Fen Drayton and caused considerable damage to stacks, barns and outhouses. Wind carried sparks all over the village and three cottages were cleared. Then another fire was spotted in four haystacks at Boxworth-End, Swavesey but as they were well-alight and there were no buildings nearby the brigade kept their efforts concentrated on the other fire. 30 11 25b

Miss M.H. Wood, p3*

1930 11 26

William Henry Williams, the 'grand old man' of Liberalism, came to Cambridge in 1880 as agent to the Liberal Association and won the respect of political friend and foe alike. He played a prominent part in Mr Stanley Buckmaster's victory over Almeric Paget in 1905. He was elected to the County Council in 1898 and returned in 1919. Even after his retirement he rendered valuable service and retained a keen interest in local politics until the end. 30 11 26

1930 11 28

A drastic reduction in Cambridge to London motor coach prices is the latest phase in an intensive 'war' between the two established 'outside' companies and local proprietors. There were two independent daily services provided by Westminster Coaches and the 'Varsity but then A. & H Brown of Lord Astor coaches started another at four shillings return. They have now allied with Royal Blue and Comfort coaches to reduce the fare by a shilling and increase services. Westminster and Varsity are now charging 2s 6d and Cambridge is awaiting the next move with interest. 30 11 28

December 1930 CDN & Ely Standard

1930 12 01

There was a presentation to E.R. Stone who has recently retired as yard master at the now famous Whitemoor Goods Marshalling Yard, March where the gravity shunting system was successfully inaugurated during his last two years of office. At first his first plans had been regarded as revolutionary and a white elephant. But it had become the outstanding feature of British rail freight working. He was a typical 'John Bull' but beneath that bluff exterior was a kind heart. 30 12 01b & c

1930 12 01

The sensational Fen Ditton case when a woman was accused of keeping a disorderly house will be sent back to be heard by magistrates. Police had kept watch on a room called the dance hall where it was alleged acts of immorality took place; some women were held upside down and couples found in very suggestive attitudes. The men were Cambridge undergraduates and the girls of the working-class type but there was no evidence of prostitution. 30 12 01d

1930 12 01

A unique village museum has opened at Ashwell started by two young men who collected curious objects of historic interest. An old building, 'Ye Olde Towne House' was purchased and restored and it is here the curios are to be kept. Sir William Gentle had paid for the restoration and created trustees to secure it for the people for ever. It will contain objects illustrating the life of Ashwell from Saxon times to the present day. 30 12 01e & f

Milton Road heroes – football cartoon – 30 12 01a

Skittle league, p3

Felix Leach, p7

1930 12 02

Mrs Wootten, p3

Police motor squad, p8

1930 12 03

Sir Ernest Rutherford, in a special interview, gave the CDN details of the work which has prompted the Royal Society to present the University of Cambridge with £15,000 for a new science cryogenetic laboratory. It will support the work of Dr Peter Kapitza, the young Russian scientist who has been carrying out investigations at the Cavendish Laboratory into magnetic fields which involves exceedingly low temperatures. 30 12 03

Dredging & navigation, p7*

1930 12 04

Mickey the mouse photo, p6*

Gaol cells photo, p8

1930 12 05

University seats abolition, p12

1930 12 05 ES

Ely in the 1870s: memories of old Ely 30 12 05 & a

In the 1870s Ely was parted into well-defined social camps beginning with the College where Bishop Harold Browne had endeared himself to the citizens by his kind-hearted generosity

Reverend John Franey, Vicar of St. Mary's wore a top hat, long black coat and invariably carried an umbrella under the arm like a gun. In his time, the present vicarage was the Cromwell Arms where the landlord Rushbrook brewed his own beer, the brewery laying at the back of the premises. It was he who when the local justices refused an extension of his hours, threatened to change the sign of the inn to the 'Jolly Parsons' and actually had a board painted showing a convivial clerical gathering drinking round a table at a forbidden hour. It was sold at with his effects about 1817.

Reverend George Bulstrode at Holy Trinity was popular owing to his eloquence as a preacher. He was amongst the clergy notable for vocal eccentricity, which in his case took the form of alternate whispers on a low note, and a sudden crescendo in a high pitched voice. This kept his hearers awake. Miss Briggs kept a 'Ladies Seminary' in St. Mary's Street. The pupils were expected to curtsy on entering the schooroom and to leave the same with a profound bow. Too much frivolity was promptly denounced Venerable schoolmaster Pountney, whose Academy represented a now by-gone type, was conspicuous for his long white beard, which he combed at intervals and for a habit of snuff taking. Needham's School provided uniforms for its scholars. This consisted of a top hat, a tan coat of green cloth with brass buttons and white corduroy knee breeches Opposite St. Mary's was the house and surgery of Dr. Cole, the parish doctor, who kept a chained monkey in his back garden. His son, the Reverend George Cole, was enthusiastic in the art of change ringing and held a class for practice with the handbells to raise the standard of ringing at the church. Dr. Muriel wore swallowtails and knee breeches and carried in Malacca cane with a silk tassel and great gold top on his professional rounds. He assisted the entry of an incredible number of infants into the world, driving thousands of miles over rough roads and droves of the fens and more than once he was treated for head injuries during accidents to his traps during those journeys..

Another public character was Toombs, the town crier, who paraded the streets in a top hat with the bell of office tucked away under his arm. His announcements comprises sales by auctions, the arrival of a travelling circus etc. This was combined with the business of a sign painter.

In St Mary's Street lived Speechley, the auctioneer, a heavy round faced, red faced man who added to the gaiety of his sales with good humour and particular phraseology – "Yawl done: shan't dwell" and so on.

Chambers' was the nearest approach in Ely to a typical village shop, where groceries and sweets of all manner were dispersed on a small scale by a little old fashioned man.

The doyen of Ely tradesmen was T.A. Hills, the bookseller of Minster Place who had a vast fund of local information. His lasting memorial is the Handbook to the Cathedral first issued in 1852.

Napier Lincolne was the veritable chemist of High Street. His manners were dignified, and his courtesy extreme which lightened the trial of parting with the hard-won shillings in the early days when I ran a little homemade laboratory and had to purchase fresh chemicals from time to time.

Morris' whose pastries were of a quality unequalled today, was one of the most attractive shops in Ely while Mrs. Briggs' Ely pork pies were the best ever made.

W. Marshall the solicitor was a contributor to the 'Fenland past and present' by Miller and Skertchley. He wrote the chapters on Fen botany. Another contributor was Marshall Fisher, an authority on fenland antiquities who formed a small museum. Somewhat brisk in manner, he was of the old school and his preference for knee breeches linked him to a bygone generation

Richard fielder, M.A., 'His Majesty of Upware' was a graduate and organised convivial gatherings of Cambridge men at the Five Miles from Anywhere. Afterwards he published his poems; he was a bit of an artist too.

Cambridgeshire Militia assembled each spring for the annual training. The officers were quartered at the Lamb and the men in billets in the city. Every Sunday morning they were marched up to the Cathedral and Ely was enlivened by bugle calls.

A picturesque character was Isaac Aspland, who played and taught the violin. His black wavy hair inclined to length, combined with a portly presence and theatrical bearing and voice suggested previous connection with the dramatic profession.

A pathetic sight was that of blind Tom, the orange seller with a great covered basket slung from his shoulders and a heavy iron-shod stick, the old man tramped the streets tapping the pavement crying 'Sweet St Michael oranges'

One of the college servants was Joe Bird, who was always pottering around the precincts with broom or rake. His home was that curious square cottage at the entrance to the King's School playing field which had been built by the Dean and Chapter for £100 as a model cottage.

A very worthy man was Lewis, the curator of the cemetery. His shrubberies formed a sort of bird sanctuary. 'G', the jobbing gardener worked for half-a-crown a day and 'Mrs. E' walked to Ely and back from Grunty Fen for a day's charring.

'Mrs H', a true char lady was not much better paid. At her home she did a marvellous work converting a dour, stubborn husband into a steady character churchgoer and bringing up her boys to adorn the state of life to which they might be called.

In those days, labour was distinctly underpaid, £5 a year was not an unusual wage for a general servant, and at the annual statute fair domestics were to be had on such terms.

No wonder Plough Monday was celebrated as a day on which one section of the labouring community might take a holiday and make a little money by perambulating the streets with a plough, with coloured ribbons on their hats. 'Old Humpy' his smock well stuffed with straw, was a terror to small boys by reason of the horse whip he carried, dominating the scheme.

Valentine's Day was well observed and the giving and receiving of the elaborate laced-edged paper confections with which the shops were filled, occupied thoughts of many young people

May Day was a comparatively feeble survival, being commemorated only by the blowing of long tin horns in the streets.

The Waits were represented by a small body of St. Mary's men who as the townsfolk lay in their bed wished them in unmelodious accents, a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. 30 12 05

Shepherds open Central Offices at Ely – photo – 30 12 05b
